Scurry Joins In Reagan Landslide

Scurry County voters Tuesday joined in a landslide victory for Ronald Reagan and George Bush as the nation called for a change in command at the White House.

With some 6,000 voters believed to be a record for a general election here, going to the polls, Scurry Countians gave the Reagan-Bush ticket 3,745 votes, while the incumbent Democratic Party ticket of Jimmy Carter and Walter Mondale could muster only 2,003, according to complete unofficial returns.

Thus, Scurry voters followed the state-wide and nation-wide trend in balloting for the highest office in the land.

The Democrats carried only two precincts in Scurry County, both by only one vote and both among the smallest boxes in the county. Lloyd Mountain gave Carter the edge by 43 to 42, and Fluvanna favored the Democrats by 49-48. Elsewhere, Reagan held substantial margins, getting his biggest push here in Precinct 18, one of the largest boxes in the county, where he received 731 votes to Carter's 246.

Republicans did not fare so well here in state-wide races, although Scurry voters did give one Republican state Supreme Court judge the edge. Will Garwood edged Democrat C. L. Ray here by 2,737 to 2,500. Ray won state-wide.

However, Scurry County favored a Democrat in a race for another seat on the state supreme court. Jim Wallace, a Democrat, edged Jim Brady, a Republican, 832 to 2,478.

Scurry County voters also went with Democrats for two places on the Texas Railroad Commission. Jim Nugent won over Doc Blanchard by 3,023 to 2,347, and Buddy Temple won over Hank Grover by 2,649 to 2,645. The county voters were with the state majority in these races.

Scurry County voters approved only four of the nine amendments to the state constitution listed on Tuesday's ballot.

Those approved are: Amendment No. 1 (branch banking), 2,893 to 2,134.

Amendment No. 6 (removal of certain appointed officials), 2,996 to 1,849.

Amendment No. 7 (county road work on private roads), 2,774 to 2,017.

Amendment No. 9 (separate property for spouses), 2,971 to 1,901.

Amendments rejected by Scurry County voters are:

Amendment No. 2 (appeal of criminal cases), 2,720 to 1,927.

Amendment No. 3, (single property appraisal districts), 2,864 to 1,955.

Amendment No. 4 (bingo for charitable purposes), 2,713 to 2,514.

Amendment No. 5 (budget execution power for governor), 3,323 to 1,465.

Amendment No. 8 (jurisdiction of courts of civil See Scurry, Page 11

LOCAL REPUBLICANS CELEBRATE—Several Scurry County Republican leaders were on hand for the vote-counting last night at the county clerk's office, and they were especially interested in the television set when President Carter made a statement of concession early in the evening. Obviously happy to hear the defeated president's remarks were, from left,

Delmer Wilson, Mary Dulaney [wife of the county GOP chairman and a delegate to the party convention last summer], Barbara McCormick and Art Feinsod. Bartels Defeats Yoast As Republicans Triumph

Tuesday's general election was a precedent-setting event for Scurry County as voters in Precinct No. 3 elected the county's first Republican commissioner in history, based on complete, unofficial returns.

Bernhard Bartels, who ran unopposed in the Republican primary and was the only Republican candidate for a local office in the general election, scored heavily in his home box to defeat the Democratic incumbent, Charlie Yoast. Bartels had a total of 1,458 votes, while Yoast wound up with a total of 1,369. Yoast was seeking his third term.

The outcome in that race remained in doubt until the closing moments of the vote count, with Yoast holding a slender lead until Box 18, one of the largest boxes in the county and Bartels' home box, was tallied.

Earlier in the count, Yoast had held a lead on the strength of modest margins in Box 15, his home box, and the Ira box.

Final, unofficial figures, showed Bartels carrying three boxes and the absentee box, and Yoast carrying two boxes.

Bartels won in the Bison box (Precinct 7), 38 to 23; in the Southwest Snyder Box (Precinct 18), 575 to 412; in the Crowder box (Precinct 19), 64 to 57, and in the absentee box, 165 to 147.

Yoast won in the Ira box (Precinct 9), 146 to 82, and in the South Snyder Box (Precinct 15), 584 to 534.

It is the first time in Scurry County's 96-year history as a county that a Republican won a local office. The first election on June 28, 1884, formally organized the county, and Democrats had prevailed in local offices continuously since then.

Texans Taking Chance On Bingo Amendment

DALLAS (AP) — Despite warnings of the perils of legalized gambling, Texans approved a constitutional amendment allowing perhaps the most water-downed game of chance there is — bingo.

The voters also approved six more of the nine proposed amendments. The new amendments will be the newest patches on Texas' 104-year-old constitution, which already sports 235 amendments.

With 91 percent of the vote counted, 64 percent of the voters favored local option bingo for charity.

Texans voted a resounding yes — 71 percent — to an amendment allowing banks to use automated teller machines away from the bank premises, the closest thing to branch banking ever allowed in the state.

Also approved were amendments to:

—Allow the governor to initiate removal proceedings against his appointees.

—Give the existing Courts of Civil Appeals review power over criminal cases.

—Allow married couples to set up individual property ownership.

—Allow sparsely populated counties to do private road work for a fee.

—Set up single property appraisal districts in counties.

Voters turned down attempts to give the governor more control of the budget, and to allow appeals of pretrial rulings before the trial begins.

The bingo amendment passed by a wide margin despite opposition from Baptists — who previously referendum — and Attorney General Mark White.

White said the bingo is an invitation to organized crime.

Pro-bingo activist Lee Hayes of Houston is not scared.

"We're not afraid of the mafia. We're not afraid of any of those undesirable elements. The charities will take control of the bingo operations and use the profits for good work," he said.

Hayes noted there is still much campaigning — at the local level — to be done before bingo becomes legal anywhere in the state.

The games have been going on for years in some parts of the state despite the long-standing ban on gambling. Enforcement of the law was sporadic.

"It was a thorn in law enforcement's side," said Hayes.

The banking amendment was promoted by the Convenience Banking Committee, a collection of various bank associations. They stressed the convenience of machines spread around town and shared by banks and other financial institutions.

The Texas Consumer Association opposed the amendment as anti-competitive, but mounted no campaign.

William Sinkin of San Antonio, a past president of the Independent Bankers of Texas, said Texans simply voted for convenience.

"It means better banking service for the consumers," he said late Tuesday.

The voters decided to add another layer of appeals in the criminal court system by routing cases from the district courts to new Courts of Appeals, now called the Courts of Civil Appeals.

Under the present setup, criminal cases go directly from the district courts to a lone Court of Criminal Appeals in Austin, an overburdened panel of nine judges who sift through thousands of cases.

Some opponents claimed the Court of Civil Appeals judges are not qualified to handle criminal matters. But the voters, by a 57 percent to 43 percent margin, said those judges can do some homework, if need be.

Texans turned down Amendment No. 2, which would allowed immediate appeals of certain pretrial See Amendments, Page 11

GOP Wins Control Of Senate ...

Ronald Reagan Rides Crest Of Conservative Tide To Top Job

WASHINGTON (AP) — Ronald Wilson Reagan won the White House on the crest of a conservative tide that swept Republicans to control of the Senate for the first time in 26 years and gave the president-elect a landslide mandate for his promises of a tougher America abroad and less government at home.

"I am not frightened by what lies ahead," Reagan told a victory celebration at the Century Plaza Hotel in Los Angeles, promising to "tap that great American spirit."

President Carter congratulated Reagan and pledged "our fullest support and cooperation in bringing about an orderly transition of government."

"I can't stand here tonight and tell you it doesn't hurt," Carter told supporters at a Washington hotel.

Reagan and running mate George Bush led from the earliest returns on Tuesday and it quickly became clear that their triumph was a prelude to a sweeping shift in the American political balance of power.

The GOP ticket had courted Democrats — Jews, blue-collar workers and big city residents — and his strategy paid off, according to polling data that showed Reagan capturing a substantial share of those votes.

As the returns flowed in, the magnitude of Reagan's victory was clear in the electoral vote tally which gave the Republican nominee 469 to 49 for Carter when only two states with a total of 20 remained to be decided.

Republicans captured 10 Democratic Senate seats and were leading in the race for one other, assuring them at least a 51-49 majority and control for the first time since 1954. The GOP also could gain more than 40 House seats, but needed 59 to take control of that body.

Among the last races to be decided — all in the GOP's favor — were in Wisconsin, where former Rep. Robert Kasten defeated veteran Sen. Gaylord Nelson; in Alaska, where Frank Murkowski defeated Clark Gruening for the seat held by Sen. Mike Gravel, who lost to Gruening in the Democratic primary; and in North Carolina where John P. East defeated Sen. Robert Morgan.

The Democrats, in contrast, were threatening only the seat held by Sen. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz., whose 1964 presidential campaign was Reagan's first taste of national politics.

A Reagan presidency, promising one of the sharpest ideological shifts of this century, thus would be aided by a more conservative Congress, even with the Democrats still in the majority.

The SDN Column

If you thought the end of the political campaign would clear the debris from the air waves, don't bet on it. The past few days as we made our rounds, sandwiched in between political commercials on our car radio there was something that apparently came labeled as "music" which flaunts a voice that is anything but melodious singing a monotonous ballad, the title of which we didn't jot down and would just as soon forget.

Curious as to how something like that could "make it" on radio, we listened intently the first time we heard it, hoping that the announcer would identify the "artist." He did, and then we understood. It was Burt Reynolds doing the alleged singing and to his credit, the radio announcer did offer some apology and observed that "as a singer he ain't."

Then it dawned on us. They're trying for more realism on these shows today. It was perfectly clear that this recording sounded just like you would expect Burt Reynolds to sound if he tried to sing.

Mercifully, these things don't last long, and this number should be off the "charts" soon. Meanwhile, be thankful that we will be spared those every-other-minute discourses on political records of former governors of Georgia and California.

Irony has its role in life. Consider these situations. An Alabama mayor proclaimed Crime Prevention Week and the next day his automobile was stolen.

A university with an enrollment of 27,000 sponsored a symposium on "Student Apathy" and 20 students showed up.

A North Carolina city had to call off a "Disaster Exercise" because the hall in which it was scheduled was flooded the morning of the show.

A Chicago bartender was relieved of his gold watch and $150 in cash, and the bandit tied him up with the cord from the burglar alarm system.

And we always remember an incident years ago in Snyder in which a delegation pleaded with the city council for a stop sign at a certain street intersection and the spokesman for the group got the first ticket for running it.

Wednesday update

Sees Bigger Role For GOP

HOUSTON (AP) — Vice President-elect George Bush said Wednesday the election of a Republican administration and a "major shift" in the Senate will give the GOP a large legislative role in Congress.

Bush was asked what he thought of the GOP unseating many Democratic incumbents, as well as taking the presidency.

"I think that you will see a whole new look in the Congress. The changes will reflect a major shift that shakes up the senate and changes its bureaucracy," he said shortly before departing on a three-hour flight to California.

Bush and president-elect Ronald Reagan were scheduled to meet later today and Thursday to discuss the transition from the Carter Administration.

When asked what effect the Republican victory would have on the hostage situation in Iran, Bush said, "I think clearly that if there were best (political) interests involved that they be removed and I further lay hope the situation will be resolved as soon as possible."

However, he added, "this is a problem of President Carter's and we don't want to butt in."

Bush is expected to return to Houston Thursday night.

Following the overwhelming and unexpected landslide-victory Tuesday night, Bush borrowed a line from a county-western song to illustrate the direction American will be taking under the new administration.

"America, in the words of the song, is 'on the road again' and with the leadership of Ronald Reagan, that road is going to lead our country back to greatness," he told a victory celebration at the Houston Oaks Hotel.

prayer ploy

Louisiana is trying a ploy that might become popular elsewhere. Under a new state law, children may pray in Louisiana public schools for the first time in nearly two decades.

Actually, there was never anything keeping them from praying. But they didn't have a formalized time for it before.

The U.S. Supreme Court acted legally in 1961 when it declared that formal prayer in classrooms violated separation of church and state. Louisiana, the first state to reinstate classroom prayer, hopes to dodge the law by playing games of obfuscation and semantics.

First, prayer time is not called "formal." The words prayer and meditation are mentioned in the legislation, but not defined. In addition, the bill makes clear that "the exercise," meaning classroom prayer, "shall not be intended or identified as a religious exercise."

It certainly isn't a gymnastics exercise or one commonly associated with the diagramming of sentences.

Leave it to the Louisiana legislators to finesse a political coup in an election. They get credit, while local officials take the heat. The state lawmakers gave local school boards the option to offer prayer, it might be difficult to keep a seat on a school board without picking up the option.

The onus also is on teachers and students: Neither may be required to offer prayer, but the teacher who refuses very well might be called on the carpet by school board officials, administrators and parents to defend religious preferences or the lack thereof.

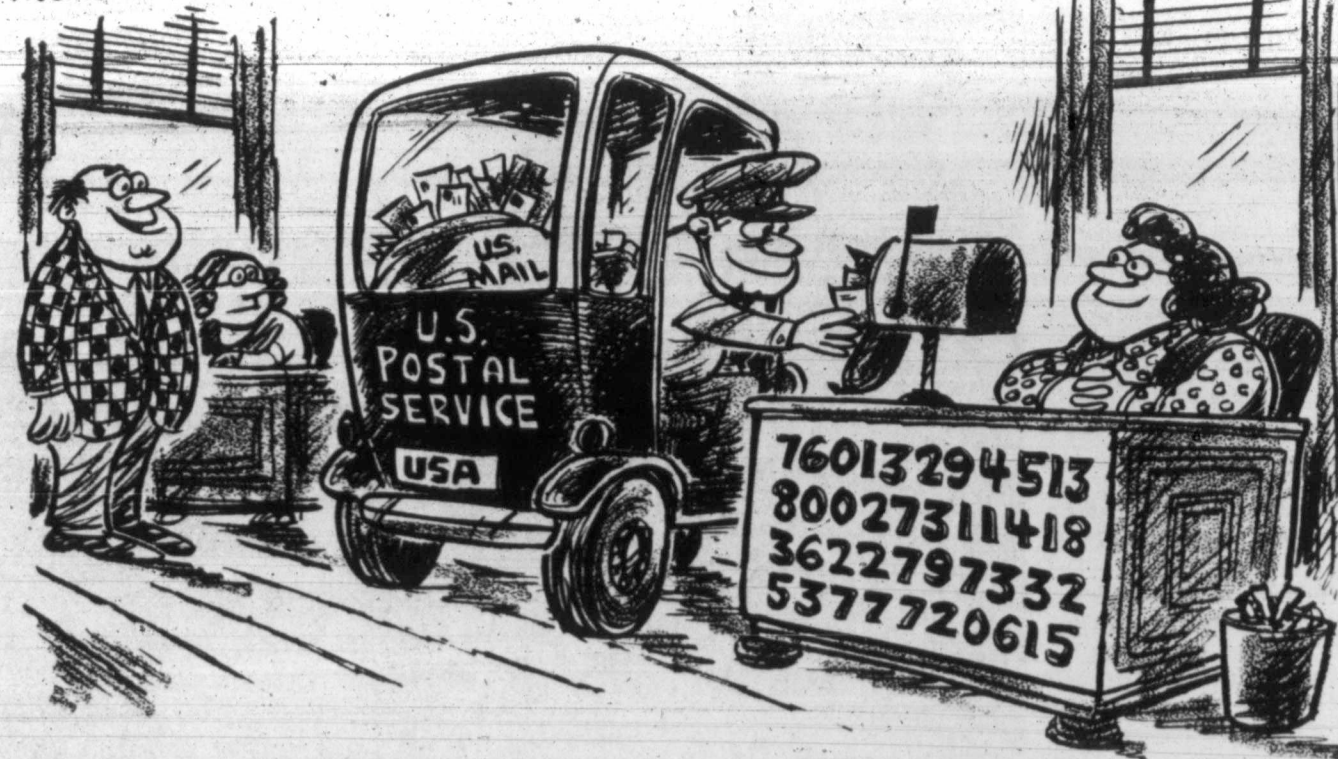

The student who refuses very well might become a victim of social ostracism, although few children would be expected to exercise their prerogative and actually walk out during worship service.

Lawmakers evidently ignored the personality characteristics of children. They are not yet adults and they will, too often, succumb to peer pressure however uncomfortable they are inwardly with the action. The Louisiana bill thus adds potential pressures to the classroom.

However cleverly worded, it is unconstitutional to insinuate the church to a state-supported school. Our founding fathers meant only one thing by separation of church and state: Keep them separated.

We have no objection to any student offering (or not offering) a prayer at school or anywhere else. Indeed, even totalitarian dictatorships have been unsuccessful at keeping their people from praying. They've been far more successful at institutionalizing ritual and encouraging conformity, neither of which we need more of.

Now that the election is over with, we can finally get down to something serious.

Yes, folks, this week is going to be remembered for more than the election of a new president, more than the changing of the senate majority to Republicans. For long after this election is forgotten, Americans will still be talking.

For it is this week, Friday to be exact, that one of the greatest mysteries and best kept secrets begins to unravel—who shot that dastardly, devious, evil oilman, J. R. Ewing.

But hang on to your cowboy hat because while the new season of "Dallas" begins Friday night, we still won't know who that courageous, wonderful person was who shot J. R. The date for the revealing episode has been set for Nov. 21.

This week, however, the police start investigating the shooting and one by one, J. R.'s enemies become singled out.

There has been much speculation over who shot the villain. There are literally thousands of people who have good reason.

Six characters on "Dallas" are probably the greatest suspects. Sue Ellen is probably number one, and my goodness, doesn't she have reason. The last episode of last season saw Sue Ellen pack a pistol in her purse and say that she is determined to stop J. R. (By the way, the last episode of last season is set to air at 8 p.m. Friday to refresh your memory about the shooting.)

Then there is poor, poor Cliff Barnes. How many times has this man's quest for power and prestige been downed by the grinning oil tycoon? Cliff vowed to get even with J. R. after his father, Digger, died.

And what about sweet little "Miss Innocent" Kristen? Now there's a conniving woman if I ever saw one. I can't say that I feel bad about the way J. R. treated her; frankly she deserved it—trying to steal her own sister's husband!

Alan Beam, the man instrumental in helping J. R. drive Cliff Barnes from the O.L.M. He tried to have his cake and eat it too. He also vowed to get even with J. R.

We must not forget the money hungry banker Vaughn Leland, who was ruined in J. R.'s Asian oil deal. On the last episode, he went so far as to threaten J. R.

Some people speculate that the murderer was Dusty, Sue Ellen's boyfriend, who went down with his airplane. They never found his body. There are rumors that say he wasn't killed in the crash, and shot J. R. to free Sue Ellen.

But I have a few theories of my own. It could have been the widow of J. R.'s "friend" who had bought shares of the Asian oil deal, only to be ruined when it fell through. The man killed himself.

Or what about the two former business associates of J. R.'s who killed his secretary and went to jail a year or two ago. Last season they told J. R. they had kidnapped his son and asked for money. When J. R. exposed their plot, they too vowed revenge.

How about Sue Ellen's psychiatrist? He may have been so tired of J. R. undoing all of his good work with Sue Ellen that he shot him.

And J. R. has offended enough ladies during his life, that any one of them could have pulled the trigger.

It even could have been the Mafia, now rumored to be trying to move in the Dallas area, who decided killing J. R. would be a way of getting a strong hold there.

It might have been some Iranian militants, deciding the hostage crisis was long forgotten. Therefore, they had to make their mark were America would remember.

It could be someone who no one has thought about, because J. R. certainly has offended more people in one day than most of us do in a lifetime.

Whoever it was, will only get a "C" for their efforts. They failed to rid us of that evil oilman. They can probably plan it better the next time though, while they sit in jail for years and years.

NEW YORK (AP)—Small-business groups are ecstatic over a new law allowing business and others to recover expenses if they prevail in court actions involving the federal government.

Their joy comes not only because of the contests of the law, but from their accomplishment. Hundreds of groups cooperated in the effort, and feel that more victories on other issues are upcoming.

They see their accomplishment, the Equal Access to Justice Law, as correcting an imbalance of power. In the past, they say, small businesses couldn't afford to fight for rights, and so it lost them.

But now, under a law signed last week, a small business might be reimbursed for attorney fees and court costs if it is the prevailing party, and the government is unable to prove to the satisfaction of the court that it was "substantially justified" in its actions.

The new law is seen by the Chamber of Commerce Small Business Center as profit that "unified action can succeed even in the face of resistance from the leadership of Congress and the administration."

At the National Federation of Independent Business, which made passage one of its top goals, an official commented that a file of horror stories — setbacks for small business — preceded enactment.

Prominent among those files is the saga of Ferrol "Bill" Barlow, a small electrical and plumbing subcontractor in Pocatello, Idaho, who challenged OSHA officials all the way to the Supreme Court, and won. Barlow's fight began when he declined to allow his property to be inspected by the Occupational Safety and Health Administration, claiming a warrantless visit violated his right against unreasonable search. He knew his ground, he was familiar with the Bill of Rights.

He even ignored, a judge's order to allow access to the OSHA visitor. In all, he didn't do well in the lower courts but he persisted. Finally he won a decision from the U.S. Supreme Court.

In reaching the decision, however, the court was careful not to strip OSHA of its power to make surprise inspections. Should an employer object, it indicated, OSHA could obtain a court warrant.

Barlow, a busy man with limited funds, might not have been able to carry his protest as far as the Supreme Court without legal and financial contributions. Not if he were to remain in business.

Other small-business people attracted less attention and had to swallow their pride, determination and constitutional rights. Some fought alleged regulatory abuses until rising expenses and time away from their businesses forced them to forego idealism for reality.

OSHA meanwhile, hasn't given up efforts to aggressively pursue its inspections. It concedes it needs to show a search warrant if an employer demands one, but almost always it can quickly produce one.

Notwithstanding those setbacks, the determined union members attending the conference here may well hold what French writer Victor Hugo once described as an invaluable possession — a powerful idea whose time has come.

They heard chilling accounts of painters who had been murdered, of truck drivers who had been bludgeoned by pipe-wielding thugs and of dock workers who had been intimidated by threats of harm to their wives and children.

The occasion was the First National Conference on Union Democracy, whose organizers initially expected no more than 75 people to attend. But almost four times that number registered for an unprecedented convention on strengthening the rights of union members and combating labor corruption.

"A labor movement is free only when it gives its members freedom," they were told in the opening address from Herman W. Benson, executive director of the sponsoring organization, the New York-based Association for Union Democracy.

"By that standard, a big part of the union brotherhood is genuinely decent and democratic and surely deserves its reputation as part of a proud, free labor movement," Benson continued. "But there's a whole other piece of the labor movement — and it's no small one — that is sick. It's sick with corruption and autocracy."

"If a man gets up to speak and he wants to criticize his (union) officials, he's fined, he's tried, he's suspended, he's expelled, sometimes beaten, sometimes blacklisted and sometimes a really effective reformer is murdered."

Under its new president, Lane Kirkland, "the AFL-CIO today has abandoned any effort to extend the democratic rights of its members or eradicate corruption," charged Benson.

But if there is to be no leadership from the top down, the commitment of those at the meeting here suggests that the impetus for needed reform could come from the bottom up.

For example, the Detroit-based Teamsters for a Democratic Union, committed to reform the International Brotherhood of Teamsters, claims to have almost 10,000 members in more than 40 chapters throughout the country.

Insurgent Teamsters have taken control of a local in Spokane Wash., and won one or more elections in other locals in Boston, Detroit, Los Angeles and Oakland, Calif.

At U.S. Steel's Homestead Works in Pittsburgh, a slate of reformers has gained control of United Steel Workers' Local 1357, restored democracy to that organization and instituted a broad range of services for its members.

"The old officers were in bed with management for so long, they should have filed for maternity benefits," said Ron Weisen, the local's president. "All they worried about was their personal gain."

Other conference participants, however, told of encountering harassment and intimidation when they attempted to exercise their democratic rights.

One woman who works at a General Motors Corp. auto plant in a Chicago suburb said officials of her United Auto Workers' local refused to allow her to distribute literature promoting the Equal Rights Amendment — even though the material had been produced by the union's international headquarters.

Another woman working at the same plant said her inquiries about the local's finances had been rebuffed by union leaders. "I have been told I'd better be careful," she added.

Joseph L. Ames, a former official of the American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employees, recalled the emasculation of the union's judicial panel, supposedly an independent oversight board, after it handed down decisions contrary to the wishes of Jerry Wurf, the union's president.

Here is yesterday's hand with our guess at the bidding at the other table. North's two-club bid was artificial as was South's response which showed an ace or two kings and had nothing to do with spades. North's two notrump was to show balanced distribution. South's three clubs was Stayman, North's three spades was the Stayman response, South showed his four spades and since North knew that South did not hold the missing king he simply bid six. Dummy won the diamond lead and took the second trick with the king of spades. A spade to the ace and a second diamond came next. East had shown singletons in both those suits, so West would hold exactly three cards in hearts and clubs. Sally Soutter who sat South now worked out a beautiful criss-cross squeeze based on the assumption that East would hold the king of hearts and at least six clubs.

She cashed all the trumps, the ace of clubs and the last diamond to wind up with A 9 6 5 of hearts and king of clubs in dummy and Q 7 2 of hearts and 9 6 of clubs in her own hand. East had to let a heart go in order to keep Q J of clubs. Now Sally simply led the five of hearts from dummy. There was no way for East to keep her from collecting three heart tricks and the king of clubs.

Dear Abby

By Abigail Van Buren

1980 by Universal Press Syndicate

DEAR ABBY: I am a counselor for "problem" teenagers who live in our group homes temporarily for a variety of reasons.

I'm responding to that MOM IN PUYALLUP, WASH., who wrote, "When I find a girlie magazine hidden in the room of any of our three teen-age sons, I remove it and replace it with a .3x5 index card with a Bible verse covering that very subject. I've never had a complaint from any of them, as they know from the verses that they are to 'abstain from fleshly lusts.'"

Mom may mean well, but she is not dealing with reality. I'm against girlie magazines because they exploit women, but they're here and we must deal with them, as boys will be boys regardless of what the Bible says. Mom is violating her sons' rights to privacy and is teaching them that they must repress, at the most critical times in their sexual lives, the most personal and human of all impulses.

We confront reality here instead of teaching kids, avoidance and asking the impossible. They are given the facts of life as they really are, and they're taught to deal with them realistically in a responsible way. Kids get straight talk on birth control and VD and clues to help them form healthy relationships with the opposite sex.

These kids begin to feel good about themselves and their natural urges. No one should be made to feel guilty about their normal feelings.

PHOENIX

DEAR PHOENIX: Thanks for a great letter. And incidentally, this subject is dealt with in a wonderful 30-minute special on CBS at 3 p.m. (Pacific Time) tomorrow. (Check your local TV listings.) Ken Howard, who plays the basketball coach in "The White Shadow," raps informally and frankly with a group of boys between the ages of 10 and 16 about their sexual feelings, their bodies and the problems of growing up. I recommend it highly for boys and girls of all ages. And their parents, too!

DEAR ABBY: I would like to leave my eyes to the Lions Eye Bank, but I am an old lady who has had cataract surgery and glaucoma, too. Do you think they would accept my eyes? I can't see how they would be of any use to anyone. Thank you.

THINKING AHEAD

DEAR THINKING: All eyes are acceptable. Those that are not usable for transplants are needed for research.

DEAR ABBY: I always thought a tip of between 15 percent and 20 percent of the bill was considered proper no matter what part of the country you're in.

I happen to live in Pennsylvania, but recently visited in South Carolina, where I was the host at a very nice restaurant. There were five of us for lunch. The bill was $28, and I left a tip of $5.50 (the service was excellent).

One of my guests (who lives in South Carolina) saw the tip and said, "That's too much!" I said, "No, that's about right." He said, "Maybe for Pennsylvania, but it's too much for South Carolina!"

Tell me, Abby, does the size of the tip vary from state to state?

Also, when I'm a guest, if I feel that the tip is inadequate, is it OK to slip a little something extra to the waitress if the service was good?

NEEDS TIPS ON TIPPING

DEAR NEEDS: Waitresses earn the minimum wage and depend on tips to survive, so 15 percent for ordinary service and 20 percent for extraordinary service is proper. And it's not only "OK," it's extremely generous to slip a little something extra to the waitress who's been shortchanged.

Do you hate to write letters because you don't know what to say? Thank-you notes, sympathy letters, congratulations, how to decline and accept invitations and how to write an interesting letter are included in Abby's booklet, "How to Write Letters for All Occasions." Send $1 and a long, stamped (28 cents), self-addressed envelope to: Abby, Letter Booklet, 132 Lasky Drive, Beverly Hills, Calif. 90212.

Jury Deadlocks...

Mistrial In Heart Cutting Case

WICHITA FALLS, Texas (AP) — Prosecutors described Patricia Ann Frazier as a "calm, cool and collected killer." But 10 jurors reportedly could not believe she was sane when she cut out the heart of her 4-year-old daughter.

The jury reported itself deadlocked Tuesday, forcing a mistrial.

Miss Frazier, 25, who contended she was insane when she killed her daughter with a butcher knife Feb. 22, had no comment when state District Judge Keith Nelson declared the mistrial following 13 hours of jury deliberation.

There was no immediate word whether District Attorney Tim Eysen would seek a retrial on the murder charges. Miss Frazier's lawyer, Harold Lerew, assumes the office of county attorney on Jan. 1 and will be prohibited by law from defending her after that time.

Eysen said 10 of the 12 jurors reported they favored a verdict of innocent by reason of insanity. Lerew said he was "disappointed I didn't convince more of the jurors that we had met our burden of proof on the insanity defense."

Psychiatrists testifying for the defense said Miss Frazier was a paranoid schizophrenic, but state witnesses said she appeared normal the day of the slaying.

Miss Frazier had said she killed her child, Khunji Wilson, because she believed evil spirits had invaded the girl's body. She said she saw grass growing out of her daughter's chest and cut out the girl's heart because she was under orders from spirits "touching my body."

Twice Monday, jurors sent notes to Nelson saying they could not reach a decision. But the judge ordered them to continue their discussions until Tuesday evening.

In final arguments Monday, Assistant District Attorney Bob Brotherton called the defendant "the ultimate and final act of child abuse." The defendant killed the child so she could be free of the responsibility of motherhood, he charged.

Lerew, trying to prove Miss Frazier was insane, told jurors that the defendant was wearing a blood-soaked bathrobe, her arms and legs were spattered with blood and she had made no attempt to clean the bedroom where the slaying occurred or to hide the butcher knife.

Photographs of the child's body and the scene were entered into evidence "to make it easy for you to hate Patricia Ann Frazier because if you hate her, it makes it easy for you to find her guilty," Lerew said.

Arguing that the defendant was sane, Eysen told jurors, "these psychiatrists don't want to find her sane. They looked at the offense and it colored their opinion."

"I submit she's a calm, cool and collected killer," he said. "She knew exactly what she wanted to do and how she was going to accomplish it."

Despite Republican Sweep...

Democrats Manage Wins In 4 State Offices

Despite a strong Republican showing in Texas, Democrats swept four state-wide offices that traditionally generate little interest, returning one incumbent to the Texas Railroad Commission and unseating a Republican on the state Supreme Court for the first time since Reconstruction. C.L. Ray, 49, a 10-year veteran of the Texarkana Court of Civil Appeals, ousted Will Garwood, the 48-year-old son of a former Supreme Court justice who was appointed to the high court by Gov. Bill Clements last year. Judicial races generally spark little interest outside the legal community, but Ray and Garwood fought a heated campaign throughout the state, tossing allegations usually reserved for legislative slugfests. Democrat Jim Wallace, 51, had little trouble defeating Austin attorney and lobbyist

Jim Brady, 59, and a second seat on the state's highest civil appeals court. Both men advocated various judicial reforms in the struggle to replace retiring Justice Zollie Steakley. Democrat Sears McGee, 62, was unopposed for re-election to the Supreme Court. And three Democrats were unopposed for election to the Texas Court of Criminal Appeals. Michael J. McCormick, 35, of Austin; Marvin Teague, 46, of Houston; and incumbent Tom G. Davis, 58, fought off a slate of candidates in the May primary.

Campaigns for the powerful Railroad Commission slipped into a sleepy lull after furious primary races fueled by fiery rhetoric and big bucks. Democrats Jim Nugent and Buddy Temple barely edged their primary opponents, but had little trouble beating Republican challengers who campaigned little if at all. Nugent, 58, who had been appointed to sit on the regulatory commission until Tuesday's election, trounced Austin attorney H.J. "Doc" Blanchard and Libertarian David Hutzelman, a 39-year-old telecommunications manager who advocated abolition of the three-man commission. Grind no more than half a cup of blanched or unblanched almonds in an electric blender at one time to keep the nuts from becoming oily.

Clements Wants Connally Back In Washington

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Gov. Bill Clements says nothing in the world could get him to accept a presidential appointment from Ronald Reagan, but he is going to work on getting John Connally back to Washington.

Connally, who challenged Reagan for the GOP presidential nomination but dropped out after the South Carolina primary, served as secretary of the navy in the Kennedy administration and as secretary of the treasury in the Nixon administration.

He was Democratic governor of Texas in 1963-69 but later switched to the Republican Party.

Clements heaped praise on Connally before cheering, balloon-popping Texas Republicans Tuesday night and insisted on waiting for Connally to start a news conference. Clements, deputy secretary of defense under Nixon, said he would defer to Connally on questions about national defense because Connally knew so much more. Returning the accolades, Connally said Clements was the deciding factor in Reagan's victory in Texas.

"I daresay there was not an elected official in the United States that even came close to giving himself up (for a Reagan victory) as Bill Clements."

Clements, Connally and their wives — Rita and Nellie — campaigned for Reagan throughout Texas, and the delivery of the state's 26 electoral votes started immediate speculation about possible national roles for Clements or Connally or both.

"I will not under any circumstances take any job in Washington, D.C.," Clements proclaimed. "What else can I say?"

Asked if he felt as strongly as Clements about rejecting a position in the Reagan administration, Connally said, "Not quite as strong, I thought his statement was very strong."

Connally said, however, "I have no idea I will be offered a job. I don't anticipate a job. I'm not going to ask for a job. I don't want a job, and I'm not sure any of them have persuasive powers enough to get me to accept one."

"I'll tell you one person who might be persuading him — that's me," responded Clements, and Connally, stepping back, laughed heartily.

Police Investigating Theft Of Two Autos

Police are investigating the disappearance of two vehicles.

One, a 1980 Ford pickup truck, was reportedly stolen from James R. Baker, 2103 40th St., between 10 p.m. Tuesday and 7 a.m. today. The vehicle is valued at $7,000, police said, but it carried a drill bit worth $3,000 extra.

Taken during about the same time period were a 1979 Chevrolet Impala four-door and 16-foot Glastron boat worth much more, police reports show. The vehicles were taken from Don Parsons and Tommy Hood at 2801 Ave. X between 11:30 p.m. and 8 a.m. Officers said the car is valued at $8,000 and the boat carries with it a $9,500 price tag.

Otherwise, only two minor traffic accidents were worked by city police.

The first occurred about 1:25 p.m. Tuesday in the 1300 block of 25th St. and involved a 1975 Ford driven by Kelly Johns and a 1979 Chevrolet driven by Rosa Underwood. Working that accident was Buddy Kinney.

The next accident was worked by Keith Ward about 2:50 p.m. in the 300 block of the Old Post Road and involved a parked 1977 Ford owned by Ralph C. Hoyle and a 1970 Chevrolet driven by Santiago Valadez.

'Fever' may be normal

By Lawrence Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB — In the evening my 8-year-old son has a temperature of 99.2 or 99.4 F. I noticed this when he had a cold. He is over the cold now but the evening fever persists. He doesn't seem to act sick and he doesn't complain about anything. What causes this?

DEAR READER — It's probably normal for him. The body temperature normally can vary as much as three degrees Fahrenheit over a 24-hour period. It is at the low point in the early morning hours, sometimes below 97 F, and highest in the late afternoon and evening. Normal people can have temperatures as high as 100 F in the evening and not have anything wrong with them.

The best guide for a mother is how the child acts. If the temperature is below 100 F in the evening and around 98.6 F in the morning or lower, and the child appears healthy in all other respects, it is probably his own variation.

I'd like to add that many older people are subject to hypothermia and lose body heat. This can be dangerous and cause symptoms confused with senility. You should have a thermometer that registers to 97 F or below and you must be sure it has been shaken down completely before you use it. If it is registering 98 F before you take a person's temperature, it will not show readings below 98 F, even if the real body temperature is only 96 F.

Factors that affect the temperature readings are discussed in detail in The Health Letter number 7-5, Body Temperature and Fever, which I am sending you. Others who want this issue can send 75 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it to me, in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

DEAR DR. LAMB — My son, age 34, is healthy, well built and never sick. But he has ice cold hands all the time. What can he do to correct this? Could you imagine holding hands with a guy with ice cold hands? Does this mean low blood pressure?

DEAR READER — You feel cold or hot because of the skin temperature. Your skin may be cold because you have less blood flowing through the small blood vessels of the skin, or you may feel hot because of a lot of blood flow through the skin. When a person has a hot flash and sweats, he or she is usually flushed. The body temperature itself may not rise but the skin temperature does and causes the person to feel hot.

The blood flow through the skin is controlled by complex nerve reflexes. The flow will increase if you exercise because the reflexes open the small blood vessels to let heat escape from your body through your skin. They constrict in many people who smoke as a response of blood vessels to nicotine. They dilate when a person takes a drink of alcohol. That is the source of the old and very wrong idea that taking a drink of alcohol is good for being exposed to cold. That sensation of warmth means the body is rapidly losing heat through the skin and the person is more likely to freeze to death.

Being physically fit helps. But I have known people who are in very good shape who still feel cold because of diminished blood flow through the skin when they are not exercising. Avoiding cigarettes is important to some. Others have to live with it or exercise frequently, staying active all day to feel warm. I'm also sending you The Health Letter on Body Temperature which explains control of temperature and the sensation of being cold to you in more detail.

Bomb Threat Interrupts GOP Party

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Republicans celebrating Ronald Reagan's presidential victory Tuesday night were ordered out of a downtown, lakeside hotel for 15 minutes because of a bomb threat.

Security officers said a caller claimed the Communist Youth Brigade had planted a bomb. A search started at once and continued even after hundreds of persons were readmitted to the hotel ballroom.

Las Vegas Vacation Promise Under Probe

Las Vegas vacation offers that promise much more than they deliver are now being sold by mail across the nation. Postal Inspector in Charge W.R. Newsome has warned.

Newsome said at least 12 separate companies now contacting prospective buyers by mail and telephone are under investigation by the Postal Inspection Service. Complaints have been received from Texas consumers in Fort Worth, Dallas, and Houston. Silmar mailouts have reportedly been received in Snyder.

In response to inquiries about vacation "certificates," the companies ask for a "service charge" of from $25 to $50, sometimes requesting personal credit card numbers, supposedly to confirm identity but actually to bill prospective buyers through credit card companies. The firms claim the "certificates" are good for three days and two nights lodging for two in Las Vegas, and include meals and a gambling package valued at $250.

Typically, those who take the bait have to pay additional fees and reservation deposits, and the so-called "service charge" is not refunded as represented in an initial offer. Newsome said when "certificate holders send hotel reservation requests they are met with "regret" letters advising that no rooms are available on the days requested, and when refunds are requested they get letters asking them to be patient.

Anyone victimized through the mails should report it to Postal Inspector D.C. Swindle, Consumer Protection Specialist for the Fort Worth Division of the Postal Inspection Service, P.O. Box 1230, Fort Worth, Texas 76101 or telephone (817) 334-2001.

CBS Resumes Lead In TV Ratings Competition

NEW YORK (AP) — CBS began its 1980-81 prime-time season where it left off in April, listing six of the 10 highest-rated shows in the week ending Nov. 2, according to figures from the A.C. Nielsen Co.

The week was the first of the fall season for both CBS and ABC. NBC maintains the TV year began Sept. 15, when it broadcast the first episode of the five-part "Shogun" miniseries.

CBS' "60 Minutes" was the No. 1 show of 1979-80, and the newsmagazine, which began original programming in September, was the highest-rated show in the most recent audience survey.

The rating for "60 Minutes" was 26.6. Nielsen says that means of all the homes in the country with television, 26.6 percent saw at least part of the broadcast. An NBC movie, "The Gauntlet," with Clint Eastwood, was runnerup.

ABC, meanwhile, had two shows in the Top 10, including "Love Boat" in third place. CBS' rating for the week was 19.8, to 18.3 for ABC and 16.5 for NBC. The networks say that means in an average prime-time minute during the week, 19.8 percent of the nation's TV-equipped homes were tuned to CBS.

Two movies and a special helped the CBS effort. "The Jayne Mansfield Story" tied for sixth place, with another made-for-TV docudrama, "Rape and Marriage: The Rideout Case," 11th, and the latest production in "The Body Human" series, "The Sexes II," 17th. Of the new series introduced during the week by ABC and CBS, CBS' "Ladies Man" was the highest-rated, tied for 26th, with "It's a Living" on ABC tied for 38th, and ABC's "I'm a Big Girl Now" 42nd.

The presidential debate, broadcast by all three networks was not sponsored and thus not included in the ratings.

Three of the five lowest-rated programs for the week were presidential spots, which CBS and NBC count in the weekly ratings. The exceptions were NBC's "Smothers Brothers Special," No. 60, and an NBC News special, "The Hostages," No. 61 for the week.

Here are the week's 10 highest-rated shows: "60 Minutes," with a rating of 26.6 representing 20.7 million homes, CBS. Movie, "The Gauntlet," 25.1 or 19.5 million, NBC. "Love Boat,"

24.5 or 19.1 million, ABC. "Alice," 24.3 or 18.9 million, and "The Jeffersons," 24 or 18.7 million, both CBS. Movie, "The Jayne Mansfield Story," and "Archie Bunker's Place," both 23.7 or 18.4 million, both CBS. "Little House on the Prairie," 23.2 or 18 million, NBC, and "Dallas," CBS, and "Three's Company," ABC, both 23.1 or 17.9 million.

The rest of the Top 20: "Movie: Rape and Marriage: The Rideout Case," CBS. "Eight is Enough," ABC. "Fantasy Island," ABC, and "M-A-S-H," CBS, tie. "Real People," NBC, and "The World's Most Spectacular Stuntmen," ABC, tie. "The Body Human: The Sexes II," CBS, and Movie, "Father Damien: The Leper Priest" and "A Lucille Ball Special," both NBC, and "That's Incredible," ABC, three-way tie.

MAJOR TAX LAW CHANGE

On October 14, President Carter signed into law the "Installment Sales Revision Act of 1980."

Of greatest interest to most taxpayers is the elimination of the thirty percent rule (29 percent more commonly used) for receipts in the year of sale. Since the percentage measurement has been eliminated, you can take whatever cash you choose in the year of sale and pay income taxes only to that extent. For example, if you are selling a $100,000 asset and have current year cash needs in excess of $30,000, you are free to satisfy those cash needs and still qualify for the installment reporting privilege.

This portion of the new law is effective for all transactions entered into during the 1980 tax year. If you are on a December year end, any sale during calendar year 1980 qualifies for this new treatment. If you or your company has a fiscal year, this provision is effective for sales during the year in which October 14, 1980 falls.

Under the new law, all installment contracts will have "automatic" installment treatment privileges unless the taxpayer specifically elects to have all the gain taxed in the year of sale.

Of special interest to owners of small corporations is a more lenient treatment for liquidating certain corporations with installment contracts. Under certain circumstances, the new law provides for the non-recognition of gain when a shareholder exchanges his stock for an installment obligation from his liquidating corporation. A taxpayer will be able to report the gain as the installment proceeds are received, as opposed to triggering all the remaining gain at the date the corporation transfers the installment contract to him.

The new law has many other provisions; taxpayers anticipating property sales should plan in accordance with the new law.

Landry Compares Crew To '75 Champ Squad

DALLAS (AP) — In 1975, the Dallas Cowboys had a dozen wildly enthusiastic rookies and not many believers in their Super Bowl dream.

The Cowboys surprised their way right into the Super Bowl and lost by only a touchdown to the powerful Pittsburgh Steelers.

Dallas Coach Tom Landry said Tuesday he could see a parallel between the days of the "Dirty Dozen" and the current crop of eight rookies.

"There is a parallel in enthusiasm with the current group and the young players we had in 1975," said Landry.

"There is a tremendous amount of enthusiasm and it picks up the veterans."

He continued, "For example, the tackle James Jones made on Chuck Muncie in the game against San Diego on a kickoff just fired up the whole team. Something like that just helps the older players."

"Everybody was surprised when we made it to the Super Bowl. This year our team is a little more solid but the rookies really help."

Jones has started at halfback, returned punts and kickoffs, and gone down the field under kickoffs to make tackles. The other rookies include offensive lineman Kurt Peterson, defensive backs Bill Roe, Dexter Clinkscales, and Roland Solomon, linebacker Anthony Dickerson, quarterback Gary Hogeboom and halfback Timmy Newsome.

Landry was concerned about his running game at Tuesday's press luncheon.

"We didn't run block and we didn't run last week," said Landry. "When you only gain

WGA Introduces Officers, Presents Year-End Awards

Officers elected were: Carolyn Greene, president; Anita Talbott, 1st vice-president; Susie Reed, 2nd vice-president; Ethel Patterson, secretary; Lou Keeble, treasurer; Chris Jordan and Lounette Null, reports; Delores Key, parliamentarian; and Rachael Rosser, pianist. Gertrude League installed the officers.

Among the top awards were Most Improved Golfer, which went to Rhylene Stoker. Mrs. Stoker improved her handicap from April through October by seven strokes.

Low putters for the year were Finnie Seale in the A Flight, Gertrude League in the B Flight, Mrs. Rosser in the C Flight, and Opal Williams in the D Flight.

An award presented for this first time this year was Low Net, an average of each player's net scores from April through October. Mrs. Seale and Mrs. Stoker tied for A Flight honors with a net of 70, while Evelyn Thomas took B Flight with a 72. Other winners were Alice Gray, 72, in C Flight and Irene Lemen, 82, in D Flight.

The Association also recognized "Break Pins" for the year, where a golfer breaks a certain score for the first time. Breaking 100 were Colleen Duke, Sharon Talbott and Mrs. Gray. Breaking 95 were Mrs. Green and Dena Ellis; breaking 90 were Joycelyn Holder, Kaye Cypert and Lu Wolf; breaking 85 were Norma Thompson, Mrs. Green, Mrs. Key and Susan Mack; breaking 80 were Mrs. Thompson and Mrs. Patterson; and breaking 75 was Bobbie Hargrove.

Beginning in April the ladies held a monthly "Queen of the Hill" competition with winners qualifying for a low-net, low-gross playoff. Low net winner was Mrs. Stoker. Mrs. Greene and Mrs. Hargrove tied for low gross. Mrs. Greene was elected winner by card playoff.

Results of Ringer Play, held from June through mid-August indicated that Mrs. Lemen, Mrs. Reed and Mrs. Wolf all tied with plus (improved) 28, while Mrs. Williams was plus 27.

A final presentation was missed only one play day during the year.

WTC Resumes Cage Action

Western Texas College cagers resume play again this weekend as the men trek to Mexico and the women head for Temple.

Coach Larry Dunaway's Westerners, 2-0, are to play Jarez University Thursday and Friday. Both games will begin at 7:30.

The Dusters, under the direction of Coach Joe Cushing, will play Blinn Junior College at Temple, 7:30 on Friday, and Temple College, also at Temple, 7:30 Saturday. The Dusters are also 2-0 on the year.

LOW NET, MOST IMPROVED—WGA recognized a number of its members during year-end ceremonies held at Snyder Country Club yesterday. Among those were the Most Improved Golfer, which was Rhylene Stoker (far left above). Also noted were those golfers who had low net scores for the year, according to handicap. They included Mrs. Stoker, Finnie Seale, Alice Gray and Irene Lemen, pictured right to left, and Evelyn Thomas, not pictured. (SDN Staff Photo)

Carlton Cy Young Winner

NEW YORK (AP) — Left-hander Steve Carlton, who led the Philadelphia Phillies to the World Championship, was named winner of the National League Cy Young award for a record-tying third time.

Carlton was voted the honor by a Baseball Writers Association of America panel and joined Tom Seaver and Sandy Koufax as the only three-time winners of the award that goes to the league's best pitcher.

Carlton polled 118 points, with 23 of 24 first-place votes and one second-place vote. Jerry Reuss of the Los Angeles Dodgers got the other first-place vote and was second with 55 points.

Carlton posted a 24-9 record with a 2.34 earned run average during the regular season, leading the majors with 286 strikeouts.

Oh Announces Retirement

TOKYO (AP) — Sadaharu Oh, who hit a record 868 home runs during his 22 years in Japanese professional baseball with the Yomiuri Giants, announced that he has retired even though he fell short of his goal of hitting 900 homers.

Oh compiled a lifetime batting average of .302, won his league's home run crown 15 times, captured three triple crowns, was elected Most Valuable Player nine times and paced the Giants to nine straight pennants between 1965 and 1973.

Cargile also garnered Big Bass honors with his five-pound catch.

Others who turned in stringers were Tommy Hood, 5th, 4-12; Red Pinkerton, 6th, 4-2; Hershel Moore, 7th, 3-11 1/2; Pheno Foster, 8th, 2-5; and Don Parsons, 9th, 1-2.

With one more qualifying tournament remaining, the standings are: 1. Parsons, 1,185; 2. Hood, 1,030; 3. Bill Collier, 805; 4. Howard, 761; 5. Ken Gard, 615; 6. Gay Hickman, 532; 7. Neves, 504; 8. November's tournament will be held Saturday and Sunday (8-9) at Lake Colorado City. Headquarters will be the State Park Launch Ramp. The tourney will run from daylight to 5 p.m. Saturday and from daylight to 3 p.m. Sunday.

Sponsors are Mr. and Mrs. Bob Hargrove, Mr. and Mrs. Joyce Talbott, Mr. and Mrs. John Reed, Mr. and Mrs. Tommie Mills and Mr. and Mrs. Paul Gray.

Eleven schools from four states will compete in the tournament.

Felines Beat, Ending Undefeated String At 28

SEMINOLE—Good things must come to an end. Fortunately for Coach Joyce Elrod's varsity volleyball team, not ALL good things ended here last night.

Snyder saw its quest for an undefeated season fall short here as Seminole upset the state's top-ranked team 15-8, 11-13 and 6-15. The game will have no bearing on the upcoming Regional Tournament, however, and does not affect the Felines' at-home win streak of 53, or their district victory string of 43.

"I think a lot of things contributed to it (the loss)," said Coach Elrod. "First was the let down after winning a tough district. We just weren't concentrating as we should. There was also the pressure of an up to that point undefeated season. We had beaten Seminole three times earlier this year and the girls were not up for the game like I've seen them before. All of these things played a part, I think.

"Hopefully this (the loss) will be the best thing for us," added Elrod. "The girls took it hard. Maybe they gotten enough of a taste of it to know they don't like it."

Snyder is slated to play in the Regional Tournament Nov. 15 in Lubbock.

Cage Season Gets Underway Nov. 15

Snyder High School begins 1980-81 basketball seasons just one day after the conclusion of football season this season.

Tiger tigers are set to tip off the roundball Nov. 15, with all games taking place out of town.

Coach Ken Housden's girls, junior varsity and varsity, trek to Rotan on the 15th for games at 5:30 and 7 respectively. Coach Patty Grimm's freshmen open that show, meeting the Yellow-jackets at 4:30.

PRESIDENT AND FIRST LADY-ELECT

Reagan Rides Tide To Victory

nation's energy problems. He says one of his principal goals is to "take the government off the backs of the American people."

Reagan pledged during his campaign that one of his first acts as president would be to sign an executive order placing a freeze on federal hiring.

One of president-elect's top aides said Tuesday that another of Reagan's first acts after taking office would be to send Congress his plan for a 30 percent cut in income tax rates to be phased in over three years.

"There has never been a more humbling moment in my life," Reagan told cheering supporters. "Even if it had been the cliffhanger that all of us I think were expecting, it would have been the same way."

It never was a cliffhanger. It was clear from the earliest returns on Tuesday that Reagan was on his way to a major victory. He carried every one of the big battleground states.

One after another they fell in his column: Michigan, Ohio, New York, Pennsylvania, New Jersey, Illinois and, finally, California.

Reagan shattered Carter's hold on his native South Texas, Florida, Virginia, Mississippi, Louisiana, Alabama, North Carolina, South Carolina, Tennessee and Kentucky all went for the Republican nominee. Four years ago, Carter carried every southern state except Virginia.

An Associated Press-NBC News poll of voters in 10 key states showed that Reagan received the votes of six of seven voters who cited firmness and decisiveness as important characteristics in their choice of a president.

The same poll showed Carter received only about half the normally Democratic Jewish vote while Reagan captured about one-third and independent presidential candidate John B. Anderson received the balance.

Among blue collar voters, another traditionally Democratic bloc avidly courted by Reagan, the Republican nominee ran ahead of Carter 48 percent to 45 percent.

This was Reagan's third try for the White House and had he lost at age 69, it would have been his last.

In triumph, he looked ahead: "Together, we are going to do what has to be done. We're going to put America back to work again."

"You know, I aim to try and tap that great American spirit that opened up this completely undeveloped continent from coast to coast and made it a great nation, survived several wars, survived the Great Depression, and we'll survive the problems we face right now."

An actor-turned-politician, a New Deal Democrat-turned-conservative Republican, Reagan was elected 40th President of the United States after a long campaign in which he flayed Carter as a failed president who had weakened the nation militarily and had mismanaged the economy. But the issue that dominated the closing days of the campaigned was the sudden renewal of prospects for release of the American hostages in Iran, whose ordeal began one year ago Election Day.

The Republicans had feared the development might actually help Carter, but an Associated Press-NBC News survey of voters as they left polling places indicated the hostage issue was hurting the president.

"The events of the last four days, the Iranian hostages, they came down on us," said Robert Strauss, chairman of the Carter re-election campaign. "It brought back all the frustrations of the past year."

And At Least 10 In House...

Republicans Gain Two Seats In State Senate

By LEE JONES
Associated Press Writer
Republicans gained two seats in the state Senate and at least 10 in the Texas House in Tuesday's election as GOP candidates swept out nine incumbent legislators.

The GOP strides almost exactly paralleled Gov. Bill Clements' predictions, and one defeated Democrat had nothing but praise for Republicans' political finesse. "I came out of it with a hell of a lot of respect for the GOP's ability to put on a political campaign. As we say in Texas, they done good," said Sen. A.R. Schwartz, D-Galveston.

Schwartz conceded today to James E. "Buster" Brown, a Lake Jackson lawyer who topped Schwartz by about 1,000 votes out of more than 100,000 cast.

Schwartz, with 20 years in the Senate, would have been dean of that body had he been elected. He has been the leading legislative liberal.

Also falling to a Republican was Rep. Richard Slack, D-Pecos, dean of the House with 28 years. He was beaten by Jerry Cockerham, who quit as co-pastor of a Baptist church in Monahans to make the race. A cliffhanger race was in Dallas county. For the seat held by Sen. Bill Braecklein, R-Dallas, who did not seek re-election.

John Leedom, former Dallas County GOP chairman, and Ron Kessler, former county chairman for the Democrats, were neck-and-neck late this morning, but Kessler's wife told a reporter her husband had been defeated.

OBITUARIES

Jim Mixon

James H. (Jim) Mixon, 69, well-known Snyder businessman, died at about 3 a. m. today in Cogdell Memorial Hospital.

Funeral arrangements were pending at Bell-Seale Funeral Home.

A native of Taylor, Mr. Mixon had lived in Snyder 32 years. He was owner and operator of Mixon Supply on the east side of the Snyder square. He was a former city councilman and was active in civic affairs for a number of years. He was a member of the Snyder Lions Club, was a Mason and served in the Army Air Corps during World War II.

He was married on Nov. 8, 1938, at Sweetwater, to Ruby Mason. She survives.

Also surviving are two daughters, Judy Long of Houston and Janice Stewart of Snyder; a sister, Mrs. O. L. Archer of Amarillo; and three grandchildren.

Ritchie Rites

Funeral service was set for 4 p. m. today in the Bell-Seale Chapel for Everett Edgar Ritchie, 87, who died at 6 p. m. Monday in Cogdell Memorial Hospital.

The Rev. James Jackson, pastor of First Assembly of God, was to officiate, and burial was to be in the Snyder Cemetery, under direction of Bell-Seale Funeral Home.

Surviving are two sisters, Fayle Leslie of Pasadena, Calif., and Bertha Costle of Oklahoma City, and a sister-in-law, Beatrice Ritchie of Snyder.

AMMENDMENTS

Proponents said it is ridiculous to go through a cumbersome trial only to have an appeals court throw a case out because of some early, pretrial ruling. Both the state and the defense would have had the appeals right.

The amendment failed by a 52 percent to 48 percent margin.

The electorate also split on two amendments concerning the powers of the governor. No. 5 would have granted tighter control over the budget. Fifty-six percent of the voters said no to the proposal.

However, a whopping 69 percent said the governor should have the power to initiate removal proceedings against his appointees to state boards and commissions. The governor would need a two-thirds vote from the Senate, and he could only go after people he — not his predecessors — named to posts.

Amendment No. 3, requiring a single property appraisal board and board of equalization for ad valorem taxes in each county, won 57 percent approval.

No. 7, allowing counties with less than 5,000 people to do private road work gained 67 percent approval. The county will be paid a fair market fee for the work. Proponents said residents of small counties often have to go a long way to find a contractor to do certain jobs.

The final amendment on the ballot, concerning ownership of property by married couples, also carried easily.

Seventy percent of the voters said spouses should be allowed to agree in writing that the income from one partner's separate property will remain separate.

IA Club To Host Open House Soon

The Snyder High School Industrial Arts Club will have an open house Nov. 11 from 7 p.m. until 9 p.m. in the Industrial Arts Building, report school officials.

Locally, the open house will be observed in conjunction with the national Industrial Arts Education Week.

Morning Pep Rally Slated

Snyder High School will have its pep rally Friday morning instead of in the afternoon, report school officials.

The pep rally this Friday will be held from 9:55 a.m. until 10:25 a.m. in the high school gym.

The decision to have the pep rally in the morning was made in view of the long-drive the Tiger football team will have to make as it takes on the Panthers in Fort Stockton this week.

How Reagan Won

LOS ANGELES (AP)—It was Sept. 4 and as Ronald Reagan's chartered jet carried him toward Florida and Louisiana, his campaign was in trouble, beset by a series of stumbles in its early days.

His once-huge lead in the polls after July's Republican convention was shrinking and Reagan was on the defensive after a flap about his policy toward Taiwan, his declaration that the Vietnam War was a noble cause and his attempt to link President Carter to the Ku Klux Klan.

In retrospect, Reagan's strategists now view that trip as the turning point in the campaign, the day they began to shift the focus from Reagan's missteps to the Carter administration's record.

In the two-state southern swing, Reagan accused Carter of leaking military secrets about new bomber technology for political gain — to show that U.S. defenses were not in the bad shape that Reagan claimed.

The charges coincided with the start of a congressional investigation of the news leak, and the issue suddenly dominated the headlines and threw the president on the defensive.

The Sept. 4 trip also marked the first day that Stuart Spencer, a savvy Republican strategist and manager of former President Gerald R. Ford's 1976 race, began traveling on the candidate's plane. He steered Reagan away from trouble and picked up political intelligence from old allies.

From the beginning, Reagan's strategy was to attack Carter's record on the economy and inflation, particularly in big midwestern and northeastern states where layoffs in the auto and steel industries, as well as in coal mines, pushed state unemployment rates above the national average.

Reagan knew he had to convince blue-collar workers and other traditional Democrats to desert their party. He pledged to beat inflation and give them a 30 percent tax cut over three years.

He also vowed to bolster America's prestige throughout the world and to make America a militarily strong country that adversaries would be forced to respect.

Reagan also paid careful attention to the South. In particular he made repeated trips to Texas and Florida, hoping to crack the regional base that helped put Carter in the White House in 1976.

In the end, Reagan carried every southern state except Carter's native Georgia.

How Carter Lost

WASHINGTON (AP)—In the end, the campaign boiled down to two main issues: the economy and war and peace. Both worked against Jimmy Carter.

Carter couldn't overcome his own record and he failed to convince the voters that Ronald Reagan was too reckless and right-wing to occupy the Oval Office.

His last chance may have been the televised debate a week before the election — a one-on-one confrontation that Carter had insisted on.

The reassuring image of the Republican nominee projected before an audience of more than 100 million belied Carter's efforts to portray Reagan as trigger-happy.

As he was restoring luster to his own image, Reagan attacked the president on the economy where he was most vulnerable, asking voters whether they were better off or worse than they were four years ago.

Inflation stood at 12.7 percent and unemployment at 7.5 percent. Fifty-two Americans had been held hostage in Iran for a year.

Within 48 hours, Carter knew the situation was desperate. During a week-long campaign blitz, he tried frantically to refocus the spotlight on Reagan.

At first, it worked. Carter campaign polls had shown him trailing Reagan by 3-4 points after the debate. But by Saturday, the president held a slight 0.3 percent lead.

Overnight, it fizzled: Sunday's polls revealed that the president was down by 2.5 points. By Monday — the day after Carter had temporarily suspended campaigning to assess the conditions set by Iran for release of the hostages — the outcome was inevitable: he trailed by 7-10 points.

In the pre-dawn hours of Election Day, as Air Force One flew to Plains, Ga., for Carter to cast his own ballot, press secretary Jody Powell ordered a drink and braced himself to deliver the omen to his boss.

Before the president voted, he knew.

He may have suspected even before his weekend surge. On Thursday, there was a small crowd for the president's appearance at a Polish club in Philadelphia and only polite applause from Jewish leaders when Carter made his strongest pledge ever in support of Israel.

On Friday, in Florida, Carter admitted the outcome was in doubt. And one of his most trusted advisers told reporters aboard Air Force One the campaign was suffering a "pause in momentum."

The post-mortem offered by Carter's aides blamed the defeat on the hostage statement and dual problems of inflation and recession.

Blaming inflation and unemployment on increases in oil prices, Carter played up his achievements on energy and the Middle East and stressed the necessity for calmness and stability in the Oval Office.

Carter admitted he had made mistakes, and declared himself wiser for his on-the-job training.

But in the end, the man who won his job in 1976 as an outsider lost it four years later because he had become the ultimate insider.

Suit Filed Last Fall Leads To Tax Mix-up

A suit filed last year against Snyder Independent School District (it was subsequently withdrawn) has caused some unpleasant situations for some taxpayers who suddenly learned that they were defendants in delinquent tax suits.

An example of what can happen during a chain of events is the case of Rick and Janice Beard, who never dreamed that the taxes had not been paid on a house they bought last November.

Here is how it went, according to Clarence Minton, county tax collector, who "inherited" the situation several months after the chain of events began:

When the Beards made their purchase of the property involved, the usual steps were taken to clear up all taxes on the property. However, at that time, the school district was not permitted to accept any tax payments, pending disposition of a lawsuit challenging tax collections. So, money for payment of the taxes was put in an escrow account by the mortgage holder.

Later, when the school district was permitted to send out tax bills, the statement for the Beard's newly-acquired property went to a former owner and failed to reach the mortgage holder, said Minton.

Meanwhile, an Amarillo law firm, which had contracted with the school district to collect delinquent taxes, began filing some suits. Minton said he had been advised by the law firm of Perdue, Brandon and Blair that delinquent tax cases were selected for filing by a computer, based on a formula the firm uses. He said he had notified them that notices on the Beard property should be sent to them rather than a former owner when he learned the circumstances involving that suit.

The Beards said that when they were told that the money to pay the taxes for 1979 was being left in escrow, they never gave it another thought, and knew nothing of the suit until they read it in the public records column of The Snyder Daily News, and they were embarrassed to learn that a lawsuit had been filed against them for something they had reason to believe had been resolved a year earlier.

Minton said the taxes and court costs had now been paid by the mortgage holder and that the case against the Beards is up for dismissal.

Although this case is one of the more extreme, it is not unusual for such mix-ups to happen when events such as these are involved, said Minton. Under terms of the contract to collect delinquent taxes, the Amarillo law firm is furnished lists of delinquents and the local agencies do not select the cases to be filed.

"We had another case in which a taxpayer was paying taxes the day a suit was filed," said Minton. "Fortunately we caught it at the time, but it did get filed and was published."

Minton said he was sympathetic and would do anything in his power to keep

Carter's Concession Speech

WASHINGTON (AP)—Here is the text of President Carter's concession speech, delivered Tuesday night:

I promised you four years ago that I would never lie to you, so I can't stand here and say it doesn't hurt.

The people of the United States have made their choice, and of course I accept their decision, but I have to admit not with the same enthusiasm that I accepted the decision four years ago.

I might say I have a deep appreciation of the system, however, that lets people make a free choice about who will lead them for the next four years.

About an hour ago, I called Governor Reagan in California and I told him that I congratulated him for a fine victory. I look forward to working closely with him during the next few weeks. We'll have a very fine transition period. I told him I wanted the best one in history, and I then sent him this telegram and I'll read it to you:

"It's now apparent that the American people have chosen you as the next president. I congratulate you and pledge to you our fullest support and cooperation in bringing about an orderly transition of government in the weeks ahead. My best wishes are wished to you and your family as you undertake the responsibilities that lie before you."

And I signed it Jimmy Carter.
