Increase In State Taxes Certain

Whichever way the ball bounces, Texans can look forward to a hefty increase in state taxes for 1960-61, predicts Vern Sanford, manager of the Texas Press Association.

The House of Representatives passed a general appropriations bill calling for spending of $332,000,000 from general revenue. Senators took a more economical approach, began htei rwork with a bill calling for $30,000,000 less than the House

Even so, the Senate proposal would put spending some $21,000,000 above the present level and require an estimated $117,000,000 in new tax money.

The House bill includes longevity pay raises for longtime state employes and increases in welfare checks to the aged, blind and dependent, all added during floor debate on the bill. The House also accepted committee recommendations for boosts in the appropriations for higher education, state hospitals and special schools and the prison system.

Governor Price Daniel says he's ready to support a 1cent hike in the state gasoline tax if it will be used to improve public schools, raise teacher salaries.

Neither the House nor Senate appropriations bill included public school teacher raises. Lawmakers seemed to think this, if it were to be done, should be handled in a separate bill.

Texas would still have a lower gasoline tax than other states, said Daniel, even after the 1-cent raise. He said he felt sure service station operators would "go along" with it if it were for the purpose of better schools.

Opponents say that, with practically everyone having to use a car these days, the gasoline levy is about as "general as a sales tax can get.

Too Many Outstretched Hands

An important group of the country's newspapers say there is too much organized begging in the U.S., and recently The Bulletin of the American Society of Newspaper Editors took a sharp slap at the increasing number of out-stretched palms.

The main voice in the ASNE bulletin was raised by Alexander Jones, executive editor of the Syracuse, N. Y., Herald-Journal, who complained that his paper contends with "50 organizations devoted to the ills of every part of the body . .

The time seems to have passed when foundation promoters were primarily interested in combatting disease. The purpose today is to get the money and to ride roughshod over local chapters h prefer to stick to appropriations from United Funds The more editors study this situation, with the constant appeals for space, the more realization there will be we are dupes of professional money raisers preying on human misery."

Qualifications Should Be Raised

Camden (S.C.) Chronicle

The American Bar Association has again criticized the U. S. Supreme Court, this time concerning the Court's decision favorable to Communists. The ABA's latest criticism follows critical observations of Supreme Court decisions by the Supreme Court justices of the various states. It also follows criticisms made by the governors of various states .

When Congress does get around to doing something about the runaway court, we hope the legislators will raise, substantially, the qualifications for appointment to the nation's highest tribunal. Those who serve on the Supreme Court should be the most experienced, and the ablest in the country, and their appointments should be free of politics.

He brought the huge snapper to town and for on this opportunity to secure an lack of better facilities placed airport, even though they hadn't the turtle in the public water trough on the northeast corner of the square.

Even today's younger generation can imagine the reaction when a team of horses or mules poked their nuzzles in the water trough and a turtle as large as a small washtub bobbed up in front of them. Pressing the panic button wouldn't get any quicker action today.

This week marked the climax of one of America's most frustrating pastimes-the annual attempt to outsmart and outfigure Uncle Sam in his squeeze play on the nation's pocketbooks. It's a losing proposition trying to get anything by the hawk-eyed T-Men who can spot a two-cent error on Form 1040 quicker than a sailor could single out Brigitte Bardot among a group of Eskimos. In fact, we're told Lloyds of London will give you a 10-to 1 that you can't beat the IRS. They'll give you the same play that May follows April. What had been planned as one of the biggest, and probably the last rabbit drive of week had to be cancelled. Sponsors were at first disappointed, but they consider now that the drive would have had drawbacks. As Clarence Norton explained, the mesquites and other vegetation now coming out provides a lot of cover and protection for rabbits and other game, making a real drive difficult at this time.

Practically all the drives held his year were highly successful and resulted in thinning out the rabbit population considerably. In many instances, hunters taking part bagged bigger game. In one drive near Wein ert a fox and several coyotes were included, while in the Paint Creek section a few bobcats along with one or two wolves were casualties in drives held in that area.

Our neighboring city of Munday has a dilemma. What to do with an airport they didn't know was in the cards for the community and a project for which they had made no plans. News dispatches from Washington last week stated funds had been allocated for an airport at Munday. City officials and C. of C. leaders were flabbergasted. No application had been made for the facility, yet they hated to admit as much and risk offending the powers that be in the Pentagon. Let's

We hope that plans for staging a program of Western Week activities in connection with the 1959 Rice Springs Roundup materialize. It would give everyone an opportunity to participate in some activity connected with the Roundup and could also be something in the nature of an old timers homecoming.

the season on Monday of this However, this was not always the case. Old court records show that when the county was first divided into four precincts, No. 1 was by far the largest and took in 288 square mies of territory. Precincts 2 and 3 each contained 210 square miles, while Precinct 4 only had 192 square miles.

Boundary lines of Prec. 1 extended 16 miles east and west and 18 miles north and south. Prec. 4 was 12 miles north and south and 16 miles east and west, while Prec. 2 and 3 had east-west boundary lines of 14 miles and north-south boundaries of 15 miles.

Change in the precinct boundaries as they exist today was probably made sometime in the 90's with each subdivision being given approximately the same area.

Farmers Home Administra tion makes loans to operate and improve farms. Its ser vices are extended to eligible farmers and ranchers who are unable to obtain the financing they need from private and cooperative sources of credit.

The State Advisory Commit tee helps the State Director adapt National policies to lo cal conditions, suggests ways to make the program more effective and helps in coordinating the FHA program with activities of other agencies operating in the field of agriculture, McKay advised.

"Mr. Pumphrey's background and experience added to that of other members of the committee, will aid the agency greatly in fitting its program to the needs of Texas farmers and ranchers," McKay said.

An Ideal One For Wildlife

This is a big year for ani-mals of all species, according to the director of Wildlife Restoration, Game and Fish Commission. Good rains and excellent vegetative growth following the dry years are responsible.

"There has been plenty of food and cover for nearly all of our wildlife," saild the director. The cycle that followed has brought on an increase in population of all animals, small and large ...

The small species such as birds, rabbits, rats and mice, found enough food and cover present to take care of larger animal populations encouraged an increase in the larger animal populations such as the mountain lions, woives, coy-otes, and bobcats, which prey on the smaller species.

"There will be more bobcats in the brushland this year than in any year since the drouth period," said the director. "It's families. So, they had larger a natural trend under such families. This increase in small ideal conditions.

LETTERS ... To The Editor

Turlock, Calif.

This little note is an acknow-ledgement of the enjoyment and continued interest we have in our weekly paper from home. We get the paper on Monday afternoon and I can assure you there's not much nap taking until I've read "the home town paper from cover to cover." For a family whose heart is really back in the "old country," which is a saying among we Californians, who are not natives of the Golden State, The Press is like that weekly letter from home we sometimes

We want to say how much we truly enjoy Mrs. Gene Over-ton's news from Paint Creek and advise that a column from other communities as well as Haskell proper be made as homey and newsy. We read every line she writes and T. G, nor I are native of that part of the county. It's like a newsy telephone call.

we aren't the only transplanted Texans who think the same. We want to send our love and kindest regards to each and everyone back home. May God care for each of you as He has for us.

'Responsibility' Program Theme For Study Club

The Progressive Study Club met on March 19, at which time members added to their Gerontological Treasure Chest the priceless jewel "Responsibility." Due to unusual circumstances this meeting was not reported however the reporter felt that those whose efforts went into the program should not go unnoticed.

Led by Mrs. Howard Perry, the club considered the adage "How to Grow Old and Like It." Mrs. Roy Everett presented a vocal solo after which a film was shown by Miss Edna Killian of the American Cancer Society. The entire club participated in an open forum based on the study of a subject which vitally concerns every American—The Control and Prevention of Cancer. Hostesses for the evening were Mrs. Leroy O'Neal and Mrs. Gerald
