TXDoT projects on county agenda

By ROGER CLINE

Herald Staff Writer

Texas Department of Transportation projects are on the agenda for Howard County Commissioners during their next regular meeting Monday.

The commissioners will hold a budget workshop at 1:30 p.m. prior to the meeting, which starts at 3:30 p.m.

The budget workshop will be held in the second-floor conference room, and the regular meeting will be held in the third-floor courtroom, both at the Howard County Courthouse, 300 S. Main St.

According to the meeting's agenda, County Road Engineer Brian Klinksiek will present the TXDoT item, which entails an update to the TXDoT County Transportation Infrastructure Fund Grant List of transportation projects.

Klinksiek will also present other items, including the second reading of a proposal to name a currently unnamed road in Precinct 3 "Sam's Road" — the item was unanimously approved on first reading at the commissioners' previous meeting; and his regular Roadway Maintenance Update.

In other business, County Elections Administrator Jodi Duck will ask the commissioners to order this year's General Election, as well as a Special Election for the Howard County Assistance District, both scheduled Nov. 2 of this year.

At the start of the meeting, County Emergency Management Coordinator Itzel Gomez will present a draft of the county's five-year Emergency Management Plan.

The commissioners will discuss and consider action on an interlocal agreement for Fiscal Year 2022-23 for public defender services.

County Treasurer Sharon Adams will present updates to the

Howard College - Big Spring campus expands courses to include Horticulture beginning Aug. 25

By ROGER CLINE

Herald Staff Writer

Horticulture is the art of garden cultivation and management. Howard College will offer a horticulture class starting Aug. 25, for beginners and those with intermediate knowledge of the subject.

"Basically this class just mirrors the normal garden class," said instructor Kelby Vise. "There's going to be a lot of plant science in it. There's not going to be a whole lot of hands-on growing. It's going to be more of the scientific stuff behind why plants do what they do, and how they do what they do. We've also got a lot of new stuff. We've got a couple of hydroponic systems that we're going to be using, that we just got. And I've got another one that will be here Monday."

Vise said hydroponics are great for growing vegetables in an at-home environment.

"Following COVID, we've kind of been in this transition of wanting to grow your stuff at home," he said. "So one way I'm trying to get at that is to increase people's knowledge of hydroponics. It's a little bit more of a controlled situation. You can make sure the plants are getting the exact nutrients they need. You don't have to worry about the rainfall as long as you've got some water running through it. You can grow it inside. You don't have to have a lot of space for it."

Students will learn two types of hydroponics, which are useful for different types of plants.

"There's different types of hydroponic setups. So the one that we have is a Nutrient Film Technique - NFT for short. Basically it's constantly running water across plant roots," he said. "They almost look like gutters, and you've got little holes on the top of them. They grow in a media, it's called 'rock wool.' Basically that would be really good for lettuces, strawberries...really any kind of low-to-the-ground plants that don't need to grow up."

The second hydroponic setup utilizes buckets.

"There's a system that we've got coming called 'Deep Water Culture' or 'Bato Buckets,'" Vise said. "Those are more made for, like, your tomatoes, and viny-type things like zucchini or squash. Really and truly, what we're going to be doing with our bato buckets is probably grow tomatoes, and with our NFT we're going to grow lettuce and

Summer time fitness; time to get the workout in

By DUSTIN POPE

Summer is winding down, but it isn't over just yet; there is still time to get that nice beach body we all dream of. However, if you crave a beach body and not certain how to go about obtaining it, no fear, there are personal trainers in Big Spring that can teach you the proper process.

A Big Spring resident has set out to encourage individuals to achieve all of their fitness goals. Birdy Marie, who works at the Dance Lab, also provides the Fit Lab. Marie has over 20 years of competitive dance experience. She is also a former Police Officer from Michigan. Health and Fitness has consistently been one of, if not her top priority. After Birdy moved to Texas, she began teaching for Dance Lab, and she was also doing one-on-one private workouts with some of the Cheer and Dance moms. It was then she recognized she loved to bring her knowledge of fitness to encourage others to make huge life changes.

It was during the pandemic that she thought to herself, if you love helping people so much, then why not become a certified personal trainer, and that's precisely what she did.

Marie soon realized that there were not a lot of personal trainers in this area, so she recognized she would have an excellent opportunity to influence and help many people.

Since she is now a certified personal trainer, she is ready and willing to help anyone reach all of their health goals. Birdy is enthusiastic to advise anyone that wishes to learn, kids men, women, people of all ages it doesn't matter she is on a journey to help those that want to be helped, get healthier and feel confident in their own bodies. She offers free 30 minute consultations. Prices are $40 for one half-hour session, and fifty dollars for a full hour session. She also offers monthly plans. With her knowledge and expertise, there is no doubt that she will transform you into what you desire to be. Marie has already had a few great success stories of people who have come in and made significant gains in their health and fitness. She will only look to expand on this and broaden her client base.

For most of us, the endeavor of getting in shape is real. Just trying to understand how to get in shape is invariably an immense obstacle. Birdy will give you all the information and knowledge you need to make a huge lifestyle change. Because as many of you know, once you start the fitness journey it becomes a lifestyle, a healthier lifestyle that always comes with not only health benefits, but self-confidence. To start your new journey contact Birdy Marie at 432-488-7797. She can also be reached at Facebook on the Fit Lab by Birdy. Precious Ramotswe, Botswana's premier lady detective, is a little short on help in Precious and Grace - No. 1 Ladies' Detective Agency #17 (AUCD F MCC A) by Alexander McCall Smith. The co-director of the agency, Grace Makutsi, is busy with her own case, her client none other than their erstwhile assistant, Mr. Polopetsi, who has unwittingly involved himself in a pyramid scheme. The agency's other assistant, Charlie, may also need more help than he can offer, as he is newly embroiled in a romance with a glamorous woman about whom the others have their doubts. So when a young Canadian woman approaches Mma Ramotswe with a complex case, it's up to her alone to solve it, with her signature intuition and insight, of course.

The young woman spent part of her childhood in Botswana and needs help finding a long-lost acquaintance. But much time has passed, and her memory yields few clues. The difficult search and the unexpected results will remind them all that sometimes it's those we think we know best who most surprise us.

Sela Gordon, shy owner of a Tennessee general store, prefers solitude in After Sundown (AUCD F HOW L) by Linda Howard and Linda Jones. If anyone can chip away at her protective shell it's the handsome, mysterious, ex-military man who's been hiding for two years in the wilds of Cove Mountain. But when he warns her that a catastrophic solar storm with the capability of taking down the power grids is approaching, Sela must come out of her shell and be the leader Wears Valley needs. Living in self-imposed exile, Ben Jernigan has learned the hard way to look out only for number one. With a top-notch security system, he's serious about keeping people at a distance. Yet he has to caution the undeniably sexy Sela about the impending threat and now she's making it too easy for him to lower his guard. As panic spreads, Sela and Ben discover that in the dark, cut off from the outside world, there's no more playing it safe in life or in love.

Former SAS soldier David Shelley was part of the most covert operations team in the special forces in Revenge -David Shelley #1 (AUCD F PAT J) by James Patterson. Now settling down to civilian life in London, he has plans for a safer and more stable existence. But the shocking death of a young woman Shelley once helped protect puts those plans on hold. The police rule the death a suicide but the grieving parents can't accept their beloved Emma would take her own life. They need to find out what really happened, and they turn to their former bodyguard, Shelley, for help. When they discover that Emma had fallen into a dark and seedy world of drugs and online pornography, the father demands retribution. But his desire for revenge will make enemies of people that even Shelley may not be able to protect them from, and take them into a war from which there may be no escape.

Deputy Coroner Clay Edison has his hands full in Half Moon Bay - Clay Edison #3 (AUCD F KEL J) by Jonathan Kellerman and Jesse Kellerman. He's got a new baby who won't sleep. He's working the graveyard shift. And he's trying, for once, to mind his own business.

Then comes the call. Workers demolishing a local park have made a haunting discovery: the decades-old skeleton of a child. But whose? And how did it get there? No sooner has Clay begun to investigate than he receives a second call, this one from a local businessman, wondering if the body could belong to his sister. She went missing fifty years ago, the man says. Or at least I think she did. Clay doesn't understand. What's that mean, you "think" she disappeared? It's a little complicated. That it is. And things only get stranger from there. Clay's relentless search for answers will unearth a history of violence and secrets, revolution and betrayal. Because in this town, the past isn't dead. It isn't even past. It's very much alive. And it can kill.

Vise said the coursework in the class is geared toward horticulture beginners.

"It's going to be basically starting at the bottom, because the kids I teach in a normal college class, they don't have any idea at that point," he said. "If people have already a lot of growing experience, I don't think this would be the class for them."

The class meets 11 a.m. to 12:15 Tuesdays and Thursdays this fall, with a lab each Tuesday from 1 p.m. to 3:30 p.m., although Vise said the lab usually won't go the full period.

"It's usually going to be from 1 to 2:30, probably," he said.

The course will combine a regular college course with Continuing Education (CE), allowing members of the community to participate and earn CE hours instead of college credit.

"It's a regular college course, but we are mirroring a Continuing Education course on top of it," Vise said. "We've kind of got a cap of 25 people total in the class, but I can go above that if there are a lot of people interested in it."

All needed materials will be provided, he said.

The Hushpuppy King

Leon Word of Gladewater had a 30-year career with Eastman Chemical. When he retired in 2004 he went to work doing what he likes to do most: make hushpuppies. His company makes a lot of them, sometimes a million and a half a week.

“I think I’m a hushpuppy connoisseur,” Leon says. “I know what a good h u s h p u p p y ought to taste like. When I started I actually used donut-manufacturing equipment to make them. It was a little hopper and you turned the crank and it spit out 3 hushpuppies into a tabletop fryer.”

He experimented with a recipe one afternoon until he got it right, then started peddling his hushpuppies to stores, demonstrating them on the premises

“I kinda looked like Sanford and Son going down the interstate. I had a trailer on the back of a pickup that had 4 freezers running off a generator but that’s how I distributed my product: north of I-20 one day, south one day east to the Shreveport area one day, west one day then Sunday afternoons I’d be making dry mix for the next week.”

The demand for his product grew way beyond what he could make in his kitchen, so he decided to go with a food jobber.

“I knew I had a good product. In 5 years we’ve grown from sitting on the front porch wondering if we would cook today to distributing a couple of 18-wheeler loads a week all over the country including Hawaii and Alaska, even Puerto Rico.

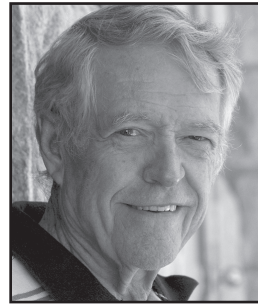

“Our product goes exclusively to Wal-Mart under the Great Value label. You can find it next to the frozen shrimp. They’re crispy on the outside and light and fluffy on the inside no matter how you cook them. The best way we’ve found is air frying. If you have an air fryer set the temperature at 350 degrees and go from freezer to air fryer 8 minutes and they’re perfect.

“You can think of a hushpuppy as a cornbread substitute that you don’t have to mix up and cook in a pan. They’re great with chili and are a great accompaniment to any home cooking. I’ve had people just fix them as snacks.”

Leon is one talented salesman. It goes with believing in his product. At trade shows he would amaze people by showing up with just an air fryer. They were surprised that he didn’t have an old-fashioned hot oil frying apparatus with him. He says he could have sold a truckload of air fryers at those shows. He was extremely reluctant to give up his recipe, knowing it was a good one. He went through several food brokers before he decided on one he could trust. His product is made in Tennessee. Arkansas sells more hushpuppies than any other state.

“I just want people to know we started from scratch and we know where we came from. The Lord has blessed us in ways that I couldn’t have ever imagined. We just want people to enjoy a good hushpuppy.”

Slowest of news days

Historians who tired of seeking origins that mattered much probably risked losing their licenses oh, 1.4 centuries ago. That’s when they scattered like quail in a hailstorm trying to identify the “inventor” of the hamburger.

One of the few points of agreement is that they were introduced during the 1880s, depending on how deeply one wishes to delve. Some contend hamburgers originated in Tulsa, OK. No, screams a Texan, it was in Athens, TX. Still another insists that the first real hamburger was hawked at the St. Louis World Fair in 1905.

Still others (probably the loonies who have tried too hard to popularize steak tartare for the masses) say that really rare burgers came of age in the 13th century, when Mongolian Hordes ran amuck-or at least “trotted amuck”—pillaging lesser empires.

Foodies reaching that far back are invited to do so. They claim that card-carrying Hordesmen (there’s no record of any Hordeswomen, cardless or otherwise) slapped big chunks of raw beef under their saddles after their loins were girded for battle. As they went about their pillaging, the beef was tenderized—admittedly in a primitive way—and served around campfires at day’s end. (One critic says that even Mongols would have known to cook it first, and maybe they did.)

Fie on such opinions, I say. Let us agree, though, that hamburgers’ beginnings as late as the 1880s seem sketchy at best. I credit the Popeye cartoon for giving hamburgers a giant push when the long-running comic strip began in 1934. Popeye kept farmers growing spinach, and another got us hooked on hamburgers.

Remember J. Wellington Wimpy, drawn by a portly cartoonist perhaps wishing to create a character more amply “waist-lined” than himself? He was always chowing down on a hamburger, perhaps after three already had been consumed.

That’s when many places started offering “WimpyBurgers.”

Now, I don’t know where to start apologizing. My intent was not to delve into “hamburger history,” but to marvel at the unique ways restaurateurs can call attention to burgers. IHOP got in major licks a year or so ago. They announced taking on a new acronym—IHOB.

Henceforth, ads contended, IHOP would be known as the International House of Burgers.

News media took the bait and ran with it, only to learn a few days later that IHOP was just kidding.

Now, burger lovers wonder about “what gives?” at Sonic Drive-Ins, an Oklahoma-based chain.

The decision has been made to switch their mustard/mayo basic topping to ketchup/mayo, deciding, it would seem, that mustard no longer “cuts the mustard.”

Bud Kennedy, a skillful and prolific writer on the food topic-or any other you’d like to throw at him—announced this recently in his popular “Eats Beat” column in the Fort Worth Star-Telegram.

He questions, as do I: “Is Texas the last outpost for mustard?” (Mustard will still be available at all Sonics as a special order option.)

It may be that the Sonic decision is based on actual orders placed at their drive-ins.

Count me among those who fancy mustard.

Most shocking to me is that hamburgers didn’t have a cheese option until the mid 1920s, when a Lionel Sternberger, a Californian, offered a “cheese hamburger.” (Why didn’t he take the “ham” out of the name then?)

Coming to mind is the mid-sized town that had three “burger joints” on the same street. One was shiny, with a neon sign flashing this brag: “BEST HAMBURGERS IN TEXAS.”

In the next block came a new eatery, claiming: “BEST HAMBURGERS IN THE WORLD.”

Still “further out” remained a “mom and pop” place that had been there for years. It needed painting, and the building leaned a little, but patrons lined up to order. It had no electric signage. Instead, a chalkboard proclaimed: “BEST HAMBURGERS ON THIS STREET.”

Big 12 leaders discuss how to keep Texas and OU

By RALPH D. RUSSO

AP College Football Writer

INDIANAPOLIS — Big 12 leaders held a call without Texas and Oklahoma on Thursday to discuss how to keep the league's flagship schools from bolting to the Southeastern Conference — and contingency plans to survive without them.

"There was no panic," a person familiar with the meeting told The Associated Press on condition of anonymity because the Big 12 was not making its internal discussions public. "All options are on the table."

The Big 12 put out a statement Thursday night that revealed few details, but made clear the eight members in danger of being left behind want the Longhorns and Sooners to stay put. And that leaving could be costly for Texas and Oklahoma.

"There is a recognition that institutions may act in their own self-interest, however there is an expectation that members adhere to Conference by-laws and the enforcement of Grant of Rights agreements," the statement said.

The Big 12's grant of rights, which ties a school's media rights to the conference, runs through the current television deals with ESPN and Fox. Those expire in June 2025.

For Oklahoma and Texas to leave the Big 12 sooner they would either relinquish tens of millions in television revenue for every year the grant is in effect or agree to a financial settlement with the conference.

The person familiar with Thursday's call said Commissioner Bob Bowlsby, athletic directors and school presidents and chancellors discussed possible options for persuading Texas and Oklahoma to remain in the Big 12 and potential ways to keep the conference going if they leave.

Texas and Oklahoma were invited to join the call, and the hope is the Big 12 will soon hear directly from their conference mates, the person said.

Texas and Oklahoma have discussed a move to the SEC with officials from the powerhouse conference, but no formal invitation has been extended nor have the schools officially informed the Big 12 they intend to leave.

Earlier Thursday, leaders from other conferences were hesitant to speculate on what's next, but some observers were concerned about the potential consequences.

"College football is filled with people operating in silos and what they fail to realize is that if they only look at and try to build their silo as big and as shiny as possible than the entirety of the sport is not going to be as strong as it needs to be," said former Colorado quarterback Joel Klatt, the lead college football analyst for Fox, which holds television rights with the Big 12, Big Ten and Pac-12.

"I think a move like this would be to the detriment of the sport overall."

Former Oklahoma quarterback and Heisman Trophy winner Baker Mayfield put it more starkly: "It would ruin the Big 12. It should be done," Mayfield said during a break in shooting TV commercials in Cleveland.

The Big 12 was thought to be on life support about a decade ago after losing Nebraska, Colorado, Texas A&M and Missouri. Managing to hold on to Texas and Oklahoma allowed the Big 12 to survive as a Power Five conference after it added TCU and West Virginia.

Back when that was playing out, conferences were reacting to one another. The Big Ten pushed over the first domino when it announced in 2009 it was going to explore expansion. Eventually, it lured Nebraska away from the Big 12.

"We often talk about how uncomfortable this time is," new Nebraska AD Trev Alberts said. "It is. It's a changing environment. There's a lot of stress. Now's the time you want to be part of some stability."

That Big Ten expansion sparked a frenzy, with conferences and schools fending for themselves. Could a Texas/Oklahoma move to the SEC be the next fire starter?

Big Ten Commissioner Kevin Warren was asked about the news and whether it could prompt the conference to look at expansion — maybe even reaching out to the two Big 12 schools — as he opened football media days at Lucas Oil Stadium.

Warren stayed away from speculation, calling the news just another example of the volatility sweeping through college sports.

"That's the world that we live in right now," he said. "From where we sit, we're always constantly evaluating what's in the best interest of the conference."

Atlantic Coast Conference Commissioner Jim Phillips, who took over earlier this year after being athletic director at Northwestern, took a similarly cautious approach.

"I think it's critically important for all of us to always be paying attention to what's happening in the landscape and understanding what's happening across the country, whether you're a conference commissioner, whether you're an athletic director, whether you're a president," he said. "It's just part of all of our responsibility. And this is the latest maybe conversation that we're hearing about."

Former Wisconsin athletic director Alvarez was at Lucas Oil Stadium because the Big Ten announced he would be taking a new role at the conference: special advisor for football. He retired earlier this year.

Alvarez, 74, is not one to shy away from giving his thoughts on a topic. But news of realignment ramping up again caught him off guard.

"It's something you certainly have your antenna up for," Alvarez said.

Missouri coach Eli Drinkwitz said he had one question for the SEC if it did decide to add the Longhorns and their Horns Up hand sign to the conference?

"Is Horns Down going to be a 15-yard penalty in the SEC (as it can be at times in the Big 12)?" Drinkwitz said. "I asked Commissioner Sankey and he said 'no comment.'"

Fit Elliott feeds off motivation from Cowboys' 2020 downer

By SCHUYLER DIXON

AP Pro Football Writer

Ezekiel Elliott is the lightest he's been in nearly a decade and believes he hasn't lost the breakaway ability that helped make him a two-time NFL rushing champion for the Dallas Cowboys.

The star running back didn't need much motivation to get in that kind of shape coming off career lows for a 6-10 team decimated by injuries on offense in a dispiriting debut for coach Mike McCarthy last year.

"You don't need more motivation than that," Elliott said after the first practice of training camp in Oxnard, California, on Thursday, his 26th birthday.

"I just know the type of player I am. I don't think I showed that last year. I got a lot to prove. I just made sure I didn't leave any doubt out there that I didn't do as much as I needed to do."

Elliott's work with personal trainer Josh Hicks showed up on social media throughout the offseason, and teammates raved while the 2016 All-Pro stayed mostly silent and let them speak for him.

He posted a picture of his well-defined abs not long before camp, and Elliott wasted no time speaking for himself.

"I mean, that photo is all right," Elliott said. "What will mean a lot to me is going out there and making that work translate to the field, making that work translate to production and making that work translate to wins."

Elliott led the league in rushing as a rookie in 2016 and again two years later. In between, he had the NFL's best per-game average while serving a six-game suspension over domestic violence allegations.

The decline has been steady since, leading plenty to believe Elliott peaked early and was wilting under the workload. Injuries hit the offensive line the hardest in 2020, but quarterback Dak Prescott's horrific season-ending ankle injury in Week 5 got most of the attention.

Those missing pieces effected Elliott perhaps more than anyone, and he finished with career worsts of 979 yards and eight total touchdowns. The three-time Pro Bowler made it worse with a rash of fumbles that led to him tying his career high with six.

Now Elliott says he reported for camp at 218 pounds, matching his weight from when the former Ohio State star was a freshman in 2013.

"He's a magnet full of energy," McCarthy said. "The production on the field is not a concern. The production will be there with the opportunity. Like a lot of things last year, you clearly understand what the numbers reflect. But also there was a lot of adversity that played into that."

The biggest concern for Elliott is a significant drop-off in big plays. His first three years, Elliott had 41 plays of at least 20 yards, including an 83-yard touchdown on a screen pass that was perhaps the best display of his burst.

The past two years, Elliott has just 10 plays of at least 20 yards, which is part of the reason the focus with Hicks in the offseason was on "short-area quickness."

"I think I'm quicker," said Elliott, who mentioned Hicks while also giving credit to his personal chef for his weight loss.

"I've heard as you get older in this league you want to start losing weight, and nutrition has played a big part of that," Elliott said. "I feel good where I am."

The Cowboys are training in California for the first time in two years after the pandemic kept them — and the 31 other teams — home last year. It's been three years for Elliott, who held out the entire preseason in 2019 before signing a $90 million, six-year extension that kicks in with a $13.7 million salary cap hit this season.

Dallas gave Elliott the big contract thinking the club was on the verge of its first Super Bowl run in nearly 25 years. Instead, the Cowboys missed the playoffs, didn't give coach Jason Garrett a new contract, hired McCarthy and again didn't qualify for the postseason.

When Elliott ran for a career-best 1,631 yards as a rookie, the Cowboys were the top seed in the NFC East. Two years later, Dallas won its first playoff game with the No. 4 overall pick in 2016. But now the Cowboys have missed the playoffs more than they've made it with Elliott.

"I think the hardest part about last year is you feel like you let your teammates down," Elliott said. "That hurts. I want to make sure I put my best forward and do everything I need to do to help this team win."

Elliott tried to prove that in the offseason.

NOTES: DE DeMarcus Lawrence opened camp on the physically unable to perform list following what McCarthy said was a "cleanup" procedure on his surgically repaired back. K Greg Zuerlein also had back surgery, and punter Hunter Niswander will handle kicking duties in camp until he returns. ... WR Amari Cooper, who had offseason ankle surgery, also is on the PUP list along with DT Trysten Hill, who missed most of last season with a torn knee ligament, and rookie DL Chauncey Golston (hamstring).

Haase, Tigers win 7th straight, finish sweep of Rangers

DETROIT (AP) — Eric Haase hit a three-run homer in the first inning and the Detroit Tigers extended their winning streak to a season-best seven games by topping the slumping Texas Rangers 7-5 on Thursday.

Zack Short and Victor Reyes also homered for the Tigers, who completed a four-game sweep and a perfect post-All-Star break homestand.

"I'm proud of our entire team's performance," manager A.J. Hinch said. "That's a really good homestand to kick-start the second half. It's a nice feeling right now. We feel really good about how we're playing and we're getting results."

Texas has lost nine straight, equaling its longest slide this season. David Dahl and Isiah Kiner-Falefa each drove in two runs for the Rangers.

Kyle Funkhouser (4-0), the fourth Tigers pitcher, gave up one run in two innings. Starter Tyler Alexander allowed one run on three hits in 3 2/3 innings. Gregory Soto got the last three outs for his 11th save and third in as many days.

Detroit entered the All-Star break on a four-game skid.

"Having fun is winning," Alexander said. "We've been hitting the ball well, we've been throwing the ball well, our bullpen has been doing a great job. So the more you win, the better the environment is."

Texas starter Mike Foltyniewicz (2-10) surrendered six runs, five earned, on five hits in four innings. Foltyniewicz was obviously frustrated when things went sour and manager Chris Woodward wasn't pleased.

"We've got to be tougher," Woodward said. "We've got to almost embrace how difficult this time is. We've got to be stronger as a group and individually, we've got to take ownership."

Haase's 15th homer this season made it 3-0, and Victor Reyes hit a sacrifice fly in the second inning.

"When you have a chance to sweep a team in a three-game or four-game series, if you can take a quick lead, it does make you feel better in your own dugout," Hinch said. "Haase did that with the three-run homer."

Texas scored in the fourth on Andy Ibanez's bloop single. Detroit responded with back-to-back homers from Short and Reyes.

The Rangers pulled within 6-4 in the sixth on Dahl's RBI single and Kiner-Falefa's two-run single, but they never got closer.

"Once (Alexander) got out of the game, we strung together some good at-bats, especially in big spots," Woodward said. "There were some big moments where we got a little unlucky in some of those later innings. We hit some balls hard and just didn't find any grass."

Cleveland's baseball team goes from Indians to Guardians

By TOM WITHERS

AP Sports Writer

CLEVELAND — Known as the Indians since 1915, Cleveland's Major League Baseball team will be called Guardians.

The ballclub announced the name change Friday — effective at the end of the 2021 season — with a video on Twitter narrated by actor Tom Hanks. The decision ends months of internal discussions triggered by a national reckoning by institutions and teams to permanently drop logos and names considered racist.

The choice of Guardians will undoubtedly be criticized by many of the club's die-hard fans.

The organization spent most of the past year whittling down a list of potential names that was at nearly 1,200 just over a month ago. But the process quickly accelerated and the club landed on Guardians.

Team owner Paul Dolan said last summer's social unrest, touched off by the killing of George Floyd in Minneapolis, spurred his intention to change the name.

Dolan is expected to provide more details on the choice and background on the change at a news conference at Progressive Field before the Indians host the Tampa Bay Rays.

In 2018, the Indians stopped wearing the contentious Chief Wahoo logo on their jerseys and caps. However, the team continues to sell merchandise bearing the smiling, red-faced caricature that was protested for decades by Native American groups.

The name change has sparked lively debate among the city's passionate sports fans. Other names, including the Spiders, which is what the team was once called, were pushed by supporters on social media platforms.

But Guardians does seem to fit the team's objective to find a name that embodies Cleveland's ethos while preserving the team's history and uniting the community.

Not far from the downtown ballpark, there are two large landmark stone edifices — referred to as guardians — on the Hope Memorial Bridge over the Cuyahoga River.

Cruz traded to Rays, White Sox vs Brewers

A look at what's happening around the majors today:

NEW HOME

Nelson Cruz is headed to a contender in the biggest deal yet ahead of the July 30 trade deadline.

The defending AL champion Rays acquired Cruz, one of baseball's most proven sluggers, in a four-player trade with Minnesota on Thursday night.

Tampa Bay, in a tight race with Boston atop the AL East, received Cruz and minor leaguer Calvin Faucher from the struggling Twins in exchange for minor league right-handers Joe Ryan and Drew Strotman.

The 41-year-old Cruz has 436 career homers and 1,202 RBIs. He'll bring some needed pop to Tampa Bay's lineup and should help the Rays against left-handers. They're hitting .226 versus lefties.

The seven-time All-Star also has plenty of playoff experience with 17 homers and 37 RBIs in 46 postseason games. He's batting .294 with 19 homers and 50 RBIs this season.

"People joke about how he's ageless, and it really does feel that way," Twins president of baseball operations Derek Falvey said.

FRONT AND CENTER

A pair of first-place teams square off in the opener of an interleague series at Milwaukee when Lucas Giolito (8-6, 3.90 ERA) and the Chicago White Sox visit All-Star Freddy Peralta (7-3, 2.39) and the Brewers. Chicago's nine-game cushion in the AL Central is the largest of any division leader in the majors, followed by Milwaukee (6 1/2 games) in the NL Central.

NL EAST ARMS

Atlanta left-hander Max Fried (7-5, 4.29 ERA) faces Phillies All-Star Zack Wheeler (7-5, 2.44) in an excellent pitching matchup as the teams continue their four-game series in Philadelphia. The Braves and Phillies are tied for second place in the NL East at 47-48, four games behind the New York Mets.

RAMPING UP

Veteran lefty David Price is transitioning back into the Los Angeles Dodgers' rotation, and early results are promising.

The 35-year-old Price worked a season-high four innings in his last start, allowing one run and two hits at Colorado. He'll be on the mound against the Rockies again, on regular rest, as the Dodgers welcome Colorado for a three-game weekend series.

Price is 4-0 with a 3.12 ERA in 25 appearances (five starts) this season.

TIGERS TAKE SHOW ON THE ROAD

The Detroit Tigers are perfect since the All-Star break, winning all seven games of their homestand for their longest winning streak in nearly five years.

Funtastic Fourth

The Band
BIG SPRING

HERALD photos/Dustin Pope

The stage was set, the vendors came to town, and the music was rockin' and a-rollin' for the Funtastic Fourth event this year. The annual event was held at the amphitheater and had a little different twist, but it was a community affair once again.

Dangers in Agriculture: The Little Things

By JUDITH TERELETSKY

Howard SWCD District Clerk

Any profession, or hobby for that matter, can possess a degree of danger. We easily recognize the perils that a firefighter, police personnel or other first responder faces daily. But what about our farmers and ranchers?

The first thing you probably thought of with the farmer facing danger is the large equipment that they must use when out in the field. No one would want to fall victim to the tractor, or threshing or baling machinery. Ranchers deal with livestock and natural wildlife. Imagine being stepped on by a one thousand pound plus cow or being jammed between an agitated sheep and fences/rails. Often agriculture producers are working far from other people or their home base. If a medical emergency occurs — be it snake bite, heat issues, or injury — help may not be readily available.

Beyond these obvious dangers, most people don't think of the little things. By "little things" I mean ticks. Yes, those nasty bloodsucking parasites related to spiders. Ticks feed externally on the blood of the person or animal to which they are attached. They can harbor bacteria in their saliva and transfer an infection when they are feeding. Ticks can spread various diseases in both man and beast.

Ticks inhabit grass, bushes and woodlands. Areas foraged by deer such as our Texas White-tailed deer, are particularly prone to have ticks. Hikers and walkers are often warned to wear long-sleeved shirts and tuck their pants legs into the top of their boots to minimize exposed skin. Protection should include the head and neck as potential attachment sites. There is an old wives tale that ticks drop from trees; however, they actually crawl up the body of their future host. Farmers and ranchers can protect themselves by wearing clothing that will act as a barrier to tick bites. Most chemical tick repellants are made to be applied to the wearer's clothing, not to the skin.

Ticks and tick-borne diseases are an increasing threat to ag producers and their animals. Cattle can contract tick-borne fever or babesiosis, sheep can develop Louping ill, and don't forget the farm cat or the working dog.

As a dog owner, my first Red Heeler dog developed Tick Fever, and my vet (for which I am forever grateful) could identify and treat her. How do ticks transfer these diseases?

Ticks can attach anywhere on a dog's body from between their toes, inside their ears, on their nose and have been found inside their mouths. It is sometimes difficult to locate ticks, especially on the working dogs like the herders (Collies, Heelers, Pyrenees, etc.), as ticks are clever at concealing themselves. They can be difficult to see due to their small size, and are not noticed until they become larger with the blood of their host. They have an anesthetic agent in their saliva, so often they are not felt when they first attach or bite. This saliva is how the bacteria enter the host body. Some people realize they have been bitten by a tick when they develop a bulls-eye rash at the bite site. This doesn't always occur, so it is important if you begin to feel "under the weather" and you may have been exposed to a tick that you contact a physician. The most well-known disease transferred from ticks is Lyme disease. People with Lyme disease can experience chronic debilitating weakness, severe joint pain, and heart disease (inflammation of the heart muscle). Lyme disease can be very hard to diagnose, as sometimes tests provide false negatives, so it is important for the doctor to know if you may have been bitten. Animals can develop intermittent fever, go off their food, become weak and lethargic, develop painful swollen joints and even progress to death. As a dog owner, I was hoping our Ice Storm Uri would have killed off the tick and flea populations. However, since we have been blessed with lots of rain in recent months, it is obvious that mosquitoes, flies and ticks have found their glory days. Peak activity for ticks is usually spring through autumn although mild winters encourage a year-round threat.

The best way to remove a tick is to use a pair of tweezers. Grab the tick as close to the skin as possible and then pull it straight out. Treat the site with soap and water, and/or alcohol. Once removed, the tick itself can be killed in alcohol, wrapped in a piece of tape, or, believe it or not, killed with amber Listerine. Watch the area where the tick has been removed for infection. Of course, prevention is key to many situations, and some of the ways to manage tick population on the farm or everyday areas are easy.

Keep areas where tall grass grows mowed and dry. You can also apply tick and flea repellent to the grass. Treat pets or other animals like cattle with tick treatments or vaccinations. Make sure you contact your veterinarian for these treatments, as some animals can have a reaction to the chemicals. Chickens are ticks' natural predators, so not only will you have some delicious eggs, they will manage the tick population for the ag producers. Even deer can be helped with bait stations that require the deer to rub their heads against a pesticide or citrus oil extract dispenser.

So as the summer months heat up and the grasses grow tall, don't forget to protect against those "little things" that can be a danger to us all.

Highlighting Howard Co. business Clearing out the weeds - Pioneer Weed Control, LLC

By AMANDA DUFORAT

Managing Editor

Howard County has experienced more rain this year than in previous years, which is serving well for lawn growth. While many are used to seeing more brown shrubs than green, this year is experiencing a shift. However, while the grass is growing faster and trees are blossoming, so are the weeds. Don't fret, there is a treatment that is provided locally and Pioneer Weed Control, LLC can direct you into the right product.

Pioneer Weed Control is owned and operated by Summer and Gary Martin and has been serving Howard County for the past three years after being presented with an opportunity. Once the Martins received the business proposal, they began doing their research, and decided to jump in. While the business was originally launched in 2018 with a commercial focus, it expanded quickly, and by 2019 the Martins expanded their customer base to residential customers.

"We offer services for residential or commercial customers in lawn fertilization, weed control, ground sterilization, and lawn pest control," Summer Martin, co-owner of Pioneer Weed Control, said. "We are a locally owned family business."

The Martins were born and raised in Big Spring, and feel honored to be able to serve the residents and neighbors, along with friends and family, across Howard County.

"One of our biggest opportunities we have had since opening the business, and even our greatest opportunity, is building lasting relationships with the residents and business owners in the community," she said.

While there are many products out there that can help treat weeds, lawn pests and help in landscaping needs, the products that are offered through Pioneer Weed Control are selected according to each customer's needs.

"We pride ourselves on customer service and satisfaction. We only choose the best products for our customers," she said. "Whether you are a business owner or a residential owner, if you are having a weed issue or lawn pest issue, our services can meet your needs."

Martin continued, "We can help maintain well-maintained lawns or help get the lush yard you have dreamed about."

helping.

For those looking to start their own business, in whatever venture it may be, Martin encourages you to first and foremost remember to have patience, be willing to put in long hours and have pride in what you do. She reminds of the importance of not getting discouraged and don't give up.

"We love our small town, and are so very thankful for the support you have shown over the past three years," Martin said.

Pioneer Weed Control, located at 500 SE Broadway in Coahoma, is open for business Monday through Friday from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. For more information, visit pioneerweedcontrol.com or follow the Facebook page. Direct questions to 432-466-6347 or 432-268-5937 or e-mail summermartinpwc@gmail.com.

Chamber of Commerce happenings ...

The Big Spring Area Chamber of Commerce extended their appreciation for the Postal Carriers of Howard County during last week's Thank You presentation. On hand representing the Postal Carriers was Josh Childers. "We wanted to show our appreciation for our postal carriers because they work in all conditions. Like they say, through rain, snow, sleet, ice, heat, and even a pandemic, they fulfill their duties and get the mail where it needs to go," Debby ValVerde said. "We, at the Chamber, truly appreciate our mail carrier and all those who are serving Big Spring and Howard County." Each week the Big Spring Area Chamber of Commerce hosts a Thank You presentation to the Chamber members in appreciation of their investment into the community. Thank you to all Postal Carriers for your service to the community of Big Spring, Howard County and surrounding areas. Pictured above right: The Big Spring Chamber of Commerce held a Thank You presentation for Mitchell's Furniture on Tuesday of this week. Thank you for your investment in Big Spring and Howard County.

The bidding:
South West North East
1 ♣ Pass 1 ♦ Pass
2 NT Pass 3 NT
Opening lead — ten of hearts.

The defenders' primary goal is to defeat the contract. In planning the defense, therefore, a defender should automatically reject any lie of the cards that does not allow him to achieve that objective, while at the same time seeking one that will.

Consider this case where South arrived at three notrump on the bidding shown. His jump to two notrump without a genuine spade stopper was somewhat irregular, but no better bid was available.

Declarer took the heart lead with the queen — East playing the discouraging four — and led the jack of diamonds. West won, East following with the deuce, and was faced with the problem of what to do next. Had he continued with a heart, South would have had no trouble scoring 10 tricks.

But West instead shifted to the king of spades, after which declarer could no longer make the contract. This extraordinary play — no other return could have stopped South from getting home safely — had a sound basis. It's purpose was to cut declarer off from dummy's long diamonds, and it succeeded admirably. Whether South won the king with the ace or ducked it (in which case West would continue spades), there would be no entry available later to cash the diamonds.

Two important ingredients went into finding the winning defense. First, East's play of the deuce on the first diamond indicated that he had an odd number of cards in the suit — most likely three (and declarer, therefore, with two). Had East held a doubleton, he would have played his higher diamond first to show an even number of diamonds.

Second, the king-of-spades lead was made in the hope that East had the queen (or South the queen doubleton). Unlikely as this was, West could make no other assumption because to do so would have amounted to a concession of the contract. West therefore did what had to be done to achieve his objective and was well-rewarded for his effort.

Fun By The Numbers

Like puzzles? Then you'll love sudoku. This mind-bending puzzle will have you hooked from the moment you square off, so sharpen your pencil and put your sudoku savvy to the test!

Here's How It Works:

Sudoku puzzles are formatted as a 9x9 grid, broken down into nine 3x3 boxes. To solve a sudoku, the numbers 1 through 9 must fill each row, column and box. Each number can appear only once in each row, column and box. You can figure out the order in which the numbers will appear by using the numeric clues already provided in the boxes. The more numbers you name, the easier it gets to solve the puzzle!

Tomorrow's Horoscope

BY HOLIDAY MATHIS mands respect?

Water Sign Trine

Mercury and Neptune align in water signs to bring about inspired windows into adjacent realities. There are potentials to explore, new worlds to peek into and most profoundly, feelings to be felt. It's a rare moment in which you can play without paying, try before you buy, investigate without pressure to commit.

ARIES (March 21-April 19). It benefits you to delight in the person in front of you and give a level of attention that assumes this is the best match in the entire world for what needs to happen in this moment of time for the both of you.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20). What's better than having all the answers? An excuse to collaborate! There are valuable gems to be mined; you'll do it together while building trust inside what has potential to be a crack-team.

GEMINI (May 21-June 21). You want to give people what they ask for, but they will ask for things outside of your control. At least you have control over the high level of communication and respect you're able to offer.

CANCER (June 22-July 22). To acquire a deeper knowledge of a topic you love is to take part in one of the great pleasures of the modern world -- information at your fingertips. Between this and regulated indoor temperatures, it's a lucky time to be alive.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22). Is the opportunity exciting enough that you'd want to drop everything else you've got going on to take advantage of it? That's the level it needs to be to warrant your "yes" today.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22). You've figured out what wasn't working about the last situation, and maybe you can't do anything about it at this point, but you can sure avoid the same dynamic in your next arrangement.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23). There's no need to comment on what's going on; just experience it. This can be a mental and spiritual discipline and one that pertains not only to outward comments but inward as well. Nonjudgment frees energy.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 21). To open your creativity opens many other things at once, including spirituality, relationships and schools of thought. Imagination is a path to different realms of being.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21). Each person will be wanting the same level of attention from you as the last person, so don't start anything that will be difficult to keep up for everyone in the entire group.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19). The suit looks sharper than the comfortable, stretchy sportswear, and it's an age-old choice that spans beyond the sartorial realm. Which do you want more, your own comfort or the structure that comascend in September. You'll realize the many ways you can leverage your position and what's around you to build something meaningful. It will be your joy to help a loved one or invest in something that will help further down the line. Aquarius and Sagittarius adore you. Your lucky numbers are: 1, 20, 11, 7 and 22.

DEVELOP YOUR INTUITION, LEO: For the cat, intuition is often triggered through sight. A cat's eyes are similar to a human's in that they are tuned into motion and have evolved to key into positional changes in the environment that, once noticed, have an immediate effect on the cat's posture. A feline springing into readiness is an electric phenomenon in and of itself. The cat may not consciously realize what the next move is, but everything in the cat's being seems to align, from whiskers to tail, to execute the pounce.

Leo is the same. Small changes set off Leo's alarms, and without a conscious thought, Leo shape-shifts into a posture of total readiness -- this before Leo even realizes what there is to be ready for.

Developing intuition is a matter of being increasingly sensitized to changes. Whether it's the weather in the sky or differences in workflow or micro-expressions that flicker across the face of friends, the more Leo notices, the keener Leo's intuitive response will be. Note that deliberation or rumination has nothing to do with this process. What's far more helpful is observation, curiosity and the ability to stay in the moment.

CELEBRITY PROFILES: Top producer Jennifer Lopez has several projects in the works, including upcoming "Marry Me" with co-stars Owen Wilson and Jimmy Fallon. The multitasking Leo was born when both the sun and Mercury were in Leo. Her natal moon in Sagittarius favors international appeal, as Sagittarius is the sign of explorers and worldly sophistication. Lopez has ambitious Mars in Sagittarius as well.

Annie's Mailbox

Learning to Forgive

Dear Annie: About a year ago, after talking to a nice guy who could also be a royal pain -- especially when things don't go his way -- I decided to let him into my heart. I did this even though I am usually pretty well guarded and don't allow too many people close to me. I am one of those people who don't feel comfortable sharing my emotions with others, so there are very few people who are aware of the fact that I self-harm by using a razor blade to cut into my arms and, sometimes, legs.

When we argue, he will call me a series of names that are extremely hurtful. During a recent argument over something really stupid, he screamed at me, saying that I should cut deep enough in order to die. Afterward, I did cut for a while just to make me feel better, but it didn't. The next day, he acted as if nothing had happened, and I have tried to forgive him for what he said, but I don't know if I can find a way to do so.

I am confused about whether I should just forget about what was said or if I should hold onto the hurt feelings. -- Confused and In Love

Dear Confused and In Love: The first person you have to forgive is yourself for cutting. The way your boyfriend is treating you is no good. You deserve to be treated better, but before anyone in a relationship is going to do that, you have to treat yourself better and stop cutting.

Self-injury through physical pain can relieve the emotional pain. But first, you have to deal with the emotional pain with a trained therapist, preferably one who specializes in cutting. Please try to not be hard on yourself. You sound like such a wonderful person, and with the right support team in place, I have no doubt that you will find true love, both with another and for yourself.

Dear Annie: I met a wonderful woman eight years ago, and ever since, we have basically lived together. When we first met, we were both coming off a divorce, and we agreed that we didn't want to get married ever again.

Now she would like to get married. I have no problem with that; however, I have to look at our future together. At age 62, I am nearing retirement. She is 55.

I have to look at the fact that Social Security reduces your benefits by a substantial amount if you are married. We are not well-off and need Social Security to survive in the future. I know this isn't very romantic, but sometimes you have to be practical. Thanks in advance for your advice. -- Practical Bill

Dear Practical Bill Love is not practical. If you both would like to get married, then get married. Life is too short.

LOCAL SHOPPORTUNITY is Knocking in Howard County!

Residents are often encouraged to support local businesses by looking to these firms to fill their needs. Small businesses are not just integral parts of communities, employing millions across the country, they also are operations that fund the very communities they service. The following are some key reasons why shopping locally not only benefits small business owners, but also the communities they call home and the customers they serve.

MORE MONEY STAYS IN THE COMMUNITY:

According to the American Independent Business Alliance, for every $100 spent at a local business, $68 remains in the community. Conversely, only 43 percent of every $100 spent at a chain retailer stays in the community.

JOB CREATION:

The Business Alliance for Local Living Economies says local businesses create the majority of economic growth. They employ millions of Americans by creating roughly two-thirds of private sector jobs. Local business owners also tend to hire people who represent the demographics of the communities where the business is located, which may include historically underserved populations.

DIVERSITY OF PRODUCTS:

Local stores tend to diversify their products and services to meet the needs of the local communities, whereas chain stores often stock their shelves based on national demands.

PERSONALIZED SERVICE:

A small business owner may be more inclined to go to great lengths to make customers happy because the long-term success of the business depends on customers becoming repeat customers.

Kristin Kreuk shoulders a final 'Burden of Truth'

BY GEORGE DICKIE

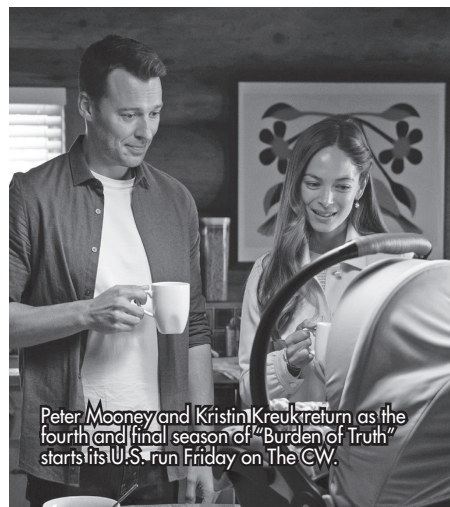

It's "case closed" for Kristin Kreuk ... almost. A staple of The CW's programming for two decades now, the "Smallville" and "Beauty and the Beast" alum already has said farewell to her latest series "Burden of Truth" in its native Canada, where it finished its run in March. The law drama typically has aired later in America, and its fourth and final round begins its CW telecasts Friday, July 30.

The last stanza finds Kreuk's attorney character Joanna adjusting to being a mom as she and her personal and professional partner Billy (Peter Mooney) try to balance parenthood with their latest case, involving mining plans that pose problems for Millwood residents. At the same time, Joanna finds herself under criminal investigation for some past practices. Anwen O'Driscoll, of the recent Lifetime movie "Left for Dead: The Ashley Reeves Story," continues among co-stars.

"I honestly had no clue" that "Burden of Truth" would get a Season 4, Kreuk allows, since Season 3's ending could have wrapped up the show there seamlessly. "I didn't think about it too much, but I'm excited that we got to portray Joanna as a mother. I think that concluding where we did, showing how she was able to take the trauma of her life and transform it while raising somebody else, was really important for our story."

Kreuk notes Joanna and Billy are "constantly being challenged by their circumstances. There are the people they want to be, and they aren't always those people, so they're forced to challenge their idea of who they should be and adjust those expectations."

Equally important was to come up with another case that could stretch across eight episodes. "In Season 1, Millwood lost its main income source, and that has continued," explains Kreuk. "And this mining company is essentially saying, 'We can bring jobs and ensure that people are taken care of." That's really appealing for a lot of those in the town, but Joanna develops a relationship with this woman who's being bullied for her land. She wants her client to settle, but she also wants to protect her."

Also an executive producer of "Burden of Truth," Kreuk is finishing the college studies she's worked around her career. However, she's already taken her next acting job, since she'll appear in an Amazon series based on novelist Lee Child's Jack Reacher character that also has fueled two Tom Cruise movies. (Alan Ritchson, who was Aquaman on "Smallville" while Kreuk was its Lana Lang, has the Reacher part.)

For now, Kreuk is satisfied that "Burden of Truth" comes full-circle. "There's this whole confronting the demons of your past," she reflects, "that's very much at the forefront of this whole season."

Murder, intrigue mark Season 2 of Netflix's 'Outer Banks'

BY JAY BOBBIN

For a young actor, the Charleston, S.C., set of "Outer Banks" can be an idyllic place to work.

The weather is warm, the nearby beaches are beautiful and the city itself has a lot to offer in terms of culture and nightlife. Cast and crew work together like a well-oiled machine and there is a lot of youthful energy on set.

And there is room for improv. Rudy Pankow, who plays JJ, lauds the writers of the Netflix coming-of-age drama for trusting the actors enough to let them go off script if they have a good idea.

"The writers talk to us and are very vocal, like, 'Hey, if you want to try that try it,'" the actor says. "... Then they sometimes let the reins go and we can just run and that's so fun to be a part of a show like that. ... It's like, 'Well, you know the character almost better than us at this point, so I would say take a route that's going to set up for other things. Take that route that you really think that that character would take.'"

As the second season opens Friday, July 30, John B and Sarah (Chase Stokes, Madelyn Cline) are on the run to the Bahamas after being blamed for the shooting death of Sheriff Peterkin in Season 1. Back home in North Carolina, the search for the treasure continues, bringing new friends and foes into the equation while the stakes rapidly escalate for Kiara, Pope and JJ (Madison Bailey, Jonathan Daviss, Pankow).

As for what means for his character, Pankow was understandably tight-lipped, lest he give away spoilers. But he does allow that the conflicts of Season 1 will bleed into Season 2 for JJ in a deeply personal way and cause him to question how far he is willing to go and risk his friends' safety.

But in the end, JJ will always be JJ: a carefree guy with no edit button. Which is what Pankow enjoys most about the character.

"I always tell a story of where I always kind of questioned which character do I really connect with," Pankow says. "And I said JJ because I really understood him to a personal level in terms of he wants to do good but at the end of the day he doesn't seem to always get it right. ... It's kind of hard for him to do that."

A new 'View': Who will replace Meghan McCain?

Q: With Meghan McCain leaving "The View," will Ana Navarro be made a regular panelist now? - Kristin Moss, via e-mail

Meghan McCain

A: Writing this response before a decision has been announced, that certainly would seem to be an option being considered seriously by ABC in determining who secures that seat at the (lately virtual) table for the weekday show's upcoming 25th season. It's always a huge move to fill one of those co-host slots on a permanent basis, and it's also likely to be factored in that McCain was the lone conservative voice among the regulars in the frequently political conversations.

If you look at the history of "The View," it has encompassed quite a diverse range of people who have had a sustained tenure there, from series originator Barbara Walters, Meredith Vieira and Star Jones to Rosie O'Donnell, Elisabeth Hasselbeck and Jenny McCarthy. There's no guarantee that McCain's successor will be a woman, either - CBS' "The Talk" has enlisted some male co-hosts since recent departures on that show - but you can be pretty certain that it will be decided by the time "The View" launches its new season in September.

Q: I was disappointed to read that even though a Season 2 of "Lovecraft Country" was ordered, there won't be one now. Why? - Greg Ryan, Grand Junction, Colo.

"Lovecraft Country"

A: The provision was, since the first season of the HBO series had pretty used up the material from Mark Ruff's novel, that an original second round satisfactory to all involved parties - including HBO executives - could be devised. Evidently, that didn't turn out to be the case, though an extensive "bible" had been created for a sophomore round of the show.

It can be tricky to continue a series that was meant only to be "limited" initially, especially in maintaining the saga's spirit. HBO has faced that several times, notably in extending "Big Little Lies" past the Liane Moriarty novel (though it was able to keep teleplay writer David E. Kelley on board, a very important factor). The cable network is in a similar situation with the Kaley Cuoco-starring "The Flight Attendant," which will need to move beyond Chris Bohjalian's novel for its Season 2.

Dave Burd of 'DAVE' ON FXX

If you were around me all day, I would try to make you laugh the entire time - but also, I'm sure we would have some genuine, real conversations, too. I just think the better version of any content, but especially this show, is one that is more all-encompassing. If characters weren't fleshed-out, real people who had significant thoughts and worries and fears, it would just be a bunch of silliness. And you wouldn't really care about the outcome.

Since "Dave" essentially is about your life, is it hard for you to reveal so much about yourself so publicly?

I guess you could say it's difficult sharing the most inner personal information on national television, but in a way, it's actually not difficult. It's liberating, because I feel like if I share the information, then I'm an open book.

Some famous names have made their way onto "Dave." For instance, what was it like to have Kareem Abdul-Jabbar on the show?

Even when he says, like, "Hey, Dave, where's the bathroom?" ... in real life, I get goosebumps that he's even referring to me by my name. At first, I didn't know him. And by the end, he brought me gifts. He is the sweetest man. The guy has just so many life experiences, and he's done so many things in his life beyond being the leading scorer in NBA history. I'm a massive basketball fan, so there's that, too. And I just think he's such a legendary guy, I felt truly honored to be sharing scenes with him.

While "Dave" ostensibly is a comedy, your semi-fictionalized alter ego in the show also deals with darker aspects as he makes his way through fame as a rapper. How much thought do you put into balancing that with the rest of the show?

Well, I don't think I actively sit around and want to embrace the darker elements of life. I think everything is better when it's real and it's more specific and it's authentic. I don't think I make an effort to balance emotion with comedy; I just try to have a perspective on what life is like.

'The Wine Show' explores Portugal in Season 3

James Purefoy and Dominic West

James Purefoy wants you to have some respect – at least it comes to wine.

Indeed, the British actor and co-host of "The Wine Show," which returns for its third season Thursday, July 29, on SundanceTV, Acorn TV and AMC+, feels that the drinking public doesn't pay enough attention to the craftsmanship behind wine and that too often it winds up down the hatch without much consideration.

"There's a tendency, I think, people when they get a glass of wine, they sip it, they don't really concentrate on that first moment," he explains. "I think it's good to pay a little bit of respect to the wine in the glass. Think about it, smell it, think about it, I mean – and then chug it after that. But at least give the wine growers some element of respect that it is actually touching your mouth somewhere rather than just the back of your throat and into your stomach."

The new season brings Purefoy to Portugal, where he and co-host Matthew Goode travel the country and discover some of its best wines while sommelier Charlotte Wilde goes to the Azores to learn who really invented sparkling wine and champagne. Meanwhile, co-hosts Matthew Rhys and Joe Fattorini do lunch at different restaurants around New York City and pair wines with the different international cuisines. And the series introduces a new co-host in Dominic West ("The Affair"), a wine enthusiast who brings his considerable knowledge to bear at the locations and the tastings.

"He knows his wine, Dominic, no doubt about that," Purefoy says, "and he's very knowledgeable and he understands it and he's got a good poetic nature so he can talk well about wines. And no, he's very good. No, I think I am the least experienced in terms of wine of any of us. ... Matthew Goode and Dominic – they know their wines very well out of the actors."

But while Purefoy may call himself a relative newbie out of the show's cast, he did have a powerful reaction to a wine he tried in the Alentejo region of Southern Portugal.

"There was one wine that we had that made me cry it was so good ...," he says. "Somebody brought us a bottle of a Portuguese wine called Ceis. And I don't know whether it was the heat, the tiredness, the exhaustion – I was just overcome when I drank this wine. Or it could just have been an exceptionally good glass of wine.

"So when I tasted it, my eyes started watering," he continues with a laugh, "and of course, Matthew Goode just sort of said, 'Are you actually crying? That wine has made you cry?' But it seemed to be so perfect for that moment ... and it just seemed life was pretty damn good at that exact moment."

"Generation 9/11" (PBS — new documentary, Aug. 31)

A U.S.-British-French co-production, this new two-hour documentary marks the 20th anniversary of the terrorist attack on New York's World Trade Center by following children born to fathers who died in the collapse of the Twin Towers. An estimated 108 children, unborn on the day of the 9/11 attacks, lost their fathers in that tragedy. The film introduces several of those young people, weaving together such subsequent personal milestones as their first day of school and how they learned about the circumstances of their father's death.

Checking in with JUNO TEMPLE

celebrity scoop
BY JAY BOBBIN

Juno Temple has nothing but admiration for her “Ted Lasso” co-star Hannah Waddingham.

Indeed, as Keeley Jones, the promotional director for the A.F.C. Richmond football club owned by Waddingham’s Rebecca Welton in the Apple TV+ comedy, the 32-year-old British actress spends a lot of time with her on and off screen and she says her friendship has been invaluable over the three years she’s known her.

“I can genuinely tell you that my life has been forever bettered by having Hannah Waddingham come into it,” Temple exclaims. “She is truly one of the most inspiring women I’ve ever been lucky enough to work with. And doing scenes with her feels like home, it feels like a safe place, and I love her endlessly. I really do. I’m sure that sounds cheesy and silly but that’s the truth.”

The currently streaming second season finds Keeley continuing to flourish in her role with the team while she moves forward in her relationship with Richmond player Roy (Brett Goldstein). As for specifics, Temple understandably demurred, lest she give away spoilers. But she will allow that like Season 1, there will be plenty of surprises for viewers – just as there were for the cast.

“We get scripts very last minute,” Temple explains, “so we’re also kind of living our character’s existence because we don’t know what’s going to happen next and you can’t dwell on the past because you’ve got to be in the present because that’s what you’ve just got handed.”

best of ... BEST HARRISON FORD MOVIES
BY JAY BOBBIN

“American Graffiti” (1973)
His role isn’t very big here, but Ford still makes an impression as Bob Falfa, a cocky street racer who challenges the presumed king of them ... John Milner (Paul Le Mat).

“Star Wars” (1977)
Ford blasted off into stardom as reluctant hero Han Solo in the saga’s first fantasy, later rechristened the fourth chapter.

“Apocalypse Now” (1979)
Ford appears in Francis Ford Coppola’s Vietnam War classic as a military colonel named G. Lucas ... in honor of George Lucas, who played a part in developing the film’s script.

“The Empire Strikes Back” (1980)
Arguably the best of the “Star Wars” sequels gives Ford plenty to do in terms of both action and romance.

“Raiders of the Lost Ark” (1981)
With bullwhip in hand, Ford made Indiana Jones an instant icon, confidently combining brawn with smarts and a wry wit. Ford is back at work now making another adventure as “Indy.”

“Blade Runner” (1982)
With his dour, cynical attitude as Replicant-chasing cop Rick Deckard, Ford does much to inform director Ridley Scott’s bleak view of the future. Turner Classic Movies shows the film Friday, July 30.

“Witness” (1985)
Many moviegoers came to understand the Amish via this drama, with Ford as a police detective hiding from corrupt peers.

“Working Girl” (1988)
Light comedy suits Ford well in this Mike Nichols-directed treat, casting him a merger specialist who helps an ambitious secretary (Melanie Griffith) who’s posing as her temporarily incapacitated boss (Sigourney Weaver).

“Presumed Innocent” (1990)
In this adaptation of Scott Turow’s bestseller, Ford underplays ideally as a married attorney accused of killing a seductive colleague (Greta Scacchi) with whom he had an extramarital affair.

Sylvester Stallone furnishes a real 'Cliffhanger'

The Rocky Balboa and John Rambo characters have been the prime successes of Sylvester Stallone's career, but he's had his share of other hits, too.

A perfect example is the well-crafted, stunt-crammed 1993 adventure "Cliffhanger," being shown Wednesday, July 28, on EPIX and also currently streaming on Hulu and Paramount+. Directed by action veteran Renny Harlin ("Die Hard 2"), the picture makes great use of scenic and mountainous Italian locations (though the story presumably is set in America's Rocky Mountains) in what amounts to a classic hero vs. villain set-up.

A typically and ideally muscular Stallone plays newly returned rescue ranger Gabe Walker, who's been AWOL after his inability to prevent a tragedy that opens the movie ... and also has left him at odds with longtime colleague Hal Tucker (Michael Rooker). However, they're forced literally at gunpoint to team up again by a band of thieves led by a master criminal (an enjoyably scenery-chewing John Lithgow) determined to recover the sizable robbery loot lost in an airborne accident after a U.S. Treasury plane's ill-fated hijacking.

Walker's estranged helicopter-pilot girlfriend ("Northern Exposure" alum Janine Turner) and a veteran ranger (Ralph Waite, alias the dad on "The Waltons") also become caught up in the situation, though Walker and Tucker suffer the most continual physical peril from the enemies, facing everything from avalanches to ice-cave stalactites. But they eventually turn it around: Stallone also co-wrote the script, and if there's a chance for one of the bad guys to meet a gruesome end via Mother Nature, the opportunity is not missed.

Between the time of the theatrical trailer and the full movie's release, though, even the makers of "Cliffhanger" seemed to realize that some of the stunts might seem too incredible. In that coming attraction, Stallone seemed to make a running leap off a bridge onto a distant cliff that looked all but impossible to achieve. The picture's staff evidently agreed, since that scene isn't in the finished film.

Which is not to say that those who appreciate great stunt work will be let down by "Cliffhanger." It's quite the contrary, virtually from the moment the picture begins - with Stallone showing off rock-climbing prowess at a very high altitude, with a panning shot making it appear that it's really him doing it - until the final credits roll. Certain scenes clearly were done under controlled studio conditions (witness the climactic showdown between Stallone and Lithgow aboard a crashed, dangling helicopter), but they're still involving and totally in the spirit of the genre.

An enormous summertime success when it debuted, "Cliffhanger" remains hugely entertaining viewing at this time of year, or any time for that matter ... reaffirming that Stallone hasn't always had to be called "Rocky" or "Rambo" to deliver the goods.

This reimagining of the 1999 teen cult hit "She's All That" turns the tables on the genders and stars newcomer Addison Rae as an influencer who accepts the challenge to transform her school's biggest loser (Tanner Buchanan, "Cobra Kai") into the prom king. Rachael Leigh Cook, who played the transformed party in the original, is the influencer's mother here, in a cast that also includes Madison Pettis and Kourtney Kardashian.

JOEL MCHALE

Joel Edward McHale was born Nov. 20, 1971, in Rome, Italy – where his father was the dean of students for Loyola University's branch there. He was raised mainly on Mercer Island, Washington, and graduated with a bachelor's degree in history from the University of Washington.

Though on his college's football team, McHale never played in a game, but he began doing comedy on television and with an improv group. Eventually, he received an arts-related master's degree, then moved to Los Angeles and found work on such series as "Diagnosis: Murder," "Will & Grace" and "Pushing Daisies." He also had a bit part in the movie "Spider-Man 2."

McHale's breakthrough came in 2004 when he began hosting "The Soup," a recap of the previous week in television with a hugely satirical bent. His purposely snarky image from that show has stayed with him ever since, fortified by such other gigs as the 2014 White House

A record-setting surfer pursues his '100 Foot Wave' in HBO documentary series

BY JAY BOBBIN

Sir Edmund Hillary had his Everest, Bob Ballard had his Titanic and now Garrett McNamara has his "100 Foot Wave."

Airing Sundays on HBO, the so-titled six-part documentary series from director/executive producer Chris Smith ("Tiger King," "Operation Varsity Blues") follows McNamara, a veteran surfer from Hawaii, as he ventures to Portugal in the hopes of riding his much-sought-after 100-foot wave and in the process push the sport to greater heights.

His interest in Nazaré, a small fishing village on the country's central Atlantic coast, came about from emails he received from locals, who were curious about whether the dangerous swells they had observed all their lives were surfable. They also wanted to make Nazaré a surfing mecca. McNamara, who for eight years held the Guinness world record for surfing the largest wave, first visited there with his wife Nicole in 2010 and immediately saw his opportunity.

For the 53-year-old surfer, who has ridden giant waves all over the Pacific and even taken on a tsunami in Alaska, riding a monster wave is a profoundly exhilarating experience. But if he makes a mistake, there is something else that is profound.

"Then this massive, basically like an avalanche just lands on you and it feels like with like King Kong shaking it. ... When you don't make a wave is when you ... get the rush because you're getting pounded like you've never been pounded."

And he has the injuries to prove it. In the series, we learn McNamara has incurred a broken back, shoulder, ribs and feet over years of riding giants. But this is a man who has been surfing since age 11 and it's firmly ingrained in his lifestyle. so much so that he

Jacoby hopes to do Alaska proud at 2020 Tokyo Olympics

As Olympic swimmers from Alaska go, Lydia Jacoby is in a class by herself.

Indeed, the 17-year-old native of Seward is the first swimmer from the 49th State to represent the United States in the Summer Games and only the second overall after Corey Cogdell-Unrein, a trapshooter who won the bronze in 2008. And if her performances in the Olympic trials last month are any indication, she could also be in line for hardware in Tokyo.

At the meet in Omaha, Neb., on June 15, Jacoby finished second in the 100m breaststroke to Lilly King, the world's top swimmer in that category, while also ringing up the year's second fastest time in that event. It was enough to clinch her trip to Japan as one of 11 teenagers on the 50-member U.S. squad.

Her breakthrough comes after a year of uncertainty. She qualified for the Olympic trials in 2020, only to have the Games be pushed back to 2021 due to the pandemic. With the 50m pool in Seward closed, the high-school junior kept active by lifting weights, running in ice cleats and skiing. When that pool remained closed after others in the state had reopened, she relocated temporarily to Anchorage, two hours away, to use the facilities there.

That extra year of training and physical maturation appears to have paid off in history-making fashion for Jacoby and now Alaskans and the world will be watching to see if it will ultimately result in a place on the podium.

Jacoby vies in the 100m breaststroke event Sunday and Monday, July 25 and 26, on NBC and other outlets.

"Archer" (FX — season premiere, Aug. 25)
 For many "Archer" fans, the big question is whether beloved actress Jessica Walter — who died in March at age 80 — is part of Season 12. Happily, since Walter adored her hilarious animated role as self-absorbed Malory Archer, she reportedly worked on these new episodes right up until the end, so she definitely will be present to some degree. In the world of the show, Archer (voice of H. Jon Benjamin) and his colleagues face competition from International Intelligence Agency, a faceless new spy conglomerate.
