Community responds to BSISD Public Forum held Monday night

By ROGER CLINE

About 50 people attended a public forum hosted by the Big Spring ISD at Big Spring High School Monday night. The meeting's purpose was give local citizens a chance to offer input on the district's plans for the third installment of the Elementary and Secondary School Emergency Relief (ESSER III) grant.

During the presentation, Superintendent Jay McWilliams said the district will receive $9,619,918 from the federal government as a result of the grant. Two-thirds of that amount – or $6,413,321 – is currently available, while the remaining 1/3 will be available once the federal government has approved the State of Texas' plan for disbursement of the funds.

The district recently received funds from the ESSER II grant in the amount of $4,283,433, McWilliams said. The grant was approved April 28 but the district received the funds last week, he added.

"This is what was released last Thursday. We have not even dove in yet to the guidelines, because Ms. (Debbie) Park is up to here right now in ESSER III," McWilliams said.

The district also received $907,547 last year from the ESSER I grant.

"The funding for this grant was based on our Title I funding," McWilliams said. "We've already received that money and have already used a large majority of that money."

In a PowerPoint presentation at the meeting, McWilliams presented the allowable uses for the ESSER III grant. Those include funding for:

- Coordination of preparedness and situations;

- Purchasing educational technology, including hardware, software and connectivity, for students that aids in educational interaction between students and teachers. This includes low-income students and students with disabilities, and may include assistive technology or adaptive equipment.

- Mental health services and supports;

- Summer learning, including summer classroom instruction or online learning during summer months, and supplementary after school programs, especially for low-income students, students with disabilities, English learners, racial and ethnic minorities, students experiencing homelessness, and foster care youth;

- Repairs and improvements to school facilities to reduce the risk of coronavirus transmission and exposure to environmental health hazards;

- Improvements to air quality in school facilities, including inspection, testing, repair, replacement, and upgrades to mechanical and non-mechanical heating, ventilation and air-conditioning systems, filtering, purification, and other air cleaning, fans, control systems and window and door repair and replacement;

- Developing strategies and implementing public health protocols including, to the greatest extent practicable, policies in line with CDC guidelines;

response efforts to the coronavirus with the state and local health departments;

Shopping extravaganza highlighting local business

By AMANDA DUFORAT
 Managing Editor

Let's all go shopping! Summer has arrived; school is out and local boutiques and shops are open, and businesses are starting to get back to normal. Keeping in stride with the summer tradition, the Big Spring Area Chamber of Commerce is once again partnering with 10 local boutiques to host the 2021 Summer Shopping Extravaganza.

"Our small businesses are an important piece of our community, and we want to do what we can to support them," Debbye ValVerde, Big Spring Area Chamber of Commerce Executive Director, said. "This summer shopping event is a way to show our small businesses that we are here to support them, especially after the last year."

The Big Spring Area Chamber of Commerce has joined forces with local boutiques to host a shopping opportunity supporting local businesses this Thursday. Whether you want to do some shopping in Downtown Big Spring – where five of the participating boutiques are located. Those wanting to do a little bit of shopping for their home décor, or possibly even purchase a special gift or send some flowers, will have a chance to do that as well.

"The boutiques that are opening their doors for the Summer Shopping Extravaganza are excited to welcome the community back in. This is a great opportunity to visit places in town you may not have before and meet new staff in the process," ValVerde said. "This is the first of our shopping events this summer. Our business owners are going to be staying open later than normal for this event and with the rodeo right around the corner this is a great opportunity to find that rodeo outfit."

However, if your outfit is already picked out, there is still an opportunity to search for new home décor.

"The best thing about Summer Shopping Extravaganza is it's an opportunity to get out and support local business," ValVerde said. "This is an opportunity to find out what is right here. The majority of the businesses participating are owned by families who live right here in Howard County, Big Spring, Forsan and Coahoma. By supporting local business we are supporting Big Spring, but we are supporting our neighbors and our friends."

Budget amendments, turf replacement topping BSISD Thursday Board Meeting agenda

By ROGER CLINE
 Herald Staff Writer

The Big Spring ISD board of trustees will consider a $150,000 budget amendment and expenditure for replacement of turf at Memorial Stadium when it meets Thursday evening. The board will meet at 5:15 p.m. Thursday in the board room at Big Spring High School, 707 E. 11th Place.

In addition to consideration of approval of the stadium turf, the board will hold a public hearing on ESSER III funding and a budget workshop for 2021-22. The school district held a discussion meeting Monday evening regarding the federal coronavirus-related funding.

In other business, the board will consider approval of various donations and consider an interlocal agreement with 1 Government Procurement Alliance for cooperative purchasing services.

The board will also consider approval of Year 5 of its current five-year contract with Aramark, the company that provides dining services for the district.

Five tax properties are up for possible sale by Texas Communities Group, and the board will consider approval of the sale. The properties include 1303 Mesquite to Frank Rodriguez for $4,000; 309 Sgt. Paredez to Ruben V. Gamboa Jr. for $2,500; 105 N.E. Third St. and 707 W. Seventh St. to Joanna Aguirre for $3,000 each; and 203 N.E. Eighth St. to Juan Carlos Murillo for $2,500.

The board will also consider personnel issues and hear Superintendent Jay McWilliam's report on employment, resignations and retirements; his COVID-19 update, and other district updates.

Following McWilliams report, the meeting will be adjourned.

The requirements also include setting aside at least 20 percent of the grant award to mitigate learning loss due to the coronavirus-related school closure in 2020.

McWilliams presented an rough initial budget prepared by school staff for use of the money. The budget would dedicate $5 million to air quality upgrades across all district campuses; $2 million to academic interventions and trainings; $500,000 to hiring additional technology personnel; $479,000 to retention bonuses for district personnel who remained with the district through the coronavirus pandemic; and $1.5 million to security including keyless access and cameras.

Those items total $9,479,000, leaving $140,918 remaining from the grant.

Questions raised during the meeting addressed ductwork and copper in the district's HVAC systems. Director of Auxiliary Services John Sparks said those items are included in the planned air quality upgrades.

Tracie Moss, theater teacher at Big Spring High School, asked about the possibility of using part of the money to upgrade or improve the school's theater.

"You know where I am. I'm wondering about the facilities. You know what I'm thinking," she said. "I was just wondering. I could use about $500,000 over there."

"I could use about a million about every other year," McWilliams joked in response. "I wish I could say 'yes', but I will tell you this: That's going to help with next year's budget, and that is on the radar. Your deal, as well as, there are a couple of other things on the radar that we're working on, or we will be working on, if we can save money here that we can use next year on something else."

Moss said lighting and sound equipment are the most urgent things in the school's theater.

"What I'm looking at is lighting and sound replacement, because we really don't have anything," she said. "Kids have to train on that to do UIL because they have to run it. It's training them in a technological field."

Assistant Superintendent Dr. Raemi Thompson, fielded a question about whether the money could be used to purchase electronic textbooks.

"A lot of our programs all have digital access, so it just depends," she said. "Some people still like a physical book to touch and read, but all of our programs have digital access. Some are tired of being in front of a screen. Some of our teachers – we're screened out. We'd love to have people. (Mr. McWilliams) talked about paying for tutors...we need people to help kids."

Another question asked about extra help for students who missed out on reading instruction during the COVID shutdown.

"They're having a little bit of trouble reading because they didn't get the reading lessons," the questioner asked, who said her son is in second grade. "I mean there are kindergartners this year that I saw who can read almost as well as, or perhaps better than my son sometimes. So do you have a plan for those kids as well."

"That's a great feedback," Thompson said. "I probably don't have a plan available to address those. I would have you contact your campus principal, though, and find out what programs we might have available for the summer. I'm going to write that down and make a note of that, to provide some enrichment activities."

McWilliams said he will present information from Monday evening's forum to the Big Spring ISD school board when it meets Thursday evening.

SHOP

In addition to the extended business hours – each shop staying open until 8 p.m. - there will be door prize opportunities, food and refreshments and more available throughout the night.

"We just want to encourage the community to get out and see what our town has to offer. For the most part, when it comes to looking for a gift idea or finding a little retail therapy, there is no need for us to travel outside of town. We are lucky to have these locally owned businesses providing quality products, but we need to support them, just like any other industry," ValVerde said.

Home Country: Visiting with Mamie in her yard

Slim Randles

It was sure nice, Windy thought. Just sitting out here in Mamie's yard with my dog, Ramses, and some refreshments Mamie brought out that did not include raw meat or vegetables no one could pronounce. "Don't that there sun feel good, Mamie?" She smiled and nodded and drank more tea. "Afore you know it, them ol' bears'll be out and wrasslin' around fer somethin' to eat. Gotta be careful in the woods, ya know. Take a rifle along. What? Oh, a thirty-ought six should be plenty, I'm thinkin'. 'Course ya hafta place yer shot right. Nothin' worse than a wounded bear."

Mamie thought something less than killing the bear should work right.

"Well, Mamie," said Windy, "there's two schoolers of thought on that one and one of 'em's wrong. Ya see, the hippy dippy folks carry a spray 'em can of pepper juice with 'em in the woods. And they wear these here little bells on their belt loops."

Mamie smiled and nodded. "The idear bein' that little bell a dingie-dongin' 'round will tell the bear, hey, thass a hooman bein' and you better watch out cuz he's smarter'n you are. But les' jest say that ol' bear's got hisself a hearin' problem and that bell don't mean nothin' to him. Wellsir, thass where that danged pepper spray comes in handy. Yep, ol' Organic Woodsman hisself pulls out that can and jest lets her rip right in the bear's face. I'll jest bet that smarts somethin' awful, too.

"But later, you know, when they're trackin' that bear down, he makes hisself easy to tell from other bears, cuz his poop smells like pepper and its got little bells in it.

"Yep. Thirty-ought six should be enough."

The Postscript by Carrie Classon

"The Homes of Dead People"

A cousin of mine reportedly said, "I can't imagine living in a house where other people have lived!"

I don't know if she really said this, as I heard the story secondhand.

But it stuck in my mind because every home I've owned has been lived in by other people, and a few people have died in them as well. So far, this has not bothered me in the least.

I'm used to living in the homes of dead people.

The first house I bought was owned by a woman named Ruby. She was still living when I bought it, but she wasn't doing very well. She had outlived two husbands in the house, so I suppose there's a better-than-even chance at least one of them died there.

Ruby finally had to move to a nursing home after she showed up at the neighbor's door a few times without clothes. As she had no children, the responsibility for finding her more suitable accommodations fell to her niece. I have no children, so I expect my niece, Isabelle, might be performing this duty for me sometime in the future.

(She recently turned 18 and has that to look forward to.)

My only other real home is the one I've been living in with my husband, Peter. The neighbors say "three witches" lived in the house before the man we bought it from. I don't know if this is true, and no one seems to know much about them.

But now we are moving into a new condo, and I know much more about it because it had only had one other resident. Her name was Elizabeth and, like Ruby, she lived there alone, although unlike Ruby, there is no record of any husbands, dead or alive.

Elizabeth bought the condo when it was built, more than 40 years ago, and she died in it. I know this because I looked up her obituary, and it said she "died at home," so I have to suppose she died in the home we now own.

Elizabeth seems like a lovely person, judging from her obituary. Of course, most people sound nice in their obituaries.

I'm going to have to ask Isabelle to say something nice about me when she gets around to writing mine. (A person doesn't turn 18 without acquiring some responsibilities.)

I've been thinking about Ruby and Elizabeth as Peter and I work to renovate this new condo. The walls had been painted and some new flooring put in, but pretty much everything else was as Elizabeth left it. The appliances are old. We've already replaced the countertop and had the cabinets repainted and put in shiny new sinks. I don't think Elizabeth would recognize the place. But I hope she'd be pleased.

Because, unlike my cousin, I very much like the idea of Elizabeth living in my home before me. I like that she was so happy here that she never chose to leave. I'm glad she didn't show up at the neighbor's naked and have to find another home. (Although I don't know this for sure. It's possible she just didn't have a dutiful niece like Ruby did and I do.)

And even without the yellowing 1980s bath fixtures and the chipped countertop, I would like to think there is a little of Elizabeth around. It makes me feel as if I have an invisible friend, looking at the same sun shining in the same windows, seeing the same view, living our overlapping lives without ever getting the chance to meet.

Till next time,
Carrie

Autopsy: Texas boy's cause of death ruled a homicide

HOUSTON (AP) — A 5-year-old Houston boy whose body authorities say was kept hidden in a storage unit before being discovered in an East Texas motel has been officially identified and his cause of death has been ruled a homicide, authorities said Tuesday.

The identity of Samuel Olson was confirmed following an autopsy conducted by the Harris County Institute of Forensic Sciences in Houston.

"The cause of his death is homicidal violence with blunt head trauma," the institute, which conducts all autopsies in the county, said in an email. The institute did not provide additional details on the boy's death and a spokeswoman didn't immediately return an email seeking comment.

Theresa Raye Balboa, 29, who was the girlfriend of Samuel's father, has been charged with tampering with evidence, a human corpse.

Prosecutors have said they plan to file additional charges against Balboa. Andrea Beall with the Harris County District Attorney's Office said during a court hearing Monday that a murder investigation is pending.

Bob Scott, Balboa's attorney, declined to comment Tuesday. Balboa is jailed on bonds totaling $600,000.

Samuel's body was found June 1 inside a plastic tote in a motel in Jasper, about 135 miles (215 kilometers) northeast of Houston. Prosecutors have said Balboa was on her way to Louisiana.

Police believe Samuel died weeks before he was reported missing on May 27, according to an arrest affidavit. He would have turned 6 on May 29.

Balboa initially accused Samuel's mother and a man who presented himself as a police officer of taking the boy. Samuel had been living with Balboa since April 30, which was the last day he was seen at school. Authorities have not said why Samuel was staying with Balboa. Samuel's father, Dalton Olson, lived at a different address.

Samuel's parents had been involved in a custody battle over the boy after filing for divorce in January 2020.

Balboa's roommate told investigators that Balboa called him May 10 and said the boy was dead, according to the arrest affidavit. The boy's body was kept in the bathtub of the suburban Houston apartment where Balboa lived until she and her roommate placed it in a plastic tote and hid it in a storage unit on May 13, police said.

A tip from a friend of Balboa led police to the motel room in Jasper, where officers found her and the plastic tote with the boy's body.

Spacecraft buzzes Jupiter's mega moon, 1st close-up in years

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) — NASA's Juno spacecraft has provided the first close-ups of Jupiter's largest moon in two decades.

Juno zoomed past icy Ganymede on Monday, passing within 645 miles (1,038 kilometers). The last time a spacecraft came that close was in 2000 when NASA's Galileo spacecraft swept past our solar system's biggest moon.

NASA released Juno's first two pictures Tuesday, highlighting Ganymede's craters and long, narrow features possibly related to tectonic faults. One shows the moon's far side, opposite the sun.

"This is the closest any spacecraft has come to this mammoth moon in a generation," said Juno's lead scientist, Scott Bolton of the Southwest Research Institute in San Antonio. "We are going to take our time before we draw any scientific conclusions, but until then we can simply marvel at this celestial wonder — the only moon in our solar system bigger than the planet Mercury."

Cowboys Corner: Talking OTA, and the start of Mini-Camps for the upcoming season

By DUSTIN POPE

Herald Sports Writer

Welcome back to Cowboys Corner where we talk everything and anything Dallas Cowboys. Today I want to concentrate on introducing OTA's, the previous mini Rookie camp and just a few random thoughts I have on this squad, and maybe some under the radar players for next season.

OTA's (Organized Team Activities) have begun for the NFL. Basically, these are just early practices with the new rookies and a chance for some veterans to get on the field for the first time together for the season. So apparently I'm not cool enough to get that invite to the OTA practices, but I know a few guys who are there so I'm going off of their conclusions. Ok so the significant story is starting QB Dak Prescott was back on the field for the first time since the season ending injury on October 11 against the New York Giants. Now 225 days later the resilient QB was back on the field going through drills and likewise taking part in 7 on 7 drills. From speaking to the buddies who were there and examining some of the footage, Prescott looks pretty good for a guy who had a gruesome season ending injury. While the Cowboys are undoubtedly continuing to take it easy with how much Prescott will take part in any team activities this off season. All reports are it was a major first step on a long journey back.

Damontae Kazee was another participant that captured a few people's attention this week. Kazee is a guy who has played for new defensive coordinator Dan Quinn in Atlanta. In the 2020 season Kazee suffered a ruptured Achilles Tendon and sat out the rest of that season. Kazee can be that ball hawking safety the Cowboys have been missing for a while now. In the 2018 season he had seven interceptions on the season. It has been a tough last seven months for Kazee who was in the last year of his four-year rookie deal when he ruptured his Achilles. The injury prompted a lot of skepticism for him heading into free agency. With an uncharted future ahead of him and months of rehab in his path, Kazee got right to work with his rehab and now it shows. The safety took most of the starting snaps at the position and showed the ability to change directions quickly as well as his speed using good angles to get to the ball. The Cowboys got a bunch of heat for not addressing the need for safety in the draft, but after communicating to the guys who watched him maybe this was a glimpse of why they didn't. Maybe the Cowboys front office believe a healthy Kazee will be a starter for seasons to come.

Bradlee Anae looks to have packed on some pounds during the off season. With the size gain, he looked way more explosive and a lot stronger. He displayed several pass rushing moves he has been working on. Another trait that was pointed out was his balance off the line. Last year Anae struggled to get off the first block to cause any disruption. The Defensive lineman will look to improve his all around game and be a staple of this improved defensive unit. Anae was a fifth round pick for the Cowboys in the 2020 draft. I thought this guy was a steal where they got him, but last year the DE struggled to adjust to the pro game. His lack of size and hand fighting skills kept him off the field for the most part. Having addressed his flaws this could be a breakout season for the fifth round pick out of Utah.

Free agent signing Brent Urban also looked good in the early practices. Urban is entering his seventh year in the NFL and this is his first as a Cowboy. The former fourth round pick by the Baltimore Ravens came over as a under the radar signing for Dallas this off season. Urban has had a solid career to this point. His size and stature will be a presence for the Defensive line. He plays with an excellent base and good footwork; He uses the club move effectively and also seems to have a wonderful change of direction. With his good size he can get leverage and shed block to get to the ball effectively. I think Urban will be an adequate addition to the teams defensive line.

Another guy who is being counted out is CB Anthony Brown. In the 7 on 7 drills Brown lined up opposite of second-year corner back Trevon Diggs. I was told Brown looked comfortable driving on receivers and displayed an exceptional base in his back pedal that allowed him to jump several routes. Brown also displayed the ability to shade receivers taking away the inside move all along maintaining outside leverage. Brown had a rib injury last year that limited his ability to extend and get a good punch on the receiver at the line of scrimmage. Now fully healthy, his punch seems to be back. With Brown it could come down to a numbers game on whether he will make this team. The Cowboys drafted Kelvin Joseph in the second round and added some other CB who will factor in if he makes this team. So far all accounts are that he may be playing for his job and so far it looks like Brown has risen to the challenge.

From one corner back to another Jourdan Lewis hopes to have found a roll as a slot corner on this team after they resigned him to a three-year deal worth 16.5 million. Lewis is entering his fifth season as a Cowboy they took him in the third round of the 2017 NFL draft. While Lewis is not the prototypical Dan Quinn CB because of his size the guy has excellent coverage ability and will not shy away as a tackler. One of the key attributes that Lewis has is he a tough guy. Lewis tested the receivers by Clawing pushing and bumping receivers off their routes. Lewis made it a fight for a receiver on every single yard. He does a good job at getting under the receiver's skin by persistent pressure and being pesky at the line. One thing about Lewis is he is a competitor on every play.

Donovan Wilson is a player I am eager to look at this year, The former Texas A&M product showed moments of playmaking ability last season. With his ability to attack and be the hard-hitting safety the Cowboys have lacked for years I believe the future could be bright for Wilson. It does not scare the safety to put his helmet on guy and he has explosive power when he engages in tackling. In 14 games last season he showed a knack of putting himself in the proper position to make plays. Wilson finished the season with 71 total tackles, 3.5 sacks, two tackles for loss, three passes defended, two interceptions, three forced fumbles and three QB hits. He does lack of coverage skills from time to time, but with the addition of Kazee he should be freed up to do what he does best, line up in the box and cause disruption, by blitzing and attack the running back. If you look at his numbers almost every time he was allowed to blitz the guy made something happen. I expect under Dan Quinn he will get plenty of more chances to blitz this season. While there is no guarantee that Wilson wins the starting job, I believe he has earned the right at the first shot at being the starter. With him and Kazee playing the safety positions and second year CB Trevon Diggs paired with whoever wins that second corner back position, the Cowboys secondary should be much improved this season.

So there a few of the players that were pointed out to me that caught some attention at these OTA's. While OTA's can be overblown from time to time, it can be a good gauge at who has been investing in the work this off season.

Tauchman slam, Crawford 2 HRs as S.F. Giants beat Texas Rangers 9-4

By STEPHEN HAWKINS

AP Baseball Writer

ARLINGTON, Texas— Brandon Crawford was in for a special night just by taking the field at shortstop for the San Francisco Giants. His two home runs and a big slam by Mike Tauchman just made the planned postgame champagne toast even sweeter.

Tauchman hit a go-ahead grand slam and the two homers by Crawford, who set the Giants' franchise record for most games as a shortstop in San Francisco's 9-4 win over the slumping Texas Rangers on Tuesday night.

"One of the cooler accomplishments of my career," Crawford said. "Growing up a Giants fan, and seeing so many great shortstops come through the organization, and be able to pass a Hall of Famer, it's a very cool accomplishment."

Crawford hit a three-run homer in the ninth after his tiebreaking solo shot in the sixth inning of his 1,326th game at shortstop, which broke a tie with Hall of Famer Travis Jackson, a shortstop in 1,325 games for the New York Giants from 1922-36.

Since his big league debut with the Giants in 2011, Crawford has been a three-time Gold Glove winner, a two-time All-Star and part of two World Series titles early in his career.

Manager Gabe Kapler said the latest milestone "is right up there with any of them, and one that I think he deserves to be proud of. And to have a night like he had tonight, both on defense and then at the plate. It just was a true performance and really enjoyable to watch for everybody in the dugout."

Tauchman's first career slam came with two outs in the eighth inning to put the Giants in front for the third and final time. San Francisco, whose 38-22 record is the best in baseball, had loaded the bases with a hit and two walks off Joely Rodriguez (1-3).

Josh Sborz got an out before Tauchman, with only six hits and 16 strikeouts over his previous 44 at-bats in an 18-game span, pulled a 3-1 liner into the first row of seats near the right field corner.

It was the first grand slam by a Giants batter in the eighth inning or later when trailing by multiple runs since July 1980.

"(Tauchman) has really good at-bats. He swings at the appropriate pitches, he only attacks pitches that he feels like he can drive," Kapler said. "He hasn't been rewarded for that very often since he's been a Giant. ... I thought he grinded and prepared for that moment, and then showed up in a big way."

Joey Gallo homered for Texas before leaving the game in the eighth as a precaution because of right groin tightness. The Gold Glove right fielder also threw out a runner at the plate for the Rangers, who lost for the 12th time in 13 games.

Jose Alvarez (2-1), the fourth of six Giants pitchers, retired the only two batters he faced to end the seventh.

Crawford's 13th homer of the season put the Giants up 2-1 in the sixth, but the Rangers scored three times in the bottom of the inning. Adolis Garcia had an one-out RBI double that chased starter Alex Wood before Nick Solak went to a knee to pull a two-run double into left field for a 4-2 lead.

Wood benefited from four double plays in the first five innings but has gone four starts without a win since opening 5-0 through his first six games for the Giants after signing as a free agent in January.

Texas starter Jordan Lyles threw a season-high 100 pitches while allowing two runs (one earned) over six innings.

"It's a tough loss. We've got a lot of young guys in the bullpen that are learning right now," Texas manager Chris Woodward said. "They have pitched well at times. They've had to probably pitch in bigger roles than we would like at times. ... They've got to learn from it."

RANGERS WOES

It was the second game in a row the Rangers lost while giving up seven runs over the final two innings. ... Texas is 0-9 vs. NL teams this season and has lost 13 consecutive interleague games, the longest such stretch in club history.

TRAINER'S ROOM

Giants: Alex Dickerson, who started at DH, was lifted for a pinch-hitter in the third inning because of back tightness. Dickerson appeared to be in discomfort after swinging at strike three in his only at-bat. ... 1B Brandon Belt was reinstated from the 10-day injured list after missing 11 games with a left oblique strain. He walked and scored on an error in the second, and later added three singles.

Rangers: OF David Dahl, who has been out since May 26 because of a bruised left rib cage, has since experienced mid-upper back discomfort.

Annie's Mailbox

Distant Daughters-in-Law

Dear Annie: For years, I have tried to have a relationship with my two daughters-in-law, and at some point, I finally gave up. Now, when we get together, the family gatherings are not horrible. But at best, they are superficial.

cone of silence.

When the holiday or event is over, then it's goodbye with a kiss and a hug and out the door until the next major birthday or holiday. I have, in the early years, tried to meet them for lunch -- on my dime -- or go shopping, but they have always respectfully declined.

It is very difficult to have conversations when they text nearly the entire time -- which I never address -- or converse back and forth between each other and ignore me, even when I interject into conversations. It is as if I'm invisible or in a

This apathy has carried over into my grandchildren. All of them are so close and personable with the other grandparents, who are wonderful people, and I do understand how daughters are just naturally close to their moms, so it stands to reason that the grandchildren would be closer to them since more time is spent there.

I am a grieving mom and grandmother who has tried, to no avail. I feel loved at a distance and pray for a better connection and relationship. I am thankful for the moments I have had, even with the feeling of distance. At least they haven't gone out of my life completely. -- Grieving Grandmother appreciate, you will attract more of that. In the meantime, where are your sons? I would suggest that you take them to lunch, rather than your daughters-in-law, and let them know that you are feeling left out.

Along the same lines, if your daughters-in-law are texting and ignoring you during a holiday dinner, why not use that as an opportunity to talk to your sons and grandchildren?

Dear Grieving Grandmother: You are wise to be grateful for the good moments you have had. If you focus on what you

Dear Annie: I am a woman in my 50s who always thought I had good manners. Recently, I have had several appointments with a new physician, who is in her 30s. She knew she had been recommended by my friend and next-door neighbor, who is a physician of the same specialty but does not see private patients.

She immediately addressed me by my first name, which I thought was friendly and lovely. When I reciprocated and called her by her first name, she informed me that it was not appropriate for a patient to call a doctor by her first name.

Did I miss something in my junior high etiquette classes, or did she? Is there a rule about how people in a professional relationship should address each other? -- Just Wondering

Dear Wondering: Since she was referred to you by your neighbor, who is a doctor and who, I assume, you call by her first name, it is understandable that you addressed this young physician by her first name. However, as a general rule, it is better to err on the side of caution and address doctors as "Dr." until they tell you otherwise.

Contract Bridge

Eliminating a guess

North dealer. Neither side vulnerable.

Hand distribution table for Contract Bridge showing North, West, East, and South hands with suits and card counts.

Bidding sequence table showing North, East, South, and West bids.

Opening lead — eight of hearts. When a top-flight declarer is confronted with a guessing situation, he often solves the problem by avoiding the guess altogether. Here's a typical example.

West's opening heart lead was covered by the ten, queen and ace, leaving South with a potential loser in hearts and another in clubs. Making the slam thus appeared to depend upon guessing the location of the queen of clubs. In fact, if declarer knew which opponent to finesse against, he might even make all 13 tricks.

However, South was not inclined to rely on his powers of clairvoyance. Another possibility existed, and he decided to explore it before subjecting himself to a club guess.

So at trick two, he cashed the ace of spades, then crossed to the queen of diamonds and ruffed a spade. A diamond to the ace, extracting the missing trump, was followed by the queen of spades. When East produced the king, the final piece in declarer's plan fell into place; instead of ruffing, he simply discarded the four of hearts!

This left East in an untenable position. He had to lead a club or a heart, and either would hand declarer his 12th trick. A club return would be immediately fatal, while if East led the king of hearts, South would ruff, cross to dummy and discard a club on the heart jack. And if East returned a low heart, declarer would discard a club then and there.

Guessing situations are an integral part of the game, and sometimes a guess cannot be avoided. But as declarer ably demonstrated on this deal, why guess when you don't have to?

New Moon Preparations

ARIES (March 21-April 19). One quest that's worthy of you is the quest to become masterful at reading the room. Even the most familiar rooms have more to offer once you tune into their particular frequency and adjust your own accordingly.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20). The action won't be controlled. This scene has a force too strong for one person to thwart or even steer, but it can be influenced, nudged along in a way that will make a difference.

GEMINI (May 21-June 21). You'll use different words and make updates to the way you present yourself both in person and in the digital realm. Your fresh style will bring social and professional opportunity.

CANCER (June 22-July 22). Disappointment isn't an appointment worth keeping. The way to avoid it is to set your expectations well. This takes both awareness and research. Who are you dealing with? What patterns exist already?

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22). Belief is the code that programs the mind. Once a thing is believed, the perceived world automatically organizes around that belief, which becomes like sheet music that the world plays its song to.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22).

The cool lettering on an inspiring picture wants to be the truth, but the truth rarely presents in such a glamorous way. The truth is more likely to be uncomfortably blurred out, its grittiness taking nothing away from its power.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23). People flock to the ocean, pay more to live near it, travel great distances to see it. Its enormity, ceaseless movement and unfathomable danger make it mesmerizing. Romantic love is mesmerizing for the same reasons.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 21). It's easier to be philosophical about a thing when you're the one in control of the decisions around it. When decisions are made by others that affect your world, it's action, not philosophy, that puts things right.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21). Whether or not you land a certain job will depend partly on luck and other circumstances, but keeping it or leveraging it into something even better will be contingent on what you give to the work.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19). People who say they need a fast answer or the offer goes away are using scarcity tactics. If you already know what you want, you don't have to be squeezed for the deal to close.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18). People are drawn together out of mutual need, and they typically drift apart when those needs either aren't met or are no longer needs. Lasting relationships depend on periodic updates and renewals.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20). Socializing is a dance you're good at, as you easily tune into other people's rhythms. You know when to go forward, pull back, sidestep and more. Because of this, you'll be a sought-after partner.

TODAY'S BIRTHDAY (June 9). Your cosmic birthday gift is enough restlessness to fuel a big, beautiful adventure! Emboldened by change, you'll dive into strange environments and come away with many boons and benefits. Developments in your personal life give you a sense of security. You'll be appointed to a position in 2022. Scorpio and Sagittarius adore you. Your lucky numbers are: 4, 33, 2, 40 and 15.

NEW MOON PRE-SHOW: One way to get ready for the social opportunities coming our way with tomorrow's new moon is to have a number of icebreakers and fun topics in our conversational bag. Try these on for size:

ARIES: Your animal is obvious, but maybe not theirs: (SET ITAL) What animal would you choose to be?(END ITAL) TAURUS: The sign of appetites wants to know: (SET ITAL) If you had to eat the same meal every day, what would it be?(END ITAL) GEMINI: This one's a classic that never goes out of style and focuses the conversation delightfully: (SET ITAL)What do you do for fun?(END ITAL) CANCER: The sign of home would like to know: (SET ITAL)If money was not object, what would your dream home be like?(END ITAL) LEO: For the sign that rules children, it is so interesting to find out: (SET ITAL)When you were a child, what did you want to be when you grew up?(END ITAL) VIRGO: As the sign that creates nurturing environments, this one is a no-brainer: (SET ITAL)What was it like where you grew up?(END ITAL)

Sudoku puzzle grid with numbers 6, 4, 7, 8, 7, 1, 5, 9, 6, 2, 4, 8, 9, 7, 8, 4, 9, 5, 2, 7, 3, 6, 7, 5, 7, 8, 9.

Fun By The Numbers

Like puzzles? Then you'll love sudoku. This mind-bending puzzle will have you hooked from the moment you square off, so sharpen your pencil and put your sudoku savvy to the test!

Level: Intermediate

Here's How It Works:

Sudoku puzzles are formatted as a 9x9 grid, broken down into nine 3x3 boxes. To solve a sudoku, the numbers 1 through 9 must fill each row, column and box. Each number can appear only once in each row, column and box. You can figure out the order in which the numbers will appear by using the numeric clues already provided in the boxes. The more numbers you name, the easier it gets to solve the puzzle!

This Date In History

Today is Wednesday, June 9, the 160th day of 2021. There are 205 days left in the year.

Today's Highlight in History:

On June 9, 1969, the Senate confirmed Warren Burger to be the new chief justice of the United States, succeeding Earl Warren.

On this date:

In 1588, construction began on the present-day Rialto Bridge in Venice, Italy, with the laying of the first stone; the structure was completed in 1591.

In 1870, author Charles Dickens died in Gad's Hill Place, England.

In 1940, during World War II, Norway decided to surrender to the Nazis, effective at midnight.

In 1943, President Franklin D. Roosevelt signed the Current Tax Payment Act of 1943, which reintroduced federal income tax withholding from paychecks.

In 1954, during the Senate Army-McCarthy hearings, Army special counsel Joseph N. Welch berated Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy, R-Wis., asking: "Have you no sense of decency, sir? At long last, have you left no sense of decency?"

In 1972, heavy rains triggered record flooding in the Black Hills of South Dakota; the resulting disaster left at least 238 people dead and $164 million in damage.

In 1973, Secretariat won the Belmont Stakes, becoming horse racing's first Triple Crown winner in 25 years.

In 1978, leaders of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints struck down a 148-year-old policy of excluding black men from the Mormon priesthood.

In 1980, comedian Richard Pryor suffered almost fatal burns at his San Fernando Valley, Calif., home while freebasing cocaine.

In 1983, Britain's Conservatives, led by Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher, won a decisive election victory.

In 2004, the body of Ronald Reagan arrived in Washington to lie in state in the U.S. Capitol Rotunda before the 40th president's funeral.

In 2008, retail gas prices rose above $4 per gallon.

Ten years ago: The entire top echelon of Newt Gingrich's presidential campaign resigned in a mass exodus that left his bid for the Republican nomination in tatters; the former House speaker vowed defiantly to remain a candidate. (Gingrich would remain in the race until May 2012.) Alabama passed a tough law against illegal immigration, requiring schools to find out if students were in the country lawfully and making it a crime to knowingly give an illegal immigrant a ride. (Federal courts later blocked parts of the law.)

Five years ago: President Barack Obama endorsed Hillary Clinton to succeed him and urged Democrats in a web video to line up behind her.

One year ago: Hundreds of mourners packed a Houston church for the funeral of George Floyd, a Black man whose death during a Minneapolis arrest inspired a worldwide reckoning over racial injustice. In a primary election plagued by hours-long lines, voting machine malfunctions and provisional ballot shortages, Georgia Democrats chose Jon Ossoff to face Republican Sen. David Perdue in November. (Perdue finished 88,000 votes ahead of Ossoff in November, forcing a January runoff that was
