Council OKs $1.25-million economic development grant

By ROGER CLINE
 Herald Staff Writer

Meeting for just 45 minutes Tuesday evening, the Big Spring City Council approved on second reading a resolution authorizing a $1.25 million grant application, and committing $500,000 in matching funds for the project.

The grant application, passed by the Big Spring Economic Development Corporation's board of directors earlier in the day, will request funds from the U.S. Economic Development Administration to develop land west of the McMahon-Wrinkle Airpark, including near the intersection of the Reliever Route and Interstate 20.

At the council's previous meeting, the item was up for emergency approval – requiring only one vote to pass instead of the usual two - in a bid to get the grant application in sooner. The item passed 5-1 with Mayor Shannon Thomason dissenting and Councilman Cody Hughes (District 3) absent, but the vote needed to pass unanimously to achieve emergency approval. Tuesday's vote on the item was the second reading of the resolution, which passed 6-1, with Thomason continuing to oppose the measure.

Following the call to order, invocation and Pledge of Allegiance at the start of the meeting, Mayor Thomason called for public comment, but no one chose to address the council.

City Manager Todd Darden offered his report, praising city staff for assisting with preparation of a Community Development Block Grant application.

"They helped us put together a grant application for downtown revitalization," Darden said. "The project consists of sidewalks, street reconstruction, waterlines and ADA (Americans with Disabilities Act) compliance. The grant total is roughly $350,000, $300,000 coming from the state and $46,000 coming from the city."

Darden reported on a recent American Council of Engineering Companies award garnered by Big Spring's new Big Sandy Landfill.

"Our landfill, Big Sandy, received a 2022 ACEC Texas Engineering Excellence Award, the Gold Award. This

Williams joins Big Spring EDC board Board elects new officers at Tuesday meeting

By ROGER CLINE
 Herald Staff Writer

At their meeting Tuesday, members of the Big Spring Economic Development Corporation's board of directors welcomed a new member to the board, elected officers, and appointed chairpersons of three committees.

Cody Williams is the newest member of the EDC board, and was officially welcomed to the group during the meeting. Williams is the owner of several local businesses, including Skateland Reloaded, Texas Graphics, and Will Be Done Digital Advertising. Williams has lived in Big Spring about 11 years, moving to the area from Plainview, he said.

After Williams was welcomed to the board, President Raul Benavides nominated board member Shane Seaton for the president position. Board member Jeff Ward nominated Benavides as secretary/treasurer, and Seaton nominated Ward to the vice president's position. All three nominations passed unanimously.

Taking over as president and leading the meeting, Seaton appointed Ward as chairman of the Industry Attraction and Recruitment Committee, Williams as chair of the Industry Retention and Expansion Committee, and Benavides as chair of the Workforce Development Committee.

The board voted unanimously to participate in the Howard County Leadership Summit, a planned meeting of 13 local

Big Spring Area Community Foundation Focus on the Future

The Crossroads Young Marines

By GEORGE BANCROFT

Special to the Herald

The Big Spring Area Community Foundation provides grants to local non-profit agencies. The Crossroads Young Marines applied for and received a BSACF grant in 2019. Carrie Rodman, one of the sponsors of the organization, recently answered some questions that would be of interest to residents of the Big Spring Area.

How long has your organization been operating in the Big Spring Area?

The Young Marine program has been in operation since 1959, but our unit in Big Spring has been here since August of 2013.

What is your organization's purpose, and what is it you hope to do for our community?

The Young Marines, a national youth organization, provides a program for boys and girls ages eight through high school. Its participants focus on leadership, citizenship through community service, self-discipline, and living a healthy, drug-free lifestyle. The organization upholds the Marine Corps' core values of Honor, Courage and Commitment as well as the Young Marines' core values of Leadership, Discipline and Teamwork. Individual units are led by dedicated adult volunteers. The Young Marines' commitment and work is intended to develop the next generation of leaders. It strives to meet its vision to be the best led and managed nonprofit in America and the nation's premier youth development program. We hope to do for the community what we do every year, give back to our Veteran's, and provide aid, services and color guards for our community. Our Young Marines maintain at least 50 hours of community service per year.

award has been around since 1975, and the panel judges give out awards to gold, silver and medal-winning projects, and we won the Gold for 'Uniqueness, originality, technical value and engineering profession, as well the complexity and overall project meeting clients' needs' Darden commented, noting that the award will be presented in May of 2022.

Darden also reminded the council about the city's Thanksgiving Holiday, scheduled Nov. 25 and 26; and about the Howard County Summit meeting scheduled Dec. 6 at Howard College.

The council unanimously passed the meeting's consent agenda without comment. Items on the Consent Agenda included approval of the Nov. 9 City Council meeting minutes; final reading of a resolution casting the city's 414 votes for Jordan Partee in the Howard County Appraisal District board of directors election; final reading of an ordinance amending the city's budget to fund restroom renovations at Fire Station No. 2; and final reading of an ordinance moving rules governing the Airpark Development Board membership to Chapter 2 of City Code, continuing the city's ongoing campaign to move rules for all city committees and boards into a single chapter of the Code.

Following the city's vote on the Big Spring EDC grant proposal mentioned previously, the council approved vouchers tabled at the previous meeting in the amount of $513,660.62 for Oct. 28 and $1,792,678.14 for Nov. 4. The council also approved vouchers for $919,128.46 for Nov. 12.

In New Business, the council acknowledged receipt of the Planning and Zoning Committee minutes from their Sept. 7 meeting.

The council also unanimously approved authorizing City Manager Darden to negotiate and execute a ground lease with Compute North near Building 1, and an office lease in Building 1, at the McMahon-Wrinkle Airpark.

Fire Chief Chad Williams requested that the city leaders approve an application to the Edward Byrne Memorial Justice Assistance Grant Program for department operations/media data management network servers. Williams reported that he modified request to include 35 terabytes of memory instead of 24 terabytes, at a very slight increase in cost.

"This resolution y'all passed back in March," he said. "We went to purchase this equipment and we found out we could purchase more of 16-terabyte hard drives for basically the same amount of money," he said. "Basically it's just changing 24 to 35, and then the amount is $45 more. This is a zero-match grant, so there's no cost to the city."

Williams also presented a grant application through the Body-Worn Camera Grant Program for fiscal year 2022, for $37,697.50. The grant requires a 25 percent match from the city. The council also approved this grant unanimously.

The council unanimously approved a resolution authorizing selection of a professional service provider for Coronavirus Local Fiscal Recovery Fund (CLFRF) programs through the American Rescue Plan Act of 2021.

The council also unanimously approved a budget amendment in the amount of $155,000 for replacement of a steam-powered boiler at the Municipal Auditorium. Councilman Cody Hughes (District 3) questioned whether a better alternative to a boiler system was available.

"We'd have to re-do the entire system," said Community Services Director Hayley Herrera. "It would be cheaper to replace the boiler than to re-do the entire building."

During the council members' individual statements at the end of the meeting, Councilman Hughes reported that Crossroads Housing Development Corporation will be giving away Thanksgiving meals Saturday at 9 a.m., while supplies last. The giveaway will be held at St. Mary's Episcopal Church, 1001 S. Goliad St.

Councilman Nick Ornelas (District 1) reported that a ribbon-cutting for the new "P.J. The D.J." Pavilion in ABC Park honoring the late P.J. Dominguez, is scheduled Dec. 1 at 11 a.m. Dominguez served with the local League of United Latin-American Citizens (LULAC) and the Northside Movement before his 2018 death.

governmental entities, businesses, and other groups. In addition, the board directed EDC staff to prepare an agenda for the meeting.

EDC Director Mark Willis delivered his report, announcing that unemployment is down from 10.2 percent this time in 2020 to 6.2 percent now, but warned that the closing of GEO prisons locally would likely affect that statistic in the near future. Willis also reported that a recent job fair held at Howard College went well.

"We're fixing to see a spike on that in December with all three of the GEO facilities closing up," he said. "We're losing roughly 600 jobs. The job fair went really well. It was fairly well attended, but we're going to need to do another one."

Willis reported that the EDC was turned down for a requested $5 million grant from the Economic Development Administration.

"We immediately reached out to the head of the EDA for this area in Austin, and found out that, yes, ours was considered a really great project, but they decided to go to their maximum was now between $1.25 million and $1.5 million. Instead of 'first-come, first-served' – we were the second in our whole region because we heard it was first-come, first-served – but they changed that. Now, every month until they run out of money, the ninth of the month, they will take applications."

Willis said pending approval of $500,000 in matching funds from the Big Spring City Council, he will re-apply for the grant, within the lower maximum restrictions, by the Dec. 9.

Funds from the grant, if received, will be used to develop land west of the McMahon-Wrinkle Airpark.

Take Note

- Crossroads Housing Development Corporation will distribute free Thanksgiving Turkey Meal Kits Saturday, Nov. 20, starting and 9 a.m. and ending when supplies are depleted.

The event will be at St. Mary's Episcopal Church, 1001 S. Goliad St.

- Christmas in Coahoma at the Park will be held Saturday, Dec. 11, from 3 to 6:30 p.m.

The event will include hayrides and caroling, Christmas art projects for kids, free coffee and hot cocoa, and popcorn and cookies.

Surprising teams on wrong side of Week 10 blowouts

By JOSH DUBOW

AP Pro Football Writer

It was another blowout-filled weekend in the NFL, only this time several of teams on the losing end came from teams near the top of the standings.

For the second time in four weeks, six games were decided by at least 21 points, the first time that has happened twice in a season since 2009 and just the fifth time ever.

Five of the six teams on the wrong side of those lopsided games were teams that entered the weekend with a .500 or better record with Atlanta losing 43-3 to Dallas, Las Vegas falling 41-14 to Kansas City, the Rams losing 31-10 to San Francisco, Arizona getting beat 34-10 by Carolina and Cleveland getting knocked off 45-7 by New England.

The other blowout was far more predictable with the struggling New York Jets getting beat 45-17 by Buffalo.

This marked just the second time in NFL history that five teams that came into the week without a losing record got beat by at least 21 points, according to Sportradar. The other came in Week 17 of the 2009 season when many of those teams were resting key players for the playoffs.

Blowouts have been extremely common so far this season with the 24 games decided by at least 24 points tied for the second most through 10 weeks since the merger, trailing only the 29 in 1975.

RARE ROOKIES

The Patriots got impressive production from a pair of rookies in their win over the Browns with Mac Jones completing 19 of 23 passes for 198 yards and three TDs and Rhamondre Stevenson rushed for 100 yards and two TDs.

New England became the fifth team since the merger to have one rookie throw at least two TD passes and another run for two TDs in a game. The others were the Browns in 2018 (Baker Mayfield and Nick Chubb), Cowboys in 2016 (Dak Prescott and Ezekiel Elliott), Washington in 2012 (Kirk Cousins and Alfred Morris);

Robert Griffin III and Morris), and Denver in 2006 (Jay Cutler and Mike Bell).

Jones' 142.1 rating in the game was the fifth-highest single-game passer rating by a rookie quarterback in the Super Bowl era with at least 20 attempts, trailing only two games from Mayfield, one from Prescott and one from Geno Smith in 2013.

PAT'S BACK

Chiefs quarterback Patrick Mahomes shook off a shaky stretch to get back into his old form, throwing for 406 yards with five TDs and no interceptions in a 41-14 win over the Raiders.

It was the third time Mahomes threw for at least 400 yards and five TDs in a game, also doing it against the Jets last season and the Rams in 2018, tying Hall of Famers Peyton Manning, Dan Marino and Joe Montana for the most in NFL history.

Mahomes is the only one of those players to do it more than once without an interception, also doing that against the Jets.

LONG DROUGHT

The Lions came close to winning at Pittsburgh for the first time since the Ford family bought the team in 1961. Detroit had nine losses and one tie on the road against the Steelers since their last win in 1955 at Forbes Field before settling for another tie on Sunday.

Sometimes a defender must make a play that appears to be suicidal. Yet when the special circumstances of that deal are analyzed, it can be seen that the play is absolutely necessary. Take this case where South is in four spades and West leads the queen of hearts. East takes the ace and has to decide what to do next. He should conclude that his only chance to defeat the contract is to return the four of clubs! Before examining the reasons for this play, let's first observe its effect. Readers' Thoughts on Neglected Spouses

Dear Readers: Many of you wrote about why the husband of "Neglected Spouse" has not had sex with her in years. We received quite a variety of opinions and comments; here is a sampling:

Dear Annie: "Neglected Spouse" wrote that her husband hasn't shown interest in her sexually throughout their 30-year marriage. Your answer was thoughtful and encouraging. But I have experienced the same situation in my 37-year marriage because of something rarely discussed. People, especially men, who have autism spectrum disorders like Asperger's syndrome sometimes act like the writer's husband regarding sexuality. Asperger's is a developmental disorder that can affect every part of life.

I've found peace with my autistic husband, and I hope that others may find their own peace. -- Been There

Dear Annie: Reading the letter from "Neglected," I was like, "I wrote it." My husband and I had the same issues, only he showed signs of infidelity. We are now divorced.

I am in counseling, and I am happy. I am no longer bitter, so I can be cordial with the guy, who is obviously not happy with his choices. -- Beautiful, Inside and Out

Dear Annie: Unfortunately, her husband ignores the therapist option. This could be a chemical/libido problem. I'd say a doctor's visit is needed for him. A hormone checkup may help! -- Reader in Italy

Dear Annie: I empathize with the woman who is in a platonic relationship with her husband. I had a similar experience and relate to her need for closeness.

I struggled for seven-plus years with a husband who refused to discuss what was wrong. He pretended to be impotent. I discovered him in the kitchen during the night watching porn and masturbating. Still, he refused to discuss what was wrong except that it was "me." He refused counseling.

We are divorced, and I am happier. My advice to "Neglected" is to let him go. -- Speaking from Experience

Dear Annie: "Neglected Spouse" should consider that her husband is probably gay. I was married for 20 years to a man who pretended at first. He was a great actor. But eventually, he became emotionally abusive, saying it was my fault that he didn't want to have sex with me.

I lost my sense of myself as a woman. I couldn't leave the children, and I didn't believe I could support them myself. He developed alcoholism, and Al-Anon finally helped me get myself back. My kids were grown when I left, and it took 14 years of being alone before I could make another connection.

I met a wonderful man and had 20 years with him, both of us older and wiser and much happier. I wish I had had the strength to get out of that first marriage sooner. Tell her she can find someone who will love her for herself. And he should admit he is gay and find a man who will love him for himself! -- Married to a Gay Man

Dear Annie: My spouse and I have both been married before. There was no wedding night; my husband had said he wanted to "wait till after marriage" but then said health issues made sex impossible.

Coming home from work early, I found him in full performance, watching porn. He confessed to a porn addiction.

I sought a marriage annulment, but the lawyer scoffed and said I'd waited too long and "there are many reasons to be married." We went to counseling and agreed that he'd abstain when I was home, and I would schedule time away. Fast-forward 12 years; we're both retired. I have hobbies, volunteer work and friends, and I know that my happiness is no one's job but mine. -- Not What I Expected, but OK in Nevada
