Early voting starts Monday on state and local propositions

By ROGER CLINE
 Herald Staff Writer

Election Day this year is Nov. 2, but early voting on the state and local propositions on the ballot starts Monday, according to local Elections Administrator Jodi Duck.

"Monday through Friday, 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. next week," she said. "The next week, the 25th through the 27th is 8 to 5; the 28th and 29th are extended hours - 7 a.m. to 7 p.m."

Early voting will be held exclusively at the Howard County Courthouse - 300 S. Main St.

"Here on the first floor of the courthouse, voter I.D. is still required," Duck said. "If a voter does not own one, but they are registered to vote, they need to bring a utility bill, their voter certificate, or some other form of identification, and we will be able to have them sign a form and vote a regular ballot. So there is a Plan B for those that do not own one of the seven forms of identification."

On Election Day, Nov. 2, voting will be conducted from 7 a.m. to 7 p.m. at Howard County's four polling locations. "We will have the four countywide polling places. They can vote at any one of the four on Election Day, 7 to 7, which are Ryan Hall (605 N. Main St.), First Baptist Church (705 W. FM 700), Coahoma Community Center (306 North Ave. in Coahoma) and Dorothy Garrett Coliseum (1001 Birdwell Lane).

Additionally, local residents may vote by mail, and those with limited mobility can arrange to have a voting machine brought out to their vehicle to cast an early ballot.

"We always offer curbside for those that are unable to enter the building without injury to themselves and having assistance coming in," Duck said. "They can, during early voting, they are welcome to call our office and let us know they are coming so we know where they're parked, or they can have someone who is with them come in to let us know to go out to the car. We are able to qualify them as a voter and then bring a machine out to the car to allow them to vote. Those are for disability issues. Not just offered to anybody, but we do do that for those who are unable

Pints for Polio helping to eradicate polio. Donations, sponsors, and more raised $44,000+

By AMANDA DUFORAT
 Managing Editor

The Greater Big Spring Rotary Club held the "biggest event of the year" at the Howard County Fairgrounds last weekend - Pints for Polio. According to Rotary members, the money raised this year is triple what has been raised in the previous years.

"By far this was our best fundraising event, and we are so grateful to our community for opening their big hearts to sponsor," Najam Hasan, Greater Big Spring Rotary Club president, said.

Pints for Polio began the day out with a cornhole tournament at the fairbarn, with 12 teams competing for the Top Spot. The overall winning team was Paige Atkins and Jaycee Herrera. The second place team was The Killer Bees - Michael Bermea, Third Place was Lance Gross and Eric Herrera,

The annual Pints for Polio event featured more than 50 different beverages and drew a crowd of more than 350. Through the numerous contributions there was $44,000 + raised to help end polio.

and Fourth Place was Bella and Joshua Ibarra. The competition was hosted in partnership with West Texas Baggers Cornhole Club.

"We are 99.9% of the way to eradicating polio, but until that last .1 percent is eradicated we have to keep pushing forward and working to end polio," Jason Beck, Greater Big Spring Rotary Club Treasurer, said.

The annual event brought in around $44,000 which will be used to help eradicate polio and support local service projects in Howard County. Half of the earnings will go to End Polio Now - part of the Rotary International - and be matched 2 to 1 by the Bill and Melinda Gates Foundation to help in the fight against polio.

According to statistics put together by Rotarian Jeff Ward, through the donation there will be $66,000 donated from the Pints for Polio event and in turn will be able to purchase 132,000 doses of the vaccine. Each dose costs about 50 cents. The other funds raised will be utilized throughout the year in service projects and community outreach through the GBSRC.

Obituaries

Linda "Lynn" Elaine Hallman-Hayes

Linda Elaine Hallman-Hayes passed away at her home Sept. 6, 2021, in Milo, Maine. She was born in West Palm Beach, Fla., on Oct. 19, 1959, to her mother, Catherine Ann Pierce-Hallman, and father, Daris Dane Hallman. She was raised alongside her brothers and sisters Todd, Loraine, Douglas and Rhonda Hallman. On Aug. 21, 1984, she was married to Harold Rhea Hayes Jr., and was an amazingly loving mother, or "Momma" to two children, Ashley LeeAnn and Dane Andrew Hayes.

Throughout her life she had a passion for people and interacting with them which is in keeping with her faith in Jesus Christ. She excelled as the Lifestyle Editor of the Big Spring Herald Newspaper. A talent that would prove useful again in what she would say is her greatest professional accomplishment: She mothered tens of thousands of recruit family members through United States Marine Corps boot camp and beyond by running support groups on social media over the span of a decade. For this reason, she'll always be "Forever a Mom".

Her family knew her as a daughter, sister, wife, mother and grandmother. Or, as her grandchildren April, Noah, Scarlett, and Halden knew her, as "Ginga". Linda loved her family "with all her heart and soul."

So much that others in the family were challenged to exert their love even more.

Lynn was one of those extraordinary souls that left a deep footprint in the lives of all she touched, and yes, she touched many. Those lucky enough to get close to her were always better for the experience. Her friends and family will remember her as the life of the party...even if there was no party. With an unmatched sense of humor and kind-heartedness, she brought out the best in people who were in her presence.

Perhaps one of the most magnetic aspects of our dear friend was her personality. Lynn's energy would arrive in a room before she crossed the threshold. A huge and welcoming smile coupled with her quickness to laugh made being in her presence delightful. She was a belly laugh, slap your knee kinda gal, and seldom missed an opportunity to let her joy be heard. There was no keeping this light under a bushel, she let it shine. But that was who she was. Lynn was truly compassionate and giving.

She is survived by her mother, Catherine Hallman; brother, Todd Hallman; sister, Rhonda O'Donnell; son, Dane Hayes; daughter, Ashley Hayes; and grandchildren; April Badger, Noah Badger, Scarlett Hayes, and Holden Hayes.

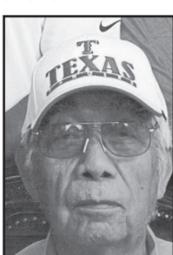

Her last wish was as follows: "I want everyone to know I loved them very much. I want my children and grandchildren to know they mean everything to me and have made me so proud to be their mom and grandmother."

A celebration of life will be held in Boone, N.C., with family and friends at 2 p.m. on Oct. 29, 2021. For further details on the event or to be present, contact Dane Hayes.

to come into the polling place. And then on Election Day, they can call the office and we will let whichever place they go to know that they are coming, so they can be watching for them. Mail in ballots, they need to call our office to request one, or download one off of our webpage and mail that into us. The deadline for that is the (Oct.) 22nd.”
“There's three different ballots, depending on what precinct someone is in,” Duck said. “If they are in the City of Big Spring city limits, then they will have the Texas Constitutional Amendments and the (Big Spring) Charter Amendments. If they are in the City of Coahoma or the City of Forsan, then they will just have the State propositions. And if they are in the unincorporated area of the county, then they will have the state, as well as the Howard County Assistance District proposition.”

Duck urged Howard County voters to turn out and vote.
“This needs to be a high turnout,” she said. “There's a lot of issues on their statewide ballot that people need to get involved in, and know that every election is important.”

- Statewide propositions on the ballot include:
- Proposition 1: Gambling. Authorizes professional sports team charitable organizations to conduct raffles at rodeo venues.
  - Proposition 2: Bond issues. Authorizes a county to issue bonds to fund infrastructure and transportation projects in undeveloped and blighted areas.
  - Proposition 3: Religion. Amends the Texas Constitution to prohibit the state or any political subdivision from enacting a law, rule, order, or proclamation that limits religious services or organizations.
  - Proposition 4: State judiciary. Changes the eligibility requirements for the following judicial offices: a justice of the supreme court, a judge of the court of criminal appeals, a justice of the court of appeals, and a district judge.
  - Proposition 5: State judiciary. Authorizes the Texas State Commission on Judicial Conduct to accept and investigate complaints and reports against candidates running for state judicial office.
  - Proposition 6: Healthcare and Constitutional rights. Amends the Texas Constitution to state that residents of nursing facilities, assisted living facilities, or state-supported living centers have a right to designate an essential caregiver that may not be prohibited from visiting the resident.
  - Proposition 7: Taxes. Amends the Texas Constitution to allow the legislature to extend a homestead tax limit for surviving spouses of disabled individuals as long as the spouse is 55 years old and resides at the home.

- Proposition 8: Taxes and Veterans. Amends the Texas Constitution to allow the legislature to apply a homestead tax exemption for surviving spouses of members of the military to those fatally injured in the line of duty.
City of Big Spring proposed charter amendments include the following. All proposed amendments begin with the words “Amending the Charter of the City of Big Spring...”:
- City Proposition A: ...by deletion and revision to require and ensure compliance with state law.
- City Proposition B: ...by deleting and amending those provisions which are redundant of state law, duplicative of other sections of the Charter or otherwise unnecessary for placement in the Charter.

Ginger is a true dynamite dame

The rodeo announcer's voice sounds over the arena sound system: "We welcome the reigning North American Trick Riding Champions. They are the Dynamite Dames." The music swells and the 3 women individually go through about 5 minutes of death-defying acrobatic stunts while their horse is going full speed over the red dirt. "Because our horses run so fast it keeps the audience engaged," says Ginger Duke of Austin, who organized the group and both rides and teaches the sport. "The spectators are saying, 'Omigosh she's upside and dragging the ground. Is she supposed to do that?' We try to keep the audience guessing as to what's coming next."

TUMBLEWEED SMITH

The group has been together since 2015. Ginger was with another group when she first started out. "I was about 20 years old. It was actually a drill team that also did trick riding. A girl had quit to go to college and I got to fill in her place. I grew up doing gymnastics and cheerleading so riding a horse was just the icing on the cake and now look at me. I'm 39 years old and I'm still trick riding."

When teaching girls how to trick ride, she emphasizes safety. "I'm kind of a drill sergeant. You can't get through the training without something happening. Horse riding we all know is kind of dangerous anyway, then strapping yourself to the horse and hanging upside down is much more so. It's not just learning the tricks. It's learning how to survive an accident. In trick riding it's not a matter of if. It's a matter of when." Ginger speaks from experience.

"I was training a horse and it double-barreled me right in the stomach. It really hurt. I went to find my boyfriend and told him I might need some help. He found my mom and off I go in an ambulance to the trauma unit. I woke up 5 days later and had gone from 135 to 100 pounds. The kick had lacerated my pancreas, and 7 inches of my small intestine right past my stomach was gone.

I was in ICU for 2 weeks and a hospital for 30 days and had multiple tubes sticking out of me,

"For an equestrian the first question after an accident is when can I ride again? My doctor told me I would never ride again and that I was the first one to ever survive the injuries that I received. For 6 months I had the tubes sticking out of my body and multiple more surgeries. Before the accident I had been training for the North American Trick Riding Championship. I said to my parents that I would love to be able to compete. My mother had a fit and told me that I was in no condition to do that. Eventually she let me go into a horse pen and saddle a horse. I was weak and had to have help getting on the horse. I did 5 tricks that first day back on my horse. My mom was having a coronary and said, 'you did 5 of the hardest tricks that most trick riders can't do on their best day and you just did it after spending 6 months sitting in a chair.'

"I got my last tubes out in July and performed at a rodeo on July 4th. I went on in September to win the North American Trick Riding Championship. That was in 2018. So it's been a wild ride."

All in a night's work

During almost two decades of writing weekly accounts of humorous and/or unlikely occurrences, I've never come across anything quite so bizarre as the subject of this week's epistle.

It is a legal case in progress, as the wheels of justice necessarily turn slowly. Otherwise, the folks at Alta Mesa Church of Christ in Fort Worth might have been able to attach a stump grinder to the mechanism, ridding themselves of the trunk in the process.

Here's the deal: In the dark of a recent night, someone(s) drove a big truck onto the church parking lot, leaving behind a giant tree trunk. I am tempted to add "sequoia" or "redwood," but such trees don't fare well in these parts. Therefore, I'm guessing it was a garden variety tree trunk that may have sprung up when Adam and Eve were in the garden. In the here and now--hundreds of years later--it looks like the trunk of an aspen that has grown like a tree on steroids for hundreds of years. Already confused? It gets worse.

When the church staffers arrived the next morning, they were stunned to see stump dumped on the parking lot.

They called in my "Mr. Fix-It" neighbor who had helped them with shrubs and such in the past. Josh (only his first name will be used) is a fireman who has various parttime jobs on the side.

He estimated that he could remove the stump--in sections--for a thousand bucks or so. However, it was projected to be a laborious project involving much sawing and multiple pick-up trips to the dump.

Ever helpful, he recommended that they first review the church's security camera footage. Sure enough, the event was captured, clearly showing the truck and numerous identifiable markings. The old Candid Camera TV show never made situations clearer.

Whatever, Fort Worth police were notified. City workers removed the trunk and the justice wheels started turning.

Josh can think of many reasons that the church parking lot may have appealed to the perpetrators. "Maybe they were tired and maybe the dump was several miles away," he opined. "And maybe they were short on cash needed for dump access." His mind racing, Josh cited numerous other possibilities, including comments like, "Hey, there's a big church parking lot with plenty of room...."

Maybe the youth could chop it up to sell as firewood to help finance their next ski trip." Here's my thinking: Maybe they forgot to tie a ribbon around it, hoping it would be thought of as a Christmas gift and/or an income tax deduction?

I had opened Pandora's box of "what ifs," and Josh was just getting warmed up. When I walked away, he was chuckling about lawbreakers giving no thought to being "done in" by security cameras.

I am told that offenses like this "stump drop" aren't all that unusual. My guess is their miscellaneous items taken to the dump would rival the assortment of "lost and found" at the airport.

The City of Fort Worth spent more than $2,000,000 in 2016 for the removal of litter from private property, with costs continuing to escalate.

Yet, public employees continue to serve, while the legal system continues to seek ways to rehabilitate and encourage walks on the straight and narrow.

We expect too much of public servants these days. Their work is often thankless, sometimes calling for them to face dangers that formerly were never even thought about.

Aren't we lucky that they continue to serve? I salute them. Why not a round of applause, too, for people making ever-improved surveillance cameras?

This vignette reminds me of a convenience store where a one-way mirror hung from the wall. On it a sign had been painted: BEFORE YOU ATTEMPT TO ROB THIS ESTABLISHMENT, YOU ARE WARNED THAT TWO NIGHTS EACH WEEK, AN EMPLOYEE IS LOCKED AND LOADED BEHIND THE MIRROR. YOU GUESS WHICH NIGHTS

Herald Sports Writer

It was another fun-filled night of football for our local teams. Both the Forsan Buffaloes and the Coahoma Bulldogs were on the road this Friday night. The Stanton Buffaloes in a district matchup. Forsan took a little longer trip as they went to Anson to battle the Anson Tigers, which was also a district game. Coahoma was looking for their first district win of the season, but they came up short against the Stanton Buffaloes losing 30 to 17. The loss now drops the Bulldogs to 2-5 on the season and 0-2 in the district. On the flip side, the Forsan Buffaloes were looking to stay perfect, and that is exactly what they did. Behind a huge second-half effort, the Buffs ended up rolling over the Tiger by a final score of 50-27. The win now puts the Buffaloes at a perfect 7-0, and 2-0 in District.

Let's start with the Forsan game. The Buffs came into this game with a 6-0 record in the first time since 1998. This was a close game in the first half of play, as the Anson Tigers proved to be a solid football team. Forsan scored first on the night when running back Chris Mendez busted loose on a pleasant run that put the Buffs up 7-0 with 7:30 left in the first quarter. Anson answered back when they connected on a very log touchdown pass, tying the game up at 7-7. That is how the first quarter of play ended, tied up at seven apiece.

The second quarter began with the Tigers striking first. They were able to move the ball on the ground well and scored with 10:58 left in the second, giving them a 14-7 lead over the Buffs. Anson was not done, as they would score again to go up 21-7 over Forsan. The Buffaloes are not used to trailing, so they got right to work. Quarterback Major Stockton made a huge run to get the buffaloes back in this game, making it a 14-21 lead for the hometown Tigers. Now, this was only a seven-point game, and the Buffs had some good momentum rolling. With time running out in the first half, Forsan punched the ball in the end zone to make this a 20-21 game. Forsan then went for the two-point conversion and it was good giving Forsan a 22-21 lead going into halftime.

This was a closer game than I had expected as the second half of play began. Anson would get the ball at the half, and they drove right down the field on the Buffaloes' defense. The Tigers score and take the lead back. 27 to 22. That would be the last time that the Buffaloes let the Tigers even get close to scoring, as the Forsan Buffaloes played like the team we have seen all season long. Forsan started the scoring with a nice 47-yard touchdown. The score gave Forsan the lead back once again 28/27. Forsan would then strike once again as they dominated the game. Now leading the game 36-27, the better team was pulling away. After a horrible kick-off return from the Tigers that forced them to start at their nine-yard line, the Forsan defense made a play as they picked off the Anson quarterback and ran it in for a touchdown, pushing the lead to 44-27. What was a one-point game when halftime started was now a 17-point lead by the Forsan Buffaloes at the end of the third quarter.

Now, with a nice lead, the Buffs took their foot off the throttle and just ran out the clock and showed mercy to the Tigers. Forsan did score once more ensuring the win as they now had a lead of 50-27.

So, what started as a very close game ended up as a huge blowout win by the Forsan Buffaloes. The win pushed them to a perfect 7-0 in the year and now 2-0 in district play. Once again, this game showed exactly what the Buffs are made of. They played a so-so first half than in the second half they showed their dominance and why they are one of the best teams in the state in 2A. I have said it before, and I will say it again. What we are watching may be history. This team is so good and complete that I truly believe that they can hang with anybody on any given night. It was a great win by a great team, and they deserve that 7-0 record.

The Coahoma Bulldogs traveled to Stanton to take on the Bulldogs. Both teams came into this game with a 2-3 record, and both were 0-1 in district play. With both teams gunning for their first district wins, it set the stage for a great football game. The Coahoma Bulldogs were able to take the early lead against the Buffaloes as after the first quarter of play they had a 10-0 lead. Stanton then battled back in the second quarter tying this game up at 10-10 at halftime. In the second half, the Stanton Buffaloes pulled away from Coahoma and sealed the victory with a 30-17 win. The loss for Coahoma now makes them 2-5 on the season and 0-2 in the district. This will make it an uphill battle for the Bulldogs going forward this season. This team still has time to turn this season around and they can very well do that. Coahoma is full of talent on both sides of the ball. It just hasn't quite worked out just yet.

This was another good night for the Forsan Buffaloes as they continue to have a historic season. As far as the Coahoma Bulldogs, this is another setback, but the season is not over by any means. They have all the pieces in place to make a strong run and finish this season off hot.

because both lost their district openers last week. On this night however the Buffaloes rose to the challenge, thanks to a superb performance by Moreno. He made tackle after tackle from his linebacker position, not to mention intercepting a pass late in the game to stifle a Coahoma scoring threat. On special teams he caused a blocked punt when he pushed the Coahoma up back into his punter and Stanton recovered at the Coahoma two-yard line, resulting in Stanton touchdown on the next play.

Moreno iced the game by throwing a 23-yard halfback pass to Alex Flores for a touchdown with 3:25 left in the game. Throw in a made 32-yard field goal that tied the game at 10-10 at the half. But wait, there's more. He also led all Stanton rushers with 141 yards on 18 carries.

The Bulldogs didn't do to much to help themselves either. They hurt themselves with three turnovers plus the blocked punt. The offense just never seemed to find its groove. Coahoma ran the ball fairly well, rushing for more than 300 yards, but several drives were stopped by untimely penalties.

As usual, Brysen Kerby led Bulldog rushers with 143 yards and a touchdown. Coahoma signal caller Billy Bailey also went over the 100 yard mark, rushing for 107 yards on eight carries, including a 58-yard scoring run in the third period. Coahoma's other score came on a 25-yard field goal by Reagan Chapman, his second in two weeks.

Ky Kemper picked off a Stanton pass on the opening possession of the game, returning it 30 yards, setting up Coahoma's first score of the game.

STANTON - Miguel Moreno was a one man wrecking crew against the Coahoma Bulldogs Friday night. The senior running back/linebacker did just about everything manageable in leading the underdog Stanton Buffaloes to a 30-17 win over the Coahoma Bulldogs.

It was a crucial District 4-3A game for both teams game, returning it 30 yards, setting up Coahoma's first score of the game. Coahoma, which is on a three-game skid, falls to 0-2 in league play and 2-5 overall. The Bulldogs will host Reagan County Friday at 7:30. The Buffaloes, 1-1 and 3-4 will travel to Idalou Friday.

Medical experts agree that early detection is a woman's best defense in overcoming breast cancer. In fact, the National Breast Cancer Foundation reports that when breast cancer is detected in the early, localized stage, the five-year survival rate is 98 percent.

The organization encourages every woman to develop an early detection plan consisting of breast self-exams, clinical breast exams and mammograms based on age and health history.

EARLY DETECTION SAVES LIVES

According to the American Cancer Society, Breast cancer is the most common cancer in American women and is the second leading cause of cancer deaths in women. However, there are over 3.8 million breast cancer survivors in the United States! The key to surviving breast cancer is early detection and treatment. Regular breast exams and routine mammography screenings are key to early detection.

Cancer is most treatable and beatable during its earliest stages. But how does a person detect cancer early, when he or she may not even realize cancer is present? There are a few steps to take.

Screening tests

Scheduling screening tests for common cancers, even if there are no symptoms present, is an effective way to detect cancer in its early stages.

The American Cancer Society recommends the following tests.

- Breast cancer: Women between the ages of 40 and 44 can begin to schedule annual breast cancer screenings if they so choose. The ACS recommends women between the ages of 45 and 54 schedule annual screenings, after which mammograms can occur every two years.

- Colorectal cancer: Regular screenings for colorectal cancers can begin at age 45 with stool-based or visual exams that look for signs of cancer.

- Cervical cancer: This cancer screening should begin at age 25 and continue until women are 65. Pap tests and human papillomavirus tests are recommended at various intervals, typically between three and five years for healthy women.

- Skin cancer: All people regardless of age are advised to check their skin regularly for any changes that may indicate the presence of skin cancer. Screenings for prostate cancer, lung cancer, endometrial cancer, and some others may be important for those with a family history of these cancers or those who are at higher risk due to various behaviors. People are urged to speak with their physicians about cancer screenings and any additional steps they can take to lower their risk for cancer.

Looking for microvesicles

To detect cancers earlier, doctors may employ blood tests that examine the presence of microvesicles in the blood. Harvard Medical School says cells shed microvesicles, but the amount shed by tumors is substantial. However, finding these very small particles requires a powerful device and complicated lab process. Newer innovations at the Center for Systems Biology at Massachusetts General Hospital have led to the development of a handheld device that uses a nanotechnology sensor to detect tumor microvesicles in a drop of blood in roughly two hours. This technology has the potential to diagnose cancer much earlier, according to Dr. Ralph Weissleder, director of the center and developer of the technology.

Feeling "off"

Individuals are their best advocates for early cancer detection. Any symptom that is out of the ordinary and persists should be treated as a red flag. Lumps, pains, the presence of blood in stool or urine, persistent coughs, fatigue, abnormal vaginal discharge, sores that do not heal, and a loss of appetite all could be early signs of cancer. People are urged to schedule appointments with their primary care doctors to discuss any abnormalities.

As cancer spreads, it can affect the effectiveness of treatment. This also may affect chances of survival. The earlier one detects cancer, the greater his or her chances of surviving the disease.

This week's reviews are mystery and fiction titles. Harry Bosch is back as a volunteer working cold cases for the San Fernando Police Department and is called out to a local drug store where a young pharmacist has been murdered in Two Kinds of Truth -Harry Bosch series #20 (M CON M) by Michael Connelly. Bosch and the town's three-person detective squad sift through the clues, which lead into the dangerous, big business world of pill mills and prescription drug abuse. Meanwhile, an old case from Bosch's LAPD days comes back to haunt him when a long-imprisoned killer claims Harry framed him, and seems to have new evidence to prove it. Bosch left the LAPD on bad terms, so his former colleagues aren't keen to protect his reputation. He must fend for himself in clearing his name and keeping a clever killer in prison. The two unrelated cases wind around each other like strands of barbed wire. Along the way Bosch discovers that there are two kinds of truth: the kind that sets you free and the kind that leaves you buried in darkness.

Dr. Dylan Reinhart wrote the book on criminal behavior in Murder Games-Murder game series #1 (M PAT J) by James Patterson. Literally, he's a renowned, bestselling Ivy League expert on the subject. When a copy of his book turns up at a gruesome murder scene, along with a threatening message from the killer, it looks like someone has been taking notes. Elizabeth Needham is the headstrong and brilliant NYPD Detective in charge of the case who recruits Dylan to help investigate another souvenir left at the scene, a playing card.

Another murder, another card, and now Dylan suspects that the cards aren't a signature, they're a deadly hint pointing directly toward the next victim. As tabloid headlines about the killer known as "The Dealer" scream from newsstands, New York City descends into panic. With the cops at a loss, it's up to Dylan to hunt down a serial killer unlike any the city has ever seen. Only someone with Dylan's expertise can hope to go inside the mind of a criminal and convince The Dealer to lay down his cards. But after thinking like a criminal could Dylan become one?

Clayton Valley, Ohio, 1957, Ellie has the best grades in her class in The Daughters of Erietown (F SCH C) by Connie Schultz. Her dream is to go to nursing school and marry Brick McGinty.

A basketball star, Brick has the chance to escape his abusive father and become the first person in his blue-collar family to attend college. But after Ellie learns that she is pregnant, everything changes. Just as Brick and Ellie revise their plans and build a family, a knock on the front door threatens to destroy their lives. This novel tells the story of Brick, Ellie, and their daughter Samantha. It illuminates the issues facing working-class families and their communities, as it chronicles the evolution of women's lives in America. It also explores how much people know about each other and pretend not to, and the secrets that explode lives.

In a storm-ravaged corner of post-nuclear America, Arden is left for dead after a brutal beating from his superior in The Balcony of Fog (F SHA R) by Rich Shapero. On waking, he encounters Estra, a lost woman of mysterious origin, whom he smuggles into his cell. Desperate, and now in love, the two resolve to escape to the place from which Estra has come, the cloud realm. Together, they ascend to the skies and make their home on a vacant cumulus, where Estra initiates Arden into the ways of the vaporous world. On the horizon looms a thunderhead, growing larger and more monstrous as it consumes the clouds in its path.

The thunderhead is following them, and Estra knows and fears the man driving it. As the hidden truths of Estra's past emerge, Arden despairs, then with Estra's encouragement and guidance determines to fight back.

PINTS FOR POLIO

HERALD photos/Roger Cline
The annual Pints for Polio event has once again been marked a success - possibly the biggest success to date for the event. This year's event expanded to the Howard County Fairgrounds and had The Band Big Spring and Big Spring native Mark McKinney performing. Through the support of numerous local and area sponsors the Greater Big Spring Rotary Club's annual Pints for Polio was able to raise money to help eradicate polio. Attendees had an opportunity to sample more than 50 different beverages, enjoy live music and take part in a cornhole tournament earlier in the day.

Healthy Soil Healthy Life

By JUDY TERELETSKY

District Clerk HSWCD

Each year the National Association of Conservation Districts (NACD) holds a poster contest. Howard Soil and Water Conservation District (HSWCD) sponsors a local contest based on this national theme. The 2022 theme is "Healthy Soil Healthy Life" and much like last year's theme of "Healthy Forests Equal Healthy Communities" the statement is a fundamental truth. Soil is a living and life-giving natural resource. Soil can hold all the necessary ingredients for plants to grow. It can have nutrients, organic matter, air, and water all providing support for the root system of plants and if properly cared for soil can continue to grow plants.

Healthy soil does more than provide a place for plants. It gives us clean air and water, crops and forests, grazing lands, diverse wildlife, and beautiful landscapes. Soil does all this by performing five essential functions. It regulates water, sustains plant and animal life, filters and buffers potential pollutants, cycles nutrients like carbon and nitrogen and gives physical stability and support.

Few people think of soil having more in it than different types of minerals. Not only does Texas have various types of soils like clay, rocky or the all too familiar sandy, it plays host to a vast world of living creatures. Millions of species and billions of organisms make up a microscopic and macroscopic world. Bacteria, algae, microscopic insects, earthworms, beetles, ants, fungi and much more live in our soil, especially healthy soil. These organisms like other living creatures need food and shelter. By keeping them healthy our soil can support plants.

As world population and food production demands rise, keeping our soil healthy and productive is of paramount importance. By farming using soil health principles and systems that include no-till, cover cropping and diverse rotations, more and more farmers are increasing their soil's organic matter and improving microbial activity.

As a result, farmers are sequestering more carbon, increasing water infiltration, improving wildlife and pollinator habitat.

Tillage (plowing up the ground) can destroy soil structure and the organic matter that soil organisms need disrupting the biological cycle and making the soil more at risk for erosion. Soils managed with reduced/no till for several years contain more organic matter and moisture for plant use. Practices like no-till keep soil undisturbed from harvest to planting. By keeping the soil covered year-round with crops, crop residue, grass or cover crops it is less likely that wind and water erosion will occur thus protecting the soil. Farmers can save money on fuel and labor by decreasing tillage.

Cover crops are typically planted in late summer or fall around harvest and before spring planting of the next year's crops. Examples of cover crops include wheat, legumes (beans) and clovers. Planting several cover crop species together in a mixture can increase their impact on soil health.

Goldman Sachs' profits jump 60% helped by deal-making frenzy

By KEN SWEET

AP Business Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Goldman Sachs' profits jumped 60% in the third quarter, as the deal-making bonanza that dominated financial markets this summer brought in hundreds of millions of dollars in fee revenue for the investment bank.

The New York-based firm said Friday that it earned a profit of $5.28 billion, or $14.93 per share, compared with a profit of $3.23 billion, or $8.98 a share, in the same period a year earlier. The results were significantly better than the $10.10-per-share profit that analysts had been expecting, according to FactSet.

Much of the jump in profit came from Goldman's advisory and investment banking business, where the firm helps companies go public or buy other companies. The firm brought in $3.7 billion in investment banking revenue last quarter, up 88% from a year earlier.

The economic recovery after the pandemic has pushed many companies to seek new ways to grow, which has gone straight to Goldman's bottom line. Just in the U.S., there have been 94 initial public offerings that have raised $28 billion, the highest number of IPOs for a third quarter since 2000, according to Renaissance Capital.

Goldman's results echoed the strong results posted by its rival Morgan Stanley, which also reported a big jump in profits due to its advisory business. Citigroup and JPMorgan Chase also reported profit gains due to their investment banking businesses.

Goldman also had a strong quarter in trading, although the gains weren't as impressive as in the advisory business. The firm's trading desks brought in $5.61 billion in the quarter, up 23% from a year earlier. While trading of bonds, commodities and currencies was relatively stable, Goldman said it saw its stock trading revenues rise 51% from a year earlier.

Total revenues across the company were $13.61 billion, much better than the $11.72 billion that analysts had expected.

Shares of Goldman Sachs rose 1.9% in morning trading.

Stocks rise as Wall Street heads for best week since July

By STAN CHOE

AP Business Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Stocks are climbing again on Friday, as encouraging reports on the economy and corporate profits help Wall Street firm itself following a shaky few weeks.

The S&P 500 was 0.7% higher in early trading. The Dow Jones Industrial Average was up 337 points, or 1%, at 35,249, as of 10:05 a.m. Eastern time, and the Nasdaq composite was 0.3% higher.

Leading the way for the S&P 500 was freight deliverer J.B. Hunt Transport Services, which delivered to a 5% gain after reporting stronger profits for the summer than Wall Street expected. Goldman Sachs and Prologis each rose more than 2% on better-than-expected profit reports, while Alcoa surged 11.3% after it beat earnings expectations and announced a dividend payment and buyback of its stock.

They dovetailed with a report showing people spent much more at U.S. retailers last month than Wall Street expected. Sales at stores, restaurants and other retail establishments rose 0.7% from August instead of falling, as economists forecast.

Friday's gain follows up on a 1.7% jump for the S&P 500 Thursday, its best day since March, which was driven by stronger-than-expected earnings reports and encouraging data on the job market. The S&P 500 is on track for a 1.8% gain for the week and its best weekly performance since July.

It's a turnaround from a shaky few weeks, when the S&P 500 fell as much as 5.2% from its record set on Sept. 2. Worries about stubbornly high inflation, reduced support for markets from the Federal Reserve and a slowing economy helped to knock stock prices around. The S&P 500 is back within 1.5% of its all-time high.

Treasury yields also rose following the much stronger-than-expected report on retail sales. The yield on the 10-year note climbed to 1.57% from 1.52% late Thursday.

Stock markets overseas were also strong. In Europe, Germany's SAX returned 0.7%, and France's CAC 40 gained 0.8%. The FTSE 100 in London rose 0.4%.

SOIL

Each provides its own set of benefits by increasing organic matter, creating natural water passages with their root systems, and creating natural fertilizers. Cover crops help to prevent erosion from heavy rains and strong winds while trapping nitrogen in the soil.

Cover crops can also provide additional grazing or haying opportunities for livestock producers.

Winter food and cover for birds and other wildlife is an added benefit as is food for pollinators (bees, butterflies, etc.) during the growing season.

Every crop or type of plant needs and contributes various nutrients in the soil. Growing a diverse number of crops in a planned rotation will increase soil organic matter and improve nutrients and decrease the use of pesticides by helping to manage weeds, insects, and diseases.

How do you know if your soil is healthy? Dig a little!

Healthy soil is darker in color, crumbly and porous and home to worms and other organisms that squirm, creep, hop or crawl. An unhealthy soil appears lighter in color, compacted, and contains limited roots and living things. Healthy soil has a sweet and earthy aroma compared to the sour or metallic smell of unhealthy soil. Healthy soil is easy to dig into while unhealthy soil feels dry, cloddy and does not crumble when pulled apart.

How can you improve the soil?

There are four basic principles to improving the health of your soil.

Keep the soil covered as much as possible, disturb the soil as little as possible, keep plants growing throughout the year to feed the soil and diversify as much as possible with crop rotation and cover crops. Improving soil health is vital to long-term sustainable agricultural production. Between 1982 and 2007, 14 million acres of prime farmland in the U.S. were lost to development. Learning about our soils and how we effect our environment is a vital part of helping to keep our soil healthy.

As mentioned earlier, this year's theme for the poster and essay contest held by the Howard Soil and Water Conservation District will be "Healthy Soil Healthy Life". The poster contest is open to all students 12 years and younger. The essay is open to all students 18 years and younger. Information and guidelines have been sent to area schools and can also be requested by calling the HSWCD at 432-267-1871 ext. 3. You can also obtain information by contacting the office at howard@swcd.texas.gov.

President Franklin D. Roosevelt once said, "The nation that destroys its soil destroys itself."

Advancements in the understanding, maintenance, and improvement of our soil have occurred since that statement yet it still holds true today.

Recipe Corner

Zesty meal fit for a crowd

As the weather cools, hearty meals often take center stage. Home cooks may have plenty of go-to recipes to feed their families and guests.

But expanding your culinary horizons can lead to some new family favorites.

Sausage and pepper dishes exist in many different cultures, and can be found everywhere from fairs to family kitchens. This version of "Sausages and Peppers Country Style" from "Nick Stellino's Family Kitchen" (G.P. Putnam's Sons) gives an Italian spin that's perfect for family style meals.

Sausages and Peppers Country Style
Serves 8 generously

4 tablespoons

olive oil

8 spicy or sweet Italian sausages (1 1/2 to 2 pounds total)

1 red bell pepper, thinly sliced

1 yellow bell pepper, thinly sliced

1 medium onion, sliced

6 cloves garlic, thickly sliced

1/4 teaspoon red pepper flakes

4 tablespoons chopped fresh Italian parsley

2 teaspoons chopped fresh rosemary

1/2 cup white wine

1 14 1/2-ounce can Italian-style stewed tomatoes, drained and chopped; juice reserved

1/2 teaspoon salt

1/2 teaspoon freshly ground black pepper

In a large saute pan, heat 2 tablespoons of the olive oil over medium-high heat. When the oil is hot, brown the sausages on all sides.

Remove the sausages to a big plate, slice each into thirds for easier serving, and cover to keep warm.

In the same pan, in the oil left from the sausages, fry the bell peppers over high heat until just brown, about 3 to 4 minutes.

Transfer to the plate with the sausages.

Add the remaining 2 tablespoons olive oil to the pan, reduce heat to medium.

When the oil is hot, add the onion, garlic, red pepper flakes, 2 tablespoons of the parsley, and rosemary until the onion is tender about 6 to 8 minutes.

Add the wine, stirring gently to dislodge any browned bits from the bottom of the pan.

Continue cooking to reduce liquid by half, for about 3 to 4 minutes.

Add tomatoes, salt and pepper, and cook until nearly dry, about 7 to 8 minutes.

Return the sausages and peppers to the pan and add the reserved tomato juice, stirring to incorporate.

Bring to a boil, then simmer, stirring often, until the sausages are cooked through and the sauce has thickened, about 15 minutes.

Serve with homemade or pre-purchased polenta.

Lucky Jupiter Flies Straight

When you feel lucky, you are lucky. Good fortune is all in the interpretation. Most events are neutral. If someone wanted it to happen and it did, that person interprets the event as lucky, while another person on the same scene could have an entirely different take. Jupiter goes direct, the sun squares Pluto and the Pisces moon feels it all.

ARIES (March 21-April 19). It's early in the game, but the little wins and losses along the way will still make a difference to your end result. What matters more than any single move is your determination to see this through.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20). To get things done your way at the price you'd prefer would be wonderful, but it's not in the offering. The good news is that the compromise that is in the offering will be better in the end anyway.

GEMINI (May 21-June 21). Today plays out a lot like your usual day, only happier. There's no single reason for this uptick in mood. The best part about it is that feeling this way will lead to more of the same. Lucky you!

CANCER (June 22-July 22). The good thing about restlessness is its indiscriminate impetus to move. It comes with a feeling that anywhere is better than here; this makes the decision easier. Just go-

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22). You'll be a safe place for someone to land, a confidante, a defender, a reliable agent of justice and more. You'll embody the noble characteristics that will come to define you.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22). The difference between a loan and a gift is one should be repaid literally and the other should be repaid indirectly. In this light, you'd rather deal in loans. The expectations, being clear-cut, are more easily fulfilled.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23). As an exciting person, you realized long ago that if you're bored with your work, the product of that work will be boring. Spicing it up for you brings excitement to the world!

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 21). Enjoy the lightness of being that comes with the day. You approach your work with a smile, and your responsibilities seem like a privilege. You are freed from the need to win love or gain approval.

SAGITTARIUS

(Nov. 22-Dec. 21). Everyone likes to be right. However, you prefer to do it quietly today so as not to attract challengers, competition, controversy, jealousy or anything else that comes with being in the power position.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19). The magician's secret is to control the focus of others and do hidden work while people are focused elsewhere. You'll follow the principle today, working behind the scenes to make something wonderful happen.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18). If, at the end of the day, you can say that you helped someone make progress, lessened their load or lightened their mood, you will count this as a great day. Doing those things forwards every goal you have.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20). You'll go forward in another mode that's not better or worse, just different. You're like James Bond at the mountain's edge, ditching the snowmobile to grab onto the rope ladder of a helicopter.

TODAY'S BIRTHDAY (Oct. 17). A birthday boon comes in the form of an exciting offer. Whether you take it or not, you will be changed for the better by it. The weeks to come feature free-flowing communication and bonding with your favorite people. You protect and care for your loved ones who, in turn, include you among their favorite and most trusted. Leo and Aquarius adore you. Your lucky numbers are: 1, 44, 32, 29 and 15.

FORECAST FOR THE WEEK AHEAD: Both Jupiter and Mercury go direct in this last week of the Libra sun. Then, the moon is full in Aries to turn the intensity up a notch or seven.

Everyone has a unique mood set point and a circle of tolerance within those moods.

The intensity level in which you can process a mood extends equally in every direction. So, you will never hit an emotional high unless you can also handle its equal and opposite emotional low. This may be a helpful thing to remember as you are experiencing feelings that are more extreme. There's a strong case to be made for placing yourself in circumstances conducive of a temperate emotional tone. Can you stick to the middle? The extreme highs and lows are interesting, but the middle is a very productive place to be.

Mars and Pluto square off to pose an interesting question about what it is you think you deserve. The current societal trend is toward an overblown sense of entitlement, and those who suffer from the malady are easy to spot. Not so easily detected are those who lack a healthy sense of entitlement, as their deficiency has them ducking under the radar, giving too much and asking too little. If you fall into the category, consider moving yourself out of it.

CELEBRITY PROFILES: Grammy Award-winner Eminem was initially rejected by fellow rappers, adding fuel to his drive and forming a style that catapulted him to the top of the music charts. Discord is highly upsetting to Libras, who thrive in harmonious conditions. In the case of a difficult domestic scene and hard living conditions, Libra's saving grace is the ability to turn the problems into artistic expression.

The bidding:

1 NT Pass 2 ♣ Pass
2 ♦ Pass 3 NT
Opening lead — five of hearts.
When declarer has more than one line of play available, he should naturally choose the approach that offers the greatest chance of success. This is commonly known as playing the percentages.
In any given case, the right line of play may turn out to be wrong, or the wrong line of play may turn out to be right, but the declarer who regularly opts for the percentage play will do better in the long run than a player who continually bucks the odds.
Take this case where South had to decide which of two finesses to take in order to make three notrump. He started with eight top tricks, and the ninth could come from finessing against East for either the queen of spades or king of diamonds.

There was no indication which of these cards East was more likely to hold, so the two finesses appeared equal in merit. But South correctly decided that the spade finesse offered a better chance for the contract.
So, after ducking the first heart and taking the second with dummy's king, he played the ace of spades and led a spade to the jack. West won with the queen and drove out the ace of hearts, whereupon declarer cashed the king of spades. When both opponents followed, dummy's seven of spades became South's ninth trick.
The advantage of the spade finesse thus becomes apparent. Even though it lost, declarer could still get home safely if the spades divided evenly. Failing that, the diamond finesse was still available.
The same cannot be said for trying the diamond finesse first. If the finesse loses, South doesn't have time to develop any additional tricks in that suit and has only the spade finesse in reserve.
Because the spade finesse gives declarer three chances to make the contract, while the diamond finesse offers only two, attacking spades first is the percentage play.

Like puzzles? Then you'll love sudoku. This mind-bending puzzle will have you hooked from the moment you square off, so sharpen your pencil and put your sudoku savvy to the test!

Here's How It Works:
Sudoku puzzles are formatted as a 9x9 grid, broken down into nine 3x3 boxes. To solve a sudoku, the numbers 1 through 9 must fill each row, column and box. Each number can appear only once in each row, column and box. You can figure out the order in which the numbers will appear by using the numeric clues already provided in the boxes. The more numbers you name, the easier it gets to solve the puzzle!

ANSWER:

Top tips to stay safe this Halloween season

Much like Christmas, Halloween is no longer relegated to a single day. A number of Halloween enthusiasts now begin decorating at the start of October. Hijinks and autumn revelry fill the air as individuals eagerly count down to the end of the month.

Though the light-heartedness of Halloween festivities, such as costumes and candy, garner the bulk of celebrants' attention, it's important to take safety into consideration as well. According to the Mayo Clinic, children are twice as likely to be hit by a car on Halloween as other nights of the year. Cuts and burns also are more common on October 31. A good Halloween scare should come from costumes, not accidents or injuries.

This Halloween, consider these safety measures, courtesy of Safe Kids Worldwide, the Mayo Clinic, the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration, and the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention.

- Make sure you're visible when trick-or-treating. Reflective tape, glow sticks, flashlights, or camping lanterns can make pedestrians more visible to motorists. Pedestrians should walk on sidewalks if they are available. When sidewalks are not available, walk facing traffic and do so as far off to the side of the road as you can get.

- Drivers should be especially alert to pedestrians on Halloween. Drive slowly, as many kids scurry from house to house in search of Halloween candy.
- Pedestrians and drivers should follow the rules of the road, stopping at intersections and crossing in crosswalks. Consider alternatives to carving pumpkins, since the risk of being cut while carving is high. If you want to carve, leave the carving to adults. Utilize battery-operated flameless candles or glow sticks to illuminate jack-o'-lanterns.

- All costumes, wigs and accessories should be fire-resistant. Make sure that costumes do not impede your ability to walk or see.
- Test makeup to check for skin irritation before application. Remove it promptly after returning home.

- Set up a buddy system so that no one is going it alone. Agree on a specific time children should return home. Adults should chaperone young children.
- While incidences of candy tampering may be minimal, no one should snack on candy until it has been inspected. Inspections also protect against food allergies.
- The candy bounty should be rationed so no one overindulges and feels ill later on. Halloween season is a fun time of year, but safety should go hand in hand with all the celebrating on this special day.

Annie's Mailbox

Tipping Across the Pond

Dear Annie: After 32 years of marriage, I still battle daily with what the truth is. My husband, who I have been with since I was 17 (over 36 years), had the "shining star syndrome."

Many of his co-workers found him to be their go-to guy when having relationship troubles in their lives. Only after being told by some female co-workers who were not in his fan club of his lies, disrespect and family-changing damage did I start to connect the dots.

I've had difficult times in my life, such as the diagnosis of a chronic illness, the death of a twin sibling, the death of my mother and a stressful job. It was only after he could not handle the difficult moments that affected me that I realized his behavior was narcissistic.

My biggest heart-break was that I thought that I was not good enough, and the same for our children. I am grateful to those who finally spoke up about his friendships with other women.

I work at saving our marriage every day, and he has become accountable. It took years for him to realize the amount of damage that he caused our young adult children. I will never be completely secure, but I am not a quitter.

I am glad I can stop blaming myself for not handling everyday realities like Superwoman. Any hurt partner should know the truth. It actually saved our marriage and our family. -- Grieving Loved Ones and Lies

Dear Grieving: Thank you for sharing your letter. So many people feel trapped in narcissistic relationships and need to hear that there is a way out of them and a path to freedom. It's great that you acknowledged all the people who helped you along the way. Congratulations.

Dear Annie: I'm here to offer the European perspective on tipping.

In Europe, there is no tipping. People are paid much better wages to begin with, so they know how much money they will earn and can budget accordingly. The price paid is higher over there so the workers don't have to rely on tips.

Did you know that tipping in the United States actually dates back to slavery? I have read that the feudal system of aristocrats helping the poor -- the idea of noblesse oblige -- has been described as the origin of tipping.

When restaurants were hiring newly freed slaves after the Civil War, they hired them as tipped workers so they could pay them next to nothing.

The United States needs to do away with this practice like the Europeans have. -- Offering a Tip

Dear Tip: Thank you for offering a history lesson and your perspective on tipping. I am curious to hear what other readers have to say, especially those whose primary income comes from receiving tips.

Reunited singers are the 'Queens' of new ABC drama

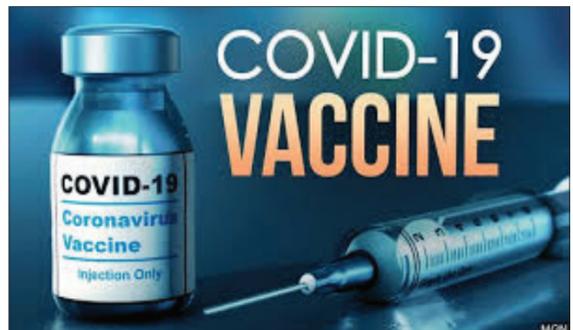

Television is bringing another band back together ... or, more precisely, another female singing group. Not long after Peacock's "Girls5eva" reunited former vocal partners, so does ABC's drama series "Queens," premiering Tuesday, Oct. 19. Music stars Brandy and Eve play, along with Naturi Naughton ("Power") and Nadine Velazquez ("Flight"), members of a '90s hip-hop group who try to recapture their shared former fame. Each woman walks a different path now, though, making their reunion bid shaky. Taylor Sele portrays their manager, who also handles the currently popular Lil Muffin (Pepi Sonuga). "I think our show is about sisterhood and family," says "Queens" creator and executive producer Zahir McGhee. "You fight with your family, and these are people that have been brought back together after a long period of time. There's always going to be arguments. There's always going to be a hierarchy that exists, and shifting, but we do want to be on the friendship more than rivalry or bickering or backstabbing." Since its main characters' fame hails from the '90s, "Queens" invokes that decade significantly. "We've lived that time," ex-"The Talk" co-host Eve reasons. "We come from that time, so it's important for us, and there definitely will be moments from those times. When people listen to the music, when they see our outfits, when they see our hair, everything ... we want them to be transported back to that moment. It's all about the authenticity." For Brandy, who previously had a healthy series run with the sitcom "Moesha," it's also all about getting to fulfill her major career aims. "You're born with this passion," she reflects, "and you go after the things that you dream about. I've always wanted to sing. I've always wanted to inspire people, and I just felt that that was my purpose, so I went after it. And this show 'Queens,' is such a blessing, because I get to do everything that I love to do all in one show, with amazing people. I'm just so excited. I can't even believe this is happening." Swizz Beatz serves as executive music producer of "Queens," and his mission is to make the show's soundtrack as vital as the drama – with each of those elements enhancing the other. "It's almost like reliving your younger life again," he maintains. "I actually was doing this in the '90s, so to come back and do it in 2021, it just feels good. It feels natural. And being that it's a show, I get to have extra fun. I don't have to be so serious with the music. We can put risky things in there and make the characters come out even more, so it's been a fun journey."

Monica Raymund stars in "Hightown," premiering its second season Sunday on Starz.

Things are on the upswing for Cape Cod fisheries agent Jackie Quinones, who like the actress portraying her takes on a new role as the Starz drama "Hightown" opens its second season.

Premiering Sunday, Oct. 17, the 10-episode sophomore round finds Jackie (series star Monica Raymund) clean, sober and beginning her new job as a real cop in the tourist mecca of Provincetown, Mass., where she aims to do some real good in the world.

With a rash of carfentanyl deaths wracking the Cape, she sets her sights on bringing down drug dealer Frankie Cuevas (Amaury Nolasco), who she blames for the death of her best friend Junior, as well as his sociopath cousin Jorge (new cast member Luis Guzman, "Code Black"), who has joined his operation.

Jackie also gets a new partner in Leslie (Tonya Glanz), now that disgraced cop Ray Abruzzo (James Badge Dale) is off the force, and both women are like-minded in their determination to bring an end to the scourge plaguing their community.

"I think Jackie's mindset coming into the season is very positive," Raymund explains. "I think she's feeling herself. She feels like she's got a little bit more grounding under her because she's able to stay sober. She feels like she's learned some new tools. She feels like she's growing up. And I also think that she's ready to kick ass because she knows that she will be a very good cop and she has plans to do her best to climb up and prove that the opportunity that she's gotten is worthwhile to the boss."

Brian Cox stars in "Succession," which opens its third season Sunday on HBO.

Battle lines are drawn in and around the dysfunctional Roy family in the wake of a bombshell press conference as HBO's "Succession" returns for its third season.

Premiering Sunday, Oct. 17, the nine-episode round opens with family patriarch and Waystar RoyCo chief Logan Roy (Brian Cox), the target of rebellious son Kendall's (Jeremy Strong) press conference ambush at the end of Season 2, scrambling to secure familial, political and financial alliances as a bitter corporate battle threatens to spill over into all-out family civil war.

Which forces virtually all to choose sides, among them daughter Shiv (Sarah Snook), her husband Tom (Matthew Macfadyen), sons Connor and Roman (Alan Ruck, Kieran Culkin), great-nephew Greg (Nicholas Braun) and Waystar general counsel Gerri Kellman (J. Smith-Cameron).

And at the center of it is Kendall, who at the opening of Sunday's premiere appears to be trying to come to grips with what he has wrought.

"I felt that after the press conference it was as if I'd sat under the Bodhi tree and achieved a moment of clarity and what feels for Kendall like enlightenment and liberation," Strong explains. "And so I think we see a sort of airborne Kendall at the beginning of the season, someone who feels like he's finally wrested himself free from the chains that have been binding him. And, yeah, there's an airborne quality to it.

It's war among the Roys as HBO's 'Succession' returns for Season 3

"And Jesse (Armstrong, the series' creator, writer and showrunner) did say to me it was as if Napoleon is sacking Moscow and everyone has left the city so it's sort of a pyrrhic victory, which I think is part of what we explore in Season 3. I've done the thing, but if I don't have support in a coalition, what is the value of it?"

On the other side is the formidable Logan, who moves to secure support against his son, painfully aware his advanced age makes his time atop the media conglomerate severely limited. That's not unlike another character the veteran stage actor Cox has played in past, Shakespeare's King Lear.

"He pretends he's able to let go of his kingdom ...," Cox says. "He's looking for a successor but, at the same time, he can't let go. And it's very hard to let go of something that you've created."

Tom Bergeron may be getting back in the game

Q: I hear that Tom Bergeron is coming back to television. When will that happen? - Mitch Donner, Providence, R.I.

Tom Bergeron

A: The deal wasn't 100-percent done at the time this column was written, but the former "Dancing With the Stars" host has taped the pilot for a new version of the classic game show "Tic-Tac-Dough." Its chances of being picked up to series would seem good, since NBC Universal and veteran game producer Harry Friedman - who oversaw "Wheel of Fortune" and "Jeopardy!" for many years - also are involved.

Bergeron surely knows how to run games that incorporate tic-tac-toe boards, since he presided over a revival of "Hollywood Squares." If the new project goes forward, he'll be succeeding a number of people who hosted previous versions of "Tic-Tac-Dough," starting with the 1950s original's Jack Barry, who co-created the show. Barry was followed by Gene Rayburn, Bill Wendell, Jay Jackson, Win Elliot, Wink Martindale, Jim Caldwell and Patrick Wayne (one of John Wayne's sons).

OF 'NCIS: HAWAII' ON CBS

What are your thoughts about playing team leader and family woman Jane Tennant as you film "NCIS: Hawai'i" on location?

To see her on paper, I think, is a lot more daunting. This is actually my life; I have my three kids here now. (On one recent day,) for example, I went to work at 6:30 in the morning and I came home and it was around 9:45 (p.m.). And my oldest son was up, and I walked right in and I put him back down to bed, because he had gotten up from a bad dream.

Then I had to do the dishes, and then I studied my lines for (the next day's) work, so it's about juggling your family as well as your work. And for Jane, it's her family as well as her country and work, and I love that.

Do you appreciate being the performer to play a woman leading an NCIS team?

For me to be the one to represent that, I'm honored. I'm humbled. It's something I don't take lightly, and I'm grateful every day. But it's not just me ... it is this team. They complete me, not to sound like a cheesy TV line or movie line. Truly, together we are "NCIS: Hawai'i." I think what it's going to do is just kind of normalize women in this position.

Does your own background help with your "NCIS: Hawai'i" work?

My childhood was as an Air Force brat, so there's just layers of the military that are in my blood - the respect, the honor. I understand the sacrifice. But we all got to visit NCIS here on the base. We've all been to Pearl Harbor. We all got to sit there on the 4th of July and really take in what it means to be here, to be representing the Navy and their presence. So, I think while we take our past into our characters, we all are feeling the true honor and love of our country in our roles.

Foodie TV: Culinary series you can stream this week

BY GEORGE DICKIE

It stands to reason that with the explosion in streaming services would come a similar proliferation of culinary content. And indeed, that has been the case.

At no time has there been more foodie shows, films and documentaries out there for your consumption, thus rendering cable and broadcast mainstays such as Food Network, Cooking Channel and PBS mere slices of an ever-growing culinary programming pie (pardon the pun). And it's not just on Netflix, Amazon and Hulu but all across the web. The following are a few of the newest offerings.

"The Next Thing You Eat" (premieres Thursday, Oct. 21, on Hulu): Chef David Chang is your host of this six-episode documentary series from filmmaker Morgan Neville that explores the cataclysmic changes happening all around us that affect the way we'll eat in the future. Chang and a diverse cast of characters look at what's ahead, ranging from burger-flipping robots and artificial intelligence making decisions to insect farms and lab-grown fish.

"Stanley Tucci: Searching for Italy" (Available now, HBO Max): The Oscar-nominated actor (who, incidentally, won an Emmy for this show) acts as tour guide in this CNN original series that follows him as he traverses one of the world's great food countries and takes in the secrets and delights of its regional cuisines. He also explores how Italian cooking offers a window into Italy's rich history and culture.

"Baking Impossible" (Available now, Netflix): This recently premiered competition series pairs creative and innovative bakers with crack engineers to make creations that not only challenge the imagination, but are delicious and can withstand engineering stress tests. Think: an edible boat that floats or an edible skyscraper that can remain intact during a simulated quake.

"Foodie Road Trip With Skye Estroff" (Available now, Plex): Small towns are where it's at – at least in the view of food expert and host Estroff, who brings viewers to some of the most revered foodie towns across the country to discover what makes their restaurants unique and to hear their stories.

"Tiny Food Fight" (Available now, discovery+): As the title suggests, this competition series tasks contestants with making dishes such as pancakes and sandwiches on a smaller scale with themes ranging from fair foods and birthday parties to tiny version of food from around the world. Comedian and social media star Mamrie Hart is the host.

"The Great British Baking Show: Season 9" (Available now, Netflix): The new season brings in a fresh crop of amateur bakers to compete in a series of challenges in the hopes of impressing judges Paul Hollywood and Prue Leith.

Checking in with SCOTT FOLEY

Though "The Big Leap" largely is about dancing, Scott Foley readily admits he's not a dancer. Thus, the veteran of such other series as "Scandal" and "Felicity" is content to play the producer of a competition show aimed at casting an updated staging of "Swan Lake" in Fox's new Monday drama series. Foley maintains that he doesn't mind leaving the more literal moves to such fellow stars as Teri Polo, Piper Perabo and Jon Rudnitsky, and relative newcomers including Simone Recasner and Raymond Cham Jr. "Not only am I mediocre at best at dancing, but that's sort of the motto of my whole life ... mediocrity," Foley says with tongue in cheek. "It rules everything I do." The actor-producer also notes, "No one's reached out to me (to compete on) any of the reality shows. And I'm a little upset by it. I'll get over it, though." If indeed he is upset, Foley can channel that into his "Big Leap" character Nick Blackburn, who's not above manipulating others to attain his goals. "I had a reckoning where I sort of realized, at least in my own mind, that Nick is sort of like Darth Vader in the making of the show," reflects Foley. "He's not always the evil guy, but his intentions are not necessarily the best.

"I have felt, if I'm being honest, a little left-out that I don't do the dancing, but I think it's actually benefited the character because it creates a bit of separation between myself and the rest of the cast. Which, I hope, is apparent on screen. I think it actually adds to the drama of the show." Birthdate: July 15, 1972 Birthplace: Kansas City, Mo. Current residence: Los Angeles Marital status: Married to actress Marika Dominczyk; they have three children. (Foley previously was married to Jennifer Garner.) Other television credits include: "Whiskey Cavalier," "Scandal," "Final Vision," "Insecure," "Goldie & Bear," "Undateable," "Scandal," "The Goodwin Games," "True Blood," "Grey's Anatomy," "Cougar Town," "Law & Order: Special Victims Unit," "The Last Templar," "The Unit," "House," "Jack & Bobby," "A.U.S.A.," "Scrubs," "Felicity," "Dawson's Creek," "Step by Step," "Sweet Valley High" Movie credits include: "Naked," "Let's Kill Ward's Wife" (also written, produced and directed by Foley), "Below," "Stealing Time," "Scream 3" best of... BY JAY BOBBIN MOVIES "Oklahoma!" (1955) Scenes filmed in the vast expanse of the open plains (in Arizona, ironically) allowed this film to show off the widescreen technique Todd-AO. Gordon MacRae and (in her first film) Shirley Jones were so well-partnered as Curly and Laurey, they would be matched again in another Rodgers & Hammerstein-based movie adaptation. "The King and I" (1956) After his initial stage run with the project, Yul Brynner reprised the role of a lifetime - the commanding King of Siam, whose views are softened by schoolteacher Anna (Deborah Kerr) - in the venture that earned him an Oscar for best actor. Also featuring Rita Moreno, this leads a night of Rodgers & Hammerstein attractions Wednesday, Oct. 20, on Turner Classic Movies. "South Pacific" (1958) Location filming also was of huge benefit here, with Mitzi Gaynor (though Doris Day was approached about the role)

BEST RODGERS & HAMMERSTEIN MOVIES as Nellie Forbush, the spirited nurse who vows she'll "Wash That Man Right Outa My Hair" after becoming involved with the enigmatic Emile de Beque (Rossano Brazzi). Nevertheless, "Some Enchanted Evening" still underscores their relationship. Great trivia: One of the Navy men is played by Tom Laughlin, aka man-of-action "Billy Jack" in a later series of films. "The Sound of Music" (1965) Hardly anyone has grown up without knowing the screen version of the classic story of nun-in-training turned Von Trapp family governess Maria. That role, along with Mary Poppins, has kept Julie Andrews a favorite performer over several generations. The film and its director, Robert Wise, earned Oscars ... but Christopher Plummer, the film's Captain von Trapp, was a bit prickly about his association with the picture over the years. However, he eventually professed his affection for it.

A star, namely Kevin Costner, was born with 'The Untouchables'

One of the films that made Kevin Costner a star also is one of the best movie versions of a television series to date.

"The Untouchables" – which EPIX shows Tuesday, Oct. 19, while it streams this month on Hulu – was part of a one-two punch, along with "No Way Out," for Kevin Costner in the summer of 1987. Robert Stack had major TV success from 1959 to 1963 with the role of Prohibition-era agent Eliot Ness, but with the assistance of director Brian De Palma and screenwriter David Mamet, Costner redefined the true-life law enforcer as a more vulnerable figure in his pursuit of legendary mobster Al Capone.

The latter part gives Costner a hugely formidable acting match in Robert De Niro, and though their scenes together are limited, the impact of those moments is palpable. That's not the only case of a veteran actor making a big impact here, either: Sean Connery earned an Oscar as Jimmy Malone, a streetwise Chicago cop who gives Ness a big advantage by joining his small and specially selected team.

Andy Garcia and Charles Martin Smith are the other members of Ness' so-called "Untouchables," and along with Costner and Connery, the unlikely combination of crimebusters gives the picture a lot of its appeal. There's great pleasure to be had from seeing Connery's crusty Malone educate Costner's relatively genteel Ness in "the Chicago way" of dealing with enemies, while there's just as much enjoyment in seeing Ness use crafty psychology to turn things his way ... which isn't to say he doesn't resort to brute force when deemed necessary.

The sequence that "The Untouchables" is most noted for remains stunning to watch now. A shootout unfolds on the steps of Union Station as a baby carriage – complete with adorable infant inside – bounces downward amid a hail of bullets, and the choreography among the players, the cinematography by Stephen H. Burum and the editing by Jerry Greenberg and Bill Pankow are remarkable. The scene has been much-spoofed over the years, a measure of just how iconic it is; noteworthy, too, is the music score by the legendary Ennio Morricone.

Both the movie and TV versions of "The Untouchables" have roots in the memoir Ness wrote (with collaborator Oscar Fraley) about his exploits, and though dramatic license is taken in both cases, the results are true to the spirit of the lawman's crusade to clean up the Windy City. And while he's had his hits and misses, in both the independent and big-studio realms, the film stands as one of the triumphs of De Palma's career.

KATE BECKINSALE

Kathrin Romary "Kate" Beckinsale was born July 26, 1973, in London, England. She made her media debut at age four on an episode of "This Is Your Life" saluting her father, actor Richard Beckinsale, shortly before his death. She then was raised alongside the children of her stepfather, director Roy Battersby.

During her girls'-school days, Beckinsale began working with a youth theater company and won an award for young writers twice. While a student at New College, Oxford, she was involved with the Oxford University Dramatic Society and studied in Paris, but she ultimately left school to concentrate on her acting career.

With French actress Jeanne Moreau as an influence, Beckinsale began appearing on British television, with credits including a TV version of Jane Austen's "Emma," and landed her first major movie role in the Kenneth Branagh-directed 1993 version of "Much Ado About Nothing." She worked with the actor who became her off-screen partner for the better part of a decade, Michael Sheen, multiple times; following him to America when he was in a Broadway show, she began getting auditions in the U.S.

"The Last Days of Disco," "Broke-down Palace," "The Golden Bowl," "Pearl Harbor," "Serendipity" and "Laurel Canyon" were among films that helped establish Beckinsale. She then launched a horror-action franchise – to which she has returned several times – by starring in "Underworld," and she followed that with "Van Helsing," but then diversified in such movies as "The Aviator" (playing actress Ava Gardner for director Martin Scorsese) and "Click."

"Vacancy," "Whiteout," "The Good Shepherd" (directed by star Robert De Niro), "Contraband," the 2012 remake of "Total Recall" (directed by Beckinsale's then-husband, Len Wiseman) and "The Only Living Boy in New York City" are on Beckinsale's movie resume.

Beckinsale starred in the 2019 drama series "The Widow," streamed in America on Amazon. She currently is headlining the Paramount+ series "Guilty Party," playing a journalist investigating a supposed spouse-killer (Jules Latimer) who maintains she didn't commit the murder.

Also a model on occasion, Beckinsale presently is unmarried, though she reportedly dated "Saturday Night Live's" Pete Davidson early in 2019.

'My Garden of a Thousand Bees' kicks off 40th season of PBS' 'Nature'

BY GEORGE DICKIE

The pandemic forced many of us to adapt and find new ways of doing things while in quarantine, including the maker of a documentary upcoming on PBS' "Nature."

In "My Garden of a Thousand Bees," premiering Wednesday, Oct 20 (check local listings), as the first installment of the series' 40th season, wildlife photographer Martin Dohrn uses lockdown to his advantage as he turns his camera on the bees in the backyard of his urban Bristol, England, home.

Using lenses he forged on his kitchen table, Dohrn captures the astounding behavior of the more than 60 bee species living lives on his tiny property that are far more complicated than anyone had ever known.

"What Martin had discovered," explains longtime "Nature" executive producer Fred Kaufman, "was these far more complicated lives than we could think of and sort of the nastiness that takes place in the garden. I mean, some of the stuff is brutal. It's kill or be killed; it's eat or be eaten. It's male searching for and jumping on female bees. It's everybody trying to steal everybody else's nest and lay their eggs in it."

"There's a scene where a bee notices this drama that's extraordinary and nasty."

To film the bees in action, Dohrn set up cameras in his yard and let them run, and the moments he records are incredible – bees laying tiny eggs, spiders feasting on male flower bees and a female yellow-faced bee attacking a wasp to protect her nest. He realizes that these creatures have their own individual personalities and becomes intrigued by one wood-carving leafcutter bee in particular that he dubs Nicky.

"He actually built a relationship with a bee that he was kind of watching and documenting," Kaufman says, "and he knew where she would build her nest and he really paid attention to her movements and everything. And in the

Lawrence takes his lumps early in rookie campaign

He came to the NFL as one of the most vaunted quarterbacks in recent memory but Trevor Lawrence has certainly taken his lumps.

Indeed, three games into his rookie campaign with the Jacksonville Jaguars, the Clemson product and top overall pick in the 2021 Draft has looked every bit like the green signal caller he is, and a major reason why the Jags were winless in September.

In the season's first month, Lawrence completed 64 of 118 passes (a 54.2 percent rate) for 669 yards with five touchdowns and seven interceptions, making him only the fifth rookie QB in history to throw multiple picks in his first three games. He's in good company, though, as two of those are Hall of Famers – Troy Aikman (1989) and Peyton Manning (1998). And he has shown much reason for hope.

One encouraging sign is that he's not afraid to take chances, as evidenced by a flea flicker he attempted in Week 3 against the Arizona Cardinals that wound up in the hands of Cards' defensive back Byron Murphy, who returned it 29 yards for a touchdown.

The play was undoubtedly ugly but it was also served as an encouraging indicator of the rookie's desire to throw downfield and test the limits of what he can get away with in the NFL. Given the less-than-stellar supporting cast surrounding him, his lackluster showing really isn't surprising.

Lawrence and the Jaguars can be seen in action the morning of Sunday, Oct. 17, when they play the Miami Dolphins at London's Tottenham Hotspur Stadium in a game airing on CBS.

"The Oratorio" (PBS — documentary premiere, Nov. 5)
 Academy Award-winning filmmaker Martin Scorsese looks back at a seismic musical moment in 1826 that marked the beginning of a cultural awakening in America. The occasion? A one-night-only performance in St. Patrick's Old Cathedral, Scorsese's home church in the Little Italy section of New York. The presentation marked the arrival of Italian opera in the New World. This documentary presents the backstory to that event, an incredible chronicle that involves Mozart's most celebrated librettist, opera's first acknowledged diva and a freed slave turned hairdresser.

"Movie: Lansky"
 Harvey Keitel ("Bugsy") does solid work in director Eytan Rockaway's ("Angel of Mine") otherwise lackluster 2021 biographical drama in which he stars as the notorious gangster, who late in his life tells his story to the broke writer (Sam Worthington, "Avatar") penning his biography. John Magaro, AnnaSophia Robb, Minka Kelly and David Elliott are also in the cast.

"Castle"
 The streaming service comes forth with all eight seasons of this 2009-16 ABC crime dramedy about a blocked mystery novelist (Nathan Fillion) who teams with a homicide detective (Stana Katic) as they solve unusual crimes in New York City. Jon Huertas, Seamus Dever, Tamala Jones and Susan Sullivan are also in the cast.

"Movie: Stuck Together"
 From France and director Dany Boon ("The Valet," "Joyeux Noel") comes this film comedy about residents of a Paris apartment building whose best and worst qualities come to the surface during a three-month pandemic-induced lockdown. Boon, Yvan Attal, Francois Damiens, Liliane Rovère, Laurence Arné and Jorge Calvo head the cast. (ORIGINAL)

"Disney's Magic Bake-Off" (Oct. 20)
 Dara Reneé ("High School Musical: The Musical: The Series") and Issac Ryan Brown ("Raven's Home") host this reality competition series that combines the fun of baking and the impressive ingenuity of several young pastry chefs, who divide into three teams of two and race against the clock to create cakes inspired by a classic Walt Disney TV or movie offering.
