How many "Tim the Turkeys" can you find? The Chamber of Commerce Business Development Committee is hosting a community search hunt for "Tim the Turkey." "Tim" will be hidden around local businesses in Big Spring and for one lucky participant, there will be a prize consisting of a basket with a turkey and all the fixings from H-E-B, just in time for Thanksgiving. The winner will be announced on Nov. 23. "The Business Development Committee wanted to do something fun and get customers back to shopping – safely, but shopping locally," Executive Director of the Big Spring Area Chamber of Commerce Debbye ValVerde said. Before heading out for the hunt, don't forget to adhere to the rules when hunting for "Tim the Turkey." Find all the turkeys located at each business. Get the form initialed by an employee of the business. Take a selfie of you in the store by their sign – not the tur-

Billy Wayne Turner

Billy Wayne Turner went to be with his lord and savior on Sunday, Oct. 25. He was born Jan. 10, 1959, in Big Spring to Doreatha (Dot) McCartney Horton and Ocie Turner. He lived in Big Spring until his death. He was a veteran of the US army. His life enjoyment was when he became a father. He adopted her, and everywhere he went she was there. He loved her and wanted to give her the world. Matthea was his life.

After his heart transplant, which ticked stronger than most for more than 17 years he started working at Fast Stop. He loved his job and his customers. He got along with everyone even those he didn't know. His boss was Chris and Rhonda, long time friends and a part of the family.

He was survived by his loving daughter Matthea Little, her husband Quinten Little, and his granddaughter Alessa Little. His mother, Doreatha Horton. His older brother Robert and his wife Wanda Turner. His sister Brenda and her husband David Elmore. His nephew Brent and Heidi Elmore from Crawford Texas. A niece Tori and her husband Andres Martinez, niece Kim and husband Kevin Hardin, niece Kerri and husband Chris Rosenbaum, niece BaLinda Turner, niece Misti and husband Jeremy Russell. Jenny and her husband Julian Contreras, and several great nieces and nephews. He loved his extended family at Fast Stop. Many friends he loved so much, he was always the one who said what was on his mind, no matter what anyone else thought. "With this note, I still love everyone... I'm Home."

Memorial service will be at 1 p.m. Saturday, Oct. 7, 2020, at Myers & Smith Chapel.

Caitlyn Cassity and Meghan Moake Win Women's Texas Pinehurst

Special to the Herald

Briefly: Teammates Caitlyn Cassity of Katy and Meghan Moake of Houston, posted a four-over-par 76 Final Round to finish at five-over-par 149 and win the 2020 Women's Texas Pinehurst. Cassity and Moake credit similarities in their game for allowing them to work well as a team. After a double-bogey on hole nine, the team was "really proud of their ability to hold it together" on a challenging course with quick greens.

Leaderboard:

1) Cassity/Moake 73-76 T2) Robichaux/Nittoli 76-75 T2) Barker/Davis 77-74T4) Penick/Bowman 82-70 T4) Serres/Wagner 79-73 T4) Dougherty/Hoyt

Golf Course: Panorama Golf Club - located just North of The Woodlands, Texas – is home to some of the best layouts in the greater Houston area.

The combination of the Rolling Hills nine and the Thunderbird nine, designed by Jay Riviere in 1962, provides a challenging yet enjoyable course for all with temperatures reaching a high of 75 degrees. The wind was calm at 1 mph out of the southeast.

Weather: It was a beautiful autumn day in Conroe

In Contention: Kelley Nittoli of San Antonio and Julie Robichaux of Kingwood tied for second with Marian Barker of Lubbock and Joanna Davis of Georgetown finishing three strokes behind Cassity and Moake with a seven-over-par total of 151.

Teammates Lee Ann Penick and Sally Bowman both of Austin tied for fourth with Houston's Mary Jane Wagner and Shelley Serres and teammates Camm Dougherty of Corpus Christi and Jennifer Hoyt of Horseshoe Bay with an eight-over-par to-Courtesy Photo tal of 152.

> What's Next: The Women's Saturday Series Houston will be held at The Clubs of Kingwood Forest Course on November 7th. The Texas Golf Association would like to extend our immense gratitude to the staff and members of Panorama Golf Club for hosting and making this event memorable for all who took part.

Southern Texas PGA Claims Levy Cup Matches from Northern Texas PGA

was victorious over the Northern Texas PGA at the 4th Levy Cup Matches by an overall point total of 12.5 to 11.5. The Southern Texas team led the matches by five points following the first day of competition, and with a close day two session of 7 Singles Matches wins from Northern Texas, 3 wins from Southern Texas and two ties, the Southern Texas team was able to secure the 4th Annual Levy Cup victory.

Key victories for the Southern Texas team during today's Singles

Matches included a 1up win for Steve Parker, Life Member, over Bruce Smith, PGA Director of Instruction at Black Belt Golf Academy as well as another 1up victory by Billy Sitton, PGA Golf Executive at Triumph Golf, with a birdie on hole 18 over Rob Shields, CEO at The Winsford Group that secured the Cup. This marks the third victory for the Southern Texas PGA in the four-year history of the Matches. "That was stressful," said Southern Texas PGA Co-Captain Tim by. "I'm glad we pulled through, but what a great day of playing. I want to congratulate both teams but especially the STP-GA!"

"Billy Sitton, who was a member at Pine Forest for ten years, made the winning putt on 18 to win the Cup," said Hobby.

The Levy Cup Matches is an annual competition between the Southern Texas PGA and the Northern Texas PGA Sections. The Ryder Cup-style format features teams represented by six Assistant PGA Professionals (A-8) and six Senior PGA Professionals (any classification, age 50 and older) who qualified through their respective Section Major Championships.

Big Spring first basketball scrimmage moved to Abilene-Cooper

By SHAWN MORAN

Herald Sports Writer

Big Spring's first basketball scrimmage set for this Saturday afternoon has been moved from its original location of San Angelo Central to Abilene-Cooper.

This means that the Showtime Steers will meet twice with the Cougars on the hardwood this winter. They will face them in this season-opening scrimmage and then once again in late December.

Head Coach Kris Hise is looking forward to getting back on the court with his players and making a run towards a district title. He will have a team with nine returning players from last year's Varsity, so they will be an experienced bunch that is also ready to take the next step as a team.

Hise has also scheduled tough opponents this season and plenty of games against schools from higher-level conferences (5A, 6A). The Showtime Steers will now play at noon this Saturday at Abilene-Cooper High School and their second preseason scrimmage is still set for Saturday, Nov. 14 at Andrews.

Go out and support your Steers!

Texas Fest Offers Bassmaster Angler Of The Year Drama

have come together — one planned, one unpredictable and one unforeseen — to create a perfect storm of Bassmaster Elite Series drama at Lake Fork Nov. 5-8. From Angler of the Year to Rookie of the Year to berths in the 2021 Academy Sports + Outdoors Bassmaster Classic, a fascinating number of scenarios will be in play at the Toyota Bassmaster Texas Fest benefiting Texas Parks & Wildlife Department.

When the 2020 schedule was announced, it didn't include a season-ending Angler of the Year Championship, which since 2014 had included only the Top 50 anglers in AOY points. That Top 50 format was, inadvertently, a drama-killer. It eliminated the volatility in points that occurs in all the other full-field events.

In regular season full-field events, firstplace is worth 100 points and each place down the standings is worth one point less. With the current 85-man field, last place is worth 16 points, provided the angler catches at least one bass over two days. No bass, no points. In most years there's no way to know whether one angler will have a nearly insurmountable lead in AOY points before the season-ending event. It has happened in the past. But that's not the case this year. David Mullins, of Mt. Carmel, Tenn., has just a five-point lead over Elite Series rookie Austin Felix, of Eden Prairie, Minn. The Top 5 anglers — Mullins, Felix, Clark Wendlandt of Leander, Texas, Jake Whitaker of Fairview, N.C. and Kyle Welcher of Opelika, Ala. — are separated by only 31 points.

As for the Rookie of the Year race. Felix leads Welcher by 26 points. Japanese angler Taku Ito is third, 63 points behind

Finally, there's the unforeseen, namely the COVID-19 pandemic. The Elite Series schedule was completely reshuffled after the 2020 Academy Sports + Outdoors Bassmaster Classic presented by Huk at Lake Guntersville on March 6-8. The season-ending event in the original schedule was at Lake St. Clair on Aug. 20-23. The Toyota Bassmaster Texas Fest was schednament slate. Texas Fest has always included some uled June 5-9, as the sixth in a nine-tour-

QUITMAN, Texas — Three elements bonuses bigger than the other regular-season events. First place is worth $125,000 instead of $100,000, and the angler with the biggest bass of the tournament receives a Toyota Tundra. But what can be the biggest prize for the winner, depending upon his AOY rank, is an automatic berth into the Bassmaster Classic. It seems fitting that in this crazy year, there would be a single automatic Classic berth available to every angler, no matter how far down the list he is in AOY points, in this final Elite Series event of 2020.

It is impossible to overestimate what it means for anglers to qualify for the Bassmaster Classic. Qualifying for the Classic signals a successful season for the angler, their family, sponsors and future in the sport. The Top 39 anglers in the final AOY points list qualify for the Classic. However, that number grows each season by a varying amount based on double-qualifi-

For instance, as the 2020 Classic champion, Hank Cherry, of Lincolnton, N.C., automatically qualifies for the 2021 Classic. Cherry is currently 43rd in AOY points. If he moves inside the Top 39 Classic cut at Lake Fork, it would move the AOY list down another spot to 40.

If an angler wins Texas Fest at Lake Fork who is inside the AOY Classic cut, it would move the Classic qualifiers list down another spot to 41.

The Classic double-qualifiers grow also from the Basspro.com Bassmaster Opens Series winners. A Classic berth is awarded to each of the eight Opens winners.

Elite Series angler Patrick Walters, of Summerville, S.C., won September's Bassmaster Eastern Open on Lake Hartwell. He currently ranks 11th in AOY points. A prerequisite for Classic qualification for an Opens winner is that the angler competes in all four tournaments of the division, whether Eastern or Central. Walters won't officially be doublequalified until he competes in the final Eastern Open remaining on the schedule, but that's a given. So the AOY Classic cut mark starts at 39, has moved to 40, and, if you count Walters, it could be 42 after Texas Fest, depending on Cherry's AOY finish and whether the tournament winner is Classic-qualified via AOY.

Dble Opening lead — king of clubs. Assume you become declarer at four hearts on the auction shown. West leads the K-Q-10 of clubs. You play the jack from dummy and ruff East's ace. How would you continue? It's easy to see, looking at all four hands, that the winning play is to lead a heart to dummy's king and, after West shows out, finesse against East's queen on the return. Eventually you lose a spade, but you make the contract. Without seeing all four hands, however, you might easily play the ace of hearts first and end up down one. The outcome therefore seems to depend on a straightforward guess as to how to tackle the hearts. But there is a bit more to the deal than at first meets the eye.

When the hand was played in a team contest, declarer realized that the only threat to the contract was a 3-0 heart division. After East turned up with the club ace, South decided that West was likely to have the queen of hearts for his opening bid. He therefore cashed the ace of hearts and that was that — down one.

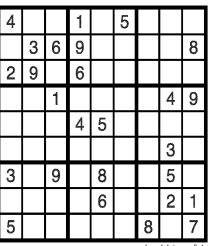

While it may be true that West was more likely to have the heart queen for his bid, declarer missed a surefire way to make the contract. He should have reasoned that cashing the ace first would sink the contract if West showed out, but the same was not true if he cashed the king first and East showed out.

Had East not followed to the heart king, declarer could next have led a heart to the ace, played the A-K and ruffed a diamond, and then exited with a heart. After taking the queen, West would have been forced to return a spade or a diamond (the earlier plays in clubs had marked him with just three cards in that suit), either of which would hand South the Guessing which way to play the hearts was therefore an illusion. The contract was a sure thing so long as declarer played dummy's king first.

Like puzzles? Then you'll love sudoku. This mind-bending puzzle will have you hooked from the moment you square off, so sharpen your pencil and put vour sudoku savvy to the test!

Here's How It Works:

Sudoku puzzles are formatted as a 9x9 grid, broken down into nine 3x3 boxes. To solve a sudoku, the numbers 1 through 9 must fill each row, column and box. Each number can appear only once in each row, column and box. You can figure out the order in which the numbers will appear by using the numeric clues already provided in the boxes. The more numbers you name, the easier it gets to solve the puzzle!

help, not disparagement. Thank you for pointing this out.

Dear Annie: I am compelled to respond to "Depressed, Heartbroken and Missing Him," as I saw myself in her letter and could easily have written it a few years ago. I thought your advice was spot on. However, while it is not easy, I would have added that she should RUN to the nearest exit and never look back.

I was a young professional woman involved with a professional guy. We were both active duty Air Force stationed overseas. From all outward appearances, we were the couple of the year. Everyone who knew us assumed we would be married and live happily ever after. Nothing could have been farther from the truth. After three years of enduring emotional abuse, including two proposals accompanied by withdrawals the next day, I finally woke up. On the third proposal, I told him to hit the road. That was the smartest thing I could ever have done. I wanted more out of life and he was not the one willing to share. After a time of not trusting any men, I finally met the man of my dreams. Today, I have a wonderful husband and two beautiful sons.

"Depressed," do not despair. Get out and get out now. Do not hesitate. It is easy to say and a lot harder to do, but believe me, you can do this. This is not living and it is certainly not love. You deserve so much more. When all is said and done, you will be happier and stronger. Life changed for me. I am confident it will change for you, too. -- Been There, Done That

Dear Been There, Done That: Thank you for sharing your story in this letter. I am hopeful that "Depressed, Heartbroken and Missing Him" will read your words and know that she is not alone and that, with courage, she can have a better life.

Dear Annie: I loved reading your column about handkerchiefs, and I have another story to add to let your readers know that handkerchiefs are not only for men. My mom, who passed away a number of years ago, always had a handkerchief in her purse or up her sleeve. Lately, I've taken up the same ritual. I was sad thinking about how I never saved those beautiful handkerchiefs she used and have been buying lacy, colorful and embroidered ones of my own. A few months ago, I was visiting an elderly cousin and she told me she had something for me. It was one of my mom's handkerchiefs. I put it in a frame and hung on the wall. It's a beautiful memory of my mom and

College hoops scheduling still chaotic as season approaches

The NCAA's announcement of a college basketball start date led to huge

Instead of getting easier with time, the task of building schedules has become more difficult as the season's start date nears.

Travel is an issue. So is finding common testing protocols. Restrictions in every state are all different and constantly changing with virus cases on the rise. The cancellation of several multiteam events left huge holes. Even sorting out officiating has presented challenges.

It's been like trying to simultaneously build 353 separate puzzles with overlapping and sometimes-missing pieces — and time is running out.

"We don't know a lot of things," Duke coach Mike Krzyzewski. "But we know we're going to have March Madness. We know we're going to have a regular season. We just don't know much about both — and it's a hell of a way to run

The coronavirus ran college basketball, like every other sport and aspect of life, off the rails in March. The NCAA Tournament was wiped out and so was part of the payout to member schools, a whopping $375 million shortfall.

Following the lead of sports like the NFL and Major League Baseball, the NCAA opted to start college basketball's regular season on Nov. 25. The NCAA reduced the maximum number of games from 31 to 27 for teams playing in multiteam events, 25 for those that don't.

The plan is to play the NCAA Tournament in March, possibly in a "bubble" environment like the NBA and NHL did.

The key is finding a way to get there.

Even with meticulous planning before the NCAA's announcement, teams had a tough time finding opponents.

The season was pushed back, so games set for early November had to be postponed or dropped from the schedule. Lost games had to be replaced with new opponents, with a premium placed on regional schools since most teams don't want to fly during a pandemic.

Virus testing protocols had to be worked out and finding officials, many of whom work multiple games a week in different states and conferences, was a complex, unexpected issue.

In addition to all that, scheduling turned into a shifting platform filled with unexpected trap doors at nearly every turn.

Several multiteam events moved locations — the Maui Invitational from Hawaii to North Carolina, the Cancun Challenge from Mexico to Florida leading to teams dropping out. Other multiteam events were canceled, leaving scheduling holes.

ESPN last week announced the cancellation of a planned NBA-like bubble in Orlando due to schools' concerns about health and safety protocols. The elimination of those eight events left two dozen teams scrambling to find replacement games.

"There's been nothing like it," Illinois coach Brad Underwood said. "It's truly COVID 2020, unprecedented as so many things are. We don't have a lot of an swers. We have a ton of questions that all have to be answered."

and the Illini have since added a Dec. 8 game against Duke in the ACC/Big Ten Challenge. Krzyzewski believes the Blue Devils have a 27-game schedule in place, but that's obviously subject to change. Duke will host a multiteam event at Cam-

Underwood described Illinois' schedule as a blank sheet of paper last month, eron Indoor Stadium with Bellarmine, Howard and Elon in early December but it has announced no other games outside of playing Illinois. Gonzaga, projected to be a top-5 team, has games against Baylor and Iowa scheduled for December and a full home-and-away slate of West Coast Conference games. The WCC reportedly is looking into playing in a Las Vegas bubble for conference games, so that could change. Villanova released its early nonconference schedule, including the 2K Empire Classic with Baylor, Boston College and Arizona State — a replacement after Michigan pulled out — in Connecticut. The Wildcats, like the rest of the Big East, is awaiting word on plans for the conference schedule. The Big 12, Pac-12 and SEC have announced conference schedules, but the ACC and Big Ten have not.

"We thought we had it down a couple times, but it's changed," Tennessee coach Rick Barnes said. "I think now we're still going to wait. We want to get it done. Every day something seems to pop up where it makes us have to adjust."

While adjustments continue, the clock is ticking: The season starts three weeks from Wednesday.

accept the offers or press ahead as free agents, who could start negotiating contracts with all teams on Sunday night.

They are the only ones subject to compensation among the 181 players who became free agents in a market that also includes pitcher Masahiro Tanaka, outfielder Marcell Ozuna, shortstop Didi Gregorius and designated hitter Nelson Cruz.

A brutal market is expected, with many teams likely to cut payrolls following a regular season played with no fans in the seats due to the novel coronavirus pandemic.

If a team makes a qualifying offer to a player who signs a major league contract with another club before the June amateur draft, his former club would receive a draft pick as compensation at the end of the first round or at the end of competitive balance round B. The placement depends on whether new contract is worth $50 million or more and the revenue-sharing and luxury tax status of the team losing the player.

A free agent could be made a qualifying offer only if he had been with the same team continuously since opening day and had never received a qualifying offer before.

Qualifying offers began after the 2012 season, and only five of 90 offers have been accepted: New York Mets second baseman Neil Walker and Philadelphia pitcher Jeremy Hellickson after the 2016 season; Los Angeles Dodgers pitcher Hyun-Jin Ryu after the 2018 season and Chicago White Sox first baseman José Abreu last season. Abreu later agreed to a $50 million, three-year contract.

The qualifying offer price started at $13.3 million in 2012 and rose to $14.1 million in 2013, $15.3 million in 2014, $15.8 million in 2015, $17.2 million in 2016 and $17.4 million in 2017.

New York Yankees designated hitter Giancarlo Stanton and Boston DH J.D. Martinez kept their contracts rather than go free and test the market following subpar seasons.

Stanton is owed $218 million for seven seasons and Martinez $38.75 million for two years.

games by a left hamstring strain that sidelined him from Aug. 9 to Sept. 15. He rebounded to become the Yankees' best offensive player in the playoffs, hitting .308 (8 for 26) with six homers and 13 RBIs in seven games. Martinez gets $19,375,000 in each of the next two seasons and can opt out after 2021.

Martinez hit a career-low .213 in the pandemicshortened season with seven homers and 27 RBIs, his lowest output since 2013. His salary was cut from $23.75 million to a prorated $8,796,296. Boston declined a $6.85 million option on left-hander Martín Pérez and opted to pay a $500,000 buyout to the 29-year-old, who became a free agent. Perez was 3-5 with a 4.50 ERA in 12 starts, striking out 46 and walking 28 in 62 innings in his first season with Boston after leaving Minnesota as a free agent. He had a $6 million salary, reduced to $2,222,222 in prorated pay. Reliever Dellin Betances exercised his $6 million player option with the Mets, deciding against taking a $3 million buyout and becoming a free agent. A 6-foot-8 right-hander who turns 33 on March 23, Betances signed with the Mets last December for a deal that guaranteed $10.5 million. A four-time All-Star during seven seasons with the New York Yankees, Betances slumped to a 7.71 ERA in 15 relief appearances with the Mets, walking 12 and striking out 11 in 11 2/3 innings.

Earlier, Mets reliever Brad Brach exercised his $2,075,000 player option for next season.

Arizona exercised a $4.25 million option on pitcher Merrill Kelly rather than pay a $500,000 buyout, and Baltiore exercised a $3.5 million option on shortstop José Iglesias rather than pay a $500,000 buyout. Houston exercised an option on left-hander

Brooks Raley calling for a $2 million salary in the major leagues and a $250,000 salary in the mi-
