Then organize a co-operation search for them.

There are a few daylight thieves. The truth is they are igger cowards than any. They ind places where everyone is away, corner a few hens and itch them.

Even when no one is at home a gong burglar alarm doesn't sound good to them and they will nt the road for a quieter place.

It is often the case when the thieves only get ten to twenty growing chicks in the early pring, and they hold them untill they are large enough for broilers or fryers. You never miss them or if you do you suppose that the varments caught them. The only mark that will stay is the indelible tatoo on the wing, this you should put on

It is a wise idea to form a cooperation of the farmers and poultry concerns, in fact everyone in the community, and offer a reward for every thief that is caught while making the a ttempt of robbery. Form a union and make a minimum charge for every member that joins, this you should use for a reward and then you will notice that every officer and in fact every one will try harder to catch the thief. Try them in the courts and give them a few years in their next regular program the penitentiary and they will wonder if I'll be able to get a job when I get out of here?" is a statement from a chicken thief in Oklahoma who was sentenced to the pen one year for chicken stealing.

Let evry farmer become interested and work together on this Report of Street Graveling-By proposition and in that way the chicken stealing will be stopped in a short time.
