WE ELECT OUR PRESIDENT!

Following short article is published for the benefit of those who have never taken up on this subject. Herald will be glad any make the research and information concerning any interest to our readers. Tuesday next after the election in November of 1928 an election is held in each voting precinct in the state for the purpose of electing the number of electors according to the Constitution. Texas has 33 electors. These electors meet Monday in January at the University of the Electoral College to cast the vote of their party. If the popular vote in a given state favors the Republican Nominee, for instance, the electors will all be Republicans and will support the Republican Nominee, all things being equal. This is not in keeping with the Constitution, but is an accepted custom. Example: In the elections of 1876, of 1900, and 1908, this long-time custom prevailed.

After a careful count of the November 5th vote by ballot for President and Vice-President this vote is counted then sent by an individual to the capital where it is paid 25cts per mile to the president of the United States. On the second Wednesday of February the Senate counts the votes and the nominee receiving the majority of votes is elected. If the matter is referred to the House of Representatives it is voted on by a majority of the states, each having one vote. In 1901, on March the Vice-President was inaugurated.

WINTER MAIZE

Harbour is perhaps the best maize grower this year. He has a small acreage producing heads 14 and 15 long. This was grown on the best soil. Mr. Harbour thinks that the best maize should be much better. He is growing near three and four tons per acre and is getting $14.00 per ton. It is expected for near fifty tons, making it net a profit of $10.00 per acre. This is a better crop, one year better, than cotton. We worry when the cotton crop is our only crop. Nothing can be grown pro-

AL SMITH'S LITTLE BROWN DERBY

(The following article clipped from a Dallas paper was mailed to us from Dallas this week.) There is a delightful breeze about Al Smith that has a strong appeal. His buoyancy, his quick wit, his rugged he-man voice, the positiveness of his personality, all make a charming combination — when he is at his best.

But his breeziness sometimes goes a bit to far. The brown derby, for example. There is a touch of buffoonery about that which would better be left out.

One who has risen to the importance of being a presidential nominee is in no need of a monkey, on-a-stick, a lard organ, an accordion, or a brown derby in order to make his presence felt. By just being the presidential nominee he is certain to catch the public's attention.

Dignity is no sign of mental strength, and we do not put a high appraisal on dignity as such. But somehow or other, when it comes to considering a president we can all stand just a dash of dignity.

So why the brown derby? R. S. and Mrs. Kagsdale were guests Sunday of Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Keir.

Primitive Races Begin Child Training Late

Modern papers and magazines who believe they are following the latest methods in child training when they encourage parents to spare the rod and flog the child, are doing exactly what the primitive peoples of the world do. Says a dispatch to the Baltimore Sun: The uneducated, untrained folk in various parts of the world, especially in Africa, treat their children with indulgent affection and make little attempt to discipline them before the age of fourteen, according to W. H. Hambley, curator and assistant curator of the Department of Anthropology at the Field Museum in Chicago.

"But at the age of fourteen there is a great difference between the treatment of children among highly civilized nations and primitive ones," Mr. Hambley said. "Among the latter people the children are isolated from the adults and subjected to severe training and discipline."

"They are instructed in the laws of their tribe, they are forced to undergo great physical hardships, to endure beatings and hunger. Finally they are introduced into society. "In some respects this is a good thing in that it develops individual responsibility, but it is bad in that it also develops standardized, stonelike natures and suppresses individuality."

IN MEMORY

In memory of my daughter, Annie Birdie Snowden, who died October 10th, 1928.—Mother.

"A sacred sorrow claims our hearts,

A grief that fate has brought; The tears that time can ne'er erase,

A lesson sweet has taught.

"The angel Resignation comes. Faith's message grand to tell, And to our poor bleeding hearts It whispers—all is well.

"Our loved one sleeps to-day. We know that it is best.

For her pure, love filled soul, Has received eternal rest.

"She lived with purity of heart In life's way bright and fair, She spoke a kindly word of cheer, To hearts oppressed with care.

"In that sad hour when fainting hearts

With sorest grief was torn, Kind sympathising words

Makes sorrow easier borne.

"Just intering into womanhood's prime,

Our treasured one had grown For only two and thirty years

Of her sweet life had gone.

"Her girlhood home—in sadness wears,

A mark of sorrow deep, And ever through it saddest year

This lonely sheet shall keep.

"To the lonely husband in the home

In sympathy we turn, And three darling little girls,

So oft for her will yearn.

"But unseen messengers will come

From earth they ne'er depart And breathe the sweetest words

of cheer,

To soothe their aching hearts"

The Rev. C. E. Leslie of First Baptist Church was in yesterday for a short pastoral visit with us. Leslie is a good man and is a pleasant conversationalist. We are always glad to have the pastor's visit with us. "Variety of opinions is the spice of conversation." He will leave this weekend for Ralls where he will fill his regular monthly appointment.

C. OF C. TO JOIN WITH KASCH COTTON CLUB

Because it seems self evident in the first place, and because every argument heard from cotton farmers confirm it, it is coming to be believed that it is to the individual interests of the cotton farmers of the Hermleigh community to plant only one variety of cotton. Just what variety is best adapted to the climate and soil of the community may always be a debatable question; but the Hermleigh Chamber of Commerce in session Tuesday night decided to make an effort to get our farmers together on some acceptable variety of cotton and all plant the same kind of cotton.

In as much as the variety has been pretty well decided upon the organization, as it is understood, is working with the Kasch Cotton Club. There is little doubt, in the minds of many farmers, as to the propriety of planting kasch cotton. The fact that we are looking forward to Mr. Kasch's coming here sooner or later with his breeding farm, is a strong argument in favor of the kasch cotton. The coming of this breeding farm would mean more to this country than anything of its nature.

The C. of C. also aims to work with the cotton club in the interest of getting better prices on the accepted variety of cotton. It would be well for every cotton grower to be considering this proposition.

Only Television Could Have Averted Tragedy

A college athlete who was noted for his quick temper and rather promiscuous resorting to profanity was harassed by boys about the campus calling his fraternity house and informing him the president of the college wished to see him. After three or four trips to the administration building on such false alarms the chap was in little mood for another such call.

A freshman called him to the phone one day with the announcement that the president again wished to speak to him.

"I'll fix those guys," he confided to a freshman, and in taking the phone he poured forth a series of words that left no doubt as to the speaker's opinion of the person on the other end of the line. Slamming down the receiver he stalked back to the den.

A few minutes later a car stopped in front of the house and the president of the college came to the door.

"I wish to see Mr. Smith. I just spoke to him, or rather he just spoke to me, over the phone," the president informed the freshman answering the door.

The rest of the story is a tragedy.

22ND. WEDDING ANNIVERSARY PARTY

Mr. and Mrs. T. J. Weaver of Pyron ranch celebrated their 22th. wedding anniversary on October 21th. with a twelve o'clock dinner.

All present had an enjoyable time, and every one thought it was the most marvelous feast they ever sat down to.

The dinner was all prepared and served by their two daughters Camela Mae and Ada Marie.

All the guests present were old acquaintances and friends, some even being neighbors when they first married.

After this wonderful dinner the guests enjoyed seeing an old time round up as they were shipping out a big bunch of cattle from the ranch. Those present were:

J. E. and Mrs. Jackson and Miss Gladys Lilly, of Sweetwater; E. D. and Mrs. Stevenson, Hermleigh; Mr. and Mrs. Willis Brown, Loraine; R. E. and Mrs. Adams, Snyder; H. E. and Mrs. Brock and sons of Inadale.

All the cowboys, of course, had their boots on.— A guest.

IMPORTANT MEETING IN SNYDER FRIDAY NIGHT.

Snyder, Texas. October 20, 1928.

Dear Sir:-

Next FRIDAY NIGHT OCTOBER 26 at 8:00 o'clock, Dean A. H. Leideigh and Prof. Renner of Tech. College of Lubbock will speak at the District Court Room on Dairying, Cheese making and Poultry.

They have been requested by quite a few farmers to speak as they have been making cheese at Lubbock and know about the cheese plant in South Texas that is profitable. Many of you have boys that are going to school to these men and studying Agriculture under them, so let us get a big crowd out to hear them.

We can get a creamery, and other plants if we think they are profitable and we want to know what you think about it. This meeting will be profitable to either who are interested in Dairying or Poultry Raising.

Do not forget the hour and date and toll as many as you see for they will answer any question you may want to ask in helping you to solve your problems. We are

Yours very truly, M. G. Evans, Sec. C. of C.

LIGHTENING AND THUNDER

Any man regardless of his religious preference or church affiliation, if he meets the requirements of law respecting age, etc., has a constitutional right to hold any office in the administrative affairs of our government. If the religious sentiment of the majority of our people, 'wet' or 'dry,' Protestant or Catholic, Jew or Christian, as against any other contrary to the Principles of the Constitution of our government; and if such a sentiment should become sufficiently strong would there not be an eminent danger of a revolution in which to change the principles of the government to suit the sentiment of the majority of the people? Such has been the experience of every republic of history and such is the recent and current experiences in the republic of old Mexico, right here by us. This reasoning may seem a little naive to the average reader, but the student of history will appreciate it.

The average life of all the republics of history, without revolution or downfall, is a hundred and fifty years. With the morning horizon of national and international affairs already darkened with lowering clouds of war rumors, and with the receding cloud of the World War hardly out of sight in the west, it seems dangerous even to hear far distant thunder of exciting issues as are possibly involved in our presidential campaign which is now fastly coming to a close in view of the fact that our government is now at that danger period, according to the history of all Republics?

OUR GOOD CITIZENS

It is a lamentable pity that we Americans are 'little' enough to differ in our opinions of religion, morals, and economic administration of government; but it is a winning victory that we are big enough to love each other despite the differences of our opinions or the standard of our ideals. This is true Americanism. It is to the credit of Hermleigh that we graciously excel in this. We do not believe that we have ever seen men who differed more gracefully than our men do. We can not hope to become an absolute unit, so, when we can differ as gracefully as we Hermleigh folk do, we are ready to acknowledge that a high state of perfection has already been attained, the like of which is not found everywhere. The Herald commend the citizenship of the Hermleigh community for this.

When men can differ and at the same time love each other, the ideals of Americanism have been realized.

For Railway Signaling

A new kind of glass of a deep orange color is intended as a third color for railway signals. The idea is to have a distant railway signal that can be readily distinguished by the driver on the footplate of an engine. Light passing through this glass has good penetration in foggy air, and when modified in color by the fog tends to resemble the red (danger) light.

On Planting of Fish

One reason why there isn't a sufficient number of fish in the stream is because our system of propagation is wrong. Planting fingerling is a waste of time and money. Instead of releasing the trout when they are too small to defend themselves against the larger fish onatcheries should raise them until they are five or six inches in length!

Ostrich Flocks Reduced

The ostrich plume market centered around Oudshoort has been practically ruined by the change of styles. Ostrich farmers have slaughtered their flocks to the extent of 200,000 since bobbed hair and small hats became stylish. If the old demand for plumes should return once it could not be supplied.—Exchange

Odd Effect of Drug Tested by Scientist

A drug that makes individual see yellow is the subject of experiments by a Scottish scientist, Wilfred Marshall, of the University of Aberdeen. The drug is known as santomin and is prepared from the dried flower heads of the European wormwood. In his experiments, reported in the Journal of Pharmacology and Experimental Therapeutics, Mr. Marshall administered doses of santomin to an elderly man experienced in discriminating colors. Doses of a half gram or more caused objects to appear yellow to him within half an hour after the dose was taken. The yellow vision was most noticeable on coming from a darkened room into daylight and was best seen through the windows viewed from a dimly lighted room. In diffuse daylight, its intensity quickly diminished to a greenish yellow veil. Artificial lights viewed in the evening seem a deep yellow in hue. A chrome yellow color examined by the subject under the influence of the drug appeared to be a deep orange, a light lemon color in shadow had the appearance of a dirty white suffused with a tinge of violet. It has not yet been determined just how the drug accomplishes its peculiar effect.

SHELTER

---THAT EXPENSIVE MACHINERY---

Successful farming is machine farming. The investment in farm implements becomes heavier each year. It is increasingly expensive to neglect to shelter the implements that are so necessary to farm profit and which are a major item of farming expense.

Waste will wreck any business. The profitable use of machinery demands that it be saved unnecessary expense. The life of the well cared for implement is nearly double that of one that is unshoused and otherwise abused.

You can build an implement shed for what a few year's depreciation on exposed machinery would cost you.

GOVERNOR OF NORTH CAROLINA ATTACKS BIGOTS

RALEIGH, N. C. - A vigorous campaign for the election of Gov. Smith is being made throughout North Carolina by Governor A. W. McLean. At a religious intolerance, he said. 'I am ready to defend the right of Governor Smith and every other man or woman, whether Catholic, or Protestant, to worship God in his own way. I am for Gov. Smith because I believe he is in every way qualified to fill the office of President.'

CHURCH DEcriES BIGOTRY

The Rev. Dr. Hugh K. Walker moderator of the General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church, is censured in an editorial in this week's Presbyterian, national church paper, for his call upon Presbyterians to support Hoover. His church position gives him no right to give political advice the editorial states.

Protestants Lead Smith Appointees

Conclusive proof that Governor Smith has never been controlled by political or religious influences is found in his appointments as Governor of New York. Statistics made public by Secretary of State Moses reveal that a great majority of the Governor's appointees are Protestants and that there are twice as many Republicans as Democrats in his Cabinet.

Governor Alfred E. Smith

The Governor's Cabinet is comprised of 10 Protestants, 3 Catholics and 1 Jew. Of these 8 are Republicans, 4 are Democrats and 2 are Independents.

Of 25 State Department heads, 14 are Protestants, and 11 are Catholics. Eight are Republicans, 3 are Independents and 14 are Democrats.

Of 156 other State officials whose appointments require the approval of the Governor, there are 105 Protestants, 33 Catholics, 11 Jews and 7 undesignated.

In every case, regardless of all other considerations, Governor Smith appointed the person he thought best fitted for the office.

PLEA TO COUNTRY A COSTLY BLUNDER

Hamilton Fish, Jr., Warns Hoover That Republican Success Is Jeopardized.

WASHINGTON - Hamilton Fish, Jr., Republican representative from New York, has warned Chairman Work of the Republican National Committee, that the injection of the religious issue into the campaign by accredited Republican speakers will result in a clean sweep of New York and the Eastern states by Governor Smith on that issue.

Calling on Mr. Hoover, Mr. Fish told the Republican presidential candidate that he was so disgusted with such political blunders as are being committed by the Hoover campaign managers that he contemplates abandoning his speaking tour in New York state.

The Republican representative said he informed Mr. Hoover that Republican leaders committed a stupid political blunder by forcing the nomination of Arthur Hays Sulzberger, which would split the entire ticket and alienate labor and the World War veterans and would lose the entire Republican ticket. The future of the Republicans to nominate a single World War veteran will be represented by the risk and his.

Mr. Fish stated that Mrs. Mabel Walker Wile and all others who are appointed to the cabinet be silenced before any harm has been done to the Republican ticket.

Lightning Second to Machine Made Power

All the crashes of lightning in the world produce, at any given time, power equal to less than one-twentieth of the amount being generated by the light and power companies in the United States, according to computations based on estimates of F. W. Peck, Jr., consulting engineer for the General Electric company.

There is an average of 1,800 thunderstorms in progress in the world at any one instant, according to Mr. Peck. These give 300,000 flashes per hour, each of about four-kilowatt hours' power capacity and make a total power capacity of 1,500,000 horsepower operating continuously.

This is compared with the 32,500,000 horsepower capacity of generating stations in the United States.

Need for Reforestation.

We are the biggest wood users on the face of the earth. The people of the United States actually use two-fifths of all the wood consumed in the world. I see no chance for an early abandonment of the wood-using habit. The way out of this situation is clear. We have been—and I hope we can continue to be—a nation of wood users, but to enjoy this privilege and the prosperity that goes with it we must become a nation of wood growers.—Gifford Pinchot.
