From a little bit of gardening so much can bloom. For residents at the Big Spring Center For Skilled Care, the Healing Garden Club is finding out just how much can come from a little bit of outside gardening time.

After being without visitors for so long, due to the Covid pandemic, and social distancing safety precautions, the residents are excited to get back outside, sharing activity time together and watching the fruits of their labor literally grow.

"During a recent Coffee Hour with the residents, our activity director, Connie Jo Campos, was listening as the residents began to reminisce about their younger days and planting flowers,"

DPS honors fallen officers at Memorial Service

AUSTIN - The Texas Department of Public Safety (DPS) remembered and paid tribute to Texas Highway Patrol Troopers, Texas Rangers and Special Agents who lost their lives in the line of duty at today's 2021 Peace Officers Memorial Service. Those honored included Trooper Moises Sanchez, who died in August 2019, and Trooper Chad Walker, who was killed in March 2021. The service was held at DPS Headquarters in Austin, with Texas Lt. Gov. Dan Patrick as the guest speaker.

"Today, I am deeply humbled to speak at the 2021 Peace Officers Memorial Service," said Texas Lt. Gov. Dan Patrick. "Since I have been Lt. Governor, I have attended far too many funerals for our fallen officers. I stand with Texas DPS and our brave peace officers, and will continue to work diligently to better protect our Troopers as they put their lives on the line, every single day, for Texas com-

Since 1823, when DPS first began as the Texas Rangers, 223 DPS Officers have died in the line of duty. In the two years since DPS held its last Peace Officers Memorial Service, 512 officers nationwide were killed in the line of duty, 92 of whom were serving in Texas, according to the Officer Down Memorial Page. "Not everyone has the courage and fortitude to be in law enforcement. It is a job you must be committed to 24 hours a day. It is a duty your family must be willing to serve as well," said Texas Public Safety Commission Chairman Steven P. Mach. "Today we pay our respects to our fallen heroes, among them Trooper Moises Sanchez and Trooper Chad Walker. We are eternally grateful for everything they have done." During today's ceremony, the families of Trooper Chad Walker and Trooper Moises Sanchez laid flowers on a wreath to honor them

Trooper Walker was shot in March 2021, when he stopped to assist a stranded driver near Mexia in Limestone County, and the driver opened fire. He died from his injuries five days later.

Trooper Moises Sanchez was shot in April 2019, while trying to apprehend a driver involved in a wreck in Hidalgo County. He died from his injuries that August.

"Every day, our law enforcement officers walk into dangerous situations not knowing what the outcome may be, and they accept this as part of their role to protect and serve people in their communities," said DPS Director Steven McCraw. "Today we remember the sacrifices of those who have given their all in the line of duty. We pay special respects to Trooper Moises Sanchez, Trooper Chad Walker and their families. These fallen heroes exemplified courage, bravery and honor, and they will never be forgotten."

Texas governor signs law banning abortions early as six weeks

By PAUL J. WEBER

Associated Press

AUSTIN, Texas — Republican Gov. Greg Abbott Wednesday signed a law that bans abortions in Texas before many women even know they are pregnant and differs singularly from similar efforts nationwide: leaving enforcement to private citizens, who can sue doctors or anyone who helps a woman get an abortion.

The law puts Texas in line with more than a dozen other states that ban abortions after a fetal heartbeat can be detected, possibly as early as six weeks. It would take effect in September, but federal courts have mostly blocked states from enforcing similar But with the Supreme Court this week agreeing to take up a Mississippi law that bans abortion after 15 weeks of pregnancy, abortion rights activists worry that a ruling favorable to the state could lay the groundwork for allowing even more restrictions, ncluding so-called heartbeat bills. "The life of every unborn child with a heartbeat will be saved from the ravages of abortion," Abbott said in a bill signing at his office.

Texas' version is unique in that it prohibits state officials from enforcing the ban. Instead, it allows anyone — even someone outside Texas — to sue an abortion provider or anyone else who may have helped someone get an abortion after the limit, and seek financial damages of up to $10,000 per defen-

Critics say that provision would allow abortion opponents to flood the courts with lawsuits to harass doctors, patients, nurses, domestic violence counselors, a friend who drove a woman to a clinic, or even a parent who paid for a procedure.

Before the bill reached Abbott's desk, abortion rights groups signaled they would challenge the

"The goal is clear: to relentlessly attack our reproductive rights until abortion is a right in name only. Passing these bills is not leadership, it is cruelty and extremism," said Alexis McGill Johnson, president of Planned Parenthood Action Fund. Advanced technology can detect an electric signal flutter as early as six weeks into a pregnancy, even though the embryo isn't yet a fetus and doesn't have a heart. An embryo is termed a fetus beginning in the 11th week of pregnancy, medical experts say.

Texas law currently bans abortion after 20 weeks, with exceptions for a woman with a life-threatening medical condition or if the fetus has a severe abnormality. More than 90% of abortions take place in the first 13 weeks of a woman's pregnancy, according to the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention.

The Supreme Court will probably hear the Mississippi case in the fall, with a decision likely in spring 2022.

through the soil.'

Campos continued, "The surprised expression and happiness that fills their faces is priceless; gives the whole meaning to nature and nurturing!"

The BOM of the facility, Rosa Martinez, said "The residents love the responsibly of the garden and they feel they have a little bit of control of something left in their life and future. It really brings them such calmness and joy in the garden.'

Residents and staff are not beginning to enjoy the peace and beauty that flowers bring. The smells and colors add to the atmosphere at Big Spring Center for Skilled Care.

"Their little bit of memories that planting, growing, smelling, and feeling brings back to them. It is so beautiful to see them happy with the gardening," Brownfield said. "We would love for anyone to drive by and see the garden in our gazebo area."

MYERS & SMITH FUNERAL HOME & CHAPEL

Louise Huitt, 72, Monday. Viewing and visitation will be Thursday at Myers & Smith Funeral Home from 9:00 AM to 9:00 PM. Funeral service will be at Myers & Smith Chapel at 10:00 AM on Friday. Burial will be at Mount Memorial Park.

Jose Brito, 78, died Tuesday. Funeral service will be at Holy Trinity Catholic Church Thursday at 2:00 PM with burial at Mount Memorial Park.

Jerry R. Arrick, 77, Wednesday. Services are pending at Myers & Smith Funeral Home.

Christy Brownfield, Director of Marketing for Big Spring Center for Skilled Care, said. "They were talking about their time spent in the garden planting flowers and vegetables or working in the fields when one of the residents said, 'I sure wish I could get my hands dirty again.' and an idea sprouted." Within a short time, donations from the community made the wish come true. Johanson's Nursery donated flowers and vegetables to be planted and TJ's Steakhouse donated the potting soil. Through the organization of Zach Johnson, Michael Lindsey and Sterling Hohensee, donations of pots and supplies came from NuStar and purchases were able to be made at Baker Feed and Supply.

"Let's get our hands dirty was on everybody's mind. We encourage all residents to help in the seedling and watering daily," Brownfield said.

In addition to the planting and care by the residents, the project extends further than that. The staff also helps where they can and the community support is what truly made this activity possible.

"The seed of life. What is better than planting a seed and watching it grow?" Campos said. "The residents love planting the seeds in the soil and waiting for them to grow. They even had bets on how long it takes to sprout. There is something about how excited they are when that first stem pops

Forsan ISD held its Annual Sports Banquet this Monday night, May 17, at Trinity Baptist Church. The event celebrated all the Student-athletes and their accomplishments throughout the sports year. All the Forsan Buffalo sports teams have done a fantastic job this entire year. It was a well-deserved celebration of athletes and coaches for an elite school.

LeMahieu season-high 3 RBIs for Yankees in 7-4 win at Texas

By STEPHEN HAWKINS

AP Baseball Writer

ARLINGTON, Texas— DJ LeMahieu had a season-high three RBIs, including the tiebreaking, two-run double in New York's big inning, and the Yankees beat the Texas Rangers 7-4 on Tuesday night.

LeMahieu went the opposite way for his double down the right-field line to cap a five-run fourth that put the Yankees up 5-3. That was the first multi-RBI hit this season for LeMahieu, who added a sacrifice fly to deep center in the sixth.

"Feel like the last few days, he's getting closer to being the DJ we all know, and hopefully he's starting to roll a little bit," manager Aaron Boone

"Just a lot of really good at-bats up and down the lineup," LeMahieu said. "Everybody had a good at-bat that inning, it was good timing, they just had put up three runs. So for us to come back and put up five like we did, I thought it says a lot about our offense ."

Rougned Odor went 2 for 5 with two strikeouts against his former team in his return to the Yankees lineup after missing 12 games because of a sprained left knee. Odor, who played his first seven big league seasons in Texas, was designated for assignment at the end of spring training and then traded to New York. Texas is paying the bulk of the $27 million that was left on the second baseman's six-year contract through next

Nick Solak, now the Rangers second baseman, had a solo homer after an earlier RBI single for the first Texas run.

Wandy Peralta (3-1) worked a scoreless inning. He took over for Yankees starter Jameson Taillon after Solak's eighth homer of the season with two outs in the fifth got Texas within 5-4.

Aroldis Chapman struck out the six in the ninth for his 10th save in as many chances, the best season-opening stretch in the big left-hander's 12 big league seasons. He has 34 strikeouts and has allowed only one unearned run in his 16 appearances.

"I never expect anything in this game to be automatic. That said, he's as good as it gets right now in the game at the back end," Boone said. "He was in total control like he has been all year."

Rangers starter Mike Foltynewicz (1-4) allowed five hits and a walk in a seven-batter stretch in the fourth, and the bases were loaded when Le-Mahieu greeted reliever Kolby Allard with the two-run double. Gio Urshela and Gary Sánchez both had RBI doubles in the frame before Miguel Andújar's run-scoring single tied the game 3-3.

Adolis García had a two-run single that put Texas up 3-0 in the third. The rookie center fielder has 30 RBIs in his 34 games.

"Just that fourth inning, obviously couldn't stop the bleeding," Texas manager Chris Woodward said. "Especially after we scored three ... that's a big one we talk about with our pitchers. going out and getting us a zero right there is really important to winning the game."

ODOR'S RETURN

Odor had a single in his first at-bat in the second, then in the bottom of that frame had a nifty stop up the middle and a toss to shortstop Urshela to ignite an inning-ending double play. Odor doubled in the fifth, then in the eighth was stationed in shallow right field when he snapped former teammate Joey Gallo's hard liner for an

"It was good to have him back," Boone said. "That energy and the edge he plays the game with was certainly evident for us tonight."

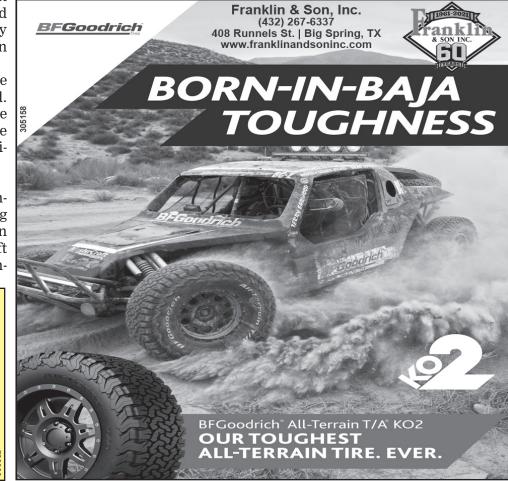

TRAINER'S ROOM

Yankees: Gary Sánchez, who was catching after being the DH in the series opener, left the game in the sixth inning because of cramping in his left hamstring.... SS Gleyber Torres could be back in the lineup as early as Wednesday after testing positive for CO-VID-19 last week. The fully vaccinated shortstop was cleared by MLB's joint committee to return. Asymptomatic vaccinated people can be cleared to return if they test negative twice. ... Boone said LHP Zach Britton's left elbow "checked out well" and was structurally sound when he saw a doctor. Britton felt soreness after throwing Saturday. Boone said he could start playing catch again Wednesday or Thursday. ... Boone said DH Giancarlo Stanton (left quad strain) had an "encouraging day" getting through more workouts in the gym and cage without any issues. UP NEXT

Corey Kluber takes the mound at the Rangers' new retractable roof stadium for the second time, this time starting for the Yankees against Texas. Kluber (3-2, 3.48 ERA) threw only one inning in his only season with the Rangers, tearing a muscle in his shoulder in his only start last July in the third game played in the $1.2 billion stadium. That scoreless inning cost the Rangers $18.5 million. Texas will likely use an opener before South Korean lefty Hyeon-Jong Yang makes his fifth MLB appearance.

The Spider

During Mark Twain's days as a newspaperman, he was the editor of a small Missouri paper.

One day, he received a letter from a subscriber stating that he had found a spider in his paper and asked if this was an omen of good or bad luck.

Twain replied, "Finding a spider in your paper is neither good nor bad luck. The spider was merely looking over our paper to see which merchant was not advertising so that he could go to that store, spin his web across the door and lead a life of undisturbed peace the game, but over the years many useful signals have been developed to help the defenders overcome declarer's natural advantage. Take this case from a national team event. Both Souths reached four spades after North had opened a weak two-bid. Both Wests led the queen of diamonds, East signaling with the ten. After taking the ace, both declarers drew trump and then led the jack of hearts.

At the table where the winning defense was found, West had discarded the diamond five on the second round of spades, and the seven and two of hearts on the next two spades. When the jack of hearts was led, West took the ace and returned the diamond three to East's king.

East was now at the crossroads. If he continued with a third diamond or cashed the ace of clubs and then reverted to diamonds after seeing West's apparently discouraging three of clubs, declarer would have made the contract, discarding his remaining loser(s) on dummy's hearts

But East had taken careful note of his partner's three discards and the diamond three return at trick seven. It all added up to the following: West had discarded the five of diamonds his original fourth-best diamond and then led the three, so he started with five diamonds and declarer with two. West had also played high-low in hearts to show an even number in that suit, which had to be four. (There would be no reason in this deal for West to signal that he had the ace of hearts, so the high-low had to be a count signal.)

South's pattern was therefore known to be 7-2-2-2. If he had the club king, four spades could not be defeated, so after taking the diamond king. East played the ace and another club to set the contract.

At the other table, where the signaling was not as precise, East tried to eash another diamond after winning the king, and declarer finished with an overtrick.

SUDOKU

Sudoku puzzles are formatted as a 9x9 grid, broken down into nine 3x3 boxes. To solve a sudoku, the numbers 1 through 9 must fill each row, column and box. Each number can appear only once in each row, column and box. You can figure out the order in which the numbers will appear by using the numeric clues already provided in the boxes. The more numbers you name, the easier it gets to solve the puzzle!

ARIES (March 21-April 19). Here comes the reshuffling of your deck of priorities, a process outside of your control, followed by the giddy anticipation as the cards are being dealt. What will you get? It matters but not as much as how you play what you get.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20). Allowing yourself to get distracted will drain your precious energy unless those distractions are so quality they inspire you. You'll know immediately. Unless you get hit by a "wow" factor, keep moving along.

GEMINI (May 21-June 21). You may not feel qualified to assume the position you are being asked to fill, but they think you have what it takes, and they're right. You'll gain skills along the way. Just say yes.

CANCER (June 22-July 22). With people around to show you how a thing is done, the plus is that you can skip over a lot of potentially embarrassing trial and error. The minus is that you won't know what you might have invented through failing on your own.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22). How deftly you'll navigate the paradox represented in this day: Now is the only moment. And yet, nothing good happens without some degree of delayed gratification.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22). You're carrying more than you know. It's like your mind has pockets you haven't checked in a while. Go through, gather up the useless and dated ideas, and then release them to the trash.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23). A person need not infringe, intrude or invade your space in any way in order to strike a chord at the very heart of you. The strings ring out with sympathetic resonance when you witness the emotional tone you know so very well.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 21). With multitudes clamoring for attention, the one who doesn't seem to want any becomes accidentally alluring. They will wonder about your private life and inner world that is so compelling that publicity is unwelcome.

SAGITTARIUS

(Nov. 22-Dec. 21). Paying attention to a problem doesn't necessarily lead to its solution. Instead, stay focused on what you want. As you keep moving toward that pretty picture, life starts to assemble it before your eyes.

RI-CORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19). You have a reputation for being extremely pable -- the kind of > person who appears in a crisis and fixes everything with brisk elan. That said, don't make it a habit to fix for the same person repeatedly: teach instead.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18). The skill of compartmentalization is a complement to so many areas of life. Just be sure, every once in a while, to remind yourself what's folded and tucked away. Today's success depends on such a check-in.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20). Your past experience matters less than the way people are experiencing you now. You will open doors with your social skills and confident demeanor.

TODAY'S BIRTH-DAY (May 20). This year's mood in one word: inspired. There's a fire in you, lit by ideas and people taking life in a dazzling direction. You give that same fire to others, just by being in pursuit of your passion. Your welcoming ways will start a new wave of social fun. A group forms and this could even develop into a team or movement. Cancer and Gemini adore you. Your lucky numbers are: 4, 25, 3, 10 and 7.

CAP-

COSMIC QUES-TION: "I helped her get the job, and then she was promoted before me. Months later, she was promoted again, and when there were cutbacks at the company, I was let go. My friend is doing better than ever, and now I'm looking for a job. I think about her every day, how well she's doing, and I seethe. How can a Pisces let go of the damage done by a Scorpio?"

Spiritual Pisces, the best way to let go is to create and execute a private anti-seething ritual. Here's one called Release and Succeed:

On one paper, make a list of words and images associated with your anger at your friend. For instance: the time you heard of her promotion -- what picture does it bring up in your mind? How did you feel? On a second page, list the qualities, approaches and methods your friend used to move up. Rip up your angry page into bits and burn them in a fire pit. Place the other list under your pillow to read before you go to sleep and when you wake up in the morning. You will use these same methods to extact the best revenge

Drinking More During Pandemic

Dear Annie: Over the course of the pandemic, my husband and I have found ourselves drinking more than we used to. We used to enjoy a glass of wine with dinner most nights, that became a second glass with dinner, and a third glass after dinner. Neither of us gets noticeably drunk. We don't drive anywhere. We don't have hangovers the next day. But I do feel like it's something I've come to look forward to each day. I am a little worried by that. Should I be? We do tend to drink on weekends, and a bit more than we do on weeknights. Sometimes, we get tipsy then, but like I said, we are safe about it and don't drive. I'm hesitant to give up our nightly ritual. What do you think? -- Sipping

Dear Sipping:

Your concern is reason enough to take a break from drinking, at the very least. If this was never a problem for you and your husband before the pandemic, then a respite might be enough to reset you back into healthy routines. But if you find your alcohol consumption creeping up again, you might want to quit drinking for good. Alcoholism is a progressive disease, and it's far easier to nip problematic drinking in the bud today than it will be in one year, five years or 10 years. To ignore the issue just because things aren't too bad right now would be akin to refusing treatment because you only have stage 1 cancer. Heed your intuition.

Dear Annie: My husband and I have a beautiful house. We love to entertain. But a constant headache for us and our quests is the fact that my neighbor has several small dogs who are constantly yapping. We cannot go out for the mail without them barking. Forget spending time outside on our patio.

Is this something we have to live with? I wonder if the neighbors are even aware of it: It seems to be an issue of the parents' not hearing the kid screaming in the restaurant while everyone around does. -- Canine Cacophony

Dear CC: You've got the right attitude: Start by assuming that your neighbors aren't even aware of the issue. Drop by their house for a friendly chat to enlighten them. If this is your first time really speaking with them, introduce yourself and spend a few minutes getting to know them.

Then segue toward the bark of the matter: "It seems that most times we go into our yard, it starts your dogs up. This is making it difficult for us to spend time outside. Would you consider keeping them inside more often -- or are there any other solutions we can help with?"

If they still need to leave their dogs outside for part of the day, propose jointly planting some privacv hedges along your property line to block the dogs' line of vision. Befriending the dogs is another good option, if they aren't physically aggressive. Ask your neighbors if you can spend some time visiting with the pups in their backyard, so they get accustomed to your scent and learn you're not a threat.

If the issue (SET ITAL)still(END ITAL) persists and your neighbors don't seem eager to resolve it, it might be time to file a formal noise complaint with the relevant body -- a homeowner's association, landlord, anima control or the police if you live in a rural area. Because the status quo isn't just stressing out you and your husband; it's stressing out the dogs.
