The long dirt road was flanked with silver leaf maple trees that led to the front of the old house. It sat in the middle of a cotton field and behind the house was an orchard with the sweetest peaches you ever tasted. There were the usual pens, outhouses, sheds, and corrals needed for a farmer and his stock. The days were carefree and unpretentious. Hours would be wiled away swinging on the old squeaky swing in the back. The wood floors creaked and some of the linoleum was peeling up in places. No matter how often you cleaned it, that old smell did not go away. Sometimes it would be a stronger musty smell before an "incident" would occur with Mr. Bishop, the first owner of the house.

rarely missed church. He and his wife moved from the R-Barr community and made their home on Center Point Road. Mr. Bishop died in the old 13 room house in July 1959 after a three-month illness.

I do not think any of us kids would have traded it for the finest town home. We all loved that old house and had many happy times there. The old house became part of who we were. A time when kids were carefree - running around barefoot through the cotton rows, picnics in the pastures and designing rock lined playhouses. Country living at its finest. The garden was plentiful with cantaloupe, black eye peas and watermelons. If we were lucky, we would get to make home-made ice cream and watch home movies at night. The favorite was an old 8mm Pluto Disney cartoon. This was before cable television or movies at your fingertips like today!

There was something in the old house that did not like when certain strangers entered. During the summer months, my aunt and uncle hired a young girl to watch the kids while they worked on the farm. One of the back-bedroom doors had a crystal doorknob with a hole underneath it. The children swore there was a blue eye looking through that hole. Things would be placed inside the hole to "block the view" but it always would pop out. At night, shadows danced along the walls and the blue eye shone bright, well at least to the kids. One day the light fixture crashed to the floor, narrowly missing one of the children. This occurred in the same room with the shadows and eyeball looking through the keyhole and the same room where Mr. Bishop had passed away. The children's parakeet disappeared from its cage. The cage door was still fastened tightly as everyone tried to figure out what happened to the bird. The children would see a gloved hand wave over their face as they were falling asleep. This occurrence happened more than once.

One night, my aunt was home with the children and the babysitter, when they started smelling a peculiar odor coming from the bedroom closet. As she entered the closet, she could hear the sound of matches being struck as the sulfur odor became stronger. My aunt had previously felt a presence in the house and had seen with her own eyes, some of the occurrences but still had reservations on believing in an actual ghost.

My Uncle thought it was the wild imaginations of children and would get frustrated if ghosts were even mentioned as he thought that was a silly notion. He was working the graveyard shift at Sid Richardson and believed there was an explanation for everything. Everyone was on edge and terrified so my aunt grabbed the gun thinking it could be an intruder. However, there was nothing to shoot at and why would someone break into the house, go to the bedroom closet, pull down the steps and go up into the attic to strike matches? As the sound and smell grew in intensity, they decided to leave the house for the night.

After this terrifying occurrence, my aunt finally brought up the ghost occurrences to the owner's granddaughter Miryam. She was not surprised at all and said she had long believed it was her grandfather still roaming the house. She and her family had hoped that the activity would have stopped once his wife had passed in 1968, but it did not.

Miryam said there was a bowl sitting in the middle of the table and during their meal it flew across, shattering on the floor. It was a known fact, among the family, that for some reason, Mr. Bishop hated that bowl during his time on earth.

After several years, my aunt and uncle bought a new house and moved away from the big old farmhouse. A young family purchased the property and started to remodel it. Soon after they moved in, they started experiencing several "ghostly encounters" themselves. After seeing an apparition of a man standing in the bathroom, they decided it was time to leave! They quickly fled the old house, leaving behind all the construction supplies they had recently purchased. Mr. Bishop's granddaughter decided to have the homeplace demolished and plowed for cotton. Even the old house has now become a ghost. Only a few trees mark the former homestead on Route 1, Center Point Road.

Pedestrian and bicyclist crashes in Texas remain a huge concern

AUSTIN - Fatalities from crashes involving pedestrians are on the rise in Texas and now account for nearly one in five of all of the state's traffic deaths. Last year, 668 people died in pedestrian-related crashes in Texas, up by 5 percent from 2018, and more than 1,300 were seriously injured. Crashes involving bicyclists in 2019 also claimed the lives of 68 people and seriously injured 313. These numbers follow an alarming trend that has seen pedestrian and bicyclist fatalities increase over the last five years.

Safety officials attribute a primary cause of the increase to people's widespread failure to follow state laws designed to protect pedestrians and bicyclists. To that end, TxDOT is kicking off a new public awareness campaign this month that urges all Texans to drive smart, walk smart and bike smart.

"Whether you're behind the wheel, on foot, or riding a bicycle, we're reminding Texans to make traffic safety their number one concern when they're out and about," said TxDOT Executive Director James Bass. "The COVID-19 pandemic has taught us the importance of looking after ourselves and others in our communities, and we're asking the public to apply that same responsibility to safely sharing the road and obeying traffic laws."

Almost half of all pedestrians and cyclists who died last year on Texas streets and highways were between the ages of 21 and 49. Most were living in urban areas, and the majority -73 percent of the pedestrians and 90 percent of the cyclists were male.

No matter how Texans choose to travel, TxDOT wants them to know and follow state laws for safe driving, walking and biking. Drivers should take specific steps to protect pedestrians and bicyclists who are more likely to be killed or seriously injured when involved in a crash with a motor vehicle. State laws mandate stopping for pedestrians in crosswalks, yielding the right of way to pedestrians and cyclists when turning, and passing cyclists at a safe distance and giving them room to ride.

Pedestrians should cross the street only at intersections and crosswalks, obey all traffic and crosswalk signals, and always use sidewalks when available. If there isn't a sidewalk, pedestrians should walk on the left side of the street or road, facing oncoming traffic.

Like drivers, bicyclists are required to obey all traffic signs and signals, including stopping at red lights and stop signs. State laws also dictate that those who ride bicycles must use hand signals when turning or stopping, ride with traffic, use bike lanes or ride as near as possible to the right-hand curb, and when riding at night, make sure their bikes have a white light on the front and a red light or reflector on the back.

More than 3,000 traffic crashes involving pedestrians occurred last I year in Austin, I Dallas, El Paso, Fort Worth, and Houston San resulting in 287 fatalities.

The second round of district matchup's have begun in volleyball and the Big Spring Lady Steers hosted the Estacado Lady Matadors on Saturday afternoon inside Steer Gym for their second meeting of the season.

The first meeting went the Lady Steers way when they defeated the Lady Matadors 3-1 in four sets. The meeting on Saturday was more of the same with the same 3-1 winning outcome as back in late September. The Lady Steers are now 3-3 in district play and completed the in-season sweep of Estacado. Heading into the game with a 2-3 district record, Head Volleyball Coach Kaitlyn Braswell knew her team needed a win but they were treating it like any other game.

but we are more focused on playing our best in Saturday's 3-1 win over Estacado. game every game. If we do that, the end result will take care of itself," she said.

The Lady Steers started off the match with the most complete and dominant set they have put together on the court this season. The team was moving well together as a unit and the starting unit of Ryen Terrazas, Kalyn Whitehead, Tristan Smith, Jacqueline Belew, Jocelyn Gonzales, and Ashlin Calvio helped the Lady Steers jump out to a 12-0 lead before Estacado could answer back.

Terrazas was controlling everything at the net, Gonzales hit an ace serve and was hitting accurate serve after accurate serve to keep the Lady Steers going. Whitehead finished the set with a strong kill that had the whole gym mesmerized and gave her team a 25-3 first set victory.

HERALD Photo/Shawn Moran "We try to treat every game as a must-win, Big Spring's Tristan Smith makes a big block at the net

> "It was definitely the best set we've had as a team this season," Braswell said. "We finished the set with zero unforced errors which is a huge accomplishment. I'm extremely proud of how hard our girls worked to achieve that."

> The second set was much more competitive and Estacado seemed to take the court with a revamped energy. The set went back-and-forth with each team taking the lead at some point. Big Spring was able to answer for the most part and used a lot of nice passes to get their opponent out of position. This allowed them to run away near the end of the set and come away with a 25-20 second set win.

> Estacado came out firing in the third set and looked like the best team on the court. Big Spring was able to keep it close but as soon as they got within striking distance, the Lady Mata dors would go on a scoring run. Following a timeout, Braswell's bunch made a concerted effort near the end of the set to make a comeback. The attempt fell just short and the game was pushed to a fourth set when Estacado won 25-23.

The Lady Steers had enough of the Lady Matadors on Saturday afternoon and decided to make the fourth set the game finisher. Belew made several strong plays for the Lady Steers but the game was still neck and-neck. With the score tied at 12, the Lady Steers put together a string of good possessions to pull away from the Lady Matadors. The streak was not ended until the score was 17-13 and the Lady Steers had built up a four-point lead. Big Spring scored eight of the last 13 points of the game and came away with a 3-1 victory after winning the fourth set 25-18.

The Lady Steers will now have a chance to sweep Lake View when they take them on Tuesday night and move their district record to 4-3.

"As we saw with Saturday's game, we just have to limit mistakes on our side of the court. We won't be able to give them easy points for our unforced errors. As long as we come ready to compete, we will get the ending we are working for."

UP NEXT: Big Spring travels to Lake View to take on the Maidens this Tuesday night at 6:00 p.m.

Coahoma loses first game of season 68-22 to No. 4 Idalou

By SHAWN MORAN

Herald Sports Writer

Coahoma had a tough time against district rival Idalou last Friday night when they took a trip north to take on the Wildcats. The Bulldogs were outscored 31-8 in the first half and were never able to truly get themselves back within striking distance.

On the first drive of the game, the Wildcats fumbled and Coahoma recovered to take the ball back the other way. Coahoma quarterback Kolt Redden handed the ball off to Billy Bailey who throws a long pass on a trick play to Tony Hagins. Hagins is tackled inside the 10-yard line and the Bulldogs were in position to score. Running back Brysen Kerby ran it in from seven yards out and the Bulldogs took an 8-0 lead with 7:06 to kick a field goal before the end of the first half courtesy of Mark Phillips and went into the break holding a 31-8 lead.

Coahoma headed into the second half with a plan to feed Kerby the ball. On their first drive, they steadily moved it down the field with a consistent barrage of Kerby runs up the gut. The drive was then capped off when Redden found tight end Colin Daniels for a 21-yard touchdown pass. The Bulldogs converted the two-point conversion and trailed the Wildcats 31-16.

Idalou responded with Jack taking a designed run 51 yards to the house for another Wildcat touchdown. The extra point was good and Idalou led by a score of 38-16.

The Bulldogs answered right back. This time, it was a long, 82-yard strike from Redden to wide receiver Sean Striegler for a left in the opening quarter. group of Idalou Wildcat defenders.

Idalou then scored 31 straight unanswered points to head into halftime. The first two scores were a 5-yard rush and a 50yard rush by running back Ryan Lozano that put the Wildcats up 14-8. Idalou quarterback Jared Jack then ran it in from 15 yards out to give his team a 21-8 lead heading into the second quarter.

The Bulldogs were struggling to put anything together on offense and it did not help when an interception close to their own end zone was returned by Idalou's Jose Marmolejo five yards into the end zone. The Wildcats were able touchdown to make the score 38-22. Idalou went on to cause a safety and score the last 30 points of the contest. Jack added a 1-yard touchdown rush to his total on the night and his teammates William Wall (two yards), Kelly Koch (16 vards), and Steven Luna (79 yards), added the remaining touchdowns for the Wildcats en route to their 68-22 win.

Big Final Day Lifts Palaniuk To Win In Bassmaster Elite At Santee Cooper

Special to the Herald

CLARENDON COUNTY, S.C. - Championships come down to decisions and execution — two things that Brandon Palaniuk mastered en route to amassing a four-day total of 72 pounds, 2 ounces for a dominant win at the Bassmaster Elite at Santee Cooper Lakes brought to you by the United States Marine Corps.

Notching his fifth Elite victory — his second in 2020 (the first at Lake Champlain) — Palaniuk earned a top prize of $100,000.

After leading Day 2, Palaniuk entered Championship Sunday in third place, just 1-3 behind Carl Jocumsen. On Sunday, the pro from Rathdrum, Idaho, added a limit of 22-11 to his previous weights of 21-1, 18-13 and 9-9 to edge Jocumsen.

"This one is so unexpected," Palaniuk said. "Every single one I won before, I had a good practice and I knew that I would have a shot at the Top 10 and a shot at the win. This one came out of nowhere."

Spending his tournament in Lake Marion, Palaniuk attributed his final-round success to a prelaunch decision to start in the mouth of the Potato Creek area. Having started there on Day 1, he had a feeling the area was ready to reward him again.

"I was sitting at the dock this morning and something told me to go try it," Palaniuk said. "With the (warm) weather, the humidity, I felt like I could have been able to win." catch them on topwater, but when I got there, the water was dirty.

"I couldn't get them to eat it, so I just picked up a 1/2-ounce bladed jig with a 4-inch white X-Zone Swammer. I had not caught a fish on this all week and I caught a 4-pounder and a 3 1/4-pounder."

Palaniuk caught a lucky break that he exploited when he saw a big fish blow up just out of casting range. Idling toward the commotion, he spotted a brushpile he had not found earlier in the week.

"I tied up a drop shot and caught a giant (7-12) on 10-pound test," Palaniuk said. "I caught my other limit fish on the drop shot, but I ended up culling them out later."

Palaniuk's drop-shot rig comprised a green pumpkin blue flake X-Zone Deception Worm rigged on a No. 1 VMC Finesse Neko Hook with a 1/4-ounce VMC teardrop weight.

Later in the day, Palaniuk returned to the Jack's Creek area, which produced several of his fish this week. There, he caught two of his keepers by punching a black/blue laminate X-Zone Muscle Back Finesse Craw on a 3/0 VMC Heavy Duty Flippin' Hook with a 1 1/4-ounce tungsten weight.

"I think it came down to versatility; that's why I was able to have the kind of day I had," Palaniuk said. "Without that big one on the drop shot, without those two I caught this morning, I wouldn't Palaniuk overcame a Day 1 penalty of 2 pounds, 4 ounces for inadvertently making a cast with six fish — one more than his legal limit — in his livewell. Palaniuk self-reported the infraction.

"It went through my head about 47 times in the last hour (before weigh-ins)," Palaniuk said. "I kept thinking, 'If somebody beats me, let it be (more than the penalty weight).'

"One of the things I say a lot is, 'Control the controllables.' When I do something like that, it bothers me because it's something I can control and I knew this event was going to be so tough that 2 pounds is not something you want to be giving up."

Hailing from Queensland, Australia, Jocumsen took the Day 1 lead by catching the event's heaviest sack -25-8. He slipped to second on Day 2 after adding 12-7 and regained the top spot on Saturday with a 4-fish bag that weighed 12-11. On Sunday, Jocumsen missed his limit again and weighed four bass for 13-8 and tallied 64-2.

Each day, Jocumsen started by fishing a grassy depression midlake with a white Z-Man JackHammer ChatterBait with a white Yamamoto Zako trailer. He then moved to grass mats where he punched with a black and blue Molix SV Craw rigged on a 4/0 Owner Jungle hook and a 1 1/4-ounce Woo! Tungsten weight.

Financial Planning Brings Up Past Pain

Dear Annie: My husband and I are 72 and have had a good life together, raising two boys who have become really good men. Their wives and our grandchildren are the best. Here's my dilemma: We're meeting with a financial planner in a week, and we were given papers to read and questions to answer prior to the actual appointment.

The final question focuses on "a family disaster," asking each of us how we would want our estate divided up, if we, our sons, their wives and all of our grandchildren would perish at the same time. My husband assumed I would designate my only sibling, an older sister, and was surprised when I said I wouldn't.

He grew up close to his family, in a supportive, loving relationship with his parents and continues to enjoy all of his siblings. I didn't have that with my parents or my sister. We live 1,500 miles apart, which has probably helped, because I'm sure that if we'd have been closer to any of them, then they would have disrupted our lives with their dramas. Much has happened over the years that has made me realize that if we weren't related, I'd never want to be her

Throughout our lives, she's been manipulative and mean; I've also caught her in many, many lies. I'm wondering if I'm a terrible person for not wanting to designate her. I know the likelihood of a family disaster is remote, but I still have to have an answer soon, and, I'm feeling guilty for not being loyal to my sister. I almost feel as though I'm being manipulated once again, and she doesn't even know what's going on!

My husband and I have been married for 47 years and have a solid relationship, and there's no pressure from him. I think he was just genuinely surprised, which I find interesting given he knew my family that long and how they treated me. But it's been very upsetting to me, feeling this way. -- A Family Disaster

Dear Family Disaster: You not a terrible person for not wanting to designate your sister. These types of questions are challenging and can bring up old hurt feelings as well as new worries. The most important thing is for you to relieve yourself of some of your guilt.

Feeling guilty about being upset with your sister is a lot of baggage to carry around. Take this as an opportunity to do some introspection. See if you can forgive your sister for her behavior, as she was the product of the same parents that you had. Maybe then you could slowly start a relationship with her, assuming you have the right boundaries and expectations from the beginning.

In the meanwhile, there is no law saying you have to name your sister as your heir in the event of a total family disaster.

Dear Annie: |

ride my bike through our community every morning. My neighbors and I exchange greetings on a regular basis. Once in a while, I will greet a neighbor with, "Good morning!" and the person will respond, "What's good about it?"

I have finally come up with a response: "It's not a statement of fact. It's my wish for you." Invariably, this is met with a smile and a good wish for the morning. It seems to make both of us feel better. -- Don P.

Dear Don: Thank you for the reminder that our days can turnaround instantly with something as simple as a kind greeting and some well wishes.
