New Jobs For Senators

WASHINGTON (AP) — New committee assignments are in store for Sens. John Tower and Lloyd Bentsen when the new Congress starts next year.

Bentsen, D-Texas, will add the Senate Select Committee on Intelligence to his slate of committee assignments while Tower, R-Texas, will trade his seat on the Senate Rules Committee for one on the Senate Budget Committee.

The Senate Democratic Caucus voted late Wednesday to recommend Bentsen's additional duty. Tower's change was approved by the Senate Republican Conference Thursday.

Bentsen also is a member of the Joint Economic Committee, the Senate Finance Committee and the Senate Environment and Public Works Committee.

Tower's accession to the chairmanship of the Senate Armed Services Committee when Republicans take over as the Senate's majority party in January was approved officially Wednesday night by the panel's Republican members.

The Texas Republican also is a member of the Senate Banking Committee and holds the chairmanship of the Republican Policy Committee, the third ranking position among Senate Republicans.

New Offers From Auto Makers

HIGHLAND PARK, Mich. (AP) — Ford Motor Co. and Chrysler Corp. are making new money-saving offers to potential buyers amid fears that surging interest rates will stall car sales.

Chrysler is offering a rebate that gets bigger as interest rates rise. Ford is offering 12-percent loans on certain models at a time when the financing cost sometimes approaches 18 percent.

Though Chrysler was the only domestic manufacturer to show sales gains in November, Chairman Lee A. Iacocca said Thursday said there is little hope of showing a profit for October to December, so the No. 3 automaker is preparing to make more cuts in investment plans.

Fire Victims Had No Chance

WHITE PLAINS, N.Y. (AP) — Business executives gathered for meetings at a hotel here "didn't have a chance" when an electrical fire raced through conference rooms with heat so intense that it melted walls, fire officials said.

The blaze Thursday at the suburban Stouffer's Inn killed 26 people and injured at least 40.

"The fire was so strong, so fast, that it was like a bomb exploding," said Franz Eichenauer, an executive chef for General Foods.

"It appears it flashed up suddenly and these people didn't have a chance," said Purchase Fire Chief Robert Makowski.

Most of the victims were believed to be executives of Arrow Electronics Inc. and Nestle Company Inc.

Right-Wing Assassins Accused

SAN SALVADOR, El Salvador (AP) — El Salvador's ruling junta accused right-wing terrorists of assassinating three Roman Catholic nuns and a lay missionary, all Americans, and piling the four women into a common dirt grave after shooting each in the back of the head.

No group claimed responsibility for killing the women. But right-wing terrorists opposed to the strong human rights advocacy of the Catholic Church in El Salvador have assassinated at least nine priests since 1977.

The recent snowfalls caused Stephen Henry of the Lleveland News-Press to take a second look at something he had virtually ignored a few days earlier.

"The other day I was laughing about a catalog ad which offered a special price on snow blowers. Tonight, after shoveling our sidewalk off several times, after digging my truck out of deep snow a couple of times, and after surveying the drifts in the driveway at home, I'm having second thoughts," said Henry. "That snow blower is looking better all the time, especially after 10 inches this week. I wonder if it could handle sand drifts in the spring?"

Roger Enlow of the Hood County News says he believes kids have nearly everything available in the field of toys nowadays.

"We envy youngsters around this time of year," says Enlow. "The choice of Christmas wishes is amazing. There seems to be nothing missing from the toy shelves this year...the familiar saying, 'What will they think of next?' is finished as far as toys are concerned. They've already thought of it."

Lynn Brisendine of the Brownfield News flew to Big D to see the Cowboys and Redskins play football and when he returned, had this comment on his trip:

"It seems that the air-lines are almost always behind schedule. The passengers act as if they will not be able to find a seat on the aircraft once they announce the flight, and the crunch is on. After flying, you often feel as though you just took part in a cattle drive as one of the four-legged beasts."

Walt Finley of the Big Spring Herald says his wife pointed out that poverty is a state of mind induced by a neighbor's new car. But she is quick to note that America is still the land of opportunity.

"People can start out digging ditches and wind up behind a desk—if they don't mind the financial sacrifice."

One of the best editorial cartoons we've seen lately was published this week by the Dallas Morning News. It is in two panels, and in the first one, a man is shown entering the office of a federal agency. He asks to see federal regulations for small businesses. The second panel shows a secretary ushering him into a room crammed with huge volumes stacked from floor to ceiling along each wall. The man, in obvious dismay, notes that he didn't know there were so many. The secretary quickly advises that this is not all—"From M through Z are in there," she says, pointing toward the next room.—WACIL McNAIR

Kremlin Gathering To Consider Polish Crises

WARSAW, Poland (AP) — The Kremlin meeting came a day after a top Polish official said Poland would have the right to request Soviet bloc assistance if authority "slips into the hands of anti-socialist elements."

PAP said that although Kania's trip to Moscow had been scheduled, it had not been announced in advance. In Moscow, official Soviet sources said leaders of the seven Warsaw Pact nations attended the meeting, which included Soviet President Leonid I. Brezhnev and other top Soviet officials.

The crisis in Poland began with a wave of summer strikes and escalated after the government agreed to allow unions to form independent of Communist-Party control for the first time ever in the Soviet bloc. Since then there have been rumors of Soviet troops intervening like they did to crush the liberalization in Czechoslovakia in 1968.

The Soviet Foreign Ministry in Moscow reacted to President Carter's recent claim of an "unprecedented buildup" on the Polish frontier by declaring that Western speculation was aimed at "exacerbating the situation in Poland."

The jobs rate has remained fairly static since May, when the recession caused it to soar to 7.8 percent.

A Labor Department economist attributed last month's slower price rise entirely to automobiles and trucks.

"There's still a lot of inflationary pressure," said Craig Howell. "The prices of intermediate goods such as steel, chemicals and plastics are rising and this is worrisome."

The cost of those products will increase prices of finished wholesale goods, and these, in turn, will be passed on eventually to consumers, he noted.

The Labor Department's Producer Price Index measures three levels: finished goods, intermediate items and raw materials.

The department reported that:

- Food prices rose 0.5 percent last month, the same as in October. Most economists expect this rate to pick up in coming months, the result of a long-term grain shortage. The largest advances in November were for pork, cereal, bakery products, dairy goods, fresh fruits and vegetables.
- Prices for beef and veal declined due to a large slaughter by farmers who chose not to feed cattle such high-priced grain. Poultry prices also fell.
- All energy prices at the finished goods level advanced 1.3 percent, after falling 0.4 percent in both September and October. Gasoline prices jumped 1.7 percent after declining for five straight months. Home heating oil costs rose 0.9 percent following two months of small decreases.
- Automobile prices rose only 0.7 percent last month, far less than the 3.4 percent increase in October when 1981 models were introduced.

The department's Producer Price Index, before seasonal adjustment, stood at 253.2 last month. That means that a marketbasket of goods and services that cost $100 in 1967 sold for $253.20 in October.

The price of all intermediate, or semi-finished goods, climbed 1 percent last month, about the same as in October and substantially more than September's 0.6 percent rise.

Raw goods prices accelerated 1.1 percent after going up 1.9 percent the month before, the department said.

About 7.9 million Americans were unemployed last month, the department said.

U.S. Moves To Ease Tensions

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Carter administration, in an apparent move to ease tensions, is assuring the Soviet Union that the United States is not trying to exploit the unrest in Poland or revive the Cold War.

"It would be a pity if East-West relations were thrown back a quarter of a century by the translation of an internal dilemma into intensified East-West hostility," Zbigniew Brzezinski, President Carter's national security adviser, said Thursday.

"I do not believe American interest would be served by that," he added. "I do not believe Soviet interest would be served by that. I don't believe the cause of humanity would be served by that."

Brzezinski said his message to all parties is "restraint, moderation, compromise."

Both Brzezinski and Secretary of State Edmund S. Muskie said they saw no prospect of an imminent Soviet invasion of Poland. At a news conference in Kansas, in fact, Muskie said, "It's clear that the Soviets are reluctant to launch a military intervention in Poland."

However, Muskie continued to describe the situation as "very delicate and sensitive."

Woman Dies Of Mishap Injuries

An 81-year-old Snyder woman died yesterday as a result of injuries she received when struck by a car operated by an 80-year-old driver.

Mrs. Jessie Bernice Fish, a pedestrian struck by the car, died enroute to Hendrick Medical Center in Abilene. She was pronounced dead on arrival by Abilene Justice of the Peace Silas Clark.

A report filed by investigating police officer Don Whittenburg indicated Mrs. Fish was crossing College Ave. about 3:34 p.m. when struck by a 1979 Pontiac driven by Celia Jones, 80, of Fluvanna.

The car, Whittenburg's report indicated, was making a left turn from 26th St. onto South College Ave. and Mrs. Fish was crossing College Ave. from west to east when the accident occurred.

Funeral service for Mrs. Fish has been set for 2 p.m. Saturday in the Bell-Seale Funeral Home chapel. The Rev. David Robertson will officiate, and burial will be in the Snyder Cemetery, under direction of Bell-Seale Funeral Home.

Surviving are a daughter, Charlene Erwin of Snyder; two sons, J. W. Headstream of Snyder and David Headstream of Denver, Colo.; two sisters, Mrs. Georgia Wilkerson of Alabama and Mrs. Opal Moore of Dallas; a brother, Harold Turner of Dallas; eight grandchildren and three great-grandchildren.

A native of Alabama, she had lived in Snyder since 1932. She was married in 1917 at Roby to W. W. Headstream. He died on April 22, 1952. She was married on Jan. 10, 1958, in Roswell, N. M., to Earl Fish. He died on Nov. 14, 1975.

She was a member of First United Methodist Church and was employed as a salesperson at Erwin Jewelry.

AFS Chapter To See Slides On Greece

The Snyder American Field Service chapter will see a slide presentation by Laquita Reeves on her 10-week stay in Greece at its meeting Saturday morning.

The Dutch treat' breakfast session is set for 8 a. m. at the Smorgasbord.

Miss Reeves was sponsored as a student abroad scholar the past summer by the local AFS chapter. The student abroad program and the winter program, which brings a foreign student to Snyder, are made possible through contributions and support of Snyder High School, local clubs and organizations, businesses and individuals.

Nettie Moss, through a selection of "interviewers composed of businessmen, teachers and AFS members, has been chosen to represent Snyder in the student abroad program for 1982: She is the daughter of Alfreda Moss and is a senior at Snyder High School.

The time also has arrived for selection of a host family for the 1981-82 foreign exchange student at Snyder High School. Anyone interested is urged to contact Barbara McCormick at 573-9962, or any AFS member.

The breakfast session Saturday is open to anyone interested in the AFS program.

Ask Us

Q.—Were any buildings in Snyder Public School System constructed with asbestos (such as ceilings, insulation, etc. and if so, are any measures being undertaken to protect the children and teachers from the effects of exposure to asbestos fibers?

A.—This question arose more than a year ago when there was a lot in the news about asbestos. An inspection by builders failed to identify any asbestos at that time, and school officials say there has been no change. Most school buildings here have been in use for 25 years or more, and there has been no indication that anyone has suffered any ill effects of the type now associated with exposure to asbestos fibers.

Banks Increase Rates To 19%

NEW YORK (AP) — Major banks, acting just one day after the Federal Reserve again raised the discount rate, today increased their prime lending rates by one-half percentage point to 19 percent.

Citibank took the lead in raising the rate to the highest point it has reached since April. The prime rate, which is charged by banks on loans to their most credit-worthy corporate customers, is nearing the record 20 percent level set this spring.

Manufacturers Hanover Trust Co. joined in the increase, the second of the week for major banks.

The Federal Reserve, which believes it must tighten credit to bring inflation under control, on Thursday raised the discount rate — the rate it charges on loans to banks — from 12 percent to 13 percent. In addition, it boosted the surcharge on loans to large banks that are frequent borrowers to 3 percent from 2 percent. Thus some banks will have to pay up to 16 percent to borrow from the Fed.

Interest rates have moved up sharply in recent weeks. The prime rate was at 14.5 percent a month ago and has leaped up repeatedly since then. It was raised by most banks from 17 percent to 17.75 percent on Nov. 26 and to 18.5 percent on Tuesday.

French Bulletin Reports Big Soviet Oil Discovery

PARIS (AP) — A French oil industry bulletin today reported the discovery of a giant oil field in western Siberia, which if correct, would be history's largest.

The Bulletin of the Petroleum Industry quoted the Swedish consultant firm of Petrostudies as saying the oil reserves in the field are estimated at 619 billion tons.

The reported reserves are said to be "several times" larger than those initially discovered in the entire Middle East.

The bulletin said if the "incredible" report turns out to be true, the discovery would represent twice as much as the recoverable reserves of 300 billion tons estimated at the Istanbul Energy Conference of 1977.

There are seven barrels in a ton, and each barrel contains 42 gallons.

The bulletin said the information was passed on to Petrostudies by experts of the Soviet Geology Ministry, who called the discovery "a unique and sensational natural phenomenon," especially since about 50 percent of the find is likely to be extracted without too much difficulty.

A resume of the Petrostudies report was made available to the industry bulletin in Paris.

terrorists score

Extremists in other countries keep trying to promote their causes with acts of terrorism, and Americans keep getting in the way.

Perhaps it is because Americans can be found in ever increasing numbers around the world or perhaps the revolutionaries know that getting Americans involved in their acts of mischief, even in remote ways, always commands attention in the American news media.

The bombing of that convention of American travel agents in Manila not long ago is a prime example. Although the explosive brought the convention to a sudden halt, the visiting travel professionals were not the targets - the government of Philippine president Ferdinand Marcos was.

It was one of a series of bomb incidents planned by a group which calls itself the April 6 Liberation Movement. It did not come without warning. The extremists had noised it about that the convention might be made the occasion for an anti-Marcos movement. The Marcos people reacted by tightening security measures and guaranteeing the travel agents that they could meet in safety. So much for promises, when there are so many radicals willing to lay down their lives to further a cause.

This country, of course, has had its share of disruptive demonstrations planned by people disenchanted with the policies of those in power. The confrontations between students at Kent State University and the National Guard is an example. Then there was Mayor Richard Daley's show of force against protesters of the Vietnam War at the National Democratic Convention in Chicago in 1968. To put it simply, Daley believed he could control the situation by breaking a few heads. The swelling has gone away but the bitterness remains among people who think Daley should have been more conciliatory.

Marcos' position in the Philippines may be not unlike that of the late Shah's in Iran. Each believed in suppression of those who took issue with their methods. The Shah, in time, was toppled. Marcos, no doubt, will be, in time. He is simply dealing with a problem with a Fourth Century mentality.

The terrorists achieved what they set out to do in Manila, defying government edicts and thumbing their noses at the government's show of force. Quite probably, they will step up their demonstrations for the benefit of visiting delegations like the travel agents.

There was a time, following WW II, when Filipino democracy appeared to be developing into an ideal state, a showcase for the remainder of the world to admire and emulate. Then Marcos came along, resolute in his conviction that his countrymen had to be rebroken and trained to adhere to his political philosophy. He has ruled by martial law for the past eight years. If Washington has not applauded his efforts, it certainly has done nothing to discourage him.

Fewer and fewer groups are apt to plan conventions in Manila in the future, something that will delight the extremists. What better way to get a point across than reminding the principles that the potential for violence is always there?

I hate to be the bearer of bad news during this holiday season but duty demands it. The crisis of crises is nigh upon us. I'm not talking about a Soviet invasion of Poland and our promised reaction to it. I'm not talking about another war popping out in the Middle East between Syria and Jordan. Granted, with Iran and Iraq already going at it, another conflict could spark the whole area to arms and cut off our foreign oil entirely. But so what. We can always walk where we want to go during the light of day and at night we can cuddle to stay warm.

What I'm talking about is so unimaginably hideous that I shudder to even contemplate the prospect. Yet I must. The United States is running out of peanuts folks. That doesn't seem so bad in itself until it hits you that peanuts are the prime ingredient in peanut butter. This nation cannot function without peanut butter. Its that simple. And those offering the greatest hope for the free world - 12-year-old boys and bachelors - will be the first to go.

Did you ever see a Jiffy junky in need of a fix of double-crunchy? Its not a pretty sight.

The current peanut shortage is no accident. Its the culmination of a conspiracy that started back in the Great Depression. In fact, the Depression was purposely contrived so the conspirators could pass an import quota on peanuts under the guise of protecting our agricultural interests. Thus to this day we can only import 1.7 million pounds - little more than a thousandth of what Americans eat.

The next big move came in 1976 with the election of Jimmy (the big nut) Carter to the presidency. After he did his dirty work he rigged the next election so that he would lose to an unemployed actor.

Its no coincidence that the guber king is leaving office just as he and his co-conspirators are about to achieve their objective. I mean why would anybody want to be president anyway? Its just another civil service job, right.

The ultimate goal of the conspiracy is world dominion. They have almost conquered this country. Inflation (part of the grand scheme) will soon render our currency completely worthless and peanuts will be the medium of exchange. I've already converted my savings account. (With the help of coupons I'm the possessor of five jars of creamy-smooth.)

Obviously, this scam should have been nipped in the bud years ago but while we were

It was one of those days when I wanted my own apartment...unlisted.

My son was telling me in complete detail about a movie

he had just seen, punctuated by 3,000 "You know's" My teeth were falling asleep.

There were three phone calls--strike that--three monologues that could have been answered by a recording. I fought the urge to say, "It's been nice listening to you."

In the cab from home to the airport, I got another assault on my ear, this time by a cab driver who was rambling on about his son whom he supported in college, and was in his last year, who put a P.S. on his letter saying, "I got married. Her name is Diane." He asked me, "What do you think of that?" and proceeded to answer the question himself.

There were 30 whole beautiful minutes before my plane took off...time for me to be alone with my own thoughts, to open a book and let my mind wander. A voice next to me belonging to an elderly woman said, "I'll bet it's cold in Chicago."

Stone-face I answered, "It's likely."

"I haven't been to Chicago in nearly three years," she persisted, "My son lives there."

"That's nice," I said, my eyes intent on the printed page of the book.

"My husband's body is on this plane. We've been married for 53 years. I don't drive, you know, and when he died a nun drove me from the hospital. We aren't even Catholic. The funeral director let me come to the airport with him."

I don't think I have ever detested myself more than I did at that moment. Another human being was screaming to be heard and in desperation had turned to a cold stranger who was more interested in a novel than the real-life drama at her elbow.

All she needed was a listener...no advice, wisdom, experience, money, assistance, expertise or even compassion...but just a minute or two to listen.

It seemed rather incongruous that in a society of super-sophisticated communication, we often suffer from a shortage of listeners.

She talked numbly and steadily until we boarded the plane, then found her seat in another section. As I hung up my coat, I heard her plaintive voice say to her seat companion, "I'll bet it's cold in Chicago."

I prayed, "Please God, let her listen."

Why am I telling you this? To make me feel better. It won't help, though.

automotive roadblock

NEW YORK (AP) - Those rising interest rates are putting a roadblock in front of the automotive industry's attempts to recapture the fancy of buyers and no amount of advertising seems able to change things.

It amounts to a battle for minds, and the automotive companies may be losing. While they seek to lift buyer spirits with promises of better mileage, rising rates are depressing buyer psychology.

Sales of domestic cars in the Nov. 21-30 period fell nearly 18 percent from year-ago sales of 150,058 units simultaneously with a sharp rise in the prime interest rate to nearly 18 percent.

A rise in the prime doesn't necessarily mean higher borrowing costs for automobile purchases, but it can add to an already poor consumer psychology. Consumer fears seldom coincide with big purchases.

"Car sales are post-ponable," explained Marina Whitman, vice president and chief economist of General Motors Corp. in an interview shortly before the late November sales figures were released.

"Rates have risen faster than expected, and even with inflation deducted, they are high now," she said. "Our hope and expectation is that short-term rates have leveled off," she said at the time.

"But," she added, "if we get no relief it will hurt us and the economy." And, she said, if the country goes into a double dip recession, "it will be because of interest rates."

The problem, while severe for the buyer, generally isn't reflected so much in the monthly payments as it is in the mood of bad times to come. Few people today fail to recognize that rising interest rates, coming at a low point in the economy, foretell even greater problems.

Perhaps even more sensitive to rising rates are automotive dealers. As Ms. Whitman explained, dealers are big borrowers and their money costs are immediately affected by prime rate changes. "When rates get high," she said, "dealers cut back on their inventories."

Dealer cutbacks, of course, can have their own depressing impact on sales because the customer has fewer models from which to choose, and very likely must wait longer for delivery of the model he decides on.

However, Ms. Whitman remains optimistic, an attitude in total conformity with GM's market approach over recent years.

Typically, the GM chairman issues a year-end forecast that serves, temporarily at least, to raise hopes of the industry, its suppliers, workers and buyers - in fact, the hopes of the entire country.

Asked if this optimism was contrived from a sense of responsibility, since GM makes up such a large share of the automotive market, Ms. Whitman answered:

"It isn't just that you feel a responsibility to support the economy but also that you wouldn't be in this business unless you were optimistic. You don't get to be the head of a major corporation without being an optimist."

Later, in assessing the 1981 economy, she conceded: "We really have our work cut out for us."

BARBS

If life is a bowl of cherries, who determines who gets the pits and stems?

People who know what's good for you are usually very careful not to take any of their own advice.

prosecute the "real crooks" in Congress instead of devising artificial schemes to entrap otherwise innocent legislators?

Each additional indictment, trial and conviction in the Abscam scandal produces countless new variations of that question, usually posed by the defendants, their attorneys and those concerned about the civil-liberties aspects of the cases.

Although the issue has produced sharp differences of opinion among observers whose honesty and integrity are unquestioned, there are compelling arguments to support the activities of the law-enforcement officials.

To those who accuse the Justice Department and Federal Bureau of Investigation of abrogating the civil liberties of the politicians, an effective rejoinder can be framed on the basis of both legal and practical considerations.

Entrapment is generally defined as persuading or inducing an innocent or otherwise unwilling person to commit a crime or implanting in his mind the idea of doing so, for the purpose of prosecuting him.

On the other hand, it is generally not considered entrapment when law officers (or their agents) provide the opportunity, facilities or circumstances for those already predisposed to commit a crime.

Those definitions are vague and imprecise because the law itself is murky if not contradictory. The U.S. Supreme Court, for example, first sought to resolve the question in a 1930s decision in a bootlegging case - and has been changing its definition ever since.

Working without a precise definition, the FBI agents assigned to the Abscam investigation sought to - and probably did - remain on the legal side of a very thin and very faint line of demarcation.

But why didn't they search for a "real" conspiracy instead of concocting one themselves? Some answers:

In a sophisticated white-collar conspiracy case, the total number of conspirators invariably can be counted on the fingers of one hand. Discovering the existence of a small, secretive group is highly unlikely and infiltrating it to gain evidence is virtually impossible.

The lengths to which the Abscam defendants were determined to go to insulate themselves offers an indication of the scope of the problem faced by law-enforcement officials.

In almost every case, for instance, the politician involved used an intermediary to conduct the negotiations or handle the bribe money.

It's no coincidence that both defendants in the most recent case to come to trial - Reps. John M. Murphy, D-N.Y., and Frank Thompson Jr., D-N.J. - uttered almost identical words to their middle-man when the undercover FBI agents produced attache cases containing $50,000 in cash.

"You look after that for me, will you?" Thompson said to his agent.

"Howard, why don't you take case of that for me?" Murphy said to the same intermediary.

Rep. John W. Jenrette Jr., D-S.C., convicted earlier, wasn't even present when his bribe money was turned over to a Virginia businessman enlisted for that chore.

The indictment in the case of Sen. Harrison A. Williams Jr., D-N.J., alleges an even more elaborate scheme under which Williams was to be remunerated through stock in a closely held corporation - but the certificates did not identify him as the beneficial owner in order to hide his involvement.

When shrewd politicians routinely take such elaborate precautions to disguise their intent to violate federal laws, there is only one way the FBI can be assured of gathering the evidence necessary for a successful prosecution - by directly participating in the conspiracy.

That's a dirty business that hardly comports with the popular image of law-enforcement officers - but the unacceptable alternative is allowing corruption to flourish at the highest levels of government.

eight of diamonds. This would force East's king and leave South with no diamond loser.

Without that frightful diamond lead by East, the best percentage play for South would be to lead the jack of diamonds at his one chance. West gave him two chances and he had no reason not to take advantage of them.

Nevertheless he played dummy's jack and went down one instead of making his slam.

Amitie Club Will Make Thumbkins

The price of each plaque is $2.

Fifty years ago Ely Culbertson had a column in the Bridge World entitled "Experts at their best and worst." Today's hand from the 1979 World championship might serve as an outstanding example.

At five tables South simply jumped to four hearts, played it there and made five odd. He ruffed the spade lead, drew trumps and led a club. Each West put up his king. South ducked in dummy and each West led a second club. Dummy's ace was played and the jack of diamonds was led. East covered with the king and eventually South lost a diamond trick.

The bidding in the box shows how the Italian pair got to six. The play started the same way but when he got in with the king of clubs this West player shifted to the three of diamonds.

Now all declarer had to do to make six was to play the

Dear Abby

By Abigail Van Buren
© 1980 by Universal Press Syndicate

DEAR ABBY: I am in a nightmarish mess! I'm a 27-year-old married woman expecting my first baby next month. I love my husband and he loves me, but I cannot keep this baby because it isn't my husband's.

Two months before we were married I went out with an old flame. I got drunk and he took advantage of me, and I know this baby is his. My husband and I didn't have relations until after we were married, and my doctor tells me I am eight months along, instead of six as I had hoped.

Abby, I don't want this baby. I can't keep it. I told my husband the truth. He says he still loves me, but he can't love the baby knowing it's not his. Please don't think I'm an animal, but I want to give this baby up for adoption. I'm sure there are lots of people who would love to have it. I simply can't bear the thought of raising this child. What if it looks like my old boyfriend? Don't try to talk me into keeping it. Just tell me where to go to have it adopted, and may God forgive me.

ANONYMOUS, PLEASE

DEAR ANONYMOUS: You don't say where you live, but there must be an adoption agency near you. Your Family Service Association can help you. So can your doctor. Or contact Birthright. If you don't get immediate satisfaction from any of the above suggestions, write again and include your name and address. I promise an immediate response and absolute confidentiality.

DEAR ABBY: I feel stupid asking this question at my age (42), but here goes: What is a first cousin once removed? Is that the same as a second cousin? I know what first cousins are, but I am not sure what kind of relationship makes people second and third cousins.

I'll bet there are lots of other readers who would like to know, too, but they're too ashamed to ask.

NEVER TOO OLD

DEAR NEVER: Thanks for nudging me. I never clearly understood the "once-removed" relationship either, but after researching it, it goes like this:

I have a son named Edward. My sister has a daughter named Margo. Edward and Margo are first cousins. Margo has a son named Adam. What is Adam to Edward? He's a first cousin once removed.

Now, Edward has a son named Tyler. How are Tyler and Adam related? They are second cousins. The children of Adam and the children of Tyler will be third cousins. And their children will be fourth cousins, etc.

DEAR ABBY: When I read letters in your column from people in their 80s claiming that they were still enjoying sex, I was skeptical. However, I changed my mind after the following incident:

I invited my older brother to visit me in Nevada the week of his 88th birthday so we could celebrate. This brother, who's a farmer in Minnesota, has been a widower for 25 years, but he's led a very active life. He had a pacemaker put in a few years ago, but it hasn't slowed him down one bit. He still farms, and bowls on two teams.

My brother phoned to tell me he'd be a few days late because he had to stop off at St. Mary's Hospital in Rochester, Minn., for a day or so, but not to worry as it was nothing serious.

When he arrived we celebrated his 88th birthday in fine fashion at a family gathering. We were all in good spirits, and I might add the spirits were in us, too.

I took my brother aside and jokingly asked him when he last experienced sex. Without batting an eye, he said, "Just before I came here. That's why I was late. I met a widow I knew in the bowling alley and she asked me to drive her home. On the way, I drove off the road into a pasture and we climbed in the back seat. That's when I pulled the wires loose in my pacemaker and had to go to St. Mary's for a new one."

True? I'm sure it was. His first experience was with his school teacher when he was 14.

NO NAMES, PLEASE

Two Mishaps Investigated

Two minor traffic accidents were investigated Thursday by city police.

The first occurred about 11:32 a.m. in the Snyder Shopping Center and was worked by Kerry Fritz. Involved in it were a 1978 Ford driven by Richard Hoyle and a 1977 Ford driven by Maricate Byrd.

Sgt. Dale Burns investigated the other wreck at 4:15 p.m. in the 2400 block of College Ave. There, a 1972 Chevrolet driven by Billy Wayne Kirkpatrick was in collision with a 1975 Oldsmobile driven by Lori Lynn Howell.

Russia's White Sea was named for the glistening ice that covers it most of the year.

Goats May Find New Acceptance

MAYHILL, N.M. (AP) - Goats have never been a particularly beloved species.

Cattlemen, in particular, have traditionally shunned the shaggy beasts, known for voracious and eclectic appetites.

But Elmer Curtis and his herd of 100 goats may be about to change all that.

If Curtis' experiment in the Lincoln National Forest turns out right, he may even endear the little critters to forest rangers.

A hundred goats have been herded into portions of the southern New Mexico forest where pesky underbrush hampers firefighting efforts and keeps grass from growing.

Cows, deer and other animals won't eat the way leaf oak brush, but goats love it, and Curtis hopes his herd will eat enough of the hardy plant to persuade the U.S. Forest Service to let him put even more goats in the forest.

Forestry rangers refer to Curtis' goats as "biological vegetation manipulators."

"They've done a wonderful job" so far, "I'm real happy," said Curtis, whose Angora goats have been grazing for three months in a 30-acre area about 60 miles north of the New Mexico-Texas border.

The same range is also used as pastureland by 36 cattlemen with grazing permits, although the goats, unlike the cattle, are not allowed to roam freely. They are kept inside a movable fence electrified with a solar-recharged, 12-volt battery.

The animals are penned in to keep independent-minded goats from running away and starting wild herds.

"We already have wild horses and wild burros," said Walt Snyder, chief of game management in Santa Fe.

Sheriff's Office Probes Pistol Theft

The Scurry County Sheriff's Department is investigating the theft of a pistol.

The pistol, a .380-caliber, was taken from Jerry Evans. The incident was reported Thursday. Value of the gun was placed at $150.

Anti-Busing Legislation To Be Vetoed By Carter

WASHINGTON (AP) — In a final battle with Congress, President Carter is vetoing legislation he says would undermine the powers of the presidency by barring the government from seeking court-ordered busing to desegregate schools.

With the lame-duck session of Congress in its last hours, some congressional leaders say Carter's position may prevail — at least until Republican Ronald Reagan takes office and the more conservative 97th Congress convenes next month.

Carter told congressional leaders late Thursday he will veto the $9.1 billion appropriation bill containing the anti-busing amendment.

"For any president to accept this precedent would permit a serious encroachment on the powers of this office," Carter said. "I have a responsibility to my successors and to the American people not to permit that encroachment to take place."

Carter said the anti-busing amendment "would effectively allow the Congress to tell a president that there are certain constitutional remedies that he cannot ask the courts to apply."

Annoyed anti-busing leaders in Congress expressed little optimism that they could overturn the president's decision.

"We will do our best to override, but it is going to be difficult because the departing senators, many of whom are more liberal than those who will replace them, will vote to uphold the veto," said Sen. Jesse Helms, R-N.C. "I don't anticipate that we will win, but we will have a vote."

Sen. Orrin Hatch, R-Utah, called the Carter decision a "sorry mistake" and added: "I think there would be enough votes to override that kind of a veto, but I am not sure that the Congress will have enough time to do it."

Senate Republican leader Howard H. Baker of Tennessee said rather than trying to override the veto, Congress probably will adopt a stopgap spending resolution to defer the issue until next year.

However, Congress also may attach the anti-busing amendment to the stopgap resolution as well.

Carter said he would veto that as well despite the operational problems such an action would cause for the government.

"But I would be shirking my constitutional responsibilities if I allowed this unprecedented encroachment on executive authority and responsibility to prevail," Carter said.

The president said busing should be used only as a last resort, but he added: "Busing is not the real issue here. The real issue is whether it is proper for the Congress to prevent the president from carrying out his constitutional responsibility to enforce the Constitution and the laws of the United States."

The amendment was attached to an appropriations bill for the Justice, State and Commerce departments.

It would bar government attorneys from filing or joining court actions requesting desegregation plans that call for busing children farther than the school closest to their homes.

American Samoa, consisting of six small islands in the South Pacific, has a total area of 76 square miles and a population of 30,000.

TO SING HERE SUNDAY—The McMurry College Chanters will present two programs of Christmas music Sunday in Snyder. They will appear in the morning service at Trinity United Methodist Church and in the evening service at First United Methodist Church.

McMurry Choir To Sing Here Sunday

The McMurry College Chanters will make two appearances Sunday in Snyder on their annual Christmas tour.

They are scheduled to sing at the morning worship service at Trinity United Methodist Church and at the Sunday evening worship service at First United Methodist Church.

The Rev. James Merrell, pastor of Trinity United Methodist Church, said the Chanters would have the full morning worship hour there, and following their program, a covered dish meal will be served. All who attend the morning worship service at Trinity are invited to join in the fellowship dinner.

The McMurry Chanters are directed by James Pearce, who is in his second year as director of choirs at the Abilene college. He earned his masters degree at the University of Colorado at Boulder and has done advanced study at the Hochschule fur Musik in Munich, Germany.

The Chanters' tour program will include traditional favorites such as "Angels We Have Heard on High," "Gloria to God in the Highest," and "Silent Night." An original work by Dr. Macon Summerlin, who heads the fine arts division and music department at McMurry, will be heard by audiences for the first time. The Christmas piece is titled "Magnificat."

Other selections include "A Winter Morning," "Carol of the Drum," "Star Carol," "The Holly and the Ivy," and "Josef, Lieber Josef Mein."

Auditions For Dinner Show Set At WTC

Musical auditions for the Western Texas College dinner theatre will be held Dec. 11, Jim Rambo, director, has announced.

Persons interested in auditioning for the show may contact Rambo for details, or just go to the auditions starting at 7 p. m. in the Fine Arts Theatre. Those auditioning should be prepared to perform and bring their own sheet music. An accompanist will be available.

The dinner theatre is to open March 5 and run for six nights.

As always, WTC welcomes community residents to join students in this production and a background of theatre experience is not required.

HEALTH

Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB — How many glasses of water and milk should a girl of 14 drink a day? My mother says at least three glasses of milk. Doesn't that seem a bit much?

DEAR READER — No, it doesn't seem like too much to me. That will provide you with about 850 mg of calcium. The recommended daily dietary allowance for calcium for girls in your age group is about 1200 mg a day which would be closer to four glasses or one quart of milk. I presume your mother is counting on your getting the rest of your calcium from other foods in your balanced diet. You need sufficient calcium for skeletal growth.

You can't always decide how much of one specific food item a person should have. It depends on the contents of the entire diet plan. As a general rule, I would say for a young girl in your age group, three glasses of milk sounds like a minimal requirement. It can be fortified skim milk or fortified low-fat milk if you prefer and wish to avoid calories from the fat in whole milk.

The values for protein and calcium are in The Health Letter number 7-2, Milk Products: Good and Bad, which I am sending you. Other readers who want this issue can send 75 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it. Send your request to me in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

Isn't it surprising how smart mothers are sometimes?

DEAR DR. LAMB — After being married almost 21 years, my wife is being turned off when I start yawning after sex. She feels that I never did this before and that it shows a lack of interest which upsets

Of course, I'm often breathing heavy. If I'm not saying how wonderful it was and thank you and then start yawning, she starts hollering.

I think I've always been this way because I'm tired and sleepy even though I don't always go to sleep right away. I've always thought that most men tended to want to go to sleep afterward. Is this true? I couldn't find a handy reference to the yawning problem. Incidentally, my wife is 39 and I'll be 44 soon.

DEAR READER — One of my old professors used to say that it was surprising what a large hole a man could get himself into by opening such a comparatively small aperture as the mouth — I guess that includes yawning. It is normal for a man to feel sleepy after sex. There are an infinite number of variations in human responses to sex but in general it's probably true that women are more inclined to want to have moments of tenderness and communication after sharing sex whereas men are more inclined to want to go to sleep. You won't be the first man who's had trouble because of that basic difference.

It helps, however, if both parties understand the other's normal inclination and makes an effort to make each other happy — in this case meaning being wanted and loved. If you can learn to stop yawning and provide a sufficient amount of tenderness for your wife before or after sex, your problem should solve itself rather easily.

Your wife could probably learn to realize it's a natural inclination for you to want to go to sleep and not expect a long period of lovemaking after sex is over.

Wrapping Featured At 'Christmas Happening'

Gift wrapping, wreaths and cooking will be featured in a "Wrapping Up Christmas" demonstration during the "Christmas Happening" Sunday afternoon at Western Texas College.

Kathy Roberts, Adele Morgan and Blanche Chisum will be in charge of portions of the demonstrations, scheduled to start at 1:15 p. m., 2:15 p. m. and 3:15 p. m. in the Christian Student Center. There is no admission charge.

Mrs. Roberts, Snyder High School homemaking teacher, will be demonstrating unusual gift wraps, using items to be found around the home and inexpensive materials.

Mrs. Morgan, who was formerly county extension agent for Mitchell County, will be sharing ideas for making wreaths for the home.

Mrs. Chisum, Scurry County Extension Agent, will be giving pointers on food preparation which are useful the year around and especially during the busy holiday season. She will be handing out copies of a master mix which can be used in preparing everything from biscuits and pancakes to cakes and cookies. The basic recipe yields 29 cups of mix which can be stored at room temperature until needed.

For gift-giving, Mrs. Chisum suggests a container filled with this master mix. There are many recipes for using the mix, simplified so that even beginning cooks can have the satisfaction of serving homemade treats with a minimum of preparation time. Some of the recipes are designed for two servings rather than the six to eight servings provided by other recipes.

There are also a granola mix, super salad seasoning mix, chicken coating mix, chili seasoning mix, flaky pie mix, pudding and pie mix, onion-flavored rice mix, Russian refresher mix (beverage), hot chocolate mix, hearty soup mix, fruit cocktail mix, home-style dressing mix and brownie mix.

The Christmas Happening begins at 1 p. m. and is to continue until 5 p. m. with activities at various locations on the WTC campus. The annual event is being sponsored by the Scurry County Museum and the college for the enjoyment of area residents as the holiday season begins, and Santa Claus will be visiting with children throughout the afternoon. Information about times and locations of the activities may be obtained by calling the museum office at 573-6107.

NEW FIRM BACKS UNITED WAY—Although First National Bank of Snyder is only in its organizational stage, its employees supported the Scurry County United Way 100 percent with "fair share" contributions. United Way officials announced as the campaign went "over the top" Thursday. The employees are, from left, Phil Guerry, Lewis Nance, Russell Shannon and Margaret Lacy. (SDN Staff Photo)

FOR GIFTING—Needlepoint artists may still have time to complete one-of-a-kind gifts for Christmas, and Vicki Snyder displays pillows featuring needlepoint holiday motifs. She will be in charge of a needlepoint demonstration at the "Christmas Happening" from 1 p. m. to 5 p. m. Sunday at Western Texas College and her materials will be displayed in the museum.
