Howard College Board of Trustees set to discuss budget, tax rate

By ROGER CLINE
Herald Staff Writer

After public hearings on the subject, the Howard County Junior College District Board of Trustees will consider adoption of the district's Annual Budget and Tax Rate when it meets Monday.

Aug. 16, the board set the proposed tax rate at 23.6777 cents per $100 valuation, an increase of about two cents over this year's 21.6675 cents per $100. Howard College President Dr. Cheryl Sparks said the rate would cause the College District's portion of local property taxes on a $100,000 home to rise by $20.10 for the year, while tax on an average-value home in Howard County would increase by $33.84.

Finishing touches on the College District's budget are still being hammered out, according to Dr. Sparks. Although she declined to give any specifics regarding the financial plan for the upcoming year, Dr. Sparks said that it will be presented to the board Monday.

The board will start the meeting with an executive session at 10:15 a.m. to discuss information security and personnel.

At 11:45, the board will break for lunch and will reconvene at 12:30, when they will hold the public hearings on the Howard College and South West College for the Deaf 2021-22 budgets. The board will consider routine matters, including minutes of the Aug. 2 and Aug. 16 meetings; financials for July; monthly reports of Auxiliary Services; personnel matters and an internal audit report.

In the New Business portion of the meeting, the trustees will first hear an update on final pricing of Revenue Refunding Bonds before considering adoption of the annual budgets for Howard College and SWCD and the district's tax rate.

The board will hear an update on the COVID-19 response status and the Open Howard College program; and on plans for the college's 75th Anniversary plans.

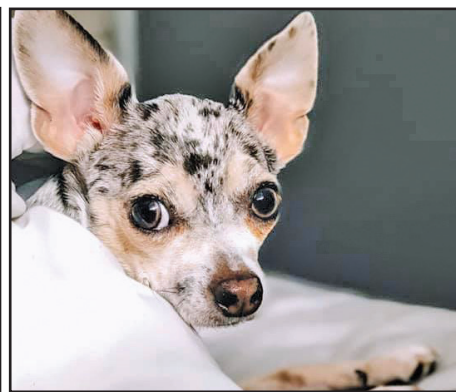

The board will also hear reports on performance measures and outcomes, including the Quarterly Investment Report; and Operational, Financial and Student Success indicators.

The board will consider funding for repair of its Central Plant compressor in Big Spring.

Gum disease linked as major risk factor for severe COVID-19 complications

By DAVID WARD DDS
Special to the Herald

COVID-19 delta variant currently has almost all hospitals in Texas at full capacity.

Almost everyone knows that underlying medical conditions (comorbidities) make COVID-19 hospitalization, need for respirator, and death more likely. Several of these are obesity, diabetes, blood pressure issues, lung diseases, and cardiovascular disease.

Another study from this year show that patients with periodontitis were 3.5 times more likely to need to be hospitalized, 4.5 times more likely to need to be put on a respirator, and 8.8 times more likely to die from CO-VID-19 than those without it. Briefly, gum disease starts by only affecting the gums (gingivitis) but in most people, especially those over 40 years old, gingivitis progresses to periodontitis which destroys the bone around the teeth. Periodontitis is the most common reason for people to lose all their teeth but that's not all.

It has been known for years that the chronic infection and inflammation of periodontitis make people more susceptible to diabetes, heart disease, stroke, pneumonia, dementia and erectile dysfunction among others, What is new, however, is the relationship to COVID-19 described above.

What are the signs of periodontitis? They are: red, swollen, bleeding gums, bad breath, and receding gums. See GUM, Page 3A

This week's reviews are large print fiction and mystery books.

Miss Janie is at the end of a long and full life, but she has no intention of crossing that finish line until she's found her girls in Miss Janie's Girls (LP F BRO C) by Brown, Carolyn. It has been ten years since Teresa and Kayla shook off the dust of Birthright, Texas, went their separate ways, and never looked back. Apart from their foster mom, Miss Janie, they don't have many fond memories of their hometown. Or of each other. Still, neither can forget the kind woman who opened her home and heart to two teenagers in need.

Trevor Benson never intended to move back to New Bern, NC in The Return (LP F SPA N) by Nicholas Sparks. When a mortar blast outside the hospital where he worked as an orthopedic surgeon sent him home from Afghanistan with devastating injuries, the dilapidated cabin he inherited from his grandfather seemed as good a place to regroup as any. Tending to his grandfather's beloved bee hives while gearing up for a second stint in medical school, Trevor isn't prepared to fall in love with a local. Yet, from their very first encounter, his connection with Natalie Masterson can't be ignored. But even as she seems to reciprocate his feelings, she remains frustratingly distant, making Trevor wonder what she's hiding. Further complicating his stay in New Bern is the presence of a sullen teenager girl, Callie, who lives in the trailer park down the road from his grandfather's cabin. Claiming to be 19, she works at the local sundries store and keeps to herself. When he discovers she was once befriended by his grandfather, Trevor hopes Callie can shed light on the mysterious circumstances of his grandfather's death, but she offers few clues until a crisis triggers a race that will uncover the true nature of Callie's past, one more intertwined with the elderly man's passing than Trevor could ever have anticipated. In his quest to unravel Natalie and Callie's secrets, Trevor will learn the true meaning of love and forgiveness and that in life, to move forward, we must often return to the place where it all began.

James Lionel Falconer has risen quickly from a mere shop worker to being the right-hand man of Henry Malvern, head of the most prestigious shipping company in London in In the Lion's Den (LP F BRA B) by Barbara Taylor Bradford. With Malvern's daughter Alexis running away to the country after a terrible tragedy and refusing to return, James' ascent to head of the company seems inevitable. But even a charmed life like James' is not without its setbacks. A terrible fire threatens to end his merchant career before it's had a chance to truly begin. Mrs. Ward, James' former paramour, has a secret that could change his life forever. And his distaste for Alexis Malvern is slowly growing into feelings of quite a different sort. Can James continue to be the master of his own fate, or will all of his charm, intelligence, and wit finally fail him when he has to enter the lion's den?

Detective John Hooper, William Monk's right-hand man at the Thames River Police, has fallen in love with Celia, the cousin of the victim in their most recent murder case in A Christmas Resolution (LP M PER A) by Anne Perry. Now Celia has discovered that the man her good friend plans to marry this Christmas is far from what he seems. His first marriage ended with his wife walking into the sea, not of her own accord, and Celia hopes Hooper can help show her friend the truth.

But Celia herself has not always been truthful, especially not in the murder trial following her cousin's death. How can she be believed now when she lied on the stand?

With Christmas fast approaching and both Celia and her friend's lives on the line, Hooper must put his own moral code to the test often puffy gums that bleed easily, loose or shifting teeth; chronic bad breath; and previous tooth loss not due to cavities.

How is it treated? Periodontitis is treated both non-surgically (often called a deep cleaning) and surgically (either laser or conventional). Any treatment is better than none, but non-surgical is preferred for mild cases where there has not been much bone loss.

For moderate or severe cases, where there has been much bone loss, surgical treatment is far better. The laser version is called LANAP and is what I offer. If the patient wants to see a periodontist (specialist) some do LANAP and some due conventional surgery. Teeth that have a poor prognosis should be removed to improve the prognosis for the others.

Finally, if you have not been immunized doing so will reduce the severe cases of COVID-19 but it does not guarantee it. No vaccine is 100% effective. If you have comorbidities make sure they are being managed. If you haven't seen your dentist lately or if you suspect you may have periodontal disease, see our dentist. Don't wait till it hurts because by then it is very severe.

The painted walls of Alpine

No wall in Alpine is safe from artists. The town is loaded with murals. And a dedicated group of mural lovers figured out unique ways to pay for them. One of the 30 or so murals in Alpine is near the Sul Ross campus and shows the history of the Texas Rangers.

"We painted silver badges all the way around the mural," says Kerri Blackman, a stained glass artist and owner of the Kiowa gallery downtown. "People donated 250 dollars to put a name on a badge. It may have been a father, grandfather, uncle or anyone in the family who was a Texas Ranger. We also put the dates they served on the badge."

Kerri says it takes between 35 thousand and 50 thousand dollars to do a mural. "Most of that goes to the artist. The rest goes to promoting the mural, selling t-shirts, taking care of the donors with a sponsor party and all kinds of stuff. It's a lot of work, but raising money is easy."

The latest mural is one that shows Texas musicians.

"We wanted to pick 36 to 50 iconic Texas musicians. In order to raise money for this mural, we put a bounty on everybody's head. So Willie Nelson, Waylon Jennings, Bob Wills, they were all five thousand dollars. You go on down the list and we have some at 25 hundred, some at a thousand and some at five hundred. We raised over fifty thousand dollars in less than a month."

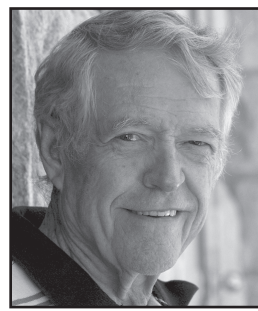

That mural is located near the railroad tracks. Alpine has an alley full of murals. It's called Art Alley.

"That got started by some of the downtown artists. Different owners of those buildings wanted to beautify the alley. It was kind of run down for a long time and then the Main Street program came in and fixed it up a bit and artists took the initiative and started doing the murals."

A lot of people walk through the alley. Others drive through. While we were slowly driving through it, Kerri was describing some of the murals.

"This one is a painting of the Big Bend Chihuahuan Desert and it has javelinas running along, a turkey, a mountain lion, a cactus and other desert plants. This particular one has ceramic figures attached to it. It's really amazing. Another one is called the postage stamp mural and contains about a dozen frames a foot by a foot and a half done by different artists. One of the favorites is a stylized sedan from the 50's titled Cruising the Big Bend. You'll see that our dumpsters are painted, too. They're really cute. Even the backs of the buildings on the alley are painted. Some have nighttime scenes with the moon and stars made of mosaics. The artists who created these did so as a gift to the community. The alley is a popular place for tourists. People have their pictures made standing by a mural. They look like they're a part of it."

TUMBLEWEED SMITH

Doctors have a 'word' to say

Most hunters are so gung-ho, they'll hunt anything that'll run from 'em.

Similarly, TV news folks salivate at the prospect of all-out chases to pluck credible opinions on controversial topics.

This was the case recently when a neurosurgeon was questioned by a Dallas TV reporter. The query concerned the ongoing debate about whether a helmet law should be enacted for motorcyclists. His answer was, uh, a no-brainer.

Explaining that many serious injuries incurred by riders without helmets would otherwise be minor, Dr. Jeremy Denning mentioned that some physicians have coined a word that reveals their opinions.

"They call them 'donor-cycles'," Dr. Denning said. End of interview.

Meanwhile, operators of four-wheel vehicles often give law enforcement personnel reasons to coin names for certain drivers-names that are unfit to appear in a family newspaper.

James Davis, who was playing in big bands before they invented instruments that "plug in," has to smile when he remembers a traffic pull-over several decades ago. Decked out in a tuxedo--common evening apparel for him--he was ready to tickle ivories at a country club gala. However, he was running a bit late, and his foot was a bit heavy. Soon, the red light and siren on the vehicle behind him made stopping his best choice.

The traffic officer rattled off his obligatory lecture, then backed off with "just a warning." Noticing Davis' spiffy tuxedo, the officer barked, "If you weren't late for your own wedding, I'd throw the book at you."

Bill Sanders, a federal government retiree, has reason to smile about a similar offense recently.

His wife Carolyn chuckled as her hubby was red-lighted to the roadside. As the officer strode toward the Sanders' car, she hoped he would make the usual inquiry, the one to determine if the driver has a good reason for speeding.

"I'm late getting to a Crime Stoppers' meeting," Bill answered sheepishly....

The truth, of course, is hard to beat. His speed wasn't THAT MUCH over the limit, and he was indeed en route to the aforementioned meeting. Later, he served as county president for Crime Stoppers.

When Sanders began his career in government service, his assignment was in Austin. It was during the presidency of Lyndon B. Johnson.

One day, the Johnsons were in town, and Lady Bird was planning a barbecue picnic at the ranch. She decided on a "Yellow Rose of Texas" theme.

Sanders' supervisor instructed him to get a dozen garbage cans painted for the event.

The cans are to be painted exactly as Mrs. Johnson instructed," he said. "They are to be 'yellow rose yellow'--not 'lemon yellow,' not 'mustard yellow' and not 'sunrise yellow,'" the boss warned.

For emphasis, he repeated the mandate, asking Bill if he fully understood. Bill said he did.

The ever-resourceful Sanders gave serious thought to the assignment. He feared grave consequences if the painted cans were a hue or two off.

So, his first stop was at a floral shop. He purchased a bouquet of yellow roses before proceeding to the paint shop.

"Paint these cans the same shade as these here roses," Sanders said. "Make sure it's not 'lemon yellow,' 'mustard yellow' or 'sunrise yellow.'" He asked the painters if they understood; they said they did. The eager-to-please painters "yellowed up" the cans just right, and Bill "got it right" for almost 40 years in government service....

I'll end this week's piece by dredging up the old chauvinistic yarn about a traffic officer who finally prevailed after a lengthy high-speed chase.

The veteran DPS guy thought he'd heard them all, but this offender offered a new excuse.

"Officer, I tried hard to outrun you for good reason," the driver said. "A week ago, my wife ran off with a trooper, and I figured he was trying to bring her back."

Big Spring Steers have comeback win in season opener; look to use this win as spring board

Courtesy Photos

The Big Spring Steers opened up their season facing off against the Vernon Lions. It was the Steers who came out on top with a final score of 31-22. The season is just beginning, but the Steers are looking to carry this win throughout the season.

By DUSTIN POPE

Herald Sports Reporter

The Big Spring Steers opened up this season on the road facing off against the Vernon Lions. This was a long drive to open the season, but this Steers team didn't seem to matter. They have been focused all week long, and they went on to show that early on in this game. The Steers went on to outlast Vernon and win this game 31-22.

The 2021 Big Spring Steer Varsity team went full force into this first game and opened the season together with a win. The team has been growing to season and refining their skills the past few years, and this year they are looking to show what a powerhouse they can be. If this season opener was any indication, the Steers will be making a name for themselves this season and leaving their opponents in the dust.

The game started with Vernon getting the ball first. The defense came up big on the first drive shutting down Vernon easy. Then, the Steers on the offensive side of the ball decided to break out this season in style. On what may have been the fifth play of the year, Quarterback Gabriel Baeza found Keagen Mitchell for a 46-yard pass, in which Mitchell showed moves that should only be in video games. After the Steers came out and scored first, it was the Vernon Lions who needed to respond. Respond is precisely what they would do as the Lions started to control the clock by a very consistent running game. The Lions would go on a very long drive keeping the Steers defensive on the field. In the end, the Lions scored and tacked on a two-point conversion, giving Vernon the lead after one quarter of play by a score of 8-7.

The start of the second quarter found the Steers trailing by one single point. It was a close battle all quarter long. Still, it was eventually the Steers who broke through when it was a touchdown pass from Baeza to Wide Receiver Quetauan Lewis with only 1:09 in the first half to take the lead with a score of 15-8. After the score, the Steers defense would shut down the Lions' offense leaving the score in the Steers favors 15-8 after one half of play.

In the third quarter of play, the pace of play stayed the same as the team from Vernon tried to control the clock by keeping the ball on the ground; it would be the Vernon Lions who scored right before the start of the fourth quarter to take a 16-15 lead.

Trailing by one single point, it was the Steers who found themselves self-playing from behind. This would not be easy for the Steers as it was the Lions getting that score on the board first in the fourth quarter extending their lead to 22-15, with just over 5:00 minutes to play. With the game on the line, QB Gabriel Baeza knew it was time to shine, and that is precisely what the young man did. Baeza with hookup with WR Eli Cobos for a TD to give the Steers a 23-22 lead with only 5:38 to play. Following the big touchdown pass, the defense came up big, forcing a critical fumble. The Steers went on to get the ball at the 20-yard line with only 4:47 left on the clock. The Steers went on to work the clock and Windle downtime. The Steers tacked on the extra touchdown that night with only 1:31 to play. It was this touchdown that gave the Steers a lead of 31-22. This was all the Steers needed as they went on to win the forest game of the season.

Even though they made this a close game, the Steers came out on top, and it was Senior quarterback who looked like the veteran quarterback he is. If this game is any indication, the quarterback will be one of the best players in all of the district. I am looking forward to seeing what this team has in store for the future.

DeChambeau overpowers Caves Valley and narrowly misses a 59

By DOUG FERGUSON

AP Golf Writer

OWINGS MILLS, Md. — Big, wide and soft Caves Valley didn't stand a chance against Bryson DeChambeau on Friday in the BMW Championship. Only the record book did.

DeChambeau overpowered the vulnerable course, and when his 8-iron to the par-5 16th rolled off a bank on the back of the green down to 2 feet for eagle, he needed two birdies on the final two holes to tie the PGA Tour record of 58.

He missed from 15 feet on the 17th. He missed a 6-foot putt on the 18th hole and lost his bid at the 13th sub-60 round in PGA Tour history.

DeChambeau had to settle for a career-best 60, giving him a one-shot lead over Patrick Cantlay when thunderstorms caused the second round to be delayed.

Jon Rahm, the world's No. 1 player, also was a shot behind and faced a 15-foot birdie putt on the 16th hole when play was halted by darkness.

"A lot of putts went in. A lot of things went right," DeChambeau said to broadcast outlets. "I played my butt off and never thought too much about anything until the last few holes, and I striped a 9-iron on 17, striped a drive, striped a wedge on 18.

"And just wasn't able to clutch those putts up."

It was the second straight week during the PGA Tour postseason that a player had a putt to break 60 on the final hole. Cameron Smith missed from 12 feet at Liberty National in the third round last week. DeChambeau had an even better look than that.

His wedge landed some 25 feet beyond the flag and the spin caused it to zip back toward the hole, 6 feet below the cup. The putt was wide left all the way. DeChambeau snapped his fingers, tapped in for par and then returned to the spot for a practice stroke, trying to figure out what went wrong.

Little else did.

DeChambeau was at 16-under 128. The second round will be completed Saturday morning, and players will be grouped in threesomes going off both sides for the third round.

Cantlay, who had one of the great putting rounds of his career Thursday, was equally strong in a round of 63 that was largely overlooked. He played in the group behind DeChambeau and played a classic style of golf that resulted in 10 birdies until his lone bogey from a tough lie in the collar of rough around the par-3 17th green.

"Today I hit it better all the way through and also putted really well," Cantlay said. "I thought I played great — 9 under, I'm very pleased. But obviously, there was lower than that out there today."

DeChambeau stuck to his practice of not speaking to the press, only the PGA Tour broadcast partners. That presumably stems from three weeks ago when he said he wasn't vaccinated, saying, "I'm young enough. I'd rather give it to the people who need it."

It hasn't been the smoothest year for DeChambeau.

Highlighting Howard Co. business The beauty a flower holds - Faye's Flowers

Faye's Flowers is owned by Mary Schuelke and Heather Schafer. The flower shop offers an array of services. Those wanting to place an order or find out more about Faye's Flowers can stop by the flower shop, located at 1013 S. Gregg Street.

By AMANDA DUFORAT
Managing Editor

Oh what beauty a flower holds; the special feeling that arrives as flowers are delivered. One local flower shop - Faye's Flowers - has been offering these special sentiments for generations.

Faye's Flowers is owned by Mary Schuelke and Heather Schafer; the shop offers full floral services, including everyday arrangements, special occasions, private parties, weddings, sympathy designs, and more.

Schafer purchased the flower shop in 2008, but the operation has been serving the community since the 1930s, from the same location at 1013 S. Gregg.

"I worked at Faye's Flowers while attending Howard College in the early 90s and fell in love with the business. I always told the owner I wanted to buy Faye's from her when she was ready to retire," she said.

After working at the flower shop locally, and others across the state, and continuing her education, Schafer found her way back to the family environment that helped grow her into the person she is today.

"Faye's is a family friendly environment. We are here to serve you to the best of our ability. We strive to meet the needs of our customers and do not hesitate to go above and beyond for our community," she said.

As the year crosses over to the second half, the goals remain strong for Faye's and Schafer. In addition to keeping involvement with the community, a new line of gift ideas and merchandise will soon be arriving.

According to Schafer, the new gift line will give the customer a new hands on approach to gift giving. In addition, to get the customers and community involved, there will be basic design classes offered once in the Fall and again in the Spring.

The pandemic hit the floral industry, just as many other industries in the community, but through the announcement from Sid Miller deeming the floral industry as necessary, the impact wasn't as hard it as it could have been.

"The pandemic has been interesting for sure. We are cautious to respect our customers wishes," she said. "Faye's is thankful that Sid Miller deemed the floral industry as necessary as it directly supports agriculture all over the state and world."

As Schafer and her staff continue to navigate through the new normal, as the pandemic continues, her drive to support community remains a top priority. In addition, she is grasping onto what she deems her biggest opportunity, which is to support other women.

"I don't know much about starting up a business since I purchased a long established business, but community support is a major foundational piece. Supporting local business is great for forming partnerships, but it's also great for community growth," Schafer said.

Those interested in finding out more about Faye's Flowers are invited to stop by for a visit.

"Faye's Flowers loves Big Spring and surrounding communities," she said. "We are thankful for all the love and support from our customers."

Faye's Flowers is located at 1013 S. Gregg St and is open Monday through Friday from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. More information can also be obtained by emailing flowers@fayes.com.

French 'doughnuts' make a sweet dessert

Fried dough is enjoyed in various forms around the world. While doughnuts are widely enjoyed around the world, the French fried dough, known as beignets, are just as beloved.

Beignets can be made from various dough bases, including bread-flour batters and the common cream puff pastry known as pâte à choux. Pâte à choux is the vehicle in this recipe for a sweet and decadent rum-flavored fritter called "Beignets Soufflés au Bananes" (Rum-Flavored Banana Fritters), courtesy of "French Classics Made Easy" (Workman Publishing) by Richard Grausman. Diced banana and apricot are enhanced by rum, which adds a Caribbean touch to this delicious dessert.

Beignets Soufflés au Bananes

- Serves 6
- 1 cup apricot jam
 - 3 tablespoons dark rum
 - 2 tablespoons water
 - 1 banana, diced
 - 1 teaspoon granulated sugar
 - 1/2 recipe Sweet Cream-Puff Pastry (see below)

- 2 to 2 1/2 quarts vegetable oil, for deep frying
- Confectioners' sugar for dusting

- In a small saucepan, bring the apricot jam, 2 tablespoons of the rum, and the water to a boil over medium-high heat. Strain and keep warm.
- Place the banana in a bowl, sprinkle with the granulated sugar and the remaining rum, and set aside while you make the cream-puff pastry.
- In a deep fryer, heat the oil to 365 F.
- Gently stir the banana-rum mixture into the cream-puff pastry. Drop the batter by tablespoonfuls into the hot oil. The fritters will puff and turn themselves over several times. They are done when they have turned a deep brown color and stopped turning over, about 5 minutes.
- Drain the fritters on paper towels. Place them on a plate or in individual serving bowls. Sprinkle with confectioners' sugar and serve with the hot apricot sauce.

Sweet Cream-Puff Pastry

- Makes 20-25
- 1/2 cup water
 - 4 tablespoons unsalted butter

- 2 tablespoons sugar
 - 1/4 teaspoon pure vanilla extract
 - 1/2 cup all-purpose flour
 - 2 large eggs
- In a medium-size saucepan, bring the water, butter, sugar, and vanilla to a boil over medium-high heat, stirring occasionally. Remove from the heat.
 - Sift the flour into the liquid and stir with a wooden spoon. The pastry should resemble mashed potatoes at this point. Return to the heat and continue stirring for about 20 seconds. The pastry will dry slightly, forming a smooth mass when shaken in the pan. Remove it from the heat.

- Add the eggs, one at a time, stirring well after each addition. The pastry should cling to the sides of the pan and to the wooden spatula once all the eggs have been added. Lift your spatula and check the pastry. It should hang down 2 to 3 inches from the spatula. If the pastry clings to the spatula but does not hang, it is still a little stiff and requires a bit more egg. If the pastry runs down the spatula, you have added too much egg and should start again.

- At this point the pastry is ready to be formed.

The bidding:
East South West North
1♠ Dble 2♥ Pass
4♠ 5♦ Dble

Opening lead — queen of spades. I have done a lot of bridge teaching in my day, and I have always been baffled by why so many players have trouble making use of the number 13. Everyone knows that each player is dealt 13 cards and each suit has 13 cards, but far too many players don't utilize this bridge fact of life as they should. If they would simply invoke the magic number 13 more often, they'd find the play of the cards much, much simpler.

Take this deal where East overtakes the queen of spades with the king and continues with the ace, South ruffing high. Declarer now plays the ace of diamonds, on which East shows out. It is only trick three, but declarer already has a vast amount of information about the opposing hands.

He knows from the play thus far that West started with one spade and four diamonds. He also knows from the bidding that West has at least five hearts headed by the ace (and probably the jack) because West could not double five diamonds without the ace and surely would not have bid two hearts with fewer than five of them. Ten of West's cards in three suits are thus known, leaving him with at most three clubs.

South is now in position to take advantage of what he has learned. He realizes that if he simply draws trump and plays a heart to the queen, he is likely to lose two heart tricks and go down one. To deal with this danger, he cashes the A-K of clubs, leads a trump to the ten and ruffs a club. This eliminates the clubs from West's hand.

South then draws West's two remaining trumps and leads the king of hearts. West, who now has only hearts left, can do no better than take his ace and return a heart, allowing South to score his ten and so make the contract.

Fun By The Numbers

Like puzzles? Then you'll love sudoku. This mind-bending puzzle will have you hooked from the moment you square off, so sharpen your pencil and put your sudoku savvy to the test!

Here's How It Works:

Sudoku puzzles are formatted as a 9x9 grid, broken down into nine 3x3 boxes. To solve a sudoku, the numbers 1 through 9 must fill each row, column and box. Each number can appear only once in each row, column and box. You can figure out the order in which the numbers will appear by using the numeric clues already provided in the boxes. The more numbers you name, the easier it gets to solve the puzzle!

ANSWER:

Tomorrow's Horoscope

BY HOLIDAY MATHIS lomatic mission.

Earth Sign Grand Trine

The moon, Pluto and Mercury align most auspiciously in practical earth signs, echoing the sun's practical agenda in Virgo. We are willing to get down to work, and much can be accomplished in a very short period of time. It is therefore of utmost importance that we focus on the right things: endeavors that will have a healthy ripple effect.

ARIES (March 21-April 19). The intelligence you use to read the room is a communication beyond language. You tune into primal factors and understand how to best manage the social network before you.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20). You don't expect to be paid for any and every exertion of effort. Though an endeavor should ideally be its own reward, which is a kind of payment built into the action.

GEMINI (May 21-June 21). You have a talent for creating easy fun. People enjoy your challenges, and they will play the games you lay out and sign up for whatever daring excitement you propose.

CANCER (June 22-July 22). Improvements cannot be made in theory; they must happen in practice. You can learn why and how something works, but that's not enough to make it work for you. Experience is the best teacher.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22). You are a master of silent communication. It comes with flexibility of focus. You can zoom out or in as needed to get in sync with your target. With the right kind of concentration, you establish mental connection.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22). An enthralling project makes you forget your worries and concerns. And when reality sets back in, you'll have a fresh take on it. What was once important will seem petty or vice versa.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23). Relentless excitement can be emotionally taxing. You'll take a break from drama as you gravitate to kind people with something interesting -- but not too interesting -- to talk about.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 21).

The role of creativity is thought by some to be secondary to the main action -- a garnish on the plate of life. But if you go into this day leading with your creativity, remarkable improvements will blossom.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21). Many things you once wanted are no longer important to you. Either you got them already, or the want weakened until it disappeared. But there are still wants that remain unsatisfied. You'll revive an effort to make it happen.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19). You sense what people need and want. You have a better grasp of the big picture than many can see. With empathy, you open communication. You're perfect for a dip-unfolds its grandeur at your feet. As you lead with curiosity, you'll keep everyone on their toes, increase communication and cooperation, and be instrumental in smooth operations. You'll be celebrated and paid well! Gemini and Sagittarius adore you. Your lucky numbers are: 9, 30, 29, 17 and 5.

FORECAST FOR THE WEEK AHEAD: Mars and Neptune pull at each other from across the sky, highlighting the tension between what we want people to know about us and what our actions actually reveal. Behavior tells more than we often imagine. We are constantly behaving in ways to project an idea about ourselves to mixed results. The realm of image control is mired in contradiction. For instance, the very need to impress others with our confidence belies a lack of confidence.

Every move you make reveals your feelings about yourself to one who is attuned to such things. You shouldn't have to report, explain or broadcast emotions to elicit the reaction of others. In healthy relationships, people feel seen and know they matter as they receive natural and subtle emotional responses of acceptance, belonging and love from those around them. If there's one thing to give yourself that will boost your sense of personal security, it's the gift of good company. Get away from or limit your time with people who make you feel small, unseen and unimportant. We all deserve to be surrounded by sensitive and caring people.

CELEBRITY PROFILES: Solo artist Liam Payne, who rose to fame with the band One Direction, admits to having a phobia of spoons. Considering his natal moon in Aquarius -- an astral placement known to highlight zany eccentricities -- perhaps it's not so strange. This is also the moon of exceptional intelligence, creativity and kindness. Payne's natal sun and Mercury are in hard-working Virgo, and Venus is in Leo, the sign of the entertainer.

Annie's Mailbox

Style Imitator

Dear Annie: After going to college out of state and graduating a few years ago, I moved home with my parents so I could save money while attending graduate school. Recently, my mom has started to get on my last nerve. If I look good in an outfit, she goes out and buys the same thing. Though this has been happening since high school, it's been happening a lot more recently. I've brought it up in the past, but she hasn't seen a problem with it. We don't even have the same body shape or skin tone, so what looks good on me doesn't flatter her. Also, she gets so excited when buying new clothes that she'll wear the outfit over and over again, never giving me a chance to wear it unless I want to match. As I mentioned, I'm trying to save money for school, so going clothes shopping is a rare treat for me. However, my mom would live at the mall if she could. I really appreciate all my parents are doing for me -- living rent-free is a blessing, I know -- but I'm this close to living in my sweats. Annie, how do I stop myself from unraveling? -- The Empress's New Clothes

Dear Empress's New Clothes:

I understand your allergic reaction to Mom's copycat behavior. But the next time she dresses up like her style icon (i.e., you), try changing your outlook instead of your outfit. Perhaps if you look at it as an attempt at being closer with you, it will become less annoying and more endearing. After all, imitation is the sincerest form of flattery.

What's more, although you might be self-conscious, I doubt many people actually notice that you two are dressed like twins. For one, you wear the clothes very differently, as you said. For another, people are generally too busy worrying about how they look to notice how anyone else does.

Dear Annie: My husband has been battling addiction for a long time. Things seemed to be going better, but then items started disappearing from the house. His behavior seemed off. I questioned him but only heard more lies. We went to marriage counseling. I tried to be a good wife. But then everything came crashing down. He is now in rehab. His recovery is in his own hands, and I hope he takes it seriously.

local Al-Anon meetings when I can, but I haven't been able to yet.

I have no idea how I'm going to pick up the pieces of the life his addiction has shattered, but I know I must. I have to carry on for myself and for my daughter. I have been blessed with a huge support group, made up of family, friends and colleagues. Without them, don't know how I would manage getting out of bed in the morning.

Please share this letter to remind people that compassion for victims of addiction can help save someone who feels she has nowhere left to go. You may not be able to help the addict, but you can help those whose lives have been forever upended as a result of the addiction. -- An Addict's Wife

Dear Addict's Wife: I'm printing your call for compassion. That is one thing we could always use more of. If you are still thinking about going to an Al-Anon meeting but haven't yet, go now and think about it later. Find a meeting that fits your schedule at <https://al-anon.org>.

True crime buffs probe 'Only Murders in the Building' in Hulu comedy mystery

A podcast and a resolve to investigate "Only Murders in the Building" bring together an unlikely mix of New York apartment dwellers in a so-named comedic murder mystery series upcoming on Hulu.

In the eight-episode series that begins streaming Tuesday, Aug. 31, a grisly murder in the Arconia, an exclusive Upper West Side apartment building, brings together three strangers: Charles Hayden Savage (Steve Martin), a veteran actor whose claim to fame is for playing a TV detective decades ago; Oliver (Martin Short), a New York stage director with major money problems; and Mabel (Selena Gomez), a mysterious young woman with a link to the victim and no apparent means that would enable her to reside at the pricey address.

All are true-crime aficionados and fans of the podcast "All Is Not OK in Oklahoma." Soon, the oddly matched trio resolve to probe the slaying and start a podcast "Only Murders in the Building" to document their investigation.

The series was created by Martin and John Hoffman ("Grace & Frankie," "Looking") with Short and Gomez also getting executive producer credits here.

"I'm actually a true crime - 'fan' is the wrong word, but I'm interested in it," Martin explains. "I'm interested in the solving of crime. I really like that. And so I had this idea ... This is one the most unusual things I've ever done because it actually has a plot. I usually don't do things with plots." With a long partnership dating back to "Three Amigos!" in the mid-80s, "Only Murders in the Building" represents yet another effort from Martin and Short. The addition of Gomez, best known for her stint as Alex in Disney Channel's "Wizards of Waverly Place," to the pair of septuagenarians may seem an odd match, but Short reports that the 29-year-old actress fit right in.

"What I love about the end product of the show," Short says, "is the three different energies of the actors. I kind of play it very real. Steve goes way over the top. And Selena grounds everything in this kind of dry, hilarious delivery. And the combination, I think, is perfect. And it was a dream to work with this brilliant, young lady."

For her part, Gomez was understandably apprehensive to be working with two comedy legends but those nerves vanished quickly.

"I didn't know what to expect because sometimes I find that comedy people can sometimes be a little bit distant and so I didn't know what I was getting myself into," she explains. "And now I have like these two crazy uncles in my life that basically give me boy advice and I sing rap songs to them."

"Naughty rap songs, I have to add," Martin quips.

national IMMUNIZATION awareness month

August is National Immunization Month, a time to highlight the importance of vaccinations for people of all ages. With school quickly approaching, it's time to check immunizations records to see if your kids are up to date.

In Texas, before a child can attend kindergarten, seventh grade, childcare, or enroll in a new school district, parents or guardians are required to produce documentation that confirms their child has received the school-required immunizations.

For more information on Texas Minimum State Vaccine Requirements for Students Grades K-12, visit - <https://www.dshs.texas.gov/immunize/school/school-requirements.aspx>

Vaccines protect us from dangerous preventable diseases like Chickenpox, Flu, Hepatitis, Measles, Mumps, Meningococcal, Pneumonia, Shingles, Pertussis (whooping cough), Polio and more. Vaccines not only help protect us and those we love from getting these diseases, they also help prevent spreading diseases to those that are unvaccinated.

If your child is needing immunizations to enroll in school, please call the Martin County Family Clinic at (432) 607-3243, to set an appointment. Same day appointments are available.

Camila Cabello gives 'Cinderella' a do-over on Amazon

Entertainment history suggests that any year, and any generation, has room for a Cinderella story.

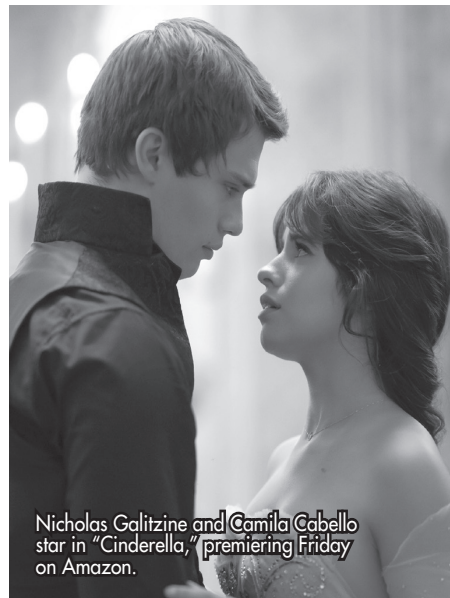

The fairy tale about the goodhearted but oppressed young woman – complete with wicked stepmother and mean stepsisters – who eventually finds her prince and becomes the belle of a ball has been one of the most retold of all stories. Now, it's emerging again in another version, the first to head straight to a streaming service for its debut.

Amazon unveils its "Cinderella" on Friday, Sept. 3, with music star Camila Cabello making her acting debut in the title role. Adapted and directed by Kay Cannon ("Pitch Perfect"), the film was intended for a theatrical release by Columbia Pictures, but the coronavirus pandemic (which shut down the filming for six months) ultimately made it bypass theaters and take the streaming path instead. (Paramount's "The Tomorrow War" and "Coming2America" were other developed-for-theaters movies released first on Amazon.)

Also a producer of the latest "Cinderella," James Corden is a cast member along with Idina Menzel (as the bad stepmom), Minnie Driver, Pierce Brosnan, Primetime Emmy winner Billy Porter ("Pose") and Missy Elliott. British actor Nicholas Galitzine plays the prince, and expectedly, Cabello and "Wicked" stage veteran Menzel sing in the project. A soundtrack is slated for digital release the same day the movie premieres.

Here's a look at some other notable variations of "Cinderella" from years past.

"Cinderella" (1950): The animated Disney classic is an immediate go-to for many families. Of note to fans of television trivia: The singing voice of Prince Charming was later talk-show host Mike Douglas.

Nicholas Galitzine and Camila Cabello star in "Cinderella," premiering Friday on Amazon.

"Rodgers & Hammerstein's Cinderella" (1957): Designed by the composers with her in mind, Julie Andrews got some of her first major American exposure in this TV production that became a stage venture afterward.

"Rodgers & Hammerstein's Cinderella" (1965): Lesley Ann Warren was showcased by this telecast, with later "General Hospital" staple Stuart Damon as her prince.

"Rodgers & Hammerstein's Cinderella" (1997): Whitney Houston (as the Fairy Godmother) and Brandy made a tuneful combination in this revision.

"Ever After: A Cinderella Story" (1998): Drew Barrymore tried on the central role (named Danielle here) in this well-received version.

'My Life Is Murder' moves to New Zealand for Season 2 of Acorn mystery

As much as it is a murder mystery, Acorn TV's "My Life Is Murder" might also be considered a Chamber of Commerce ad for the city of Auckland.

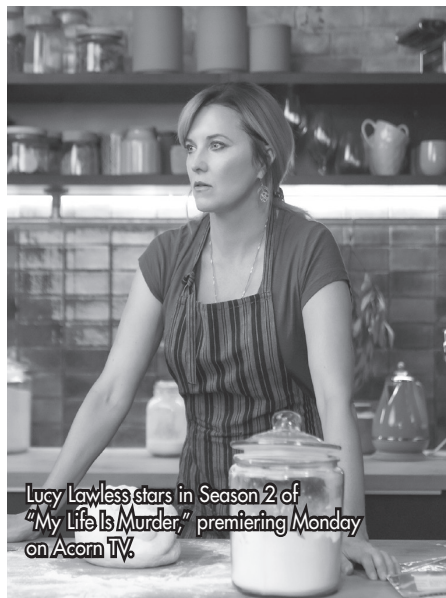

Indeed, as the series opens its 10-episode second season Monday, Aug. 30, its production base and storylines shift from Australia to New Zealand's largest city, where cop-turned-private investigator Alexa Crowe (series star Lucy Lawless) finds herself drawn into the case of a bizarre unsolved murder. In the new season, she's joined by partner-in-crime-solving Madison (Ebony Vagulans, "The Furies"), as well as charismatic detective Harry (Rawiri Jobe, "The Brokenwood Mysteries") and cafe owner Ruben (Joe Naufahu, "Game of Thrones").

But as much as a character in this round is Auckland, which the series displays in all its striking vistas and colors and which Lawless, a native of the city, wants to show off to the world.

"I just want to say come on down," the actress says. "I want to bring people here and this is the way I can bring the most people along as possible. It's built on like 20-something volcanoes, extinct volcanoes, so it's got these beautiful conical parks all over. ... It's just got a lot of character.

"And colors," she continues. "You know, our show is very saturated in color, so it almost has a little bit of a Miami feel. You know, the way Miami is shot is like is the flavor of Auckland but it's definitely not Florida. And we have moy-dah. ... We're going to take care of it for you, with you."

Lawless, who is also an executive producer, often talks about a covenant the show has with its fans, which is to not take itself too seriously while providing humor and solving, as she says in a stilted New York accent, "moy-dahs." The actress is a fan of true crime herself and has sat in on various trials over the years.

She also feels a kinship with her character and says Alexa is basically a version of herself.

"I really don't too much care to live by anybody else's rules," she says. "I think my rules are perfectly humane and generally within the law. So you know, she's a rule breaker but she has a really strict code of ethics and she loves justice. So do I."

Q: I've been seeing ads for the new show "Ordinary Joe," and the actor who stars in it looks like the same one who played Bob Benson on "Mad Men." Is it? – Penny Goldman, via e-mail

James Wolk

A: It is. James Wolk is the performer in question, and he actually has three roles in one in the NBC series that's slated to premiere Sept. 20. The drama has a concept like that of the Gwyneth Paltrow movie "Sliding Doors," showing the multiple ways the same person's life could have turned out if they had just done one thing differently. In-between "Mad Men" and "Ordinary Joe," Wolk has had several other series including "Lone Star," (which somewhat famously aired only two episodes before Fox pulled it), "The Crazy Ones," "Zoo," "Goliath," "Tell Me a Story" and "Watchmen."

Q: Since the on-camera cast is new, why was Kristen Bell brought back as the voice of "Gossip Girl" for the remake? – Cindy Paul, Columbus, Ohio

Kristen Bell

A: The executive producers – who are the same ones on the new HBO Max version as on the original series – likely felt that Bell's distinctive sound was hard to match or beat for that particular part, plus they knew how it was to work with her from having done it before. And as for Bell, as she told us recently, it's one of the easiest jobs she's had in her career since she doesn't have to spend extra time getting her hair and makeup done. It's all about her voice, which she's also exhibited in cartoon voice-overs she's done, so she can look however she wants while recording her lines.

Amy Smart

OF 'DC'S STARGIRL' ON THE CW

How have you found it to play in the world of "DC's Stargirl," which employs both realism and fantasy?

It's so incredible, because the creativity of the storylines and the fan base – and this whole world is just pretty fascinating, so cool. I love being part of "Stargirl" because we're like a big family. We spend six months together every year, and the talent on this is amazing, from all these actors to Geoff (Johns, the showrunner) to the writers to the special-effects team. To me, it's sort of a brand-new experience, even though I've been in this business so long. It's been really eye-opening. and so much fun.

Though your character Barbara knows more in the current Season 2 about her daughter Courtney's super-activities as Stargirl, how was it for you to play the role initially, without her seeming too naive?

There's just so many family dynamics in trying to keep the balance of being a mom and a daughter. Obviously, so much went on in the first season, where Barbara was completely oblivious to it. Her instincts and her intuition knows something's not right, but she has to continue to just go with what she knows ... which is not much, in the first season.

And which is really fun for the second season, because she becomes privy to everything going on – and part of the team in a way. From my personal experience, parenting is so hard. There's just so many challenges; your children are constantly challenging you, and it makes you look in the mirror so much and see where your own weaknesses are, and your patience. I think with Barbara, she has really great intentions for her daughter and her stepson, trying to balance life and be a good mom and role model.

Magnolia's 'Zoe Bakes' aims to make baking easy and fun

BY GEORGE DICKIE

For many people, there is an intimidation factor to baking that puts them off. It can be too exacting, too scientific and therefore too easy to screw up.

Zoe Francois aims to change all that with "Zoe Bakes." Streaming currently on Magnolia Network, the half-hour series follows the trained baker and cookbook author in her Minneapolis home kitchen as she breaks down recipes, be it pie dough, biscuits or pizza, and shares tips and tricks designed to help the home baker create a consistent final product every time.

"They actually are easier to use," she asserts, "like there's less measuring cups and measuring spoons and all this stuff, it's easier and it's super-consistent. So as long as you have a really sound recipe, it's going to be consistent the first time you make it and the last time you make it because weights are always the same, whereas cup measures can really vary so much. So that's one of the things that was hammered home to me in culinary school, working in professional kitchens and now that I am trying to get every home baker to use."

Another favorite trick of Francois', which viewers saw in the premiere episode, is the use of vodka in pie dough, which can be a tricky concoction for a lot of home bakers. Here, she uses the popular liquor as a substitute for adding more water, which can create gluten and make the dough tough.

"I think people are maybe more intimidated by baking than anything else in the kitchen ...," Francois says. "And when I show them like the tricks that I know, all of a sudden like the world opens up and it's no longer scary and they're enjoying it."

One problem many people have when baking, Francois argues, is in the communication of recipes. Here, it's a case of words failing to capture the meaning as measurements of ingredients – like a walnut-sized piece of butter or a heaping cup of flour – can mean different things to different people and thus create room for error. So Francois advocates for the use of scales to level the playing field.

"You want more liquid in there so that you can roll out the dough easily and it's not crumbly and cracking," she says. "If you add vodka, you get more liquid without developing any gluten and it tenderizes the dough, so it's sort of a win in so many directions."

"And you have vodka," she adds with a laugh.

Adapted from a critically acclaimed biography by historian David Nasaw, this new two-part, four-hour documentary profiles media mogul William Randolph Hearst, who transformed the media's role in 20th-century American life and politics and inspired Orson Welles's cinematic masterpiece "Citizen Kane." In the 1930s, Hearst became the first practitioner of what is known nowadays as synergy, building an empire that included 28 newspapers, a movie studio, a syndicated wire service, several radio stations and 13 magazines.

celebrity scoop
BY JAY BOBBIN

If it's said that Eddie Muller wrote the book on film noir, that's not merely a figure of speech.

Turner Classic Movies' wry host of the Sunday and Saturday "Noir Alley" series has revised and expanded his 1998 book "Dark City: The Lost World of Film Noir," now that his weekly television presence is giving new life to – and building a bigger following for – the genre known for often darkly lit mysteries, murders and romances.

"I had to get the rights to the book back from the original publisher," the San Francisco-based Muller explains about releasing the updated "Dark City" edition. "I'm very happy with the way it all worked out, because if I had done that five years ago, I wouldn't have had this gig on TCM then and I don't think it would have reached as many people."

Muller notes "Dark City" now includes "three chapters I originally wanted to put in the book, but were eliminated because of space. For this go-round, I was able to streamline some things, particularly discussing plots of movies. When I wrote the book originally, I honestly didn't think a lot of these movies were going to be seen again, so I was a little too enthusiastic in recounting plots. Now, I know better."

With TCM colleague Ben Mankiewicz, Muller hosted a July series of neo-noir movies, showcasing more-contemporary variations such as "Blade Runner" and "Body Heat." He hopes to do that again, citing the overall genre's appeal: "I don't know that there are passionate groups of screwball-comedy-lovers or Western-lovers. I'm sure there are, but it just seems like the noir stuff has connected."

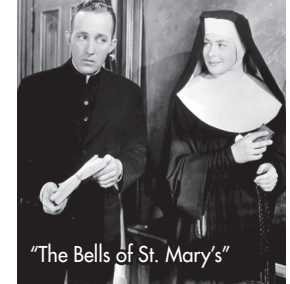

Birthdate: Oct. 15, 1958
Birthplace and current residence: San Francisco

Marital status: Married
Other book credits include: "The Distance," "Shadow Boxer," "Dark City Dames," "The Art of Noir," "Gun Crazy: The Origin of American Outlaw Cinema," "Tab Hunter Confidential: The Making of a Movie Star" (co-written with Hunter himself)

On being known as a film-noir expert: "Almost every day, I'll get an e-mail from somebody who says something like, 'There was a movie, and all I remember is that a guy was on a railroad track at night and he got his leg caught and a train was coming. What was the movie?' I get those all the time, and it's usually about a death scene. 'A guy fell into a vat of molten copper. What's that movie?'"

best of... BEST INGRID BERGMAN MOVIES

BY JAY BOBBIN

"Intermezzo" (1939) Bergman made her Hollywood debut by re-creating one of her earlier Swedish roles as a pianist who shares a forbidden romance with a famed violinist (Leslie Howard). This version is included in Turner Classic Movies' "Summer Under the Stars" Bergman tribute day Sunday, Aug. 29.

"Casablanca" (1942) Well, of course. Bergman has one of the all-time legendary female roles – and will "always have Paris" – in this Oscar winner as Ilsa, club owner Rick's (Humphrey Bogart) former flame who needs his help in getting herself and her husband (Paul Henreid) out of the war-torn title location.

"For Whom the Bell Tolls" (1943) The Ernest Hemingway story casts Bergman as the love interest for Gary Cooper, who plays a soldier during the Spanish Civil War.

"Under Capricorn" (1949) In another round with Hitchcock, Bergman plays a landowner's (Joseph Cotten) wife reunited with an old friend (Michael Wilding).

"Anastasia" (1956) A superb Bergman plays the object of a scheme to bilk the Bank of England, by having her pose as a long-absent Russian royal.

today – for the act of plotting to drive someone insane – features Bergman as the intended victim and Charles Boyer as her highly suspect husband.

movie review

BY JAY BOBBIN

'Four Weddings and a Funeral' keeps working its funny, romantic magic

An original yet universal plot ... an overnight star ... enduring charm ... "Four Weddings and a Funeral" checks a lot of the boxes that keeps a movie hugely popular over time.

Director Mike Newell's British 1994 comedy – which The Movie Channel presents Tuesday, Aug. 31 – opened a cottage industry of such films. Many of them have continued to involve writer and eventual director Richard Curtis, who used his own nuptials-attending experiences to weave the story of seemingly eternal bachelor Charles and his close group of friends and acquaintances (and their respective love lives).

The casting of Charles is key, since it's hard if not impossible to imagine "Four Weddings and a Funeral" without Hugh Grant. He had done a number of period dramas in which he didn't necessarily stand out, but the boyish vulnerability he brought to this role made all the difference. It also kept serving him well in other projects, including the Curtis-generated "Notting Hill" and "Love Actually."

Charles and his immediate group attend weddings quite regularly, and at one, he meets an alluring American named Carrie (Andie MacDowell). By the time their encounter is over and she has to return to the U.S., they've gotten to know each other quite intimately. They're destined to cross paths again – and again – and when they do, surprises will be in store.

That relationship is central to "Four Weddings and a Funeral," tying together what essentially are long vignettes, each focused on one of the title occasions. However, Newell and Curtis are smart to give ample time as well to a marvelous array of supporting players who all have their moments in the course of the picture.

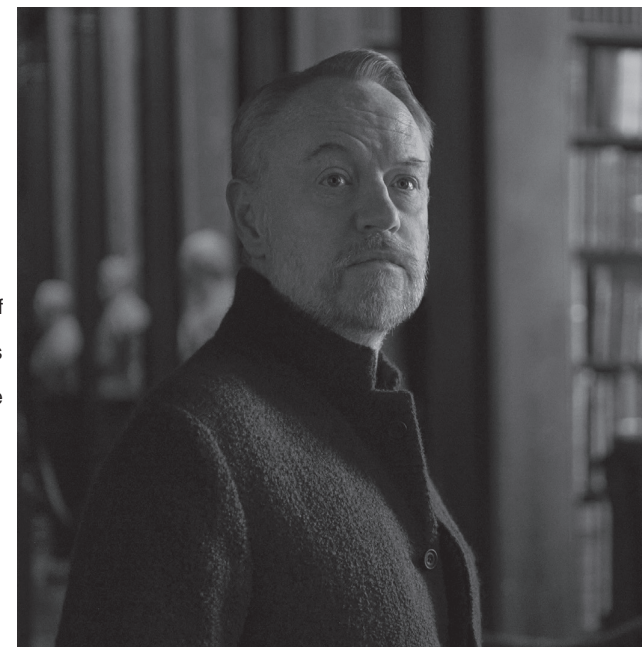

Kristin Scott Thomas, Simon Callow, John Hannah, James Fleet, Charlotte Coleman and David Bower are individually and collectively great as Charles' "gang," with Callow and Hannah standouts as a committed couple. Callow's Gareth is an energetic bundle of in-your-face joy (his bawdy laughs during a desperately unfunny wedding-reception speech are priceless), and then-film-novice Hannah excels as Matthew in the picture's most dramatic moment. Also notable: Rowan Atkinson as a clearly inexperienced and nervous clergyman.

As big a success as "Four Weddings and a Funeral" was around the world, it had a particularly pronounced effect on the film industry in its native England. It became that business' top homegrown moneymaker up to the time, and it obviously paved the way for Curtis to keep doing his particular brand of romantic comedy in his other aforementioned that also grabbed hearts globally.

A Hulu series inspired by "Four Weddings and a Funeral" had a brief run, and the film got a mini-sequel during one of Curtis' "Red Nose Day" initiatives, but neither lived up to the original. And the happy news is that almost 30 years later, that original remains as wonderful as ever.

"My Life Is Murder" (Aug. 30, Acorn TV)

This mystery series returns for Season 2 in a new setting — Auckland, New Zealand, instead of Australia — and finds Alexa (series star Lucy Lawless) back in her home country for the first time in years and asked to investigate a bizarre unsolved murder. New to the cast this season are William Shatner, Martin Henderson and Lawless' former "Xena: Warrior Princess" co-star Bruce Hopkins. (ORIGINAL)

"Five Bedrooms: Season 2" (Available now, Peacock)

The sophomore round of this Australian drama finds the unconventional household on the move again after their home is sold at auction. What lies ahead is a new home, a DIY renovation, two pregnancies, a workplace bullying complaint and an unexpected tragedy, among other challenges. Kat Stewart, Stephen Peacocke and Doris Younane are among cast returnees.

"Ex-Rated" (Available now, Peacock)

Andy Cohen ("Watch What Happens Live") is host and executive producer of this provocative unscripted series that looks at the growing trend of young adults sending all their former romantic partners "exit surveys" to learn why their relationships didn't last or didn't materialize in the first place. (ORIGINAL)

"Dream Team: Birth of the Modern Athlete" (Available now, Paramount+)

The 1992 men's basketball team is widely acknowledged to be the greatest in Olympic history, counting all-time greats Michael Jordan, Larry Bird and Charles Barkley on its roster. CARRIE UNDERWOOD

Carrie Marie Underwood was born on March 10, 1983, in Muskegee, Okla. The youngest of three sisters, she sang at church and local events, and at age 14, an audition was arranged for her at Capitol Records in Nashville – but the intended contract was canceled when company management changed.

A cheerleader and athlete in high school, Underwood graduated magna cum laude with a communications degree from Northeastern State University. She was in beauty contests while pursuing that diploma.

Underwood auditioned for the fourth season of "American Idol," ultimately winning the contest and a recording contract, use of a private jet, and a car. Her first single, "Inside Your Heaven," debuted at No. 1 on the Billboard Hot 100. Her first album, "Some Hearts," topped Billboard's country chart for its week of release – becoming the best-selling album in the U.S. in any genre for 2006, and also yielding the hits "Jesus, Take

Kristin Chenoweth is in a 'WICKED' mood again

BY JAY BOBBIN

It's not that she hasn't been having one elsewhere lately, but Kristin Chenoweth is ready for another "WICKED" good time.

A recipient of many raves lately for her work on Apple TV+'s "Schmigadoon!," the Tony and Emmy winner revisits one of her most famous projects by teaming again with fellow Tony honoree Idina Menzel to host PBS' new special "WICKED in Concert" Sunday, Aug. 29 (check local listings).

As the former co-stars recall their Broadway success in the variation on "The Wizard of Oz" about rival witches, they introduce performances of the Stephen Schwartz songs by a cast that includes Rita Moreno, Cynthia Erivo, Jennifer Nettles, "Glee" alum Amber Riley, Ali Stroker, Alex Newell ("Zoey's Extraordinary Playlist"), among others.

The ever-spirited Chenoweth reports that because of their schedules, she and Menzel taped their "WICKED in Concert" hosting segments separately. Still, the show is structured so they get to perform their legendary duet "For Good" together, and that song in particular is among the fond memories Chenoweth retains whenever "WICKED" is the subject at hand.

"I didn't know what the critics would say,"

Kristin Chenoweth

I had never been in a hit. I prayed for one ... and look what happened!"

As with Apple TV+'s "Schmigadoon!," plus her participation in a recent Broadway-tribute segment on NBC's "The Tonight Show Starring Jimmy Fallon," Chenoweth – who also has a new holiday album on the way ("I'm so excited about it; we got everything done in three days") – is pleased that "WICKED in Concert" will give audiences a taste of musical theater they haven't been able to get in person for a

Djokovic chases history at Flushing Meadows

One look at the men's field at the 2021 U.S. Open reveals a pretty startling fact – there will be three players on hand, barring injury of course, each with 20 career Grand Slam titles under their belt.

Yes, in Novak Djokovic, Roger Federer and Rafael Nadal, the tennis year's final major will have three legends each looking to add Slam No. 21 to their resumes on the hard courts of USTA Billie Jean King National Tennis Center in Flushing Meadows, Queens, N.Y. And considering the career record for Slams before this trio came on the scene was 14, set by Pete Sampras in 2002, that speaks to the level of play in men's tennis these days.

But for Djokovic, there is another mark at hand. With victories this year in the Australian and French Opens and Wimbledon, he can become just the third male player to win all four Slams in a calendar year, after Don Budge in 1938 and Rod Laver in 1969.

After winning the Aussie handily in February, the 34-year-old Serb was met by a worthy adversary in Paris in June, as he had to rally from two sets down against No. 5 seed Stefanos Tsitsipas in a dramatic comeback win. Then at Wimbledon, he took Slam No. 19 with a methodical takedown of Matteo Berrettini in the final in July.

After a disappointing showing at the Tokyo Olympics in which he failed to medal, the man known as "The Joker" took time off to be rested for his date with history.

And that comes Monday, Aug. 30, when Djokovic will take on all comers in the 2021 U.S. Open, which airs for the next two weeks on ESPN and ESPN2.

Where all the top choices can be found in one place!

"All in the Family"
 A film character actor named Carroll O'Connor carved his name permanently into television history in this iconic and much-decorated 1971-79 CBS sitcom in which he stars as Archie Bunker, a Queens, N.Y., blue collar worker whose bigoted views of the world clash sharply with those of his liberal son-in-law Mike (Rob Reiner). Jean Stapleton and Sally Struthers also star.

"Movie: Chaos Walking"
 Tom Holland ("Captain America: Civil War") stars as a young man who protects a mysterious woman (Daisy Ridley, "Star Wars: Episode VII — The Force Awakens") in a dystopian world where all females have disappeared and all men are afflicted by a force that puts their thoughts on display in this 2021 actioner from director Doug Liman ("Swingers," "Fair Game").

"30 Rock"
 Former "Saturday Night Live" player Tina Fey is creator, writer and star of this 2006-13 NBC sitcom about the head writer of a successful comedy series who must deal with an arrogant boss and a crazy new star while trying to keep all of the balls in the air. Alec Baldwin, Jack McBrayer, Tracy Morgan and Jane Krakowski also star. (ORIGINAL)

"Happier Than Ever: A Love Letter to Los Angeles" (Sept. 3)
 Fans of chart-topping, Grammy Award-winning artist Billie Eilish will want to take a look at this concert film, in which she sings every song from her new album "Happier Than Ever" in sequential order in an intimate performance filmed this summer at the iconic Hollywood Bowl in Los Angeles. (ORIGINAL)

"FBI: International" (CBS — series premiere, Sept. 21)
 Mega-producer Dick Wolf launches the third entry in his "FBI" franchise with this new procedural drama, which follows the elite operatives of the Federal Bureau of Investigation's Fly Team. Headquartered in Prague, these top agents are tasked with tracking and neutralizing threats against American citizens wherever they might occur, although they're not allowed to carry guns. "Bones" veteran Luke Kleintank heads an international cast that also includes Heida Reed ("Poldark"), Vinessa Vidotto, Christiane Paul and Carter Redwood.
