Time to 'Fall back'

By ROGER CLINE
 Herald Staff Writer

Early in the morning this Sunday, Nov. 7, millions of modern electronic clocks will automatically set themselves back one hour. Some who still prefer the elegance of a clock with minute, hour, and, occasionally, second hands will twist a dial - or possibly even manually nudge a clock's hands - to turn back time. Yep, Daylight Savings is over with for another year.

The change officially goes into effect at 2 a.m., which will become 1 a.m. As noted, your modern devices will cheerfully make this change for you without supervision, but if you have some recalcitrant timepieces that require a bit of urging to retread an hour they've already marked, there's no harm in making the change before you drift off to slumber.

Waiting until morning to make the autumn change won't make you late to church, as delaying the spring shift might, but will deprive you of that luxurious extra hour of slumber that's literally the best part of the whole Daylight Savings system.

Although earlier cultures had experimented with shifting schedules based on the season, the modern Daylight Savings system got its start in Port Arthur, Ontario, Canada. Our neighbors to the north first saved an hour of daylight on July 1, 1908.

A decade later, prompted by World War I, several other nations — including the USA — adopted the system. Some countries abandoned the shift after the war, but Canada, UK, France, Ireland and the United States kept the system in place, and it's been that way ever since.

Unless initiatives to end the system see unprecedented success, the clocks will steal that hour back March 13, 2022.

Mental Health: Emotional well being matters

By DUSTIN POPE
 Managing Editor

Mental health is a very tricking, sometimes even complicated, subject to talk about. It can be trying for someone to recognize they may be depressed or going through an arduous time. The fact of the matter is that most of us will deal with some mental health issues in our lives. Life can be demanding; we all can work through the struggles of everyday living. Sometimes it is just a lot to deal with, and we may not know the appropriate approach to deal with life's dilemmas.

That's why speaking up when you are battling is just so critical. So many times, it upsets people they may be depressed. Or maybe you are dealing with something way beyond depression. Perhaps it is an addiction that you can't shake. Whatever you are going through, it is ok to talk to someone. Let anyone who will listen know what's going on. Because when you don't speak up and communicate about what your troubles are, then often, they can get worse. There is absolutely nothing to be ashamed of when it comes to your mental health. Unfortunately, so many people stay silent and don't speak up when they need to the most. This can lead to a precarious game. Mental Health is no joking matter. How we feel and how we deal with those feelings is so extraordinarily important. This life is way too short and precious to throw away over being too prideful to admit when you have a complication.

Mental Health is an important topic for all of us to talk about.

Over the last few years, mental health and well-being have been more prevalent. Some many athletes and actors have admitted their encounters with addiction, and of course, being depressed.

Many people wonder how these stars could even be depressed; I mean, they have everything they could ever want, right? Well, guess what? They are human, just like you and me, and they also live lives we don't see. Some of these athletes and actors have the spotlight to let their problems be known, so maybe their story will get out, and someone else will reach out for help. That is precisely what Simone Biles did at the Tokyo Olympics. As hard as it had to be for her, she took a step back and put her mental health first, with the entire world watching. Biles knew she wasn't ok and needed support. This is a prime example of what a true champion looks like. She came out in front of the biggest stage in the world and asked for help. If everyone who had problems did this, then we would make great strides in learn

MENTAL

-ing more about how to deal with our emotional issues. Listen, you may not be Simone Biles, but if you are reading this, then I'm assuming you are human, and we are all prone to having problems. No matter how much we want to be, we are not perfect. It is not a sign of weakness; it's a sign of being strong-willed to speak up.

Since Simone Biles has stood up for Mental Health, we have seen a drastic shift to how we, the public, are reacting to the situation. More and more people are coming forward admitting that they are struggling or having problems. Sometimes all it takes is a frontrunner, and maybe that is precisely what Biles is. She was one of the first and won't be the last. The more education is out there about mental health, the better off we will all be. Biles was not the first person to ever speak up about these issues, but being she did it at one of the biggest stages of all time, it has had more impact than most. Now that she spoke up, there have been many other celebrities talking about their issues as well. I'm sure it has opened the door for a lot of us to feel more comfortable speaking about the tricky subject.

I dealt with many issues myself for a long time and kept quiet about it because it embarrassed me. I felt depressed. Unfortunately, I wasn't strong enough to admit that I had a problem. I was in denial, and I'm telling you from experience that's not the right thing to do to yourself. I spent years of my life struggling when, if I had just been brave enough to admit I was working with my feelings, I could have had peace long before I revived it.

We live in challenging times; no matter who you are or how perfect you may think your life is, we all have problems that we have to deal with daily. So if you or somebody you know is struggling with mental health issues, please reach out and get the help you need; it is there for us to use.

THE VIETNAM WALL VISITS TEXAS

BY Tumbleweed Smith

A three-quarter-size replica of the Vietnam Wall will be in Sulphur Springs November 4 through 7.

“We’re the only site in Texas,” says Mandy Kennedy, who works with veterans’ organizations in Sulphur Springs. “There’s only 28 sites this year. In fact, we’re the only site in the entire southern states area. The closest ones are Colorado, Arizona and New Mexico.”

Mandy says she is expecting a large crowd from a wide area. “They old us to expect 25,000 visitors This has been designat-ed na-year to nationwide as the welcome home veterans. Our goal is to have the streets with people and ribbons and yellow banners. We’re doing student tours and planning on a hundred kids every 30 minutes. That means about 1,200 kids in two days.”

TUMBLEWEED SMITH

There is no admission charge. The wall will be on display at the high school track 24 hours a day.

“There’s a big command center that will be in the concession stand area and there will be plenty of parking. It’s just a perfect place to set it up. It takes a lot of space because it’s 375 feet long and nearly 8 feet tall. Our athletes are helping to carry the granite wall sections. We’re responsible for putting it up.”

Visitors will be able to do rubbings of names on the wall.

“The staff will provide the paper. We provide the pencils. Our volunteers will help people get their etchings. There will be a kiosk there so family members can look up their veteran’s name and they can print out a photo of the loved one and get details about where they died and other information.”

A detailed education station accompanies the wall that has the history of the war and personal stories.

“There are printed materials, videos, maps, even shadow boxes that contain memorabilia such as photos, testimonials and things like that. There’s just so much to see.”

Students have been involved throughout the process. A resident, Carol Dunn Vernon donated $10,000 to get the wall to Sulphur Springs.

“We truly have a community that rallies and supports our veterans.”

Mandy has a personal interest in the wall.

“I have a cousin on that wall. A lot of my family was in the Vietnam War, so I’ve kept up with veterans’ issues nearly my whole life. It’s a privilege to be able to help handle the hundreds of volunteers and other factors that go into getting the wall here.”

Go Ahead: Name Something...

DON NEWBURY

Worthy cause enthusiasts postpone sleep until wee hours - s o m e t i m e s b e y o n d - t r y i n g to come up with n a m e s for days, weeks or m o n t h s that might reap the highest order of recognition. Such names—or slogans—or other IDs—typically result in folks opening checkbooks to extend financial support.

One would have a difficult time finding a more successful group than the one for breast cancer research. The world seems awash in things pink; contributions come from millions of donors.

There are far more “causes” than there are calendars to accommodate, with local, regional and national lists numbering into tens of thousands. Try to tally ‘em and risk serious eye-rolling....

As surely as yeast rises, such lists grow with exceeding rapidity.

Some of ‘em, of course, seem more for grins than impact. Take Jeff and Anne Horch—young marrieds with a quartet of toddlers—three ages two and under. They’re in the midst of potty training, calling it “pottypalooza.”

A “right” of passage?... If Will Rogers were still alive, he might not credit newspapers for supplying ALL he knows, but I have a notion the printed page would still provide most of his material. Writers help us to feel better about ourselves. Their accounts of generosity extended by so many in so many ways give us light in a world too often dark.

Cases in point: Heroism following the fire/explosion tragedy in West, Texas, as well as tornadoes in Granbury, Cleburne and Ennis, TX, and Moore, OK. How about OKC Thunder basketball star Kevin Durant signing a $1,000,000 check for tornado victims?...

Successes marked by school and college graduation provide encouragement. They are countless.

So are remarkable feats accomplished despite overwhelming odds. How about that Plano West HS athlete who helped his team advance to the recent baseball play-offs? His name is Blake Bruce, and he was born with two club feet. He brought a 3-1 pitching record into the playoffs. He’s also an effective outfielder, thanks to a quick first step.

His early years were marked by surgeries, pins and casts, and he was finally able to walk at age two. His mother joins the rest of us in amazement: “All I ever wanted for him was to be able to walk.”...

Who among us are not impressed by folks who excel in two or more professions with night and day differences? I realize that appreciating music doesn’t mean we’ll become accomplished on an instrument, or that visits to museums don’t mean we’ll make it as artists. Particularly intriguing to me are people handy in car repair. I find a deep sense of accomplishment in adding water to the radiator without anyone being scalded and replacing caps on valve stems without cross-threading.

Then there are “Click and Clack,” a pair of mechanical geniuses who also happen to be great communicators. Only in recent years have I read their weekly column that runs in hundreds of newspapers. (The brothers’ real names are Tom and Ray Magliozzi, ages 75 and 64, respectively.)

They have “Bombeck humor qualities,” entertaining as well as informing....

In a recent column, they provided suggestions for frequenting auto junkyards—uh, “automotive recycling centers.”

For “do-it-yourselfers,” they suggest the importance of buying items still in the “donor car.”

The main reason for this practice is so buyers will know where the stuff has been.

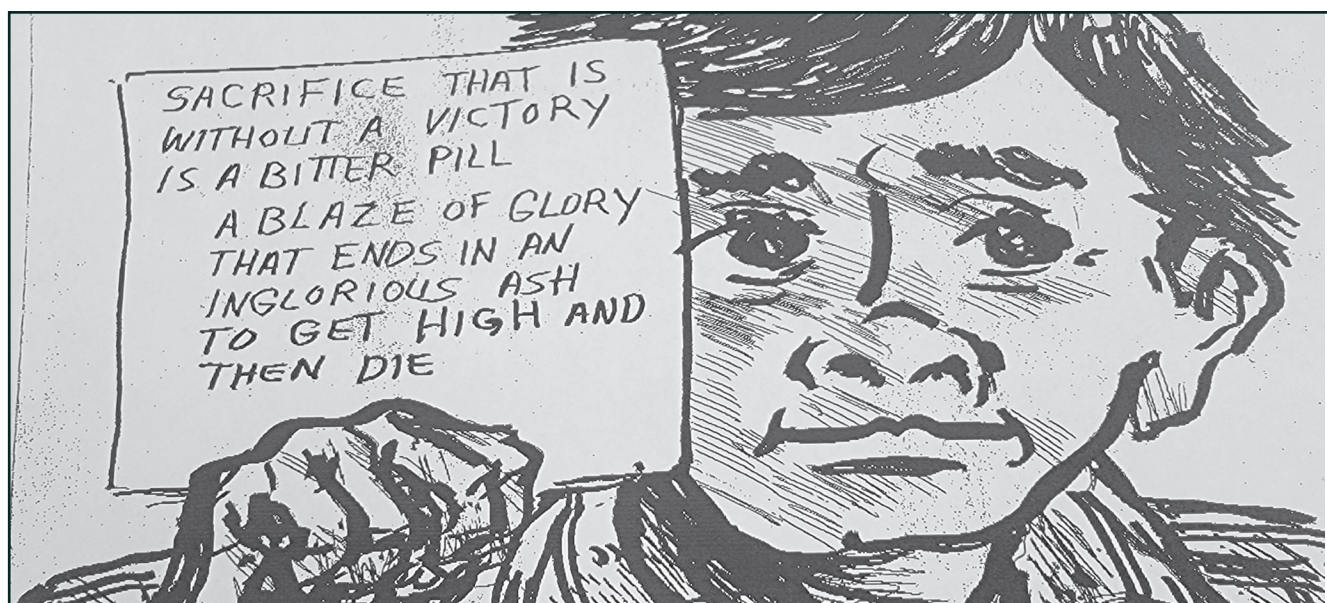

“Get in the car and take a deep breath,” Ray said. “You don’t want to install seats in your wife’s car only to find out that they were in the car of an old lady who drove around all day with her eight male cats while chain-smoking Cuban cigars.”...

The Magliozzi’s “Car Talk” on National Public Radio ended its 25-year run in 2012. Don’t fall victim to withdrawal pains—NPR is offering re-runs.

When they announced “retirement” last year, their blog indicated they “plan to get even lazier.”

I’ll take their columns, even if re-prints, and I’ll love their radio shows, even if re-broadcasts. I don’t expect to make it as a mechanic, but vow exhaustive efforts to “appropriate” some of their humor. Count me in if a day, a week, a month, a year—shoot, even a decade—is ever named for these zany brothers....

By DUSTIN POPE

Managing Editor

It was a tough final week of regular season football for all three of our local teams as they all were on the losing end. Forsan suffered its first loss of the year to a very game team from Hawley, losing a close battle 21-24. Next, big Spring gets upset in San Angelo, losing to Lakeview 49-35. Finally, the Coahoma Bulldogs fell to Abernathy 49-14. While it was a long night for the three teams, the season will continue for both Forsan and the Steers. The Coahoma Bulldogs battled hard all year long, but they played their last game of the year tonight.

The atmosphere in Forsan was that of a playoff game. Both teams came into this matchup undefeated at 9-0. This game would be for the #1 seed heading into the playoffs, and more importantly, the district championship.

The stands were packed in Forsan to watch two undefeated teams go at it for the district championship. Hawley received the opening kickoff and wasted no time showing why they were one of the top teams in 2A. They worked the ball down the field and put up the first touchdown of the night on a 13-yard pass. With 8:55 left in the first quarter of play, Hawley had an early lead. After the quick score from Hawley, the Forsan buffalos had their shot with the ball. The Buffs did what they do they started to pound the ball against this defense. Forsan ran the ball right down the field, converting two fourths and ones. Then, major Stockton broke free on a beautiful 52-yard touchdown run, tying this game at 7 to 7. With 4:35 left in the first quarter, we had a game. Once Hawley got the ball back much like the drive before, they moved right down the field. They were able to get inside the red zone and scored on a 4-yard touchdown pass. The score made it a 14 to 7 lead for the Bearcats with 2:10 left in the first quarter.

The Buffs trailed after the first quarter of football in what was already proving to be the game of the week. To start the second quarter, the Bearcats were again driving down the field when the Forsan defense made a huge interception to give them the ball back with an excellent return to set the Buffs up at the Bearcat 30 yard line. Forsan wasted little time capitalizing on the significant turnover as they scored when Sawyer Stallings found Cayden Morgan from 12 yards out for the game-tying touchdown making this a 14-14 game with 9:04 left play in the first half. On Hawley's third drive of the game, it was more of the same from this very potent offense. They moved the ball right down the field and eventually, on a fourth and goal from the 13, went for it and hit a 13-yard touchdown pass to give Hawley the lead once again at 21 to 14 with 4:25 left to play in the second quarter. Finding themselves down again, Forsan knew it needed to answer before halftime. Forsan started driving down the field using a nice mix of the run game with some new pass game wrinkles. Forsan got the ball into the red zone but had a massive fumble as it looked as though they might tie this game. The fumble occurred on the 19-yard line, giving the Bearcats the ball with 19 seconds left in the second quarter. Hawley did not play it safe they made two big plays, and instantly they moved into field goal range. With six seconds left before halftime, the Bearcat kicker hit from 41 yards out to make this a 24-14 lead at halftime.

As the second half of this game began, it became clear that both of these teams were 9-0. The Buffs received the second-half kickoff and went right to work with their run game. They pounded the ball mercilessly at the Hawley defense, moving the ball down the field with ease. The Buffs had one of their patented long sustaining drives chewing up the clock. The drive stalled inside the ten-yard line, so the Buffs decided to go for the field goal to make this a seven-point game. Unfortunately, the Buffs missed a blocking assignment, and the field goal was blocked, swinging the momentum back to Hawley. Both defenses played well for the rest of the third quarter as the score stayed locked at 24-14 after three-quarters of play.

Here we were, Hawley with a 24-14 point lead with 12 minutes to go to decide the district champion. The fourth quarter began with the buff needing a score to get back into this game. Forsan was driving the ball down the field when the Bearcats got a colossal interception to once again stop a Buff drive right in its tracks. The Buffs defense answered right back; knowing they could not allow Hawley to score again, they forced a Bearcat punt. Forsan repaid the favor of the blocked field goal with a nice blocked punt of their own, changing the momentum once again. The blocked punt gave Forsan excellent field position as they started at the 50-yard line. With 8:12 to go in the game, Forsan needed to score and do it quickly. The Buffs got straight to work mixing up the play, calling keeping the Bearcat defense off balance. They got inside the Bearcat ten-yard line and eventually punched the ball in from a yard at 21-24 with 7:04 left in the game. The Buffaloes were right back in this game and just needed this defense who had not allowed a point the whole second quarter to make another big stand. That is precisely what they did as Hawley started to move the ball down the field and looked as though they might go in for a score; Forsan intercepted another Bearcat pass in the end zone, giving the ball back to the Buffs and making the packed crowd go crazy. Forsan now had the ball and the momentum, but this Hawley defense stood firm again, forcing the Buffs to turn their ball over on downs with 3:23 left in the game. What was once an offensive battle in the first quarter was now a pure knock-em-out drag-out defensive struggle. Forsan had to have another big stand from its defense to have a shot at this game. Hawley wanted to control the clock and run the time out, so they decided to pound the ball; Forsan wasn't having it as this Buffs defense did what it has done all season long and stood firm again. The Buffs got the Bearcats huge fourth and seven and could force a turnover on downs giving Forsan one final shot at this game. The Buffs had all they could ask for. They had the ball at their own 12-yard line 2:06 left in the game with no timeouts. Unfortunately, tonight just wasn't the Buff's night as they threw a game-ending interception sealing the victory for the Hawley Bearcats.

This was a battle from start to finish, I know it wasn't the way we wanted the game to turn out, but the way this Buff team played tonight was terrific. They showed they deserve that top ten rankings. It was the first loss of the season for the buff, but they will still go into the playoffs playing great football and with a #2 seed.

Now for the Big Spring Steers, their game also had seeding implications. Big Spring was already guaranteed a playoff spot; it was just a matter of what seed they could potentially get. They could get that number one seed, or they could be the number four seed. Well, Steer fans, this just wasn't a good night for Big Spring as they got upset on the road to a San Angelo Lakeview team. I was not at this game in person, so I can't tell you what happened, but I will say that we still get a chance to continue the season. I believe this team will bounce back in a big way. But, listen, bad games happen better to get it out of the way now than next week. So, I will watch the game film on Saturday and have a complete write-up of the game in Monday's paper.

While this might not have been the best night of football for the three local Howard County teams, it will be ok. Forsan is still one of the best teams in the entire state, and they will have a chance to prove that. The Steers will regroup and come out playing hard next week. When I do the write-up for Monday's paper, I will let you know who and where Forsan and the Steers will be playing; until then, have a safe weekend, and remember to turn those clocks back this weekend.

The Coahoma Bulldogs season comes to end after loss to Abernathy

By STEVE BELVIN

Special to the Herald

COAHOMA - The Abernathy Antelopes rolled into the playoffs and a rebuilding Coahoma Bulldogs team's season came to a merciful end Friday night at Bill Easterling Memorial Stadium as the Antelopes dominated the Bulldogs 49-14.

The outcome of the game was never in jeopardy as the No. 10 ranked Antelopes jumped on the Bulldogs early. By halftime Abernathy led 35-7. Abernathy definitely had something to play for, with an Idalou win over Lubbock Roosevelt Friday night, it would throw the District 4-3A race into a three-way tie for first. It didn't happen however as Roosevelt defeated Idalou 34-21.

Meanwhile Coahoma held a slimmer of hope of getting into the playoffs as the No. 4 seed, providing it could've beaten Abernathy and Reagan County could beat Stanton. That didn't happen either. Stanton beat Reagan County 24-0.

It was a growing process for coach Chris Joslin's Bulldogs. They finished the season with a 3-7 overall record and 1-4 in league play. Abernathy advances to the playoffs with a 9-1 mark, it's only loss was to Roosevelt.

One can't accuse the Bulldogs of having an easy schedule. Five of its opponents were ranked in the top 10, three from the district, Idalou, Roosevelt and Abernathy. Throw in Forsan and Eldorado from Class 2A and that's a killer schedule.

Coahoma's youth told off in the offensive and defensive lines. They'll lose consistent performers likes Kobe Cervante and look for the likes of Bryan Martinez, Braiden Boaz and Nick Gonzales all to step us next season. Nick Tuttle and Shane White will play into that mi also.

Coahoma's youthfulness showed against the good teams. Idalou and Roosevelt bashed the defense for 389 and 457 yards rushing respectively. Eldorado threw for 396 yards against them.

Coahoma defensed fairly well in the air, allowing a 104 yards passing per game. Billy Starr and Austin Perkins got three interceptions each.

Offensively the Bulldogs were not bad, averaging 253 yards on the ground and 127 in the air. The key loss is all-state running back Brysen Kerby who had his second consecutive 1,000 yard season. They were tough yards, not many long gainers. Coahoma does has two good running backs returning however. Freshman Jaidyn Vineyard and junior Isaiah Esleda combined for more than 800 yards.

Sophomore quarterback Billy Bailey earned his stripes this season. He constantly got better during the season. He finished completing 57 percent of his passes. Bailey will have a i big play guy to go in Perkins, who made some big plays this season. He'll be better punter next season, but he was good on offense as well as defense. Several times he made good returns on the special teams to set Coahoma up in good field position. He also averaged 25 yards per catch, tops on the team.

An added weapon is sophomore kicker Reagan Chapman, who was a force that Coahoma really didn't use until the second part of the season. He was consistent on extra points and kicked several field goals, including a 40-yarder.

Namajunas, Usman fight in rematches in UFC return to NYC

By DAN GELSTON

AP Sports Writer

Rose Namajunas used New York as her breakout city on her way toward UFC stardom. She won the 115-pound title in November 2017 at Madison Square Garden and followed it up just five months later with a successful defense in Brooklyn.

And to think, the Wisconsin native at first didn't give her fight night locations much thought.

"I'm not really into the historical thing when it comes to arenas," Namajunas said. "It was like, you're fighting at the Garden! I'm like, OK. After fighting there, that's when I realized the energy and how special it is. Having that experience now, and going to New York so many times and being really familiar with the city, I appreciate being able to go back again."

The appreciation runs deep at UFC.

For the first time since Donald Trump became the first sitting president to watch cageside and Dwayne Johnson presented one winner a championship belt, the promotion that largely camped out in Nevada, Florida and Abu Dhabi during the pandemic makes a return to the Garden.

It's back at the city so nice, it had to run back fights twice: UFC 268 on Saturday night at MSG is headlined by two championship rematches. Namajunas puts her strawweight title up for grabs against Zhang Weili. Kamaru Usman defends his welterweight championship against Colby Covington.

Namajunas is on a rematch run since she beat Joanna Jedrzejczyk for the championship five years ago in New York. She won the second bout, as well, before dropping the title to Jessica Andrade. Namajunas won that rematch also, before she won the strawweight championship for a second time with her victory over Zhang in April. Seven months later, they'll square off again, though with a bit more respectful tone after Namajunas linked the Chinese Zhang to communism in the hype leading into the first fight.

"Obviously, I'm good at rematches," she said with a laugh. "It doesn't make it any easier."

Namajunas has been candid about her difficulty adapting to a career in the spotlight and even hinted at retirement after she lost to Andrade. She said she wasn't even sure she was interested in fighting and wanted to "do something else" before a small break revitalized her interest. Namajunas, who earned the nickname "Thug" as a kid from one of her neighbors, had used her post-fight interviews to preach kindness. The blowback from her comments about Zhang also took a toll.

"I think I just realized how much people pay attention to what I'm saying," she said. "But I don't care about any of that going into this one. People want to bring it up and talk about it."

Namajunas laughed when she said she still has days where "I never want to do this again," but she has a long-term vision of what she wants to accomplish and feels there are enough worthy contenders in the strawweight division that could lead to big-money fights for years. And, buzzcut and all, she feels more at ease in her own skin.

"I'm definitely more comfortable with it, but just with my personality, it's always going to be a little bit of a challenge," the 29-year-old Namajunas said. "I have a stronger support system and I make sure that I have a proper amount of quiet time. I'm just more mature in general."

Usman can solidify his claim as the greatest welterweight in UFC history ahead of Georges St-Pierre should he beat Covington for the second time. Usman is undefeated in UFC (14 straight wins) since his 2015 debut, though he was pushed to the limit in his first fight with Covington in December 2019.

Usman closed out an occasionally slow fight with Covington in thrilling fashion, knocking down the challenger twice with right hands and then decisively finishing him on the ground.

"He's the pound-for-pound best fighter in the world," UFC President Dana White said. "This guy's the most accomplished welterweight of all time. He's on his way to being the greatest welterweight of all time. If you look at all these guys he's beat, he's now on his second run of beating these guys two times. If he beats Colby again, I think Kamaru Usman might be the greatest welterweight ever."

Covington needs a win to prove he's more than a one-schtick wonder after he reinvented himself as a MAGA-loving fighter who polarized even the UFC audience and grew close to Trump. The main card also could be a turning point for 40-year-old Frankie Edgar, who has lost four of six heading into his bantamweight fight against Marlon Vera.

"I start talking to guys when they get to an age and get in there and start getting knocked out consistently or just can't compete at this level anymore," White said. "I don't feel that way right now about Frankie Edgar. But we'll see how he does this weekend."

Justin Gaethje fights Michael Chandler and Shane Burgos takes on Billy Quarantillo in the other two fights on the main card.

Fox Sports heads to Naval Academy for military salute

By The Associated Press undefined

Fox Sports could have had one of the more intriguing games of the week with Green Bay visiting Kansas City — until Aaron Rodgers went into the NFL's COVID-19 protocol, ending a potential shootout with Chiefs quarterback Patrick Mahomes.

Fox is taking its pregame show on the road, though, for its annual salute to the military for Veterans Day.

This year's salute will take place from the United States Naval Academy in Annapolis, Maryland, marking the second time in three years the show is taking place from a military academy. Fox visited the U.S. Military Academy at West Point in 2019.

"I think there's something special when it is in front of the students. They have such tough days, and this is just kind of a day off for them to have fun with the guys and to be part of it," Fox NFL Sunday producer Bill Richards said.

One of the features on Sunday's two-hour pregame show is about New England Patriots coach Bill Belichick and his family's history with the academy. Belichick's father, Steve, worked there as an assistant and scout for over 30 years, and the Belichick Library in the Academy's football complex is believed to have one of the most extensive collection of football books outside of the Pro Football Hall of Fame.

The "Fox NFL Sunday" crew of Terry Bradshaw, Curt Menefee, Howie Long, Michael Strahan, Jimmy Johnson and Jay Glazer will get to experience many different aspects of life at the Academy along with getting to interact with the Midshipmen during the day.

Besides the pregame show, the halftime and postgame shows will also originate from the Academy.

"For our group and all the people that make our Sunday show happen, it's their favorite thing to do," Long said. "I think it's a great reminder of all the sacrifice that many have made over the course of the history of our country."

YOUNG TOM BRADY

Panthers linebacker Haason Reddick said Thursday what New England Patriots fans have been quietly hoping to hear for months. Reddick said Patriots rookie quarterback Mac Jones reminds him of ... you guessed it, a "young Tom Brady."

"To me personally, just the style of the offense, and I'm saying this very lightly because I know he is nowhere near as smart of a player as Tom Brady, but man, at times he does look like a young Tom Brady," said Reddick, a five-year NFL veteran. "Take that for whatever you want to take that for, but he definitely is a solid football player."

Jones has the Patriots at 4-4 entering Sunday's game at Carolina.

The No. 15 overall draft pick leads all rookie quarterbacks in completions (192), completion rate (68.1%), yards passing (1,997), touchdown passes (nine) and QB rating (90.1).

Of course, Jones still has a little way to go before matching Brady's seven Super Bowl championships and five Super Bowl MVP awards.

STUDENT DEBT

Bills second-year kicker Tyler Bass, who was selected the AFC's special teams player of the month on Thursday, noted he was wondering about paying off his student loans from attending Georgia Southern before the Bills selected him in the sixth round of the 2020 draft.

Bass said the debt keeps him grounded and motivated him to make the team, which he did in supplanting Stephen Hauschka to start his rookie season.

"It's a constant reminder about how much sacrifice went into it and I put into it," Bass told The Associated Press. He ranks second in the NFL with 71 points, having hit 16 of 17 field-goal attempts this season, and 44 of 51 overall.

Bass now has a four-year contract worth $3.475 million.

Asked if he needs to have a conversation with Bills GM Brandon Beane to cover his expenses, Bass replied: "No. I'm happy with what I got. I'll figure it out."

PICKS DON'T WORRY BURROW

Cincinnati quarterback Joe Burrow has learned that all interceptions in the NFL are not created equal.

The second-year star has thrown nine picks, tying him with three other players for second most in the NFL. He's tossed at least one in six of the Bengals' eight games this season.

And he's not all worried about it.

"You go back and watch the tape, and some of them you can control and some of them you can't," he said. "That's playing quarterback in this league. It's not linear. Sometimes guys drop interceptions, sometimes guys make really good plays on something that shouldn't be an interception. I think overall, the last few weeks I've done a good job taking care of the ball."

Now, Burrow said, is not the time to dwell on exactly how they all happened.

"That's kind of film study after the season where you go back and watch sack tapes and interception tapes and really comb through all that at the end of the year," he said.

Burrow also happens to be third in the league with 20 touchdown passes.

The Bengals (5-3) host the Cleveland Browns (4-4) in a crucial AFC North clash on Sunday.

GOOD VIBES

Bret Michaels, front man for rock band Poison, will join four-time Super Bowl champion Rocky Bleier in honoring active duty service members and veterans during the Steelers' "Salute to Service" game against the Chicago Bears on Monday night.

Michaels is a Pittsburgh native and son of a veteran. Bleier lost part of his right foot serving in the Vietnam War after his rookie season with the Steelers. He returned to the team in 1970 and sat out a year because of his injuries. He played 10 more seasons and ran for 1,036 yards in 1976.

Salute to Service is an annual NFL initiative that honors service members, veterans, and their families. Before the game, Michaels, Bleier and the Steelers' fan of the year, Army veteran Nelson E. Lowes, will conduct the ceremonial "Terrible Towel" twirl. The Steelers and Bleier will also be honoring Michaels' late father, veteran Wally Sychak, with a dedication and donation to his VFW hall.

"I could not be more honored to be on "Monday Night Football" at Heinz Field standing by Rocky Bleier and Nelson Lowes, saluting our veterans and service members around the globe," Michaels, who is currently on his "Nothin but a Good Vibe" tour, often invites service members and first responders to be recognized on stage during his performances. He also meets with active duty service members and veterans before his shows and at military events such as the Military Child of the Year event.

A NEW PURSUIT

Matt Birk, a six-time Pro Bowl center during a 15-year career with the Minnesota Vikings and Baltimore Ravens, has put together through his H.I.K.E. Foundation a team of educators, business professionals and entrepreneurs to create Pursuit Academy, a unique program for fourth-grade students.

"Kids these days are stressed, depressed, exam-obsessed and social media-possessed," Birk said on the AP Pro Football Podcast. "And so what Pursuit Academy does is it really teaches kids how to be entrepreneurs of their own lives. Life doesn't go in a straight line. There's going to be all sorts of things, twists in the road, adversity. Education is designed to help kids have a great life, not just about getting into college. Of course, they need to learn basic skills, but Pursuit Academy, we have skills that we think every child needs to learn."

The program teaches six essential skills to empower kids to create a path that enables them to pursue their best lives.

Pursuit Academy has already been piloted at Deephaven Elementary School in Wayzata, Minnesota. The program is delivered via a five-minute-per-day learning management system. It's available to all schools for free.

HEADING OUT

Roy Sommerhof is retiring as the vice president of stadium operations for the Baltimore Ravens.

Sommerhof began working for the team during its inaugural 1996 season. He manages all aspects of M&T Bank Stadium, including parking and transportation, security, guest services, catering, medical services and stadium maintenance.

"Roy's contributions to the Ravens are immense," team president Dick Cass said. "Leading with professionalism, dedication and a forward-thinking mindset, he's played an integral role in every aspect of our stadium operations."

Prior to joining the Ravens, Sommerhof spent 16 years working in ticket sales and stadium operations for the Baltimore Orioles, and he played a role in the 1992 opening of Oriole Park at Camden Yards.

Sommerhof's retirement is set for the end of this season.

Rodgers sought treatments instead of COVID-19 vaccine

By BARRY WILNER

AP Pro Football Writer

Green Bay Packers quarterback Aaron Rodgers said Friday he sought alternative treatments instead of the NFL-endorsed COVID-19 vaccinations because he is allergic to an ingredient in two of the FDA-approved shots.

Speaking on SiriusXM's "Pat McAfee Show," Rodgers said: "I'm not an anti-vax, flat-earther. I have an allergy to an ingredient that's in the mRNA vaccines. I found a long-term immunization protocol to protect myself and I'm very proud of the research that went into that."

Rodgers, who turns 38 on Dec. 2, did not say what ingredient he was allergic to, or how he knows he is allergic.

Rodgers, who has been tested daily as part of NFL protocols for the unvaccinated, found out he contracted COVID-19 on Wednesday. The reigning NFL MVP said he didn't feel well on Thursday but was much better on Friday.

Rodgers can't rejoin the Packers for 10 days, missing Sunday's game at Kansas City. He must have a negative test to return to the team on Nov. 13.

During the interview with McAfee, Rodgers misquoted the CDC website and offered his explanation for why hasn't taken the Johnson & Johnson vaccine.

Rodgers said the CDC's website says "should you have an allergy to any of the ingredients, you should not get one of the mRNA vaccines. So those two (Moderna and Pfizer) were out already."

Instead the CDC site says, "If you have had a severe allergic reaction or an immediate allergic reaction — even if it was not severe — to any ingredient in an mRNA COVID-19 vaccine, you should not get either of the currently available mRNA COVID-19 vaccines."

Rodgers did not say he had an allergic reaction.

He said with some of the public issues involving the Johnson & Johnson vaccine — clotting issues and his "hearing of multiple people who had had adverse events around getting the J&J ... the J&J shot was not even an option at that point."

The COVID-19 vaccines authorized for use in the U.S. were tested in tens of thousands of people and proven to be both safe and effective at dramatically reducing the risk of serious disease and death. The vaccines now have been given to more than 200 million Americans and that real-world use plus extra government safety tracking have made clear that serious side effects are extremely rare — and that any risk is far lower than the risks posed by COVID-19.

Rodgers' research led him to a treatment he did not detail, and he said the NFL was aware of the treatment protocol he was using, which took "multiple months."

"The league was fully aware of it upon my return to the Packers (in August)," Rodgers said. "It was at that point that I petitioned them to accept my immunization under their vaccination protocol."

A member of the Packers' medical staff inquired to the NFL Players Association's medical director on behalf of an anonymous player who asked if an alternative homeopathic treatment could render him as "fully vaccinated" under the protocols. That player was Rodgers.

The NFLPA's medical director, Dr. Thom Mayer, shared an email from the team and related materials from Rodgers with Dr. Allen Sills, the league's medical chief, and with an independent infectious disease expert, who were asked for an opinion.

The expert, hired jointly by the league and union, said he could not find in his research that the treatment offers reliable and robust COVID-19 protection — that the treatment was not the equivalent of receiving one of the three endorsed vaccines. There was a lack of scientific data demonstrating whether and how well the treatments Rodgers wanted approved would work.

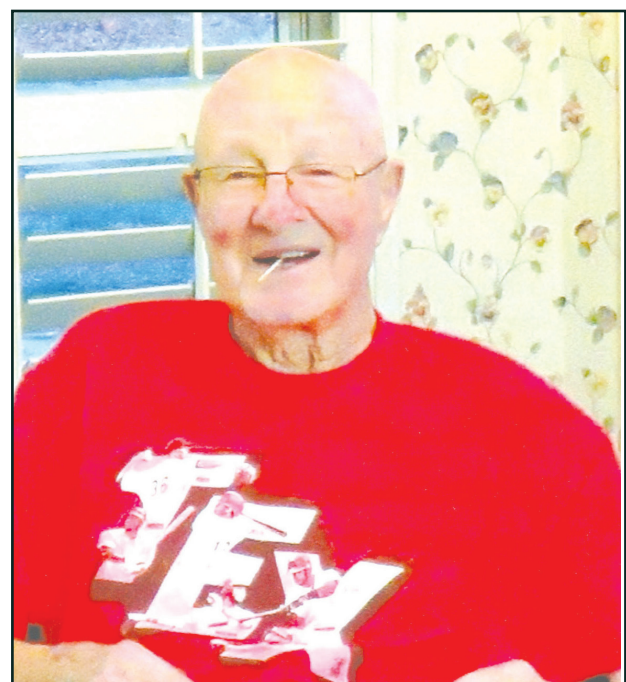

The union and the doctors were never contacted again by Rodgers after his petition and a subsequent appeal were denied.

"And I also said, how come there's no exemption for medical exemptions, religious exemptions, pre-existing conditions?" Rodgers added. "And they basically said those are all basically exempted but you would be put in the non-vaccinated category."

Rodgers also told McAfee he has concerns about potential fertility issues had he taken one of the vaccinations.

Many scientists, including three doctors who specialize in reproductive health, have vouched for the safety of vaccinations for couples who want to have a baby and urged people to seek out their doctors or nurse practitioners with any questions. The Centers for Disease Control and Prevention and obstetrician groups also recommend COVID-19 vaccines for pregnant individuals.

Texas A&M AgriLife's Stover testifies during congressional State of Nutrition in America 2021

By Kay Ledbetter

Special to the Herald

The U.S. Senate Committee on Agriculture, Nutrition and Forestry Subcommittee on Food and Nutrition, Specialty Crops, Organics and Research held a hearing Nov. 2 to discuss the State of Nutrition in America. Among calls for the second White House Conference on Food, Nutrition, Hunger and Health — the last of which was held over 50 years ago — one voice highlighted the essential role of agriculture in any conversation about nutrition.

A man sits center screen and appears to be talking - he is testifying on agriculture's role in health - while two masked women sit behind him. There is a small C-Span logo in the lower left hand corner.

Patrick J. Stover, Ph.D., vice chancellor of Texas A&M AgriLife, dean of the College of Agriculture and Life Sciences, and director of Texas A&M AgriLife Research, testifies during the Nov. 2 State of Nutrition in America congressional hearing.

"We need to build upon the Borlaug legacy in a revolutionary new way: by expanding our mission from simply using food to eliminate hunger and undernutrition to using food to become healthier," said Patrick J. Stover, Ph.D., vice chancellor of Texas A&M AgriLife, dean of the College of Agriculture and Life Sciences, and director of Texas A&M AgriLife Research. "This can only be achieved by innovating throughout the entire food supply chain and by advancing rigorous science — not merely focusing on what some deem to be 'healthy foods.'"

The challenge of nutrition security

Stover's comments were made during his congressional testimony to the subcommittee, where he was among four other experts speaking about nutrition in America and the challenges facing the U.S. amid an epidemic of chronic diet-related disease that has been exacerbated by COVID-19.

Today, half of all American adults suffer from diabetes or pre-diabetes, and 122 million Americans have cardiovascular disease, which alone results in around 840,000 deaths each year. At the same time, food security is a major issue that has worsened as a result of the pandemic. Before the pandemic, one in eight Americans faced food insecurity; yet now, high rates of unemployment driven by the coronavirus are expected to leave another 18 million U.S. children food insecure. It is expected that at least 40% of all U.S. youth will soon be food insecure.

"Urbanization, gaps in knowledge, competing agendas and a deficit in public trust all contribute to the growing disconnect between people and the food they eat," Stover said. "To put it bluntly, that disconnect threatens agriculture, the food supply and the health of our society. Fortunately, agriculture is uniquely positioned to be the solution. With current and emerging technologies, we can tailor agriculture and food systems to support any and all desired outcomes."

Texas leading by example with two new efforts toward solutions

There are solutions on the horizon, Stover said. And Texas A&M AgriLife is well-positioned to lead nationally in partnership with other land-grant universities and U.S. Department of Agriculture Agricultural Research Service, USDA-ARS, centers.

Patrick J. Stover, Ph.D., vice chancellor of Texas A&M AgriLife, dean of the College of Agriculture and Life Sciences, and director of Texas A&M AgriLife Research, testifies during the Nov. 2 State of Nutrition in America congressional hearing.

As the largest comprehensive agriculture program in the country, Texas A&M AgriLife is taking a connected systems approach — linking the "production" and "consumer" domains — by launching two innovative efforts to connect agriculture and health.

First, Texas A&M AgriLife's new Institute for Advancing Health Through Agriculture, IHA, is the world's first research institute to bring together precision nutrition and responsive agriculture research. The institute aims to link food production to human consumption as a way to improve public health and lower health care costs.

The IHA will also advance research to help agricultural producers harness big data, artificial intelligence and machine learning to produce food that improves public health. A recent example is a previously inedible cotton byproduct that can now be a highly nutritious food source worldwide.

Second, the new Agriculture, Food and Nutrition Scientific Evidence Center at Texas A&M AgriLife will be a global resource for policy makers in providing non-biased, scientific evidence reviews about environmental, economic and human health outcomes related to agricultural and food policy.

"I am grateful for the investments from the state of Texas and USDA-ARS that have enabled Texas A&M AgriLife to launch these two long-term innovative efforts," Stover added.

Agriculture must be at the table

Stover implored the committee to ensure, that agriculture must be part of the dialogue.

"The costs of the current situation cannot be overstated. Diet-related chronic diseases place a huge financial burden on individuals, the health care system and the American economy — and are crippling quality of life for most Americans," he said. "While historic efforts to eliminate hunger and food insecurity were important and well-intentioned, hunger cannot be considered in the absence of agriculture and health."

US mandates vaccines or tests for big companies by Jan. 4

By DAVID KOENIG

Associated Press

Tens of millions of Americans who work at companies with 100 or more employees will need to be fully vaccinated against COVID-19 by Jan. 4 or get tested for the virus weekly under government rules issued Thursday.

The new requirements are the Biden administration's boldest move yet to persuade reluctant Americans to finally get a vaccine that has been widely available for months -- or face financial consequences. If successful, administration officials believe it will go a long way toward ending a pandemic that has killed more than 750,000 Americans.

First previewed by President Joe Biden in September, the requirements will apply to about 84 million workers at medium and large businesses, although it is not clear how many of those employees are unvaccinated.

The Occupational Safety and Health Administration regulations will force the companies to require that unvaccinated workers test negative for COVID-19 at least once a week and wear a mask while in the workplace.

OSHA left open the possibility of expanding the requirement to smaller businesses. It asked for public comment on whether employers with fewer than 100 employees could handle vaccination or testing programs.

Tougher rules will apply to another 17 million people working in nursing homes, hospitals and other facilities that receive money from Medicare and Medicaid. Those workers will not have an option for testing — they will need to be vaccinated.

Workers will be able to ask for exemptions on medical or religious grounds.

The requirements will not apply to people who work at home or outdoors.

Biden framed the issue as a simple choice between getting more people vaccinated or prolonging the pandemic.

"While I would have much preferred that requirements not become necessary, too many people remain unvaccinated for us to get out of this pandemic for good," he said Thursday in a statement.

Biden said his encouragement for businesses to impose mandates and his own previous requirements for the military and federal contractors have helped reduce the number of unvaccinated Americans over 12 from 100 million in late July to about 60 million now.

Those measures, he said, have not led to mass firings or worker shortages, adding that vaccines have been required before to fight other diseases.

OSHA said companies that fail to comply with the regulations could face penalties of nearly $14,000 per violation.

The agency will face enforcement challenges. Even counting help from states, OSHA has only 1,850 inspectors to oversee 130 million workers at 8 million workplaces. An administration official said the agency will respond to whistleblower complaints and make limited spot checks.

The release of the rules followed weeks of regulatory review and meetings with business groups, labor unions and others.

It's time to talk about Alzheimer's.

alz.org/ourstories

3 tablespoons kosher salt

3 tablespoons freshly ground black pepper

Dry-brining time:
Overnight
Prep time: 15 to 30 minutes

Cook time: 7 hours, 30 minutes to 9 hours, 30 minutes; plus 1 to 2 hours to rest

Grill temperature: 250 F to 275 F

Smoking wood: Oak or pecan

1. Trim off any hard fat from the brisket and square off the edges. Trim the fat cap down to an even 1/4-inch thickness. Sprinkle evenly on all sides with the salt and pepper. Refrigerate overnight.

2. Prepare the grill for smoking at 250 F to 275 F.

3. Place the brisket fat-side up on the grate over the drip pan. Close the lid. If desired, wrap in aluminum foil after 5 to 6 hours or once the bark (crust) is dark brown.

4. Turn over the brisket, close the lid, and continue cooking for 2 hours, 30 minutes to 3 hours, 30 minutes or until an instant-read thermometer inserted into the center registers 200 F.

5. Rest the brisket, wrapped in foil, for 1 to 2 hours before serving. Cut across the grain into 1/4-inch-thick slices. Pour over as much of the drippings from the pan as you like, and serve.

Cooking tip: The grain in each part of the brisket — it's made up of two different muscles, known as the flat and the point — runs in two different directions.

Roughly speaking, the grain in the point runs perpendicular to the grain in the flat, so you'll want to slice the two sections separately

Food and sports go hand in hand. Food is never too far away when getting together with fellow fans. That's true if fans are hosting a game watch at home or if they're tailgating in a stadium parking lot.

Certain styles of food are synonymous with sports, and that includes grilled and smoked items. Smoking has become particularly popular among sports fans in recent years, and many modern smokers are now portable enough that they can be taken on the road when following a favorite team.

Gameday can be the perfect time to master the art of smoking. Smoking can take a long time, which makes it an ideal option for day-long tailgates or game watch parties.

Fans who have volunteered for cooking duties this season can impress guests with their smoking skills by following this recipe for "Texas-Style Beef Brisket" from "The Essential Kamado Grill Cookbook" (Rockridge Press) by Will Budiaman.

Texas-Style Beef Brisket
Serves 6 to 8

1 8- to 10-lb. beef brisket

Impress fellow fans with smoked brisket for the big game

Sports is often credited with bringing people together. That tendency to connect people from different walks of life is even more noticeable when sports is combined with food.

Fun By The Numbers

Here's How It Works:

Sudoku puzzles are formatted as a 9x9 grid, broken down into nine 3x3 boxes. To solve a sudoku, the numbers 1 through 9 must fill each row, column and box. Each number can appear only once in each row, column and box. You can figure out the order in which the numbers will appear by using the numeric clues already provided in the boxes. The more numbers you name, the easier it gets to solve the puzzle!

The bidding:
East    South    West    North
4♥    4NT    Dble    Pass
Pass    Redble    All Pass!

Opening lead — two of hearts.

Today's hand deals with a matter that should be discussed by any regular partnership, namely, how to proceed after an opponent opens the bidding with four of a major and you have the values to compete but don't know which suit to bid. Some partnerships play that a double in this situation is for penalties, while others treat the double as takeout. Some even play that a double of four hearts is for takeout (leaving space for partner to bid four spades), while a double of four spades is for penalties.

When the double would be for penalties, four notrump is used as a takeout, asking partner to bid his best suit. Naturally, the four-notrump bidder should have substantial high-card values for this bid, since he is forcing his partner to respond on the five-level.

Once upon a time, many years ago, the legendary Harry Fishbein was playing in a high-stakes rubber-bridge game opposite a similarly illustrious partner and held the South hand. His four-notrump bid was well below par; he should have had at least three or four more high-card points.

His famous partner had never heard of four notrump being used as a takeout bid in this situation, and so failed to bid five spades over West's double of four notrump. Fishbein's redouble was intended to emphasize that he still wanted his partner to choose a suit. But again North failed to bid five spades (which was ice-cold). So Fishbein played the hand at four notrump redoubled, and lost seven hearts and three clubs to go down seven — 4,000 points!

The next day, North was overheard telling a friend about the gigantic catastrophe. "Imagine that Fishbein," he said. "I didn't even open my mouth, and he goes down 4,000!"

Tomorrow's Horoscope

BY HOLIDAY MATHIS

Dash of Lunar Courage

Nobody likes to do things they are not good at, yet almost everybody must. We are not born knowing things. A refusal to be terrible at something is a refusal to learn. The Sagittarius sun offers a dash of daring for those willing to try something new and agrees to double down on that courage if we don't expect ourselves to be good at it right away.

ARIES (March 21-April 19). There are some obstacles that must be painstakingly climbed, but today's can be vaulted over, provided you have a running start and a tall, strong lever and the faith it takes to fling yourself.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20). You have talent, though you're well aware of the other necessary ingredients that count much more, such as intent, persistence, the ability to prioritize well and the discipline to follow through.

GEMINI (May 21-June 21). Because you're involved and enthralled with what you've said yes to, you'll say no about a dozen times. It's the only way to stay focused, protect what you have and keep on track. "No" doesn't mean "never."

CANCER (June 22-July 22). What you do, you do well and will be appreciated and paid accordingly. Handle the financial end of things and other parts fall into place. Review the past budget to consider what worked and what didn't.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22). The "what if" chain is likely to visit your thoughts today. You have the power to slant this in a positive direction. If it's not working out that way and you need reinforcements, invite "what ifs" mortal enemy, "so what!"

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23). Mostly, you'll be wise to go with the flow. But stay alert the whole time because you'll hit shallows in which you can easily get off the raft and walk to a taxi where you can name your own destination.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 21). The high-quality work you turn out won't happen by accident. You'll make good on your intention to exceed expectations, hit the highest standards of excellence and then celebrate your success.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21). Write with a pen -- diary entries, cards, affirmations, all very lucky for you. Handwritten notes come straight from your heart. Texts aren't the same. Your pen has some kind of magic in it.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19). Life will get suddenly simple. You'll recognize what's relevant to your life and what's not. You'll know what you can safely discard and what you cherish. You'll do what's right for you.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18). People are at ease around you now. Your welcoming smile has something to do with it. Your warmth can be felt from a distance, and even people down the block are a little happier because of it.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20). You're in for some friendly competition. This one is not a zero-sum game, and yet there will be a clear winner, which, as nice as you are, you still prefer will be you.

TODAY'S BIRTHDAY (Nov. 6). No stranger to making other people money, it will be so satisfying to finally thrive in a mission of your own making. Everyone will be better off because you pursue your dream. Your personal life goes in a wonderfully uncomplicated direction. It will be a joy to experience commitments kept and plans executed. Libra and Capricorn adore you. Your lucky numbers are: 5, 32, 20, 1 and 48.

COSMIC QUESTION: "This is creepy. I have gotten three tarot readings over the course of three days, and each one prominently featured the Death card. I'm only 35, and I'm not sick, so my mind is racing to some kind of accident or murder situation, and it's got me really stressed out. Am I going to die?"

Most likely. Though, very probably, this will occur after you've lived your long life. The Death card is an indication of (SET ITAL)an(EN(SET ITAL)ending, not (SET ITAL)the(EN(SET ITAL)ending, so you can stop worrying about your imminent demise. Look closely at that creepy card. There's the grim reaper, boney fingers around his scythe while a death-white, thornystemmed rose opens its petals to the blood red sun. Wait -- what a pretty rose. And the sky looks warm with hope, free birds dotting the horizon... Is this a sunrise or a sunset? The fertile flower and fauna suggest that as much as death is inevitable, life is equally inevitable. The circle is unbroken. My interpretation of this persistent card showing up in your reading is that something will occur to inspire you to reinvent yourself -- to change your life, to live a new incarnation of yourself, to create something fresh and different.

CELEBRITY PROFILES: Back by popular demand, Scorpio Emma Stone is already in pre-production for the sequel to "Cruella," the live-action comedy starring the infamous villainess of Disney's "101 Dalmatians". Stone was born when the sun, Mercury and Pluto were all in Scorpio, lending magnetism and mystique that fascinate on the big screen. Moon and Venus in Libra suggest a collaborative spirit and romantic heart.

Annie's Mailbox

Replaced by a Newcomer

Dear Annie: I have two very good friends who I go to breakfast with every Saturday. We are part of a monthly book club; we exercise together three times a week, and we attend the theater together, for which we have season tickets.

They are both widows. My husband, thank goodness, is still alive and healthy. Lately, I have been getting vibes that they are trying to replace me with another widow. I have said no to invites to different places, such as craft shows, that I really didn't want to attend. But now they are making plans to go to dinners with another widow, which I found out about just by overhearing the discussion.

They did not ask me to go until I asked them about it, and it is something that I would have loved to do. I hesitate to accept the invite because I don't know if they really want me along or if they are just being polite.

Am I being overly sensitive? Or do I have reason to be concerned? This is not the first time that this sort of thing has happened. Should I ask them about it or just act like it doesn't bother me? -- Feeling Left Out

Dear Feeling Left Out:

No one likes to feel excluded, but once we understand the "why" of why we are not included, it can help ease the hurt feelings. Your friends all lost their husbands, while you have a wonderful husband at home. Just take that fact in for a moment. Their "taking in" or including another widow has nothing to do with whether they like you or not and everything to do with the fact that they understand the pain of losing a husband and want to express empathy to their fellow widow.

Confronting them about it would not be beneficial. Focus on being grateful that they are your friends and that you have fun with them.

Dear Annie: I loved your answer to "Loss," the woman who, in her 60s, was grieving the loss of so many of her friends.

This brought to mind a helpful thought that was shared with my 90-year-old mother by her doctor. She was telling him about having lost seven very close family members and friends that year. He responded by saying, "This is just the price we must pay for a long, joyful life filled with people we love." -- Great Advice

Dear Great Advice: Thank you for sharing the wonderful wisdom of your mother's doctor.

Dear Annie: I'm the oldest of six children. Our beloved mother passed on in 1981.

The oldest son took her jewelry, out of our mother's apartment, the day she died. I thought he removed it for safe-keeping. When I asked him about the jewelry, he denied having it. We have two other sisters. Two months ago, when I questioned him again, after questioning him over the years, he admitted he gave the jewelry to one of the three sisters. When I asked which sister, he said he can't remember. The youngest sister was on the phone, in a group conversation, and she denied having the jewelry and stated she doesn't want any of it. He has stopped talking to me, so there isn't a relationship to save. Should I take him to court and get lawyers involved? -- Upset Sister

Dear Upset Sister: You could take him to court, but that would cause both you and him a lot of unnecessary stress. That would be the absolute last resort. Perhaps the best revenge is living well. Focus on taking care of yourself and not focusing on his dishonesty. At the end of the day, you can't buy a good night's sleep, and he knows what he did. Keep trying to talk with him about sharing your mother's jewelry.

Lucy Hale ventures into darker territory with AMC+'s 'Ragdoll'

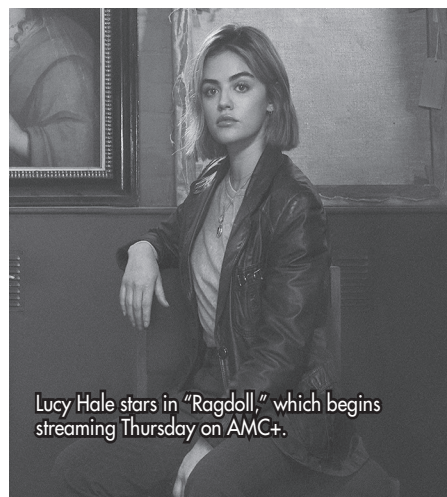

If Lucy Hale's fan base is shaken up by her latest project, she claims she won't mind.

The "Pretty Little Liars" and "Katy Keene" alum tackles a decidedly adult role in "Ragdoll," a six-part melodrama that the streaming service AMC+ debuts Thursday, Nov. 11. The thriller casts Hale as the newest member of a London police unit faced with several murders in which the victims were dismembered, then reassembled into one body. The so-called "Ragdoll Killer" threatens to include one of the detectives (Henry Lloyd-Hughes, who also worked with executive producer Sally Woodward Gentle on "Killing Eve") among his next targets, making a quick solution to the case even more imperative for the sleuths. Thalissa Teixeira also stars as their leader.

"I've been preparing my whole life for a show like this," Hale maintains, "because I'm the first girl to listen to any true-crime podcast or watch any of the crime shows. I think a lot of the people that support me have grown up with me, so I think that the people that are still watching everything that I do will hopefully know what they're stepping into.

"The show is obviously very dark and there are gruesome elements, but what I loved was how Freddy (Syborn, who adapted Daniel Cole's same-named novel in collaboration with Gentle) so brilliantly showed why people do certain things based on their trauma or their shame. For me, it was more about the friendships between these characters and the lengths they'll go to protect each other."

While noting the dark humor of "Ragdoll," filmmaker Syborn explains that he wanted the adaptation to "focus on creating as much drama as possible from the kind of central trio ...how the police officers' guilt, their shame, their internal lives drive this investigation. It's really ultimately about the three of them."

Lloyd-Hughes reports that in depicting his "Ragdoll" character's struggle with PTSD, "I did spend time talking with therapists who deal specifically with people that have experienced that kind of thing. It was really revelatory in terms of working out what the human brain does. As human beings, we have weird and wonderful ways of processing the extraordinary things that we experience, and I tried to channel as much of that as I could into my performance."

In doing "Ragdoll," Hale reflects that she's not just opening a new career chapter, but "a new book. After 'Katy Keene' got canceled, I knew the next job I did really had to creatively super-excite me. I did have to fight for this role, but that almost felt better, because I don't think people expect to see me in this light. It was just a really nice challenge for me."

Country-music stars reign again at 55th Annual CMA Awards

As the award-show calendar largely gets back on track, it's time again for one of country music's biggest nights of any year.

The Country Music Association's annual honors return to Nashville's Bridgestone Arena – with in-person audience members vaccinated and (unless eating or drinking) wearing face masks, to comply with union production rules and local ordinances during the coronavirus pandemic – as Luke Bryan hosts the 55th annual event Wednesday, Nov. 10, on ABC. That date is only one night earlier than the honors were staged last year, so even during the health crisis, the CMA Awards have held to their usual schedule.

As usual, the all-night show is slated to feature a variety of performers, many of whom are nominees as well. The roster hadn't been announced yet at press time, but expect many of today's top names in the genre as well as some veterans to take the stage and render their current hits as well as selected tributes. For some, it will be a welcome return to performing live, since the pandemic curtailed the traditional touring by acts that is a major element of the industry.

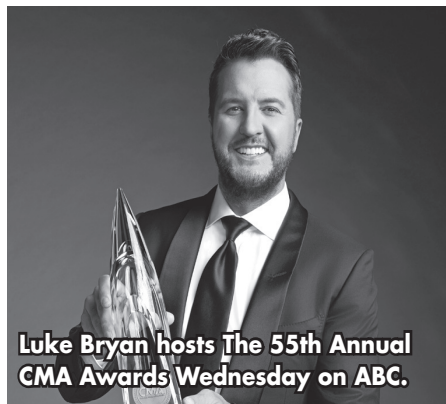

Following are the nominees in a number of categories in The 55th Annual CMA Awards.

Entertainer of the year: Eric Church; Luke Combs; Miranda Lambert; Chris Stapleton; Carrie Underwood

Female vocalist of the year: Gabby Barrett; Miranda Lambert; Ashley McBryde; Maren Morris; Carly Pearce

Male vocalist of the year: Dierks Bentley; Eric Church; Luke Combs; Thomas Rhett; Chris Stapleton

Vocal group of the year: Lady A; Little Big Town; Midland; Old Dominion; Zac Brown Band

Luke Bryan hosts The 55th Annual CMA Awards Wednesday on ABC.

Vocal duo of the year: Brooks & Dunn; Brothers Osborne; Dan + Shay; Florida Georgia Line; Maddie & Tae

New artist of the year: Jimmie Allen; Ingrid Andress; Gabby Barrett; Mickey Guyton; HARDY

Album of the year: "29," Carly Pearce; "Dangerous: The Double Album," Morgan Wallen; "Heart," Eric Church; "Skeletons," Brothers Osborne; "Starting Over," Chris Stapleton

Single of the year: "Famous Friends," Chris Young with Kane Brown; "Hell of a View," Eric Church; "One Night Standards," Ashley McBryde; "Starting Over," Chris Stapleton; "The Good Ones," Gabby Barrett

Song of the year (presented to the songwriters): "Forever After All," Luke Combs, Drew Parker and Robert Williford; "Hell of a View," Casey Beathard, Luke Combs and Monty Criswell; "One Night Standards," Nicolette Hayford, Shane McAnally and Ashley McBryde; "Starting Over," Mike Henderson and Chris Stapleton; "The Good Ones," Gabby Barrett, Zach Kale, Emily Landis and Jim McCormick

'Chicago' isn't home for every player every week

Q: Why do some of the "Chicago" shows go some weeks without certain characters appearing at all? For instance, on a recent Wednesday, Severide wasn't on "Chicago Fire" and Burgess wasn't on "Chicago P.D." – Kim Jefferies, via email

A: There can be a variety of reasons, one of the biggest being whether the given week's story has any need for the character and actor in question. Each of executive producer Dick Wolf's NBC "Chicago" series services a large cast, and a "Fire" episode focused largely on Casey (played by Jesse Spencer) might have little time or material for Severide (Taylor Kinney). Also, in some instances, an actor on one of the shows might also have another project concurrently ... so writing them out for an episode or several enables them to do the other job as well. By now, a lot of the "Chicago" actors have been on their respective shows so long, they inevitably know their time in the spotlight there will come again,

Taylor Kinney

Q: So, is Mayim Bialik the permanent host of "Jeopardy!" now, or what? – Dave Klein, Clovis, Calif.

Mayim Bialik

A: "Or what," if those are the two options at the moment. After serving as one of the many guest hosts earlier in the year, the veteran of "The Big Bang Theory" and "Blossom" stepped back in as a longer-duration interim host after the controversy that saw original choice Mike Richards removed from the "Jeopardy!" job. Bialik is splitting the duties with one of the show's champions, Ken Jennings, through the end of the calendar year ... and then, unless an announcement was made after this column was written, we'll see. If Bialik's run continues, her schedule also involves fitting in production of her Fox sitcom "Call Me Kat," but those involved undoubtedly would make that work if it came to that.

OF 'DOOGIE KAMEALOHA, M.D.' ON DISNEY+

When you were approached about doing this show, had you heard of "Doogie Howser, M.D."? And if not, did you then sit and bingewatch it?

Yeah. So when I first got the audition for the show, I was not personally familiar with the original "Doogie Howser." I mean, I think I had heard some parent references about it, but I wasn't familiar with it because it was just a little before my time. But right when I got the audition, I remember my parents being so excited because they loved the show, and so I had to sit down and start watching it immediately. And it was kind of cool because I was discovering the original as we were developing our reimagining of it sort of simultaneously, which was really fun for me.

Did you talk to Neil Patrick Harris on Zoom or anything? And just in general, how tough is the medical jargon you have to learn for the show?

I have not personally spoken with Neil. I would love to.

And in terms of the medical jargon, I mean, that was one of the biggest challenges for me, because in order to buy into the show, you really have to buy into this idea of a teenage doctor. And so the authenticity of that side of things was very important for me, and so it wasn't just about memorizing these medical monologs that they wrote, but about knowing what I was saying and what all these words meant so that it felt very truthful. So, yeah, that was a big challenge, but it was a really exciting learning experience as well.

HGTV's 'Table Wars' puts competitive tablescaping front and center

BY GEORGE DICKIE

When considering the overall dining experience, obviously the food is the thing but the decor on and around the table also plays a role. And that's where "Table Wars" comes in.

Premiering Friday, Nov. 12, on HGTV and discovery+, the seven-episode competition series pits eight top event designers in a series of challenges to see who can create the ultimate themed dining environment incorporating tablescapes, centerpieces, lighting and displays. The contestant who most impresses the judging panel of lead judge Martha Stewart, actress Tamera Mowry-Housley ("Sister, Sister") and event designer Chris Hessney wins the "Table Wars" title and a $50,000 grand prize.

"Having a beautiful tablescape just elevates and heightens those senses," explains Mowry-Housley, who is also the show's host. "So you're seeing things, you're feeling things and you're tasting things ... so it embodies all the human senses and it just makes it that much of a better experience instead of just kind of forcing food in your mouth. And if you feel good, you're relaxed, you see conversational pieces, it'll actually invite the guests that you've invited to actually start having conversations, to open up and to meet people. That's what tablescaping does, I think."

The backgrounds of the contestants here are varied. While many are event designers, there are also people with backgrounds in wedding planning, theme park design, set design and even parade float fabrication. And the creations are certainly outside the box.

In Friday's opener, a team challenge tasks one pair of contestants with creating a tablescape with the theme of "Day/Night." The final product, in which one half of the table looked like it was bathed in moonlight while the other appeared to be sunlit, was breathtaking.

Mowry-Housley is something of a tablescaper herself. She's always been into interior design and likes putting parties together and setting the table. So when judging the tablescapes here, she says her eye is drawn to one thing - beauty.

"I love colors, I love texture, I love patterns," she says. "If it's beautiful and it's just visually stunning ... it just makes you feel good. It's inviting. So if something is really beautiful, you naturally open up and you just want to sit down and enjoy the space. ... I love seeing people's faces when they see what you've done and then on top of that being able to enjoy a great meal in that setting."

Martha Stewart, Chris Hessney and Tamera Mowry-Housley

Checking in with DREW SCOTT

celebrity scoop
BY GEORGE DICKIE

For Drew Scott, remodeling dull houses into dream homes for families on "Property Brothers: Forever Home" has come with an unexpected benefit – more friends.

"Some of the homeowners have become more like family—they share photos of the kids as they get older and touch base throughout the year," the 43-year-old Vancouver native explains. "It's so heartwarming to know that we were able to transform their old home into a home they'll love for years to come – instead of them having to move to a different house that didn't have their old memories."

Now airing Wednesdays on HGTV (and streaming on discovery+), the sixth season of the design series follows Scott and twin brother Jonathan as they help people put their own personal stamp on homes they've lived in for years. While a lot of that comes in the nuts and bolts of construction (correcting past mistakes; steering homeowners away from bad decisions or problematic materials, etc.), some of it requires simply getting to know the homeowners and getting a feel for their likes and dislikes.

That wasn't a problem for the Scotts in one episode this season, in which they took on the remodeling of a home for close friends.

"We renovated our best friends Jodi and Mel's first home," Drew Scott notes. "The stakes are always higher renovating for friends and family, but in this case, it was just loads of fun—from pranks to an emotional final reveal. Giving two people we love so much their 'Forever Home' was a privilege. ...

"We always want to incorporate as much of the homeowners' requests as possible," he continues, "because, like the show title says, this is their 'Forever Home.' When we do the big reveal, we want them to immediately feel like the design reflects their personalities and tastes, instead of it feeling generic."

best of... BEST MILITARY SERIES

BY JAY BOBBIN

"The Phil Silvers Show" (1955-59, CBS) Also known as "You'll Never Get Rich" and "Sergeant Bilko," this classic sitcom popularized the image of a military man as wheeler-dealer.

"McHale's Navy" (1962-66, ABC) Oscar-winning actor Ernest Borgnine came to series television in this comedy, with Tim Conway attaining stardom as Ensign Parker.

"Combat!" (1962-67, ABC) A sense of authenticity infused every aspect of this World War II drama, starring Rick Jason and Vic Morrow as chiefs of a platoon.

"Gomer Pyle, U.S.M.C." (1964-69, CBS) Jim Nabors scored a huge success by spinning off his "Andy Griffith Show" character into this comedy.

"Hogan's Heroes": (1965-71, CBS) Loosely patterned on "Stalag 17," this POW-camp-based sitcom became a classic credit for Bob Crane, Richard Dawson and others.

"The Rat Patrol" (1966-68, ABC) Allied commandos (and the many jeeps they drove) in the North Africa of World War II fueled this action drama featuring Hans Gudegast, later known as Eric Braeden during his long run on daytime's "The Young and the Restless." "M*A*S*H" (1972-83, CBS) The Cadillac of military series in the eyes of many, this serio-comic adaptation of the movie (inspired in turn, by a novel) rightfully has its place in the annals of greatest TV shows ever.

"Black Sheep Squadron" (1976-78, NBC) Known in its early stages as "Baa Baa Black Sheep," this series based its stories on the true exploits of World War II Major Gregory "Poppy" Boyington (Robert Conrad) and his Marine pilots.

"China Beach" (1988-91, ABC) Dana Delany became an Emmy-winning star in this highly creative Vietnam War drama largely told via its female characters.

"JAG" (1995-2005, NBC/CBS): Navy lawyers saw plenty of action in and out of courtrooms in this adventure series that handsomely survived early cancellation.

"NCIS" (2003-present, CBS) Now moving forward without Mark Harmon, this "JAG" spinoff about Navy investigators has been one of broadcast TV's most reliable ratings-getters.

'Mary Poppins Returns' in very fine form

The most remarkable thing about "Mary Poppins Returns" is how much it had to work against, and how well it does that.

The original 1964 Disney classic is one of those movies many people would prefer to be left untouched by a sequel, especially after so many years and so many generations of fans. No one else could be as purely magical as Julie Andrews, who won an Oscar for the title role ... but in the 2018 follow-up (which Freeform shows Thursday, Nov. 11), Emily Blunt makes a logical and effective-in-her-own-way choice to succeed her.

Thanks to her ever-ready parasol, Mary floats back into the lives of the now-grown Jane and Michael Banks, played by Emily Mortimer and Ben Whishaw. Michael is especially at loose ends over the loss of their mother, to the degree that the bank he works for is ready to repossess the Banks' house. Saving it rests with an inheritance from the late Banks father, provided the offspring can find the certificate that proves they have it.

That's where Mary steps in to help, dispensing more of the gentle guidance she's so known for. Assisting her is Jack, a chimney sweep who's more or less the successor to Dick Van Dyke's Bert ... and he's played by "Hamilton" wunderkind Lin-Manuel Miranda, whose energy is a very big boost to the proceedings here (and the likely springboard to a great screen career, if he can keep finding appropriate projects).

Van Dyke himself makes an appearance here, and director Rob Marshall also makes use of such greats as Meryl Streep, Angela Lansbury, Julie Walters and David Warner in telling the new story. "New" is something of a qualifier, though; if you put this movie beside the first one (which Freeform will show right before this on Nov. 11), it's easy to see there's a parallel element for just about everything that has kept the original "Mary Poppins" so embraced by audiences.

It's actually a smart formula, since straying too far from the initial P.L. Travers tale might have caused a backlash. "Mary Poppins" is just one of those things you don't mess with, and the reverence toward it is very clear here. That's also evident in the songs by Marc Shaiman and Scott Wittman, which have just enough freshness while evoking memories of the tunes composed so many years ago by the Sherman brothers.

Memories are no small factor in the case of "Mary Poppins Returns," since more than a few viewers will see it through the prism of their experience with the mid-'60s movie. Much to its credit, just like the medicine enhanced by a spoonful of sugar, it goes down in a most delightful way.

KEVIN COSTNER

Kevin Michael Costner was born Jan. 18, 1955, in Lynwood, Calif. His family moved around California during his youth because of his father's utilities-executive job, and in school, he had a variety of activities from playing sports to singing in a church choir.

During Costner's last year at California State University, Fullerton, the acting bug took hold of him. While returning from his honeymoon, he encountered Richard Burton on the plane and has cited his talk with the legendary actor as one of his inspirations, though that was their only meeting. A planned marketing job then didn't last long for Costner, who began taking acting lessons and doing odd jobs to fund them.

"Sizzle Beach U.S.A." was Costner's first movie, and though he appeared very briefly in "Night Shift," he had a bigger role in "Testament." He was cast as Alex, the friend who committed suicide, in "The Big Chill" – but his scenes ultimately were cut out by director Lawrence Kasdan, who then made good on his promise of a bigger role for Costner with the Western "Silverado."

After starring in "Fandango" and "American Flyers," Costner had a big summer in 1987 with back-to-back hits in "The Untouchables" and "No Way Out." Successes that followed included "Bull Durham" and "Field of Dreams," and after forming his company Tig Productions, the first feature from it was "Dances With Wolves" ... which brought Oscar wins to Costner as producer and director.

"The Bodyguard" was a huge hit for Costner in a movie career that also has delivered "Robin Hood: Prince of Thieves," "JFK," "Waterworld," "Message in a Bottle," "Thirteen Days," "Open Range," "The Company Men," "Swing Vote," "Man of Steel," "Draft Day," "Molly's Game" and (in voice only) "The Art of Racing in the Rain."

Costner begins his fourth season of the Paramount Network drama series "Yellowstone" Sunday, Nov. 7. He stars as modern cattle-ranch operator John Dutton,

The singer in the country-rock band Kevin Costner & Modern West, Costner has three children with his second wife, Cindy. He also has three children from his first marriage, plus a son from another relationship.

'Great Performances' showcases movie maestro John Williams

BY JAY BOBBIN

When the composer of many of the most iconic scores in movie history wants to create a new concerto for violin, no violinist is likely to be unhappy.

The five-time Oscar recipient certainly made that the case for fellow Grammy winner and frequent collaborator Anne-Sophie Mutter as she soloed on the world premiere of his Violin Concerto No. 2, showcased in the new PBS "Great Performances" offering "A John Williams Premiere at Tanglewood" Friday, Nov. 12 (check local listings). Taped last July, Williams' return to the esteemed Massachusetts showplace – in a program he co-conducted with Boston Symphony Orchestra music director Andris Nelsons – also encompassed renderings of pieces by Aaron Copland, Igor Stravinsky and Jessie Montgomery.

At the same time, the maestro behind the sounds of "Star Wars," "Raiders of the Lost Ark" and "Jaws" (to name only a few) reasons that his concerto work "also gives me freedom from the composition of music for film, where there's constrictions ... areas of, to put it simply, measurement. We know how long a piece has to be or how short it needs to be.

Greek Freak helps Bucks fly title flag

In his eight-year career, Giannis Antetokounmpo has climbed virtually every mountain an NBA player can. League championship? Check. League MVP? Double-check. NBA Finals MVP? Yes that, too, as well as many other laurels.

So what's next for the athletic big man otherwise known as the "Greek Freak"? Maybe a stint in the White Sox farm system?

Of course, he doesn't have nearly the resume of Michael Jordan but an argument can be made that Antetokounmpo is the best player of his time. And the scary thing for the rest of the NBA is he wants to get better.

An area of persistent weakness has been his three-point shooting, which over the course of his NBA career has averaged under 30 percent. But in preseason, it appeared he'd been working on that, displaying a quicker and more confident release in games. If he can raise that percentage by another five or six points this season, he'd be nearly unguardable.

He's coming off one of the finest NBA Finals a player has ever had, averaging 35.2 points, 13.2 rebounds and 5.0 assists while shooting 61.8 percent. And few will forget his stellar performance in the deciding Game 6 when he scored 50 points with 14 rebounds and five blocked shots to dispatch the Phoenix Suns and give the Bucks their first championship in 50 years.

Antetokounmpo and the Bucks can be seen in action twice this week in road games: Tuesday, Nov. 9, on TNT against the Philadelphia 76ers and Friday, Nov. 12, on ESPN against the Boston Celtics.

"Miracle in Motor City" (Lifetime — TV movie premiere, Nov. 28)

This new yuletide drama stars Tia Mowry as Amber Dupont — a woman who bites off way more than she can chew as she takes charge of her church's annual Christmas pageant. Prone to promising more than she can deliver, Amber assures everyone she can arrange a very special performance by music legend Smokey Robinson. Thankfully, her old flame Eddie (Mark Taylor) is willing to help her in what looks like a futile quest. (Spoiler alert: Smokey Robinson also guest stars as himself).
