Tax Cut Being Blocked

WASHINGTON (AP) — Lame-duck Democrats in Congress, firing a parting shot at victorious Republicans, are blocking GOP efforts to enact a Ronald Reagan-style tax cut before the president-elect moves into the White House. Democratic leaders decided to call it quits by Dec. 5 after sharply pruning the congressional agenda for the post-election session that began Wednesday. Among the items jettisoned was a proposed $39.8 billion tax reduction for 1981 backed by Reagan and congressional Republicans. "We felt Mr. Reagan ought to have his time at bat," said Sen. Robert C. Byrd, D-W. Va., the outgoing majority leader.

Jeanne Now Tropical Storm

MIAMI (AP) — The cool waters of the Gulf of Mexico turned Hurricane Jeanne into a tropical storm, but forecasters warned the storm-still could whip up tides today that might erode the beaches of Louisiana and Texas. The hurricane center advised small craft from Brownsville, Texas, to Tarpon Springs, Fla., to remain in port. It said marine interests in the Gulf should monitor the storm's progress. Forecasters predicted tides up to two feet above normal along the Louisiana coast and up to four feet above normal along the Texas coast. The rare November storm was moving toward the west at 5 mph, and forecasters here said it probably would lose more strength today.

The SDN Column

Eddie Chiles says he isn't mad anymore. Those who were fed up with the performance of their federal government look with new hope toward the future now. You would think that, since the election was "carried" by a big majority, most people would be happier now that the voting is done.

Not so, however. Voters in many places are unhappy over the way polling places were operated and many, especially in western regions of country, say they feel that they were short-changed because the president was elected before they got a chance to cast their ballots. It makes no difference that their candidate won. They did not like to hear that the race was over before they even got to the voting booth.

This situation, which saw Jimmy Carter conceding before the polls closed on the west coast and some of the networks declaring winners even earlier, may spark some changes in election laws. In the days leading up to election, the television networks and other media were urging voters to participate in the election and fight off apathy. They were being told how important one vote could be. So, it is not surprising that those who learned before they got their ballots that the vote was decisive are a little put out with things. Texas, ever since we can remember, has included in its election laws a provision prohibiting the announcement or publication of returns before the polls close. The idea is to keep anyone from learning how a particular race is going before they vote, which might influence some to jump on a bandwagon. A nation-wide rule for presidential elections might prevent a repeat of this year's dissatisfaction.

But the grumbling about slow voting, insufficient booths and voting machines, arguments between voters and election personnel, etc., present a greater problem. Election supplies, at least wherever we have observed, are distributed on the basis of registration figures, the number of candidates in the various precincts, etc. The more factors indicating a heavy vote, the more ballots and the more machines will be assigned. One of the regional journals the other day suggested that people working in the polling places should be required to go to school for a certain number of hours before they are entrusted with their task, and that various other requirements should be made for their selection.

We were discussing this proposal with Beverly Ainsworth, who as county clerk, issues the voting machines and supplies, and she agreed that it would be ideal—if you could find people willing to do it.

"We don't have people beating on the door wanting to be election judges," said Mrs. Ainsworth. Not only is the $3 per hour pay unattractive, but the surly attitude of some voters and the ever-present threat of nebulous rules that could land even the most conscientious worker in court, are effective deterrents.

So, there must be some changes on all fronts if the situation is to be resolved.

Revenue Sharing Extension Nixed

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House today defeated a move to enact a one-year extension of the federal revenue-sharing program for local governments and debated instead whether to accept a multi-year extension of the entitlements. On a 306-65 vote, the House refused to accept an amendment by Rep. Frank Horton, R-N.Y., that would have extended $4.6 billion worth of revenue-sharing money for local governments, retroactive to Oct. 1. The bill before the House would provide $15.8 billion to pay for the program through 1983.

Supporters said they feared that controversy over at least 15 pending amendments could mean that no final action would be taken before Congress adjourns. Opponents argued that Horton's amendment would still leave uncertainty over the future of the program and give those who wanted to kill the program altogether another chance in the next Congress.

Local government officials contend that failure to extend the program may lead to higher property taxes and curtailed services.

CAIRO, Egypt (AP) — A U.S. Air Force jet transport ferrying equipment to Egypt in the first overseas test of the U.S. Rapid Deployment Force crashed and exploded in a "fireball that lit up the night sky" in the desert near Cairo West Airport, killing 13 Americans aboard, a U.S. Embassy spokesman said today. The spokesman said it was unclear whether the fireball was caused by exploding fuel or weapons carried aboard the aircraft. It was the second fatal crash of a U.S. Air Force plane near Cairo in three months. An F-4 Phantom fighter went down southwest of the Egyptian capital on Aug. 16, killing both American crewman. They were taking part in maneuvers with the Egyptian air force. The four-engine C-141

Starlifter was coming in on the final leg of its approach to the Egyptian military field 20 miles west of Cairo, when it crashed just before midnight Wednesday among barren dunes about four miles north of the runway, the embassy spokesman said. "We don't know the cause," he added. The plane carried six crewmen and seven passengers. The crewmen, from the 62nd Airlift Wing at McChord Air Force Base, near Tacoma, Wash., were identified by base spokesman Master Sgt. Mike Pidding as Bradford B. Hirshi and Patrick A. Welch, both captains; Glenn R. Williams, David L. Harer and Gary T. Payne, all staff sergeants; and Tech Sgt. Ronnie G. Hoye. Their ages and hometowns were not released. The passengers were not

Pledge Walkout In Los Angeles

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Unions representing 10,000 municipal workers, from garbage collectors to police car mechanics, pledged to ignore a court order and walk off their jobs today in a strike that city officials say could pose "serious health hazards." The dispute is over a 1 percent difference between a pay raise granted to one union and the pay raises offered to three other unions.

Congress OKs Alaskan Bill

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House, which for years demanded tough protections for more than 100 million acres of pristine Alaskan wilderness, took one look at the on-rushing Republican hordes and passed a weaker Senate bill. It now goes to the White House and President Carter's expected signature. Wednesday's passage came only six hours after the House convened in an unusual post-election session to wind up the year's business.

The swift action on the historic bill shattered predictions that the lame-duck Democratic Congress, stunned by last week's Republican landslide, would be incapable of acting on anything but housekeeping bills. The measure turns 104 million acres of land — the United States' last frontier — into special federal protective categories, such as national parks and wildlife refuges, to preserve their splendor for future generations.

At the White House, Carter said he was "pleased and gratified."

Air Fares To Rise Sharply

NEW YORK (AP) — The skies are becoming less friendly for passengers flying between the East and West coasts. Fares on the heavily-traveled New York-California routes, which dropped to as low as $198 for a round-trip ticket this summer, will rise to above $500 on Jan. 1, Eastern Airlines said Wednesday. Other carriers are expected to match the sharp increases.

'Becket' Begins Four-Night Run

"Becket" will begin a four-night run at the Western Texas College Fine Arts Theatre at 8 tonight. Tonight's performance is for members of the Fine Arts Association, and association memberships will be available at the door. Tickets for the Friday, Saturday and Monday performances, priced at $2.50 and $1.50, will also be available at the door. Tickets may be reserved by calling the WTC Fine Arts Division office at 573-8511, extension 234, today, Friday or Monday.

"Becket," written by French playwright Jean Anouilh, was first produced in 1959 at the Theatre Montparnasse in Paris. It was performed the following year at the St. James Theatre in New York City, and was subsequently made into a movie. Building the set for "Becket" has presented some unique situations, Jim Rambo, director, says. There is only one background, which becomes a forest, a palace and so forth, by turns. Since "Becket" will be WTC's entry in the American Theatre Festival in Wichita Falls on Nov. 20, the set must also be completely portable so it can travel with the cast to the stage at Midwestern State University.

NEARING COMPLETION—Tod Fritz, head of the stage crew for the WTC production of "Becket," applies finishing touches to the set in preparation for tonight's opening performance. Like other students appearing in the cast, Fritz also doubles on the technical crews.

immediately identified. "It was carrying supplies for the rapid deployment exercise, and that's why there were so few on board," said the spokesman. The Lockheed C-141 can carry 154 troops. The spokesman said the transport had taken off from a base in Europe. But a Navy spokesman in Washington said the crew was from McChord and the plane was assigned to a unit stationed at Travis Air Force Base, outside San Francisco. About 1,400 Army troops and airmen are to take part in a joint training exercise with Egyptian forces which begins

Friday. Called Bright Star, it is the first foreign test of the new American Rapid Deployment Force being trained for use in the Persian Gulf if Western oil supplies from the Arabian peninsula are threatened. The main body of the U.S. force consists of a battalion and supporting units from the Army's 101st Airborne Division based at Fort Campbell, Ky. The operation is designed to provide training in the harsh desert conditions that were a factor in the failure of the attempt in April to rescue the 52 American hostages in Iran.

Q—Was Anita Bryant ever named Miss America and if so when?

A—No. Miss Bryant is possibly the best-known runnerup ever to participate in the Miss America Pageant at Atlantic City, N.J. As Miss Oklahoma in 1958, she was the second runnerup for Miss America honors. Mary Ann Mobley of Mississippi was Miss America that year and the first runnerup was Joanne Lucille MacDonald, Miss Iowa.

Teachers To Hear Clayton

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Speaker Bill Clayton will address a legislative workshop Saturday sponsored by the Texas Classroom Teachers Association. Two hundred teachers are expected to attend.

The association has announced it will seek a teacher pay raise totaling $784 million in the 1981 Legislature.

Iran Parliament Again To Get Hostage Crisis

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — A leader of Iran's revolutionary regime indicated that the hostage crisis will go back to the Iranian Parliament because the U.S. government can't immediately meet some of the terms for release of the 52 captive Americans.

Ayatollah Mohammad Beheshti, the president of Iran's Supreme Court and head of the Islamic Republican Party, Iran's biggest party, said Wednesday the Majlis (Parliament) "would have to meet if one or two of the conditions set by Iran for the liberation of the American detainees cannot be legally fulfilled by the United States."

The Algerian news agency reported from Tehran.

The U.S. response to the Iranian conditions was delivered earlier Wednesday by Algeria, which handles Iran's relations with the United States. The contents were not made public. But U.S. officials said in addition to the pledge of non-interference in Iranian affairs demanded by Iran, it included an explanation of the legal obstacles to speedy fulfillment of the other three conditions.

The other terms, which were announced in October by Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini, the leader of the revolutionary regime, and approved by the Majlis on Nov. 2, are the release of more than $8 billion in frozen Iranian assets in U.S. banks and their foreign subsidiaries, cancellation of all American legal claims against Iran and the return of the fortunes which the late Shah Mohammad Reza Pahlavi and his closest relatives transferred abroad.

An official in Iranian Prime Minister Mohammad Ali Rajai's office in Tehran said a Cabinet meeting was scheduled to discuss the American reply, but he did not know when it would be held.

Tehran Radio had no immediate comment on the American response.

The Algerian news agency reported that the speaker of the Majlis, Hojatoleslam Hashemi Rafsanjani, said Iran had presented its terms and would make no new moves. But a top Algerian official said it remained to be seen whether that would be the reaction of Khomeini and other leaders of the regime.

The U.S. response was delivered to the Algerian government Monday by Deputy Secretary of State Warren Christopher, who flew to Algiers to give the Algerians a detailed explanation of the American position for transmission to the Iranians.

President Carter, after meeting Wednesday with Christopher and Secretary of State Edmund S. Muskie at the White House, told

Recount Fails To Change Outcome

A recount resulted in four votes being added to the total of Charlie Yoast in the Nov. 4 general election for Scurry County Commissioner in Precinct 3, but it fell far short of changing the overall result.

The recount, which had been requested by Yoast after unofficial returns showed that he had been defeated by Bernhard Bartels by a margin of 89 votes, was conducted Wednesday. A hand count of the ballots in Commissioner's Precinct 3 found four votes for Yoast that had not been picked up by the electronic counting device. Two of these were in Box 9 (Ira) and two were in Box 15 (South Snyder). All four of these had not been punched cleanly, leaving the part that should have been punched out dangling, and consequently they did not register on the mechanical counter, it was reported.

This left the margin at 85 votes, with Yoast, the Democratic incumbent, receiving a total of 1,373 and Bartels, the Republican candidate still with 1,458.

The recount was made by Joan Bunch, deputy county clerk; John Boren, local insurance man, and Dalton

Walton of Walton Construction Co. They were appointed by District Judge Wayland G. Holt, who, after receiving Yoast's request for a recount, ordered that the mechanical count be repeated for boxes in Commissioner's Precinct 3, followed by a hand count. Yoast said he asked for a hand count to be certain that the machine count was accurate.

Bartels, the winner in the race, will become the first Republican to hold a county or precinct office in Scurry County.

mesquite's enemy

Man tries extra hard to remain the prince of creatures on this remote space station, sometimes too hard. He's prone to get suspicious of others like him and carry out a program against those whose color or political testimony may offend him.

His efforts to gain immortality may all be in vain, however. There are those of the same species who reason that it's just a matter of time until insects take over the world. They may not be far off the mark. The weapons we use to fight the durable creatures like the mosquitoes, the common house fly, the ants and the grasshoppers work to a degree until such time as the insects build up an immunity to their poison.

Be that as it may, a publication of the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station takes note of the fact that entomologists are now monitoring the performance of a little leaf-eating insect that lives and feeds on honey mesquite, western mesquite and velvet mesquite.

The ring-necked mesquite webber, as it is now being called, is being studied for possible integration into a biological control program.

The gelechild moth's larvae makes webs, usually in the forks of twigs, where they remain when not feeding and where they pupate. The females lay an average of 123 eggs. The larvae averaged eating 6 leaflets during their development.

Native populations are low in the wild, seemingly subject to predation (preying and plundering by other creatures). A total of 4 or 5 generations a year can occur in the field, however, and it may be possible to encourage their proliferation as part of a biological control program of mesquite.

For centuries, the mesquite has been West Texas' more durable plant — able to withstand drought, cold weather, extreme heat or any kind of predator. It has defied man to kill it out and remains one of the hardest flora to kill or even control. It endures and proliferates even when the tumbleweed dies. Those who do try to kill it off find the undertaking expensive and time-consuming.

The question that must be worrying the scientists, however: Would the ring-necked webber develop such a voracious appetite that it would look to other plants which contributes to man's well being?

We have created monsters before we haven't been able to control. At least, the mesquite tolerates our company.

advice is plentiful

If President-elect Ronald Reagan has assurance of anything as he prepares to take office, it is plenty of advice.

News wire reports this week advised that Jerry Falwell, the Virginia evangelist, is standing in the wings with signals to let the new president know which course to take on various issues, and with warnings of dire consequences if Reagan strays from the path marked off by Falwell's "moral majority."

At the same time, it was reported that James Robison, the Fort Worth evangelist, was compiling his own list of cabinet members for Reagan.

Other groups and organizations are advancing their own recommendations, and there have even been reports that Republican Party units are encouraging their members to write Reagan and nominate their candidates for cabinet and other appointive offices in the federal government.

All of these groups and individuals imply one common motive: Each claims to be the deciding factor in the general election and therefore views himself as being entitled to some of the political clout derived from the great victory at the polls.

We would not be so brash as to offer even a suggestion as to details of forming the new government, but we would remind that one of the greatest criticisms of Jimmy Carter was his continual reluctance to make firm decisions on big issues. He had plenty of advice but never could seem to take the ultimate action that is required of a successful leader.

Reagan indicated a tendency in the other direction throughout his campaign. Hopefully, he will come up with a Washington team dedicated to his platform. It would be even better if he could reduce the squad by lopping off the DOE twins—the Department of Energy, and the Department of Education.

Reinhold Aman is a man after my own heart. He believes Americans have grown soft—at the mouth, that is.

Aman laments the fact that modern man has generally lost his capacity for cursing, which is generally known as cursing in these parts.

Aman heads the Maledicta Society, a one-man operation in Waukesha, Wis., aimed at sowing wild oaths, according to the current edition of Newsweek Magazine.

Aman is of the opinion that cursing has grown threadbare, especially in the cities. It is in the cities, however, that violence has grown, so Aman speculates that city-dwellers act out their violence rather than speak it.

The German-born Aman believes Yiddish curses have the greatest baroque splendor. An example is, "May you have a house, and this house have 1,000 rooms, and those rooms have 1,000 beds, and may cholera throw you from bed to bed."

See, that wasn't so bad was it? That curse, while effectively insulting, contained no profanity. Yet, it got its point across, didn't it?

Aman, who has studied cursing at some length, concedes it is an arcane pursuit. His own family, he believes, is ashamed of his work. He also maintains he was denied tenure at the University of Wisconsin because of his exotic speciality.

Aman's research into cursing dates back to the days when he was working on his doctorate in philology (language).

Another example of a good curse, to Aman, is, "May you have three shiploads of gold and it should not be enough to pay for your doctor's bill."

From the American South comes, "Yo' breath is so foul it would knock a buzzard off a manure wagon." (Yes, that's pretty foul, I'd say.)

To Aman let me say this: "May you find a million curses and insults, compile them all into a book, and may the book not make you a penny."

changing attitudes

Before each election I have correctly predicted the outcome in advance — since and including the so-called "Truman surprise" of 1948. Customarily, I have delivered my post-election syndicated newspaper column to editors five days in advance of the election.

I cannot claim any uncanny insight; rather it is because I travel widely each election year and listen to you.

This year, because of the extraordinary "hostage situation," I waited until the day before the election to deliver my sealed "prediction" to the American Broadcasting Co.

While pollsters were saying the election was "too close to call" I was predicting a Reagan win.

In American politics, incumbency is no longer the advantage it once was.

Starting with L.B.J., Americans have begun voting "no" for president.

Americans have begun telling officeholders: "You've had your chance; now let's give somebody else a crack at it."

Historically — in the beginnings of our nation — political office was not intended to be self-perpetuation.

Political office was a one-term public service. Americans would take time out from their professions, their businesses, their farms, and give a few years to public service.

True, some statesmen were called back by their constituents because they had become especially effective spokesmen for a particular region, cause or issue — for example, Henry Clay, Stephen Douglas, Daniel Webster...

But even these accepted reelection reluctantly. It would never have occurred to the Washingtons, the Adamsons or the Jeffersons to fight to stay in office.

Even counting F.D.R.'s several terms, on average, U.S. presidents have served in that office less than five years.

Politics did not become a profession until this century, specifically about 1890.

Now since 1969 it appears Americans are reverting. During the recent campaign there were in evidence many cynical bumper stickers reading: "DON'T RE-ELECT ANYBODY!"

Americans have rediscovered that the political animal is likely to develop an insatiable hunger for fame, prestige, power and money.

While incumbents try fervently to convince the electorate that they are indispensable, each election evidences a further disenchantment with that premise.

And if recent generations of political leaders have been inclined to promote a foreign crisis so that they could urge us, "Don't change horses in midstream..."

That doesn't work any more.

NEW YORK (AP) — The availability and moderate cost of energy, and the willingness and ability to innovate are among the most basic requirements in restoring vitality to the United States economy.

Few knowledgeable critics dispute that assertion, but there exists great disagreement on how to bring it about. The goal is clear, it seems, but the route isn't. And maybe not even the starting line.

Here are three observations on the situation that might bring the starting line into better focus.

—From an address by E.E. David, president of Exxon Research and Engineering Co., former science advisor to the president and former president of the American Association for the Advancement of Science:

"The problems of innovation today are usually documented by statistics on research and development budgets, particularly as a percent of gross national product. The U.S. figure has been stagnant while others have been increasing..."

"Actually, there is a sense of vitality in industrial research and development. Industry's R&D budgets have been rising steadily since 1972, and last year U.S. industry spent a record $24 billion of its own funds on R&D for new technologies for the 80s and beyond..."

"The problem today is not with industrial support levels. The problem is with the declining demand for what R&D produces. The symptoms are clear enough and most of you are familiar with them..."

"One cause is a loss of spirit by the public. There are proliferating fears of risk-taking and unfamiliar technology. These are reinforced by volatile government regulation and by loss of confidence in institutions of all kinds."

"When we are not fearful and uncertain, we are contentions. It is a fact that the United States has four times as many lawyers per capita as West Germany, and 20 times as many as Japan."

—From an article by Prof. Walter D. Fackler, in "Issues & Ideas," a University of Chicago publication:

"No one can peer ahead at the 1980s without seeing energy problems. What can one say except that energy is a disaster area... Witness what we have done."

"For years we controlled the price (and underpriced) natural gas, and thus encouraged overuse and misuse of this premium-fuel while running down our reserves. We even rebuffed the Mexicans when we could have enlarged our long-run supply at bargain prices."

"In response to OPEC we controlled domestic crude oil prices below world levels and subsidized imports on a large scale through an entitlements program.

"We are now decontrolling domestic oil prices gradually, rather than instantaneously, and adding an excess profits tax on production of domestic oil. Gradualism here is simply stupid because it creates large and certain financial incentives to delay production."

"We have made the use of coal expensive and uncertain by environmental restrictions on its recovery and use. I do not say this is a bad thing, but coal suffers from uncertainty as to the future rules of the game."

"We have allowed 'Woodstock economics' to cripple the development of nuclear power. I realize there are legitimate differences of opinion here, but we have allowed ignorance and hysteria to crowd out rational resolution of the issues."

—From an address to the annual meeting of Deloitte Haskins Sells, an accounting firm, by Alan Greenspan, chairman of Townsend-Greenspan & Co., economic consultants, and former chairman of the President's Council of Economic Advisers.

"This year OPEC will be running something in the area of a $100 billion surplus, which means that there's a $100 billion deficit to be financed by somebody."

"You get to the question, can these oil-related balance of payments deficits be

Wood is not a panacea for the nation's energy problems. The Georgia-Pacific Corp., one of the country's largest timber companies, estimates that wood would replace only 10 percent of all current energy sources if all new forest growth was burned every year.

Wood stoves, especially those installed or maintained improperly, can be serious fire hazards. Intensive cultivation and accelerated harvesting of timber land could produce adverse long-term consequences for the country's forests.

But wood can become a significant element in the blend of energy sources. The technology is well established, the cost is relatively low, the resource is renewable and the environmental consequences are minimal.

A well-coordinated effort to promote wood as a source of heat could reduce the country's dependence on imported oil by 2 million barrels per day or more while cutting heating costs in half for many homeowners.

This coming year things which contribute to your basic security will occupy the greatest amount of your time. This is because so many opportunities to better your lifestyle are present.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Give as much attention as possible today to projects you wish to complete. You're a strong finisher and can get things out of the way. Find out more of what lies ahead for you in the year following your birthday by sending for your copy of Astro-Graph, Mail $1 for each to Astro-Graph, Box 489, Radio City Station, N.Y. 10019. Be sure to specify birth date.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) You're apt to be a trifle restless today, physically as well as mentally. Seek the types of activities which busy both your hands and mind.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Progress can be made today on something important to you where your security is concerned. Stick with this matter until it is resolved.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) There's a possibility that you will be a bit more assertive than usual today in advancing your self-interests. Move ahead, but also be tactful.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Success is likely today in situations where you lean on the arm of each of those who help. Neither is apt to move forward unaided by the other.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) You may appear restless today, but in reality you are searching for ideas and won't stay very long in an environment which you deem dull.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Where you are most successful today is when working on humanitarian projects or on things which can benefit a large group. To contribute makes you feel good.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Sound-off your bright ideas on others today. Talking about them and listening to your pals' reactions could help you evaluate them more accurately.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) You possess a sensitivity for your fellow man today. Those with whom you become involved will benefit from your instinctive understanding.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 2) Because your philosophy is to look out for the other guy, you expect the same treatment in return. You'll have little tolerance for those who don't.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) If you are especially productive today it is because you are more in harmony in your thinking and work habits with those with whom you toil.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) You will find something interesting in persons from all walks of life today. It's not likely you'll be bored in anyone's company.

Union E.H. Puts House 'In Order'

"Putting your house in order" was the topic of the Union Extension Homemakers meeting Monday morning in the home of Carol Veazey, hostess.

The program was presented by Blanche Chisum, Scurry County extension agent.

During the business session the group decided to have a pot luck luncheon and gift exchange along with the installation of officers instead of a business meeting in December. Members were urged to bring a guest.

Attending the Monday meeting were Ann Uptugrove, Sue Smith, Kathy Hall, Brenda Lee, Charlotte Greene, Beverly Greene, Virginia Bloom, Janet Spence, Mrs. Chisum and Mrs. Veazey.

The next meeting of Union E. H. will be at 11 a.m. Dec. 8 at Union Community Center.

This charity hand will be played at such contracts as three notrump, four hearts, five diamonds and slams in notrump, hearts and diamonds. It is a hard hand to bid since both North and South have problems at each turn to bid.

We have shown a fairly common sequence getting South to three notrump. If West makes the normal lead of a club, East will take his ace and return the suit. South should then attack diamonds by playing king and ace. When the diamond queen fails to drop South tries to cash out major suit winners. Lo and behold! The jack, 10 of spades drop and the hearts break, so he makes 12 tricks. A six-notrump bidder might also score those same 12 tricks.

If West does not open a club against three notrump, South should make a safety play in diamonds to be sure to keep East out of the lead and will make all 13 tricks.

Six diamond bidders aren't going to fare well against a club lead if they make the normal play of trying to drop the queen. On the other hand, if he is in six diamonds and doesn't get a club lead South will play the king and ace of diamonds as a safety play. Then he will discard his two clubs on good spades and make his slam.

Some may call it sacrilege! Newspapers and magazines are currently carrying advertisements promoting the substitution of pork loin for the traditional Thanksgiving turkey.

The ads cite the ease of preparing and slicing pork loin as well as its nutritional benefits. Pork is also economical—especially when compared with beef. Of course, it is difficult to know how the prices of all meats will be affected by this summer's floods and droughts.

Gay Starrak, director of consumer services for the National Live Stock and Meat Board, notes that pork loin is well suited to today's practice of eating on the run.

"Something in the refrigerator that is easy to slice fits well into our new style of eating," she explains. Pork is considerably leaner today than it was in our grandmothers' time. That's one of the many reasons for its increasing popularity.

Another reason, suggests Miss Starrak, is that the wide variety of pork cuts make it

If you do decide on pork for that big family dinner, here is the National Live Stock and Meat Board's recipe for pork loin:

Season pork loin with salt and pepper. Place fat side up on rack in roasting pan. Insert meat thermometer. Do not add water. Do not cover. Do not baste. Roast in low oven, 300 to 350 degrees, to recommended degree of doneness.

Fruitcake Batter Is Versatile

By Aileen Claire
 NEA Food Editor

Baking and making sweets for the holidays often is a midweek project in many homes; it's difficult to fit so many projects into such a short time.

A versatile batter for holiday baking helps make the most of every minute. From one recipe you can make cake or bar cookies and turn the cake into aged fruitcake by adding brandy. You can make a steamed pudding, too, a good venture if any of the cake should become stale. Double the recipe and make some treats for friends and neighbors to savor.

FRUITCAKE RECIPE VERSATILITY—This delicious fruitcake batter will make your Christmas baking easier. Just mix up this one recipe, then make a fruitcake, cookies and several other "goodies" without all the fuss.

- RAISIN BONANZA BATTER
- 2 cups flour
 - 1 cup sugar
 - 1 tablespoon cornstarch
 - 3 tablespoons cocoa
 - 2 teaspoons baking soda
 - 1 teaspoon salt
 - 1 teaspoon cinnamon
 - 1/2 teaspoon each cloves and nutmeg
 - 1 1/2 cups raisins
 - 1/4 cup chopped walnuts
 - 1 tablespoon grated orange peel (optional)
 - 2 eggs
 - 1 1/2 cups unsweetened applesauce (15-ounce jar)
 - 1/2 cup cooking oil

Sift dry ingredients (9) into large mixing bowl. Blend in raisins, nuts and peel. Add remaining ingredients. Then beat just until smooth. Pour into greased and floured 10-inch bundt or tube pan. Bake in preheated 350-degree oven 30 minutes. Reduce heat to 300 degrees and bake 20 to 25 minutes more, or until cake tests done. Cool in pan 10 minutes. Invert onto cake rack and cool completely. Before cutting, sprinkle with powdered sugar, if desired. This kitchen-tested recipe makes 1 large cake or 10 to 12 servings.

Bar Cookies:

Spread batter in greased 13-by-9-inch cake pan. Bake 20 to 25 minutes. Cool slightly before cutting. This kitchen-tested recipe makes about 3 dozen bars (approximately 2-by-3 inches).

Aged Fruitcake:

Brush surface of warm cake with 2 tablespoons brandy. Wrap in cheesecloth, then in foil. Let stand at room temperature 24 hours. Store in refrigerator or freezer until needed, repeating the brandying process each week, if desired.

Carter Claims Reagan Budget Cut Excessive

By LAWRENCE L. KNUTSON

Associated Press Writer WASHINGTON (AP)—President Carter, hitting anew at the economic policies of his successor, says the only way Ronald Reagan's advisers could find 6 percent of the 1981 federal budget to cut would be to devastate programs to aid the nation's disadvantaged. "It's easy to say you can eliminate 6 percent, but you can't eliminate 6 percent of veterans' benefits, 6 percent of Social Security payments, 6 percent of defense capability," Carter said Wednesday during a surprise appearance in the White House press room.

"If you talk about 6 percent of the total, you are talking about 35 to 40 percent of things that can be cut and that's an extraordinary reduction on things like Head Start. "So I doubt the accuracy of that figure," he declared. Head Start provides services for low-income preschool children and money for research and demonstration projects. The Carter administration has requested $825 million for the child-development program in 1981, an increase of $90 million over 1980. Edwin Meese III, head of Reagan's transition team, said earlier Wednesday the president-elect's advisers have drawn a list of possible government cutbacks totaling almost 6 percent of the 1981 budget. Meese said a spending-control task force drew up the list so that Reagan could fulfill a campaign pledge to cut the budget by 2 percent.

Reagan will "sift and choose from among the recommendations... and then we'll announce what revisions he feels are necessary in the budget to accomplish a 2 percent reduction," Meese said. The areas where the cuts would be made were not disclosed, although Reagan has indicated the defense budget would not be cut. Democrats on the House Budget Committee challenged Reagan to honor his promise of a 2 percent cut by voting

Tuesday to set a budget ceiling that would force the president-elect to slash spending by $17 billion, or about 2.5 percent, from the current budget drafted by the committee's staff.

A budget reduction of 6 percent would equal almost $39 billion, enough to wipe out the entire deficit projected for this fiscal year.

Meese said most of the proposed savings would come from "specific tightening, specific cutting of administrative overhead rather than cutting of whole programs." But he said "some minor programs" may be eliminated altogether. At his impromptu news conference, Carter said a 2 percent overall cut is "within the realm of feasibility," but he added: "Whether it's practical, I don't know." "I think a 6 percent across-the-board cut would be very, very excessive," he said. The outgoing president said he hopes that despite the conservative wave that swept him out of office, Reagan will not abandon compassion for the disadvantaged.

White Says GOP Wins May Help Demos In '82

WASHINGTON (AP)—Democratic National Committee chairman John White says last week's Republican victories may be the biggest help to a comeback for the Democrats in two years down the road.

The former longtime Texas commissioner of agriculture said the Republicans historically have been more successful as an opposition party than as the party in power.

White said President Carter's loss and Democratic losses in the Senate and House largely were caused by a desire to return to safer times than the approaching 1980s. "The '50s weren't that good... but we remember them favorably," White said in an interview. "We face a future that has many unknowns."

He said Carter based his campaign on the reality of the 1980s and the need to face it.

The Republicans ran a comforting, polished campaign that held out the promise of a return to a more certain period, and that may offer the Democrats their best hope for making gains in 1982 congressional elections running against the new party in power, White said.

The Republicans took over the Senate and made substantial gains in the House, although Democrats remain in the majority there.

"They can't govern the way they campaigned," White said. "The country won't go back to the '50s."

He said the GOP takeover of the White House and the congressional gains did not signal the start of a new Republican era.

"I think we've got a chance to reverse this trend but we've got to work at it," White said. "We did well in the gubernatorial races and the statehouse races."

White may have a gubernatorial race of his own to run in 1982 in Texas, but he said he won't know for awhile whether to be a candidate.

"It's too early," he said when asked if the decision had been made yet. "I have not discussed it in depth with enough people to see if there's any real support there."

He said the decision "obviously has to be made in the next few months."

White, 55, was Texas commissioner of agriculture for 26 years before coming to Washington in 1977 to take a post in the Carter administration. Later the same year the president selected him to head the DNC.

Carter Looking Forward To Life Of Ex-President

WASHINGTON (AP) — Jimmy Carter, soft-spoken and subdued after struggling so long to get to the White House and so hard to stay there, says he just wants to "live the life of an ex-president" when he flies south in January.

That means, he says, no more peanut farming and little if any politics.

Instead, the soon-to-be former president said Wednesday he is looking forward to writing, teaching, lecturing, planning a Carter Library in Georgia and becoming "a good fly fisherman."

And unlike Gerald R. Ford, the last man to leave the White House, Carter said he will play "a fairly low-profile role."

After Republican Ronald Reagan's inauguration Jan. 20, Carter said he will return to Plains, Ga., and stay there "for a number of months, maybe longer."

He said he will begin planning his presidential library, possibly in Atlanta, to house the papers and mementoes of his four years as the nation's 39th chief executive. He said he plans to write more than one book, and, asked if there would be any surprises in his memoirs, replied: "I hope so."

He might decide to aid some benevolent or non-profit group, Carter said, but he denied a statement once attributed to him that he might do missionary work.

Carter said he will not go back into the family peanut business, which made him a millionaire before he went to Washington, because "I think it's inappropriate for an ex-president to be involved in the commercial world."

He hedged that a bit, however, explaining: "If my family is starving, I'll have to make some money."

That shouldn't happen. As a former president, Carter will draw a pension of $69,630 a year, in addition to a travel allowance, office expenses, a staff and Secret Service protection for both him and his wife, Rosalynn.

Carter said he has no desire to try to win the presidency back in 1984, and he declined to venture an opinion whether Vice President Walter F. Mondale should run.

He said he did "not necessarily" consider himself head of the Democratic Party that he led to landslide and refused to make any recommendations about the party's future or who the chairman should be.

Carter said he will not be a "minority party critic" out of office.

"I'd like to play a constructive role," he said. "I will reserve the right to speak out on issues that are important to me...I intend to be very helpful to the new president when he's in office."

Reagan Taps Advisors Of Ford, Nixon Staffs

WASHINGTON (AP) — President-elect Ronald Reagan is relying heavily on former officials from the Nixon and Ford administrations to smooth his transition to power.

All five group leaders named Wednesday have links to Richard M. Nixon or Gerald R. Ford or both, as do many of the appointees being announced today for the next level down on the transition staff.

Reagan was also reported to have chosen James Baker, who managed Ford's 1976 campaign, to be chief of staff in the Reagan White House.

But transition director Edwin Meese III, himself often mentioned as a likely prospect for chief of staff, refused comment on the reports by The Washington Star and ABC News.

Baker, a Houston lawyer, managed Vice President-elect George Bush's unsuccessful GOP primary campaign against Reagan this year.

Today's appointees, assigned to work out details of transition at major departments, include an oilman, a steel company executive and a meat industry official, sources said.

Reagan aides emphasized the new appointees are not necessarily potential Cabinet officers or even advocates of Reagan's policies but are assigned to assess programs, budgets and the administrative structure in federal departments and recommend possible changes.

An interim Reagan foreign policy advisory board includes Ford, former Secretary of State Henry Kissinger, former Defense Secretary Donald Rumsfeld and former Treasury Secretary George Shultz.

Meese had his first meeting with Jack Watson, President Carter's transition chief, Wednesday and declared that work so far on the transfer of power shows signs of becoming "one of the most harmonious and efficient transitions in history."

Watson and Meese said they agreed the Carter administration would not try to push through any big policy changes in the final weeks before Reagan's Jan. 20 inauguration. And Meese said neither Reagan nor his aides would try to interfere with Carter policies in the meantime.

Killed Wednesday

VENICE, Calif. (AP) — Sarai Ribicoff, the 23-year-old niece of Sen. Abraham A. Ribicoff, D-Conn., was shot to death outside a restaurant here when two men accosted her and her companion, police said.

Ms. Ribicoff and her male companion, who was not immediately identified, had just left a small French restaurant, Chez Helene, when the shooting occurred about 10 p.m. PST Wednesday, according to Lt. John Zorn of the Los Angeles Police Department's Venice division.

The two men reportedly took a wallet from the man and then shot Ms. Ribicoff in the chest, Zorn said.

The restaurant's chef, Edgar De Leon, found Ms. Ribicoff's body 30 feet from the front door of the restaurant in this seaside community about 15 miles west of Los Angeles. Someone inside the restaurant summoned police, he said.

The Volkswagen was designed in 1930 but very few models of it were built. The factory was heavily damaged during World War II, but at the end of 1945, with British help, German workers produced 1,800 of the cars. About 25 years later, production of the car was up to 10,000 units daily.

Days Of Only 6 or 7 Regional Primaries Forecast By Clements

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Gov. Bill Clements says he can see the day when there may be only six or seven regional presidential primaries in the nation, "instead of the hodge-podge we have now."

Clements said at a news conference Wednesday he will ask the 1981 Legislature for a state law change that would let Texas take part with New Mexico, Arkansas, Oklahoma and Louisiana in a five-state regional primary.

The five states have one-fifth of the electoral votes necessary to elect a U.S. president.

"This will give us a position in the presidential election process that we do not have now," said Clements, who successfully guided the Reagan-Bush campaign in Texas.

"The Northeast and the Eastern seaboard have an unusual effect now with their early primaries," Clements said. "This (regional primary) would bring the candidates into the region early... It would result in better campaigns. The candidates would be more responsive to the region's needs."

He said present plans call for a five-state regional primary in March that would not be connected with any other local or state elections.

The 1980 presidential primaries in Texas were held in connection with the May 4 party primaries involving many local and state contests.

Clements said the governors of Texas' neighboring states had been contacted. "With the possible exception of the governor of Arkansas, the others appear favorable to the concept, but we have just started," he said.

Arkansas Gov. Bill Clinton, a Democrat, was defeated in his bid for re-election on Nov. 4 by Republican Frank D. White.

Clements said the regional primary idea had been approved by Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby and Speaker Bill Hobby.

Clements leaves Thursday night for two days of talks in California with President-elect Ronald Reagan's staff. He has a personal talk scheduled for Sunday with Reagan.

"I have no agenda. I have no information what he wants to talk to me about," Clements said. "I am going at his invitation."

He said if he asked for suggestions "you can be sure the Gov. (John) Connally will be on my list for a senior position with the Reagan administration."

Clements also said he planned to re-introduce in the 1981 Legislature a constitutional change to give the governor more budget control over state agencies. It was one of two proposed amendments voted down Nov. 4. Seven others were approved.

"I do not know of anyone who was strongly opposed to that amendment," he said. "Why it got turned down, I don't understand. The only thing I can come up with is the wording on the ballot. I really do not see any need for a major change in the proposition."

Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

Reasonable weight loss

By Lawrence Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I'm 47 years old and weigh 125. I'm 5-feet tall. How many calories can I have a day and still lose 25 pounds in three months? I can't take anything as I have high blood pressure.

DEAR READER — I'm glad you realize that it's not wise to take so-called diet pills or pills that suppress your appetite if you have high blood pressure. Frankly, I don't think they're good for anyone but they're worse for people who have high blood pressure or heart disease.

As a basis for a well-balanced, low-calorie diet of about 1,200 to 1,300 calories a day, you can use The Health Letter number 4-7, Weight Losing Diet which I'm sending you. Others who want this issue can send 75 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it to me, in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

Now if you don't lose sufficient weight on a well-balanced 1,200 to 1,300 calorie a day diet, you probably need to increase your level of physical activity. Since you have high blood pressure, a good choice here would be a good daily walking program. If you can build up to walking a mile three times a day over a period of time that would help. As your physical fitness improves, you might be able to add other exercises.

There is no set rule really that will apply to everyone as to how many calories a person should consume to lose weight. It's an individual matter. I don't approve of losing weight too fast. There can be some problems with that.

There are many health problems you can have if you try to overdo dieting or follow some of the fad diets that are available to the public today. I really prefer for people to learn to eat a well-balanced diet and lose gradually at a rate of about one pound of fat a week.

A lot of the weight loss that people have from fad diets is loss of water and not fat. That's unhealthy and the water weight comes right back because your body needs the water. That's not real body fat loss.

To lose about a pound of body fat a week, you need to have a calorie deficit of about 3,500 calories. That means that you need to reduce your calorie intake 500 calories a day. Review your diet and evaluate what you eat while your weight is stable at the present time. Then try to eliminate enough unnecessary foods such as sweets or fat so that you can eliminate 500 calories.

If you can build your exercise level up enough to use about 200 calories of exercise, you'd only really have to decrease your diet 300 calories a day.

For walking you can use a general yardstick of 50 to 60 calories per mile. If you walked three miles a day, that would be about 150 calories — a little less for someone as small as you are. That means if you would then eliminate 350 calories from your diet as well, you would be decreasing your energy balance by 500 calories a day. This should cause you to lose about one pound of real fat a week as opposed to losing muscles or body water, both of which you need.

Scientists Now Believe...

1 Form Of Cholesterol Beneficial

WASHINGTON (AP) — After years of cautioning that cholesterol is bad for the heart, scientists now say one form apparently is beneficial. And the more the better.

While health experts said Wednesday that a high total cholesterol level in the blood still increases the risk of heart problems, several studies show that a "good" kind of cholesterol is a "good" kind that apparently protects the heart.

The latest evidence of this is a large government-sponsored study that indicates high-density lipoprotein (HDL) cholesterol actually lowers the risk of heart disease.

The study, which looked at the blood fats and lifestyles of about 10,000 people, indicates that risk subsides as levels of this form of cholesterol rise.

Dr. Robert I. Levy, director of the National Heart, Lung and Blood Institute, said the benefits of this form of cholesterol in the body were overshadowed for years by concerns about overall cholesterol content.

"It's embarrassing that HDL was not attended to earlier," Levy told a news briefing. "Now we realize the importance of looking at the different kinds of cholesterol and other blood fats, and determining what they mean."

Levy and other experts noted that the study did not examine what happens if people modify their lives to increase HDL levels. No one knows if purposely boosting HDL will bring any benefits, he added.

"But the same things we have been recommending for years to improve health in other areas — moderate weight, more exercise and stopping smoking — also increase HDL," Levy said. "It seems to be yet another reason to follow a more moderate lifestyle."

Cholesterol is a fatty substance that is made naturally in the body as well as being added by diet. High cholesterol levels are strongly associated with increased heart and blood vessel diseases.

But all cholesterol is not alike. It moves through the blood attached to different types of protein and the body reacts to these combinations — called lipoproteins — in different ways.

The principal form of cholesterol, called low-density lipoprotein cholesterol, is the one mainly associated with increased heart disease. There is 2.5 times more of this type in the body than HDL.

Levy noted that although alcohol consumption is positively associated with higher HDL levels, people should not overdo it. Alcohol is negatively associated with other life-threatening conditions, such as high blood pressure, he added.

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I have been married for 20 years. He leaves me alone a lot, refuses to even try to communicate with me, says he is not affectionate, doesn't really need me, and is his own best company. He states that he needs attention from other women to boost his ego, and he thinks I should develop my own interests to keep myself occupied.

Yet, he insists that he is happy and doesn't want me to leave him. What would you do, Abby?

ROOMMATE

Aloof Husband Needs A Kick in the Ego

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ROOMMATE: I would tell him I am leaving anyway, because in order for me to be happy, I need someone who needs me, enjoys my company and is affectionate. I would state that I do not need a man who requires attention from other women to boost his ego, nor one who thinks I should develop my own interests to keep myself occupied. And since he refuses to communicate with me, I would tell him if he really doesn't want me to leave him permanently, he should communicate with my lawyer, and perhaps we can work it out.

DEAR ABBY: In your confidential to RETIRED AND BORED, you left out one of the great avenues for relief to boredom: Volunteering in schools, especially elementary schools.

As you said, "The older citizen possesses the wisdom and patience of age" — the wonderful qualities schools are looking for. Our children love their voluntary grandmas and grandpas.

In Tacoma, we have a PROJECT RAISE (Retirees Active In Student Education) that welcomes the help of our older citizens. Most schools and school districts have some kind of program or way to use volunteers of all ages. The opportunity is as close as your neighborhood school.

STEVE MONDAU, PRINCIPAL, BRYANT ELEMENTARY SCHOOL, TACOMA, WASH.

DEAR STEVE: Thanks for tipping me off on Tacoma. Readers elsewhere need only to call their local schools and offer their services.

DEAR ABBY: I just read the letter from UNHAPPY PATIENT complaining about the lack of privacy she experienced while her dentist was working on her.

Well, I think I can top her. A few years back I was having minor surgery in a doctor's office when a woman friend of his walked in and proceeded to engage him in a spirited conversation which lasted over five minutes.

I wasn't embarrassed, but I did fear for my manhood, as the doctor was performing a vasectomy!

NEARLY NEUTERED IN LONG BEACH

DEAR READERS: Almost everyone remembers where he or she was on Dec. 7, 1941, when the news of Pearl Harbor was first broadcast. If yours is an unusually interesting story, please put it on a postcard and send it to Abby, 132 Lasky Drive, Beverly Hills, Calif. 90212.

(Problems? You'll feel better if you get them off your chest. For a personal reply write to Abby, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Calif. 90069. Please enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope.)

Amtrak Conductor Makes Last Run

BLOOMINGTON, Ill. (AP) — There was a cake shaped like a locomotive and a big sign that said "No More Whistle Stops. Just One Last Toot. Congratulations Harold McGraw."

After 60 years and 6 million miles, the nation's oldest Amtrak conductor made his last run Wednesday.

McGraw, 76, who began his career in the era of steam locomotives, made his farewell Chicago-to-Bloomington run behind a sleek diesel engine that brought him to the same yards where he started in 1920.

"Hate to say goodbye to everybody, but the time has come," McGraw told a crowd of well-wishers. "Railroads are in my blood, but I just didn't want to work another winter. I'm retiring today a happy warrior."

Blind Man Charged In Acid Murder

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Murder charges have been filed against the blind boyfriend of a state employee who was bound, doused with a caustic substance and apparently forced to swallow sulfuric acid.

Co-workers found the victim's nude, acid-burned body face up on the bed of her mobile home after she failed to report to work Monday.

OBITUARIES

Partain Infant

Services are pending for Larry Scott Partain, the six-week old son of Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Partain Jr. of Andrews. The infant died at 10:45 p.m. Wednesday in Lubbock General Hospital. He had been ill since birth.

He is survived by his parents; his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Partain and Mrs. Bob Dillard of Andrews; and also his great grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Omer Partain of Snyder and Mrs. Loretta Voss of Snyder.

Smith Infant

Graveside rites were set for 2 p. m. today at the Ira Cemetery for Audie Smith Jr., four-day-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Audie Smith Sr. of Midland.

The child died Tuesday in Lubbock General Hospital.

The Rev. George Harris was to officiate at the rites, with burial in charge of Bell-Seale Funeral Home.

In addition to the parents, survivors include grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Tom Elam of Snyder.

More than 1,500 persons died in an earthquake in Assam, India, in 1897.

NICKEL and DIME THRIFT IS STILL IN STYLE...

Inflation fighting starts here where one-stop shopping makes every penny count, where customer satisfaction and saving is a tradition of 81 years.

the K mart Story began in 1899...

When Sebastian S. Kresge founded a nickel-and-dime store that never sacrificed quality for price. Because of Kresge's belief that "nickel and dime thrift" is a necessity of life, he reasoned a variety store of low-priced merchandise would fill this need. From this developed the enterprise of hundreds of Kresge stores. In 1962, a new concept evolved with the Kmart discount stores offering easy, one-stop, checkout shopping backed by Kresge's 81-year tradition of integrity, reliability and trust. Everyday savings, product quality, and buying confidence make the big difference today at Kmart where your "satisfaction always" is our foremost concern.

Millions of satisfied shoppers nationwide

In just 18 years, Kmart has opened more than 1600 stores in the United States, Canada, and Puerto Rico, and is still growing. The Kmart idea of dependable-quality products at low, discount prices has generated its success as the fastest growing mass merchandising chain in America. Shopping at Kmart is an adventure in thrift. You'll find almost everything for your family, home and car... over 50 departments... with first-quality items including famous brand-name and Kmart private-label products... all backed by our policy of "satisfaction always" to our Kmart customers. Area Teams Gearing Up AREA—Hermleigh and Borden County wind up their District 2-1A grid seasons this week, both playing the hosts role to prospective opponents.

The Cardinals, 1-7 on the season, entertain Grady tonight while Borden County's Coyotes welcome winless McCaulley on Friday. Both games will be held at 7 p.m.

In other six-man action this weekend, Highland takes on Trent in a battle of the undefeateds for the 2-1A crown.

Ira concluded its season last week with a 6-4 record.

Horns Think Bluebonnet

AUSTIN (AP)—Unless the TCU Horned Frogs upset Texas on Saturday, the Longhorns apparently will accept an invitation to the Bluebonnet Bowl in Houston on Dec. 31.

The Austin American-Statesman reported Thursday that the Bluebonnet Bowl is the only post-season game sending an official to the Texas-TCU game in Fort Worth.

UT officials would not confirm the report.

"For sure, it's (the Bluebonnet Bowl) a possibility," Coach Fred Akers told the newspaper. "But there are no possibilities until we finish the (TCU) game."

Sideline Glances Guesses...

Hermleigh In An Upset!

by Bill McClellan

And they call themselves pros! The National Football League ravaged our pickers once again last week, leaving this prognosticator feeling as sickly as his 13, right, 7 wrong (.650) standing. I missed five of eight on the pros, and with seven more on the card this week, it doesn't look good, friends.

Add to it such collegiate games as Notre Dame at Alabama, Purdue at Michigan, Missouri at Oklahoma and SMU-Tech, and we have the makings of a first class disaster.

This will be the last week of play for the local high school football team, but undaunted (stupidly, that is) we will continue our picks for several more weeks.

For the season, the figure is 138 right, 62 accidents for .690. On with the show...

1. Andrews at Snyder. The Mustangs aren't likely to be stopped, but they may be thinking ahead to their bi-district playoff with Estacado... ANDREWS 24, SNYDER 14.
2. Ector at Pecos. Eagles versus Eagles, but one team has the home-nest advantage. Pick Pecos by 14... PECOS 27, ECTOR 13.
3. Fort Stockton at Lake View. Chiefs hunt buffalo, not Panthers... STOCKTON 28, LAKE VIEW 14.
4. Monahans at Lamesa. Ramsey rumpages again... LOBOES 34, TORS 18.
5. Grady at Hermleigh (Thursday). All week I hinted to my "fellow forecasters" about this one, but most of them laughed me off. Don't say I didn't warn you when... HERMLEIGH 38, GRADY 32.
6. McCaulley at Borden County. The Coyotes wrap up the season with a 6-4 record and plans for an ever better 1981... GAIL 56, MCCAULLEY 18.
7. A&M at Arkansas. I'll give a weak nod in the Razorbacks' direction, but once again I'll remind that A&M and I don't get along at all... HOGS 21, AGGIES 20.
8. Baylor at Rice. Would you let up if the Cotton Bowl were at stake? Neither will Baylor... BEARS 45, OWLS 22.
9. SMU at Texas Tech. Supposedly, the Ponies have already cinched a berth in the Holiday Bowl. Hopefully that won't make them overconfident... SMU 21, TECH 17.
10. Texas at TCU. The Longhorns have but two thoughts, beat TCU this week, then upset Baylor... TEXAS 35, TCU 14.
11. Notre Dame at Alabama. Alabama has the home field. That's just enough... TIDE 17, IRISH 14.
12. Purdue at Michigan. Again the home field advantage. Purdue's Herrmann makes a difference, though... PURDUE 21,

MICHIGAN 14.

13. Missouri at Oklahoma. Still more field advantage. If Oklahoma can hold onto the football, they can play with anybody... HOMA 23, MISSOURI 20.
14. Georgia at Auburn. Are you aware Auburn has knocked off the Bulldogs the last several years? Georgia turns back the lightning bolts... GEORGIA 27, AUBURN 14.
15. Houston at Chicago. Do you ever find yourself cursing Houston's defense? Maybe Chicago will be doing the bad-mouthing this week... OILERS 17, BEARS 16.
16. St. Louis at Dallas. Normally a good upset pick, but the Cowboys can't afford to lose this one and they know it... DALLAS 35, ST. LOUIS 21.
17. Los Angeles at New England. If they didn't have sudden death playoff in the pros, I believe I'd pick a tie on this one. Saints secure one at home... SAINTS 28, RAMS 27.
18. Cleveland at Pittsburgh. Another game no one can afford to lose. I'm betting I'll have some company picking... BROWNS 24, STEELERS 23.
19. Kansas City at San Diego. I'd like to pick Kansas City for sentiment, but better (?) judgement tells me... CHARGERS 32, CHIEFS 18.
20. Baltimore at Detroit. The Colts just missed beating Denver last week, while the Lions were getting slapped hard by Minnesota. Pick this one... BALTIMORE 20, DETROIT 14.

Tigers Hoping To Complete Season With Positive Game

Snyder has hopes of salvaging something out of a disappointing season when the No. 4 ranked Andrews Mustangs come calling at 8 p.m. Friday.

"We're going into the game to beat Andrews," said Coach Mike Jenkins. "It's an important game for our kids, and we have an opportunity...to beat the district champs. We're going to go out there and line up and see what we can do against them."

The Tigers have been besieged by injuries to key starters all season. Youth and a lack of speed has added to the hurt, and of course, the problems of getting a team back on its feet after several consecutive losses. But Jenkins would like to see the Tigers overcome that.

"We'd like to end the season with a positive note. Obviously that's got to help your program for next year."

Beating the talented Mustangs would be an accomplishment. Andrews has already confirmed a bi-district playoff date with Lubbock Estacado, in Andrews, next weekend.

Interestingly, the Mustangs have not overwhelmed most of their opponents this year, but have simply done the job that needed to be done.

"In my mind that's the mark of a championship team," said Jenkins. "They didn't beat Monahans or Pecos by much, and defeated Fort Stockton by a point, 21-20, in the final seconds. They make the plays when they

Tate Could Be Out

AUSTIN (AP)—The Texas Longhorns, already decimated by injuries to running backs, might be without halfback Rodney Tate for the rest of the season.

Tate was to undergo surgery Thursday for a bone infection in his right index finger. The finger was hurt when UT played Texas Tech on Nov. 1.

Tate, a junior from Oklahoma, was a Longhorn starter until the injury. Texas also has lost leading ground gainer A.J. "Jam" Jones to injuries.

The first steamboat passed through the Panama Canal in 1914.

Pipelines... make good neighbors

America has over 220,000 miles of petroleum pipelines carrying crude oil and products to refineries and storage terminals across the United States. Each day, more than 1.5 billion ton/miles of crude oil and products move through this network. These pipelines have a safety record second to none in the transportation industry... and we want you to help us keep it that way.

- Liquids on or a mist above the ground in the area of a pipeline.
- Flames originating from an opening in the ground.
- If you become aware of a pipeline leak...
- LEAVE THE LEAK AREA IMMEDIATELY.
- Avoid driving into vapor clouds.
- Avoid direct contact with the escaping liquids.

When you see signs like those shown above, they tell you that there's a pipeline nearby. If it's underground, you can't see it, of course. But it's there, working quietly to provide energy for you and other consumers throughout this nation.

Some of these signs list the commodity transported in the pipeline, the name of the operator, and a telephone number where the operator's representative can be reached at all times.

Although pipelines have an exceptionally good safety record, once in a while a leak can occur. Indications of a leak might include:

- A strange or unusual odor in the vicinity of a pipeline.
- A hissing or roaring sound (caused by petroleum or product escaping from a pipeline).
- A dense white cloud or fog.
- A spot of dead or discolored vegetation.
- An accumulation of petroleum

Avoid creating sparks or sources of heat which could cause the liquids or vapor to ignite and burn. If you find yourself in a suspected vapor area, do not light a match, start an engine or even switch on an electric light.

Notify the pipeline operator as soon as you reach a safe area. Call collect. Give your name, a description of the leak and its location. If you do not know who the pipeline operator is, call your local fire, police or sheriff's department, or the state police. Advise them of the nature and location of the emergency.

If you see someone digging near a pipeline or doing other construction work... or if you plan to do such work near a pipeline yourself... please call the telephone number shown on the sign and let the pipeline company know so damage can be avoided. It's in your interest... and the nation's.

Tragedy: Armstrong May Never Suit Up Again

DENVER (AP)—He once was among the most feared runners in the National Football League, a darter with breakaway speed who also possessed tackle-busting power in his enormous thighs. A league-leading 1,407-yard rushing performance in 1974 was testimony to that.

But in subsequent seasons, the Otis Armstrong promise was never quite fulfilled. Injuries robbed him of his most productive years, although he did manage to gain 1,008 yards in 1976, and Coach Red Miller's system of rotating backs limited his playing time in later seasons.

Fate dealt Armstrong the cruelest blow on Wednesday, when Denver Bronco physicians advised he should not play football again because of a congenital spinal condition which exposes him to the risk of paralysis.

Armstrong was placed on injured reserve by the Broncos, but the eight-year veteran said he would seek a second medical opinion from his own physicians before deciding whether to retire from the game.

"If they give the same advice as the Bronco doctors,

I don't see how I can play again," said Armstrong. "It would be too risky. I'm prepared to accept their decision."

Armstrong added he was gravely aware of the dangers associated with playing with the spinal condition. One of his closest friends is his former roommate at Purdue, Darryl Stingley, the New England Patriots' wide receiver who was paralyzed in a pre-season game in 1978.

"I spent some time with Darryl at the Super Bowl," said Armstrong. "I had to put his clothes on him, to feed him, to put him to bed. I couldn't believe what that was like. I don't want people to have to take care of me for the rest of my life."

On the other hand, Armstrong says football has been his life for the past 16 years, and he's reluctant to give it up unless he's sure of the diagnosis.

While Armstrong could conceivably have a future with another NFL team, assuming he could pass their physical, his career as a Bronco clearly is over, given the team's medical report.

Broncos General Manager Fred Gehrke informed Armstrong of the team's decision about his playing status on Wednesday. "I told Otis this was a blessing, a warning," said Gehrke. "I told him he had had eight great years, but it was time to hang it up. I said, 'You've been smart, you've saved your money, now it's time to take care of your family.'"

Settles For One-Year Pact...

Rangers Get Zimmer

ARLINGTON—Don Zimmer bravely stepped into one of professional sports' most high-risk jobs Wednesday, managing the troubled Texas Rangers.

And Zimmer, who turns 50 in January, did something he had told his wife 24 hours earlier he wouldn't do—settle for a one-year contract.

Zimmer wasn't even the Rangers' first choice for their 10th manager in 10 years, starting back with Ted Williams in 1970. Not until

New York Yankee Manager Dick Howser said no did Rangers Executive Vice President Eddie Robinson turn to Zimmer.

But with typical aplomb, none of the detractors seemed to matter to the man who was booted out of Boston.

"If we don't play decent I might be at another press conference next year," said Zimmer, who failed to bring Boston a pennant and was fired after four and a half years of trying.

Zimmer was pressed as to why he would take a one-year contract with a team that had finished a failing fourth in the American League West under Pat Corrales.

"When I got fired in Boston, I told my coaches I would not take a managing job in the major leagues with a one-year contract," Zimmer said. "I told my wife when I left for Texas yesterday that I would not go for a one-year contract. "But I told Robinson in his car from the airport that I had enough self-confidence that I thought I would be here more than one year, so I said, 'Do it.'"

Zimmer was asked to restore some discipline to the dissension-riddled Rangers by

"I had breakfast with Eddie Chiles this morning and he told me he wanted me to put up with no nonsense from the players," said Zimmer. "He sounded sincere."

Ranger outfielder Al Oliver called the hiring of Zimmer "a great move."

Lakers Flood Cage Champs

HOUSTON (AP)—The Los Angeles Lakers say Calvin Murphy has a disruptive influence on a basketball game.

The Lakers had a 19 point lead in the third quarter and seemed to be coasting to an easy National Basketball Association victory over the Houston Rockets Wednesday night.

But that was before Murphy ignited a frantic Houston rally that lifted the Rockets to a 107-104 victory.

Murphy scored 19 of his 28 points in the second half and disrupted the rhythm of the

Dusters Face Tough Test Here Tonight

Western Texas' Dusters, 5-0 on the year, face a difficult task tonight at 6 in WTC Gym.

The Dusters entertain highly-touted Henderson County Junior College, a team which reached the finals of the NJCAA National Tournament last year, and which welcomes back a host of players from that group.

"We're looking forward to playing Henderson," said Cushing. "They are a quality ballclub, a good coach and are very well coached. The team is very quick. They have good talent at the post positions and some fine outside shooters. It will be a real challenge for us."

The game is the middle one of a three-game home stand for the Dusters, who lashed Ranger Junior College 70-36 Tuesday and will host Weatherford College on Saturday in the Coliseum. WTC's men also return to action Saturday, playing Angelo State University at 8 in the coliseum.

"I feel like we'll be able to match up with them," Cushing added of the game with Henderson. "It should be a heck of a ballgame."

Brett Picked AL Player Of Year

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP)—It was early May and George Brett was off to a terrible start, barely hitting 240.

"I don't think I'm a 240 hitter," said the Kansas City Royals third baseman, whose lifetime average stood at .310. "I still don't think there's any reason I can't hit close to .329 like last year."

As it turned out, Brett finished 61 percentage points away from .329.

He wound up at .390, the highest total in the major leagues in 39 years. He also led the American League in slugging percentage (.664) and on-base percentage (.461).

In the meantime, he reeled off a 30-game hitting streak, averaged an RBI per game, and captured the interest of baseball fans around the world with his quest to hit .400.

In no surprise, Brett was an overwhelming choice of a nationwide panel of sportscasters and broadcasters as The Associated Press American League Player of the Year.

Brett amassed 488½ votes for AL player of the year honors, compared to 11½ for Reggie Jackson of the New York Yankees and 11 for Cecil Cooper of Milwaukee. Willie Wilson, Brett's teammate, was fourth with nine votes, followed by Baltimore pitcher Steve Stone with three and Kansas City relief ace Dan Quisenberry, with two.

Mike Schmidt, Phillies' third baseman, was earlier named AP Player of the Year for the National League.

Draft Will Begin Today

NEW YORK (AP)—Another draft day, another million dollars.

That could be the slogan of baseball's free agents. Since the first re-entry draft in 1976, 45 free agents have signed contracts worth $1 million or more, topped by the $1 million-a-year deal for three seasons that pitcher Nolan Ryan negotiated with Houston in 1979.

Ryan's record seemed in jeopardy today when slugger Dave Winfield was among the 48 players available for major league baseball's fifth free agent re-entry draft.

A player can be selected by a maximum of 13 teams, plus his former club. Of the 200 players eligible for the draft in the past four years, only one was closed out on the first round—pitcher Dave Goltz who signed with the Los Angeles Dodgers.

Three quarters of the free agents have signed with new clubs. The New York Yankees have spent more than $14 million on their free agent signings, which have included Reggie Jackson, Goose Gosage, Tommy John, Rudy May and Bob Watson.

Winfield, Claudell Washington of the Mets and speedy Ron LeFlore of the Montreal Expos were the best of the 13 outfielders available. Don Sutton of Los Angeles, Tug McGraw of world champion Philadelphia and Dan Spillner of Cleveland topped the list of 15 free agent pitchers. Darrell Porter of Kansas City was the choice among nine catchers. First baseman-designated hitter Rusty Staub of the Texas Rangers and Roy Howell of the Toronto Blue Jays were expected to get strong consideration among the 11 infielders.

Felines Try Cleburne In Regional Tournery

LUBBOCK—Snyder's Felines, 29-1, make their fifth straight appearance here Saturday as the Class 3A and 4A Region 1 Volleyball Tournaments get underway at Coronado High School.

The Felines, ranked No. 1 in Class AAAA, are slated to meet Cleburne at 10 a.m. in the first round of the meet. Earlier, at 9, Graham and Dunbar are to clash. Finals in Class 4A will be held at 1:30 p.m.

In Class 3A, Kermit plays Perryton at 8, with the winner meeting Colorado City (bye) in the finals at 12:30.

Tickets for the tournament are $2 adults and $1 students. Coach Joyce Elrod's girls blazed through the District 2-4A season unscathed before losing to Seminole in a practice game two weeks ago. It was their first and only loss of the season. The Tigers then defeated San Angelo Central in their final warmup game last Thursday, and have met no outside competition for a week now.

"We've had good workouts," said Elrod. "We've had some illness that has taken out one or two of the girls every day, but despite that, we've had some strong workouts. We've been able to work on some of our weak areas. I think this week of workouts was probably what we needed, more than playing somebody else."

Elrod noted she had not seen Cleburne play this season—nor Dunbar or Graham, for that matter.

"I've heard they (Cleburne) are a pretty strong defensive team. They have some hitters and some height, but their defense is probably their strongest asset."

Snyder advanced to regionals in 1974, 76, 77, 78, 79, and 80, and took the state championship in 1978. Elrod's teams have reached the regional tournament six of the eight years she has been varsity volleyball coach.

IRA REVIVAL—Mike Brown will lead revival services at the First Baptist Church in Ira Friday through Sunday. He will be preaching and singing. His wife, Anne, will accompany him in many of the songs. She also plays piano. Services begin at 7 p.m. Friday through Saturday and at 11 a.m. and 6 p.m. Sunday. Rev. Brown pastored the Park Drive Baptist Church in Levelland for three years. Some of his recent revivals include the First Baptist Church, Whiteface; Mackenzie Terrace Baptist Church of Lubbock; and Park View Baptist Church, Littlefield. The Browns were reared in Hamlin. They have three children. Rev. Brown has just returned from a two week evangelistic crusade in Spain with World Evangelism Foundation.

Identity Mistake Leads To Mixup

FAIRFAX, Va. (AP) — "My name is Cathy," said the young woman in the hospital bed. The policeman trying to interview her about the traffic accident that left her face disfigured and killed four other people was stunned.

In a tragic mixup, Cathy had been identified as one of the dead.

For three days, Cathy Storey had been listed at the hospital as Alana Klingebiel. Alana Klingebiel's body had been identified as that of Cathy Storey. Cathy's family had Alana Klingebiel's body cremated.

Cathy was so disfigured in the Sunday morning accident that the Klingebiel family could not tell she was not Alana. And Alana's body was unrecognizable and was misidentified by the Storey family.

The mistake came to light on Tuesday when Fairfax County police officer Timothy Bender went to question the patient, whom he thought was 18-year-old Alana of Falls Church, Va., a Washington, D.C. suburb. The woman had been unconscious since the two-car collision in which four people died and three others were seriously hurt.

"Alana, I'm Officer Bender. I'm here to interview you about the accident you were involved in," said Bender.

But the woman replied, "My name is Cathy."

"Aren't you Alana Klingebiel?"

"My name is Cathy Storey," she said.

A shocked Bender immediately called the Klingebiel family, which confirmed the mistake after arriving at the hospital.

Hijacker C-City Drama Mentally Opens Tonight Disturbed

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina (AP) — A disturbed 21-year-old Uruguayan whose psychiatrist said he wanted to emigrate surrendered early today nearly 19 hours after he hijacked a Uruguayan airliner with 42 other people aboard.

The air force said the young man, Orlando Castro, surrendered at 2:55 a.m. EST. After his uncle, who had been flown in from Uruguay, boarded the plane and convinced him to release the pilot and copilot of the 30-year-old, twin-engine Convair.

Castro released 38 passengers in two lots Wednesday and let two more women passengers and the plane's stewardess go 40 minutes before he gave up. One casualty was reported, 65-year-old Maria Decias de Rodriguez, one of the passengers. Police said she and two companions tried to disarm the hijacker and he shot her, wounding her slightly in the shoulder.

Wait Until Dark, by Frederick Knott, will be on stage at the Colorado City Playhouse beginning tonight. "Wait Until Dark" originally scheduled to open Oct. 23, experienced several production delays, including the hospitalization of Director Porter Richardson due to a car wreck.

Playhouse president Marsha Moore stepped in to replace Richardson as director and announced Monday that with only a two week delay, the cast and crew are ready to offer an evening's entertainment.

"Wait Until Dark" is a suspense filled-mystery drama which involves a young blind woman, Susie, the object of sinister activities conducted by three criminals.

How she matches wits and guile with these sinister characters—and how she ultimately fends off the mysterious scoundrels with only some light but valuable aid from a prying little girl who lives upstairs, makes rousing, chilling and frightening entertainment.

Cast in the role of Susie is Debbie Kelly Roat, the main villain is characterized by Carl Beery Moore.

The menacing character, Mike, is portrayed by George Womack and Jon Millington is portraying the frightful Carino.

Susie's husband, Sam, a photographer, is portrayed by Rev. Monte Jones.

The nosy little girl upstairs is characterized by Daneshu Lusk.

Tommy Baker and Tom Kelly portray two police officers.

The play covers a time period of two days and the action takes place in the blind woman's apartment.

Box office opens at 1 p.m. Tickets sell for $3.50 each and production dates are Nov. 13, 14, 15, 20, 21 and 22.

Voyager Relays Spectacular Saturn Photographs

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — Voyager 1, speeding away to the edge of the solar system after a dramatic rendezvous with Saturn's golden clouds and puzzling rings, has radioed spectacular photographs of the encounter that are making earthbound scientists feel "almost like being there."

Now, the delightful "headache" of explaining a wealth of puzzling new information begins. "We may have to develop a whole new breed of celestial machinations" to account for the newly revealed Saturnian mysteries, said Bradford Smith, head of Voyager's camera team. "It all worked — it all worked beautifully," an exhausted Smith said Wednesday night. "I'm just ecstatic, but I'm too punchy to put it into words. It really is almost like being there." President Carter congratulated the Jet Propulsion Laboratory by telephone for "a superb scientific achievement." And Bruce Murray, the lab's director, said, "We have achieved something that earns the admiration of the world."

Today, the robot spaceship was passing the moons Rhea and Hyperion. It will head for Iapetus on Friday and then leave Saturn's realm. More than 1 billion miles from home, Voyager 1 passed just 77,000 miles from Saturn on Wednesday afternoon, soared past the moons Tethys, Dione, Mimas and Enceladus and then ducked behind the planet.

Voyager reached the climax of its 38-month journey as it cruised beneath Saturn's rings for the closest look ever at the swirling yellow clouds that make up the gassy planet's surface. Beneath a gauzy layer of haze, the clouds show long, ribbon swirls, dark spots and halos where winds and storms buffet the atmosphere. Closeups of the moons now show they consist mostly of water ice with very small rocky cores. Voyager found a canyon 50 miles wide and 500 miles long on Tethys and a gigantic crater covering nearly a fourth of Mimas' face. But the most unusual of Voyager's discoveries is "that braided, kinky ring," said Smith. "That really has to be the straightest thing I've ever seen." As it began its encounter Wednesday, Voyager found two bizarre ringlets in the thin, outer ribbon called the F Ring. They appear to be almost entwined, looping around each other like crude braids. And in at least one spot, there is what looks like a kink or fold in the ringlets. "In this strange world of Saturn's rings, the bizarre has become commonplace," Smith said. Voyager 1 left Cape Canaveral, Fla., on Sept. 5, 1977, soaring past Jupiter in March 1979 on its way to Saturn. After more exploration of Saturn's realm this week, it will head out of the solar system, leaving by 1990, to begin a virtually endless sojourn among the stars.
