Mayor, County Judge discuss election

By ROGER CLINE
 Herald Staff Writer

As was reported in Wednesday's Big Spring Herald, local voters approved 17 out of 21 City of Big Spring propositions, and rejected the single Howard County proposition on the ballot in Wednesday's general election.

On Wednesday, Big Spring Mayor Shannon Thomason and Howard County Judge Kathryn Wiseman spoke about the results of the election.

Thomason

Wiseman

Thomason said that many of Big Spring's proposed charter amendments were matters of record keeping.

"There weren't just a whole lot of substantive changes put out there," Thomason said.

The mayor briefly discussed each of the four failed propositions.

"Proposition E was making gender neutral pronouns, there was misunderstanding on that one," he said. "It was just strictly removing pronouns from the Redistricting is the lone item on the agenda for a special meeting of the Howard County Commissioners, called for 9 a.m. Friday. The meeting will take place in the second-floor Judge's Conference Room of the Howard County Courthouse, 300 S. Main Street.

County Judge Kathryn Wiseman will first open a public hearing on the county's redistricting plan, and members of the public will have the opportunity to express their opinions about the plan to shift the borders of county precincts based on population changes since the precinct borders were last set.

"The thing is, our Precinct 1 (northwest part of the county) was underpopulated by quite a bit. Our Precinct 2 (southeast part of the county) was overpopulated by quite a bit," said Wiseman. "But the problem is, they

Students in Lacey Wolf's and Lisa Chadwell's Academy classes listen to a presentation from Coahoma High School assistant principal Kristen Joslin about her pet, a Brazilian curly-haired tarantula.

Special to the Herald

The students at Coahoma ISD celebrated Mad Scientist Day on Thursday with lessons on spiders, zombies and more.

Some of the activities included a trip through a virtual "body farm" in Candy Parrish's junior high school class or competing in Fear Factor™ type contests in Kalea Dean's class. Clark Kent from the Daily Planet helped students reanimate junior high school teacher Katie Valencia, who had turned into a zombie, by working through puzzles to find a cure for her deadly condition.

High school assistant principal Kristen Joslin brought her Brazilian curly-haired tarantula for a lesson on spiders for the students in Lacey Wolf's and Lisa Chadwell's Academy classes. Many students dressed as mad scientists for the day.

Covid pandemic help from Encompass

By AMANDA DUFORAT
 Special to the Herald

The pandemic continues and case counts continue to hold steady keeping area hospitals stretched. In an effort to help hospitals with census numbers and resources, home health visits are being offered by local home health agencies. Since the beginning of the pandemic Encompass has been offering porch visits and adjusting services to continue to meet the need of the Howard County residents.

"During this public health emergency, we are finding ways to best support you and your patients and provide access to care in the safety of their home," Sally Grant, Area Manager to Encompass Health, said.

Whether a patient is dealing with Covid-19, residual effects from having Covid or other illnesses, there are resources and treatment options available within ones own home. Across the nation, those who have contracted Covid have reported dealing with several after effects including viral pneumonia, encephalopathy, cardiomyopathy, lung scarring, critical illness myopathy, mild cognitive impairment, post infection or disuse myopathy, stroke, pulmonary embolism and more.

"We are seeing that many Covid-19 survivors are needing weeks, months possibly years of rehabilitation to get back to where they were before the virus attacked their bodies," Grant said. "The nursing staff at Encompass is equipped to help offer that support, in partnership with medical providers."

While porch visits are being offered there are other mitigation efforts that have been implemented in order to keep

Obituaries

Mike Abusaab

Mike Abusaab, 65, of Big Spring, passed away Monday, November 1, 2021.

Memorial services will be held at 1 p.m. Friday, November 5, 2021, on the Sonic Floor of the Dorothy Garrett Coliseum.

He was born November 4, 1955, in Shuna Jonobia, Jordan, to Kadeja and Ibrahim Abusaab. He married Sheila Fisher in 1982 in Oklahoma.

Sheila was teaching and Mike was the manager in the cafeteria. They had their first date at Dairy Queen and married after five years of dating.

In 1985, Mike and Sheila moved to Big Spring, Texas, where they purchased the Sonic on Gregg Street, and in later years came to own multiple Sonics in several cities. Mike loved the service industry and was a mentor to his employees; he thought of them as "his own kids."

Mike was a brilliant man and was a stranger to no one. He always looked for the good in everyone he met. He cared for his community and constantly looked for ways to give back. Mike and Sheila awarded scholarships to Howard College both in Academics and Athletics, as well as Odessa College, UTPB and many other schools in the area. They were part of the founding members of the Howard County Bowl, moving the annual football game between Forsan and Coahoma to Big Spring, which to date has awarded more than $250,000 in scholarship money to local students. Mike was a longtime board member of the YMCA, a member of the Big Spring Rotary Club for over 25 years and helped organize many community projects. In 2014, Mike and Sheila became partners in KBEST Media, for which he served as President, and #1 Fan. He loved working with the radio industry and considered all of his employees "stars."

Mike and Sheila were complete partners in life. They received numerous awards and recognitions throughout the years including the Community Service Honor in 2014, the Good Scout Award in 2015, and in 2018 Mike was named the Big Spring Area Chamber of Commerce "Man of the Year." He loved Big Spring dearly and stated that he and Sheila could have lived anywhere in world, but they chose Big Spring because the people are the best.

He is survived by his wife, Sheila; two brothers, Mustafa Abusaab and his wife, Mimi, and Kahlil Abusaab and his wife, Zakia; three sisters, Zanub, Rabbah and Badrea; numerous beloved nieces and nephews; and his sisters-in-law, Coy Ann McGee and Judy Reynolds.

He was preceded in death by his parents; three brothers, Ahmad Abusaab, Mohammad Abusaab and Zakaria Abusaab.

In lieu of flowers, the family suggests memorials to the YMCA, 801 Owens, Big Spring, TX 79720; or Victim Services of Big Spring, P.O. Box 2137, Big Spring, TX 79721-2137.

Arrangements are under the direction of Nalley-Pickle & Welch Funeral Home and Crematory. Online condolences can be made at www.npwelch.com

Charter. It wasn't any imposition on the citizens at all. It was just a simple edit. One guy on Facebook said it was violating people's First Amendment rights. That was strictly I think, really a misunderstanding on the voters' part. Like I said, it really didn't change anything."

Proposition I, which would have removed the city's current disciplinary hearing process for employees, also failed.

"That one has been problematic for the city for a while, because its method of implementation is clunky," Thomason said. "We can live with it, but that whole system is also already handled in our personnel policy."

Thomason said the plan was to replace the disciplinary hearing process with a more modern policy.

"Something better suited to our current state of affairs," he said. "There are things in that that run afoul of state law. Part of the hearing process is finding a retired district judge, which, luckily, we have one semi-available to us now. Like I said, that was more of an update, but that's something we can live with."

Proposition J would have removed the requirement for the city's elected officials to be bonded. Thomason said bonding for city elected officials is an outdated concept.

"Bonding really hasn't been used for city officials for decades," he said. "It's typically covered by errors and omissions policies. Frankly, that's one we're going to have to look at. If the citizens want us to be bonded, we can get bonds. I can't think of any instance, really, where an elected official would lose their bond, where their bond would be callable. There's nothing in the Charter that states where a person would lose their bond for whatever reason, and nothing I can think of in state law, for that matter, either. So having a bond but not having the bond cover anything in particular is really a redundancy."

Proposition S would have allowed a single council member to call a special meeting, rather than requiring a coalition of three council members to call such a meeting.

"That, I would call a substantive change," Thomason said. "It was won that I personally, I went ahead and voted for it, but it's one for the citizens to decide. It just is what it is. Having special meetings, that's something that doesn't need to be thrown around lightly, and it should be for a pretty good reason. I have no issues at all with the way that one went, because quite frankly, it doesn't affect the mayor. The mayor has always been able to call a special meeting."

Thomason said the city can't put the failed issues back up for election for at least two years.

"We can't do anything for two years," he said. "That's by Texas Constitution. You can only amend a home-rule charter every two years. The minor things we might bring back when the Charter Committee meets again. And that's one of the things that did pass: Now we'll have the Charter Review Committee every four years. So rather than let the Charter go almost 100 years before it is substantively looked at, it will be looked at, basically, on a four-year basis."

Proposition P, which passed, requires the creation of a Charter Review Committee every four years. Thomason said he's also happy about the passage of Proposition T, providing for initiative and referendum for city government.

"That puts direct oversight of the Council back in the hands of the citizens," the mayor said. "You don't have to wait to replace Council members. You can use the petition process and put it up for a vote by the citizens. Initiative is the process by which the citizens submit a petition process, whether it be to initiate legislation or to repeal legislation. The referendum, of course, is the vote, and repeal is the extreme form of oversight, which removes council members."

Thomason said he's happy that citizens had a chance to vote on updates to the city charter, though he's a bit disappointed in the low turnout, about 8.5 percent of registered voters.

Voters living in unincorporated areas of Howard County had the chance to vote on the creation of a County Assistance District, which would use sales tax funds for items of public welfare including construction, road maintenance, law enforce-distribution not only of the population, but of the ethnic and racial populations."

Following the public hearing, commissioners will discuss and consider adopting the plan.

After they vote on the plan, commissioners will have the opportunity to suggest items for inclusion on future meeting agendas before Judge Wiseman adjourns the special meeting.

exposure between patients limited. Added precautions include screening of patients and household members daily, limit visits to those necessary and utilizing tele-health when appropriate, education of proper hand hygiene and disinfection of high-use areas in the home, utilization of proper PPE for staff making home visits, and the encouragement of flu vaccines and other preventive measures.

"Our staff is committed to keeping high-risk patients safe at home by providing the care they need to mitigate hospitalizations and emergent care visits," she said. "Our goal during the Covid-19 pandemic is to continue providing superior care to our patients in the safety of their own home, where they are less susceptible to the spread of the virus."

Medical providers and home health providers, such as Encompass Home Health, can work with patients to better understand the proactive measures to reduce the risk of dehydration and other health related complications. Comprehensive evaluations help providers determine the need of skilled service and education can take place regarding energy conservation techniques; check fluid levels and monitor labs for electrolyte imbalances.

"Encompass' staff includes nurses, therapists, medical social workers, and home health aides that will work with the patient and their families, and physicians to ensure the risk of dehy-dration is reduced," she said. "In addition to monitoring a patient's levels, providing the education on how to avoid dehydration is the key. We want our patients to be healthy, and the best way to do that is to arm them with more knowledge."

My Dream Guy Is Missing His Front Teeth

Dear Annie: I was in a relationship for about 18 years. Early on, he proposed, and I declined with no intention of ever remarrying. After a little bit of cool-off time, the relationship slowly started up again despite this difference.

Over those years, some of our individual friends became mutual friends. Invitations for events were, of course, extended to us as a couple or individually with a plus one.

Over the past two years, the relationship ended. Soon after, I accepted a date with someone I loosely knew who is not local to the area where I live. This relationship quickly grew into an exclusive relationship. We are considering marriage in the near future, likely about one or two years off.

After the dissolution of the past relationship, I started getting invitations for "one," no guest, from the now-mutual friends. My ex also gets invited. Originally, some of the statements were that there was concern that he would behave poorly if I was there with my new significant other. I have told inviters to please not extend this type of invitation to me as I do not consider it a real invitation. It's disrespectful to my current boyfriend to expect him to be OK not being welcome to attend an event with me when my ex would be there.

Can you please weigh in on this type of invitation and how I can get people to understand this is not OK? -- Moved On But Feeling the Pushback From Friends

Dear Moved On: It's common for friends to feel caught in the middle after a breakup -- especially the breakup of an 18-year relationship.

However, you're all adults here. There's no reason for your new boyfriend to be disinvited from social events.

If your ex isn't comfortable being around you two, he can stay home.

I would explain to your friends that your new beau is the real deal and that you see a future with him. If he's not welcome at their dinner parties or barbecues, then they'll be missing out on your attendance, too.

Dear Annie: Five months ago, I started dating a 58-year-old man. We met online and exchanged phone numbers. Our conversations were great, so we met for a date and started a relationship.

Well, he did not mention during our conversations that he is missing his front teeth. None of his pictures online showed this either. He claimed that he would get implants or dentures. He has done neither.

I am not shallow, but I am 52 and don't want to be seen with a toothless man. Dental procedures are expensive, and he does not have dental insurance. I told him I am not comfortable being in a relationship with a man who does not care about his dental health. He smiles and laughs like it is a good look. What do you think about this toothless situation? -- Not Asking for Much

Dear Not Asking: I wouldn't call you shallow for wanting a boyfriend with front teeth. Tell him how handsome his smile is and how much it could be improved by a set of pearly whites.

His jolly attitude is heartwarming, and you might want to take a page out of his book while the two of you save up for dental implants. After all, if this is your biggest relationship problem, you have it pretty good.

The bidding:
 East 1♦ South 3♥ West Pass North 6♥

Opening lead — four of spades.

Some contracts stand or fall essentially on the opening lead. Consider this deal where South got to six hearts on the bidding shown.

South made the slam after West chose a spade as his opening lead. West reasoned that — given the bidding — his opponents were prepared to cope with a diamond lead, the suit East had bid, so he decided to surprise them by leading a spade. This highly speculative lead did not work out well when declarer proceeded to make the most of his chances. After discarding a diamond and a club on the A-K of spades and ruffing a spade, South cashed the K-A of clubs and ruffed a club. He was hoping the clubs would be divided 3-3, in which case he would have had smooth sailing the rest of the way.

But East showed out on the third club, discarding a diamond, and South was left with only one more hope — that East had started with the singleton ace of trump. South's prayers were quickly answered.

When he next led a trump, poor East was forced to win with the ace and had to return a diamond, allowing South to score the queen. As a result, South lost only one trump trick and so made the slam.

Had West led a diamond initially, there would have been no way for South to make the contract. In general, it is much safer to lead partner's suit than to make a blind lead in another suit, unless the circumstances strongly indicate otherwise.

West had no good reason in this case to vary from the general rule, and in the actual deal, it cost him a slam.

Steers lose heartbreaker to Fort Stockton

By DUSTIN POPE
Managing Editor

Well, some games are just instant classics, and that is what this game was. Fort Stockton and the Steers played an outstanding football game that came down to the last seconds to determine who would win this game. The Fort Stockton Panthers came into this district matchup with an excellent 7-1 record. Big Spring came with a 6-2 record. Both teams knew what would be at stake tonight, as the winner of this game was in the driver's seat to win the district title.

Fort Stockton received the opening kickoff, and it did not take long for them to put the first points on the board. On their third play of the game, the Panthers broke loose for a 67-yard touchdown run, stunning the home crowd. The extra point was good, and after only:47 seconds, Fort Stockton had a sudden 7 to 0 lead. Big Spring then got their chance to get the ball, and as they were working the ball down the field. On a vital third and three, they were called for a penalty that nullified a first down. This was one of many calls that I would call questionable from the refs on this night. After the penalty, it forced the Steers to punt the ball away. The Panthers got the ball back, and like the first drive, they got straight to work. They scored again, this time on a 38-yard touchdown pass. The Panthers missed the extra point this time, but they still had a 13-0 lead after only three minutes had gone off the clock. Knowing they needed to score to stay in this game, the Steers found some energy on this drive. They drove the ball down the field, finally scoring when Baeza found Devin Manning from thirty-eight yards out. They called the extra

The Forsan buffaloes defense showed up big this past Friday night as they shut out the Haskell Indians 28-0

By DUSTIN POPE
Managing Editor

It was another week and, yes, another great win for the Forsan buffaloes. The Buffs are the hottest team in the area right now as they beat Stamford last Friday night 30-6. The win gave Forsan a perfect 9-0 record in the season. This past Friday night, the Forsan Buffaloes traveled down to Stamford to take on the Bulldogs. Unfortunately, the game itself started a little slow for Forsan. The Buffs were the heavily favored team coming into the matchup, but initially got off to a slow start. Forsan only managed six points in the first quarter and took that 6 to 0 lead into the second quarter of play. Forsan continued to struggle on the offensive side of the ball in the second quarter as well. They could not get any momentum sustained, as Stamford was excellently bottling up the Buffs run game. However, while the offense was having problems, this exceptional defense was doing what they do a week in and week out. They flat out dominated the line of scrimmage and were just better than Stamford. As the defense kept the Bulldogs off the scoreboard, the Buffs got three more points on a field goal by Nolan Park, making thi9s a 9 to 0 lead at halftime.

As the second half started, Forsan had a nine-point lead but hadn't played as well as they usually had. The offense continued to pound the ball using their run game, and Stamford seemed to have an answer to it. Once again, the Buffs only managed seven points in the third quarter, making this 16 to 0 lead now after the third.

You would think that being in the lead 16-0 over a team heading into the last quarter of play would be great, and it is. I'm just used to watching Forsan dominate the game in every aspect. But, in the fourth quarter, they finally looked like that team I had been watching all season long. The all-night pounding of the ball with the run game eventually started taking its toll on the Stamford defense, and the buffs moved the ball a little easier. Once they found their groove, they put up 14 points in the last quarter, winning this game by a final score of 30 to 6.

The win sets up an epic matchup on the Buffs home field this coming Friday night, as they will take on the Hawley Bearcats. Hawley, like Forsan, is coming into this game with a perfect 9-0 record.

This huge matchup will feature two top yen teams in 2A District 1. Hawley is ranked #5 in the State, while Forsan is #10. To put the icing on the cake, this game will be for the district title. The Bearcats have a perfect record on the season and have been utterly dominant so far. They have not allowed a single point in their last three games. First, they beat Stamford by a final of 42-0. Then, smashed Anson 35-0, and finally, last week blew out Colorado city 55-0. Quar

Coahoma Bulldogs fall to top ranked team

By STEVE BELVIN
Special to the Herald

ACUFF - Methodical. That describes the Lubbock Roosevelt Eagles 52-19 win over the Coahoma Bulldogs here Friday night at Eagle Stadium. In doing so the No. 7 ranked Eagles, 9-0, for the season and 4-0 in District 3-4A moved closer to a district title. Meanwhile the Bulldogs, 3-6, 1-4, saw their playoff hopes fading.

Roosevelt clinched at least a tie for the district crown with one game remaining against highly regarded Idalou. Coahoma must beat Abernathy Friday and still need some help to have at least a chance to make the playoffs.

If one likes old school smash mouth football, Roosevelt played it to the T. Their Flexbone option offense simply overwhelmed the Bulldogs, who had no answer to stop the run. Roosevelt didn't even attempt a pass in the game as it grinded out 457 yards on the ground. It scored on four of five possessions in the first half. The other possession Coahoma linebacker Jaidyn Vineyard made Roosevelt quarterback Alex Trevino cough up the ball and defensive back Ky Kemper recovered.

Coahoma trailed 32-12 at the half but the game could have been closer if Coahoma had pulled off the close plays. On four different occasions in the second quarter, th Bulldogs let the game slip away. They kicked an onside kick which it appeared Coahoma had recovered. Roosevelt ended up with the ball however. Another time Coahoma had a drive deep in Roosevelt territory which Coahoma converted a fourth down pass play. The play was nullified because of an illegal lineman downfield. Coahoma squelched another scoring opportunity when the quarterback missed a wide open receiver on fourth down. Perhaps the most disheartening play came when Coahoma punter Austin Perkins took a bad snap and turned into an 11 yard gain for an apparent first down. But a very unfavorable spot by the officials left Coahoma inches short.

On the other hand, there was the Roosevelt offense that ran like a well oiled machine. Nate Gensler led that machine by running for 183 yards. He had 172 yards on 11 carries by halftime. The Eagle used a stable of running backs in the game; eight in and all.

Meanwhile the Coahoma running game was null and void, accounting for 142 yards. Most of that came on Coahoma's second scoring drive of the game. Quarterback Kemper, filling in for injured starter Billy Bailey, scooted 62 yards on a keeper. It was followed by a 24-yard scoring run by Vineyard, cutting the lead to 24-12 with 10:04 left in the first half.

Coahoma's other two scores came on big plays also came on big plays. Kemper teamed up with Perkins for a 74-yard catch and run scoring pass .

game and put the pressure back on the Panthers. With 6:49 left in the first quarter, we had a football game. The Panthers got the ball back and once again marched the ball down the field as the Steers struggled to stop their running attack. Fort Stockton went all the way down the field, but this time as they inched closer to the end zone, the Steers' defense stiffened up. Big Spring stood steady as the Panthers tried to score from their own four-yard line.

On a big fourth and two from the four, the Panthers rolled the dice and went for it. The Steers' defense stepped up big time as they kept the Panthers from the end-zone, forcing a turnover on downs. It was an impressive stop for the Steers' defense, but they had to start their drive from their four-yard line. After a couple of plays, the Steers had their first vital mistake of the game when they had a fumbled handoff giving the Fort Stockton Panthers the ball on the Steers 11-yard line. It was too much to ask for the Steers to keep this offense out again when they were so close to the end-zone. The Panthers scored on a three-yard touchdown run. They went for the two-point conversion, and it was good now, making the lead 21-6 with 1:17 left in the first quarter.

After a rough first quarter for the Steers, they were still not out of this game. All they needed to do was put up a score, and they would be right back in this game. That is absolutely what they did with 4:53 left in the first half. Baeza found Kaegen Mitchell on a beautiful 33-yard touchdown pass to cut into this lead. Cobos made the extra point, and suddenly, this was a 13 to 21 game. After that score, it was more of a defensive second quarter of play as both teams sought to find any flow for the rest of the first half. At halftime, the Steers trailed the Fort Stockton Panthers 13 to 21.

Big Spring received the ball at half-time, realizing they needed to put together a solid drive and work the ball down the field and tie this game up. They were doing precisely that Baeza was picking apart the Panther's defense as the Steers moved the ball down the field with efficiency. Then, as they had some momentum, they had their second fumble of the night, giving the ball back to Fort Stockton on the Stockton 22-yard line. Once the Panthers got the ball back, they did a great job of managing the clock by running the ball and getting five or six yards per carry. Fort Stockton took the ball down to the Steers 38-yard line when they faced a fourth and inches. Big Spring defense stepped up big on another fourth down and caused another turnover on downs. After that big fourth-down stop, it gave life to the Steers as they pushed the ball down the field again on the defense. Baeza broke free from about thirty yards away on a great touchdown run. Big Spring then caught the Panther's defense sleeping when they lined up swiftly after the touchdown and punched in the extra point to tie this game up at 21-21 with 1:21 left in the third.

With a tie game going into the fourth quarter, the crowd knew they were watching something extraordinary. It came down to 12 minutes of football. The Steers' defense once again held firm, causing the Panthers to punt the ball away. Then the Fort Stockton punter did an incredible job, forcing the Steers to start this drive from their four-yard line. The Steers now were ninety-six yards away from their end zone and needed to get some room and flip field position. Well, Baeza and this Steers offense did more than that. After a couple of big plays, they were on the Panther's side of the field. They marched down the field as Baeza showed why he is the best player in this district. With 8:00 left in the game, Baeza found Fizer 14 yards away to give the Steers their first lead. Big Spring went for the extra point and got it, making this a 28 to 21 game. With eight minutes left in this game, it was now Fort Stockton's turn to see what they could do. Like they had for much of the night, they moved the ball on their ground, controlling the clock. Fort Stockton was able to score a touchdown with 5:18 left in this game. They then went for the two-point conversion and the lead; unfortunately, the Steers could not keep them out of the end-zone. The Panthers converted the crucial two-point conversion, giving them a one-point lead at 29 to 28.

That is how this game would end. It was a tough, heartbreaking loss for the Big Spring Steers. So, there were some questionable calls by the refs in this game, to say the least, but before I go off on a long rant, I want to calm down and watch the game film first. The Steers played their butts off tonight. They left it all on the field, and they came up a little short. It happens in life, but this will not keep this team down.

This week the Steers take the short trip down HWY 87 to San Angelo to take on the San Angelo Lakeview Chiefs. Lakeview has struggled to a 2-7 overall record on the season and they are currently 0-2 in district play. The Chiefs have also lost their last three games. Hereford beat them 35-20. The next week the Chiefs opened up district play and lost to Fort Stockton 35-32 in overtime. This last week they got man-handled by the Andrews Mustangs by a score of 45-24. Big Spring still has a outside shot at being able to win their first district title since 1990. Its a little complicated what all has to play out, but the main thing is they have to take care of business this coming Friday night when they do take on the Chiefs. The game will be in San Angelo, and they have set kickoff for 7 p.m.

Although he had a miserable night running against a Roosevelt defense, Bryson Kerby returned a kickoff 75 yards for a score. Kerby had a tough night running for 32 yards on 16 carries. He did manage to go over 1,000 yards for the second time in his high school career. He now heads into Friday's game with 1.022 yards for the season.

Roosevelt coach Matt Landers paid his respect to Coahoma. "They always have a real good team and have their guys ready to play," he said. "We knew it would be a challenge and we just wanted to be as consistent as we could. We'll try to stay grateful and humble."

What a season it has been :Friday night Lights a season in pictures

This will be the last issue of Friday Night Under the Lights for this season. It has been so much fun to cover all of these teams for this season of football. I have just put some of the better photos from throughout this year's season. We have had some outstanding moments all season long from every one of our local teams. For some, the season will not be over as we will have a couple of our teams that will be able to continue playing football in the playoffs. I will continue to have that coverage as regular sports pages. I look forward to covering all the teams that will advance and look forward to the start of basketball season. One thing is for sure it was a fun first season covering the Howard County area teams. It will be something that I will never forget.

terback Rodney Hooper leads the Bearcats. He has 1657 passing yards with 21 touchdowns to only six interceptions on the season.

This will be one heck of a football game this week. This is what Friday Night Lights are all about: two undefeated teams and two top ten teams matching up for the district title. With the Forsan, the defense has been playing all year long, and the way they can create mismatches with their speed, I think they have an excellent shot at shutting this offense down. On the offensive side of the ball, the Buffs can run the ball against anyone and do a good job. I think the key to this game will be clock management; if Forsan can jump out to an early lead and maintain long drives, which keep that Hawley offense off the field, they have a significant chance to win this game. It could be a tough night if Hawley gets up early and the Buffs are playing from behind. This should be the game of the week, and I can't wait to watch these powerhouse teams go at one another. The game will be on the Forsan Buffalo home field, and kickoff will be at 7:30 p.m.

Official Game Rules:

Find this week's games between the merchant's ads on this page. Choose the teams you think will win, and fill in the official entry form on this page with your team choices. Clip the entry form out of the page and drop it in the Pigskin box at one of the listed merchants.

Do not drop your entry form at the Big Spring Herald office.

*The entry with the most correct picks will win $50!

You must be 18 to enter. No photo copies accepted.

*In the event of a tie, the tie breaker will determine the winner.

For the tie breaker, the entry with the correct team will win.

If both entries have guessed the same team, the second tie breaker will be the one closest to the total points.

*Decisions of the judges are final.

*Employees and family of the Big Spring Herald are ineligible.

*All entries must be received at one of the participating merchants by 1pm Friday of the week played.

*Winners will be announced on the next week's Pigskin Contest Page.
