YMCA hosting Fall Color Run on Friday at 7 p.m.

By AMANDA DUFORAT
Managing Editor

Are you ready for some flag football? Volleyball? How about some basketball? The YMCA is offering numerous opportunities for the youth in the community. In addition to the seasonal sporting opportunities, the YMCA will be hosting the Fall Color Run on Friday from 7 p.m. until 8:30 p.m. Registration can be completed up until the start of the event.

"Our sports seasons are still on schedule. We are making alterations to keep our youth and spectators safe while allowing our youth to continue some sort of normal," Dathan Jones, YMCA of Big Spring Director, said.

Currently the YMCA is in the middle of flag football season and preparing to enter volleyball season. Flag football games are taking place on Saturdays across from the YMCA and Birdwell Park.

"For flag football we have put some safety precautions in place to help support social distancing. Instead of having the kids shake hands or high five at the end of the game we just have them walking by and saying 'Good Game' which eliminates the

Special to the Herald

The Tuesday Rotary Club honored three outstanding students at one of the recent meetings. Students are selected by the staff and faculty of their respective schools.

"Brianna Solis is a Senior at Big Spring High School. She is the student body president and has been a member of the Student Council throughout high school. She is also a member and officer of the National Honor Society," Big Spring High School Principal Mike Ritchey, said. "Brianna is a spirited BSHS cheerleader and exemplifies her spirit with her dynamic personality both in and out of the classroom. Brianna is a very busy student and her many talents are requested nearly every night of the week. Brianna does, however, make time to maintain her grades tracking through a very rigorous degree plan. She will graduate in the top 5% of her senior class along with graduating from Howard College with an Associate's Degree. Brianna produces and delivers BSHS' announcements daily and many of our teachers are encouraging her to get in-contact," Jones said. "We have also asked parents to not enter the field, even after the games have concluded. This helps provide an added layer of distancing for the youth."

In addition to flag football, volleyball sign ups have been taking place over the past few weeks. Registration closed on Oct. 4 and games are set to begin Oct. 24. Of course, in addition to volleyball season kicking off, registration for basketball will take place through Dec. 4, allowing parents a substantial amount of time to register. The basketball season will start in January.

"We want to make sure that parents have enough time to get their kids signed up and the extended registration period allows for a few more pay periods in and let's parents sign up when it's more convenient for them," he said. "We want to make sure the youth that wants to play is able to play, so even those who are needing some financial support can reach out and ask about our scholarships."

In addition to social distancing practices, the YMCA has added extra cleanings throughout the building to limit the spread of coronavirus and other viruses. A new electrostatic spray is being utilized for an added coat of protection on high traffic surfaces. According to Jones, the spray helps sanitize surfaces for up to 60 days, and is being reapplied about every 30 days. The spray is in addition to ramped up cleaning that has been implemented. The additional cleaning practices are being paired with some alterations for volleyball and basketball seasons.

"During our sporting events we are asking that parents bring their own seating. We will not be bringing out bleachers due to the current pandemic. We will be cleaning in between games and we are requiring masks be worn while in the gym," he said.

The YMCA of Big Spring is taking measures to ensure the youth in the community are able to participate in annual sport seasons, for as long as possible. In addition to sports, swim classes are also being offered on a private basis. Those wanting to sign up for swim lessons can do so by contacting Amy Ogle, the aquatic director.

"At the beginning of the pandemic we were part of those who had to close our doors to help slow the spread, but we have since opened our doors and are back to normal schedules for the most part," Jones said. "We are back up to 75% capacity per the Governor's orders and we are offering all of our classes. We want the community to know we are still here and the entire staff is working every day to keep the facility clean and safe for all of our members and visitors."

In an effort to keep the community informed about different classes offered at the YMCA, Expo Nights will soon be ramping up. According to Jones, each Expo Night will highlight a different class to provide an opportunity for those thinking about taking the class to try it out. During the Expo Nights, childcare will be provided, which will allow for the new curriculum to be demonstrated as well.

"We offer a wide range of fitness classes for all ages and we want to make sure the community knows about all the options," he said. "Over the past year we have made several additions and advancements to what we offer and these Expo Nights will be an opportunity for those who haven't had the opportunity to check out our classes or our building to do so."

"Aubrey was a member of the CHS softball and track team and was a spirited member of the varsity cheer squad for three years. She started her high school academics in pre-ap classes and has moved into our dual credit program for the last two years. She has excelled in these honors classes. Aubrey is a member of the National Honor Society and has participated in the poetry division in Academic UIL. During her membership in FFA, her group advanced to the State competition for three years. Two of these years, her group has placed in the top 10. As a junior, Aubrey was voted to represent the class as Class President. The CHS CX debate team, she is a member of advanced to State in 2019-2020. Aubrey enjoys her time participating in the student council and the One-Act program. After graduation, she plans on attending The University of Texas at Arlington to pursue a Business Degree. Coahoma High School is lucky to have Aubrey Green representing our students. Congratulations!"

Forsan High School Senior Paul Evans

was the selected student of the month.

"Forsan High School is proud to recognize Paul Evans as our Big Spring Rotary Student of the Month," Forsan High School Principal Ms. Medina said. "Paul is a quiet, respectful, stalwart gentle giant on our campus and is a vital asset to the climate of our school. Paul is a stellar example of character in class, in the hallways, and outside of school. His teachers describe him as intelligent, respectful, helpful, kind, and always willing to go the extra mile to assist anyone in need. He has a great sense of humor and those that know him the best describe him as quick-witted and humorous. It is partially due to his personality qualities that his classmates voted him class favorite in his freshman, sophomore, and junior year. This year, as a senior, Paul was voted Homecoming King. His ability to make everyone feel important and welcome in all arenas contribute to him being genuinely liked by students and staff. Paul is also extremely intelligent and hard working. He is a member of the Forsan High School National Honor Society and is currently ranked in the top 20 of his senior class. Paul has maintained A/B honor roll throughout high school and continues to focus on his grades as he prepares to start his college career at Angelo State University next Fall."

Medina continued, "Being a contributor outside of the classroom is also a priority for Paul. He is a vital and noteworthy basketball and football player. His teammates describe him as selfless, dedicated, reliable, and someone who always has their backs. Paul Evans is a phenomenal young man with an undoubtedly bright future ahead of him. Forsan High School is proud to call him a member of Buffalo Nation."

The Tuesday Rotary Club honors area students for their hard work, good character and dedication to the respective district and community, each month at their meetings.

Called 'unashamedly pro-life,' Barrett faces senators anew

WASHINGTON (AP) — Supreme Court nominee Amy Coney Barrett returned to Capitol Hill for a third day of confirmation hearings Wednesday, called "unashamedly pro-life" by her Republican Senate champion with Democrats running out of time to stop her quick confirmation.

Senators are trying to dig deeper into the conservative judge's outlook on abortion, health care and a potentially disputed presidential election, but Barrett has been batting away questions in long and lively exchanges, insisting she would bring no personal agenda to the court but decide cases "as they come."

Her nomination by President Donald Trump to replace the late Justice Ruth Bader Ginsburg has ground other legislative business to a halt as Republicans excited by the prospect of locking in a 6-3 conservative court majority race to confirm her over Democratic objections before Election Day.

"She's going to the court," Sen. Lindsey Graham, R-S.C., the committee chairman, said as the proceedings got under way Wednesday after a nearly 12-hour session the day before.

Graham said Trump had made history by nominating someone "who is unashamedly pro-life." But Graham said, as Barrett has, that she'd be able to set her personal views aside when deciding cases on abortion. Democrats worry that Barrett will vote to undermine abortion rights.

Barrett's nomination has been the focus at a Capitol mostly shut down by COVID-19 protocols, frustrating Democrats who are virtually powerless to stop a judge from confirmation. They warn she will be seated on the court in time to cast a vote to undo the Affordable Care Act next month, causing millions of Americans to lose coverage during a pandemic.

"People are fed up," said Sen. Dick Durbin, D-Ill., criticizing GOP priorities in forcing the Senate action as the country suffers from the pandemic and Congress squabbles over approving additional economic aid.

The 48-year-old appellate court judge declared her conservative views in often colloquial language, but she refused many specifics Tuesday. She aligns with the late Justice Antonin Scalia, a conservative mentor, and declined to say whether she would recuse herself from any election-related cases involving Trump and Democratic nominee Joe Biden.

"Judges can't just wake up one day and say I have an agenda — I like guns, I hate guns, I like abortion, I hate abortion — and walk in like a royal queen and impose their will on the world," Barrett told the committee during its second day of hearings.

"It's not the law of Amy," she said. "It's the law of the American people."

Trump seemed pleased with her performance. "I think Amy's doing incredibly well," he said at the White House departing for a campaign rally.

Trump has said he wants a justice seated for any disputes arising from his heated campaign against Biden, but Barrett testified she has not spoken to Trump or his team about election cases. Pressed by Democrats, she skipped past questions about ensuring the date of the election or preventing voter intimidation, both set in federal law, and the peaceful transfer of presidential power. She declined to commit to recusing herself from any post-election cases without first consulting the other justices.

"I can't offer an opinion on recusal without short-circuiting that entire process," she said.

A frustrated Sen. Dianne Feinstein, the top Democrat on the panel, all but implored the nominee to be more specific about how she would handle landmark abortion cases, including Roe v. Wade and the follow-up Pennsylvania case Planned Parenthood v. Casey, which confirmed it in large part.

"It's distressing not to get a good answer," the U.S. senator from California told the judge.

Barrett was unmoved. "I don't have an agenda to try to overrule Casey," she said. "I have an agenda to stick to the rule of law and decide cases as they come."

She later declined to characterize the Roe v. Wade decision that legalized abortion as a "super-precedent" that must not be overturned.

Democrats had no such reticence.

"Let's not make any mistake about it," said California Sen. Kamala Harris, the Democratic vice presidential nominee, appearing remotely due to COVID concerns.

Allowing Trump to fill the seat with Barrett "poses a threat to safe and legal abortion in our country," Harris said.

The Senate, led by Trump's Republican allies, is pushing Barrett's nomination to a quick vote before Nov. 3, and ahead of the latest challenge to the Affordable Care Act, which the Supreme Court is to hear a week after the election. Democrats warn that she would be a vote to undo the "Obamacare" law.

"I'm not hostile to the ACA," Barrett told the senators.

The judge, accompanied by her family, described herself as taking a conservative, originalist approach to the Constitution. A former law professor, she told the senators that while she admires Scalia, she would bring her own approach.

"You would not be getting Justice Scalia, you would be getting Justice Barrett," she declared.

Overall, Barrett's conservative views are at odds with the late Ginsburg, a liberal icon. She would be Trump's third justice.

Underscoring the Republicans' confidence, Graham set an initial committee vote on the nomination for Thursday, the last day of hearings, which would allow final approval by the full Senate by the end of the month.

Protesters rallied outside the Senate building, unable to come inside the hearing room.

Supreme Court halts census in latest twist of 2020 count

By MIKE SCHNEIDER

Associated Press

The Supreme Court on Tuesday ruled that the Trump administration can end census field operations early, in a blow to efforts to make sure minorities and hard-to-enumerate communities are properly counted in the crucial once-a-decade tally.

The decision was not a total loss for plaintiffs in a lawsuit challenging the administration's decision to end the count early. They managed to get nearly two extra weeks of counting people as the case made its way through the courts.

However, the ruling increased the chances of the Trump administration retaining control of the process that decides how many congressional seats each state gets — and by extension how much voting power each state has.

The Supreme Court justices' ruling came as the nation's largest association of statisticians, and even the U.S. Census Bureau's own census takers and partners, have been raising questions about the quality of the data being gathered — numbers that are used to determine how much federal funding and how many congressional seats are allotted to states.

After the Supreme Court's decision, the Census Bureau said field operations would end on Thursday.

At issue was a request by the Trump administration that the Supreme Court suspend a lower court's order extending the 2020 census through the end of October following delays caused by the pandemic. The Trump administration argued that the head count needed to end immediately to give the bureau time to meet a year-end deadline. Congress requires the bureau to turn in by Dec. 31 the figures used to decide the states' congressional seats — a process known as apportionment.

By sticking to the deadline, the Trump administration would end up controlling the numbers used for the apportionment, no matter who wins next month's presidential election.

In a statement, House Speaker Nancy Pelosi called the Supreme Court's decision "regrettable and disappointing," and said the administration's actions "threaten to politically and financially exclude many in America's most vulnerable communities from our democracy."

Associate Justice Sonia Sotomayor dissented from the high court's decision, saying "respondents will suffer substantial injury if the Bureau is permitted to sacrifice accuracy for expediency."

The Supreme Court ruling came in response to a lawsuit by a coalition of local governments and civil rights groups, arguing that minorities and others in hard-to-count communities would be missed if the census ended early. They said the schedule was cut short to accommodate a July order from President Donald Trump that would exclude people in the country illegally from being counted in the numbers used for apportionment.

Opponents of the order said it followed the strategy of the late Republican redistricting guru, Thomas Hofeller, who had advocated using voting-age citizens instead of the total population when it came to drawing legislative seats since that would favor Republicans and non-Hispanic whites.

Last month, U.S. District Judge Lucy Koh in San Jose, California sided with the plaintiffs and issued an injunction suspending a Sept. 30 deadline for finishing the 2020 census and a Dec. 31 deadline for submitting the apportionment numbers. That caused the deadlines to revert back to a previous Census Bureau plan that had field operations ending Oct. 31 and the reporting of apportionment figures at the end of April 2021.

When the Census Bureau, and the Commerce Department, which oversees the statistical agency, picked an Oct. 5 end date, Koh struck that down too, accusing officials of "lurching from one hasty, unexplained plan to the next ... and undermining the credibility of the Census Bureau and the 2020 Census."

An appellate court panel upheld Koh's order allowing the census to continue through October but struck down the part that suspended the Dec. 31 deadline for turning in apportionment numbers. The panel of three appellate judges said that just because the year-end deadline is impossible to meet doesn't mean the court should require the Census Bureau to miss it.

The plaintiffs said the ruling against them was not a total loss, as millions more people were counted during the extra two weeks.

"Every day has mattered, and the Supreme Court's order staying the preliminary injunction does not erase the tremendous progress that has been made as a result of the district court's rulings," said Melissa Sherry, one of the attorneys for the coalition.

Opening lead — king of spades.

There is a lot of literature on the subject of opening leads, and for good reason: Most players lose more points because of unsuccessful opening leads than they lose on the play of the next 12 tricks combined. This is not surprising when you consider that when he makes his first play, the opening leader sees only his own 13 cards rather than the 26 that are in view after the dummy is tabled.

There are a few good guidelines that will work well on most hands.

but, even so, the number of times when the lead is basically a shot in the dark is very distressing — especially if the initial shot proves to be fatal.

Here is a dramatic example of a spectacularly successful opening lead. It occurred in the world championship match between Italy and the United States in 1957.

At the first table, the U.S. South opened with four hearts. Pietro Forquet was West and had no clear-cut lead. After considering the matter carefully, he decided that it was unlikely his side would get four tricks with passive defense. Accordingly, he made the aggressive lead of the king of spades!

This venture into the unknown paid the maximum dividend. After the king held, Forquet continued with a spade to East's ace. He then ruffed the spade return, led a club to partner's ace and got another spade ruff to put the contract down two.

At the second table, the Italian South opened the bidding with only three hearts, which was passed all around. Peter Leventritt was West for the U.S. and, using the same reasoning, also led the king of spades and defeated the contract one trick. Apparently, great minds run in the same direction.

Tomorrow: Bidding quiz.

Tomorrow's Horoscope

VIRGO BY HOLIDAY MATHIS

GO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22). How about getting more rest? If you under-value rest, then you'll book your discretionary time with wasteful busy work and junky activities. Rest is healing, fortification and a fertility shot for wisdom.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19). The more a person tries to be above the others, dignified and correct, the less cool that person is likely to be. Being cool is partly a function of accepting one's own humanity, especially the flaws.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18). You can be deeply emotional and yet not a slave to your feelings. You are learning how to manage some of the uncomfortable ones and use them differently than you once did.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20). You rely on your intuition but don't act on every hunch, because you're not a lemming. To follow any directive too literally, including your own, is to shut out the spontaneous opportunity of the moment.

TODAY'S BIRTHDAY (Oct. 15). The cosmic angels bestow on you gifts of charisma. Relationships lift and deepen. You'll have a tendency to heap loads of charm and dollops of humor into social situations. You're funny because you see the world as so much bigger and wider than your own problems, and indeed your trouble lessens in 2021. Gemini and Virgo adore you. Your lucky numbers are: 3, 33, 27, 4 and 14.

HOW TO WORK THE MERCURY RETROGRADE (INSTEAD OF LETTING IT WORK YOU)

As the planet of communication backs it up, we get to review our recent history in a new light. To make the most of this introspective and retrospective time, here are Mercury's top suggestions. (Part Two) GEMINI: It is so much easier to think of the things that aren't going right in a relationship, because humans have evolved with such a strong negativity bias. Use the retrograde as an excuse to fly in the face of this tendency. Account for what is right in relationships because what you focus on will grow. Think of all of the things you appreciate about the people you know. Make a list and keep adding to it and reviewing it in the weeks to come. CANCER: The biggest frustrations that come with Mercury retrograde are the small ones -- those annoying matters of modern living that challenge our cool. The printer won't work. Someone lost the key. The drain just doesn't. How we process these small irritations becomes, to some degree, an integral part of our personality. The Mercury retrograde is a chance to decide who you want to be when the dumb stuff of life comes to bother you.

Fun By The Numbers

Like puzzles? Then you'll love sudoku. This mind-bending puzzle will have you hooked from the moment you square off, so sharpen your pencil and put your sudoku savvy to the test!

Level: Intermediate

Here's How It Works: Sudoku puzzles are formatted as a 9x9 grid, broken down into nine 3x3 boxes. To solve a sudoku, the numbers 1 through 9 must fill each row, column and box. Each number can appear only once in each row, column and box. You can figure out the order in which the numbers will appear by using the numeric clues already provided in the boxes. The more numbers you name, the easier it gets to solve the puzzle!

Annie's Mailbox

Addicted to Love

Dear Annie: I am depressed and deeply heartbroken over the final breakup with a man whom I have loved for eight years. I went to endless therapy and even went to a wellness center in Germany to help me get over him. Nothing has worked. Here's the backstory.

I met "Steve" while he was separated from his wife. He said that he was essentially divorced, though they hadn't gone through the formal process yet. A year in, I learned that he didn't even have a lawyer. It took him five years to get divorced. I was promised that once he was divorced, I'll be allowed to attend family functions. We even got engaged. However, after he told his four older sisters about the engagement and they were angry, he broke it off.

We got back together again after that, only for him to break up with me the day after we got back from my birthday trip on which he told me he loved me and promised no more breakups.

This year, I had no contact with him from February until the end of May, when his dad died.

We got back together for three weeks. But at the end of June, he told me that he'd made a mistake. He is almost 62 years old; I am 54.

When I told him that he'd used me and treated me as a friend with benefits, his reply was, "I thought our feelings were mutual." I told him that he knew I loved him, but he insisted he thought we could just hang out. He said that he's not in love with me. I feel so used and dirty; it almost feels like I was violated. The thought of our intimacy during those three weeks nauseates me. I feel unloved, and I miss how he used to love me.

How can a human being act so kind, caring and loving, and then say, "I'm not in love with you"?

This has been a pattern, and I cannot get over it. My head knows; my heart, however, is bleeding. How do I stop hurting and missing him? -- Depressed, Heartbroken and Missing Him

Dear Depressed: You can get hooked on a person in a way that is not dissimilar from getting hooked on a drug. That's not just a figure of speech: A 2017 report published in the journal "Philosophy, Psychiatry, & Psychology" explains that "so numerous are the superficial similarities between addictive substance use and love- and sex-based interpersonal attachments, from exhilaration, ecstasy, and craving, to irregular physiological responses and obsessive patterns of thought, that a number of scientific theorists have begun to argue that both sorts of phenomena may rely upon similar or even identical psychological, chemical, and neuroanatomical" substances. In toxic or tumultuous relationships such as yours, these addictive effects could be even more pronounced.

Just as the vast majority of people cannot simply will themselves out of addiction, you're going to need more than just logic to get over Steve. You're going to need time and support. Cut off all contact. Block his number and email address, and block him on social media. Join a support group such as Co-Dependents Anonymous (<https://coda.org>), and return to therapy. It won't be quick or easy, but it will be so worth it. And remember, (SET ITAL)you(END ITAL) are worth it.

Send your questions for Annie Lane to dearannie@creators.com.

Today in History

Today is Thursday, Oct. 15, the 289th day of 2020. There are 77 days left in the year. Today's Highlight in History: On Oct. 15, 1976, in the first debate of its kind between vice-presidential nominees, Democrat Walter F. Mondale and Republican Bob Dole faced off in Houston. On this date: In 1815, Napoleon Bonaparte, the deposed Emperor of the French, arrived on the British-ruled South Atlantic island of St. Helena, where he spent the last 5 1/2 years of his life in exile. In 1917, Dutch exotic dancer Mata Hari (Margaretha Zelle-Geertruida MacLeod), 41, convicted by a French military court of spying for the Germans, was executed by a firing squad outside Paris. (Maintaining her innocence to the end, Mata Hari refused a blindfold and blew a kiss to her executioners.) In 1940, Charles Chaplin's first all-talking comedy, "The Great Dictator," a lampoon of Adolf Hitler, opened in New York. In 1945, the former premier of Vichy France, Pierre Laval, was executed for treason. In 1946, Nazi war criminal Hermann Goering (GEH'-reng) fatally poisoned himself hours before he was to have been executed. In 1954, Hurricane Hazel made landfall on the Carolina coast as a Category 4 storm; Hazel was blamed for some 1,000 deaths in the Caribbean, 95 in the U.S. and 81 in Canada. In 1966, President Lyndon B. Johnson signed a bill creating the U.S. Department of Transportation. The revolutionary Black Panther Party was founded by Huey Newton and Bobby Seale in Oakland, California. In 1969, peace demonstrators staged activities across the country as part of a "moratorium" against the Vietnam War. In 1991, despite sexual harassment allegations by Anita Hill, the Senate narrowly confirmed the nomination of Clarence Thomas to the U.S. Supreme Court, 52-48. In 2001, Bethlehem Steel Corp. filed for Chapter 11 bankruptcy. In 2003, eleven people were killed when a Staten Island ferry slammed into a maintenance pier. (The ferry's pilot, who'd blacked out at the controls, later pleaded guilty to eleven counts of manslaughter.) In 2017, actress and activist Alyssa Milano tweeted that women who had been sexually harassed or assaulted should write "Me too" as a status; within hours, tens of thousands had taken up the #MeToo hashtag (using a phrase that had been introduced 10 years earlier by social activist Tarana Burke.) Ten years ago: The Obama administration reported that the federal deficit had hit a near-record $1.3 trillion for the just-completed budget year. Workers hugged, cheered and set off fireworks as a huge drill broke through a last stretch of rock deep in the Swiss Alps for construction of the 35.4-mile Gotthard Base Tunnel; the railway tunnel would go into operation in 2016. Five years ago: President Barack Obama abandoned his pledge to end America's longest war, announcing plans to keep at least 5,500 U.S. troops in Afghanistan at the end of his term in 2017 and hand the conflict off to his successor. Ken Taylor, Canada's ambassador to Iran who'd sheltered Americans at his residence during the 1979 Iran hostage crisis, died in New York at age 81. One year ago: Elizabeth Warren, carrying a new status as a front-runner for the Democratic presidential nomination, came under attack from rivals at a debate in Ohio; they accused her of ducking questions about the cost of Medicare for All and her signature wealth tax plan. The Washington Nationals scored seven runs in the first inning on the way to a 7-4 win and a sweep of the St. Louis Cardinals in the National League Championship Series; the wild-card Nationals advanced to the World Series, where they would defeat the Houston Astros. Actor Felicity Huffman reported to a federal prison in California to start a two-week sentence for paying a college admissions consultant to have a proctor correct her daughter's SAT answers. (She was released two days before the end of the sentence.) Newly-elected inductees to the Rock and Roll Hall of Fame included, posthumously, Whitney Houston and The Notorious B.I.G.; they were joined by Depeche Mode, the Doobie Brothers, Nine Inch Nails and T-Rex. FRIDAY NIGHT UNDER THE LIGHTS

High School Football In Howard County

Big Spring preparing for district opener against first-place Andrews on Friday

By SHAWN MORAN

Herald Sports Writer

The long wait is over.

After a three week hiatus from the field, the Big Spring Steers will take the field for their first district game of the year against Andrews at Memorial Stadium this Friday night at 7:00 p.m.

Big Spring will be looking to redeem themselves against Andrews when they go for their first win over the Mustangs since 2013. Andrews defeated Big Spring 48-14 last fall, but this group of Steers is ready to start a streak of their own as they look to begin 1-0 in district play.

The last few weeks have thrown some adversity Big Spring's way and they have had to deal with off-field health issues and quarantining since the loss to Lubbock High on Sept. 24. The Steers have now been practicing for a week-and-a-half and the group is itching to get back on the field.

"It's just been an interesting time," Head Coach Cannon McWilliams said. "I think everybody's had to go through it at some point. If not, they're really lucky. Our kids that have been able to show up have been good and we've just been working on the fundamental things. We are excited to get back to some sort of normalcy this week and open up district."

Andrews (5-2) is coming off their second loss of the season, a 45-14 drubbing at the hands of the powerhouse Canyon Eagles. Their only other loss of the season was to Midland Greenwood (36-29). They have grabbed wins over Levelland, Monahans, Seminole, Estacado, and Hereford where they have scored over 40 points in each contest.

Overall, the Mustangs are averaging 41.6 points per game on offense and are led by sophomore quarterback EJ Lopez. McWilliams knows that his team will not be able to stop Andrews the entire night, but hopes that his defense can make enough stops to be able to pull out the win.

Coahoma looks to put loss to Idalou in rearview, host Stanton on Friday night

By SHAWN MORAN

Herald Sports Writer

Coahoma (4-1) lost their first game of the season last Friday night when the No. 4 Idalou Wildcats kept their foot on the gas for all four quarters en route to a 66-22 victory.

The Bulldogs' offense was still able to come up with some big plays, including an 81-yard touchdown pass to Sean Striegler in the third quarter, but the defense was unable to stop the Idalou run game.

Running back Brysen Kerby broke the century mark for the fourth straight game on the ground (109 yards) and the quarterback Kolt Redden was also able to connect on two touchdown passes.

One of those completions was to Colin Daniels, who now has four touchdowns on seven receptions this season.

Daniels also came up with an interception on defense and was all over the field in leading the Bulldogs in total tackles.

This Friday, the Bulldogs will be hosting the Stanton Buffaloes (2-4) who are coming off of a 28-18 home loss to Lubbock Roosevelt. Their two wins this season are over inferior opponents.

Forsan dominates C-City, now set their sights on hosting the Anson Tigers

By SHAWN MORAN

Herald Sports Writer

Forsan is coming off of a district opening demolition of Colorado City last Friday night. The Buffs' rushing attack was cooking all night long and quarterbacks Major Stockton (2) and Sawyer Stallings (1) combined for three touchdowns through the air.

Stockton also led Forsan in rushing by racking up 137 yards and two touchdowns on just seven carries. The two-headed running back monster of Nate Hernandez (97 yards) and Chris Mendez (73 yards) each put together solid performances on the ground by following their strong offensive line and hitting open holes with authority.

On defense, the front seven completely controlled the game and barely allowed the Wolves to move the ball at all.

Colten Wallis had a huge game for the Buffaloes from his defensive line spot and collected four tackles behind the line of scrimmage. Wallis' play allowed his fellow front seven player Ernesto Rivera to show off his pass rushing prowess and notch three sacks against the Wolves. Both of those players opened up opportunities for the other and they will need to continue that dominance going forward into district.

"Our front seven on defense gets after it. When all of those guys are in there and healthy, they're tough to do anything against. They're great against the run and we can put some pressure on the passer," Head Coach Jason Phillips said.

The break that Forsan had before the C-City game allowed them to get healthy.

Players of the Week

The Steers have been off of the field for a few weeks now and do not have any new players of the week. The last two times that Big Spring has taken the field, running back/linebacker Isaiah Holloway has been one of the Steers' top performers. He was all over the field on defense in the win over Brownfield and was one of the lone bright spots for the Steers in their big road loss to Lubbock High. The junior stepped in at running back and rushed 10 times for 92 yards while powering his way through the Westerner defense and refusing to go down easily. Holloway also added two catches through the air for an additional 15 yards. He ran hard all night and was a vocal leader for the Steers on the sidelines. Elijah Darrow has been coming on as of recently and the big senior defensive tackle has made his presence felt in the middle of the line throughout the first four games and is usually responsible for the biggest hits of the night.

SEAN STRIEGLER

COLIN DANIELS

Sean Striegler has been putting together a solid season and exploded for 159 yards and one touchdown on four receptions last Friday night. His one score was an 81-yarder that trimmed Idalou's lead but proved to not matter much. Striegler now has 14 receptions this season for 357 yards and three touchdowns. This was his first 100-yard game of the season and he will be looking for more performances like that one going forward.

Colin Daniels played well on both sides of the ball last Friday night but made most of his impact on the defensive side. Daniels led the team with 12 total tackles, while also grabbing two tackles for loss and an interception in the big loss to Idalou. Daniels has 33.0 total tackles this season to go along with two sacks and nine tackles for loss. He also has accounted for four receiving touchdowns on offense as well.

MAJOR STOCKTON

COLTEN WALLIS

Major Stockton did not take long to get into a rhythm on Friday night against Colorado City. The dual threat quarterback quickly made his presence felt in the run game and ended up rushing seven times for 137 yards (19.6 yards per carry) and two touchdowns. On one of his rushing scores, he weaved his way through the defense and broke several tackles on his way to the end zone. Stockton also had several great passes on the night and finished with 46 yards through the air and an additional two scores. On defense, Wallis was a constant game-changer and seemed to be in Colorado's backfield the entire night. All four of his tackles were behind the line of scrimmage and he opened up opportunities for his teammates to make plays. Wallis also got his hands in the way of passing lanes on a few occasions and batted those passes down at the line of scrimmage.

STEERS

“We have to get pressure on the quarterback. It seems like they just rinse and repeat when it comes to quarterbacks. One graduates, one steps in, and they don't miss a step at all. Our secondary will be tested but I think that if we can get pressure with our front-four, then we'll have a better chance. Don't get me wrong, they're going to score. They score on everybody that they play. We just need to limit big plays and get pressure on the quarterback,” McWilliams said.

On defense, the Mustangs are very skilled at getting after the quarterback. They have nine players who have recorded at least one sack. The junior duo of Andrew Vasquez and Ezekiel Rivera have compiled eight sacks this season and the defense has also totalled 68 tackles behind the line of scrimmage.

“The offensive line needs to do their job and the quarterback needs to be able to recognize if they're bringing six or seven. We'll always have our dump-off pass and we need to take what they give us. Biggest thing is, we just need to get the ball out quick.”

The Steers will be looking to execute their usual quick passing game and hopefully find some holes in the secondary when the Mustangs bring an extra pass rusher or two.

There are only three games remaining on Big Spring's schedule and they will be looking to knock Andrews down a notch in the standings on Friday night.

BULLDOGS

The Buffaloes won their first game of the season over one-win 3A Grape Creek and winless San Angelo TLCA. Three of their four losses were by 10 points or less and the lone blowout was a 27-6 loss to Forsan.

Stanton focuses their offense on running the ball, and running the ball some more. They are averaging 260.2 rushing yards per game while only passing for 41.8 per game. The rushes are evenly distributed between senior running backs Evan Cox and Austin Hewtty, junior Miguel Moreno, and senior quarterback Tyler Benedict.

The Buffaloes have only put together three sacks all season but they do make a ton of stops behind the line. Junior Eddie Wittenbarger is the top playmaker on defense for Stanton and leads the team with 67.0 tackles this season (six tackles for loss).

Coahoma will need to look to spread the ball around to all of their playmakers and get back to their bread and butter. Kerby earned most of the touches last week after falling behind big and Joslin wants that to be different this Friday.

On defense, stopping the run will be the main focus after Idalou gashed Coahoma on the ground last week. To keep that from happening again, look for Colin Daniels and Kobe Cervantes to make a difference at or behind the line of scrimmage against Stanton.

Joslin knows that his team needs to be playing their best football at this point of the season and they will look to get back on track against an opponent they should be able to handle. The Bulldogs are not overlooking the Buffaloes, but they will be trying to work out their biggest issues against a team that they beat 61-8 last fall.

The game will begin at 7:30 p.m.

BUFFS

That is exactly where every football team wants to be at this time of year and there does not seem to be much rust for Forsan to knock off.

They will play host to the Anson Tigers (4-1) this Friday night in a battle for one of the top spots in the district. Anson's offense is a balanced attack that is led by senior running back Jacob Garza. The top two receivers for Anson have combined for eight touchdowns and senior Jacob Jenkins appears to be their main deep-ball threat. Other players to look out for on Anson's offense are Dyllyn Pyle, Julian Garcia, and Gavin Williams.

On defense, Garcia has three interceptions this year and should be a player that Forsan avoids throwing at. Junior Joe Galvan is Anson's leader in sacks (5.0) and has totaled 11.0 tackles for loss through five games.

Anson only loss this season was 48-6 to Hamlin on Sept. 18. They defeated Stamford 41-34 last Friday night and their offense has put up at least 30 points in each one of their wins.

Forsan's front seven will once again need to control the line of scrimmage while Stockton and Stallings look to take advantage of an aggressive defense.

Look for the connection between Baeza and Mitchell whenever the Steers are in a got-to-have-it situation. The Steers have been much more productive through the air than on the ground this season and will need some rushers to step up in these district games.
