

Court To Judge Male-Only Draft Issue

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court today agreed to judge the constitutionality of a male-only military draft.

The court will decide whether the government may require young men to register for possible military service and require them to serve when young women face no such requirements.

Some 4 million men were required to register for the draft last July. If the justices uphold a lower court's ruling — and their decision probably will not be announced until sometime next spring or summer — the government might have to destroy all records of that registration.

If an all-male draft is ruled a form of unconstitutional discrimination, Congress will have to amend the Military Selective Service Act to include women as potential draftees.

A three-judge federal court panel in Philadelphia last July struck down the nation's 31-year-old draft law because it excluded women.

"The principal reason the government proffers for a male-only registration is that it provides military flexibility," the panel said.

"The record here, however, reveals that women do serve a useful role in the military and provide important skills."

"Flexibility is not enhanced but is in fact limited by the complete exclusion of women."

Under a landmark 1976 Supreme Court decision, laws treating men and women differently cannot stand unless they serve "important governmental objectives" and are "substantially related" to achieving such objectives.

Applying that standard of judicial scrutiny, the three-judge panel said the draft law "unconstitutionally discriminates between males and females."

While government lawyers limited their arguments to the validity of draft registration, the three-judge panel's decision struck down the entire Military Selective Service Act, which includes military induction as well as registration.

Military induction has not taken place since 1973. Even if military registration and the draft were upheld, Congress would have to pass a new law to allow for call-ups to resume.

Ironically, the legal challenge that led to the three-judge decision was filed in 1971 as a protest to the Vietnam war, and for years lay dormant.

That all changed last December when President Carter reinstated draft registration in the wake of the Soviet Union's intervention in Afghanistan.

The Carter administration's plan for a July 21 registration of all 19- and 20-year-old men was jeopardized by the Philadelphia panel's ruling. But Supreme Court Justice William J. Brennan granted an emergency request by the government and allowed the registration to be carried out.

Fresh Tremors Close Pompeii

NAPLES, Italy (AP) — Fresh tremors dealt another blow to the ruins of Pompeii today, forcing the ancient excavated city and popular tourist attraction to close indefinitely.

Fourteen tremors jolted southern Italy during the night and early today, but hundreds of earthquake survivors resisted government orders to move.

New cracks appeared in hundreds of buildings and monuments, weakened the foundations of others, and undid earlier repairs in Pompeii. Fausto Zevi, superintendent of archeology in Naples, said:

Pompeii suffered widespread damage when the quake struck eight days ago, killing an estimated 3,000 people in southern Italy. The quake was the first natural disaster to hit Pompeii since excavation began in the 18th century. The bustling ancient Roman city was buried by the eruption of Mount Vesuvius in 79 A.D.

The Vesuvius Observatory and the National Geodynamics Research Council in Naples recorded the new tremors, but there was no immediate report on whether they caused casualties.

One man killed himself rather than leave his dead sons. A dead woman stayed in her shattered cellar seven days, surviving on biscuits and tomato sauce.

Militants Still Have Hostages

The Associated Press

The 52 American hostages have not yet been transferred to the custody of the Iranian government by militants who have been holding them since Nov. 4, 1979. Iran's minister of state for executive affairs was quoted as saying today:

The Tehran daily Ettelaf said Behzad Nabavi told it in an interview. "The hostages have not been handed over by the students."

Nabavi, appointed by Prime Minister Mohammad Ali Rajai to head a government commission dealing with the hostage issue, did not amplify the remark. His comment followed reports last week that the government had taken custody of the hostages.

Meanwhile, CBS television broadcast an interview Sunday with Rajai who said "the hostages are in excellent health and very good shape." CBS correspondent Mike Wallace reported from Tehran that it is not clear who is in control of the hostages or whether they are in the U.S. Embassy compound.

Nabavi made his comment in response to a question on whether the United States has met Iran's four conditions for release of the hostages, the newspaper said.

The militants received approval Nov. 3 from Khomeini to hand over the hostages to the government, which is now negotiating with the United States for release of the captives.

Hashemi Rafsanjani, speaker of the Iranian Parliament, said on Saturday that he did not know where the hostages were. "I didn't even know where they were before," he told a news conference.

The location of the Americans has not been confirmed since the unsuccessful U.S. rescue attempt in April. The captors claimed then that they had scattered the hostages throughout the country to foil any attempt to rescue them from the U.S. Embassy in Tehran.

In California...

Firefighters Working Against Last Of Blazes

SAN BERNARDINO, Calif. (AP) — Homeowners were surveying the wreckage of their burned-out homes, trying to decide whether to rebuild or move away, as firefighters worked against four blazes, the last of 11 fires that scorched Southern California for a week.

Foresters worked feverishly to reseed ground cover, trying to avert the threat of flooding. Officials were worried that the charred, barren ground would not soak up water from overdue winter rains.

And in San Bernardino, police sent out armed patrols to hunt rats that fled into the city from areas hit by the fires. "They're not really dangerous, but they are pests," said Police Lt. Dave Thomas.

The blaze called the Indian fire, still burning out of control in a rugged wilderness area east of Los Angeles, was expected to be contained today, spokesmen for the U.S.

Forest Service said. Three other fires were contained, but still burning. An army of firefighters, which reached 7,100 people at its peak, was being partly demobilized and sent home.

Meanwhile, homeowners were coming back to neighborhoods that looked like they had been bombed. The fires destroyed about 320 homes.

"Usually, people build right in the same place again, but I just don't know this time," said Forest Service spokesman Gene Knight.

"It's still so hard for me to come here," said Mrs. Wayne Woolery, a widow whose home was destroyed. Mrs. Woolery, whose husband died last year, said she'd lived in her San Bernardino house for six years.

"Now I just feel so helpless — so alone," she said.

The disastrous week of fires began last Monday when 100 mph northeasterly Santa Ana

Cabinet Picks To Be Told Later In Week

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Ronald Reagan says he has made some of his Cabinet choices, but the president-elect is keeping up the suspense about who they are. Some of the answers may come late this week.

"I'm not going to report or speculate until we have a crew together and an announcement ready to make," Reagan told reporters Sunday as he returned from an overnight stay for a charity dinner in Palm Springs, Calif.

"We're whittling away," Edwin Meese III, who will become a Cabinet-level counselor to the new president, said Sunday that Reagan "has made definite decisions" and he is in the process of implementing some of those now.

Asked about that as he returned to Los Angeles, Reagan said "Yes, that's right. But I'm not ready to say that we are ready to announce names."

As he left Palm Springs, Reagan said he would spend the first few months of his presidency concentrating on the economy.

Asked if he believed he could improve the economy soon, Reagan replied "I don't know how soon. It took a long time to get in this mess, but we are going to start."

The president-elect planned to continue selecting a Cabinet today, and transition chief Meese said all the choices probably will be announced before Christmas.

Lyn Nofziger, Reagan's press secretary who spent his last day on the job Sunday, said some Cabinet selections may be announced as early as Thursday or Friday.

But Reagan, Meese and Nofziger all were careful not to drop any hints about who the appointees might be.

Asked if there would be a woman in his Cabinet, Reagan said only "Um, let me say

Ambulance Funds On Council Agenda

The Snyder City Council is scheduled to get a request to reconsider its rejection of a subsidy increase for ambulance service at its regular meeting tonight.

The meeting is set for 7 p.m. in the council room at city hall.

The council earlier turned down a request by Kerrie Palmer, operator of Palmer EMS, for a $500 per month increase in the city-county subsidy. Mrs. Palmer has resubmitted the request and asked for a place on tonight's council agenda to discuss the ambulance service.

In other business tonight the council is scheduled to consider bids for cleaning the city's sewage treatment plant, the second reading of an ordinance creating a park and recreation board, and second reading of an ordinance providing for 10-year vesting under the Texas Municipal Retirement System.

The city engineer will present for first reading an ordinance updating the city's flood plain management regulations, and four members are due to be appointed to the city's Planning and Zoning Commission. Terms of Franklin Pruitt, Ross Carroll Jr., James Jones and Mike Graves expire on Jan. 1.

Replating of two acres south of Crockett and Fredonia Sts. will be considered, as presented by Richard Hardin.

Motel Sale Announced

Alladin Huessin, owner of the American Motor Inn here, has announced the sale of the motel to two San Antonio men.

New owners are Dalton Bennett and Ivan Bogess. The sale was effective today.

Huessin and his family purchased the American Motor Inn last April. Huessin said he would be back at the Pizza Inn, which he also owns.

The new owners have been in the motel business for 55 years.

Shooting Case To Grand Jury

A fatal shooting case was scheduled for presentation before a Scurry County grand jury that convened this morning.

Although no formal charges had been filed in the Friday night shooting that left Billy Norris Cobb dead, District Attorney Pete Greene reported he was planning to submit to the grand jury a case against Donnie Durst, 3009 Ave. K. Durst is alleged to have fired the shotgun that killed Cobb at Smith's Cafe about 9:10 p.m. Friday.

Also scheduled for presentation before the grand jury was the arson case involving David Soto Guerra. Guerra, police investigators allege, set fire to his own house at 1303 18th St. following a family argument the night of Nov. 19.

Also going before the grand jury were the theft cases involving David Eugene Jackson, 1004 26th St., Leo Jackson Jr., 511 35th St., and Rogers Ray Wheelus Jr., Rt. 1, Box 377Y. The trio is alleged to have stolen some television sets from Merchants' Motor Lines.

Johnny Wayne Brock, Hermleigh, has been charged with criminal mischief for allegedly destroying a commode at the Snyder Police Department.

Another person whose case was scheduled for presentation before the grand jury is Doyle Edward Denton, no current address available. He is charged with unauthorized use of a motor vehicle for allegedly taking without permission a 1976 Chevrolet from Mrs. S.D. Hays Nov. 11.

Charged with drunken driving is Garland Robert Parks, 3008 Ave. F.

Death Toll About 500

By The Associated Press

With the long Thanksgiving weekend over and holiday travelers mostly back at home, the number of deaths on the nation's highways stood at about 500 today.

By 3 a.m. EST, 489 fatalities had been reported since the beginning of the four-day Thanksgiving weekend.

The National Safety Council had estimated that between 500 and 600 persons would die in traffic accidents over the holiday weekend, which began at 6 p.m. Wednesday and ran until midnight Sunday.

Last year, 466 people died during the Thanksgiving holiday. The worst death toll came in 1968, when 764 people were killed.

Union Extends Deadline

IRVING, Texas (AP) — Union officials and supermarket representatives are taking a breather from negotiations and will resume contract talks on Wednesday, even though the present contract has expired.

Members of the Almagamat Meat Cutters Union here voted to extend their contract deadline 72 hours to give officials time to continue negotiations, a union official said Sunday.

The vote avoided a strike when the contract expired at midnight Sunday.

Reagan In Good Health

WASHINGTON (AP) — Ronald Reagan's personal physician says the 69-year-old president-elect is in excellent health and "quite able to handle stress."

In an interview published Sunday in U.S. News & World Report, Dr. John Reynolds said Reagan had no medical problems during the recent campaign.

Reynolds, a Los Angeles internist, said the most recent complete physical examination he performed on Reagan took place last year in Santa Monica, Calif.

The physician noted that Reagan has a moderate hearing loss, which might make it difficult for him to hear questions at a press conference if there were a lot of background noise.

Other long-term medical conditions include hay fever and a painful thumb on the right hand due to degeneration of the cartilage, according to Reynolds. The physician termed the thumb problem a "normal symptom of aging."

Sen. Percy Returns Home

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Charles Percy, the first top U.S. political figure to meet with Soviet President Leonid Brezhnev in more than a year, returned home Sunday, strongly recommending new arms control talks with the Soviet Union.

Percy, who said in Moscow last week that the SALT II arms limitation treaty with the Soviet Union is "dead as a doornail," arrived at nearby Andrews Air Force Base Sunday evening.

He said he believes the Soviets are ready to begin new arms control talks and added, "There are many things in it (SALT II) that President-elect (Ronald) Reagan agrees with, and let's start on those things."

The SALT II treaty was withdrawn from Senate consideration by President Carter after it appeared that it would face almost-certain defeat because of the Soviet military intervention in Afghanistan. Percy said of the treaty Sunday night that "certainly it cannot be and will not be ratified by the Senate of the United States, even before Afghanistan and particularly after Afghanistan."

WASHINGTON (NEA)- Many of the rumors currently circulating around Washington concern appointments to Ronald Reagan's administration. Here is one of them.

In the lame-duck Senate, the Republicans made plans to filibuster if necessary to block their Democratic colleagues from pushing through legislation unlikely to win approval once the GOP takes over that chamber in January.

Sixty votes are needed to break a filibuster, and the Democrats control only 59 seats in the outgoing Senate. So, they would have to convince one Republican to vote along with them to shut off debate.

Reportedly, the Republican they hoped to win over was Jacob Javits, the retiring liberal from New York. But Javits was then advised by his Republican brethren that standing firm against the Democrats might win him a job in the new administration.

The job: ambassador to the United Nations. Not only would that appointment make Javits very happy, it would also presumably please Israel, New York City and its mayor, Ed Koch.

Ever worry about throwing a party and having no one show up? That almost happened to Treasury Secretary G. William Miller during the recent Washington meeting of the governors of the World Bank.

As the host country, the United States gave a cocktail reception for the governors, their staffs and the World Bank staff at the National Gallery of Art.

Guess what? Of the 137 governors, 20 showed up. They were the governors from Uruguay and the People's Republic of China, which was attending its first meeting since being readmitted to the World Bank last year.

Was the absence of the other governors some kind of political statement? No, say a number of veteran observers of the Washington social scene. It was just that Egypt was hosting another reception at the same time.

Since Iran stopped giving lavish parties after the shah was deposed, Egypt has gained the reputation of Washington host with the most. Meanwhile, the United States has earned a different kind of reputation for specializing in cold chicken wings and potato chips.

So, the choice of parties probably had more to do with caviar and champagne than with international monetary affairs.

The founding fathers thought the Congress should mirror the population. Or, as John Adams put it, "The Congress should be a portrait in miniature of the American people."

To find out how closely this expectation is being met, Americans Demographics magazine recently made these comparisons of the outgoing 96th Congress with the U.S. population:

The United States is 49 percent male; the Congress is 97 percent male.

The nation is 86 percent white; the Congress is 97 percent white.

Thirty-eight percent of the U.S. population is under 39; only 18 percent of the Congress falls into that age group. Those between the ages of 40 and 59 make up 35 percent of the population but a whopping 63 percent of the Congress. And 27 percent of the population is 60 years of age or older.

Just .1 percent of the American people are lawyers; 52 percent of the members of Congress hold law degrees. The typical American earned $13,333 last year; the typical member of Congress earned $60,600.

You may not have noticed a family resemblance, but genealogists insist that Jimmy Carter and Richard Nixon are cousins. Researchers at the Georgia State Historical Society have found that Carter and Nixon are sixth cousins, sharing a common great-great-great-great-great-grandfather.

He was Richard Morris, who lived in New York from 1690 to 1763. After Jan. 20 he may finally be able to rest in peace. Rock-ribbed Jeremiah Denton, the former prisoner of war and new Republican senator from Alabama, has proposed the imposition of capital punishment for the crime of adultery.

Somehow, we don't think this one will get too far in official Washington.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Focus your energies today on issues of consequence. Major achievements are possible, but trifles could get you off the track.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) You absorb and retain knowledge more easily than usual today, especially if it is for helping to enlighten others. Compassion makes you a good student. PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Persons tend to tell you things today which they are reluctant to even discuss with others. Feel flattered that you are deemed so trustworthy.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Your greatest asset today is your ability to see the other fellow's point of view. This insight will dominate your behavior and win you admirers.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Although your desire is to be helpful today, that which you do will have a two-pronged effect and do you as much good as those who are prepared to serve. GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Seek a type of activity today which affords you a pleasant form of exercise. Team sports are the best, but even a brisk walk has its benefits.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Involvements which bring your family together today should turn out to everyone's liking. If nothing is on the agenda, put something impromptu together. LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Projects enabling you to exercise your creativity and imagination should be tackled today. You could surprise even yourself with your abundance of bright ideas.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) In business or financial matters today you are likely to be both logical and intuitive. Combining these forces could help you turn a tidy profit. LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) There is a mystique about you today that will intrigue and fascinate persons with whom you have dealings. The key is your ability to comprehend their moods and temperaments.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Someone you didn't think appreciated a past favor was more grateful than you realized. He could prove it to you today. (NEWSPAPER ENTERPRISE ASSN.)

purpose of treaties

One of the popular myths circulating in political circles is that treaties are, of course, necessary for civilized relations among nations. We can understand a certain desire to have agreements spelled out on a piece of paper with signatures duly affixed. But treaties are sometimes advocated almost as an article of faith, as if treaties could somehow alter reality in a manner more suited to what we would desire. The danger is that some diplomats might suppose that treaties really did change things and act accordingly.

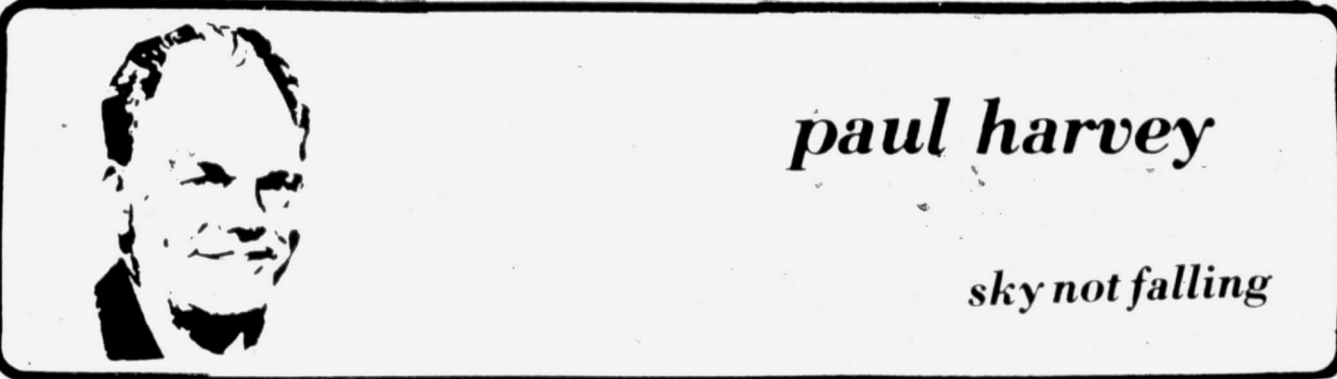

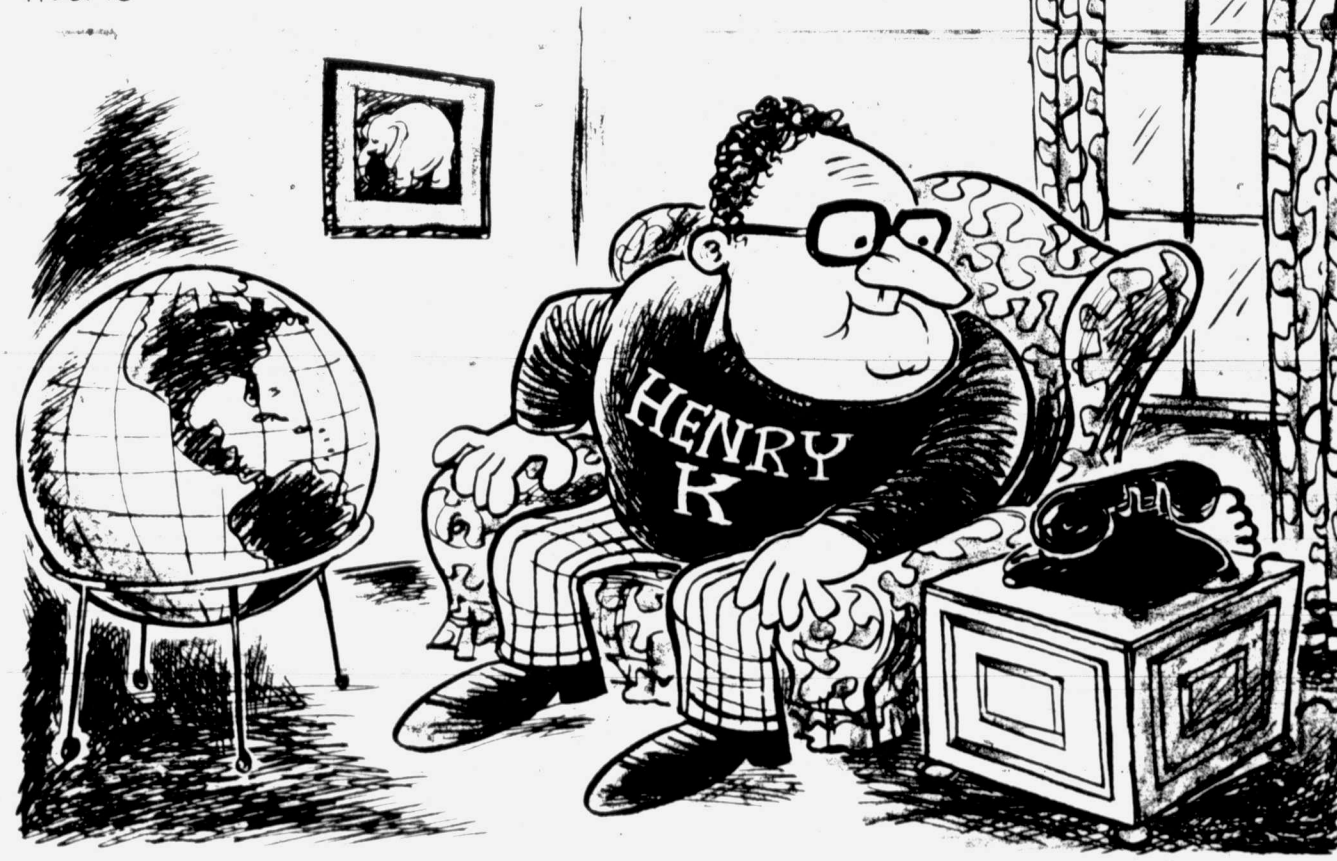

When the question of the SALT II (Strategic Arms Limitation) Treaty was put to the two candidates during the presidential debate, the two expressed different views on that particular treaty, but kept the faith about the treaty-making process. Carter said he'd keep pushing for Senate ratification of SALT II, and implied that anybody who didn't agree with his view must lust after nuclear proliferation. Reagan said that treaty wasn't much good, but if elected he would immediately start working for a SALT III Treaty. Both men spoke as if it were obvious to everybody that some sort of treaty was necessary.

Even while the debate was going on, a conference to set the terms for preparation for beginning to think about reviewing compliance with a previous treaty was being filibustered by the Soviet delegate. The Madrid conference to review the 1975 Helsinki accords, which supposedly set the terms for detente and compliance with human rights principles, was set to begin November 11, but preliminary skirmishes to set the ground rules began September 9. The Soviets, who don't want any serious questioning of their record on protecting human rights, had hoped that a reelected Carter administration might be more pliable than an incoming Reagan administration.

One can understand the Soviets' nervousness. The 35 signatories of the Helsinki accords agreed to respect certain "fundamental freedoms." Proponents of the treaty had claimed that this would give the West an opportunity to measure Soviet treatment of dissidents, an advantage that supposedly outweighed the disadvantage, pointed out by critics, that it gave treaty recognition to Soviet domination of Eastern Europe. The Soviets have violated almost every treaty they ever signed. In this they are more blatant than most nations, but not unique. If government leaders in a country that has signed a treaty decide that their interests demand violation of the treaty, the treaty is not going to stop them. Nations act in what their government rulers decide is their best interests. If they abide by treaties, it is because the treaties reflect reality and mirror their present perception of their interests—not because they feel bound by a signature on a scrap of paper.

If both sides want to reduce nuclear build-up, they will. A new treaty can only ratify a willingness that's already there, not create one out of thin air. The negotiating process may serve as a means to facilitate mutual reductions. But the treaty itself will only be an incidental feature of a pre-existing condition. It may have symbolic value as a symbol, but it's certainly not an essential element of arms reduction. The importance politicians place on such treaties, both pro and con, may be vastly overdone.

sky not falling

Do you remember when in late July a longtime Michigan autoworker held several people hostage at gunpoint for several hours? Did you hear what the psychiatrists finally concluded?

William Waterman felt that the people he worked with "were against him"; indeed that "all society was against him."

Now, we know there is a very fine line of distinction between rational and irrational fear.

And some of the overwrought ecologists who are chewing their fingernails up past the second knuckle worrying about "the sky falling down" are themselves borderline nutsy.

A lot of Americans have been infected with a germ of truth that's "festering." The burning of fossil fuels does generate carbon dioxide. Generating synthetic fuels releases into the atmosphere even more carbon dioxide.

Since pre-industrial times, the amount of carbon dioxide in the air has increased measurably by as much as 17 percent. It is still less than 1 percent of atmospheric gases.

Yet, among some, anxiety over carbon dioxide is escalating past the point of reason.

Theoretically, more carbon dioxide in the earth's atmosphere will create a "greenhouse effect," ultimately trapping the sun's heat and raising temperatures on earth.

The effect of temperature change by a few degrees could snafu farming and fishing and, scariest of all, the predictions are that it might melt polar ice and drown us all!

David Slade of the U.S. Energy Department compares this prospect to "nuclear war." MIT Professor David Rose calls it "an international problem of enormous dimensions."

Most other countries think America's environmentalists have gone bananas. Wearing by the constant stream of alarms they hear from every scientist who wants to see his grant renewed or his name in print, most foreign observers are more amused than anxious.

Farmers, the world over, welcome any increased carbon dioxide in the atmosphere. Crops and trees love to breathe carbon dioxide and would thrive on more of it.

Agriculture is accustomed to adapting to climatic changes and is not going to be panicked by speculative uncertainty.

If the world wants to counteract any increase in carbon dioxide it has only to plant more trees, more crops, vegetation as well as oceans are natural reservoirs for containing carbon dioxide, for locking it away from the atmosphere. Perhaps that would be a good idea for aesthetic reasons as well. Developed nations have indeed cleared more trees than they've replanted. If anxiety about balancing carbon dioxide in the atmosphere should motivate us to reverse this willful erosion, good! But the more ominous imbalance is not biological, it is psychological. We must all make a conscious effort to maintain emotional balance so that unreasonable anxieties will not motivate us to do — or to undo — unwisely. The sky will fall down only on the unstable.

Lifestyles Reflected In Today's Greeting Cards

WASHINGTON (AP) — Three years ago Santa virtually quit the tennis court to straddle a moped for delivery of his Christmas gifts. This year, the jolly emissary from the North Pole has not only returned to tennis, but he's swinging fiveirons and burning up the road runner's circuit.

That, in brief, is an overview of one phase of trends in this year's Christmas greeting cards. Lest anyone think of Santa solely as a sports buff, he has also taken to digital computers and satellite communications. Inevitably, the message he transmits is one of "Season's Greetings."

These are among the findings of a survey by the National Association of Greeting Card Publishers, a 55-member association of the major greeting card publishers in the United States, with headquarters in Washington, D.C. NEW YORK (AP) — Gavin Brackenridge is talking a lot about games this Christmas, but he isn't playing games. He is promoting them.

He earns 60 cents for every "Fortune 500" game sold at retail, and more on sales to schools and companies. And for having their names on his game board, 20 blue chip companies have paid him $30,000 each.

That probably isn't half the story, for this isn't so much the tale of a game about business as it is a story of entrepreneurship.

It begins at least four years ago with distribution in France of "Business," a board and dice game devised by Richard Fenwick, like Brackenridge, a 1969 graduate of the Wharton School of Finance.

"Business" was aptly named, since it attempted to create many of the situations faced by the chiefs of major corporations: Prime rate increases, strikes, inflation, acquisition opportunities et al.

"You forge empires and face all the challenges and dilemmas along the way — unfriendly takeover bids, collapse of credit sources, a squeeze from the cartel that controls your natural resources.

"There are strikes to contend with, natural disasters, changes in government regulations, stock offerings, ad campaigns. It's everything business really is."

"Business" sold 250,000 copies in France alone before Fenwick and Brackenridge, a real estate adviser to major corporations decided to take it to the U.S. market under the auspices of Editions Fenwick Inc.

As in the game, problems arose. The two young businessmen sought to call the American edition "Fortune," but found the name already copyrighted by another game company. They selected "Fortune 500." For what Brackenridge describes as "a very small royalty," Time Inc. agreed to the use of the name, one reason being, Brackenridge suggests, that young players might someday subscribe to Fortune Magazine.

In the spirit of nothing is impossible, Brackenridge then suggested to some of the biggest U.S. companies that they pay $30,000 each to have their names and logotypes enscenched on the game's 4-inch panels.

Some, he relates, didn't even bother to answer, and he imagines their chuckles about his audacious suggestion. Others, however, seized the opportunity, seeing it as a unique new advertising medium.

Alcoa, Chase Bank, Southern Pacific, Mobil, Pan American, Aetna Life & Casualty and others signed and put up their $30,000. "We took in $600,000 before we ever sold a game in the United States," he says.

In the same spirit, some of the companies decided to exploit their new and monopolistic (one ad agency, one insurer etc.) position on what Brackenridge says is bound to be the greatest business game ever.

H.J. Heinz Co. mentioned "Fortune 500" in its magazine and sold 675 games. W.R. Grace & Co. enclosed a flyer with its Dec. 14 dividend check to 50,000 shareholders offering the game at half the $20 price.

Some 45,000 games have been sold in the United States so far, but they represent but a fraction of the six and seven-digit numbers to which Brackenridge aspires.

J. Clements, V. Kimbro Win Championship

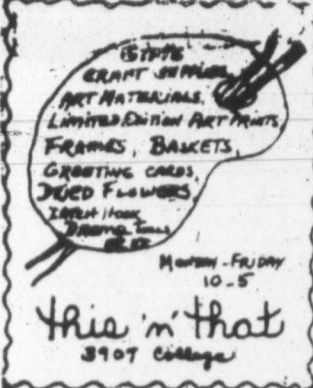

Jeanette Clements and Verdi Kimbro won first place in the Snyder Duplicate Bridge Club championship games Sunday at the Snyder Country Club.

Playing Howell movement directed by Frances Furlow, second place went to Selma Landau and Nina Crout. Dorothy Hudson and Mrs. Furlow won third, while Ann Davis and Betty Poe were fourth.

Only three tables of Howell movement were played Friday with Mrs. B. L. McKinley directing. A tie for first place went to Jo Snyder and Opal Williams, and John Gibson and Hilda McCrary. Mrs. Kimbro and Mrs. Clements won third.

PATCHWORK SQUARES OFFICERS—Leading the Patchwork Squares Extension Homemakers Club this year are (left) Kris Hendon, secretary-treasurer; Sheila Wallace, president; Pear Wheeler, reporter, and Laurie Haines, vice president.

The extension club is an active organization in Snyder, working to improve family and community life. Extension clubs are under the direction of Blanche Chisum, Scurry County extension agent. (SDN Staff Photo)

Oswald: "In looking over the Spingold hands I find this real gem played by Kyle Larsen at an inferior three-trump contract."

Alan: "West opened one of those weak two bids. When it got around to Kyle he doubled. North responded three hearts. Kyle had no intention of passing below game and elected to bid three notrump on the theory that North could still bid four hearts if he felt like it."

Oswald: "West opened the king of spades and Kyle elected to take that first trick. Then he cashed his top diamonds. West chucked a spade on the third one. Then Kyle led a low heart. He was resigned to defeat if West held either the king or queen. But West played the eight, dummy the nine and East the king. East cashed his diamond jack and led a club to dummy's ace. The jack of hearts was led from dummy. East played low and the jack held. Now Kyle led a heart to his ace. He had seven tricks in and was left with K J 3 of clubs and 10 of spades. Meanwhile, West had discarded down to two spades and two clubs so Kyle led his last spade. East took two tricks, but had to lead up to the king-jack of clubs to give Kyle his contract."

Alan: "The opposing North-South pair got to the superior contract of four hearts, but their declarer found a really inferior line of play to go down one."

Expense Of Removing Asbestos Will Fall On Local Districts

DALLAS (AP) — Federal agencies will help Texas locate deadly asbestos in school buildings, but the high cost of removing the lethal substance probably will be borne by local districts, officials say.

Asbestos was installed in schools nationwide from around 1940 until it was banned in 1973. The fibrous material was used for fireproofing, soundproofing, insulation, and decoration, and the Environmental Protection Agency says it is present in about 15 percent of Texas' 6,000 schools.

"Probably local people would have to force removal," T.R. Jones of the Texas Education Agency said.

Federal laws which take effect in February direct the EPA and the Education Department to help find and remove asbestos from schools.

But no money has been appropriated, and Texas officials say cost of the complex and expensive process of removing asbestos will fall entirely on local districts.

Larry Thomas, an EPA assistant toxic substances coordinator, says children may be more vulnerable to asbestos exposure than adults.

"Children have a higher respiration rate than adults, and that's bad," Thomas said. Breathing frequently allows more of the thin asbestos fibers to be inhaled, he added. The danger is increased when the asbestos is loose and children damage it or play with it.

Preliminary studies, in which Texas schools were asked by the EPA, to take samples and send them to the health department for free analysis, showed that nearly half of the samples from 184 Texas schools showed the presence of asbestos.

Three deadly diseases are linked to asbestos exposure: asbestosis, a chronic lung disease; cancer of the lungs, throat, esophagus, stomach, intestines and rectum; and mesothelioma, a cancer of the membranes that line the stomach and abdomen.

Jack Pace, plant director for the Odessa school system, says his district is in "a state of confusion" concerning what to do about asbestos and how to do it.

In the state health department's preliminary studies, 24 of the 34 schools in Odessa had an asbestos content ranging from 5 to 60 percent.

"It's more how loose the asbestos is than how high the content is, as to whether it's any health hazard or not," Pace said. "I see some here with an asbestos content as low as 5 percent. At that rate, unless it's falling off the ceiling, I don't think it's a health hazard."

Pace says ceilings in Odessa schools have been painted to solidify the asbestos.

"There is a removal method so complex it would choke a horse," he added.

Federal regulations require workers to encase the area in plastic and wear disposable clothing, gloves and respirators. Pace said he had asked for an estimate on the cost of removing asbestos from school's that had the highest content.

"The price they gave me was $5 a square foot," he said. "As much asbestos as was put in institutional buildings in the '30s and '60s, we're talking about removing asbestos by the square mile."

Dear Abby Christmas: It's That Time Again

By Abigail Van Buren
© 1980 by Universal Press Syndicate

DEAR ABBY: Last year you devoted an entire column to what and what not to give for Christmas gifts. I thought it was one of the most helpful columns you ever wrote. Please run it again.

DEAR OVER 80: That column was so well received I've updated it. And here it is:

DEAR READERS: Can you believe it's time to prepare for the holidays again? Well, it is, so do yourselves a favor and do your Christmas (or Hanukkah) shopping early.

If you're wondering what to give Aunt Bessie or Grandpa, who don't get out much, let me tell you what not to give them:

No dusting powder, after-shave or cologne. (They probably have several unopened boxes gathering dust on their closet shelves.)

Grandpa doesn't need another necktie, and Aunt Bessie doesn't really want any more brooches, necklaces or bracelets.

With the price of groceries so high, folks who live alone on a fixed income probably would be delighted to receive a basket of goodies. Include small cans of salmon, chicken, ham, tuna, vegetables, fruit, instant coffee, tea bags, crackers, cookies and instant soup mixes.

Older people who live in confined quarters do not need more "things" that are ornamental only. Don't send music boxes, statuettes or other bric-a-brac.

Another thoughtful gift is lined stationery with envelopes and a generous supply of postage stamps. (Enclose some felt-tip pens, too.)

The homebound will appreciate a box of greeting cards for all occasions so that they, too, can send birthday, anniversary, graduation, get-well and condolence cards to others. (Be a sport! Stamp some envelopes.)

Don't give anyone a gift of clothing unless you're absolutely sure the size is right. That goes for the color and style, too.

If you're tempted to pass along a scarf, purse, wallet or some other useless little doodad you received for Christmas three years ago, please don't. It's a pretty fair bet the recipient will find it just as useless as you did. (Besides, you might get it back the year after next.)

If someone on your gift list is living on a pension, a check for any amount would be much more appreciated than a frivolous little trinket. Or give someone who's counting pennies a year's subscription to a newspaper or magazine you know he or she will enjoy.

Please, don't ever send a gift in a box bearing the name of a store unless you bought it there. Should the recipient want to exchange it, he will be embarrassed, the store clerks will look bewildered, and it won't make you look too good.

If you buy a gift on sale, be sure it's appropriate, since if the recipient tries to take it back he will be told, "Sorry, sale merchandise is not returnable."

Don't give anyone a pet unless you're absolutely sure it's wanted and will be properly cared for. And if you want to delight someone who considers his pet a "member of the family," include a tin of cat or dog food for the pet.

Don't give wine or liquor unless you're sure the recipients imbibe. Candy, nuts and fruitcake make wonderful gifts for those who aren't counting calories, but please have compassion for those who are, and lead them not into temptation.

Resist giving toddlers stuffed animals and dolls that are bigger than they are. And parents will thank you for not sending their children horns, drums, sirens or whistles. If you give a child a game or book, be sure it's in the appropriate age range.

Instead of giving someone a gift with permission to "exchange it if it's not what you want," save yourself (and him) much time and effort and give him a gift certificate in the first place.

Holiday time can be very depressing for people who are alone, so if you know someone who might be alone and lonely, give him (or her) the best gift of all — an invitation to spend the holiday with you and your family. Loneliness is the ultimate poverty.

LOVE, ABBY

(Problems? You'll feel better if you get them off your chest. For a personal reply write to Abby, 132 Lasky Drive, Beverly Hills, Calif. 90212. Please enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope.)

To Trim Budgets Store Santas Get The Boot

DALLAS (AP) — Many of Santa's helpers may soon be standing in the unemployment line because department stores are tightening their belts and booting St. Nick.

And one shopping center Santa says the businessmen who are cutting the jolly old elf for budget reasons are ruining the spirit of Christmas.

"Without Santa Claus, Christmas is nothing but crass commercialism," lamented Dean Reynolds, a 42-year-old insurance executive who has decked himself in red flannel and white fur for eight Yule seasons.

"Santa is a catalyst to the Christmas spirit," Reynolds said. "When you've got someone like him in your store spreading good cheer, and everyone's laughing and smiling, then it adds to the spirit of the season."

Reynolds, who charges a minimum $10 an hour to "ho, ho, ho," says the rent-a-Santa business in the Dallas area is at the bottom of a four-year slump because department store executives are trying to trim St. Nick out of their budgets.

"Some guy sitting at the top with a pencil and paper is thinking, 'Where can I cut expenses?'" Reynolds said. "He sees Santa as a liability instead of an asset."

Western Temporary Services, Reynolds' employer, suited up about 180 Santas in 1975 and 1976. But this year only 30 orders have come in at "the world's largest supplier of Santas," Reynolds said.

Several department stores, including Joskes, Sears and Dillards, traditionally hire Santas for every shopping day during the Christmas season. But this year, they are cutting back to weekend-only Santas or cutting St. Nick altogether.

"Many stores are letting the malls take the responsibility of getting a Santa," Reynolds said. "But I remember when the mall and all the large stores had Santas, and the lines of children waiting to see them still were long."

Reynolds says being one of Santa's helpers has its ups and downs.

"I wasn't too crazy about kids to begin with," he said.

Busy Weekend For Policemen

A busy weekend was reported by police, with several burglaries, a theft, and two misdemeanor marijuana arrests occurring.

Saturday, Frank Biggers, 1412 30th St., reported the theft of a battery and clamp. The loss was pegged at $50. Working it was Kerrie Fritz.

Saturday night, two misdemeanor marijuana arrests were made in the 3500 block of College Ave. by Don Whittenburg. Taken into custody were two 18-year-old men.

Sunday, police received a report of $135 being taken from the local Veterans of Foreign Wars post. Working that case were Fritz and Sgt. Ed Neely.

From Schann's Sales, Fritz worked a reported burglary involving the theft of five cases of fruit or vegetable juices worth $120. Also allegedly taken was $28 worth of soap.

At Northeast Elementary, Richard McCulley and Sgt. Dale Burns worked a break-in where two watches appeared to be missing.

Also Sunday, police received a report from Gary Parks in which he claims to have been assaulted while helping a subject charge a flat tire along a road north of town. Because the incident occurred outside the city limits, the Sheriff's Office and highway patrol were notified.

Several wrecks were also investigated.

The first occurred about 1:30 p.m. Saturday at the parking lot of K mart. Involved in it were a parked 1980 Ford owned by Dresser Titan and a vehicle which left the scene. Working the mishap was Fritz.

McCulley worked a two-vehicle accident in the parking lot of Snyder Shopping Center. There, a 1977 Buick driven by Lydia Rhoades was in collision with a 1976 Volkswagen. The accident occurred about 3:45 p.m. Saturday.

About 7:55 a.m. today, Buddy Kinney worked a one vehicle accident at 37th St. and the brick plant road in which a 1975 International truck overturned. Taken from the scene to Cogdell Memorial Hospital was the driver, Gilbert Garza of Abilene. He was not thought to have been seriously hurt.

As far as we're concerned, it's a brand new season," said Coach Joe Cushing, whose Dusters face South Plains at 6 here Tuesday. WTC's Westerners play at 8.

Tuesday's men's battle should be an interesting one, in that both Western Texas and South Plains have been tabbed in a tie for fifth in the conference, according to a pre-season coaches poll. According to Coach Larry Dunaway, it's a key game in the season.

"If we're going to get to the regional tournament when we're not supposed to get there, we're going to have to beat several of these teams in their own gym. It's a big step for us. If we could win Tuesday, then beat Howard College in Big Spring next week, it would put us in good shape to come back after Christmas time and be a factor in this race."

"But beating South Plains will be no easy step, warned Dunaway. The Texans have a vast height advantage with one 6-9 1/2 player, a 6-8er, two at 6-7 and three more at 6-6.

"I think before it's all said and done, South Plains may be as good as anybody in the league," Dunaway said. "They are young like we are, and they're going to get better as the year goes along."

To beat the hosts, WTC will have to be in good form with its patented, quick-moving press and break, hoping to wear out the bigger opponent.

Leading point producers for WTC have been Keith Denis, averaging 20.8, Ceasar Scott, 17.0, and Chuck North, 16.3. North averages 5.8 assists a game, while Scott leads the team in steals with a 3.0

figure. Meanwhile, the Dusters have been ranked in a tie for second according to the poll, while South Plains ladies are fifth.

"We're not taking anything for granted," assures Cushing. "We went all through the holidays with the loss to Tarleton on our minds, and we've come back ready to get after it. We've had three excellent workouts and we'll have another one today, in preparation for South Plains."

The Texanettes are led by forward Lynette Joiner, who has averaged 16.1 points a game this year, and by Regina Melton, with a 12.3 average. Both are sophomores.

"Joiner is a good shooter. She penetrates the lane well," said the coach. "She's not exceptionally quick, but she does read everything well and does a good job. Melton is also an excellent wing shooter. She does a good job of rebounding, too."

Melton leads the team on the boards with a 8.6 figure. Joiner is right behind at 8.3.

The Dusters are paced offensively by sophomores Linda Holubeck, 13.9 points, 5.9 rebounds; Shari Teal, 13.6, 8.1; and freshman Valorie Wells, 10.8, 7.1.

Cats Play Here Tonight

Snyder junior high boys basketball teams go into action here tonight, taking on Big Spring in the junior high gym.

Games are slated to begin at 4, 5:30 and 6:30 as both eighth grades and the ninth grade Black take the floor.

Pittsburgh Wins Lambert Trophy

NEW YORK (AP) - The University of Pittsburgh won the Lambert Trophy as the outstanding major college football in the East for the second year in a row.

Cards Introduce Cage Players

HERMLEIGH-Hermleigh Booster Club is hosting Meet The Players night tonight, to tip off the 1980-81 basketball season.

Junior high and high school athletes will be introduced to the public at 7:30 in the school cafeteria.

SHS Battles On The Road Tuesday

Snyder varsity boys, coming off a big win over Abilene Cooper here last week, go back on the road Tuesday night to Midland to face the Rebels of Lee High School.

The Tigers, 1-3 on the season, play at 8 p.m. Other games include at sophomore game at 4:30 and a junior varsity tilt at about 6:15.

Also Tuesday, Snyder girls' journey to Jayton for an 8 o'clock date. The Feljines are 2-4 on the year. The girls will be in the Reagan County Tournament over the weekend, then open District 2-AAAA play Tuesday against Andrews.

Snyder JV girls will also play in Jayton tomorrow, beginning at 6:30.

Rogers Wins Heisman; Pitts' Green Is Second

NEW YORK (AP) - George Rogers, who put the University of South Carolina on the college football map while becoming the fourth leading rusher in NCAA history, won the 46th Heisman Trophy today as the nation's outstanding player.

Rogers, a 6-foot-2, 220-pound senior from Duluth, Ga., who leads the nation's rushers this season with 1,781 yards in 11 regular-season games and 6.0 yards per carry, won by a comfortable margin over defensive end Hugh Green of Pittsburgh. Herschel Walker, Georgia's sensational freshman running back, was third, the highest finish ever posted by a first-year player.

Rogers received 216 first-place votes, 179 second-place votes and 122 third-place ballots for a total of 1,128 total points based on a 3-2-1 scoring system.

Green received 179 votes for first place, 125 seconds, and 74 thirds for 861 points. Walker's totals were 107-120-122 for 683 points.

place votes, 179 second-place votes and 122 third-place ballots for a total of 1,128 total points based on a 3-2-1 scoring system.

Green received 179 votes for first place, 125 seconds, and 74 thirds for 861 points. Walker's totals were 107-120-122 for 683 points.

quarterback Mark Herrmann, who finished fourth overall with 405 points, won the Midwest.

In 1971, Lydell Mitchell of Penn State made 29 touchdowns for a total of 174 points.

Rogers carried four of the six regions into which the country is divided - the Mid-Atlantic, South, Southwest and Far West. Green captured the Northeast, while Purdue

Cleveland Not Second Rate Squad Anymore

HOUSTON (AP) - For the better part of a decade it was Pittsburgh, Houston and those other guys, the trailers in the American Conference's Central Division. Today, those other guys are in the driver's seat.

"We are always underdogs to Houston and Pittsburgh, but we are 2-2 with them now," Cleveland's Cleo Miller said after his two touchdown runs and 50-yard sprint to set up a field goal that enabled the Browns to beat the Oilers 17-14 Sunday.

He neglected to mention the Browns also are 9-4 this year and a game ahead of the Steelers and Oilers, who will be playing here Thursday night.

And with games remaining against a trio of almost certain underdogs - the New York Jets, Minnesota and Cincinnati - the Browns are perfectly positioned to reach the National Football League playoffs for the first time since their wild-card season of 1972 and to win their first division title since '71.

Jeff Groth's fumble of the opening kickoff and John Mohring's recovery gave the Browns the ball at the Houston 18 yard line. Three plays later, Miller's 4-yard burst up the middle put Cleveland on top 1:02 into the game.

The lead went to 14-0 with 2:15 gone in the second period on Miller's 1-yard run just seven plays after cornerback Ron Bolton intercepted a Ken Stabler pass meant for Dave Casper and ran it back 29 yards to the Oiler's 26.

Earl Campbell's 1-yard dive later in the second quarter cut the Cleveland lead in half, but Don Cockroft widened it to 17-7 with a 25-yard field goal on the Brown's first possession of the second half.

Stabler brought the Oilers back with lightning suddenness on a three-play, 62-yard drive with passes of 27 and 30 yards to Casper, the latter for the score.

And Stabler brought the Oilers back again with about five minutes to play, only to see Toni Fritsch's 38-yard field goal try fall short and to the left.

"I was trying to hit the ball easy, not kill it: a security shot," said Fritsch. "I hit it too easy and I hit the ground a little bit. I think it was the most important field goal I ever missed in my career."

Bankruptcy Business Is Booming And Creditors Are Complaining

By LOUISE COOK Associated Press Writer
The bankruptcy business is booming and creditors are complaining.
The recession is partly to blame for the growing number of people who are growing broke. But lenders say a revision in the bankruptcy law — and advertising by some lawyers — is equally responsible.
The change took effect a little more than a year ago. In general, the new law allow debtors to keep more of their property when they file for bankruptcy. It also makes it easier to wipe out your debts without actually going bankrupt or paying back all the money you owe.
The National Consumer Finance Association, which represents finance companies, has started a campaign against the revised code.
"The current abuses of bankruptcy must be stopped," says E.C.A. Forsberg, the chairman of the board of the association, in an article in the latest issue of "Credit," the group's magazine.

Forsberg complains of what he calls "a rash of lawyer advertising offering bankruptcy counsel." Forsberg says: "Much of this advertising is merely an offering of service. But is it proper for a lawyer to advertise that going bankrupt 'will not harm your credit'?"
The American Bar Association, in a consumer guide to credit and bankruptcy, makes it clear that filing for bankruptcy DOES affect your ability to get credit. The association points out that the fact you filed for bankruptcy will remain on your credit record for 10 years. The lawyers' group add, however: "Bankruptcy is intended to give you a fresh start to rebuild your economic life, and you should feel no disgrace in exercising your right to do so."

It is hard to compare statistics on bankruptcies before and after the new law went into effect. That's because a husband and wife now can file a joint petition instead of two separate ones. During fiscal 1980 — the year that ended June 30 — there were 22 percent more bankruptcy petitions filed by individuals than there were in fiscal 1979. But estimates of the increase from 1979 to 1980 in the number of people represented by those petitions range up to 60 percent.
There are two ways to file for bankruptcy — Chapter 7, or straight bankruptcy, and Chapter 13, or the wage-earner plan. Under Chapter 7, the debtor gives up most of his or her assets. The assets are converted into cash to pay off as many creditors as much as possible. Under Chapter 13, the debtor agrees to repay lenders over an extended period of time under a plan approved by a bankruptcy judge.

Certain assets are exempt from bankruptcy. The amount you could keep used to vary widely from state to state. The revised law set a federal standard. A debtor who files for bankruptcy under Chapter 7 can, for example, keep up to $7,500 worth of equity in a home and up to $1,200 in an automobile. States are allowed to reject the federal exemptions and set their own standards and at least a dozen already have done so.
Revisions in the wage-earner plan also helped debtors. Under the old law, someone filing for bankruptcy under Chapter 13 usually had to agree to repay all debts. The changes allow the debtor to repay less than the full amount.

Reagan Looks West For Conservative Thinkers

WASHINGTON (AP) — President-elect Ronald Reagan is looking westward for the conservative economic brainpower to turn campaign vows into the specifics of government programs.
Losing its clout is the Brookings Institution, President Carter's favorite "think tank" as well as a pool of talent and a school of thought for earlier Democratic presidents. Gaining new stature is the Hoover Institution on War, Revolution and Peace.
Because a president knows whose ideas he's comfortable with, and whose senior fellows he'd like to borrow, a new group of thinkers and planners is on the way to the nation's capital.

In setting up his new administration, Reagan has sought advice from a number of scholars from eastern schools such as Yale and from West Coast institutions such as the University of Southern California.
But the Hoover Institution, set up more than a half-century ago by the president whose name it bears, has more than a dozen representatives — by far the most of any institution or school — on task forces helping plan Reagan's important economic moves. And many of those scholars and writers are expected to find their way into upper- and middle-level government jobs in the new administration.
Reagan himself "comes here occasionally to meet with our people," Hoover historian Peter Duignan said earlier this year in California. In fact, the institution and its president-elect feel comfortable enough together that he's been made an honorary fellow.

Bosworth returned to Brookings some time ago, and Schultz is expected to do the same come Jan. 20. "We're not looking for many of the Carter administration people to come here in January," Brookings information director James Farrell said recently.
Out in California, spokesmen for the Hoover Institution say they do have some Democrats on their rolls. But their institution is widely perceived as more conservative than many — Brookings, for example.
They're pleased to claim such conservative economists as Milton Friedman, Martin Anderson and Darrell Trent from the institution are in Washington now as top economic advisers for the president-elect's transition team.
The institution's director, W. Glenn Campbell, is no stranger to conservative causes, either, having taken a leave of absence in 1964 to work in Sen. Barry Goldwater's unsuccessful presidential campaign. Campbell himself is working on a couple of Reagan transition task forces.

He says he is not surprised to find the ideas of the institution's analysts and writers in demand now at the highest government level.
On the other hand, Reagan's people haven't had much to do with Brookings, where Carter was an enthusiastic visitor four years ago.
Carter filled a number of important posts with Brookings people, including economic advisers Charles Schultz and Barry Bosworth. But few at Brookings are expecting to be called by the new administration.

Cobb Rites

Funeral service was set for 2 p. m. today in the Bell-Seale Chapel for Billy Norris Cobb, 35, who was killed in a shooting incident here Friday night.

The Rev. W. L. Peterson and the Rev. Raymond Dunkins were to officiate, and burial was to be in the Snyder Cemetery.

He is survived by his mother, Mrs. Eddie Lee Cobb of Snyder; three sisters, Ronnie B. Wallace and Roann Clay, both of Snyder, and Maxine Session of Fort Worth; and five brothers, Stanley Cobb Jr., Brady Cobb and Eddie Melvin Cobb, all of Snyder, Welton Cobb of Colorado City and Robert Lee Cobb of Albuquerque, N. M.

Mrs. Smith

Mrs. Jewel Smith, a former resident of Snyder, died Saturday in Brackenridge Hospital at Austin.

Graveside rites and burial were held at 1 p. m. Sunday in Austin.

Mrs. Smith was a graduate of the Mary Meek School of Nursing at Hendrick Medical Center in Abilene. In her 40 years of service as a Registered Nurse, she had worked in many West Texas hospitals, including Snyder General and Cogdell Memorial Hospitals here.

She is survived by two daughters, Clare Freeman of Austin and Sheila Humble of Minneapolis; one son, Fritz R. Smith III of Breckenridge; seven grandchildren and one great-grandchild.

The family has suggested memorials to scholarship funds of the Mary Meek School of Nursing, or Cogdell Memorial Hospital.

FAA Probes Plane Crash

CORPUS CHRISTI, Texas (AP) — The pilot of a private plane that crashed during an emergency landing attempt remained hospitalized today while federal investigators tried to find out why the craft overshot a runway at Mustang Island Airport near here.

Douglas Leach, 43, of Lilburn, Ga., was trapped inside the wreckage for a short time after the twin-engine jet smashed into a mud flat Sunday afternoon, authorities said.

Federal Aviation Administration investigators were on the scene today, an FAA spokesman said.

A spokeswoman at a Corpus Christi hospital said Leach was "holding his own" with multiple injuries, including a fractured leg. Five of the six other passengers also were injured in the crash.

The turboprop jet apparently lost the left engine after making a customs stop at the immigration office in Brownsville, officials said.

"It was going to make an emergency landing and overshot the runway," Assistant Fire Chief R.K. Gibson said Sunday afternoon.

"It ran out in a mud flat, and people on the scene say it was pretty well covered with mud."

Gibson said the wet mud kept the plane from exploding when fuel began to leak.

"It didn't catch fire and was not burning," he said.

Police in Port Aransas, on Mustang Island, said the pilot radioed in that an engine was out.

there is quite a broad range of names that are being discussed."

Meese, interviewed on ABC's "Issues and Answers," also refused to say if the prospective appointees include Democrats, blacks or women.

Notzger said he expected there will be no political liberals in the Cabinet.

Meese denied that the speculation has become embarrassing or is making it more difficult for Reagan to choose a Cabinet.

"Remember it has been less than 30 days since Ronald Reagan was elected president, and I don't believe any president in history has announced his Cabinet any earlier," Meese said.

"This is a normal time," he added. "As a matter of fact, probably it is a little ahead of schedule."

Reagan said he was not dismayed that leading Cabinet candidates William Simon, George Shultz and Anne Armstrong had withdrawn their names from contention.

Notzger, holding his last press briefing on Saturday, denied that Reagan engineered the withdrawals of Simon and Shultz.

"He's not Machiavelli," Notzger said of the former California governor. "And he has high regard for both Simon and Shultz."

Fats and sweets can go

By Lawrence Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB — Do you have any information on low calorie cooking? My husband needs to eat less and I have growing boys who need a well-balanced diet. I'm interested in filling them up without filling them out. What foods can I safely eliminate?

DEAR READER — The two main sources of excess calories are fats and concentrated sweets. The really high calorie foods are the ones that contain little water, such as sugar, lard and flour. Lean meat is 73 percent water so it is a low calorie food. A raw potato is all carbohydrate in the form of starch but it is nearly 80 percent water.

A lot of the calories in our food come from what happens in the kitchen or what we add at the table. Most vegetable salads are low in calories but when you add a fatty salad dressing they become high in calories. A package of frozen green peas is not high in calories or fat but when you add a tablespoon of butter it is no longer a low calorie food.

You can help your family have a well-balanced diet and avoid excess calories by eliminating fat and sweets in the foods you prepare. I'm sending you The Health Letter number 9-12, Kitchen Power for Weight Control, to give you more ideas on how to do this. Others who want this issue can send 75 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it to me, in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

You can make white sauce without fat and you can use corn starch with artificial sweeteners for a dessert topping. Spices also help make tasty food without relying on fats to provide flavor.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I'm having difficulty in finding a doctor who understands my problem. The styloid process on the left side of my neck is elongated so much that it comes down to my Adam's apple and it extends inward so that it seems to press against my thyroid gland.

Most of the doctors I have visited have never heard of the styloid process much less an elongated one. One doctor thought it was a tumor. He told me to see a dentist.

I have difficulty in digesting and eliminating my food. My thyroid is low but the doctor said no amount of pressure on my thyroid could cause my problem. I think the styloid process is also pressing against my jugular vein. Can part of this styloid process be removed and what kind of doctor does this type of operation?

DEAR READER — We all have a styloid process. Normally it is a spike-like bone originating from the base of the skull just in front of the mastoid bone. The mastoid is the heavy bone just behind the ear. The styloid process is covered from the outside by the lower jaw. It does point inward and forward.

You have described a very unusual condition. I would also doubt that it is affecting your thyroid gland. The question is not if the styloid process can be removed or shortened but whether it is necessary or not. Why don't you see an ear, nose and throat specialist? I note you live near a large city. House Combines Best Of Old, New

By BARBARA MAYER AP Newsfeatures

If money were no object and you could have the most technologically advanced house built to order, what would it look like and what features would it have?

One answer to this intriguing question was provided recently when a demonstration house opened to visitors in Greenwich, Conn. The house, a handsome contemporary with a rustic feeling, makes use of old as well as new energy-savings methods.

The new is seen in multiple active and passive solar-energy systems and the two home computers that run the energy systems and provide information and entertainment for the hypothetical mother, father and two children for whom the home has been furnished.

The old is a venerable New England building technique — a roof line that dips almost to the ground on the cold, north-facing side while the south side is open to the warming rays of the sun.

Just under 800 square feet of active solar collectors are installed on the south side of the house, as are large picture windows and a greenhouse through which the sun's rays stream in a passive system. Solar energy will supply 65 percent or more of heating and hot-water needs.

More than 20 companies contributed their best ideas and latest products to the house which was commissioned and paid for by the Copper Development Association as a showcase for copper products.

One of the most interesting aspects of the home is that multiple methods are employed for generating, collecting, storing and distributing the sun's energy. The active system, which uses pumps and fans to distribute the heat, includes 640 feet of traditional copper solar collectors plus another 150 square feet of photovoltaic cells which generate electricity directly from the sun. The photovoltaic system is at present too costly for most residential use, but according to its manufacturer, Solarex Corp., it should be economically feasible for home installation by 1986. Among the passive solar systems is a solar-water "wall" installed on the south side of the house. The wall is made of 12-inch-diameter water-filled copper tubes.
