

Court Refuses To Disturb Pageants

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court, turning away a dispute over how public schools observe religious holidays, today refused to disturb how Christmas pageants are run in Sioux Falls, S.D., schools.

The pageants were attacked as unconstitutional because they include religious hymns and dialogue about the birth of Jesus.

By a 7-2 vote, the justices left intact a ruling that upheld the use of such pageants. Justices William J. Brennan Jr. and Thurgood Marshall voted to hear a challenge to conducting the pageants in public schools, but four votes are needed to grant such review.

In other matters today, the Supreme Court:

—Told the Washington state Supreme Court to restudy that tribunal's ruling giving persons stopped for suspected drunken driving the right to a lawyer's immediate help.

—Rebuffed the federal government's attempt to reinstate a $10,000 fine against the AFL-CIO for illegal political campaign spending.

—Refused to sidetrack a lower court's study, to begin Thursday, of a law aimed at helping workers who lost their jobs when the Rock Island railroad went bankrupt.

The Sioux Falls controversy dates back to 1977, when Roger Florey's son Justin participated in a kindergarten Christmas program his father felt had excessive religious content.

Under past Supreme Court rulings, public schools are barred from sponsoring "religious exercises."

The high court outlawed mandatory school prayer in 1962, and in 1963 outlawed daily Bible readings.

Those decisions focused on the government's role and the religious purpose of each activity. The rulings had nothing to do with individual prayers by students or with the teaching of the Bible as literature.

Florey's complaints about the program spurred school officials to set up a committee to devise a formal policy about observing religious holidays.

In late 1978, the committee's recommendations were adopted. The guidelines state, in part:

"Music, art, literature and drama having religious themes or basis are permitted as part of the curriculum for school-sponsored activities and programs if presented in a prudent and objective manner and as a traditional part of the cultural and religious heritage of the particular holiday."

They also state: "The use of religious symbols... that are a part of a religious holiday is permitted as a teaching aid or resource provided such symbols are displayed as an example of the cultural and religious heritage of the holiday and are temporary in nature."

Recount Possibility In Commissioners' Race

Possibility of a recount in the Precinct 3 commissioner's race loomed this morning as Scurry County Commissioners began checking tally sheets and poll lists in preparation for the official canvass of returns from the Nov. 4 general election.

Yoast, the incumbent Precinct 3 commissioner and a Democrat, was defeated in his bid for re-election by Bernhard Bartels, a Republican, by a margin of 89 votes, according to the unofficial returns.

The final unofficial count gave Bartels a total of 1,458 votes and Yoast a total of 1,369 votes.

"I am not questioning anybody's honesty," said Yoast. However, he said he felt that there is a possibility that the machine count of the ballots might be in error and he was considering a request for a hand count of the ballots in the precinct.

Yoast said he would make a decision on whether to seek the hand count sometime today. In the event that he does make the request, the official canvass will be delayed.

The unofficial returns showed that Yoast carried the Irag precinct by 146 to 82 and Precinct 15 in Snyder by 584 to 534, while Bartels led in the Bison rural precinct by 38 to 23, in Precinct 18 in Snyder by 575 to 412, in the Crowder rural precinct by 64 to 57 and in the absentee box 165 to 147.

The Precinct 3 commissioner's race was the only contested local office on the general election ballot. Yoast was seeking his third term as the Precinct 3 commissioner. It was Bartels' first campaign for a public office, although he had served in posts of responsibility for the Republican Party, including county chairman here.

Fate Of Tax Cut Bill Uncertain In Congress

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Democratic-controlled 96th Congress opens its lame-duck session Wednesday uncertain of what it will accomplish. Unclear, too, is the fate of a $39.8 billion tax cut bill endorsed by President-elect Ronald Reagan.

The measure was drafted by the Senate Finance Committee and is supported by both Sen. Russell Long, D-La., the committee chairman, and Sen. Bob Dole, R-Kan., who will assume Long's role in January when Republicans take control of the Senate for the first time since 1954.

Senate Minority Leader Howard Baker of Tennessee, who will become majority leader in January, said Sunday he thinks the bill "will pass the Senate. I think we can move pretty promptly on a tax bill."

But what happens in the House, he added, is another matter.

There, Rep. Al Ullman, D-Ore., the Ways and Means Committee chairman, says he will not move to block the bill following his defeat Tuesday.

But Ullman, whose committee would likely take up the measure, says he also would not want to move any Senate-passed bill forward unless President Carter and the Democratic leadership concurred.

So far, Carter and his economic advisers are sticking with their argument that a tax cut now would be inflationary and should be delayed until next year.

And Carter could still veto any tax cut passed this session. Baker said Sunday he had "grave doubts" the president would sign any tax cut that emerged from the lame-duck session.

The Finance Committee's bill includes about $22 billion in individual tax cuts and nearly $18 billion in cuts for business. The $37 billion tax cut Reagan supports would cut individual tax rates 10 percent a year for three years.

Yet, Reagan said last week, "it would be fine with me" if the Finance Committee bill won speedy approval.

Even before reaching the president's desk, however, any tax cut faces several other obstacles.

House Speaker Thomas P. O'Neill Jr. has said he doubts the lame-duck session will pass any legislation except to a Bell vice president.

appropriations bills needed to keep the government running.

—Expeditionary action on a tax cut could be frustrated on the Senate floor by what one top congressional staff member called a lot of bitter, "wounded tigers," who might prevent passage from being a "neat and speedy process."

—Additional time could be taken up if Democrats, who will also see their House majority cut 33 seats come Jan. 3, try to push through pet projects.

—And the volume of work facing the lame-duck session may be enough in itself, Ullman said, to prevent any consideration of a tax cut.

WASHINGTON (AP) — American workers saw their personal income gains in the second quarter outstripped by prices that increased more than twice as fast, the Commerce Department reported Saturday.

Total personal income during the April-June period, including farm income, rose an average of only 1.1 percent nationwide, as a severe recession gripped the economy and choked off expansion that began in 1975.

At the same time, the department's Bureau of Economic Analysis said its measure of inflation rose 2.6 percent, more than wiping out the income improvement.

The most striking aspect of the report was the pervasiveness of inflation. Income increased in 34 states and in the District of Columbia, but in every case was overcome by the increase in prices.

College Trustees To Meet Tonight

A Christmas schedule and bids on a Western Texas College catalog are on the agenda for a meeting this evening of Scurry County Junior College District Trustees.

Information on the catalog bids will be presented for ratification at the meeting.

Also up for discussion will be a meeting Sunday at Austin in connection with observance of Texas Community College Week, and another meeting scheduled for the night of Nov. 17 at Howard College in Big Spring.

At the meeting in Big Spring, board members and administrators of WTC and Howard College will meet with Larry Shaw, the new state representative-elect to discuss the junior and community college program in the state.

The board will discuss a proposal to open the WTC student center on weekends.

Following action on the regular business agenda, the board is scheduled to go into executive session to consider personnel matters. The board is now accepting applications for the position of President of Western Texas College. Dr. Robert L. Clinton, president of the college since it opened in 1970, has resigned effective next Feb. 1 to accept the position of director of the Texas Community Junior College Association with headquarters in Austin.

No Limit On Imports

WASHINGTON (AP) — The U.S. International Trade Commission decided today that imports of cars and trucks will not be restricted, turning down a plea by American automakers who have blamed foreign competition for record losses and unemployment.

The panel, by a 3-2 margin, rejected claims by U.S. automakers and the United Auto Workers that imports more than any other factor are responsible for the devastating economic problems of American motor companies.

The commission's decision is final and leaves the automakers no recourse, officials said.

Prison Site Decision Due

HOUSTON (AP) — The Texas Department of Corrections Board may end a frustrating 2-year search for a prison farm site today by approving a previously unmentioned tract in Grimes County, a board member says.

The board was to hear from a site selection team during today's meeting in Huntsville. Board member Ruben Montemayor said this weekend the board's choices have, in effect, narrowed to the 6,000 acre site 75 miles northwest of here.

"If it (a recommendation to for the Grimes County tract) comes before the board, we'll pick it," said Montemayor, of San Antonio. "Time is of the essence."

Delivering U.S. Response

WASHINGTON (AP) — Deputy Secretary of State Warren Christopher led a small party of officials to Algiers today to deliver the U.S. response to Iranian demands for the release of the 52 American hostages, the State Department announced.

Department officials said it was highly unlikely that Christopher would meet with Iranian authorities, who have been using Algeria as an intermediary. But they said the United States remains willing to hold face-to-face talks.

"We have a year's story to tell, and if Algeria is to act for us, they have to be fully informed," said one U.S. official who asked not to be identified.

Another Polish Strike Averted

WARSAW, Poland (AP) — The Polish Supreme Court ruled today in favor of the nation's biggest independent union, registering its charter without a disputed clause and averting a "new wave of strikes."

After a session of nearly three hours, presiding judge Witold Formanski said the Warsaw district court had exceeded its authority last month when it added to the charter of the "Solidarity" trade union a phrase asserting the Communist Party's supremacy.

Formanski said the lower court had "no right to either cross out any sections of the charter, nor to add anything."

Under an agreement reached Sunday at a Solidarity meeting, lawyers for the union, which claims as members some 10 million of the country's 18 million workers, prepared an annex to the charter. The annex repeats the legal bases for the union, including international labor conventions, the agreement ending the Gdansk area strikes last August and the Polish constitution.

Solidarity's leaders had threatened to strike Wednesday if the high court rejected their appeal, and union leader Lech Walesa was expected to call off strike preparedness plans at a televised news conference today.

The constitution states the Communist Party's "leading role" in the building of a socialist society. Union leaders claimed the clause added by the lower court implied that the party played the same role in the union's operation, placing its independence in question.

"We accomplished what we set out to accomplish on the 31st of August," Walesa told thousands of cheering supporters when he emerged from the downtown court building.

Veterans Day Set Tuesday

Veterans Day will be observed Tuesday, Nov. 11, as the nation pays tribute to veterans of all wars.

WASHINGTON (NEA) - One of President Carter's top legislative priorities of the past four years was establishment of the Department of Education. That was a top priority of the National Education Association, a union that represents some 2 million teachers nationally and that was one of Carter's earliest and biggest labor supporters in 1976. The union believed that creation of such a department would enhance the importance of education in federal policy making and, incidentally, would enhance the NEA's own importance. Carter was quick to dedicate himself to this goal.

The cost-conscious Congress finally went along with the proposal in July 1979 after being assured by high administration officials that establishment of the department would not increase federal spending and might even save the government money by merging programs and eliminating duplication. Budget Director James McIntyre, for example, advised Congress that the department "will contain no more people and cost no more than is now devoted to educational programs. In fact, 350 to 450 positions will be eliminated saving $15 million to $19 million."

In gratitude to Carter for keeping his campaign pledge, the NEA rallied around the president in the dark early days of his renomination fight against Sen. Edward Kennedy, D-Mass. NEA members eventually made up 20 percent of Carter's delegates to the Democratic Convention.

Interestingly, the smaller American Federation of Teachers backed Kennedy just as strongly as the NEA backed Carter. The AFT had opposed the Education Department for much the same reason that its rival union had supported it - the expectation that its establishment and growth would increase the NEA's political clout.

And grow the Education Department has - at a rate unparalleled in the federal bureaucracy.

In fiscal 1980, it took 6,460 employees to run the federal government's 152 education programs at a cost of $11 billion. The new department already has 7,580 employees and a fiscal 1981 budget of $15.5 billion.

Rather than becoming the streamlined agency that the administration promised, the new department has almost overnight grown top-heavy with high priced officials.

For instance, the department is entitled by law to five assistant secretaries. Yet, it currently has 11 staffers designated as assistant secretaries, receiving the salaries of assistant secretaries and having offices and staffs befitting that exalted, bureaucratic level. The Pentagon is the only other Cabinet-level department with as many assistant secretaries.

Education Secretary Shirley Hufsteler, a former federal judge, has an interesting rationale for naming six more assistant secretaries than the law allows. She points out that the enabling legislation permits the appointment of four additional "executives, (who) shall perform such functions as the secretary prescribes." Mrs. Hufsteler says she has given these executives the "title" of assistant secretary because of the importance of the programs they oversee. It is added that the remaining two "assistant secretaries" have also been given that title because of the programs they administer.

A department spokesman argues that all six are "name only" but acknowledges that they are paid and their offices are staffed at the assistant-secretary level. As for the department's 1981 budget, its officials say that inflation forced that $4 billion increase in federal education spending. While the cost of living was increasing at about 13 percent, however, the education budget was increasing by more than 30 percent.

That may have come as bad news to those seeking to reduce federal spending. But it no doubt came as god news to the NEA, whose long-range goal is to boost the federal government's share of total public-education costs from the current 5 percent to a full one-third. By the way, another NEA goal is to require that a school district agree to bargain collectively with its teachers and their union before it is eligible to receive those federal funds.

If the former goal is achieved, the Education Department would control as many federal dollars as the massive Department of Health and Human Services, as HEW minus education is now known. And if the latter goal is achieved as well, the National Education Association would become one of the most powerful labor unions in the land.

Patience and fortitude are necessary this coming year because your timetable for success could be slightly delayed. You will wind up victorious in the long run, even though it may take a trifle longer than you thought. SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Normally you're very good at keeping secrets, but there is a strong possibility today that you may talk too much about things which you shouldn't to the wrong people. Romance, travel, luck, resources, possible pitfalls and careers for the coming months are all discussed in your Astro-Graph which begins with your birthday. Mail $1 for each to Astro-Graph, Box 489, Radio City Station, N.Y. 10019. Be sure to specify birth date.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Be careful today of involvements with friends in business or financial areas. Unless all parties are exceedingly fair, a rift could result.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) It may not be as easy for you to achieve an important goal today as you first thought. The trouble could stem from the way you personally handle things. AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) This is one of those days where you could make things far harder for yourself than they should be. Have a definite game plan before acting.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Be prepared for some unexpected complications today regarding an involvement which thus far has been running smoothly. If you keep your cool it will all work out.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Be wary of taking your luck for granted where your career is concerned today. Dame Fortune is a little tricky. She might slip you a zinger.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Be sure that you have the experience and capabilities before assuming new responsibilities today. Something which appears easy could prove to be anything but that.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) This is not a good day to take gambles on things where you are not too sure you have complete information. Be patient. Wait until all the facts are in.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Making important decisions under pressure is not something you're likely to do too well today. Plead for time instead of yielding impulsively.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Persons who will be working by your side will sorely resent it if you behave arrogantly today. Poor behavior could destroy an association.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Take pains to be exceptionally prudent today in situations which affect your resources. Past gains could be negated through foolish actions.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Make no demands of family members today which you wouldn't want them to make of you. Your customary fairness is a bit questionable.

long trip back

It took the United States about half a century to get into the mess it is in, and the mess is such that many already have given up hope the country ever will get out of it.

But now comes a refreshing voice of optimism that indicates America is making a turn for the better. However, says that voice, it may take 50 years to get back to first base.

We are referring to the debilitating (to nations) trend of a people's looking to government for support and guidance, of a decline in productivity and the demise of the work ethic.

In College Station there dwells a man who speaks with the voice of experience and many years of observation. He is Fred J. Benson, retired deputy chancellor for engineering of Texas A&M Research Foundation. He believes that Americans are now returning to a more disciplined philosophy and less dependence on government.

Benson said recently in a lecture that he predicts the role of government will decrease over the next 50 years. He added, "It is my hope the change will come through evolution and not revolution. However, I do not think that the possibility of revolution can be completely ruled out."

He based his analysis on four attitude changes he has seen during his career; the demise of the work ethic and "the mistaken ideas that the good life, free from responsibilities, is good for our children;" desire for complete security in all aspects of daily life; substantial loss in respect for morals, standards, manners and the rights of others; and the tendency to "give up our freedoms and transfer our responsibilities to government at all levels."

These attitude changes, he said, have led to national errors, of which four became paramount: (1) Rapid dissolution of the U.S. armed forces after World War II. (2) Engaging in the Korean and Vietnamese Wars in the political rather than the professional military tradition. (3) Proliferation of federal laws, programs and agencies with the consequent costs and problems associated with them, caused by the decline of the work effort and pursuit of security. (4) "Our tendency in government to forget the old systems on which the nation is very dependent as we pursue the exotic systems of future that may never be."

Some trends that could modify the outlook with a beneficial influence, Benson said, are less permissive child rearing, a change in attitude toward work from that of the 1960s, and better productivity.

He continued that he had observed there was a turn-around back to a willingness to work, and to work hard, in the young people who were going through college in the 1970s, and "this has carried over." He pointed out that part of the turn-around was because of economic necessity, that inflation has made the two- or three-worker family the rule rather than the exception.

His optimistic hope for the nation was projected in these words: "As time goes on the productivity of our work force will continue to rise as young workers increase in efficiency and replace those in managerial positions who held forth during the productivity decline of the 1950-80 period. On the whole I am optimistic about the work force's productivity in the next two decades. Everybody, however, needs to do a better job in devising reward systems which recognize the real producer and the hard worker." And everyone would do well, too, to digest thoroughly the words this man has spoken.

The paper is so full of depressing news these days that some mornings I don't want to get out of bed.

I don't know about the world situation, but if I see one more story of a woman who works full-time, bakes her own bread, makes her own coats, works for World Peace, is running for the Senate, carrying a child for a woman unable to have one, teaches metric at nights, washes and irons her aluminum foil and whose hobby is "people," I'm going to be sick.

I feel like I'm back in the '50s again, when every magazine I picked up transported me to another guilt trip.

I have one clipping showing a woman with a freshly baked pie who, according to the story, gets up at 4:30 each morning to start the laundry and begins preparations for the evening meal. Before she leaves for work she makes sure everyone "is in a happy frame of mind." That miracle accomplished, she works all day, arrives home and - here's a Hallelujah Heloise for you - "never walks through the house unless she carries a small bucket of soapy water for wiping up baseboards, window sills and registers."

She sews all the clothes worn by the family, cans and freezes vegetables and (I swear this is true) "is restoring a log cabin behind their home."

Good grief, she makes the Stepford wives look like feminists!

The women of this world don't need depressing stories about women who color-code their leftovers. Give us happy stories about the women who can't shave their legs and get a hot meal in the same week. Tell us about the women who have five weeks of laundry and three rooms of furniture on the bottom step of their two-story houses waiting for someone who is "going-up." Don't make us guilty when our kids send Mother's Day cards to Col. Sanders.

Tell us about the mothers who fall asleep during gum surgery, the mothers who only iron what sees daylight, the mother whose hobby is collecting boxes that say, "Just add water."

I try to get whipped up about these women who only go around once in this life and do it with "all the dusto" they can get, but I just feel anger and frustration.

If I were carrying a small bucket of soapy water down the hall and someone said, "Hey, Mom, you missed a spot," I wouldn't want to be responsible for my actions.

I'm flushing as fast as I can.

Harold Blumenfeld Social Security solutions

By Harold Blumenfeld

Got a problem with Social Security? These solutions to other readers' problems might also help you.

One woman didn't want her husband to know her true age. When they married, she obtained a new driver's license and a new Social Security number with a falsified younger birthdate. Then her husband died.

If she reveals her true age, she is eligible for Social Security benefits. But she is worried that if she tells the truth to Social Security, she might get in trouble with the law.

I checked with my Social Security office and learned that this is a common occurrence.

Even though it is illegal to use false information or documents when applying for a Social Security card, Social Security does have a heart. Actually, that law was enacted to catch criminals trying to establish new identities.

The woman can correct her birthdate by proving her true age with a birth or baptismal certificate or other bona fide documents.

Similarly, if you lied about your age to get your job and now want to correct your Social Security record, go to your Social Security office between January and March. Take along proof of age and your W-2 forms for the previous year.

You have the right to prevent your employer from being contacted about anything pertaining to your Social Security benefits. Just tell your caseworker and your file will be marked "confidential" in big red letters.

Most people can locate copies of their birth certificates. When these aren't available, however, Social Security will accept identical census records. The odds are good that these records will show how old an individual was at the time a census was taken. You can pick up an application for a census-record search at the nearest post office. Send the completed application and a check or money order for $8.50 to Bureau of the Census, Pittsburgh, Kansas 66762.

Of course, you are eligible for Social Security benefits if you have worked long enough in a job covered by Social Security or if you are married to an insured worker. Most jobs are covered, but a few are not.

The work requirements may seem somewhat complicated, but they are clearly explained in the booklet "Your Social Security." You can phone any Social Security office and request that this comprehensive publication be mailed to you free of charge.

Also ask for "A Woman's Guide to Social Security" and "Check Your Social Security Record," which contains a post card for use in requesting a tally of your credits to date.

Here are some important reminders for women: Unfortunately, you don't receive any Social Security credit for that laborious job of being a homemaker. If you worked at a covered job before becoming a full-time homemaker, however, the credits that you earned are still on your record. If you take on another job later, the new credits will be added to the earlier ones.

Since 1979, a divorced woman qualifies for a spouse's benefit after 10 years of marriage instead of 20. But the benefits end if she remarries.

Remarriage won't result in reduced benefits for widows or widowers over 60, however. And a widow can receive Social Security benefits at any age if she is responsible for the care of a child who is disabled or under 18.

If you have questions about other aspects of your Social Security benefits, visit or phone your local Social Security office. You will get quick, courteous and informative answers.

Jesus did not choose his favorite companions - Peter, James and John, for their perfect characters. Jesus knew, however, their deep love for him and their great zeal in serving him, and probably saw many other good qualities. He took the three with him when he raised Jairus' daughter from the dead, they were with him at the Transfiguration; he took them with him when He went to pray in the garden of Gethsemane. Then, coming Jesus with them unto a place called Gethsemane, and saith unto the disciples, Sit ye here, while I go and pray yonder. And he took with him Peter and the two sons of Zebedee. - Matt. 26:36-37

The bazaar will be at 26th and Ave. R and all proceeds will go directly to Snyder's rehab. Mrs. Smith is just one of the many individual donors to the bazaar. Any individual or group wanting to make donations to the bazaar should call 573-2534, or after 6 p.m. 573-2414 or 573-5223.

NUTTY CHRISTMAS—Pine cones and nuts in combination make a beautiful Christmas wreath, as shown by Nina Earles. Mrs. Earles makes the wreaths in several sizes, and is now offering them for sale. For more information, call Mrs. Earles at 573-4408.

Pine Cone Wreaths Brighten Holidays

The family fun of collecting pine cones, seed pods and buckeyes has turned in to a profitable hobby for Snyder's Nina Earles, 4002 Irving. Several years ago, Mrs. Earles saw a magazine picture of a pine cone wreath. Its earthtone colors attracted Mrs. Earles, so she began constructing her own pine cone wreath from the family's collections.

Using a florist styrofoam base, florist wire and picks, Mrs. Earles places the pinecones in strategic points around the base. Then to compliment the various brown hues of the cones, she adds nuts, seed pods and buckeyes. She finishes her wreath with a florist spray to give an overall glossy look.

or six. Or an immediate four spade response may also lead to disaster.

Alan: "They may also get too high if North rebids three diamonds or bids again over four spades."

Oswald: "We did hear of one pair who played four spades and made six. At this table South responded with a direct four spades. West opened his fourth-best club. Dummy's ten was covered by East's queen and ruffed. Then South led the eight of spades which was allowed to hold. Next came the queen of spades. East put up his king and West had to play his ace. Then it didn't matter what East led back. South was going to make the rest of the tricks."

Alan: "I guess East blamed West for the debacle. We blame East. There was no reason for East to hold back his ace of spades the first time."

Alan: "In this hand from the spring charity game, we are showing the bidding and play that we would expect to occur at a good percentage of the 30,000 tables. West will open the unbid suit. South will rise with dummy's queen. East's king will fall to South's ace. South will lead a diamond to dummy in order to discard a losing heart on the ace of clubs and just make his game."

Oswald: "Some South players may respond two spades. If they do, North may well get bullish and go past four to five

Mining Stakes Claim Many Human Lives

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (AP) — West Virginia coal helped fuel the nation's industrial growth, but the rich, dark veins have never been mined without loss of life and limb. More than 20,000 miners have been killed since men first began mining coal in West Virginia, according to the state Department of Mines. Countless more have suffered crippling injuries and contracted disabling diseases. The latest deaths came Friday, when five men were killed as methane gas exploded in Westmoreland Coal Co.'s Ferrell No. 17 mine in Boone County. The force of the explosion blew large cinder blocks 150 feet.

Westmoreland spokesman Steve Anderson said the mine's ventilation system, designed to prevent a buildup of the volatile methane gas, somehow had failed.

United Mine Workers President Sam Church, who flew from Washington, D.C., to join relatives in a silent vigil at the entrance of the mine, told reporters at the scene: "We must mine coal and mine it safely. America's coal cannot and will not be dug at the cost of mine workers' blood."

But history defies Church's statement. Nobody seems to know for sure when the first person died in a West Virginia mine. The first major disaster took place nearly a century ago at Newburg, in the northern part of the state. Thirty-nine men were killed Jan. 21, 1886, when an explosion ripped through the Mountain Brook shaft of the Orrel Coal Co. The blast was the first of some 40 major explosions to be recorded by the Department of Mines.

The nation's worst mining disaster occurred in northern West Virginia, at Monongah, on Dec. 6, 1907. The explosion at the Fairmont Coal Co. killed 361 miners.

Dear Abby

Which Has Final 'Right': Mother or Unborn Child?

By Abigail Van Buren
© 1980 by Universal Press Syndicate

DEAR ABBY: I'm glad you told that woman not to have an abortion regardless of what her husband wanted. But you added, "It's your body." Abby, once a woman has conceived a child, it is not only her body, there is another body to consider, another life — the life of her unborn child.

For a woman to abort her child is murder, and there is just no other way to look at it.

GOD-FEARING CHRISTIAN

DEAR CHRISTIAN: Please read on for another view:

DEAR ABBY: Since so many women and ministers read your column, I would like to present the Biblical view on abortion:

A woman has the right to abort an accidental pregnancy if she so chooses.

The fetus is not a living soul, but a living organism. It is a part of the mother's body — connected by the umbilical cord. The fetus is not a human soul until the umbilical cord is severed and the fetus takes its first breath of air and is able to survive on its own outside its mother's body.

The Bible clearly states: "God breathed into Adam's nostrils the breath of life, and man became a living soul" (Genesis 2:7).

BIBLE STUDENT

DEAR ABBY: Last Halloween eve, our 11-year-old daughter (I'll call her Tina) went trick-or-treating with three girlfriends.

Tina happens to be very tall for her age. One woman answered her door with treats in hand, looked at Tina and said, "Oh, you're too old for trick-or-treating." Then she gave treats to the other girls who were all much shorter, and Tina was turned away empty-handed. She felt so hurt she left her friends and came home in tears.

Abby, tall children — especially girls — are very sensitive about their height. I suppose they should be taught to develop a tougher defense against insulting remarks about their size, but it might help if you published this letter to remind people that today some 11- and 12-year-olds are nearly full-grown. Thank you.

TINA'S MOTHER

DEAR MOTHER: Thanks for a little reminder with a big message.

DEAR ABBY: TICKTOCK TAMMY may get rid of late-night guests who overstay their welcome by having a grandfather clock that chimes every 15 minutes, but it didn't work for me. I have had a chimer and cuckoo clock in my living room for months, and not one guest left because the clocks chimed and cuckooed.

I had the cuckoo clock set one minute later than the grandfather clock, and right after one chimed, the other cuckooed. Some guests remarked on how "funny" it was, but they all stayed until after midnight. Not one person said, "Well, it's getting late, I think we'd better go."

One guest said, "Doesn't that chiming and cuckooing drive you nuts?" I answered, "No, but you'd better go before it drives you nuts!"

Changes Ordered In School Books

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — The State Board of Education voted to spend $29.7 million on textbooks in 1981, but only if some of the publishers make some changes.

The textbook decision culminated a year of study and hearings by the board's textbook committee.

The changes ordered by the board included dropping a classroom discussion of suicide as recommended in a sociology text. Witnesses complained such discussions can be dangerous when the teacher does not know much about students' psychological condition.

A psychology text was approved only with the understanding the publisher will use stronger language to warn of the potential dangers of marijuana use.

The list of five basic reading text series will be supplemented with materials stressing phonics. Critics complained the five series chosen included little phonics-based instruction.

Phonics is a system using a letter-by-letter approach to teaching reading.

Books for three elementary and eight high school subjects were approved with little comment Saturday. They were adopted for six years.

The texts will be used by the more than three million students in Texas public schools. Local districts will choose from the approved lists.

Houston Oil Company Says Bankruptcy Forced

DALLAS (AP) — A Houston oil company contends it was driven to financial ruin by the maneuverings of a California petroleum marketer a summer ago while Americans endured long lines at the gasoline pumps.

Research Fuels Inc., in federal court, alleges it was forced into bankruptcy by bribery, conspiracy, backroom deals and a blatant disregard of federal regulations that controlled the price and flow of gasoline during the critical 1979 shortage fueled by the Iranian crisis.

But the attorney for Oasis Petroleum Corp. of Los Angeles argues the RFI allegations are simply tactics of desperation by the directors of a failed company.

"Their allegations are ridiculous," said Oasis attorney Tariq Kadri in a telephone interview from his Los Angeles office.

The confusing morass of corporate bickering has been dropped in the lap of the federal courts.

Act One of the legal drama began today in the court of U.S. District Judge Robert W. Porter, who scheduled oral arguments on a motion for summary judgment in a suit filed by Oasis against the Department of Energy and RFI.

As Eagles Go Two-Up On Dallas...

NFL Division Races Clearer

by The Associated Press
A sign behind the end zone at the Louisiana Superdome read, "See You Again in January." The Philadelphia Eagles would like nothing better than to comply with that request.

The Eagles, who beat the winless New Orleans Saints 34-21 Sunday behind three touchdown passes from Ron Jaworski to Harold Carmichael, moved a step closer to their divisional title when the New York Giants upset the Dallas Cowboys 38-35.

"We've got a two-game cushion on the Cowboys now," said Jaworski, who finished the day with 21 completions in 32 attempts for 323 yards - one of eight passers to surpass 300 yards for the day.

Philadelphia's 9-1 record is the best in the National Football League and good for a two-game lead over Dallas in the National Conference East. The division crown would be the first step toward a berth in the Super Bowl Jan. 25 in New Orleans.

Elsewhere, the Atlanta Falcons and Oakland Raiders took over sole possession of first place in their respective divisions.

Steve Bartkowski completed 31 of 47 passes for 378 yards in leading the Falcons to a 33-27 overtime triumph over the St. Louis Cardinals. That win, coupled with the Miami Dolphins' 35-14 upset of the Los Angeles Rams, gave the 3 Falcons a one-game lead over the Rams in the NFC West.

The Oakland Raiders, led by rejuvenated quarterback Jim Plunkett, beat the Cincinnati Bengals 28-17 for their fifth consecutive victory. Oakland, 7-3, pulled one game ahead of San Diego in the AFC West when the Chargers were upended by the Denver Broncos 20-13.

The Cleveland Browns moved one-half game ahead of Houston in the AFC Central by edging the Baltimore Colts 28-

27, but the Oilers will have a chance to draw even tonight when they host the New England Patriots in Monday Night Football.

The Pittsburgh Steelers continued their comeback by beating the Tampa Bay Buccaneers 21-21. Pittsburgh, which lost three in a row earlier this season, is now one game back of Cleveland.

The Patriots, meanwhile, lead Buffalo by just one-half game in the AFC East. The Bills pulled out a 31-24 thriller over the New York Jets.

In other games, the Kansas City Chiefs nipped the Seattle Seahawks 31-30, the Minnesota Vikings trounced the Detroit Lions 34-0, the Chicago Bears beat the Washington Redskins 35-21 and the Green Bay Packers defeated the San Francisco 49ers 23-16.

Besides Jaworski, Simms and Bartkowski, other quarterbacks to pass for more than 300 yards were Doug Williams of Tampa Bay, Joe Shiseman of Washington, Jim Hart of St. Louis, Archie Manning of New Orleans and Dan Fouts of San Diego.

Strong burst through the line for a 21-yard touchdown at 4:42 of overtime to give Dallas the victory.

Dolphins 35, Rams 14
Unheralded rookie David Woodley, an eighth-round draft choice, passed for three touchdowns and scrambled for two more as Miami surprised Los Angeles.

Broncos 20, Chargers 13
Larry Brunson's 53-yard kickoff return helped spark Denver, which gave up big yardage to San Diego's Fouts but limited him to just one TD pass. Broncos Coach Red Miller awarded a game ball to his entire defensive unit.

"The key to this game was in our pressuring Fouts and in being able to score ourselves," said Miller, whose club is now 5-5 and hopeful of a playoff berth. "We're still in the hunt. And now we want to stay there."

Broncos 28, Colts 27
Brian Sipe passed for two touchdowns and Charles White ran for two, but after Baltimore's Bert Jones threw two scoring passes in the last 1:27, the margin of victory turned out to be a missed extra point by Baltimore's Steve Mike-Mayer in the second period.

Steelers 24, Bucs 21
Pittsburgh's defense forced two first-quarter turnovers, the Steelers turned them into 10 quick points and the Bucs never caught up. A late interception by safety Donnie Shell iced the victory.

Sitton, Former ACU Great, Dies Sunday

ABILENE (AP)—The death of Chuck Sitton, 24-year-old son of Abilene Christian University football coach Ted Sitton and a former All-America player, was just one of many tragedies to strike the beleaguered team this year.

Sitton died early Sunday of smoke inhalation after he was trapped in a fire that swept through the home of a friend.

Police said Sitton and Scott Huddleston had returned to Huddleston's parents' home early Sunday and were sleeping when the fire broke out in an unoccupied bedroom.

Passersby saw flames and managed to wake Huddleston, who fled from his bedroom out the back door. His parents, who were unharmed, ran out the front door but did not know Sitton was still inside.

Services were scheduled for today at the Highland Church of Christ in Abilene.

On Aug. 17, the day before Abilene Christian's fall practices began, Greg Pratt died at an Abilene hospital after he was suddenly and mysteriously stricken with an unknown illness.

ACU sports information director Garner Roberts said doctors later determined Pratt suffered from sickle cell trait, which caused his blood cells to curve and clog his veins and arteries.

That same night, the mother of offensive coordinator Don Smith died in California.

Later that same week, starting running back Steve Worthey was hospitalized with what Roberts said was an emotion-related illness. He later quit the team and returned to his Lubbock home.

Coach Sitton was hospitalized with ulcers for five days during the most intensive two-day practices, Roberts said, and the entire team has been plagued with injuries.

"There seems to be a higher than average, or more than our share of injuries in football this year," Roberts said. "We've had to play a lot of freshmen this year and that may be reason we've played eight games and only won one."

Sitton was a four-year letterman at ACU and was named to the American Football Coaches Association All-America team as a defensive back in 1977. He also played in the Blue-Gray game that year and helped lead ACU to an NAIA Division I national championship.

He later signed with the Houston Oilers, but a shoulder injury ended his career.

Giants Shock Pokes Despite Dorsett's 183

EAST RUTHERFORD, N.J. (AP)—It was just your routine, run-of-the-mill 38-35 National Football League game. Nothing special, unless you consider that the New York Giants had the 38 and the Dallas Cowboys the 35.

Come to think of it, that's pretty special.

The Giants had not won a game in two months. And they had not beaten the Cowboys since 1974, when Phil Simms, Mike Friede, Larry Heatter and Leon Perry all were in high school.

Simms threw for 351 yards and three touchdowns. Friede caught seven passes for 138 yards. Heatter and Perry gave New York 117 yards on the ground. The Giants needed all those good numbers plus five interceptions to overcome a 183-yard game by Tony Dorsett, who scored two touchdowns for Dallas.

making the ball slippery, the Giants went for the flea flicker. Simms handed off to Perry, who faked an inside run and then pitched back to the quarterback, who fired to Friede.

"I told Leon if he was in doubt, not to pitch it back," said Simms. "I wasn't going to take much chance with it."

Perry pitched, though.

"The conditions were bad but we had gotten it down in practice," the running back said.

For Friede's part, he wasn't surprised at the call.

"Not at all," the rookie said,

"Who would expect it?" Certainly not the Cowboys. Van Pelt positively glowed over the victory. He's one of the few Giants who were around the last time New York beat Dallas.

"It's been a long time," he said. "You tend to forget what it feels like to win, coming into the locker room and enjoying that feeling."

Coach Ray Perkins, always the stoic, took a leisurely puff on his postgame cigar and allowed himself a small smile.

"Somebody," he noted, "lost a lot of money. I know that."

Baylor Cotton Bowl Bound With Victory Over Rice

by The Associated Press
The 1980 version of the Baylor Bears is no freak of football nature like the 1974 Southwest Conference champions.

Baylor Coach Grant Teaff said as much Saturday several hours after his Bears had clinched at least a co-championship with a 42-15 thrashing of Arkansas that could have been much worse.

They can clinch their second Cotton Bowl visit this century by defeating the Rice Owls in Houston Saturday.

"In 1974, we lost three of our first six games. ... Then something sort of electric happened," said Teaff. "This time we've been leading since Day One. We are in charge of our own destiny. This is a much different situation."

"This year's team is no 'Miracle on the Brazos.'"

"Cotton With Character" is what a bumper sticker said which Teaff had in his hand in the press box after the game.

"Cotton Bowl '81—Believe It!" T-Shirts is what the Baylor players wore during the Razorback rout.

Arkansas Coach Lou Holtz believes.

"Baylor undoubtedly will go to the Cotton Bowl and be a great representative," said Holtz.

Texas greatly aided the Bears' cause by defeating Houston 15-13 to give the Baptists, generally regarded as a second division team in preseason analysis, a two-game lead over the field.

In other games Saturday, Texas Christian won its first game of the season by overcoming a 17-point lead to upset Texas Tech 24-17, and Southern Methodist stayed in the bowl spotlight with a 34-14 victory over Rice.

Bowls can sign teams next Saturday, and scouts are hot after the 7-2 Mustangs who travel to Lubbock next week to play Texas Tech.

Conservative Limit Left Up To The Democratic House

WASHINGTON (AP) — With Ronald Reagan poised to take the White House and Republicans relishing control of the Senate, it appears the Democratic majority in the House will decide the extent of conservative influence on the nation's future.

Both sides predict a fairly long honeymoon, perhaps eight to nine months, for Reagan and the House. The chamber is more philosophically conservative than before, and the Democrats' comfortable 117-seat advantage was chopped back to a 51-member edge by the voter rebellion at the polls Tuesday.

Both sides also agree that, with the Senate now under Republican control and its leading liberals on the sidelines, any spats — and any efforts to stymie Reagan's proposals — will come in the House.

But for now, House Democrats are quietly talking of conciliation and implying that all will go fairly well so long as Reagan doesn't cut too deeply into existing social programs.

"There's a lot of good feelings for Ronald Reagan on the Democratic side," said Richard Conlan, staff director of the Democratic Study Group, an organization of House liberals.

Political realism is behind the traditional honeymoon between new presidents and Congress, Conlan suggested.

"They (congressmen) want things to go smoothly," he said. "They get re-elected when things go smoothly. They do not when things do not."

Democratic and Republican leaders, as well as political lobbyists, concede that Reagan's overwhelming triumph means liberal proposals — such as national health insurance, increased public service jobs and new environmental initiatives — likely will move to the back burner.

The new agenda will be highlighted by Reagan's three-year, 30 percent tax-cut plan and his calls for increased military spending, cutbacks in the federal bureaucracy and a balanced budget.

The Democratic emphasis will be on compromise and on defending the social programs on which it has built its political base.

Congressional Republicans say they believe they must strike quickly to show they have answers to the nation's economic ills. New elections are coming up in two years — and there won't be any Reagan coattails at the polls to carry Republicans into office.

Thus, says Rep. Guy Vander Jagt, R-Mich., who headed up the $9 million advertising campaign that helped Republicans take control of the Senate and gain 33 new seats in the House, "We'll be taking the legislative initiative." He worries openly that two years might not be enough time to completely turn the economy around.

Working in Reagan's favor is the fact that the House, with its members up for re-election every two years, is necessarily sensitive to the public's swing to the right.

But there are forces working against Reagan as well. The returning liberals have been tested by fire and survived, one source notes. Another points out that House Speaker Thomas P. O'Neill, an old-line liberal, previously showed skill as majority leader in working compromises out of Republican presidents.

Juveniles Held In Use Of Vehicles

Two juveniles remained in custody this morning on seven counts of unauthorized use of motor vehicles.

Police said the two were arrested early Sunday morning in Big Spring, reportedly while in a vehicle taken from Snyder. Police also said the pair was among those handled by the department last week in connection with the break-ins of the high school and junior high school.

In other weekend reports, Barbara Bryant, 202 Ash, reported her house had been broken into, but nothing appeared to have been taken.

Iran, Iraq Swap Victory Claims

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — Iraq claimed its helicopter gunships set fire to gas installations in besieged Abadan and its tanks killed 74 Iranian troops, while Iran reported its forces destroyed two Iraqi oil terminals on the Persian Gulf and killed 185 enemy troops in Iraqi-occupied territory.

An Iraqi communique said waves of its gunships pounded a natural gas storage center and a gas pipeline in Abadan, the last Iranian stronghold along the Shatt al-Arab estuary at the northern end of the Persian Gulf. It said Iraqi infantry and tanks killed 74 Iranians in ground assaults on the city's northern and eastern gates. The communique acknowledged 11 Iraqis killed.

50 Feared Dead In Slide

MANILA, Philippines (AP) — More than 50 people were feared killed when mud and rocks rolled down a mountain and slammed into a village at the height of Typhoon Betty, a government spokesman said today.

Highways Ministry spokesman Rely Enverga said at least 22 bodies were pulled out from the scene of the disaster in Maliling village of Santa Fe municipality in Nueva Vizcaya Province which he visited to survey damage.

The spokesman said the casualty figures were given to him by a logging concessionaire in the stricken village. There was no immediate confirmation from rescue officials.

Nueva Vizcaya, 100 miles north of Manila, is one of the provinces hardest hit by the typhoon, which struck the main Philippine island of Luzon last Tuesday.

Cowan said McQueen had requested that there be no services, adding he did not know what McQueen's family planned to do with the actor's remains.

Checkups still important

By Lawrence Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I'll be 40 years old next month. Because of the frequency of heart attacks and cancer, I had planned on visiting my doctor for a complete checkup. They say life begins at 40 so I surely don't want mine to end there. Now I have read that the American Cancer Society has changed its mind about annual examinations and thinks that they are not so good after all. Am I just wasting my time and money in getting a checkup?

DEAR READER — I was afraid the American Cancer Society's change in guidelines about evaluations would have exactly that kind of an effect. Actually the ACS still recommends an annual examination for men 40 and over for the early detection of prostate cancer. What they have really recommended is a change in the frequency of some examinations such as a sigmoidoscopy.

Besides, there are many things to evaluate other than just the possibility of cancer. Remember that some of these detailed examinations have been dropped because there is something else to replace them. If you have a stool examination that reveals blood, then you would get a sigmoidoscopy. The stool examination for blood is pretty good in its own right as a screening test. Early detection of high blood pressure and elevated cholesterol levels is important.

Treatment of many findings can result in living longer and better. By correcting some abnormalities, such as high blood pressure, you can indeed decrease the chances you will have a stroke or a heart attack.

The reasons I think regular examinations are important are outlined in The Health Letter number 10-2, Your Valuable Medical Examination, which I am sending you. Others who want this information can send 75 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it to me, in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019. Schedule that examination. Your body deserves treatment as good as most states require for your car.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I was told by two physicians that I have an enlarged heart and was in heart failure. Neither physician elaborated on my condition. Can you enlighten me? Can it be reversed by rest, medication or both?

DEAR READER — There are many causes for an enlarged heart. When heart failure is the cause the fibers that make up the heart chambers have lengthened. That is because they have weakened or "failed." When this occurs there is usually some decrease in breathing capacity and a person may get short of breath with mild exertion. In severe cases shortness of breath may occur at rest from heart failure.

Rest usually is helpful as it rests the heart. Salt restriction is usually indicated and medicines can be given to wash out excess salt from the body helping to rid the body of excess fluid. Also digitalis or related medicines are used to strengthen the contractions of the heart muscle. This often returns it to sufficiently normal function to eliminate symptoms in people with mild heart failure.

DALLAS (AP) — Police say they will ask a grand jury to investigate the death of a 7-month-old girl who was slowly suffocated by an 8-foot python that may have tried to swallow her.

A spokesman from the Dallas County Medical Examiner's office says it may have taken Toni Lynn Duboe as long as five minutes to die from "traumatic asphyxiation" after the pet snake crawled from its 30-gallon aquarium and into her crib.

"It could have been hungry, and probably was," Rose said. Robert Eugene Duboe, the child's father, was "deeply grief-stricken," police said.

"According to police, Duboe told them he was awakened by his wife after she found the infant early Saturday. He said the animal left a trail of blood — apparently from wounds on the child's face — as it crawled to a wooden ledge over the dead girl's crib.

He said he wrestled the snake into another bedroom, shot it with a .25-caliber pistol, then partially severed its head before throwing it back into his daughter's room, where police found it.

Another daughter, 5, who was asleep in the room, was unharmed.

Rose said Duboe told him the snake usually was fed a hamster every two weeks and that it had been about that long since the reticulated python — which was 4 inches in diameter, weighed 7½ pounds and was 2 years old — last ate. Duboe bought it about 18 months earlier.

Pathologists said the baby's head was covered with "dozens" of needle-sized puncture marks. One set of bites was U-shaped, an indication the snake may have tried to swallow the baby, they said.

Neighbors said the python — named Illusion because it changed color as the light changed — was docile and unaggressive.

"He (Duboe) would let it out of the cage sometimes and it would crawl around for a minute or two and then just back into a corner and stay still," said Lonnie Mager, who tried to calm the parents after the child was found. "I didn't ever see it do anything that was aggressive."

Mager said he accompanied Duboe to the apartment and saw the infant.

"The child was bloody, and the snake had two slash marks on the side of its neck," Mager said. "It (the snake) was lying on the floor by the crib and still moving, squirming on the floor, I guess from reflexes. I was sick all day yesterday."

Dr. Bernhard Grizmek, an animal behavior expert, said although pythons normally defend themselves by biting, "constriction is typically used against prey."

Jim Walker, a reptile keeper at the Dallas Zoo, said there have been "documented cases of pythons eating babies."

"That particular species of python has a rather nasty disposition," he said. "When they get hungry, they get pretty voracious and would strike toward a person."

Walker said pythons have hinged lower jaws that can open wide enough for them to swallow small pigs.
