Howard College campus project updates topping meeting agenda

By AMANDA DUFORAT
Managing Editor

The Howard College Board of Trustees will convene in the Fireplace Room in the Student Union Building for a regular meeting today at 12:30 p.m. Those wishing to attend may do so in person or by teleconference at 1-888-204-5987 and using the access code 3148424#.

After the invocation and recognition of guests, there will be an opportunity for communication to the board. During this time, those wishing to address the board members may do so.

meeting from Feb. 24, 2021 and special meeting held on March 11, 2021; financials for February 2021 and monthly reports of auxiliary services. The board will also look to consider and approve any personnel matters and the internal audit report.

There is no unfinished business on the agenda. As part of the new business, the Board of Trustees will hear the Covid-19 response status #12 and the Open Howard College update. Dr. Cherly Sparks will also speak about Vision, Mission, Values, and Strategic Planning, which will include the Board of Trustees Institute (BoTI) Webinar Report and the status. A brief overview of the different campuses – Big Spring, Lamesa, Sang Angelo and SWCD – will be provided.

As part of performance measures and outcomes under operational indicators the small class reports will be provided before shifting the focus to finance indicators which will include the Audit Report and the Fund Balance Report. The board members will also hear the Student Success Indicators.

As part of monitoring the Board of Trustees will be hearing updates regarding the construction and renovation projects. The two current projects include the Big Spring/SWCD Roof Project and any change orders. An update will also be reported on regarding the Big Spring campus boiler and chiller project completion. At this time, any handbook and catalog changes will also

Vietnam War Veterans Day - A day to honor those who served

By AMANDA DUFORAT
Managing Editor

National Vietnam War Veterans Day is one of the ways, as a nation, gratitude can be expressed and honor given to those who served their country by serving in the Vietnam War. In 2007 Congress, through HR 4986, authorized a program commemorating the 50th anniversary of the Vietnam War; HR 4986 was signed into law on Jan. 28, 2008 and the first Presidential inaugural event marked as the Vietnam War Commemoration was in 2012 on Memorial Day, May 28, 2012. It would not be until five years later, the Vietnam War Veterans Recognition Act established the National Vietnam War Veterans Day to be celebrated on March 29 each year.

"They (Vietnam Vets) were forgotten for so long; forgotten really isn't the right word though. They were shunned, looked down upon, and this is a way we can give them honor. It's a time for us to say thank you,"

Mike Tarpley, Vietnam Veteran and Quilt of Valor presenter, said. "This is a day for me to say 'Thank You' to that special group of men I was honored to serve with."

National Vietnam War Veterans Day has five main objectives: highlight the service of our Armed Forces and support organizations during the war; pay tribute to wartime contributions at home by American citizens; highlight technology, science and medical advances made during the war; and recognize contributions by allies. While the celebrations have taken on a different face since the onset of the pandemic, this year the celebrations and recognitions will continue on the national level and at the local level. On a national level a wreath is laid at The Vietnam War Memorial "The Wall" and VA Medical facilities across the country recognize the day at their respective locations; and many communities will host their own appreciation ceremonies.

Looking back at Luther, Texas - Store and Post Office

By TAMMY SCHRECENGOST
Heritage Museum

Traveling north, on the winding roads to Luther, TX, through the cotton fields and pastures, a country store could be found on two of those curves. The driveway was a gravel covered area with a couple of gas pumps right in front. Farmers would come in tracking mud and dirt on the wood floors. There were usually two side by side metal screen doors that had a large plate for advertising Coca cola or Meads Bread maybe even Root Beer soda. The large door quickly slammed shut with a creak. If that were not enough to alert the owner, the bell at the top of the door would. Those wooden floors had to be swept often and there was usually a ladder-back chair pushed to the side. The coke box was filled with various soft drinks and a bottle opener on the side. A little container collected the lids that were opened but there were several of them thrown in the front drive glistening in the sunlight and attracting the attention of the kids. No one threw away the bottle because it was worth about a nickel for deposit on another drink. The old cash register would make a ding noise when the drawer opened, the transaction was complete but not the visit. That would take much longer depending on the news in the area.

The Postscript

“Lori’s Laughter”

Throughout the past year, my husband, Peter, and I have been seeing no one except Peter’s sister, Lori, and her husband.

Lori has Stage 4 cancer and has had a tough fight. She’s been on oxygen all this time. The decision of how careful we needed to be was easy. If we were going to see Lori, we had to be extremely careful. And as a reward, once a week we have heard Lori’s laughter.

I’ve been writing fiction for the first time in my life. No one told me in advance that writing novels is a lonely process. Especially now, there are no writers’ groups, no coffee shops to write in—although I wasn’t part of a writers’ group before, and I’ve always thought a coffee shop was a noisy place to write.

Instead, I sit alone at my desk with my coffee cup and a vase of fresh flowers in front of me and I write. I write and I wait for the end of the week when we will see Lori.

“Where did we leave off?” Lori will always ask, sounding excited, followed by, “I might need a reminder,” followed by, “I get two chapters this week, don’t I?”

I will read in a mask (something I thought would be harder than it is), and I will listen for the sound of Lori’s laughter, which is loud and frequent.

And many days—most days, in fact—that is enough reason to write.

Because it’s impossible to never have a doubt when you are working on something like this. I wonder if it’s any good or if anyone will find it interesting or if I have any idea what I am doing. But then I read another chapter to Lori, and I remember why I’m writing to begin with. I’m writing to tell a story, to entertain, to amuse, maybe even (every so often) to make a small point.

I haven’t seen Lori in four weeks now.

She’s been too ill for visitors. Her pain is higher, and her oxygen is lower, and we don’t really know what is happening because she is too tired to tell us. Peter keeps bringing her food and I keep writing, but I cannot tell you how much I miss Lori’s laughter.

I did not realize how much I have relied on Lori’s laughter through all these weeks and months. I did not realize how seeing her every week has anchored my life to something real and joyful and positive—because that is what Lori is.

Today the sun is not shining, and a cold wind is blowing, and we have not heard from Lori and I don’t know if we will.

“Maybe we’ll see her this weekend,” Peter says. “Maybe she’ll feel better by the end of the week.”

But we don’t know. No one knows.

There are no platitudes about Stage 4 cancer that will make things fine. Things are not fine, and that is how it is. We don’t know what the future will hold. She has battled back before, and we are hoping she will again.

But we don’t know. Peter cooks and worries. I write. Lori is now far behind in the story. I am trying to remember what I last read to her.

But every time I come to a part where a deliciously unpleasant person is behaving especially badly, I imagine how Lori would laugh, if I were reading to her, if I finally get the chance to read to her again.

“Oh!” I think to myself. “Lori will love this.”

Texas set to make vaccines available to all adults

HOUSTON (AP) — Texas was set on Monday to begin making COVID-19 vaccines available to anyone who wants one.

Texas will become the most populous U.S. state to expand COVID-19 vaccine eligibility to all adults. The state has nearly 30 million residents.

This will come more than a month before President Joe Biden’s goal of opening vaccine eligibility to everyone by May 1.

In Texas, individuals who are 16 and 17 years old will also be able to get a vaccine starting Monday. But the Texas Department of State Health Services said only the Pfizer vaccine is authorized for individuals in that age group.

Alaska was the first state to open up vaccine eligibility to all adults.

Texas has one of the nation’s slowest vaccination rates. About 12% of the state’s population had been fully vaccinated as of Saturday, and about 24% had received at least one dose, according to the U.S. Centers for Disease Control. In comparison, neighboring New Mexico has fully vaccinated more than 21% of its population and given at least one dose to 36% of its residents. More than 10 million coronavirus vaccinations have been administered in Texas, according to state health officials.

There were 2.7 million service members who served in Vietnam, and of those it is estimated that 850,000 are still alive today. The average age of a Vietnam soldier was 19 years old. The war resulted in 258 Medal of Honors being awarded and more than $140 billion spent (today’s equivalent would be $1 trillion).

“Many of the Vietnam Veterans still hold that grudge, a sense of resentment; there is also an unspoken sentiment between Vietnam Veterans especially, these younger guys are getting the treatment they are getting because we aren’t going to let what happen to us happen again.”

In recognition of Vietnam Veterans and the sacrifices made, a special Quilt of Valor presentation will be taking place at the Council Chambers at 2 p.m. The special ceremony will be recognizing six local Vietnam Veterans for their sacrifice and service. The community is encouraged to attend.

“Every veteran needs to be remembered and recognized, and this is a day we can do that, not only for Vietnam Veterans, but for all veterans,” Tarpley said. “When you see a veteran, on any day, take the time to say Thank You.”

HISTORY

“Luther” area in 1907. When his neighbors found out that he had been a postmaster in Kentucky, they persuaded him to open a post office in the Luther community. Luther had tried to seek help in naming the newly formed community. It was suggested to call it Luther after Luther Lawrence. He was hesitant but since there were no other offers, he complied. Luther operated the post office from a small desk inside his home and in 1909, Ed Love, thrilled the neighbors as he brought out the first sack of mail in a horse drawn rig. In 1925, Luther built a 25 x 30 ft country store and he operated the post office from inside the corner of the store.

June 9, 1949, J.L. (Bus) and Velma Lloyd purchased the store and Velma became the new postmaster for the Luther Community. There were fifteen wooden box holders for mail to be distributed in. Velma was friends with everyone in the community. She shared the news and was always there to host bridal and baby showers. The Lloyds had charge accounts for the area farming families. The charges were kept on a notebook with each customer having a dedicated page of written numbers that were tallied at the end of the month.

Velma added a few eye-catching items for the younger girls, clip on earrings with sparkly rhinestones, bracelets, hair clips, and scarves. When the girls stopped in the store, they would add that to the charge slip hoping Dad never noticed and Velma never told.

Velma decided to retire from the post office in 1972. The U.S. Postal Service was beginning to eliminate the different country postal services anyway. So, she and Bus closed the store and moved to a home in Big Spring

Big Spring Steer Baseball team rallies back to take a District victory against Sweetwater

Herald Photos/Dustin Pope

Top Left: Jose Cantu all smiles after the game as he hit a crucial triple in the bottom of the sixth inning to give the Big Spring Steers a lead. Top Right, the team celebrates after a come from behind victory against the Sweetwater Mustangs, winning 8 to 7.

By DUSTIN POPE

Herald Sports Writer

This past Friday night Mar. 26., the Steers baseball team had a home District game facing off against the Sweetwater Mustangs. The Steers came to this game trying to turn things around, as they entered 1 and 3 in district play. This game was a pivoting point for the young Steers as they never stopped battling all game long, and thanks to a key late hit the Steers rolled over Sweetwater 8 to 7, in what was of the better games seen this season.

Sophomore Pitcher Ricky Escovedo took the mound to start the game for the Steers. Escovedo blew through the first batter of the night, striking out the Mustang player on three pitches. Escovedo only allowed a single in the inning, but kept the Mustangs off the board. Next, it was Big Springs' chance at the plate. Leadoff man Maverick Yanez crushed the first pitch he saw. Unfortunately, it was right at a defender, for out number one. Josh Miramontes reached base safely after the Mustang Second Baseman caused an error allowing Miramontes to reach base. The Steers eventually did get a few runners on base, but couldn't find a way to push them across the plate. Leaving the score at 0 to 0 after one inning of play.

Escovedo came out to start his second inning of work, and the young Sophomore got into a groove. A couple of Mustang runners reached base, but Escovedo and this Steer defense tightened down and closed the inning door, not allowing any of the runners to score. Eli Cobos lead off the Bottom of the Second for the Steers. The Steer showed patience at the plate and earned his free trip first after being walked. Cobos then would advance to third base on an error by the Sweetwater Mustangs. Pablito Dehoyos stepped up; next, he had a single of his own to have runners at the corners with zero outs. The Speedy Dehoyos then stole second base, placing two runners in scoring position. Jose Cantu, who we will learn more a lot more about later on in the game, stepped into the box for his first at-bat of the night, and Cantu smashed a hard-hit single to score Cobos. Maverick Yanez came to the plate. and did his job when he sent a high sacrifice fly in the outfield, allowing Dehoyos to come across the plate, giving the Steers the early lead at 2 to 0. The Steers did get a few more runners on base in the inning but no more runs.

They were caring a 2 to 0 lead with him into the third inning. Escovedo had his first shaky inning of play. Accompanied by a couple of errors in the field defensively; The Mustangs went on to score three runs in the top of the third, taking their first lead of the game at 3 to 2 over the Steers. The Bottom of the third found Isaiah Solis made his long-awaited return to the lineup after being sidelined for a few weeks with some elbow trouble. Solis wasted no time as he had a hard-hit single. Eli Cobos reached on a fielder's choice as the defense could get Solis at second base, leaving Cobos to make it to first base safely. Dehoyos stepped up and belted a triple down the line, scoring Cobos and tying the game up at three-all. Jose Cantu once again delivered for his Steers' team as he had a single to drive in Dehoyos, giving the lead right back to the Steers at 4 to 3.

Sweetwater was ready to answer back in the top of the fourth inning, as they put three more runs across the plate to take the lead back from the Steers 6 to 4, in the epic back and forth affair. The Bottom of the Fourth found the Steers not giving up, never losing composure. Diaz led off the inning with a single. He was followed by Freshman Catcher Marcos Paredes, who had a single as well, putting runners on first and second with one out. Solis then took a walk loading the bases up. Eli Cobos worked a beautiful at-bat, forcing the Sweetwater pitcher to throw him pitches. Cobos won the showdown when he earned a walk pushing a run across the plate to bring the Steers within one run at Sweetwater, leading 6 to 5.

Neither team got anything going in the fifth inning of play. As both teams couldn't push any runs across the plate, leaving the score at Sweetwater 6, Steers 5 after five complete innings of the game.

As play in the sixth inning began, the Steers changed the mound and brought in hard-throwing Gabriel Baeza. The hard-throwing righty would prove to be too much for the Mustangs. They managed to score a run, but Baeza was in control for most of that inning, after Sweetwater scored their run in the top of the sixth that made the lead 7 to 5, heading into the Bottom of the Sixth. The Steers knew they didn't have much time left in the game. They knew they had to get something going with the bats. Escovedo leads off the inning with a crushing single. Solis came up a batter later and smashed a single too. It was giving the Steer runners at first and third with only one out. After a fly out to center, it brought up Pablito Dehoyos. Dehoyos would work to a full count and eventually was able to talk a walk loading the bases. With the bases loaded, the Steers knew this was when they had to strike to have a chance to win this game. That's when Jose Cantu stepped into the box. The Senior Third Baseman remained calm in the box, making the pitcher give him something to hit. On a 2-1 count, Cantu readied for the pitch, smashing a long triple that was off the left-field fence, clearing the bases, giving the Steers the lead once again at 8 to 7. Cantu came up to the plate and delivered when his team needed it the most. When the excitement settled down, the Steers got out of the Bottom of the Second with a slight one-run lead.

Heading into the seventh inning, the Steers rolled with Baeza's strong right arm to close out this game. The Steer never came close to feeling any pressure while he was on the mound; Baeza just continued to pound the strike zone. The defense played good baseball, and they got the three outs they needed to complete the come-from-behind victory.

What a much-needed win this was for a team that had been struggling. This type of success can give a team the confidence they need to destroy anyone on the field of play. That's how good this team is; there is no doubt in my mind they are the best team in their district, and with this win, now it's just time for these boys to show it. The win moves the Steers to a 2 and 3 district record. They travel to Lubbock Estacado this Tuesday night, then follow that up with a home game under the Friday night lights against the Same Estacado team. Come out, and let us cheer these boys on to victory; let's all show them we have their back.

Powerhouses UConn, Baylor meet in women's Elite Eight

By PAT EATON-ROBB AP Sports Writer

UConn and Baylor have dominated women's college basketball in recent years and will meet Monday for a chance for one to advance to yet another Final Four.

The Huskies (27-1) will be looking for the the program's 13th straight appearance in the showcase, 21st all-time and a 12th national championship.

The Lady Bears (28-2), the defacto defending champions after winning the title in 2019, will be looking for their fifth trip to a Final Four and a fourth title.

"I wish it was for the national championship and not a chance to get to a Final Four, because I think both programs are just elite, and it's a shame somebody has to lose," Baylor coach Kim Mulkey said Sunday.

It is a sentiment echoed by UConn coach Geno Auriemma, who also believes the teams are playing too early in the tournament.

"I think they were underseeded," Auriemma said. "Explain to me how they are a No. 2 seed. These things happen, I know. But I think they deserved to be an No. 1 seed, if you look around the rest of the tournament."

The teams mirror each other in many ways, each having been built by their Hall of Fame coaches using similar formulas.

Both stress defense. Baylor is tops in the nation, allowing opponents to shoot an average of 32.3% from the field. UConn ranks fourth, with opponents shooting 33.3% from the floor.

"It could be an ugly game," Mulkey said. "When I say 'ugly,' it could be low scoring, it could be some turnovers. Some people want to say boring. It may not be 80 and 90. I don't know."

Both also feature stars — UConn's Paige Bueckers and Baylor's Nalyssa Smith — supplemented by a supporting cast of other talented players who can take over games.

"Every team that competes for a championship and actually has won a championship has pretty much used that formula if they want to come back," Auriemma said. "Now, if you are only trying to do it once and you're trying to give it one shot at, then maybe you don't have to do it this way. But if you want to be that kind of program that has a chance each year to put yourself in that situation, then that's how you have to do it."

Some things to watch for when UConn at Baylor meet Monday in the Elite Eight:

CAN HARDLY MISS

Baylor's Smith has made 26 of her 33 shots in the Lady Bear's three games and went 11 of 11 from the floor in the team's overtime win against Michigan in the Sweet 16.

UConn freshman Aaliyah Edwards also has been on fire, averaging 18 points per game in the tournament, while hitting 22 of 26 shots.

"If it wasn't for Aaliyah Edwards, we wouldn't be here today," Auriemma said. "That kid has really added so much to our team. Her strength, her physicality, her toughness, her finishing around the basket."

TURNING THE PAIGE

Mulkey is most concerned with UConn freshman Paige Bueckers.

The player-of-the-year candidate has put up 62 points, 23 rebounds and 18 assists in UConn's three games. But Baylor's coach, a former point guard herself, said it's Buecker's court vision and ability to anticipate how a play will develop that makes her extremely dangerous.

"Listen, any freshman that can pat Geno on the butt during a game and get away with it, hey that tells you how much he respects her," Mulkey said.

ARIES (March 21-April 19). Seek new challenges, as the problems that interest you are gratifying work, whereas if you wait to see what problems life brings, it's much less empowering.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20). Your brain isn't the only thinker in your body. And today, the wisdom worth heeding can't be cognitively conjured. It's the voice of your heart, which makes itself known with a rush of feeling and bodily reflex.

GEMINI (May 21-June 21). The day lacks order, something to embrace. Outsized egos, big wills, blundering innocents and colorful agents of chaos -- these are all luxuries, believe it or not. On quieter days, you'll be nostalgic for this lunacy.

CANCER (June 22-July 22). You're often an open book, but right now, you'll benefit from a thicker veil of privacy. Not everyone needs to know your history or even your recent whereabouts. Make people earn your trust; don't give it freely.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22). To hear yes is nice, though "no" is a tremendous blessing. Sure, "no" isn't what you wanted two seconds ago when you asked the question, but neither is it rejection. "No" just means there's magic for you elsewhere.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22). One of the many reasons you're a good leader is that you don't require people to be a certain way in order to earn your respect. You respect them how they are and hope for the best, and it usually turns in your favor.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23). You're looking for an indefinable something, and though you may be asked to explain your search, doing so would be a waste of time. Instead, peruse as many options as you can and trust that you'll know it when you see it.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 21). You'll specialize in embracing complexity, making sense of it for yourself and then explaining the more involved matters in a way that makes it accessible to others.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21). Wordlessly and without realizing it, you make promises. Yes, there are expectations they mentally create, somewhat but not entirely out of your control. With greater awareness, you'll get ahead of it.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19). Performances don't fail on the stage. They fail in the audience's head. As you aim to influence, focus beyond your act and into the minds of others. You'll succeed to the degree that you can see it from their point of view.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18). Emotions seep into the air, and everyone around breathes them in. People will feel your sadness, your joy... some will catch the contagion, which is why maintaining a balmy inner climate seems like a responsibility.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20). You'll be dealing with people who don't really know what they want, and even the ones who think they do may not be happy when they get that. Listen through people's wants and into their problem. Is it something you can solve?

TODAY'S BIRTHDAY (March 29). You don't need the trophy, but you'll get it anyway. You'll often be running things, bringing people together and facilitating projects that couldn't fly without what you do. You've a knack for finding people who amp up the joy for everyone, so even in the thick of the work, there's much to warm and buoy the heart. Cancer and Scorpio adore you. Your lucky numbers are: 7, 1, 33, 37 and 14.

SAGITTARIUS SECRET SUPERPOWERS: Every sign has 'em. For SAGITTARIUS:

The Obvious: As the sign of exploration and expansion, Sagittarius glides between states of mind and states of countries with equal ease, finding a way to feel perfectly at home just about anywhere he or she happens to land.

The Uncanny: The Sagittarian ability to withstand bugs, critters oppressive weather and other inconveniences of adventuring is truly remarkable.

The Weird: Sagittarius collects oddball rituals and strange tips and will often use them to effectively solve the problem at hand. So, if you see a Sagittarius smelling a green apple to avoid claustrophobic feelings or rubbing the bridge of the nose to cure insomnia, it's all part of the Sagittarian collection.

The Extremely Useful: Sagittarius has an ear for language and can pick up a foreign tongue in a fraction of the amount of time it takes others.

The Quietly Helpful: Sagittarius quickly learns that each person comes with a unique set of operating instructions and does not expect that anyone else will automatically understand, adopt or serve the Sagittarian agenda. This view makes it a lot easier to get along in the world.

This deal occurred in the quarter-final match between England and China at the 2007 women's world team championship in Shanghai. It featured a brilliant defensive play by the British East, Michelle Brunner, who laid a cunning trap for her Chinese opponent who seemed about to bring in a grand slam.

The bidding by the Chinese North-

South was natural after a forcing one-club opening and one-diamond response indicating a weak hand. South's five notrump was no doubt intended as the "grand slam force," asking North to bid seven clubs if she held two of the top three club honors. North then elected to bid the grand slam without both honors, possibly influenced by her five-card support when she could have held somewhat less.

As can be seen, seven clubs was due to succeed because declarer had no way to get to dummy to try the trump finesse. After winning any lead, declarer would have had no choice but to plunk down the ace, dropping the singleton king.

Things seemed headed for that outcome when Brunner's partner led the heart jack, on which the declarer, Yi Qian Liu, played dummy's queen. It was here that Brunner had her chance to shine. Having noted the absence of the club king in dummy, as well as the dearth of entries on the table, she decided to give declarer a bit of rope by refusing to cover the heart queen!

Declarer happily accepted this unexpected opportunity to take the trump finesse and so went down one. Of course, had Brunner made the routine play of covering the queen of hearts with the king, the grand slam would have come rolling home.

Be Yourself

Dear Annie: I have struggled almost all of my married life with never being accepted by my mother-in-law. I have tried everything, just shy of learning how to do backflips. No matter what I do, it is never right.

It is extremely hurtful, especially because my husband never stood up for me until a few years ago. I even went and tried to visit with her, but since then, I have become the bad one for calling her out on several hurtful actions. I told her she was welcome at my house.

She has a great son and wonderful grandchildren who she is missing out on. She lives in the same town and doesn't acknowledge our children because she might have to see me. It is so sad!

I like to fix problems and make people happy. I can't figure out how to fix this. Any advice would be helpful. It puts a strain on our marriage and is just plain sad. -- How Do I Fix This?

Dear How Do I Fix

This?: You can't control other people's actions toward you. How she treats you says a lot more about her than it does about you.

When you say you've been "calling her out on several hurtful actions," ask yourself if these conversations are done in a loving and productive manner. Conflict resolution does not usually consist of one person pointing out all the hurtful actions of the other person -- at least not without the help of a trained therapist in the room.

The best way to fix this problem is to lay low and stop trying so hard to please her and instead just be yourself. If she can't accept that, then it is her problem, and you are correct that she is missing out on quality time with her grandchildren and son. Keep trying to see if your husband can speak with her. You might have to consult the help of a professional.

Dear Annie: Your column with letters from both sides concerning the mixing of church and politics was enlightening. I believe each side made valid points, but I think the issue boils to justice: how it works and what it is.

The problem is that politics have become a religion, and religion has become politicized. At best, people on each side are talking past one another; at worst, people are really enraging one another.

The solution is easy to say but hard to implement: We all have to learn to listen better, and with an open heart, if we expect to be heard ourselves. No one has ever changed someone else's mind by yelling at that person. We could all do well to heed Shakespeare's admonition that just as we pray to God to have mercy on us, we should at least try to do the same for our fellow passengers.

"The quality of mercy is not strain'd;/ It dropeth as the gentle rain from heaven/ Upon the place beneath ..." -- Still Trying

Dear Still Trying: Your letter offers a lot of wisdom. Thank you.

SUDOKU

9x9 Sudoku grid with numbers and empty cells.

Fun By The Numbers

Like puzzles? Then you'll love sudoku. This mind-bending puzzle will have you hooked from the moment you square off, so sharpen your pencil and put your sudoku savvy to the test!

Here's How It Works:

Sudoku puzzles are formatted as a 9x9 grid, broken down into nine 3x3 boxes. To solve a sudoku, the numbers 1 through 9 must fill each row, column and box. Each number can appear only once in each row, column and box. You can figure out the order in which the numbers will appear by using the numeric clues already provided in the boxes. The more numbers you name, the easier it gets to solve the puzzle!

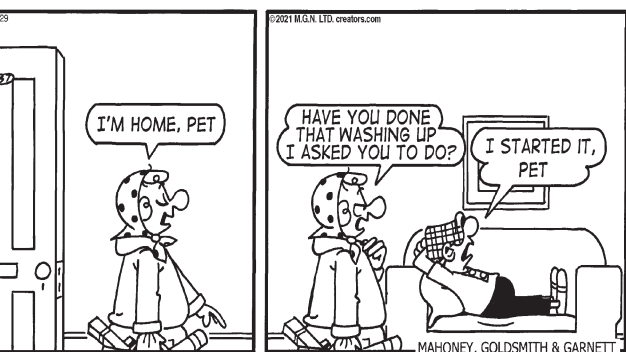

ANSWER: 9x9 grid with the solved Sudoku puzzle.

Today in History

Today is Monday, March 29, the 88th day of 2021. There are 277 days left in the year.

Today's Highlight in History:

On March 29, 1974, eight Ohio National Guardsmen were indicted on federal charges stemming from the shooting deaths of four students at Kent State University. (The charges were later dismissed.)

On this date:

In 1638, Swedish colonists settled in present-day Delaware.

In 1812, the first White House wedding took place as Lucy Payne Washington, the sister of first lady Dolley Madison, married Supreme Court Justice Thomas Todd.

In 1861, President Abraham Lincoln ordered plans for a relief expedition to sail to South Carolina's Fort Sumter, which was still in the hands of Union forces despite repeated demands by the Confederacy that it be turned over.

In 1867, Britain's Parliament passed, and Queen Victoria signed, the British North America Act creating the Dominion of Canada, which came into being the following July.

In 1912, British explorer Robert Falcon Scott, with his doomed expedition stranded in an Antarctic blizzard after failing to be the first to reach the South Pole, wrote the last words of his journal: "For God's sake look after our people."

In 1936, German Chancellor Adolf Hitler claimed overwhelming victory in a plebiscite on his policies.

In 1951, Julius and Ethel Rosenberg were convicted in New York of conspiracy to commit espionage for the Soviet Union. (They were executed in June 1953.)

In 1971, Army Lt. William L. Calley Jr. was convicted of murdering 22 Vietnamese civilians in the 1968 My Lai (mee ly) massacre. (Calley ended up serving three years under house arrest.) A jury in Los Angeles recommended the death penalty for Charles Manson and three female followers for the 1969 Tate-La Bianca murders. (The sentences were commuted when the California state Supreme Court struck down the death penalty in 1972.)

In 1973, the last United States combat troops left South Vietnam, ending America's direct military involvement in the Vietnam War.

In 2002, Israeli troops stormed Yasser Arafat's headquarters complex in the West Bank in a raid that was launched in response to anti-Israeli attacks that had killed 30 people in three days.

In 2010, two female suicide bombers blew themselves up in twin attacks on Moscow subway stations jam-packed with rush-hour passengers, killing at least 40 people and wounding more than 100.

In 2017, Britain filed for divorce from the European Union as Prime Minister Theresa May sent a six-page letter to EU Council President Donald Tusk. Two former aides to New Jersey Gov. Chris Christie were sentenced to prison for creating a colossal traffic jam at the George Washington Bridge for political revenge, a scandal that sank Christie's White House hopes.

Ten years ago: Gunmen held an Iraqi government center in Tikrit (tih-KREET) hostage in a grisly siege that ended with the deaths of at least 56 people, including three councilmen, plus the attackers, who blew themselves up. A seriously ill 73-year-old British woman was accidentally dropped into the bitterly cold Norwegian Sea as rescue workers took her off the cruise ship Ocean Countess (Janet Richardson later died at a hospital).

Five years ago: Oscar-winning actor Patty Duke, 69, died in Coeur D'Alene, Idaho.

One year ago: President Donald Trump extended restrictive social distancing guidelines through April, bracing the nation for a coronavirus death toll that he acknowledged could exceed 100,000 people; Trump just days earlier had spoken about the country reopening in a few weeks. Dr. Anthony Fauci warned that the coronavirus could kill 100,000 to 200,000 Americans and that millions of Americans could become infected. Country singer

Joe Diffie, who had a string of hits in the 1990s, died at 61 from what a spokesman said were complications from COVID-19. Josef Neumann, 72, died three months after he and four others were stabbed during a Hanukkah celebration north of New York City. Krzysztof Penderecki, an award-winning conductor and one of the world's most popular contemporary classical music composers, died at his home in Poland; he was 86.

Forsan Buffalo baseball team battles back to win first District game of the season

By DUSTIN POPE

Herald Sports Writer

The Forsan Buffalo Baseball team kicked off District play this past Friday night against the Colorado City Wolves. The game was hosted at Forsan's home field. The Buffaloes played a heck of a game, pulling out a come behind victory in the bottom of the seventh, winning a close, hard-fought game 14 to 13.

Brandon Valdez took the mound to start this District game for the Buffs. The wolves jumped on the pitcher early in the first by getting to him for four runs. Colorado city finished the top of the first with a 4 to 0 lead. The Buffalo bats were cold in the bottom of the first as they could not get much going and didn't score any runs leaving the score at 4 to 0 for the Colorado City Wolves.

The start of the second found Valdez back on the mound. The wolves kept the pressure on the pitcher scoring two more runs in the inning, increasing the Wolves' lead to 6 to 0, heading into the bottom of the second. Trailing 6 to 0 heading into the bottom of the second, the Buffaloes knew they needed to score some runs before the game got out of hand. After two quick outs, the Buffs got a single from Josh Durbin. Drayklyn Henry continued the inning when a pitch hit him. Bradlee Saucedo then worked a walk to load the bases for the Buffs. Cayden Morgan Stepped into the box with the bases loaded and delivered a hard hit double driving in the first runs of the game for the Buffs cutting the lead to 6 to 2. One batter later, Josh Cervantes Delivered a hard hit Triple, clearing all the base runners cutting into the wolves lead, even more, closing in at 4 to 6. The buffalos scored one more run in the inning, shortening the Wolves' lead to just a single run at 5 to 6 lead for the Colorado City Wolves.

The Buffs made a pitching change heading into the third inning. Major Stockton came in to take the mound. The young pitcher came in and did a fine job on the inning, only allowing one run to cross the plate, pushing the Wolves to 7 to 5. Major Stockton lead off the bottom of the third with a double to get the Buffs offense rolling. Stokton eventually worked his way around the bases and scored, making this a one-run game.

Colorado City carried a 7 to 6 lead into the fourth inning of play. They would not stop the scoring, as they went on to put up two more runs in the top of the fourth, pushing the lead to 9 to 6. Bradlee Saucedo leads off the Buffalo inning with a single to get a runner on base. He was followed by Morgan when the Buffalo had a single of his own, putting runners on first and second with no outs. The Buffs then pulled off a double steal advancing both runners. After the double steal, Saucedo was at third, and Morgan found himself at second base. Cervantes stepped up to the plate and drove in Saucedo on a fielder's choice play. Morgan scored on the very next batter as Nolan Park would sacrifice to move the runners along. Cutting the lead to 9 to 8. Major Stockton then tied up the game when the Buffalo had a single driving in the tying run. After the big fourth inning, the Buffaloes found new life as they ended the inning, tied up 7 to 7.

The wolves were not done, as they scored yet another run in the top of the fifth to stretch the lead to 10 to 9. The Buffaloes stalled out in the bottom of the fifth, leaving the score at 10 to 9 heading into the sixth inning.

The top of the sixth inning began with the wolves enjoying a one-run lead. They went on to add to that lead as they had a three-run inning pushing the lead out to 13 to 9. The Buffaloes failed to score in the bottom of the sixth, leaving the Wolves with a lead heading into the last inning.

The final inning began with the Colorado City Wolves having a commanding lead of 13 to 9. The wolves failed to add to their information in the seventh, leaving a four-run deficit for the Buffs heading into the bottom of the seventh. Down to there finally three strikes, the Buffaloes knew they need to get something going if they had any chance to mount a comeback. After a quick out for the Buffs, Durbin smashed a double, and The next batter Henry, was hit by a pitch. Saucedo then drove in a run with a single, keeping the Buffaloes' hopes alive. Morgan kept the train rolling as he also had a single closing the lead to just two runs at 13 to 11. The Buffs were in business as they only had one out and runners on base. Cervantes then got hit by a pitch. After the second out of the inning, it brought up Major Stockton. Stockton delivered a game-tying single driving home with the game on the line, scoring Saucedo tying the game up at 13 apiece. Brandon Valdez stepped into the box with runners on second and third. After taking a quick strike, the Wolf pitcher threw a wild pitch allowing Cervantes to come across to score the game-winning run.

This was a massive win for the young Forsan Buffalo team; it's a win that will only benefit the young men as they advance. This team has a lot of talent and should be a force to reckon with going forward.

What To Watch: men's, women's regional finals start Monday
