At its regular meeting Tuesday night, The Big Spring City Council approved an agreement with Caprock Holdings LLC for the development of a Downtown Plaza park to be located between Big Spring City Hall and the Settles Hotel.

According to the agreement which was approved by a 5-2 Council vote with Council members Nick Ornelas and Diane Yanez dissenting - the ship of land, including Johnson Street between Third and Fourth streets, between the two downtown buildings, to Caprock Holdings. In return, the company will develop and maintain the downtown park open to the public, with stage facilities for concerts and shows. The park will be open to the public during the daytime, when it is not being used for special events. G. Brint Ryan, who is responsible for several real estate development projects in Big Spring including the Settles Hotel, spoke to the council via telecommunication, describing his plans.

"The project is roughly a $4 million project. We're asking the city to contribute $1 million, both in cash and in

DAV Chapter 47 offers new scholarship in honor of veterans at Howard College - Big Spring

By AMANDA DUFORAT

Managing Editor

The DAV Chapter 47 O'Neil Kunkle has joined with Howard College to offer three $1,000 scholarships on an annual basis to veterans, children of veterans and/or grandchildren of veterans. This is the first year the scholarships are available at the Big Spring campus, with the first one-thousand dollar scholarship being awarded to Alyssa Talamantez.

"We're blessed to have a community here in West Texas that is so supportive of our Veterans," said Mike Tarpley, U.S. Army Veteran and Senior Vice Commander for DAV Chapter 47. "It's only fitting that we share that support with our community."

Talamantez is a freshman, at Howard Colleg finishing her prerequisites and will be applying to the nursing program. This scholarship will fund her finishing her prerequisites.

School is out for the summer, but meals aren't stopping. Big Spring ISD has announced the serving times and dates for the Summer Meal Program. Serving will begin as early as June 1 at the High School campus and June 7 on the Goliad campus. Serving will begin June 7 at the Junior High Campus.

"This summer Big Spring ISD will connect children 18 and younger and enrolled students with disabilities up to 21 years old with healthy, no cost meals for the summer," Judy The Big Spring ISD summer meal program is about vice Program is a U.S. Department of Agriculture nutrition program administered in the Lone Star State by the Texas Department of Agriculture (TDA). For the children who rely on school meals during the academic year, these meals offer a source of good nutrition when school is out for the long summer vacation."

She continued, "Howard County children need good nutrition year-round so they can learn, grow and succeed in life. With nearly 2 million food insecure children living in Texas, these healthy meals are vital to nourishing young Texans during the summer vacation."

Big Spring ISD is one of the non-profit organizations partnering with the TDA to serve meals across Texas. Families are encouraged to use the available tools to find a meal site in the State of Texas. Parents and families can call 2-1-1 or visit www.SummerFood. org to view an interactive map or text FOODTX or COMIDA to 877-877. The program is active where more than 50 percent of children are eligible for free or reduced-price meals in the National School Lunch Program. Eligible sponsoring organizations include schools, faith-based groups, non-kind. We estimate from the time of your approval to the time of completion is roughly 12 months. The purpose of the project is to create another venue, which I believe will be the anchor venue for downtown Big Spring. As you know, our hotel development has been very successful."

Ryan said the planned development is part of a master plan to create an entertainment district in downtown Big Spring, anchored by the Settles and the existing historic Municipal Theater.

"This is going to be a very well-appointed, wellmaintained, outside venue," he said. "We've put a lot of thought into this. We've spent a couple of years planning a design and development, and, like the hotel, it's going to be a destination, not just for citizens in Big Spring, but I think for people all around West Texas. We plan to program this space heavily. We think it's going to be a wonderful first

During his presentation, Ryan also mentioned another development project he's planning following the creation of the Downtown Plaza – renovation of the Petroleum Building.

"Our plan is to renovate this in a style very similar to what we did with the Hotel," he said. "We have about a $10 million budget, and our plan is to restore it at a National Register quality restoration into Class A office space. Interior of about 25,000 square feet, it's about a 15-month or so project. We are shovel-ready. We have the National Register approvals, we have all the drawings and architectural work completed, we have all the necessary approvals, and we are now in the contracting phase. Once we have the necessary budget, I'm going to want to come and talk to you more about this proj-

In other business, the council voted 6-1 – with Councilwoman Gloria McDonald dissenting – to rename a pavilion in ABC Park in honor of P.J. "The D.J." Dominguez. The pavilion will be known as "P.J. The D.J. Pavilion."

Another measure would have named a new park/ equestrian trail along Northeast First Street near Beals Creek after former City Councilman and Howard County Commissioner Oscar Garcia, who died in October 2020. The measure received positive votes from Mayor Shannon Thomason, and Council Members Gloria McDonald and Maury Smith. Councilman Troy Tompkins abstained, and Council Members Nick Ornelas, Diane Yanez and Cody Hughes voted against the measure.

The council also discussed the means of distributing information to Big Spring residents in District 1 regarding the changeover process from dumpsters to rollout containers for garbage collection.

"Big Spring ISD is committed to making sure no school in the fall ready to thrive," she said.

District 1 Councilman Nick Ornelas said he's gotten several calls asking him about the changeover to the new containers.

"People are calling me on a weekly basis asking me about the rollouts," Ornelas said. "We had no notification, no nothing. People are still calling me asking about the rollouts."

Public Works Director Shane Bowles said he had directed city employees to visit residents of the area, and to leave doorhanger flyers at homes where no one answered the door. Ornelas said several people informed him they never received the A sample flyer, distributed to media at the City Council meeting, lists reported benefits of rollout trash cans, such as a "cleaner, healthier environment for residents" and "creates a uniform, professional look in the City." The flyer also describes the parts of the rollout containers referencing a diagram of a sample container, and how trash collection via rollout containers works. The Herald will run a more detailed story regarding the planned switchover to rollout containers in District 1 in the near future. During Tuesday's meeting, Bowles said the city has received two complaints regarding the planned switchover. Ornelas said many more of his constituents have complained about the issue to him personally.

"I let them know that I was elected to be their representative, so they call me, and they have that trust in me," Ornelas said. "When they have issues, they call me."

Mayor Thomason directed city staff bring a budget amendment proposal to the next city council meeting to cover mail-out notifications regarding the planned new garbage containers in District 1.

The council also discussed the lagging completion of the new radio system for city and county emergency personnel and public works personnel. The city has so far spent about $1.2 million on the project, while their total commitment to the new system is about $1.7 million.

"This has been an ongoing situation," Mayor Thomason said. "The city entered an interlocal agreement with Howard County in June of 2018 to upgrade our radio systems to post-911 standards. So yeah. We're looking at almost three years now."

Big Spring Fire Chief Craig Ferguson reported none of his fire trucks nor firefighters have access to any of the new radios yet.

Big Spring Police Chief Chad Williams reported that the police have the new portable radios, but none of the planned new mobile radios currently. Furthermore, Williams reported that the city has not yet switched over to the more reliable digital radio communications as planned.

Thomason said that Howard County has taken the lead in the negotiations with provider Harris

Radio Systems.

The council directed City Attorney Andrew Hagen to discuss the issue and appropriate steps with County Attorney Josh Hamby.

In other business, Councilman Nick Ornelas requested an item barring the city manager from delegating the creation or revision of the City Council's meeting agenda to the Mayor.

Ornelas said he asked the city manager to place an item on the agenda, and it wasn't included.

"There wasn't a courtesy...my item was not going to be on the agenda," Ornelas said. Ornelas said that City Manager Todd Darden called him and told him the Mayor said the item had missed the deadline and would not be placed on the agenda. "I asked him 'Does the Mayor work on the agenda?' I know that was taken away from him sometime last year," Ornelas said. "I need to make sure

Big Spring Steers open up Football camp

Herald Photos/ Dustin Pope The Big Spring Steers Football team kicked off its summer Football camp Tuesday morning at Memorial Field. About 40 participants, ages were ranging from first to sixth grade. The event was put on by most of the Steer Football Coaching staff headed by Head Coach Cannon McWilliams. The Camp is an excellent way for these young campers to know the basics of football and learn basic teamwork drills. The Camp will continue through Thursday morning.

Ohtani hits 15th HR in 6-run 4th, Angels defeat Rangers 11-5

By JOE REEDY

AP Sports Writer

ANAHEIM, Calif.— Shohei Ohtani hit his 15th homer during a six-run burst, Andrew Heaney got his first win in seven weeks and the Los Angeles Angels beat the Texas Rangers 11-5 Tuesday night.

Ohtani scorched a cutter by Brett de Geus down the right-field line for a three-run shot to give the Angels a 9-1 lead in the fourth inning.

The ball had a 117 mph exit velocity off Ohtani's bat — the hardest-hit homer by an Angels player since MLB Statcast started in 2015.

"I would assume for us mortals it is merely impossible. But Shohei plays by his own rules," said Jared Walsh, who also homered for the Angels. "Nothing he does surprises me at this point. Every day it is something new."

Ohtani is one behind Toronto's Vladimir Guerrero Jr. for the major league lead in home runs.

"It was hit hard enough that it didn't have time to hook. It had a nice little baby draw to stay fair," Angels manager Joe Maddon said. "Every swing he takes right now he looks like he can hit it over 100 miles per hour. He is focused and it is not surprising us from the bench."

Justin Upton gave the Angels their seventh game this season when they homered at least three times. Upton had his first career leadoff homer and Walsh added a two-run shot in the second inning that narrowly cleared the short wall in right.

Walsh had two hits and three RBIs while Upton added two hits and two RBIs as the Angels matched their highest-scoring game of the season. "I think Upton set the tone hitting it hard into the bullpen on the first at-bat, and we continued to have quality at bats from there," said Walsh, who is fourth in the AL with a .321 batting average and has gone deep three times in his last four games.

Texas rookie Adolis García — who also has 15 home runs — continued his hot May with a two-run drive in the sixth. He's hit 10 homers this month, including four in four games.

Heaney (2-3) went 5 2/3 innings and allowed three runs on four hits. The right-hander — who got his first victory since April 9 against Toronto — did not allow a hit until the fourth inning. He had four walks, including one to Nick Solak in the fourth that led to Texas' first run, and five strikeouts.

"Anytime you get spotted those runs it makes it easier. I was good early but not as good later on," Heaney said.

Texas starter Hyeon-jong Yang (0-2) had allowed two or fewer runs in his first two major league starts, but struggled in his first matchup against a team that had previously seen him.

The 33-year old Korean left-hander, who gave up two runs in 4 1/3 innings of relief in his big league debut on April 26 against the Angels, retired the side in order just once in his 3 1/3 innings. He was tagged for seven runs on five hits with three walks.

"His command was a little off. None of this pitchers were effective and he got in trouble right away," Rangers manager Chris Woodward said. "Once they jumped ahead by quite a bit we couldn't fight our way back."

WEB GEMS

Both right fielders made diving catches to prevent hits. Los Angeles' Taylor Ward snagged a sinking liner by David Dahl during the second inning. Dahl then returned the favor in the fifth inning when he made a sliding grab on a ball hit by Ward.

RECORD BOOKS

Garcia's 10 homers in May are tied for the most by a rookie in a calendar month in Rangers history (Dave Hostetler also had 10 in June 1982). His 15 to this point are second by a Texas rookie before the All-Star break, trailing only Pete Incaviglia's 16 in

Rangers: Dahl left the game with rib cage soreness after running into the wall in foul ground during the seventh inning. ... Kolby Allard could start Thursday's game at Seattle after Kyle Gibson was placed on the injured list due to a right groin strain.

week. UP NEXT

The Angels wrap up their 10-game homestand with an afternoon game. Los Angeles right-hander Griffin Canning (3-3, 5.56 ERA) is 1-2 in four games (three starts) against Texas. Rangers right-hander Dane Dunning (2-3, 3.74 ERA) leads AL rookies in strikeouts with 48.

Rangers put top starter Gibson on 10-day DL with groin issue

ANAHEIM, Calif. — The Texas Rangers placed righthander Kyle Gibson on the 10-day injured list Tuesday because of a right groin strain that their top starter had been dealing with for several games.

The move was retroactive to Saturday, the day after Gibson (3-0, 2.24 in MLB-high 10 starts) made his last start.

Right-handed reliever Hunter Wood was also put on the injured list with right elbow discomfort. Left-hander Wes Benjamin and right-hander Demarcus Evans were recalled from Triple-A Round Rock.

Manager Chris Woodward said he didn't anticipate Gibson being out too long. His next start could be June 4 against Tampa Bay, when the Rangers return home after their nine-game road trip that started Tuesday night against the Los Angeles Angels.

102 E. 10th St.

"It's not that big of an issue. It's just probably miss one start," Woodward said. "It'll be basically just skipping a start, and then moving him back a couple of days for his next one."

Gibson would be eligible to come off the injured list June 1, the day the Rangers open a three-game interleague series at Colorado. But Woodward said it wouldn't make a lot of sense for Gibson to come off an injury and pitch in a National League game in his first game back, and have to bat.

SUDOKU

Here's How It Works:

Sudoku puzzles are formatted as a 9x9 grid, broken down into nine 3x3 boxes. To solve a sudoku, the numbers 1 through 9 must fill each row, column and box. Each number can appear only once in each row, column and box. You can figure out the order in which the numbers will appear by using the numeric clues already provided in the boxes. The more numbers you name, the easier it gets to solve the puzzle!

Dear Annie: I am a doctor and have a friend whom I see at medical conferences once or twice a year. We first met five years ago, and we get along great, especially because there was a time when we female doctors were rare. However, our friendship is very casual, and I don't really consider her a close friend. I just think of her as someone I enjoy hanging out with during the conferences.

The problem is that when I sent her an email suggesting we get together for our usual luncheon on the opening day of the conference, she never replied. I'm not sure whether I offended her, though I honestly can't think of anything I did that could have made her upset. I'll admit that my feelings are hurt, and I'm even thinking about not going to the next conference, but then I think that's silly. I am writing to see whether you have any

ing My Head

suggestions. -- Scratch-

Dear Scratching:

You should pick up the phone and call her. It is possible she never even saw your email. If she did, I'm sure there is a reasonable explanation for why she didn't reply. If, for some reason, you did offend her, she can explain that to you, and you can decide whether to apologize or, if you think she's wrong, look for a new luncheon partner at your conferences.

Dear Annie: I am disheartened by the letters I read about individuals who are suffering from hearing loss and refuse to seek assistance. When I incurred the trauma of going deaf, I was sure my situation was hopeless. My hearing aids were useless, and I was not a candidate for the surgical interventions that have given many others the ability to hear. I could not have been more wrong in my belief that I would never hear again. With the patient assistance of a doctor of audiology and my ENT specialist, I can now function reasonably well. The

advances in technology

are remarkable.

To the hearing-impaired individual, I would say, "Be patient." It takes time to adjust. At first, the "new" sounds you hear may seem annoying, but they were part of your life prior to your hearing loss. Secondly, be sure to see a well-regarded ENT specialist and a qualified audiologist. They can offer options that far exceed what most people know to exist.

Of equal importance is the understanding of family and friends. Mine make sure they have my attention before speaking to me. They don't begin talking while walking away or not facing me. They make allowances for my seating at a table or in a room, knowing that having a wall behind me -- so light will illuminate their faces -- is a big help. On the phone, they speak slowly and clearly, especially when leaving a voice message.

Being hard of hearing

is a challenge for both the affected individuals and those with whom effort by all involved. In my opinion, it is selfish for the hearing-impaired to not endeavor to maximize their hearing with whatever works for them. It is equally selfish for their family and friends to not attempt to accommodate the additional considerations that may help. They are cheating themselves and their family and friends of fuller and richer interactions. I am blessed to have a superb "hearing team" and an understanding group of family and friends, but I took the effort to get help and to educate others about my specific needs. -- T.L. Wagner people killed by distracted driving in 2019.

(NHTSA)

The National Safety Council reports that cell phone use while driving leads to

crashes each year. (NSC)

Texting while driving is more likely to cause an accident than drinking and driving.

(arrivealivetour.com)

of the people who died in crashes involving a distracted driver in 2018 were not in vehicles-they were walking, riding bikes or outside of a vehicle.

(CDC.gov)

9 % of fatal crashes,

of injury crashes and of all police-reported traffic crashes in 2019 were due to distracted driving.

(NHTSA)

Nearly

injuries occur each ear from accidents caused by texting while driving.

(NHTSA)

In 2019, there were people injured in motor vehicle crashes involving distracted drivers (NHTSA)

Every day,

people will die from the results of distracted driving, while texting & driving is the main culprit.
