grandchildren, and love her great-grandchildren, she was very active in the community. She also loved to read, sew, do puzzles, travel and cook. If someone came to see her, they never left hungry. She will be missed by all who knew and loved her.

Madeline is survived by two sons: Miles Boadle of Big Spring and Eugene Boadle and Tonya of Big Spring; one daughter: Laurie Platte and Roy of Big Spring; eight granddaughters: Stephanie Black and Richard of Honey Creek, Iowa, Melissa Jimenez and Albert of League City, Niki Boadle of Pflugerville, Abbey Boadle of Colorado, Holly Hernandez and Jeremy of Big Spring, Alison Trevizo and Joaquin of Odessa, Jeanie Brown and Lance of Crane, and Brittany Evans and Bo of Wallisville; one grandson: Ben Boadle of Lubbock; 14 greatgrandchildren; and numerous nieces and nephews.

The Virtual Kids College is not the only summer program that is being offered through Howard College. In July, according to Kelby Vise, there will be a Lamb Camp beginning on July 30 and following will be a Goat Camp beginning Aug. 5. Each area of focus has been selected because they have been proven successful in years past and were found to be adapted to a virtual event, in addition to encouraging kids to trying new things they may not have done in the past.

"These camps bring in premiere instructors from around the state to help teach kids about how to properly manage, care, and show their animals," Higgins said. "Families from around the area, state, and country will come to take part in these camps."

package in the mail. I didn't know what it was," Mike Tarpley, Quilt of Valor presenter and veteran, said. "Not only was I honored to receive a Quilt by this group of lovely ladies, but since then, they have named me as a Quilt of Valor presenter and that is a big honor.'

Veterans honored included Navy Veteran Mitch Coxev. Air Force Veteran Louis Latimer, Navy Veteran PJ Parrish, Navy Veteran Speedy Sparks, Navy Veteran John Williams; Army Veteran Bill Jones was honored at his home

The veterans passed through a tunnel of American Flags as they walked to the front of the church to be seated. Following a short introduction including the Pledge of Allegiance and an opening prayer, short bios were read introducing each of the veterans.

Navy Veteran Mitch Coxey entered the military the day he turned 18. He entered boot camp in 1967. During his time in the Navy from 1967 to 1971, he served on the USS Dixie AD-14, a battleship destroyer tender which carried cargo and ammunition. Coxey was in charge of opearting cranes that loaded ammunition onto the destroyers, battleships and submarines. The USS Dixie traveled to the Phillippines, Japan, China, off the coast of Vietnam, and Australia. He served as a Second Class Petty Officer (E-5). Coxey was originally from Wisconsin, but spent time in Illinois. After his time in the service, he and his wife moved to Texas and landed in Sterling City where they raised two boys.

Navy Veteran John B. Williams Sr. joined the military a few years earlier than Coxey. in 1964 and reported for active duty in California in October 1965 aboard the USS Dixie A-D-14. He served as a veoman in the Commissary office and obtained the rank of E-4 in the supply division. He was discharged from active duty in October 1967 to the Navy Reserve Center in San Angelo. While in San Angelo he earned an E-5 ranking-Petty Officer 2nd Class. Williams Sr. served for six years and completed his time in June 1970.

Force Base in California.

Navy Veteran PJ Parrish is a Sterling City native who enlisted in the military one year after graduation. She was the first female to be presented with a Quilt of Valor in the area. She served her country for eight years and was ranked as CTM2- Petty Officer 2nd Class. Through her military service she traveled to Pensacola, Florida; Diego Garcia; Aurora, Colorado; San Diego, California; Bahrain. She earned top secret clearance while in the Navy; she worked on electronics and computer networks.

Navy Veteran Royce Sparks, also known as Speedy, enlisted in the service at the age of 22. He worked as an engineering aide while he was a member of the Navy Seabees. He ranked as E-5 2nd Class Petty Officer. During his four years of service, Sparks did two tours during the Vietnam War. He was stationed at 10th Naval Mobile Construction Battalion at Port HUeneme California. During his time in Vietnam he served at My Tho for a year with the construction battalion; in Rach Gia for another year from 1971-72 with the Seabee team 10-19; and in Kosrae Micronesian Islands with the Seabee team 10-22.

After each veteran was introduced, Tarpley informed the attendees of the the significance of each layer of the quilt. The top layer represents the communities and many individuals; the batting, the filler and the center is the warmth that represents the hope that the quilt will bring warmth, comfort, peace, and healing to the veteran who receives it. The backing serves as a representation of the strength the supports the other layers; it represents the strength of the recipient the support of his or her family, our communities and our nation. Finally, each stitch that holds the layers together represents love, gratitude, and sometimes the tears of the maker.

"As we wrap each veteran in their quilt, we honor them for their service, offer them comfort, and remind ourselves that freedom is not free," Tarpley said.

Each veteran was wrapped in a quilt, and an extension of gratitude was extended for all service members in the audience. Following the presentation, one more Quilt of Valor was presented in a special ceremony held at the home of Veteran Bill Jones.

Army Veteran Bill Jones joined the service at age 19 as part of the 50th Division, 224th Infantry Company as an infantry soldier. He was sent to Ft. Smith, Arkansas and then to Lamock, California for training. He served nine months in Tokyo, Japan. Following his time in Japan, he was sent home only to be placed on a ship and sent straight to the front line in Korea where he spent the duration of his service. Jones completed his service in 1952.

"Being able to honor veterans is a privilege and an honor," Tarpley said. "I am grateful to the ladies of Quilt of Valor Foundation who made this possible, as well as the group of ladies in Big Spring who have also started to create quilts of valor to be presented to our veterans."

The Quilts of Valor Foundation was founded in 2003 by a Blue Star mom Catherine Roberts. While her son was deployed in Iraq, she felt 10 seconds away from panic and it was during this time that she had the idea to create quilts that would provide comfort to veterans after they returned home.

Mississippi St shuts down Vandy again for 1st national title

By ERIC OLSON

AP Sports Writer

OMAHA, Neb. — Mississippi State's first national championship had been building since 1985, when "Thunder and Lightning" — Will Clark and Rafael Palmeiro — were the stars on what's known as the best team to not win a College World Series.

The 2021 Bulldogs got the job done. Finally.

Will Bednar and Landon Sims combined on a one-hitter, the Bulldogs scored early and built on their lead, and at the end they were in a dogpile celebrating a 9-0 victory over Vanderbilt in the deciding third game of the College World Series finals Wednesday night.

There to see it was Ron Polk, the godfather of Mississippi State baseball and the coach of that '85 team.

"Coach Polk is the one who built this and started it," coach Chris Lemonis said. "We run out there and play in front of the big crowds, but Polk was a big reason why, and our former players, too. This is a lot of years in the making, and a lot of fun. And I know our fans will enjoy this."

Oh, they enjoyed it. It seemed the whole town of Starkville, Mississippi, was at TD Ameritrade Park — loud and proud — for all three games of the finals.

When third baseman Kamren James threw to first for the final out, the Bulldogs' dugout emptied and about 100 fans jumped out of the stands to celebrate. The players walked the warning track and reached up to high-five the fans.

"I couldn't be more happy for a team, a town, a fan base, the whole state of Mississippi, except Oxford, of course," SEC player of the year Tanner Allen said. "Those guys are always on my back. So I had to take a shot at them.

"This team overcame everything, man. From getting swept at home in front of 10,000 versus Arkansas to Missouri coming in and taking a series from us and then getting embarrassed at the SEC Tournament. We just kept playing and playing. You blink an eye, we're national champions."

Bednar, working on three days' rest, walked three of the first five batters he faced before retiring 15 in a row. He turned the game over to Sims to start the seventh, and Vandy broke up the no-hitter when Carter Young singled into center field with one out in the eighth.

"I'll probably bust his chops tomorrow," a laughing Bednar said of Sims losing the no-no. "Win a national championship, I don't really care about that. I'm on cloud nine."

It was the first one-hitter at the CWS since 2014 and the climax of an Omaha run that seemed to get easier for the Bulldogs the longer they were here. The three wins they needed to reach the finals were all decided by one run.

"When you're going to do something legendary for the first time, it was going to have to be tough," Lemonis said. "The reason we are champions is we just have a really tough, resilient group. It's been built over time. It's the accumulation of the last three years."

Bednar (9-1), whose 15 strikeouts in his Omaha debut against Texas on June 20 were the most here in 25 years, fanned four against Vandy (49-18) and was named the CWS Most Outstanding Player.

"Just every time he's taken the ball here in the postseason, he's just been a champ," Lemonis said. "You need somebody to get hot for you in the postseason, and we had that with Will tonight."

The national championship is the first in a team sport for Mississippi State (50-18) and it came in the Bulldogs' 12th CWS appearance. Only Florida State (23) and Clemson (12) have been to Omaha at least as many times without winning a title.

Logan Tanner and Kellum Clark homered in the four-run seventh inning to put the game out of reach against a Vanderbilt offense that managed just seven hits and three runs over the last 25 innings of the finals.

"We didn't play our best baseball toward the end," Vanderbilt coach Tim Corbin said. "Getting through regionals was emotional, getting through the super regional was emotional, and this wasn't easy here. And then there was the groundswell of momentum on the other side. You could feel it and it was real."

Mississippi State knocked out Kumar Rocker (14-4) in the fifth. It was the second time in three CWS starts that the projected top-10 draft pick wasn't at his best, in part because of more shaky defense behind him.

The Commodores committed six errors in the second and third games of the finals and 13 in seven CWS games. The Bulldogs were error-free in their seven games.

Wednesday's game ended a CWS unlike any other since it began in 1947. There was no CWS last year because of the pandemic, and COVID-19 was never out of mind during the event's return even though the stadium was at full fan capacity.

Positive COVID-19 tests and contact tracing left North Carolina State with only half its roster available in a 3-1 loss to Vanderbilt last Friday. By that night, a total of eight players had tested positive and prompted the NCAA to remove the Wolfpack from the tournament because of COVID-19 protocols.

A second bracket final between NC State and Vandy was declared a no-contest, and the Commodores were advanced to the finals to go for a second straight title and third since 2014.

They won the opener 8-2 after scoring seven runs in the first inning, but they didn't do much the rest of the series.

Mississippi State won 13-2 in Game 2 and then, thanks to Bednar, was able to coast to its titleclinching victory.

"Great comeback for them," Corbin said. "They realized they weren't out of this when we beat them in the first game."

The '85 MSU team included four future major league All-Stars and won its first two games in Omaha, then dropped two in a row and was gone. The next four MSU teams to make the CWS won no more than one game here.

The 2013 Bulldogs got to the finals and flamed out, swept by UCLA and scoring only one run in the two games. The 2018 team didn't put up much fight in the bracket finals against Oregon State, and the 2019 blew a ninth-inning lead in an elimination game against Louisville.

"All the former players own a part of this," Lemonis said.

DeChambeau aims to repeat in Detroit

By LARRY LAGE

AP Sports Writer

DETROIT — Bryson DeChambeau is shooting to be a repeat champion for the first time on the PGA Tour.

And he's hoping to be more fortunate than the last time he defended a title.

The big hitter is back at Detroit Golf Club — where he won the Rocket Mortgage Classic last year by three shots — after collapsing with a chance to win the U.S. Open in consecutive years.

DeChambeau has had nearly two weeks to analyze why he went from leading with nine holes to play at Torrey Pines to plummeting to a tie for 26th, nine strokes behind Jon Rahm.

So, what went wrong?

"Just luck," he told reporters Wednesday.

DeChambeau nodded without saying a word and punched his right hand into his left palm when asked a follow-up question. Minutes later, he was more forthcoming when the topic was broached again and went into hole-by-hole detail about his U.S. Open meltdown.

"It's just things compounding on each other that you just can't necessarily control fully," he said. "You hit a great shot, nothing happened for you.

To an inexperienced declarer, there seems to be very little to the play. He cashes the A-K of trump and ace of clubs, then leads the deuce of trump to dummy's nine in order to take a club finesse. After this loses, he concedes two spade tricks to go down one. Playing the hand in this fashion, declarer has about a 50 percent chance for the contract.

But a more experienced South would wind up making four hearts. He would cash the ace of trump at trick three and then play the ace and another spade.

Assuming a club return by East, which is very likely, declarer wins with the ace and plays a third spade.

Finding a Community at Church

Dear Annie: I have been seeing a woman for about eight years now. She is married, and I am not. We started out as high school sweethearts, and then we grew up and had our own lives for about 30 years. Then we found each other again through social media, and I fell in love all over again. She keeps telling me that she is not happy with her husband anymore and that she wants to be with me. But lately, she has made me feel like she doesn't care about me or us anymore. I am just at a loss. I wish I could just walk away, but I love her too much. The sad thing is that I have tried to tell her how I feel, and she says nothing. If she's not in love with me anymore, I wish she would just walk away. What should I do? -- Mind on the Mrs.

relationship, and the anticipation for how you imagine your future relationship. But what you have presently is not a relationship at all. If she hasn't left her husband after eight years, she's not leaving him. Quit waiting for her to take action, and take some action yourself. End the relationship, and open your heart up for love and fulfillment in the here and now.

Dear Annie: I am writing after reading the letter from "Invisibly III." My husband was ill for more than 18 years. He kept telling his doctors that he had a pain in his face. Eventually, he was diagnosed with tic douloureux. Tic douloureux, or trigeminal neuralgia, is a severe, stabbing pain to one side of the face. It stems from one or more branches of the nerve that supplies sensation to the face, the trigeminal nerve. It is considered one of the most painful conditions.

had to stop working. It took two years to get him on disability insurance, due to the unusualness of his condition. Some family or friends didn't believe he was sick.

Only people who have gone through something like this know what you are talking about. My husband passed away nine days before our 39th anniversary. -- You Are Not Alone

Dear YANA: The pain your husband experienced from trigeminal neuralgia must have been terrible. I'm sorry that judgmental friends and family made it worse. I'm printing your letter to remind those struggling with invisible illnesses that they are not alone -- and to remind the rest of us that invisible illnesses are, unfortunately, very real.

advice suggesting that they get out, join a club activity, etc. However, my husband and I have moved 20 times, and the first thing we do when we move in is find a good church. Of course, not all congregations are as accepting as we are taught to be, but there is always the right one; it just takes visiting a few. In our congregation, we go out of our way to welcome newcomers and even have a special welcoming table with a small gift. I hope that you will add this to your list of suggestions. -- Sandi M.

Dear Sandi: Indeed, for those who worship, church can be a wonderful way to find new friends and community. I'm glad to print your tip here.

Opening lead — queen of diamonds. You just can't argue with a multiplication table. And at the bridge table, you can't argue with percentages or probabilities. The essence of the game — the goal all players should strive for — is to always make the bid or play that is most likely to succeed in the long run.

Consider this deal where South is declarer at four hearts. He ruffs the second diamond lead with the ten, and the question is how to proceed so as to give himself the best chance to

As it happens, the suit divides 3-3, and dummy's eight becomes a trick. And so, when East takes the third spade and returns another club, South goes up with the king, then plays the king of trump and the deuce to the nine to make the contract, discarding his jack of clubs on the eight of spades.

By adopting this method of play, which offers two chances to make 10 tricks instead of just one, South elevates his 50% chance for the contract to about 68% — a difference not to be sneczed at by anyone who takes the game seriously.

Here's How It Works:

Sudoku puzzles are formatted as a 9x9 grid, broken down into nine 3x3 boxes. To solve a sudoku, the numbers 1 through 9 must fill each row, column and box. Each number can appear only once in each row, column and box. You can figure out the order in which the numbers will appear by using the numeric clues already provided in the boxes. The more numbers you name, the easier it gets to solve the puzzle!

Cosmic Opposition

To know awe is to experience something beyond what we initially comprehend. As Mars and Saturn move into an opposition, we have a sense of being stretched. We feel we must expand to accommodate the understanding of something bigger, and in that expansion comes an awareness of the interconnection of life

ARIES (March 21-April 19). You'll get so much more done because you're doing it for the right reasons. Curiosity and wonder are motivators with seemingly endless fuel. They give and give. TAURUS (April 20-May 20 Your own self-interest is certainly part of what motivates you to act today, but it's only one small consideration of the many concerns vying for your attention. You'll carefully weigh out options to determine your next move

GEMINI (May 21-June 21). A smack to the ego can be more devastating than a physical hit, and ego wounds can be as debilitating as bodily injuries. The difference is that destruction to the ego makes a person much stronger. CANCER (June 22-July 22). You'll say the thing you wanted to hear. You'll give the help you wich someone would wish someone would have given to you. You'll provide the very thing you most needed. It's good to be you. Capable! LEO (July 23-Aug. 22). A signal is coming from far off, barely audible, but annoying... like a drippy faucet in a downstairs bathroom. The question on repeat: "Can I? Can I? Can I?" Yes, you can. You can, and you will. Go down and shut off this doubt

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22). It's OK not to understand everything right away. In fact, it's better this way. The information assimilates in its own time, when it has relevance to you and when you're ready to do something about it.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23). You don't have to know what the conflict is to know that one exists. It's not always worth getting into. One way to erase tension from your life is to use your feet to walk away SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 21). Loosen your grip on the controls and give yourself a wide berth, too, because the most interesting things are going to happen quite on their own and in the margins. SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21). You think you're perfórming well despite your mixed feeling about the venues and institutions, and the few bad habits helping you cope. Then again, maybe you owe your good performance to this mixed back of influences CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19). Everyone is the star of their own show, though with some, you wouldn't know it. They seem to

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18). Gèt some distance between you and the problem. When you return, the solution will follow you back. Also 'home" is not a problem, but creating a temporary distance from home will also bring a favorable outcome. It's just time. PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20). Today's outcome is a small bird, precariously perched, listening to the wind for answers. It could fall one way or the other. It could start building a nest where it is. It could fly to the heavens. You are the wind. Start whispering. TODAY'S BIRTHDAY

(July 1). The big change of the year will be astounding, though not sudden or dramatic; it will happen by degrees. First, you're the car, and then you're the driver. Before you know what you want you do what you're told. Then you learn of a glittering destination and a vision comes together in your mind to fuel this journey. Aquarius and Arnumbers are: 14, 5, 30, 7 and 18

COSMICALLY CURI-OUS ABOUT... SELF-PARENTING (PART NINE) The road to maturity involves becoming an increasingly adept parent to oneself. See the archives for parts 1-8 Whereas some signs can think of themselves as a vessel in which many personalities, ages and possibilities exist, for SCORPIO, it's more cut-and-dried than that. Scorpio isn't totally comfortable swinging from a childlike mindset to that of an authority figure, prefer-ring to embody one role at a time and be fully that. As the sign of life and death, Scorpio likes to move through an age and then let that one die when the year is over to be borr

Therefore, the key to mentoring oneself is really in checking in with others claiming actual mentors who will advise, help and hold Scorpio accountable. Scorpios of every age thrive with a mentor, and it doesn't have to be a person who is older than Scorpio either. The mentor's role is to keep Scorpio on track with the goals, offer an outsider's view, point out the pitfalls and provide resources and help to assist Scorpic in avoiding them. In short, self-parenting is a matter of choosing surrogate "parents." Scorpios do best when they actively seek the assistance of people with more experience and follow their advice.
