

Cotton Bolls Are Showing Up Nicely

LORRAINE DEFEATED IN TURNTABLE GAME MON.

Lorraine and Hermleigh locked horns for an easy slide for Lorraine on the local diamond here Friday afternoon. The Hermleigh Flyers started wrong, played wrong, and ended wrong--defeated 15-5. The main feature of the game was the scene of changing the ball park into a race track on which Lorraine was the main trackmen.

Wings can not be confined to the ground. The Hermleigh Flyers were not satisfied. Early Monday afternoon they pumped fresh air into their wings, flying away to the near by city of Lorraine from which place they brought back victory over the winners of last Friday.

Bob Adams was the chief batter, scoring four hits. Bob is getting back to his former self, having played in the Texas-Oklahoma league 18 years ago.

Notwithstanding this was his second game of the season. "Lefty Ragsdale," old-time star pitcher for the Hermleigh team, proved himself equal to the occasion.

The game ran neck and neck down to the latter half of the 15th. inning when "Lefty" singled to right field, scoring McMillan from second base. "Lefty" won his own game. The score was 5-4.

Recharge your batteries, Lorraine, and come again.

TO TEACH AT LONE WOLF

James Hudson will have charge of the Lone Wolf school next year. His sister, Mrs. Winn Lee, will be his assistant. James is a fine young man, and the people here commend him to the Lone Wolf school community. James is the son of our own and Mrs. Hudson.

HIGH SCHOOL GAINS ADDITIONAL CREDITS

Supt. Kerr of the High School here was notified this week by the State Department that his school had been accredited with one additional unit, bringing the total credits of affiliation up to 15 1-2. The Home Economics Department is due the credit for this year's work.

Supt. Kerr, and other members of the faculty, are feeling good over this advancement, this unit being the only unit applied for this year. The school is doing fine work.

According to the standard of 16 credits, we lack only one half credit of full affiliation. This is a matter of deep concern to all the patrons of the school, especially those who have students to graduate within the next two years. The school is the one thing of general interest to all the people. Our school is doing nicely.

Edd Palvis was in town Wednesday. Edd said he had a good supply of 'dry weather' on hand at his place.

Mrs. W. McElroy of Los Angeles, California is visiting her sister, Mrs. B. D. Smith, here.

Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Armstrong and son of Ft. Worth, accompanied by Mr. F. C. Armstrong, are visiting in the Clift home here. Mrs. Armstrong was formerly a Clift.

Mr. and Mrs. K. B. Rector and son Kenneth returned last week from a visit in Plainview. Kenneth is slowly recovering from his serious trouble of a broken arm.

Mother J. F. Coston left this week for Slaton where she will spend a few weeks with her granddaughter, Jaunita Coston, who has recently had an operation for tonsillitis.

F. M. Merket, China Grove merchant, was a much appreciated "star" in the Hermleigh-Lorraine game Monday.

Lee Sturdivant was among those who failed to get his Herald last week. Thanks Mr. Lee.

COTTON DOING FAIRLY WELL WITHOUT RAIN

Notwithstanding the fact that the crop was late being planted, owing to late season and high winds, and notwithstanding the fact that it is now, and has been dry, the cotton is doing nicely at this time. The plant is not large, but it is well formed and is producing cotton rapidly. The bolls are beginning to show up pretty. Some of them are well near maturity. Picking will begin earlier than it has been thought, owing to the rapid progress the cotton is making.

Cotton is by all means our best crop. We are learning diversification, but cotton is still our dependence; we are learning to depend on other crops, but cotton still brings the most money; poultry and dairying are developing rapidly, but King Cotton still holds the main attention of southern farmers.

We have a large acreage of cotton, and, should the production per acre, be short, we shall have an average crop, according to the outlook at this time.

Every one in general is feeling better over the prospects for the 1929 crop, however the outlook is not good. The older feed is failing rapidly.

BAPTIST REVIVAL IN SPLENDID PROGRESS

Rev. Parks, who is recognized the country over as an expository preacher, is progressing nicely with his revival meeting here this week. Attendance at the services, evening and morning is good.

Rev. Parks is a practical man, and a practical preacher. He says it is his purpose to carry the message of the gospel to the ears of the people, and if this message makes Baptists of those who hear, it shall not displease him.

This community has need of this type of preacher. A church should hold the highest respect of the community where it is located.

Mrs. Beulah Watson was the happy recipient of a surprise birthday cake and other things presented by her old-time friend, Mrs. W. C. Fargason, Monday.

Messrs. Ray and Vance Clift, Loren McMillan and J. R. Armstrong are enjoying a fishing outing this week.

Mr. Bowlin, former resident and old time friend to the town, is spending the week with his daughter, Mrs. J. T. Rhea here.

HENRY FORD FAVORS LARGE POWER TRUST

Henry Ford declares that the "power trust" has no terrors for him and that, on the contrary, he favors it as the best means of promoting the development of the electrical industry and bringing the advantages of the electrical age to the Nation.

Mr. Ford declared in an interview published by the Electrical World that the formation of a nation-wide power monopoly is inevitable as the natural expression of economic tendencies and the best means of reducing the rigors of human toil and giving cheap light and power to the people.

Asserting that the "use of electricity is yet not what it will be in the next ten years," Mr.
Ford predicts the interlacing of the whole country with power lines and that this, in turn, will mean "unification of utility systems in business terms, as well as electrical." Mr. Ford wishes there were power trusts.

"People talk about a 'power trust.'" Mr. Ford says. "I only wish that there actually were a power trust, a central directing organization for the development and use of every power source in the country, tied into one national power system for the service of the whole country; that is, welded into one operation and business unit. It has got to come as the one necessary and economic method of power production. Our national power system will become a unit just as our postal system is.
This would mightily speed the day when electric power would fulfill its destiny as the bearer of mankind's burdens."

All talk about exploitation of industrial combines for private profit is of no importance, he asserted, the important thing being what the Nation as a whole gets as a result of the economic and technical advantages of these combines.

"Profits are merely what we think we work for," he declares.
"They are of small account in comparison with what we do to get them. The real profit is not what the promoters get, but what the country gets. Men may work for money or to gratify a sense of power, but their work lives after them and belong to the Nation."

Applying theory to the problem of power, Mr. Ford contends
"the essential thing is to spread available electrical power far beyond present limits of extent and capacity.

"To do that we must enlarge our conception of its use so that the power that comes over the wire (or through ether when radio transmission becomes practicable) may be as common as air and universally used."

The critics of the power industry, Mr. Ford holds, have overemphasized much of the profit aspect of the problem. Mr. Ford finds profits purely incidental.

"The money that has been taken out of the business in the form of profits from the sale of electricity or from the manipulation of company ownerships has gone back into this industry or into another one, and is nothing when compared with the profits which the public has been able to make through electric light and power," he explains. "Look over the prices of electricity to the consumer since the industry began and you will see that they have gone down continuously and they will keep on going down as more and more electricity is used.

"Coring the sources of power and doing it out is not the way. We must provide power so lavishly that it will be cheaper to use it than not. It is to be done by giving more and more electricity for less and less money and by teaching how these greater quantities can be used profitably and with benefit in every direction.

"The biggest job before the utilities of the United State is o get electricity into the minds of the people. The people always see when they are shown. Get electricity across to the people by the same way that automobiles

have been gotten over to them.
Create desire for what electricity will do for them. They do not ask to understand the technology of electricity nor even the business phase of the industry. They need only be shown how tremendously much more electricity can do for them if they will only let it.—Dallas news.

The "Golden Series" commemorating the 50th De Laval Anniversary which we now have on hand are the finest separators ever made. They have many new features and refinements and must prove a source of pride as well as profit to every owner.

You lose money by not having a new De Laval. With butterfat at present prices you are losing more than ever if you have a worn-out or inferior separator or if you skim by hand. A new De Laval will soon pay for itself.

The De Laval can be purchased for cash, on easy terms or on the

CENTRAL BAPTIST CHURCH

FIRST BAPTIST CHURCH

C. E. LESLIE, PASTOR

"Crime costs the United States the appalling sum of $13,000,000,000, or approximately the total of the war debt, every year, and 12,000 people, or seven in every 100,000, are murdered annually, according to figures broadcast recently over station WJSV, Washington, by Wade H. Ellis, of the American Bar Association's Crime Commission. The figures presented by Mr. Ellis, who is a former Assistant Attorney-General of the United States and an ex-Attorney General of Ohio, are from the report of the Bar Association's commission, and Mr. Ellis describes them as "being, in the most graphic form, the story of our national dishonor." Other terrifying statistics are that the number of murders in the United States are fifty times the number recorded in Great Britain, that 30,000 criminals are at large in New York and 10,000 in Chicago, and that the annual murder rate in this country has increased 350 per cent. since 1900. In other words while two persons in every 100,000 were murdered in 1900, the proportion is now seven in every 100,000. And all this, comments the former Assistant Attorney-General, is found in the country that has "the most money, the most power, and the most laws." Aside from the offenses committed by negroes, he says, "two-thirds of the crimes committed in United States are committed by persons born in Europe or by their immediate descendants. In other words, while in every European country there is less lawlessness than there is in the United States, the chief contributors to lawlessness in the United States are the immigrants from European countries." But nearer to our own skin is his charge that "in many of the larger cities of America there is a political and sometimes a financial partnership between the underworld and the very officials who are sworn to protect the lives and property of law-abiding citizens."

"The causes of this great increase lie much deeper than the influence of the World War or of Prohibition, says Mr. Ellis. A steady increase in crime and disrespect for law has been witnessed, he tells us, for thirty years. First and foremost among the causes he lists is our tremendous growth in wealth, "which has made for wastefulness, extravagance, and display, and tempted the weak to the acquisition of easy money, which has brought into a conscious part of the economical and social and political life of the nation many thousands of a new generation who were heretofore hidden in poverty. They have caught the spirit of the sordid gain, and, being participants, they have less confidence in their own judgements and easily follow the example of others." Another cause is "the stupid increase in the number of our laws, which by the force of multiplicity alone have increased the sum total of crimes." Next in importance is the "stupendous growth" of physical conveniences, such as the automobile, the automatic pistol, the machine-gun, the smoke screen, and the airplane. "The inefficiency

CITY ORDINANCE

AN ORDINANCE ESTABLISHING THE RIGHT OF THE CITY OF HERMLEIGH, TEXAS TO COLLECT STREET TAX; DEFINING THOSE SUBJECT TO STREET DUTY; REGULATING THE USE OF STREETS, ALLIES AND VACANT LOTS AGAINST OFFENSIVE JUNK OR RUBBISH; PROTECTING PUBLIC HEALTH, AND FIXING A PENALTY FOR VIOLATION THEREOF.

BE IT ORDAINED BY THE CITY COUNCIL OF THE CITY OF HERMLEIGH, TEXAS.

Section 1. That every male person between the ages of 21 and 45 years, living within the city limits of the City of Hermleigh, be subject to regular street duties, according to the regular road laws of the state of Texas; ministers of the gospel, members of the fire boys organization, members of the city council, and ex-soldiers who have federal exemptions from such road or street duties, being excepted.

Section 2. Any person violating the provisions of section 1 of this ordinance, shall upon conviction be fined in any sum not less than $10.00 nor more than $100.00.

Section 3. That no rubbish, junk, or other waste material such as are, or might become offensive to the human eye, or injurious to public health be allowed to lie, or accumulate, on any street, alley, or vacant lot within the city limits of the City of Hermleigh.

Section 4. That no open back privies shall be allowed within the fire limits of the City of Hermleigh. These being most dangerous to public health, and hurtfully offensive to the human eye. All privies must be placed over cavities in the ground not less than four feet deep and large enough to care for the purpose thereof.

Section 5. No prosecution shall be brought under Sections 2 and 3, until persons violating same shall be properly notified, and wilfully fail or refuse to comply with same.

Section 6. All persons found guilty and convicted of violating any provision of Sections 2 and 3 of this ordinance, shall be deemed guilty of misdemeanor, and upon conviction shall be fined in any sum not exceeding $100.00, and each day shall constitute a separate offense.

Section 7. The fact there is at this time no adequate provision for the collecting of street tax, providing a fund for the maintenance of our streets, defining those subject to street duty creates an emergency, requiring that the regular rule that ordinances be read on more than one day, be, and is hereby suspended, and that this ordinance be in effect and full force from and after its passage, approval and publication.

WHY NOT MAKE TROUBLE AN ASSET?

A Natural Coward

"O! Mister Trouble, he comes aroun' one day
An' say, 'I'se gwidrer git you, so you better run away!
I likes to see you hustle; dats the way I has my fun;
I knows I kin ketch up to you, no matter how you run

I says, 'Mistah trouble, you has been a chasin' me Evet since I kin remember, and an' I'se tired as I kin be I'se gwine stop right here an' turn 'round, a-facin' you,
An' lick you if I kin an' fin'out jus' what you kin do."

O! Mistah Trouble, he look'd mightily ashamed,
He acted like a buckn' hoss dot's suddenly been tamed.
An' den he turned an' traveled off hollerin, 'Good-day!
I ain't got time to fool aroun' wif folk dat act dat way."

TIME WASTED

When things go contrary, as so often they do,
And fortune seems burdened with spite,
Don't give way to grieving all dismal and blue;
That never set anything right.
But cheerfully face what the day may reveal,
Make the best of whatever befalls;
Since the more you worry the worse you will feel,
Why waste the time in worry at all?

The heart too often hath quailed with dread,
And quite its courage lost,
By casting glance too far ahead
For the bridge that has never been crossed.

WASTED ENERGY

I quarreled a bit in my youth,
Proceeded to argue and spout,
But now, by the way, I look back, say,
"What was it I quarreled about?"

I've fretted a deal in my time,
A victim to worry and doubt,
But, queer to relate, I couldn't state
Just what I have worried about.

The moral, good neighbor, is plain,
And I very promptly declair
That quarrels are foolsh and vain,
And worry a useless affair.

Disappointments growing out of fate's failure to turn everything his own way, is man's greatest moral handicap. Why not turn this defeat into victory? Why trouble trouble, or let trouble trouble you?
