Coliseum proposal delayed by chamber

A Monday target date for submission of a proposal from the Snyder chamber of commerce to take over operations of the Scurry County Coliseum will likely be pushed back until late November.

The coliseum issue is on the agenda for Monday's Scurry County Commissioner's Court meeting, but chamber officials said they are still working to gather information.

Daryl Thomas, chamber president-elect, said a proposal at this time would be premature. "We're still crunching numbers. We're going to leave no stone unturned to make sure that we make the right decision."

Thomas said there are several factors delaying a proposal. He said the chamber is still trying to get solid numbers from the county and coliseum and concerning fee schedules, bookings and labor costs.

Also, Thomas said the chamber board could have as many as six new members and that there will be at least one change in the commissioners court.

Thomas said late November would be after the general election and after replacement chamber board members have been nominated. The chamber's executive committee met Thursday to pick a nominating committee. "We're looking for six strong replacements."

Chamber board members whose terms expire are Paula McWilliams, Travis Bunch and Donna Gray. Thomas said three other board members have indicated that they may no longer be able to serve, two because of job transfers.

One change is for certain on the commissioners court. County Judge Bob Doolittle, whose term expires at the end of the year, will be replaced either by Democrat Bobby Goodwin or Republican Ricky Fritz. Goodwin is a former county judge and Fritz is chamber of commerce manager.

Commissioners, during an August budget meeting, acted on a letter of recommendation from the coliseum advisory board that the county enter into an agreement with the chamber to operate the coliseum.

The county sliced some $35,000 from the coliseum budget and Judge Doolittle set an Oct. 17 date to receive a proposal from the chamber.

Doolittle said Monday was not a deadline, but rather a target date. Last month, the coliseum advisory board voted not to meet again until the coliseum issue is resolved.

In other business Monday, the court will discuss an industrial site agreement between the Hermleigh Water Works and the Development Corporation of Snyder.

Also on the agenda is discussion of a petty cash fund at the Scurry County airport due to a recent theft. Also listed are line-item transfers and the approval of bills.

Parent-school group to form

The newly organized Parent-Teacher Partnership will hold its first meeting on Monday at West Elementary Cafeteria, starting at 7:30 p.m.

This is a city-wide parent/teacher council which will focus on the Snyder schools as a whole as opposed to each individual campus. All parents, teachers, staff and administrators from the school district are invited. West Elementary Principal Thomas Fogleman will be the featured speaker at the initial meeting.

Upcoming events to be sponsored by the group includes the Fall Festival on Oct. 29 at the Scurry County Coliseum and the Junior Olympics, tentatively scheduled for April 22.

WTC hosts forum...

Wednesday starts early vote period

Early voting begins Wednesday for the November general election, and the same day Western Texas College will host a "Meet the Candidate Forum" on campus.

Early voting ends Nov. 4 and the last day to make application to vote by mail is Nov. 1. All early voting will take place in the county clerk's office.

The political forum is planned for 10 to 11:30 a.m. in the Fine Arts Theatre.

Members of the community are invited to attend, which will allow individuals to hear views of the various candidates running in Scurry County.

Each candidate will be introduced and have up to 10 minutes to answer questions provided in advance. The questions include:

--What is your background and experience in relation to the office sought?

--Why are you seeking the office?

--What do you see as the major responsibilities of the office?

--What changes would you make in the role or conduct of the office?

--Why should a voter support your candidacy?

Invited include candidates for county judge, Democrat Bobby Goodwin and Republican Ricky Fritz; district clerk hopefuls, incumbent Democrat Elois Pruitt and GOP challenger Polly Echols.

Candidates for county treasurer are Democrat incumbent Charlie Bell and Republican challenger Janet Merritt. Precinct 2 Commissioner candidates are incumbent Roy Idom, a Republican, and Democratic challenger Wayland Huddleston.

For commissioner in precinct 4, candidates are Democrat incumbent Jerry Gannaway and Republican challenger Charlie Henderson. For constable, place one, candidates are Jimmy Wilson, a Democrat, and Bill Adams, an independent.

The political forum will be the second in a week. Last Tuesday, some 250 persons attended a candidate forum hosted by United We Stand, America.

Other races of local interest include Gov. Ann Richards who is being challenged by GOP hopeful George W. Bush. Democratic Congressman Charles Stenholm faces a fight with Republican Phil Boone.

Democratic Senator Steve Carriker faces a second challenge from Republican Tom Haywood, and Democratic State Rep. David Counts is on the ballot against Republican Wilma Hogan.

Chapel fund drive off to quick start

Efforts to raise $75,000 for Snyder's part of a Learning Resource Center at the Price Daniel unit is off to a fast start.

Roy Baze, treasurer of the fund-raising steering committee, reported that the drive now stands at $30,260 which represents 40.2 percent of the goal.

Snyder must raise $75,000 to be combined with a gift of $100,000 to construct a metal building which will serve a variety of self-improvements efforts. Included in the 3,600-square foot building will be a chapel seating 250 persons with moveable walls which can be converted into three smaller classrooms.

The building will also have an office for the chaplain and for three counselors.

Rod Waller, chairman of the fund-raising effort, said steering committee members are out making contacts with various groups, including speaking engagements.

Baze and Miller Robinson met with the Scurry County Ministerial Alliance last Thursday to garner support from various churches and their members.

The Ministerial Alliance will have a community-wide Thanksgiving Service on Nov. 30 at the East Side Church of Christ. The Ministerial Alliance voted that the offering taken at that service be donated to the Learning Resource Center building fund.

Hal Schauer and Associates of Lubbock drew the preliminary plans and are now working with the construction department of the TDCJ to make sure that building plans and specifications meet TDCJ requirements.

Final plans are subject to TDCJ approval, but state officials, including Board Chairman Carol Vance, has endorsed the project. Local economic development committee members are hoping to get formal approval from the TDCJ board at its November meeting in San Antonio.

Roy McQueen, chairman of the EDC, said the fund-raising steering committee hopes to have necessary raised by the end of November.

Baze said all contributions should be made to the Scurry County Area Foundation and donations are approved as a deduction by the Internal Revenue Service.

Contributions may be made to any member of the steering committee or by mailing to P.O. Box 949, Snyder, 79550.

Guilty plea is entered

Another defendant in the Aug. 4 assault of a Snyder man has pled guilty.

Freddie Barrera Hernandez, 18, of 2900 Ave. F pled guilty in 132nd District Court Friday to the charge of aggravated assault of David Paul West.

District Judge Gene Dulaney sentenced Hernandez to seven years in the Texas Department of Criminal Justice and participation in the boot camp program. Hernandez was also fined $500 and ordered to make $16,782 in restitution for medical expenses.

The assault occurred when West objected to a group of men who were encouraging dogs to fight. The indictments said West was hit with fists and a pipe as well as repeatedly kicked.

Ned Moore is bound to be a dedicated teacher. Like most artists, he could make a lot more money doing art than teaching it.

For that reason, we were pleased to see Ned honored at the chamber of commerce banquet as educator of the year — with selection based on recommendations from fellow educators.

Ned's the quite type, but he obviously has the ability to motivate and relate to his students. Each year, Ned is responsible for an art show and competition at the high school.

A few years ago, when Snyder was in the football playoffs, it was a drawing by Ned Moore of the Snyder football team that landed on the cover of an SDN special edition and on numerous sweatshirts.

Moore is also behind another booster project this season. You likely have seen the caricatures of Snyder High School athletes running each week in the Athlete of the Week ad sponsored by Joel Hook and McDonald's of Snyder.

Ned isn't personally doing the drawings, but 17 talented third-year art students at SHS take turns of drawing caricatures of local athletes.

Ned Moore was a dandy choice for the chamber award recognition.

Speaking of recognition, we read that there is no contest for the top Halloween mask this year.

The hottest mask for 1994's Halloween is not Bill or Hillary Clinton, Ross Perot, Saddam Hussein, Jerry Jones or Troy Aikman. You guessed it — it's O.J. Simpson.

Former trooper sentenced

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — A federal judge has sentenced a former state trooper who used his patrol car to smuggle marijuana past a South Texas highway checkpoint.

Aaron Almendarez, 25, of Falfurrias was assessed a 30-month prison sentence and a $2,000 fine Friday by Judge Orlando Garcia. The judge also ordered that Almendarez be placed on supervised release for four years after he gets out of prison.

Almendarez pleaded guilty in August to conspiracy to possess marijuana with intent to distribute.

He was convicted of participating in a drug ring in which a former Corpus Christi Barracudas pitcher also has been charged. Eight people have been convicted so far in an ongoing investigation.

Accompanied by relatives to the sentencing, Almendarez apologized to his wife and family members and to the judge.

"It was a mistake, definitely not a habit," he told the judge. Assistant U.S. Attorney Greg Rogers said Almendarez was a narcotics interdiction trooper based in Falfurrias when he helped move marijuana through a U.S. Border Patrol checkpoint at Hebbronville.

At the time, the trooper was assigned to patrol the highways for drug runners. Almendarez admitted transporting 345 pounds of marijuana, for which he was paid $50 per pound.

Almendarez admitted to hauling marijuana through the checkpoint at least five other times in the trunk and back seat of his DPS patrol car.

"He'd wave as he drove through," one investigator said.

Almendarez, the son of a minister, was discharged in April, 12 days after he was indicted, a DPS spokesman said Friday.

State district court must decide in custody dispute

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — A state district court must determine whether a French woman infected with the virus that causes AIDS can return home with her teen-age son, a judge has ruled.

Lawyers for Leo Midha's mother and father, Cosima and Deepak Midha, have battled in two separate state courts and before a federal judge this week over custody of their 12-year-old son.

Earlier in the week, the argument resulted in the woman fleeing to Houston with her son in an attempt to board a plane for France. But the father waited at Houston Intercontinental Airport in hopes of intercepting them.

By midweek, Mrs. Midha had returned to San Antonio with the boy.

State District Judge Andy Mireles ruled Friday that the dispute should return again to court for a hearing to determine if Mrs. Midha will be permitted to return to France with Leo Midha.

Earlier, one judge entered a controversial ruling that the mother's custody should be reviewed because of her HIV infection. But another judge told the woman she could return to France with the boy.

Leo Midha, who spent the summer with his father in San Antonio, has testified in court that he does not want to return to France because he worries about getting AIDS.

His mother has said she contracted the virus through a tainted blood transfusion in France.

Espy adviser subpoenaed by independent counsel

WASHINGTON (AP) — Kim Schnoor, the chief domestic adviser to Agriculture Secretary Mike Espy, has been subpoenaed by the special prosecutor investigating Espy and favors he received from food companies. The subpoena comes hardly a month after Independent Counsel Donald C. Smaltz of Los Angeles was appointed by a three-judge panel to investigate Espy. In her position, Schnoor has had close contact with department decisions, including work on poultry regulations. Schnoor did not return a phone call, but a source familiar with the investigation confirmed the subpoena was issued. Schnoor was named in an April 1993 memo from former Food Safety and Inspection Service chief Russell Cross as one of two

Espy aides who asked that work on tighter poultry regulations be stopped. Work eventually resumed, and new regulations were proposed in July 1994. Smaltz, among other things, is looking into whether sports tickets, travel and lodging that Espy received from Arkansas poultry magnate Don Tyson influenced decisions by the Agriculture Department. Before coming to the department, Schnoor worked for a lobbying firm and had Sun Diamond

Growers of California as a client. And before that, she worked as an aide to former Rep. Tony Coelho.

Grace Lutheran Church's pastor also prison chaplain

Grace Lutheran Church has a new pastor.

REV. JIM WRIGHT

The Rev. Jim Wright has assumed the pastorate of the Snyder church. He is a chaplain with the Federal Bureau of Prisons in Big Spring.

He was assigned to this position in June of this year when transferred from El Reno, Okla. Wright, a native of Tulsa, Okla., and his wife, Kay, have a 21-year-old son and a daughter, 11, who attends the seventh grade.

Kay works part-time caring for persons confined to their homes due to illness or age. They currently reside in Big Spring and will commute to Snyder.

"When assigned to Big Spring, my family and I began looking for a church home," Wright said. "Churches of the Evangelical Lutheran Church of America (ELCA) are rare in these parts, nearly as rare as is a ELCA pastor."

Wright tried to make contact with Grace Lutheran several times, and when he succeeded he said he was surprised to find that the church was without a pastor. He then offered his services and was accepted.

Wright is a 1989 graduate of Pacific Lutheran Theological Seminary in Berkeley, Calif. and is currently a doctoral student with Luther Theological Seminary in St. Paul, Minn.

He enlisted in the U.S. Air Force in 1968.

Wright's assignment to the Federal Correctional Institution in Big Spring is his fourth after eight years with the prison system.

Grace Lutheran Church celebrates worship every Sunday at 9 a.m. Every other Sunday, Holy Communion (the Eucharist) is celebrated. Following the service, Sunday School is conducted until 11 a.m.

Each Saturday at 10 a.m. an adult Bible study is held. Currently the theme is adult confirmation following catechism and the teaching of Martin Luther.

"Grace Lutheran is a small congregation, composed of people who have a special faith founded in Christ. Grace has the opportunity to grow," Wright said.

Speaking on behalf of himself and the church, Wright invites anyone to "join us and grow with us. We invite the community to attend any or all of these worship events."

Fails second time

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — A capital murder defendant has failed in his second try to have a female judge removed from his case.

Ricky Eugene Kerr, 35, who has said he believes women have no authority over men, had first sought to have state District Judge Sharon MacRae removed from his case last week.

McSpadden completes deployment

Marine Cpl. Loy B. McSpadden, son of Dr. and Mrs. W. B. McSpadden, Snyder, recently completed a six-month deployment to the Western Pacific and Indian Oceans with 2nd Battalion, 5th Marines.

McSpadden was one of 2,200 Marines and 2,000 Sailors in the four-ship USS Peleliu Amphibious Ready Group. During the deployment, McSpadden served three months off the coast of Somalia and helped in the evacuation of U. S. citizens from Rwanda and Burundi.

The Marines and Sailors provided valuable assistance to on-scene embassy personnel, offering medical help and command and control support. The American citizens and other foreign nationals were evacuated to Nairobi, Kenya.

The Navy and Marine Corps team is designed to operate overseas and respond quickly when needed. Whether delivering humanitarian assistance, cargo or troops from the sea, these highly trained naval forces provide a unique crisis-response option, which can be withdrawn quickly if no longer needed.

The 1988 graduate of Snyder High School joined the Marine Corps in December of 1988.

Float runs over 12-year-old

OKLEE, Minn. (AP) — A homecoming float ran over and killed a 12-year-old girl who had jumped off to pick up some candy.

Officials said the float carrying the girl's seventh-grade class was making a slow U-turn to park at the end of the parade route Friday when the girl jumped off.

The homecoming game between the Warren Ponies and the Oklee Mustangs went on as scheduled Friday night because it was too late to cancel. But other events, including a dance, were canceled, said teacher Mike Swenson.

Ironically, the theme of the float was "Rest in Peace, Ponies," Swenson said. He said he could not remember much about the float except that it had black goal posts.

Authorities declined to release the girl's name. Swenson described her as a "normal, fun loving kid" who was involved in volleyball and 4-H in Oklee, a northwestern Minnesota town of about 440.

Plans were being made to bring in counselors to talk to the 250 students at Oklee Public School, he said.

New York City Mayor James J. "Gentleman Jimmy" Walker resigned in 1932, following charges of graft and corruption in his administration.

Some people believe the secret of successful investing is to properly time the market—buying investments when prices are bottoming out and selling them when prices peak. In theory, that's a wonderful idea; unfortunately, it's also like saying the secret to becoming rich is to discover a buried treasure. It's easier said than done.

To test the success of market timing, Hulbert Financial Digest studied 29 market-timing strategies over a period of five years. (The study considered the after-tax return of an upper-middle-class investor.) The results of the study showed a simple buy-and-hold philosophy outperformed 28 of the 29 market-timing strategies. In other words, those investors who bought and held onto their investments for the five years fared better than those who tried to buy low and sell high.

A University of Michigan study came to the same conclusion. Trying to predict when to be invested in stocks and when to be out of the market is nearly impossible.

The Michigan study covered 1982 to 1987, a five-year bull market. Based on the Standard & Poor's 500 average annualized return for this period, an investor who stayed invested the entire 1,276 trading days would have realized a 26.3 percent annualized return. Had that same investor missed just 10 of the biggest gain days while trying to time the market, his or her return would have dropped to 18.3 percent. Had he or she missed the 40 biggest gain days, the return would have fallen to 4.3 percent! Missing these biggest-day movements would not be unheard of for the in-and-out trader. Typically, more dramatic price increases follow a prolonged decline. After that, increases tend to be more orderly.

The message is simple: Dramatic stock-market gains are generally limited to a relatively few trading days. If you want to be there when they happen, you've got to stay in the market.

QUESTION: I don't think my husband understands the problems I experience during the menstrual cycle. Will you offer some advice to him about these physiological factors?

DR. DOBSON: Having never had a period, it is difficult for a man to comprehend the bloated, sluggish feeling that motivates his wife's snappy remarks and irritability during the premenstrual period.

I am reminded of an incident related to me by my late friend Dr. David Hernandez, who was an obstetrician and gynecologist in private practice. The true story involves Latin men whose wives were given birth control pills by a pharmaceutical company. The Federal Drug Administration in America would not permit hormonal research to be conducted, so the company selected a small fishing village in South America, which agreed to cooperate.

All the women in the town were given the pill on the same date, and after three weeks, the prescription was terminated to permit menstruation. That meant, of course, that every adult female in the community was experiencing premenstrual tension at the same time. The men couldn't take it. They all headed for their boats each month and remained at sea until the crisis passed.

Going fishing is not the answer to monthly physiological stresses, of course. It is extremely important for a man to learn to anticipate his wife's menstrual period, recognizing the emotional changes that will accompany it. Of particular importance is the need for affection and tenderness during this time, even though she may be rather unlovable for three or four days.

He should also avoid discussions of financial problems or other threatening topics until the internal storm has passed, and keep the home atmosphere as tranquil as possible.

Let me conclude by addressing a final comment directly to husbands. Because stress is such an influential factor in this problem of premenstrual tension, anything you can do to reduce environmental pressure is sure to help her feel better. If you are aware of the times when she is going to be feeling the strain, you should lighten the family commitments.

Eating out can reduce the obligation to plan and cook meals. Do what you can to keep the kids out of her hair, especially the noisy, younger ones. Take them to the park for an afternoon. Read to them or engage them in a quiet game, leaving their mother free to relax as much as possible.

Because your wife's sexual desire is at a low ebb that week, make fewer physical demand on her—but continue to be affectionate, reassuring and loving toward her. Remember that women often feel "ugly" when they are experiencing premenstrual tension, so let her know that you find her as attractive as ever.

In some ways, the husband's role during his wife's menstrual period should be that of an understanding, loving, gentle parent. Just as parents do more giving than receiving, this is a man's time to support his wife in every way possible.

QUESTION: What should parents look for as symptoms of drug abuse?

DR. DOBSON: Listed below are eight physical and emotional symptoms that may indicate substance abuse by your child or teenager:

1. Inflammation of the eyelids and nose is common. The pupils of the eyes are either very wide or very small, depending on the kind of drugs internalized.
2. Extremes of energy may be represented. Either the individual is sluggish, gloomy and withdrawn, or he may be loud, hysterical and jumpy.
3. The appetite is extreme—either very great or very poor. Weight loss may occur.
4. The personality suddenly changes. The individual may become irritable, inattentive and confused, or aggressive, suspicious and explosive.
5. Body and breath odor is often bad. Cleanliness is generally ignored.
6. The digestive system may be upset—diarrhea, nausea and vomiting may occur. Headaches and double vision are also common.
7. Needle marks on the body, usually appearing on the arms, are an important sign. These punctures sometimes get infected and appear as sores and boils.
8. Moral values often crumble and are replaced by new, way-out ideas and values.

Research lacking in patients

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — Researchers in a national study of prostate cancer, for which minorities are especially at risk, have a shortage of black and Hispanic test subjects.

The Prostate Cancer Prevention Trial was intended to determine whether the disease can be prevented in healthy men.

The year-old test has recruited 10,500 of the 18,000 men needed for the study at 220 medical centers nationwide, about 10 percent of them in San Antonio.

Men from some ethnic minority groups are more likely to die from the disease, leaders of the Central Texas-based study said.

So organizers are turning to churches in black and Hispanic communities for volunteers, said Dr. Otis Brawley, who oversees the study for the National Cancer Institute.

"We are telling them what we are doing, telling them the importance of what we are doing, why minority participation is important," Brawley said Friday.

Brawley's comments came during the annual meeting of the Southwest Oncology Group, a San Antonio-based group of cancer researchers heading the study.

About 200,000 men are expected to be diagnosed with prostate cancer this year. Some 38,000 will die of the disease, according to the American Cancer Association.

Blacks are twice as likely to die of the disease as are other groups, Brawley said.

Although Hispanics appear to have a lower rate of prostate cancer, that may be because "they have not been as integrated into our medical system as we would like," Brawley said.

The seven-year, $60 million study is looking at whether widespread prostate cancer screening and treatment is necessary.

REDUCED county equipment EXPENSE by giving a seldom used motor-grader that was in Precinct 2 to Precinct 3. (Approx. SAVINGS $112,000)

LOOK AT THE FACTS:

1. The grader was seldom used.
2. Not unusual to transfer equipment between precincts or to trade inventory of one precinct in on equipment for another precinct.
3. The inventory shows the value of the 1987 model motor grader at time of purchase at $74,000.
4. Commissioner's Court Records Shows (Vol 24, pg 200):

*Precinct 3 PAID Precinct 2 $15,000 for the use of the motor grader so Mr. Idom could purchase a Tandem Axle Truck
*Motion to accomplish this made by Mr. Idom.

I DO NOT BELIEVE MY OPPONENT CAN JUSTIFY THIS "SAVINGS"!

REDUCED employees in Precinct 2 by not replacing personnel who quit and still have maintained our roads in GOOD working condition.

Employee referred to here quit in June 1990 and was not replaced by the previous Commissioner. ASK ME TO DISCUSS OUR COUNTY ROADS WITH YOU.

ZERO BASE BUDGETING—annual justification of needs instead of historical usage of funds.

ZERO BASE BUDGETING was first implemented during the term of former County Judge Bobby Goodwin. It was in place BEFORE my opponent took office. Therefore, I have to question WHY the Commissioner's Court allowed my opponent to ASK FOR GET $11,785 that was left in the 1990 Budget. (Vol 24 pg 32).

Note:

• All budget figures are from the budget as originally adopted by the Commissioner's Court for each year. They DO NOT (and SHOULD NOT) reflect amendments to the budget.

• All actual expenditures are taken from the official budget information as prepared by the county auditor's office.

Cisneros probe deepens

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Justice Department is deepening its investigation of Housing Secretary Henry Cisneros' payments to former lover Linda Medlar, focusing on details of when and how much he paid her.

Cisneros' attorney, Cono Namorato, said Friday that federal investigators decided to open what is known as a preliminary inquiry, which gives the Justice Department 90 days to decide whether to seek appointment of a special prosecutor to conduct a full investigation.

For the past 30 days, Justice investigators were trying to decide whether the allegations were specific and credible.

"It doesn't at all surprise us given the limited nature of the language in the statute," Namorato said. "We remain very confident the investigation will go nowhere."

Investigators have been looking at whether Cisneros understated the payments during background interviews with FBI agents as part of his nomination to run the Department of Housing and Urban Development.

Cisneros, in a statement relayed through his lawyer, said: "I have made mistakes in judgment in my personal life, but I have always adhered to the law. I have not allowed this matter to distract me from my duties."

White House chief of staff Leon Panetta concurred in Cisneros' decision to stay on the job at HUD.

"There is no conclusion by the fact that they're going to pursue it further for these 90 days," Panetta said. "Obviously we continue to have great confidence in him and the way he has performed his job."

The inquiry centers on taped conversations between Cisneros and Medlar, in which they fretted over whether his Cabinet nomination would be derailed once FBI agents learned of the payments.

"The issue now is not whether assistance was provided to Ms. Medlar, the propriety of such assistance or the secretary's disclosures about those matters," Namorato said. "The focus of the investigation appears to be the details of the timing and amounts of the assistance."

Medlar sued Cisneros for fraud and breach of contract in July, alleging he reneged on a verbal agreement to pay her $4,000 a month until her teen-age daughter graduated from college. She sought $256,000 and unspecified punitive damages.

Skip Bo planned at center

Skip Bo will be the feature of the Senior Center's Game Day on Monday, with games starting at 9:30 a.m. There will also be a Nine Ball tournament.

Senior citizens will be giving volunteer time in the distribution of commodities, accepting reservations for the Ritz Community Theatre, and entertaining at Snyder Healthcare Center this week. Commodities will be distributed through the Senior Center from 9-11:30 a.m. and 1-3 p.m. on Wednesday. Reservations for the Ritz production of "The Cemetery Club" can be made by calling the center at 573-4035 between 2-5 p.m. Monday through Friday. The play will be presented Oct. 21-23 and Oct. 28-30 at North Elementary School. The center's Sunshine Choir will go to the Snyder Healthcare Center to entertain residents at 10 a.m. Friday.

Senior Center volunteers are recognized at a banquet each year and awarded certificates or service pins. Many volunteers return their pins once they have advanced to a higher level and received a pin for the new level. The center would appreciate other volunteers who have received higher level pins returning old pins to be "recycled" and thus save money for the center.

The executive committee of the local chapter of the American Association of Retired Persons will meet in the center at 11:15 a.m. Monday and the chapter meeting will follow at noon.

The Golden K Kiwanis Club, which meets in the center at noon each Tuesday, is planning a garage sale at the center on Nov. 5. Anyone who would like to contribute items for the sale may take them to the center at 2603 Ave. M Monday through Friday. Proceeds will go for club projects, many of which benefit the center. Men and women 60 and older are invited to join the club.

Entertainment in the center during the week will include a performance by Hoss Clayton and his band at 11 a.m. Tuesday, and a performance by the Senior Saints at 11 a.m. Thursday. Senior citizens are reminded that the center's Halloween party is being planned for Oct. 31, with prizes for the best costumes.

The Tri-Chem textile painting class will meet at 9 a.m. Thursday. An aerobics class for women meets at 2:30 p.m. on Monday and Thursday. The co-ed swimming class meets from 9:45-11:15 a.m. on Tuesdays and Thursdays at the Western Texas College indoor swimming pool and new members may join the group at any meeting. Senior citizens can have their blood pressure checked from 9:30-11 a.m. each Friday in the center.

Mary Hood advises seniors about preparing for college

Dr. Mary Hood, director of counseling services at Western Texas College, made presentations to Snyder High School English classes last week concerning college applications, choosing a college, college entrance exams (ACT and SAT I), financial aid, opportunities at vocational-technical schools and other information to help seniors plan for the future.

Dr. Hood briefed seniors on testing required for college and reminded them to take the ACT or the SAT I as soon as possible. The ACT will be administered on the WTC campus on Oct. 22, Dec. 10, Feb. 4 and April 8.

The SAT I will be administered at Snyder High School on Dec. 3 and Jan. 28 (other test dates are also scheduled). Students must register for these tests approximately one month before the test date. Classes are taught at SHS by Jamie Hall (math), and Cindy Herdige, (English) to familiarize students with the ACT and SAT I during the fall and spring semesters. Also, computer programs are available in the counseling office to provide practice for both tests.

Another test date, the Texas Assessment of Skills Program (TASP) must be taken before accumulating nine or more college-level semester credit hours, or the equivalent. Every student pursuing a degree in a public institution must take the TASP, and education majors in a private or public institution must also take it. WTC has special workshops to prepare students for the TASP.

Dr. Hood also encouraged seniors to submit college applications early. The deadline for entry notification for some schools is Feb. 1, and the general application deadline is March 1. College catalogs are available in the counseling office and students are encouraged to check on the deadline for the college they plan to attend. The senior English teachers, Betty Henderson, Beth Bowen and Ed McAnally, assist students in writing essays for the college admission application. The senior English teachers, the counselors, and other high school teachers also write recommendation letters and provide other assistance for students.

Several career resources are available to students at the high school counseling office and on the WTC campus. A computer-based career planning system, DISCOVER, developed by American College Testing (ACT) is available at both the high school and college. This program also provides help in choosing a college, vocational-technical programs, and other career planning information. To further assist students in choosing an occupation, a Career Day, sponsored by WTC, SHS and the Snyder Rotary Club will be held on Nov. 17. All high school students will choose three career sessions. WTC professors, business men and women and other community leaders will speak to students about their careers.

Dr. Hood urged seniors to apply for financial aid and scholarships. A large amount of aid is provided through the federal PELL grant program, an award to help undergraduates pay for their education after high school.

Seniors apply for PELL grant funds by completing the Free Application for Federal Student Aid (FAFSA) after Jan. 1, 1995.

A Financial Aid Workshop for parents and students will be held at SHS on Jan. 12. If parents or students have questions, they may call high school counselors, Charlene Light, Scott Blocker or Lynn Crisp. Also, WTC counselors, Dr. Hood, Dan Osborn and Carolyn Osborn; and WTC financial aid advisor, Dennis Carlton, are available to assist high school students with college and financial aid.

Ice cream now blamed for illness in some 35 states

ST. PAUL, Minn. (AP) — Health officials have traced thousands of suspected cases of salmonella in at least 35 states to ice cream produced by a Minnesota company.

Now they're trying to find the source of the bacteria.

"We're looking at everything from the ingredients to the mixes to the transportation system to the plant," said Jackie Renner, a spokeswoman for the state Agriculture Department.

Schwan's Sales Enterprises, based in Marshall, recalled its ice cream last week after the first reports of food poisoning. Investigators have found salmonella bacteria in samples of Schwan's ice cream from people who got ill.

The federal Centers for Disease Control and Prevention has 400 confirmed cases of salmonella from Schwan's ice cream, and 3,000 to 5,000 suspected cases.

Salmonella causes nausea, vomiting, cramps, diarrhea, fever and headaches. Symptoms are most severe in infants, the elderly and people with weak immune systems.

The CDC said the confirmed cases came from 15 states: Colorado, Delaware, Georgia, Illinois, Indiana, Iowa, Maryland, Minnesota, Nebraska, New York, Oregon, Pennsylvania, South Dakota, Washington and Wisconsin.

Experience and maturity...

There is more to being a county judge than presiding over commissioners' court and serving as chief budget officer. However, I am the one candidate with experience at this.

In addition, the county judge is responsible for criminal and probate courts. These are serious situations where maturity is required to determine merits of the facts presented. Decisions reached can have financial consequences as well as loss of freedom.

This responsibility as the judge of the county criminal and probate court is a grave one. It must not be approached lightly. I am the only candidate with experience as a presiding judge. I sincerely solicit your vote and support in the general election. Early voting begins Wednesday.

SHS' Sarah Fisher named 1995 Commended Student

Principal Larry Scott of Snyder High School announced that Sarah Fisher has been named a Commended Student in the 1995 National Merit Scholarship Program. A Letter of Commendation from National Merit Scholarship Corporation, which conducts the program, will be presented by the school to this scholastically able senior.

About 35,000 Commended Students throughout the nation are being honored for their exceptional academic promise. They placed among the top five percent of more than a million students who entered the 1995 Merit Program by taking the 1993 Preliminary SAT/National Merit Scholarship Qualifying Test. Although the qualifying test scores of Commended Students are outstanding, they are slightly below the level required to continue in the competition for Merit Scholarships to be awarded in 1995.

A Merit Program spokesperson commented, "It is important to acknowledge the attainments of academically talented students and to credit schools for the key role they play in their development. We hope the recognition received by the able young men and women who are commended in this rigorous, nationwide competition will encourage them to take advantage of their opportunities for higher education and to diligently pursue their professional goals. The nation will benefit from the full development of this precious intellectual resource."

Fisher, 16, a senior and the daughter of Dorothy and Dave Peterson, is a member of the high school band. She plays the flute during marching season and the oboe for concerts.

She also accomplished her first solo flight this fall. Her long range goal is to receive her private pilot's license.

After graduation, Sarah hopes to attend Texas A&M University.

Three children, two adults killed

RICHMOND, Va. (AP) — A woman, her three children and another person were shot to death Friday in an apartment in a high-crime neighborhood.

Two other children were wounded: an 18-month-old and a pregnant 14-year-old girl, who lost her seven-month-old fetus.

A neighbor said she heard shots fired and children scream shortly after 9 a.m. in the second-floor apartment of the Gilpin Court housing complex.

"I just can't believe it. I can't believe somebody would do something like that to children," said the neighbor. "The kids were always playing out here — normal kids, bringing home stuff, playing in the dirt."

The neighbor, who said she feared retribution if she identified herself, described hearing a "Pow, pow, pow."

"At first I thought it was someone banging on something," she said. She and her daughter "heard the little children holler, and after that two pows. That was it."

Please Vote For Polly Wadleigh Echols District Clerk

I am running for District Clerk in the elections that are coming up this November. This election period will see changes all across the country. The regular American is ready for a conservative "for the people" attitude in their elected officials. The trend in thought is pushing for less government, a lighter tax burden, return of prayer in schools, the sanctity of life, the lifting up of moral behavior and accountability for one's actions.

I am one of those regular Americans who hope to make a small difference. A difference by the way I live, the way I treat people and the way I vote.

If elected as District Clerk, I can't say that there will be great changes in the Office. That would be unwise. But, little changes can make a great difference. My Office will be managed like I operate my business, the Mail Center Plus. My hours will include being open during the noon hour so that child support business can be conveniently handled on working parents regular lunch break time. Those coming to research files will not have to leave and come back any longer. I desire that each of the public employees in that office exhibit a friendly attitude, a caring spirit and a willing hand.

I have been blessed with very good health. If life continues as it has, I will be able to be on the job daily, completing a full four year term. This in turn should make possible some savings in County dollars, both in labor and insurance.

Though I have not worked in the Courthouse before, I feel that my background of Accounting, Office Management and owning my own Business Center exhibits the ability to learn rapidly and handle different working requirements. I learn easily, I am driven to do a good job and I am open to the changing technology that improves productivity and information. Being more than just a bit of a workaholic that wants things right, I feel sure that your tax dollars will be well invested in my Office.

Candidate For Scurry County Treasurer

To the taxpayers of Scurry County, I would like to make a fact clear:

My opponent has stated:

"I consider a major responsibility of my office, as Treasurer, to be the accounting and investing of some 18 million dollars of revenue generated by Scurry County."

IN FACT THE INVESTING OF TAX DOLLARS AND OTHER REVENUE OF SCURRY CO. IS MADE BY COMMISSIONERS COURT, COUNTY JUDGE, AUDITOR AND CO. TREASURER.

IT IS ALSO THE DUTY OF THE COUNTY TREASURER TO NOTIFY THE COMMISSIONER'S COURT OF ANY CHANGES IN THE CURRENT INVESTMENT METHODS PRIOR TO IMPLEMENTATION.

With Absentee Voting starting October 19, I would sincerely hope that you would look at my qualifications:

- ★ 15 years experience in accounting, payroll and finances.
- ★ 2 years, prior experience in the County Treasurer's Office as Chief Deputy giving me a complete working knowledge of the duties and functions.

I WOULD APPRECIATE YOUR VOTE AND SUPPORT

Houston bank heist

HOUSTON (AP) — One woman suffered minor injuries and two others were frightened but otherwise unhurt Friday during a robbery attempt at a Houston savings and loan office.

The gunman fled and it was not immediately certain how much money was taken.

Police SWAT teams blocked off busy Westheimer Avenue near Houston's Galleria shopping center after shots were reported fired inside the Guardian Savings branch. Police were uncertain if the gunman remained in the bank and blocked traffic along the street, one of the most congested in Houston.

The injured woman was treated for superficial wounds after the gunman fired several times inside the office. Paramedics said she would be fine.

Police were looking for a lone gunman.

Tigers take big 23-14 win...

Defense shuts down top-rated Frenship

By Todd Stanley
SDN Sports Editor

Snyder scored an insurance touchdown late in the fourth quarter while the Tiger defense held the potent Frenship offense in check throughout the game as Snyder captured an impressive 23-14 District 5-4A upset victory in Tiger Stadium Friday night.

Snyder (4-3 overall, 1-1 in 5-4A) got a strong defensive team effort and tough running from senior tailback Chris Mitchell, who finished with 156 ground yards on 22 carries.

"This win is a testimony to our kids and our coaching staff," Snyder head coach David Baugh beamed. "Everyone involved did a great job."

"I don't think anybody realizes what a big win this was for us. We've been through a lot of adversity to get to this point."

Snyder's stubborn defense and a constant drizzle combined to contain the state's No. 1 Class 4A passing attack of Frenship quarterback Chad Reynolds and split end Donnie Hart.

Reynolds finished the night with 148 yards passing, most of which was to Hart, who ended with 70 yards receiving.

Snyder led throughout, but a 22-yard touchdown completion from quarterback Matt Parker to tight end Mark Love with 2:42 left in the fourth quarter sealed the game for the Tigers.

Frenship (5-2, 1-1) tried to rally on its final possession in the final stanza, but was unsuccessful as Frenship was unable to convert on fourth-and-8 from its own 26-yard line with 1:44 left remaining.

The battle began with both teams capitalizing on their opening possessions.

Mitchell started Snyder off with a bang just 2:18 into the first quarter by racing 49 yards off right tackle for a touchdown.

On the play, Mitchell disappeared into the right side of the line and ran smack into two Frenship defenders. He bounced off the defenders and stepped over another before scampering down the sideline and diving into the endzone.

Parker's extra point made the score 7-0 with 9:42 left in the first quarter.

Frenship, however, struck back on a 16-yard pass play from Reynolds to Hart. Eric Serna added the extra point to knot the score at 7-7 with 7:12 left in the first quarter.

Despite the touchdown pass to Hart, Snyder senior cornerback John Clinkinbeard effectively slowed down the state's leading receiver by allowing him just seven receptions.

The two teams exchanged possessions, but with 5:00 left in the first period, Frenship was forced to punt and Snyder started their third possession of the game deep in their own territory.

All the Tigers needed was a screen pass to fullback Greg McAden to remedy the situation. McAden took the pass, and with excellent blocking downfield, rumbled 40 yards to give Snyder a first down at the visitors' 38-yard line.

A few plays later at the Frenship 7-yard line, Coach Baugh delved into the playbook once again and again called the screen play to McAden.

This time, Parker hit the senior fullback in stride and McAden turned it upfield for the touchdown with 10:58 left in the first half. Parker was unable to convert the extra point attempt as the Tigers held onto their lead 13-7.

A crucial point for Snyder came when Frenship was unable to convert a third-and-11 play at its own

The Frenship punter, Reynolds, shanked the punt, giving Snyder the ball at the Frenship 40-yard line with a minute left before intermission.

Parker was able to maneuver the team into field goal range with a 6-yard completion to split end Marlowe Riggins.

Two plays later, Parker converted a 46-yard field goal giving Snyder a 16-7 lead at the half.

Frenship struggled offensively in the second half, thanks to an testy Snyder defensive unit.

The only score by Frenship in the second half came with 8:52 left in third quarter when Ray Witherspoon slipped in from 5 yards out. Serna booted the extra point, cutting the Snyder lead to 16-14.

Snyder travels to Lamesa Friday night for a 7:30 conference tilt.

Hornets sting Ira Bulldogs

IRA — Despite drizzle that fell through most of the game, the Ira Bulldogs found their passing game the only bright spot as the Highland Hornets rolled to a 75-30 victory over the host Bulldogs Friday night in a District 6-A six-man encounter.

Despite passing for 304 yards, the Bulldogs could not contain the powerful Hornet offensive sting as the game ended with just over seven minutes left.

Ira remains winless this year in seven starts while Highland is tied for the conference lead with a 2-0 record, the same as Lorraine.

Next Friday, the Bulldogs of Coach Darren Janssen remain in Scerry County but travel to Hermleigh in a cross-county shootout.

Hermleigh rips Coyotes 35-8

Cardinals' defense shuts down Coyote passing game

GAIL — Hermleigh running back Joey Sanchez and the Cardinals' defense combined to light up the scoreboard and shut down the Borden County offensive attack as Hermleigh notched its second District Six-Man win, 35-8.

Sanchez scored on touchdown runs from 1, 45 and 38 yards in the first half as the Cardinals led 20-0 at halftime.

Borden County got on the board in the third quarter with a 42-yard touchdown run by Oscar Baeza with 6:44 left. Juan Galvan added the two-point conversion as the Coyotes got back in the game 20-8.

Sanchez, however, struck twice in the fourth quarter to dash Borden County's hopes for a comeback.

On a 5-yard pass from quarterback Chris Roemisch, Sanchez scored for the fourth time of the night. Roemisch completed the extra point on a pass to end Jimmy Digby to make the score 28-8 with 4:37 remaining in the fourth quarter.

With only 1:53 left in the game, Sanchez picked off Coyote quarterback Kurt Hess and returned the interception 53 yards for a touchdown. Sanchez, then, added the two-point conversion as the Cardinals went up 35-8.

"We definitely needed this win," Hermleigh head coach David Rogers said. "This win really boosted the kids' confidence."

"I think it was also a good teaching tool. It showed them if they work hard in practice, it will pay off in the game."

Hermleigh's defense held the Coyotes in check all night, allowing just 23 yards passing by quarterback Hess. Borden County's leading rusher of the night was Oscar Baeza, who racked up 84 yards on 11 carries.

Sanchez delivered 168 yards on 18 carries.

"I had a good feeling about this game on the way to Gail," Rogers said. "We had the best workouts of the year this week."

Baseball officials continue to meet

WASHINGTON (AP) — Even as President Clinton called on the nation's top mediator Friday to settle the baseball strike, union officials stood outside the Oval Office and renewed their criticism of owners.

"It is a dispute that can't be resolved easily, nor quickly," mediator W.J. Usery said after being introduced during a White House news conference. "In fact, what little bit that I do know about the things in the dispute, it will take considerable time and considerable effort."

Union head Donald Fehr, after a very short private meeting with Clinton and acting commissioner Bud Selig, said free agent filings will begin Saturday, the date called for in the labor agreement that expired last Dec. 31. Owners last week asked for a 45-day freeze on filing and signings, but the union told owners Friday that players won't agree to it.

"They have made it clear that if we don't agree to a freeze, they would do it anyway," Fehr said. Fehr said management lawyer Chuck O'Connor sent the union a letter Thursday indicating that owners would attempt to impose the freeze, and the union's No. 2 official, Eugene Orza, said the players would respond with more litigation.

"We're not going to say to the players they can't file," O'Connor said. "What the 28 clubs can say is they won't be signing anybody until there is an agreement. We're not prepared to do that at this stage but we reserve the right to."

Approximately 167 players, including Gregg Jefferies and Larry Walker, are eligible to file through Oct. 29. Orza said any attempt to delay filing would be challenged either through a grievance or an unfair labor practice charge with the National Labor Relations Board.

Selig avoided answering questions about management's intentions. Owners haven't made any proposals since June 14, when they asked players to agree to a salary cap.

The strike began its ninth week Friday, and players and owners haven't met at the bargaining table since Sept. 9, five days before Selig called off the World Series for the first time since 1904.

Longhorn players suspended

AUSTIN (AP) — Texas wide receivers Lovell Pinkney and Mike Adams were suspended for the second time this season, and five other players were suspended indefinitely by the team Friday following unrelated breaches of conduct, coach John Mackovic said.

"We have few team rules, but these guys were out way beyond what a normal college football player in the middle of a season should be," Mackovic said. "Their reinstatement to the team will be dealt with on a case-by-case basis."

Others suspended were wide receiver Wane McGarity, linebackers Jonathan Hickerson and Dwight Kirkpatrick, running back Darrell Wilson and defensive back Shunte Hall.

None of the seven can play in Sunday night's game at Rice Stadium against the Owls.

The coach announced the suspensions after practice Friday. But only in Adams' case were details disclosed.

"Adams was in a car wreck at 5 a.m. today," said Longhorns spokesman Bill Little. "He did go to sleep at the wheel and apparently ran his girlfriend's car off the road."

Pinkney was suspended for the Longhorns' season-opening victory against Pittsburgh along with Adams for accepting free use of a rental car from a friend, which is a violation of NCAA rules. Adams was reinstated Sept. 8 while Pinkney was cleared on Sept. 22.

"A lot of teams have curfews that if you break them, suspension is not all that unusual," said Little. "John expects the players to behave in a manner that would represent the team and university well."

But Little said Mackovic did not elaborate on whether all seven suspensions resulted directly from curfew violations.

"He did indicate that they were not all one single incident," said Little. "But that does not mean that two (suspensions) could not be from one case."

Mackovic said in a prepared statement that he would meet again with the suspended players on Monday.

Pinkney, Henderson and Kirkpatrick had been expected to play in the nationally televised game against Rice. No. 12 Texas (4-1, 1-0) was a 9-point favorite over Rice (2-3, 1-0).

Adams, who was recovering from a sprained right knee, was listed as questionable. McGarity, Wilson and Hall were injured and not among the squad traveling to Houston.

"This is a time when some other guys will be called upon to help," said Mackovic.

He said Patrick Hayes would have to help out at linebacker, while starting running back Juan Kemp should be ready on Sunday after being questionable with a shoulder injury.

Texas had a 28-game winning streak over Rice. Longhorns players were expected to leave for Houston after an early-afternoon workout Saturday.

Estes leads Texas Open

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — Bob Estes hit his target and in doing so, almost established a PGA record Friday in the second round of the $1 million Texas Open.

"I set a target score of 65 and birdied the last two holes to make it," Estes said after his 6-under-par jaunt over the tight, tree-lined Oak Hills Country Club course established a three-shot lead.

Estes, who was up at 1:30 a.m. ironing shirts in his hotel room, said he set the target to combat a possible letdown after a spectacular opening round of 62.

"I've done it. Everybody's done it. You shoot a really good score, then come back with something around par," he said.

"I didn't want to do that. It's too early to start backing off," Estes said after completing 36 holes in 127, 15-under-par and a single stroke off the PGA Tour's record by Tommy Bolt in the 1954 Virginia Beach Open.

"If I'd known that, maybe I would have set my target a little lower," Estes said.

As it was, he left Bob Tway a distant second at 67-130 with an unfavorable forecast looming for the weekend. The remnants of Hurricane Rosa is expected to produce possibly heavy rain and thunderstorms Saturday and Sunday.

Nick Price, winner of the PGA, the British Open and five tour titles this year, doesn't have to worry about the weather. He missed the cut at 72-140.

J.C. Anderson was in third at 64-131, Brian Kamm, who shot 67 for a total of 132 was fourth.

Sean Murphy, with a 65; Brad Bryant, 67, Australian Steve Rintoul, 68, and Steve Stricker, 68, shared fifth at 133 and were the only others within six strokes of the leader.

Estes, who has career earnings of more than $1.6 million and has improved in each of his seven seasons on the tour but has yet to win, admitted some concern with the forecast of two days of rain.

Eighth grade 'Black' rocks Abilene, 36-6

The Snyder eighth grade "Black" team defeated Abilene Lincoln, 36-6, Thursday night, behind a strong running game and a tenacious defense.

Three Snyder running backs rushed for over 100 yards on the night.

Leading all rushers was Banks Alexander, who carried the ball 9 times for 122 yards. Alexander scored two touchdowns and added a two-point conversion.

Nathan Sorrells gained 102 yards on nine carries and converted four out of five extra points. Sorrells also blocked a punt which he then returned 35 yards for a touchdown.

In addition to Alexander and Sorrells, David Herrera rushed seven times for a total 100 yards.

Andy Parker also scored for the Tigers. Parker carried the ball into the endzone from the 1-yard line.

Defensively, the Tigers held Lincoln to just one first down and 75 yards of total offense in the game.

Frosh race past Frenship

FRENSHIP — A strong running game overpowered the host Tigers Thursday night as Snyder High School's freshman team raced to a 28-6 victory over Frenship.

Snyder tailback James Burks scored three touchdowns, including an opening kickoff return 95 yards. Burks hit paydirt again in the second period on a 65-yard scamper.

Ben Boyd gave the SHS frosh a 21-6 advantage at intermission with a 20-yard run.

In the third quarter, Burks sprinted 45 yards for his third TD of the evening. Kyle Beck was successful in booting all four extra points.

Delay Arafat's Nobel

AUSTIN (AP) — Former Secretary of State Henry Kissinger said Friday the Nobel Peace Prize Committee probably should have waited to see what PLO chief Yasser Arafat does next before giving him the award.

The Palestinian leader shared this year's honor with Israeli leaders Yitzhak Rabin and Shimon Peres.

Kissinger, who shared the peace prize with Vietnamese leader Le Duc Tho in 1973, said there are two ways to view the award that was presented for the Sept. 13, 1993 Israel-PLO peace pact that led to Palestinian autonomy.

"If it is supposed to honor a lifetime of achievement, then you better have some questions about it because, until very recently, a principal weapon of Yasser Arafat was terrorism," Kissinger said.

2 retailers to stop selling realistic looking firearms

by The Associated Press
Parents, police and gun-control advocates are praising the decision by two retailers to stop selling realistic-looking toy guns.

"Police officers have to make split-second decisions," said New York City police Officer James Davis. "We don't have time to think, 'Is it real, or is it Memorex?'"

Davis was at the Toys "R" Us headquarters Friday when the world's largest toy retailer announced it will stop selling toy guns in its U.S. stores. The company, based in Paramus, N.J., will continue to sell the guns overseas.

Kay-Bee Toy Stores, based in Pittsfield, Mass., said it would immediately begin removing and destroying all realistic toy guns from the shelves of its 1,000 stores nationwide.

The announcements follow two recent shootings in New York City in which police officers mistook toy guns for the real thing.

"If it saves a couple kid's lives, I think it's a good thing," said Steve Hansell as he shopped Friday at the Toys "R" Us in Lawrenceville, N.J. "Actually it's a courageous move. They're going to lose business."

The store's shelves were a smorgasbord of toy guns Friday, some realistic and some not. Buyers had their choice of AK-47s, M-16 rifles, double-barrel shotguns, rifles, pistols and Uzis.

"Because so many kids are carrying real guns, for kids to carry realistic-looking toy guns is incredibly dangerous and incredibly stupid," said Cheryl Brolin, spokeswoman for Handgun Control Inc., a Washington-based non-profit organization.

Other retailers already have pulled the toy guns from their shelves.

Former mayor of Plano indicted

DALLAS (AP) — Plano's ex-mayor is the fifth official to be indicted in a continuing investigation of a failed Dallas bank, which left losses estimated by federal regulators at $25 million.

A federal grand jury in Sherman indicted Jack Harvard, who also was chief executive of the bank, on 14 federal counts of fraud, conspiracy and misapplication of funds relating to the failed Willow Bend Bank and related companies.

The indictment issued Wednesday alleges that, between 1985 and 1990, Harvard took illegal payments, doctored bank books, lied on loan documents, conspired to hide insider loans from bank examiners and bought a house with an unauthorized bank check.

Harvard left Willow Bend in July 1989 after the board asked for his resignation. The bank failed in 1990; Compass Bank has acquired its assets.

"We're considering Mr. Harvard, as the chairman of the board, as one of the most culpable people," said Assistant U.S. Attorney Michael E. Savage.

Harvard, 47, has denied any wrongdoing. His attorney, Abbe Lowell of Washington, D.C., said prosecutors have ignored evidence that would exonerate Harvard.

"The weakness of the government's case is that they've charged an innocent man," Lowell said. "They need to make savings and loan cases to justify their existence. They're looking for scalps in their belts."

THE $51 PER BALE ADVANTAGE FOR COTTON PRODUCERS

More than $51 per bale paid in cash for the 1993 crop.

Your local and regional cotton cooperatives offer a vertically integrated system that takes your cotton from the field to the textile mill. It's a system that adds valuable income to your farming operation. Ginning, warehousing, marketing, textile manufacturing, and cottonseed processing all work to increase the value of your cotton crop every step of the way. For the 1993 cotton crop, combined cash payments from the local and regional cotton cooperatives averaged $51.62 per bale, over and above the value of your lint cotton. Thus, the more cotton you send through the cooperative system, the more you can add to your net profits. Consider the cooperative advantage for your cotton crop. From your local cooperative gin to the warehouses, the oil mill, the marketing association and the denim mill - it's just good business. See your local or regional cotton cooperative today.

2 describe series of murders

SAN DIEGO (AP)—They had just stolen guns and a stereo from a house in central Missouri when their car broke down and the good Samaritan came along, they told police. He gave them a lift in his car. Then they killed him.

It was the start of a bloody string of crimes that began in Missouri and ended in Mexico, according to the confessions of two fugitives captured while hitchhiking in San Diego last week.

The statements by Allen L. Nicklasson and Dennis J. Skillicorn were entered as evidence at federal court hearings Wednesday and Thursday, during which both men were ordered to Missouri to face trial.

Each man is charged with three counts of murder and being held without bail. Federal authorities would not say Friday if they have been extradited yet. Neither man's defense attorney in San Diego returned phone calls.

Deputy U.S. Attorney Michael Wheat said Skillicorn, 34, and Nicklasson, 22, "were like ice" during the hearings.

"They came across as extremely cold and calculating," Wheat said. "In discussing the number of homicides, the details of the autopsy, it didn't affect them in the least."

The 2 men who met at a drug rehabilitation clinic in Kansas City, told FBI agents and police they spent the last month living in Tijuana, Mexico, crossing the border each day to beg on San Diego's streets.

Their accounts differed only once: Skillicorn told investigators that Nicklasson shot and killed a woman at a restaurant in rural Mexico. Nicklasson did not mention that. Police are investigating Skillicorn's claims.

According to the men's statements:

They and a companion, 17-year-old Timothy DeGraffenreid, had just burglarized a house near Kingdom City, Mo., on Aug. 24 when their car broke down. Richard Drummond, 47, a phone company supervisor from a Kansas City suburb, offered to help.

After the three men climbed into the car, Nicklasson pulled a .22-caliber revolver and forced Drummond to drive down a gravel road.

Nicklasson told the other men he would tie Drummond up, but instead took Drummond into the woods, told him to kneel and pray, then shot him twice in the head.

Skillicorn said he knew Nicklasson had killed Drummond when he returned to the car.

"He stated that Nicklasson gets a real high out of killing people, that he gets real excited, and that's how he knew," Wheat said.

DeGraffenreid was arrested Aug. 31 in Kansas City and charged with murder.

Nicklasson and Skillicorn continued through New Mexico and Arizona. Near Kingman, in western Arizona, the men pulled their car off a highway to rest and got stuck in a glen of trees.

They went for help, burglarizing the first house they came to, which was empty.

At the second house, they met Joseph Babcock, 47, and his wife, Charlene, 38. Babcock took the two in his truck to help free the car. As Babcock leaned over to dig out a wheel, Nicklasson saw he had a gun strapped to his back. Enraged, Nicklasson pulled out his own gun and shot him.

The two then returned to the house, and Nicklasson shot Mrs. Babcock.

They continued driving west, eventually crossing the border and living for a month with a charity group in Tijuana. While there, they saw themselves profiled on "America's Most Wanted."

They briefly headed south to Ensenada, Mexico, but found the countryside too rural for their liking and cut back northeast to the border city of Tecate, about 40 miles east of San Diego.

On a highway between Ensenada and Tecate, they stopped at a small cantina where one of the employees — who didn't speak English — demanded pesos. So Nicklasson shot her, Skillicorn said.

The two eventually walked across and hitchhiked back to San Diego, burglarizing several homes along the way. They were in San Diego only a day or so. Nicklasson was caught Oct. 5; and Skillicorn the next day.

Threat of Gulf war appears to recede as Iraqis withdraw

KUWAIT CITY, Kuwait (AP)—The threat of war in the Persian Gulf is receding as elite Iraqi troops appear to be preparing to leave southern Iraq, Defense Secretary William Perry said Saturday.

Five arrested at disturbance on PI charges

A disturbance call from the 4400 block of Ave. U resulted in the arrest of five individuals who were all charged with public intoxication early Saturday morning.

The five men — two 19-year-olds, two 20-year-olds and a 21-year-old — were taken into custody shortly after 1 a.m. In addition, one of the 20-year-olds was also arrested for three outstanding Department of Public Safety warrants. The warrants were for defective headlamps, minor in possession and failure to appear.

Officers also arrested a 38-year-old male for public intoxication at 1:42 a.m. following a disturbance call and an 18-year-old male at 4:11 a.m. for public intoxication.

In addition to these arrests, a 20-year-old male was arrested at 2:39 a.m. Saturday and charged with a Class C misdemeanor for assault/family violence.

Officers also arrested a 19-year-old female Friday at 3:12 p.m. at the Adult Probation Office for two warrants for failure to appear and warrants for no drivers license and no insurance.

At 9:41 a.m. Friday, Wade Garrett reported a burglary at his business at 1401 25th St. An offense report for burglary was filed.

A complaint was filed at 11:50 a.m. concerning an unwanted subject at a home on Pleasant Hill Road. A deputy responded and the subject left the premises.

Officers responded to a complaint in the 1700 block of 8th St. concerning a juvenile bothering another juvenile at 4:16 p.m.

But, Perry said, U.S. troop deployments to the region will continue, and Kuwait and other Gulf nations have committed to providing financial support.

"I believe we have been successful in deterring the war with Iraq," Perry told U.S. Army troops at Kuwait City airport before departing for a three-day visit to China. "One of the lessons we've learned from all this is preparedness works and is the key to responding rapidly to ground forces in an emergency."

Perry said the decision to respond to the threat from Iraq by deploying troops rather than waiting for an invasion was critical to avoiding war.

Sen. John Warner, R-Va., who is traveling with Perry said that Kuwait and other Gulf region allies have committed to providing financial support for the U.S. military mission in the Gulf.

Referring to discussions with the Kuwaiti emir Saturday and earlier talks between Perry and Saudi leaders, Warner said that Kuwaiti officials "gave the secretary and me the assurance that this nation together with all other Gulf nations ... will help to defray very substantially the cost of this operation."

Before heading to Kuwait, Perry went aboard the guided missile cruiser USS Leyte.

Bush firm once owed state taxes

AUSTIN (AP) — Republican gubernatorial candidate George W. Bush was secretary-treasurer of a company that lost its right to do business in Texas for failing to pay $35 in 1983 corporate franchise taxes, according to the state comptroller's office.

But the accountant for the now-defunct Vacu-Tex Corp. of Midland, Robert McCleskey, said the company paid all the taxes it owed.

Bush's campaign and H.H. Wommack III of Midland, who was the company's chairman, said Bush had nothing to do with its day-to-day operations or tax payments. Bush was just a "small investor," campaign spokeswoman Karen Hughes said Friday.

State records show the oil field service company's corporate privileges were forfeited in September 1983. Its corporate charter was forfeited in February 1984, said Andy Welch, spokesman for the comptroller's office, which collects state taxes.

The secretary of state's office, which keeps corporate records, lists the company as forfeiting its charter on Feb. 20, 1984 for non-payment of franchise taxes.

"There obviously is a problem with the records," Ms. Hughes said. "The company paid its taxes."

She said Democratic incumbent Gov. Ann Richards' campaign is "peddling this sleazy little story which is not true."

Richards campaign spokesman Rafe Greenlee said, "The most disturbing thing is he (Bush) shows a consistent pattern of blaming others for his mistakes. This time, he's blaming a state agency — the comptroller's office — known for its meticulous record-keeping.

"When the going gets tough, he's not involved," Greenlee said.

Bush, who was listed as secretary-treasurer and a company director, "truly never had an active role in the business whatsoever," Wommack said.

Wommack said Bush simply helped to get the company started and owned a share of it.

"We need to cultivate in our citizens the habit of reaching out to those in our society suffering from both spiritual and material poverty," he said. "The Sisters of Charity modeled servanthood on the frontier.

TO THE VOTERS OF SCURRY COUNTY:

IN SEEKING RE-ELECTION TO A SECOND TERM AS YOUR DISTRICT CLERK, I WOULD LIKE TO EMPHASIZE MY YEARS OF EXPERIENCE AND TRAINING, FIRST AS CHIEF DEPUTY, AND THEN AS DISTRICT CLERK. I HAVE STRIVED TO KEEP THE COSTS DOWN WHILE MAINTAINING EFFICIENCY IN ALL AREAS OF WORK. THE LINE ITEMS THAT I CONTROL IN MY BUDGET ARE EXACTLY, TO THE PENNY, THE SAME FOR 1994 AND 1995.

IN 1993, DUE TO THE INCREASE OF WORK REQUIRED BY THE ATTORNEY GENERAL, ONE DAY PER WEEK WAS ADDED TO THE PART-TIME HELP. THE ADDED COST FOR THIS DAY HAS BEEN MORE THAN OFFSET BY THE REIMBURSEMENT TO SCURRY COUNTY BY THE ATTORNEY GENERAL'S OFFICE.

IF ELECTED, I WILL CONTINUE TO SERVE EFFICIENTLY AND COURTEOUSLY, AND WILL CONTINUE TO BE A FULL-TIME CLERK. THANK YOU.

West led the heart king, of course. South counted eight top tricks. The contract seemed to depend on the club finesse, but South decided the finesse could wait for a moment or two. He ducked the first heart, won the second and immediately cashed his four diamond tricks. East unwisely discarded both his clubs.

Now, when a low club was led from the dummy, East discarded a spade, giving the game away. Dr. Sturgul put up his club ace, played a spade to dummy's ace, removing West's exit card in that suit, and ducked a club to West. He cashed two heart tricks, but at trick 12 had to lead away from his Q-10 of clubs into South's A-J tenace.

Nicely done, but Dr. Sturgul didn't say which club he led from the dummy at trick seven. I have a sneaking suspicion it was the two, not the eight. Then, when he ducked the club eight, West should have played the seven, allowing declarer to win the trick. East takes the last four tricks with his high spades. Or had West discarded the club three on the fourth diamond and played the seven under declarer's ace?

FCC clears way for new satellite communications

WASHINGTON (AP) — Federal regulators cleared the way Friday for a new national and global satellite service offering an array of two-way communications including phone and fax. Unlike conventional satellites that orbit thousands of miles in space, the new service uses satellites that orbit close to the earth. The orbit is low enough for people on the ground to use special handheld phones and other devices to send and receive calls, messages, pages and other services. After nearly five years of work, the Federal Communications Commission completed a plan on how companies may provide the service. Specifically, the commission, with the help of industry, resolved how public airwaves will be shared among companies. Six companies have requests before the FCC to provide service. Only five national licenses are available, FCC officials said. If the commission finds all six companies qualified, it will auction the licenses, said spokeswoman Susan Sallet. The FCC's action comes as companies race to build multimillion-dollar satellite communications systems. According to the Personal Communications Industry Association, 4.11 million Americans, 1.4

percent of the U.S. population, will subscribe by 2003 to satellite-delivered communications services. Applications before the FCC are in the names of Ellipsat Corp., Motorola Satellite Communications, Constellation Communications Inc., Loral Cellular Systems Corp./Qualcomm Partnership, TRW Inc. and AMSC Subsidiary Corp., FCC officials said. The Motorola application is for a $3.4 billion venture, using 66 satellites to deliver worldwide voice, data and paging services. For Results Use Snyder Daily News Classified Ads 573-5486

Real life chase

LOS ANGELES (AP) — TV cop Yaphet Kotto found himself in a supporting role in a real-life police drama. Kotto, who plays a Baltimore lieutenant in "Homicide: Life on the Street," was returning with the genuine article from a community outreach program when their patrol car was called into service to chase fleeing drug suspects. Gunfire was exchanged and the suspects were arrested. "No way did I expect to be flying down the freeway at such terrific speeds with helicopters overhead," Kotto said. "It's one thing doing that in the movies. It's another thing doing the real thing."

United volunteer effort boosts church project First Baptist to celebrate remodeled sanctuary Sunday

First Baptist Church has much to celebrate this Sunday, a day the congregation has been looking forward to for a long time.

Besides the resumption of services in the now completely remodeled and renovated auditorium, they will also be celebrating the spirit of volunteerism which came alive 10 months ago when the project began and has continued to thrive for nearly a year as work on the auditorium progressed.

What began as a united volunteer effort to complete a major remodeling and renovation project, has blossomed into other refurbishing projects and apparently shows no signs of abating any time soon.

Besides helping to completely renovate and remodel the church auditorium built in 1951, volunteers have also been inspired to work in other areas including refurbishing the garden area adjacent to the auditorium. Members also painted the outside of the church and cleaned in and around the complex as well.

Volunteers who gave untold hours to the renovation project have saved the First Baptist Church an estimated $65,000 in expenditures, said Keith Matthies, construction superintendent. Total cost of the project has been set at $530,000. Volunteers and subcontractors completed all of the work.

Church members responding to Pastor Marty Akins' challenge issued last month has left the church with only needing to borrow $300,000 of the total cost.

Of the 30 some men who showed up in January to begin "gutting the auditorium," T.O. Upshaw, who headed the renovation committee, had this to say,

"I've never seen men work that hard or that long before."

Martha Floyd, church member, echoed that same sentiment Wednesday when she said, "Every day I have been here I've seen volunteers working on different projects."

These volunteers were sustained in part through meals and snacks provided by women in the church.

Upshaw added, "The overworked staff also took care of the book work while the renovation work progressed."

Sunday's Dedication Service of Worship for the Remodeled Sanctuary will include a Bible study for all ages at 9:30 a.m. and worship service at 10:45 a.m.

Open house is planned from 2-4 p.m.

Besides Rev. Marty Akins, pastor, others speaking will include Upshaw, who will give the invocation; Kim Gorman, renovation committee member; Jack Gorman, Jr., deacon chairman; Derald Lambert, who will give the benediction; and Allen Hodges, Sunday School report and other announcements.

Music will be provided by Kim Gorman, harpist; Pam Smith, pianist; and Lynn Bethel, organist. The Sanctuary Choir will sing special hymns.

The work begun in January was the culmination of planning by Upshaw, Matthies and renovation committee members, Derald Lambert, David Strunk, Travis Bunch, Wilson Howell, Paula Gilbert, Louise Thompson, Regina Lancaster, Donna Simpson and Kim Gorman.

Akins, who assumed the pastor's role in August, arrived during the later stages of the renovation project.

REMODELED SANCTUARY — Renovation plans for First Baptist Church's sanctuary included bringing the exterior gothic theme inside. (Contributed Photo)

Even so, Upshaw called Akins, who will soon earn his doctorate, a "blessing to our church with the ideas he presented. He pulled us together as a church family in sweet fellowship."

Bob Schumacher of Arlington, architect, worked closely with the committee. He is associated with Equitable Church Builders of Nashville, Tenn.

During the initial stage of the project, everything was removed from the auditorium including the glass windows. The original structure was all that was left. Volunteers also did most of the demolition, carpentry and finishing work.

The gutting process took from six to eight weeks, Upshaw said. The old pews were either sold or donated.

The original pulpit area platform was removed and the stage area enlarged. A new sound system was installed on the floor area.

The auditorium, with a seating capacity of 750, now features new pews and special stained glass windows. The piano and organ are now located on the enlarged stage area, rather than the floor. The auditorium is also wheelchair accessible. The windows are handmade in three sections which were joined together, Matthies explained.

A gothic interior look was selected to match the exterior of the auditorium. Upshaw said the architect's advice was to "bring the look on the outside of the church inside" and that is what they agreed to do.

The once contemporary looking auditorium was converted to the gothic look in part by replacing the wood structure with interconnecting columns or colonaid with round arches that connects the white columns which border two sides of the auditorium. The baptistry now also has a new stained glass window.

Glass was also added to the entry way in order to match the new stonework design.

The new lighting system features "down lights," which highlight the pulpit and choir areas.

The pulpit is also new as is the Lord's Supper table. All windows now feature new stonework. Each stained glass was handmade and highlights different stages in Jesus's life. One is of the Last Supper, a specific suggestion approved by the renovation committee, Akins said.

The stained glass windows are also color coordinated with the newly installed blue carpet and windows in the foyer.

The entryway has new glass doors, new tiles and a back door was also added. The ceiling was also redone in order to get rid of asbestos. It was later covered with sheetrock and texture.

Renovation planning began four years ago and took a year to complete. Renovation committee members visited area churches looking for ideas before patterning their renovation plans in part after a church in Hereford which featured a bright interior.

No work began on the auditorium until the church had paid the debt incurred through the multi-purpose building project. Upshaw said when he became chairman of

BARBS BY PHIL PASTORET

True story: Long ago, after a broadcast sermon about the loaves-and-fishes story, the announcer intoned, "This is the National Broadcasting Company."

After one of the cablecasts of a congressional session, for excitement we long to watch a good, lively chess match.

For the pessimist, opportunity always knocks.

The way some people gamble with their future, says our minister, you'd think heaven is spelled "pair o' dice."

Menges and Rhodes...

Wed in garden ceremony

CARTHAGE — April Dawn Menges of Snyder and Michael Shawn Rhodes of West Columbia were married in a garden ceremony at 7 p.m. on Sept. 3 at 1015 Tomahawk in Carthage, the home of Mr. and Mrs. Jimmy Banks, the bride's grandparents.

David Fondray of Bay City officiated the double-ring ceremony.

Parents of the bride are Danny and Tonja Menges of Snyder and the groom's parents are Burt and Carla Rhodes of West Columbia.

Grandparents of the bride are Jimmy and Betty Banks of Carthage, Murrel and Betty Menges of Snyder and great-grandparents of the bride are Elon and Lois Banks of Snyder and Dovie Ware of Carthage.

Grandparents of the groom are Mr. and Mrs. George Paylor of Monahans and Mr. and Mrs. Roy Rhodes of Colorado City.

Vows were pledged in a gazebo decorated with a swag made of burgundy roses, white magnolia blossoms and burgundy berry clusters. The aisles were marked with burgundy and hunter green bows with strands of pearls. A 30-foot wooden bridge was decorated with white satin ribbon swagged from end to end, on both sides.

Ivy covered arches were placed on both ends each had a large white satin bow and swag. Two little boy statues sat at one side of the bridge. They were wearing black top hats and holding burgundy magnolia blossom bouquets.

A large white wicker basket filled with greenery was on one side of the gazebo. On the other side, was a metal replica of a tree branch with ivy vines, holding a green heart-shaped bird cage decorated with burgundy roses and hunter green ribbons. As a sign of unity, the cage held two live, white love doves that cooed throughout the ceremony.

The unity candle and two taper candles stood on a white wrought iron stand, decorated with the wedding invitation, hunter green ribbon and pearls.

Guests were seated to the musical selection "It Takes Three." Grandparents were seated to Louie Armstrong's "What a Wonderful World."

Lighting candles were Carla Rhodes, mother of the groom, escorted by her son, Shawn Rhodes and Tonja Menges, mother of the bride, who was escorted by her son, Danny Lee Menges.

Candlelighters and attendants entered to the selection of the "Processional Wedding March" and "Canon in D Major."

Dale Crow of Snyder sang, "Forever's Is As Far As I'll Go," "I Never Knew Love," and as the bride and groom light the unity candle, he sang "Your Love Amazes Me." The minister sang "Perfect Union."

The unity candle and two taper candles stood on a white wrought iron stand, decorated with burgundy and hunter green bows and strands of pearls along with a wedding invitation and hunter green ribbon and pearls.

As the bride was escorted across the bridge by her father, the processional music played was by Lohengrin.

The bridal gown, a Mori Lee design, was of white satin, re-embroidered Alencon lace and pearls. Her long pearl appliqued lace sleeves were puffed at the top and tapered. The gown skirt was decorated with scattered bows and pearls. It had a Queen Anne neckline and fitted bodice with the back adorned with iridescent pearl buttons. The full chapel train was multi-tiered with layers of ruffles.

The bride's fingertip length tulle veil was designed and made by the bride's aunt, Tammy Hudson of Snyder.

A V-shaped headpiece was covered with white roses, baby's breath and pearls. It was attached to a double pouf made of white bridal tulle which fell into the fingertip length veil.

In keeping with tradition, the bride's gown was something new. For something old and borrowed, she wore a ruby and gold ring given to her great-grandmother, Dovie Ware, by her great-grandfather, Pellum Ware, as an engagement ring 64 years ago. She wore a blue satin and lace garter designed and made by her aunt, Tammy Hudson.

The bridal bouquet was a cascading arrangement of white magnolia blossoms, burgundy roses, English ivy and baby's breath. It had white Romantique lace, burgundy and hunter green ribbons and white tulle was topped with strands of ecru pearls and seed pearls. Tied into the bouquet was a sachet of magnolia. The bouquet and other wedding arrangements were designed and made by the bride's grandmother, Bertha Banks.

Xandy Hudson, the bride's cousin of Snyder, was maid of honor. She wore a burgundy tea-length dress with a lace overlay. She wore burgundy hose and shoes to match. A pearl drop necklace and earrings completed her attire. She carried a single burgundy magnolia blossom, adorned with baby's breath, and hunter green ribbons and white Romantique lace.

The groom's daughter, Jordan Rhodes of West Columbia, was the flower girl. She wore a white satin floor-length dress with a lace overlay. It had elbow length lace sleeves and a satin sash and train. She wore a headpiece similar to the bride's, made by the bride's aunt, Tammy Hudson. She carried a decorated green metal basket. It had white bridal tulle as the liner and held burgundy rose petals.

longing to Tony Blagock, cousin of the bride of Richmond, Va., graced the table.

The three-tiered gazebo-shaped wedding cake was decorated with pearl swags. It had a lighted fountain, surrounded with burgundy roses and baby's breath. The second tier was separated by columns and burgundy roses. The top tier was decorated with a crystal heart and swan. It was made by Sherri Splawn of Kilgore. The bride's bouquet was placed on the table that also held a pedestal, crystal punch bowl holding burgundy/red punch.

The groom's table was covered with a lace cloth. A crystal candle holder holding a burgundy candle was decorated with matching roses. A framed marriage poem, given to the bride and groom by the bride's aunt, Tracy Banks, was also placed on the table. A silver coffee service belonging to the bride's grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Jimmy Banks, completed the decor. The Bible-shaped chocolate cake was topped with the words "As Two Become One" on one side and "April and Shawn" on the other.

Serving at the bride's table were Mandy Ward, life-long friend of the bride of Austin, and Tammi Castillo, sister of the groom of Snyder. Serving the groom's table were Angela Stuart of Tempson and Xandy Hudson of Snyder.

A table covered with a linen and lace cloth held relish trays and finger foods and was decorated with English ivy swags.

A rehearsal dinner was hosted by the groom's parents at the bride's grandparent's home.

The bride is a 1994 Snyder High School graduate and the groom is a 1987 SHS graduate. He attended Angelo State University and the University of Houston. He is employed by Vari-Chem.

The couple's honeymoon trip was to Shreveport, La. They have made their home in West Columbia.

JANUARY WEDDING PLANS — Dr. and Mrs. W.B. McSpadden of Snyder announce the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Joy DeVonne, to David Andrew Harveson, both of Fort Worth. — For tablecloths or picnic cloths, choose full-size sheets in floral, geometric, or animal patterns or in checks. The clue to the perfect theme for your party may be found in your sheets. Is there a graceful floral that you can copy? A black-and-white check could set off featured chili peppers or tomatoes in a bold way. Colored sheets lose their punch after a few washings, so Church recommends spot cleaning if at all possible.

the committee he insisted that the multi-purpose building project be paid in full before the church engaged in renovating the auditorium.

During the past 10 months, First Baptist Church members used other buildings within the church complex for their worship services. Sunday morning services were moved to the gymnasium of the multipurpose building and Sunday evening services were held in the chapel.

While the church has long range goals, Akins said they don't have any other specific building or renovation projects planned at this time.

The following capsulized history of the church was taken from the "Centennial Edition of the First Baptist Church, 1883-1983."

According to the "best records available," the First Baptist Church was organized in May of 1883, under the name of Bledsoe Baptist Church, named for Rev. J.S. Bledsoe, the first moderator lying and dishonesty.

Also, for a time, anyone who did not attend church for one year was also "excluded."

Ex-members could seek reinstatement by appearing before the church to ask for forgiveness and to promise to "refrain from sinful actions."

Toward the end of the 1890s, J.J.K. Lockhart, who then served as pastor was "denounced for preaching the wrong doctrine." But the church then defended its pastor against his chief critic.

On Nov. 13, 1904, the church voted to build a pastor's home on the southwest corner of the lot owned by the church. Cost of the four room home, completed in December, was $625.

Church records indicate that members paid from 50 cents to $5 monthly until the debt was paid by September of 1906. That pastor's home was sold in 1910, and after it had been moved from the site, a new home was built at a cost of $2,000.

and that the cow be named Snyder."

In 1915, the church began planning a new church building for a maximum cost of $20,000. However, lack of funds and World War I delayed those plans indefinitely.

The church also actively engaged in raising funds. Approved methods included leasing the 15 acre tract of land for oil development and investing funds loaned by members so that the church could "get into the oil game and thereby give the church a chance at creating a building fund for the future."

Some of the church funds were invested in Victory Bonds in 1919.

In 1921, construction was started on a new building after the tabernacle was torn down. During construction, church and Sunday School met in the county courthouse.

In 1926, a 2½ story red brick building was erected on the corner of 27th St. and Ave. Q. That building had a basement with Sunday-School, space for nursery and all children's departments through junior department. The main floor had the auditorium with Sunday School classrooms for adult classes. The top floor included a balcony above the sides and end of the auditorium and classrooms for intermediates and young people.

At that time, this facility was often utilized by other groups and organizations as well as it was one of the largest and newest facilities in Snyder.

In 1938, after a large portion of the school building was destroyed by fire, the basement was used for school classrooms. A new sanctuary was built in 1952, and the building was remodeled as additional educational space.

Other changes, additions and renovations were made through the years as the building was used until 1977 when the present building, housing the chapel, was built.

The 15 acre tract of land was also sold so that the church could concentrate all its property in one location. A fire partially destroyed the parsonage in December of 1926. Pledges and insurance monies allowed the church to remodel it into a one story brick in 1928.

The church purchased additional lots around the church building in 1936. The purchase of its first electric organ followed in 1938. The cost was $1,500 and included lessons for the church pianists.

According to a 1940 newspaper account, the church's property and parsonage were valued at $55,000. Active organizations included Sunday School, Training Union (first called B.Y.P.U.; later B.T.U.), Women's Missionary Society (later Union); and Brotherhood.

Groups enjoying continuous growth were Boy Scouts, Girls Auxiliary, Royal Ambassadors and Sunbeams.

In 1941, the church named a "Soldier Committee" to keep in touch with men from the church who were serving in World War II.

When the auditorium was built, the parsonage had to be moved therefore the church sold it to Mrs. E.E. Weatherby who moved her own house back and put the brick house directly across the street south of the present auditorium. This same house was later used for Sunday School during the building program of 1977. The church purchased a new parsonage at 2302 Sunset Drive, but in 1959 purchased a house at 2607 34th St. which since that time has been used as the pastor's residence.

Due to increased attendance, various facilities around the church property were utilized. The yellow stucco house still located diagonally across the street southeast from the church property was used for nurseries. The church purchased a two-story wooden building, the Alamo Hotel, located on what is now the north parking lot facing 26th St. which was used for educational space for adults and young adults.

It was torn down in 1958 when a new educational building was built. This building is now used for church offices, nursery through youth departments, and fellowship hall. The new facility not only gave expanded space but also included an elevator and modern, fully equipped offices, kitchen, nurseries, and library. The kitchen and fellowship hall was, and continues to be used for many functions.

A commemorative marker was placed at the site of First Baptist Church at Ave. Q and 27th by the Scurry County Historical Survey in 1969.

First Baptist Church has long been noted for cooperating with other churches in town. Also, in recent years, it was instrumental in establishing Avenue D Baptist Church and Greenhill Baptist Church.

In 1954, several active members of First Baptist Church joined together in organizing Colonial Hill Baptist Church.

During the 1960s, numerous additions and improvements were made to upgrade the facilities. These included renovating the old church building, reconditioning and redecorating the auditorium, improving the sound system, building a choir room and purchasing buses.

A new Baldwin organ and Baldwin grand piano were donated and the church purchased two buildings north of the west parking lot. These now accommodate the Single and Young Adults Departments.

During the next few years additional property was purchased and converted into parking space. A note burning ceremony was held in 1975. Members then contributed to a building fund. Plans called for demolishing the 1922 2½ story structure and building a new building which now houses the chapel, garden room, parlor, library and bell tower.

Down through the years, improvements have continued with new carpet in the church offices and parsonage and new office furniture and equipment as needed, new baptistry dressing rooms, renovation of music offices and a new sound system.

Additional properties have also been purchased. The church purchased the old Furr's building in 1988 and converted it to the Multipurpose building in 1989.

In 1992, the U.S. industrial corporations with the largest dollar-amounts in sales were, in descending order General Motors, Exxon, Ford, IBM and General Electric.

In 1983, 38.8 percent of all car sales were of small cars, with luxury vehicles accounting for 9.9 percent. By 1992, those percentages had changed to 32.9 and 13.4, respectively.

Decorating hints

- Place cards and favors can be one and the same. If your meal will be hot and spicy, use a length of raffia to tie a name card and a tiny flower around the neck of a small bottle of Tabasco. Or, paint plain white cake boxes and fill with cookies, jams, or pralines for each guest to take home.
- Cluster groups of votive candles and glass holders on tables to create a soft, pretty glow.
- Use torcheres for lighting your entrance and garden in charming style.

and preacher.

Two deacons were appointed as messengers to the Red Gap Association, seeking admission and a preacher. A Sunday School was organized in March of 1890. Church records indicate that a Rev. T.P. Speakman's salary was $400 per year.

Bledsoe Baptist Church was renamed First Baptist Church of Snyder in December of 1892. During that same meeting, the church agreed to purchase Lot 4, of Block 14 from L.K. Austin for $100. By Christmas, the church had acquired some $485 in either work or money subscribed for a church building.

A white, wooden building, one story high, served as the first church building.

The church then "withdrew fellowship" from many members who engaged in unchristian conduct such as swearing, dancing, wife abuse, heresy, drunkenness, "keeping a beer saloon," adultery,

Also that year, the church gave a note for the purchase of 15 acres of land southeast of town for a camp meeting ground. A tabernacle was built on the hill south of the present site of Snyder Oaks Nursing Center in 1911. Two years later this tabernacle was torn down along with the white wooden church building near the town square. Lumber from both was used to build a tabernacle on the site of the present educational building.

As the years passed, the church continued to increase in numbers and activities. The first communion service used for observing the Lord's Supper was purchased in 1914. Baptismal services were held in tanks or in Deep Creek, north of the downtown area.

The church also maintained an active missions committee and regularly contributed to Buckner Orphans' Home. One contribution contained instructions for the home, "to buy a good milch cow

In 1945, the church celebrated the end of the war with a special victory and service of prayer and thanksgiving.

In 1942, the church's furnace was changed from coal to gas. That was also the first year the "Baptist Standard" was sent to every member in the church. The church started a library in 1943 with a budget of $50 and a $1 a week salary for the librarian.

The church bought its first sound movie projector and loud speaker in 1945. Monthly radio programs over KXOX in Sweetwater were also started, as KSNY had not yet been organized in Snyder.

Oil development in Scurry County during the late 1940s swelled the church's attendance. A building fund was soon started in preparation for the expansion of educational facilities.

In 1950, members decided to build a new auditorium and to convert the old building into educational space. The church borrowed $75,000 at five percent interest. In 1952, the sanctuary, still used but

Do vitamins affect calcium deposits?

DEAR DR. GOTT: Are there special vitamins to take if a female has calcium deposits in her breasts? Does this condition occur with age?

DEAR READER: No one knows why some women develop calcium deposits in the breasts; however, the condition commonly affects women as they age.

Although calcium deposits may appear in perfectly normal breasts, they can also be seen in breast malignancies, in a peculiar speckled pattern. This is why mammograms are such an important part of a health-maintenance program in women over 50. If the breast calcifications are arranged in certain configurations, biopsy may be necessary.

There are no vitamins, minerals or medicines that will prevent the development of calcium deposits.

To give you more information, I am sending you a free copy of my Health Report "Breast Cancer and Disorders." Other readers who would like a copy should send $2 plus a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope to P.O. Box 2433, New York, NY 10163. Be sure to mention the title.

DEAR DR. GOTT: How accurate is an EEG in detecting petit mal seizures in a young child? My 5-year-old daughter experienced "blinking out spells," for which she is now on medication. During the medication stage, she experiences personality changes reflecting violence. Is it better to have her "blank out" periodically or be on medication that makes her irritable and unhappy?

DEAR READER: When properly performed and interpreted, electroencephalograms (brain wave tests) will diagnose small seizures in adults and children. Such "lapses" are a form of epilepsy and should be treated because they may cause the person to injure herself or others.

There are many anti-seizure drugs available today — in fact, some are quite new. Therefore, your daughter's neurologist should be able, through a process of trial and error, to discover one that will treat her symptoms without causing the personality changes you mentioned.

Ask the neurologist to make the proper adjustment in your daughter's medication.

DEAR DR. GOTT: What causes a toenail to turn black? It hasn't been stepped on, nor has anything fallen on it.

DEAR READER: Toenails commonly darken when blood seeps out of the nailbed and pools under the nails, giving a blue or black look to the nails themselves. This condition is harmless and is usually caused by the trauma of persistent pressure coming from the tips of snug shoes. Try using softer, more pliable footwear.

Although certain skin cancers, called melanomas, rarely affect the nailbed, this is a remote possibility. Therefore, your doctor should examine your toe and confirm that the discoloration is caused by the more common situation that I mentioned.

Men are confused about the roles they're supposed to play. For example, because males may not be the primary wage-earner in many "modern" families, they are expected to fulfill duties in other areas, such as housecleaning, grocery shopping, child-care giving, and doing the laundry.

Husbands, who for decades assiduously avoided these responsibilities, are no longer permitted to sit idly by, cold beer in one hand and cigar in the other, while their wives do chores. Also, men were never taught by their mothers to do "women's work." No wonder many men develop resentments and become grouchy when they are expected to shoulder new obligations that, a generation ago, would have been inconceivable.

In order to promote open communication between spouses (or significant others, as the case may be), I herewith submit a list of required courses for men who want to enter the 21st century:

1. You: the Weaker Sex.
2. Combating Stupidity.
3. You, Too, Can Do Housework.
4. PMS: Learning When to Keep Your Mouth Shut.
5. Wonderful Laundry Techniques (formerly called Don't Wash My Silks).
6. Reasons to Give Flowers.
7. How to Stay Awake After Sex.

8. How to Fall Asleep Without It, If You Really Try.

9. The Remote Control: Overcoming Your Dependency.

10. Romanticism and Other Ideas Besides Sex.

11. How Not to Act Younger Than Your Children.

12. You, Too, Can Be a Designated Driver.

13. Understanding the Female Response to Your Coming Home Drunk at 4 a.m.

14. Parenting Doesn't End With Conception.

15. Get a Life: Learn to Cook.

16. How to Fill the Ice tray.

17. Garbage: How to Get it to the Curb.

18. Overcoming Selective Deafness.

19. Changing Your Underwear: It Really Works.

20. You Don't Look Like Mel Gibson When You're Naked.

21. Male Bonding: Leaving Your Friends at Home.

22. The Attainable Goal: Deleting Expletives From Your Vocabulary.

23. How to Go Shopping With Your Mate and Not Get Lost.

24. Women Do Not Want Sleazy Underthings for Christmas: Give Money.

25. The Weekend and Sports: Not Synonymous.

26. How to Put the Toilet Lid Down.

27. When It Is Unacceptable to Relieve Yourself Anywhere But in the Bathroom.

28. Fluffing the Blanket After Passing Wind Is Not Necessary.

29. Constructive Whining.

30. How Not to Act Like a Jerk When You Are Obviously Wrong.

To be a modern husband, you have to attend at least 20 of these courses, as well as pass a short written examination and demonstrate prowess in a suitably practical setting. Those husbands who don't will be relegated to the Reagan years.

I welcome further suggestions from readers concerning appropriate titles for courses to be offered during the next semester.

Physicians praising border health commission proposal

EL PASO (AP) — U.S. and Mexican physicians grappling with the border's unique health problems are anticipating some long-desired relief as a result of legislation authorizing an international health agency.

Medical officials on Thursday praised a recent bill creating a U.S.-Mexico Border Health Commission, a weapon they have long said is needed to effectively battle the border's ailments.

"It was needed a long time ago, and it is very urgent," said Dr. David Smith, Texas health commissioner and member of the binational commission. "It's critical, actually."

The legislation was approved by the U.S. Senate last week in the wake of House approval and must still be signed by President Clinton.

The bill authorizes a binational panel to conduct a comprehensive assessment of health needs along the U.S.-Mexico border.

The panel would allow doctors on both sides of the 2,000-mile frontier to attack health problems jointly and launch efforts to prevent other problems, said officials, who noted combined efforts are necessary because health problems don't respect borders.

The border also has to be addressed specifically because it is commonly a breeding ground for diseases the rest of the nation may rarely see, such as rabies, cholera and leprosy, officials said.

"This border has been crying for help," said Pepe Gonzalez, former director of the Laredo-Webb County health department.

Although doctors on both sides have been aware of problems for years and have a longstanding history of working toward solutions, the commission provides a new, more powerful vehicle for their efforts, said Smith.

Dr. Betty Stephenson, president of the Texas Medical Association, said the commission's work will also have ramifications far beyond the border.

She noted ailments like salmonella have been carried to northern states by migrant workers who became infected in the border area. That may not happen in the future if the diseases can be stopped from flourishing in the region, officials said.

Recruitment workshop set on Oct. 25 in Jayton center

JAYTON — A recruitment workshop for Disadvantaged Business Enterprises (DBE) and Historically Underutilized Businesses (HUB) will begin at 6:30 p.m., Tuesday, Oct. 25, in the Jayton Community Service Center.

The workshop, the fifth in a series being conducted by the Texas Department of Transportation and the Texas Engineering Extension Service of Texas A&M University, is designed to both recruit minority and women owned businesses that sell products and/or services needed by TxDOT and help educate those who wish to start their own business.

"TxDOT wants to maximize business opportunities for minority and women owned businesses located throughout the state," said Susan Ashley, Abilene district director of administration. "The workshop will help inform these business owners of the opportunities available for doing business with grantees of TxDOT and TxDOT itself."

TxDOT is the third largest state agency in Texas with an annual budget of approximately two billion dollars. More than 600,000 checks to vendors and contractors are processed annually.

Persons will be available during the workshop to assist business owners in obtaining their DBE or HUB certification. A small business must be at least 51 percent owned by members of a minority or women to qualify for certification.

As a show of support of this program, the office staff of Texas Senator Steve Carriker has said their elected official or a representative hopes to attend the workshop.

Refreshments will be served. Further information about the workshop may be obtained by calling Bob Jones, district recruiter, in the Abilene district office at 915/676-6805.

Letters to the Editor

Thank you

Dear Editor:

Robert and I would like to take this opportunity once again to express our deepest appreciation to everyone that has contributed to the completion of the White Buffalo Sculpture.

How do we say thank you to so many? We are overwhelmed by the interest and support of this project and by the many hours of donated time and effort by several individuals and businesses.

We acknowledge the following with much gratitude: Judy Hays, Eddie Williams, Jerry and Mickey Baird, Greg Graves and Snyder Monument, Jackie Greene and Jack's Roadboring, Ted Floyd, Moses Rodriguez, Concrete Inc., Commissioner Ralph Trevey and helpers, inmates of the Scurry County Jail, purchasers of pavers and bronze sculptures, and countless others who have participated in any way — We thank you.

The success of Buffalo Days has blessed our family and we in turn hope the sculpture will bless the community.

With deepest heartfelt thanks,
Robert & Audrey Taylor,
Britt & Tara

P.S. We love you Mr. Ed — and of course, Joee we are indebted for your "rock solid" knowledge!

Hometown

Dear Editor:

I just have to mention personally how thankful I am to claim Snyder as my home.

It was so wonderful to see so many long time friends and to meet new ones this past weekend.

I am forever blessed by the cooperation of the community to celebrate the unveiling of the sculpture with such a successful event. I'm so impressed with all your efforts and for the excitement you generated.

I hope to see Buffalo Days continue as a tradition.

Thank you for making the day so special for us and for your appreciation of Rob's talent. It is a day we will remember and cherish forever.

Audrey Taylor

Challenge to meet

Editor:

There is one thing that is on the minds of many people in Scurry County and that concerns the building of a prison chapel at the Price Daniel unit.

It is my understanding that the additional 334 inmates assigned here last summer has created a space problem for religious services and counseling.

I believe that most people feel that we need to build the chapel, but they aren't sure where the $75,000 needed by Snyder to match The Meadows Grant will come from. It is going to take the churches, civic clubs and interested individuals working to meet the challenge. We will need donations from those who can make them. We might need some fundraising events, maybe a telethon later on, or maybe jars sitting at business places for people to drop their change.

A few people can't see the need of doing anything. If we do nothing, the many hundreds of hours of Bible teaching that has been done by people of Scurry County for the prisoners may be lost. How long will they remain faithful if they do not have a place to worship and to be taught?

Statistics prove that inmates who become Christians do not become second offenders nearly as often as non-Christians, once they are released. Some of the churches are doing a super job of teaching at the prison, and they need to continue to have a place to teach. It is something we need to pray about and ask God to show us how to meet the challenge.

Since Scurry County people love God, many are not saying "if we build the chapel." They are saying "How can we raise the money to build the chapel?" They feel that it is something we must do. Scurry County people have always met the challenges placed before them. I believe we will meet this one.

Christian values

Dear Editor:

On the editorial page of last weekend's paper was an article entitled "God keeps some strange company" in which Joseph Spear ridiculed Pat Robertson (Preacher Pat) and the Christian Coalition. Joseph implies that God does not talk with individuals. Joseph's article is clearly reminiscent of the "God is Dead" group or at least mute and hobbled.

Our society has to make decisions concerning values. In a democracy, this is accomplished at the ballot box by a majority (within constitutional limitations). George Washington told Congress in his Inaugural Address, "We ought to be no less persuaded that the propitious smiles of Heaven can never be expected on a nation that disregards the eternal rules of order and right, which Heaven itself has ordained." In his farewell address he states that, "Of all the dispositions and habits which lead to political prosperity, religion and morality are indispensable supports."

Christianity was the foundation of our country and its standard until 1962, when 170 years of Supreme Court rulings were reversed without citing a single precedent. The Supreme Court in Engle vs. Vitale 1962 stated that, "Prayer in public school breaches the constitutional wall of separation between church and state." They went on to say that, "A union of government and religion tends to destroy government and degrade religion."

James Madison said that "Religion and virtue are the only foundations...of republicanism and of all free governments." John Adams stated "Our constitution was made only for moral and religious people. It is wholly inadequate to the government of any other." 2 Cor. 3:17b says "...where the spirit of the Lord is, there is liberty"

Mr. Spear is not alone in his thoughts, they were shared by the supreme court of the 1960s. They were not shared by our founding fathers or the scripture. They were not shared by Noah Webster, a founding father and a founding educator, who said that "The moral principles and precepts contained in the scriptures ought to form the basis of all our civil constitutions and laws... All the miseries and evils which men suffer from; vice, crime, ambition, injustice, oppression, slavery, and war, proceed from their despising or neglecting the precepts contained in the Bible."

Many Christian groups have waked up and have bonded together trying to reinstate the Godly values that were also held by our founding fathers. Many in the press have chosen to support the very things that are tearing our nations down.

Wonderful day

To All Scurry County Residents:

What a wonderful Saturday we experienced last weekend. The unveiling of the "White Buffalo" and the events of the day were attended by an unprecedented number of people. It showed that our community spirit is alive and well.

It is appropriate that many people deserve a hearty "thank you." Those of you who bought pavers for your family or loved ones made the entire weekend possible. Because of you, we didn't have to beg for proceeds to complete the buffalo, and we certainly could not have had the other events. If you look at the pavers you will see that the contributors were truly a cross-section of our community. It is exciting to see such a large group involved.

When we decided to sell the pavers, we thought we might sell 100 easily, but it would be difficult to convince another 100 people to get involved. Public response was overwhelming! Two hundred and fifty individuals, families and businesses have beat down the door to be represented. Thanks to you, we will have "seed money" to hopefully make the festival a yearly event and funds to properly care for the piece of art. This was truly a community effort!

Committee members to be thanked are G.A. and Aline Parks, Jerry Baird, Daryl Thomas, Jackie Greene, Max von Roeder, Dewey Faye Miller and Jean Everett for their guidance and "allowing

On Espy and ethics

The Victoria Advocate

The agriculture secretary's resignation under an ethical cloud is a disheartening development, for several reasons:

—The nation is losing the services of one of the very few Cabinet-level officials to have distinguished himself in the Clinton administration.

—Mr. Espy's very real accomplishments in speeding the long-overdue reorganization of the Agriculture Department may now be short-circuited, should the president make the wrong choice in replacing him. ...

Mr. Clinton can ill afford the embarrassment of any more high-level departures-in-disgrace. ...

The ethical violations which were the source of his problems are standard practice in Congress, where Mr. Espy served before his appointment to the Cabinet. ...

Nevertheless, the strengthened prospects for (ethics reform) passage — and the fact that a skeptical public is watching Congress more carefully than it has in decades — give cause for hope.

On the Republican 'contract'

The Houston Chronicle

Some 300 Republican candidates for the U.S. House recently signed a "contract with the American voters" specifying what policies they would pursue if the GOP wins a majority in Congress. The plan's drafters deserve an "A" for candor but an "F" in arithmetic.

Like Caesar's Gaul, the GOP plan can be divided into three parts: tax cuts going largely to the well-to-do, benefit cuts for the poor, and a collection of crowd-pleasers such as term limits and a balanced-budget amendment.

Americans who closely examine this document cannot fail to notice similarities between it and Ronald Reagan's supply-side, trickle-down economic policies. Those who surmise that the GOP plan also would lead to huge and ever-mounting federal deficits would be right on the money.

If the next Congress enacts the GOP plan in toto, the effect on the national debt would be catastrophic. Even if all the welfare and other cuts specified in the plan were achieved, the deficits would again spiral out of control.

Lawmakers quitting to become lobbyists

The Beaumont Enterprise

Bill Haley's decision to leave the Texas Senate underscores a problem with rules governing lawmakers and the associations that lobby them.

It is the lack of a policy that sets minimum intervals between a legislator's public service and a new career in the private sector.

Haley, a Democrat, recently left the Senate to head the Texas Motor Transportation Association.

A problem with Haley's departure from public life is his immediate hiring by a private agency that lobbies the Legislature for laws favorable to its cause.

Haley made plenty of friends in both houses of the legislature. Thus, he has plenty of influence among lawmakers.

It's called a revolving-door rule. A lawmaker can leave office and then immediately approach friends and ex-colleagues to try to persuade them to favor legislation that is in the best interest of his new employer, or client. Is it fair? ...

Disappointed

Dear Editor:

I am writing in response to the many questions I have been asked as to Saturday's "White Buffalo Days Events."

Many people asked me why the native Americans that live in Scurry County were not taking part in the festivities this year. They were not invited this year, that's why!

We were all very disappointed in this! They have devoted many hours of volunteer work to Scurry County. These native Americans have volunteered their time to this community in many ways, such as: in Cub Scouts, the churches, all of the elementary schools, and yes to the White Buffalo Days Celebration for many years.

Why they were not invited this year is beyond me; but they were deeply hurt. Not because someone outside of the community was invited to bless the grounds of the buffalo but because they were not asked to participate in any way, shape, or form.

So in answer to all of those Scurry County citizens who we talked with on Saturday and Sunday: Yes they do still live in Snyder and yes they are still trying to teach our youth about their heritage. They would also like everyone to know that the white buffalo was and still is a very sacred animal to ALL native American tribes.

Thanks to all of the people who cared enough to ask why!

Country Life

By Deanie Francis Mills

I got a letter from an old boyfriend the other day. I haven't seen him in twenty years. He's an airline pilot now, and it seems he was walking the streets of New York City a couple of weeks ago and passed a bookstore window where, he claims, my book, "Losers, Weepers," was "right up front in a big display." He said, "I decided I'd better write to you before you get too famous to read your mail."

Of course, his is the main reason I fought so hard to be allowed to write under my full name — I knew it would be a great way to keep in touch with old friends! Because the sad truth is that the older we get, and the older our kids get, the busier we get. A couple of days after the letter from the old boyfriend, I got a funny card from my oldest high school friend, whom I haven't seen in more than twenty years, since she married her psych professor at the University of Arkansas and settled down to live in Fayetteville. She talked about how crazy life had gotten, (her kids are aged fifteen and three), and how sorry she was that she had "neglected our friendship in recent years."

That's just the thing. Once we reach a certain age, we all neglect our friendships. We get out of the habit of sending Christmas cards. We stop writing letters. We don't even get together with the friends who live right here in town. Even when we try, it seems to take weeks to find a date on the calendar that one or the other of you don't already have booked with work commitments, kids' special events, and church plans. And that doesn't even take into consideration the exhaustion factor — how, when you do have an evening free, all you really want to do is plop down on the couch and vegetate for a while. The idea of scrubbing the house company-clean or spending hours in the kitchen just seems too overwhelming.

Recently, we made our annual pilgrimage to A&M for the reunion with Ken's old Aggie buddies and their families. We've been doing this for years, but this year was different. This year all our kids were teenagers and all us wives were working like the demon-possessed. After the game, when we usually have our big cook-out/party, I fell into bed and slept through the whole thing, and what wives did show up crashed early. Kent came back complaining that this year, "there was no potato salad or even beans, no tables or anything" — all the wives were just too busy to care this year, plain and simple.

We think next year we'll buy from the deli.

This loss of touch with those we love creeps up on us. I think this past year was one of the few times in my life that I actually felt lonely. My job requires a great deal of solitude and normally it does not bother me; in fact, I thrive on it. But this year I really mourned for all my friends who'd gotten lost in the child-rearing community-service jungle. We'd talk on the phone now and then, but for months we just couldn't manage to get together for a visit. Sometimes I'd wonder if maybe I'd done something to offend them. Other times I'd fear that maybe they thought I was getting "too famous to read my mail."

But a recent article in "Redbook" magazine, called "A Grown-Up's Guide to Friendships" put it all in perspective, stating that "we are all living now at warp speed," and that whereas we once enjoyed long visits, usually as we watched over small children, we now must satisfy ourselves with quick lunch dates, quarterly phone chats, and snatched visits a couple of times a year. What we need to realize, the article emphasized, is that we all feel the same way, we're all lonesome for each other and we all feel bad about it, but there are only so many hours in the day and friends must take their place in line behind spouses, kids, work, and community entanglements.

The biggest mistake we can make, as I see it, is to assume that because we don't hear from someone, it means they are mad at us, or have moved beyond our friendship, or simply don't care anymore. The second biggest mistake we can make is to give up trying when dear friends put our invitations off.

One Sunday a few weeks ago, we finally got some friends over we've been trying to see for months. We cooked hamburgers in the back yard and sat around the fire in the gathering twilight, talking quietly and laughing. Summer was over but autumn was still poised and waiting, hushed and breathless, the merest hint of chill in the air. The tide of conversation ebbed and flowed and the laughter rode the tide easily. Darkness crept upon us, the moon rose, and still we seemed never to run out of things to say.

I cherished those hours close to my heart, this time of friendship and love and laughter. I know now that it may be another season altogether before we are able to visit again — the bluebonnets may even be in bloom, but as long as we friends treasure our moments it doesn't matter if twenty years goes by — we'll still be a part of each other, even if only in a bookstore far, far away.

 things to happen." Their insight and support was terrific, and they were wonderful to work with.
 A special thanks goes to Jerry Baird for his diligence in seeing that our Native American brothers and sisters were properly represented; and to him and the chuck wagon crew for a great meal Friday night for the contributors. He and Hackie Greene were also responsible for the cleaning of the Ritz to make it useful for entertainment. Jerry and I have been "in the trenches" from day one. He and Mickey have done a tremendous job.
 Jean Everett and Dewey Faye Miller for the unique table decorations for the appreciation dinner Friday;
 Greg Graves and the staff at Hillside Monuments for the artistic engraving work on the pavers;
 Jackie Greene for his tremendous effort to secure all the entertainment. There was plenty for everyone to see all day long. Another job well done;
 KSNY for allowing us to air information on the "Coffee Break" and continuing with stories of historical events; and to the Snyder Daily News for their coverage and help with the souvenir flyer;
 G.A. and Aline Parks for getting the news out to surrounding towns and arranging the media coverage;
 The Commissioners for their help in allowing the event to take place on the courthouse grounds and allowing us to relocate the old buffalo to make room for the new statue. A special thanks to Ralph Trevey and crew for helping us to load the rocks that now make up the base for the new buffalo.
 John Gayle and the city employees for work on the city property which was in A-1 condition and beautifully manicured to "put on the dog" for our citizens and guests;
 Others include Jack's Roadbor-ing, Chico Olivarez, Moses Rodriguez, TU Electric, Snyder Concrete, Lane Bowers Landscaping, Tommy Marricle, Sandra Barboza, Ricky Fritz and individuals who purchased the auction items. I must also include Joe Jackson, Snyder National Bank, Bill Moss, Gay Hickman and John Gayle for marketing the pavers.

 To Judy and S.D. Hays, thank you so much for allowing us to complete this project. Judy was more than gracious and supportive when I asked her 3 1/2 years ago if we could continue with the sculpture project. She has been to all meetings, offered historical knowledge, allowed Robert to view and photograph the buffalo hide, participated in the parade as Grand Marshal, and opened her home to anyone who wanted to view the hide Saturday evening. God bless Judy, S.D. and the Randy Hays family.
 However, all the above would never have been possible without the generosity of Robert Taylor and his family. Proceeds from the two small buffalo editions, minus casting fees, were donated over the years. The "biggie," however, was contribution of his labor and talents in the sculpture of the statue on the square. The love and affection of Robert to his hometown has been exhibited in a profound way. Robert, we love you and your family for your generosity. Robert's wife, Audrey, a Snyder native, was also very supportive of the project. There were several times when she should have axed both Robert and me for invading on her time. We love you.
 And last but not least, thank you Cathy.
 If I have overlooked anyone, please forgive me. There were so many people and organizations involved it is very difficult to remember everyone. To all of you I say "thank you." Snyder had a party.

Teen-ager receives life prison sentence

DALLAS (AP) — A teen-ager received a life prison term Thursday for his admitted role in the slaying of two Texas A&M honors students.

Jimmy Ray Hardy, 16, was convicted on two capital murder counts by the Dallas County jury, which then deliberated about 90 minutes before deciding sentencing.

Hardy's age prevented prosecutors from seeking the death penalty. The defendant did not comment on the decision.

David Pickett, the defense attorney, had argued that Hardy was framed by his 21-year-old half-brother, Broderick Lavon Hardy, who is also charged in the killings.

Telling jurors that both men were "guilty as hell," Assistant District Attorney Keith Anderson then reminded the panel of testimony that Jimmy Ray Hardy had laughed and sung rap songs after he was questioned in the slayings.

"I think the testimony showed they couldn't possibly measure up to the people whose lives they took," said Larry Miller, Ms. Miller's father.

Victims Crystal Miller and Reginald Broadus, both 21, were last seen alive on the evening of May 22 after a gathering at a Red Bird Airport-area apartment complex.

Ms. Miller, a junior accounting major at Texas A&M, and Broadus, who wanted to pursue a doctorate in psychology, were found shot to death in high grass near a warehouse in the south Dallas suburb of DeSoto the next day.

Police arrested Hardy and Broderick after finding Broderick's fingerprints on Broadus' car, which was stolen during the abduction and robbery.

To ride in parade

HALF MOON BAY, Calif. (AP) — Where have you gone, Joe DiMaggio? To the Half Moon Bay Great Pumpkin Parade.

Joltin' Joe plans to make a rare public appearance Saturday as grand marshal of the parade. He's doing it as a favor to a friend on the small coastal town's Art & Pumpkin Festival organizing committee.

The 79-year-old baseball legend will ride in a convertible with his grandchildren, but will not speak.

"We're absolutely thrilled to have one of the greatest baseball players in the history of the game," festival spokesman Tim Beeman said Thursday.

There's No Place at the Table For Date With Lousy Manners

DEAR ABBY: I am dating a guy who is very good to me. I care for him a lot and don't want to hurt his feelings, but there are a few things about him that just drive me up a wall.

The main problem is his table manners. They are terrible. I don't like to go out in public with him because he embarrasses me. I have never taken him to my parents' (or any other relative's) home because of this.

What should I do?
FROM MISSOURI

DEAR FROM MISSOURI: Level with him. Explain gently that you want him to make a good impression on your parents. Table manners aren't everything, but they do matter in polite society. Teach him!

DEAR ABBY: My wife recently passed away after a long illness. She left about $30,000 in jewelry — wristwatches, pearls, rings, etc. There was nothing in her will about who should get what.

I have two daughters, and I feel that they should get the bulk of their mother's jewelry. However, sometime in the future, I may meet "Miss Perfect," so I would like to set aside one of the diamond cocktail rings for her.

Am I wrong? Or should I divide the entire lot between my daughters? I'll abide by your decision.
PERPLEXED IN CALIF.

DEAR PERPLEXED: You are not wrong. I think your judgment is right on target.

DEAR ABBY: There are two fellows who want to marry me. They are both decent, attractive and caring. So, what's the problem? I don't know which one to choose.

I know many people would laugh and tell me to count my blessings to even have one. I used to wonder when I was young what it would be like to have two men in love with me. Well, I have found out, and it's no picnic.

I have to choose between them soon. They both have agreed to accept my decision. I have spent many sleepless nights trying to make up my mind, until I'm so confused I can't think straight.

I care about both of them equally. Any advice you can give me will be appreciated. I am 25, and have known them both practically all my life.
SMALL-TOWN GIRL

DEAR GIRL: Although you care about both of them, it is obvious that you are in love with neither. So the word from here is: Put marriage on hold — until you are absolutely sure that you have found the person with whom you want to spend the rest of your life.

DEAR ABBY: We have been told that when a son marries, it is up to his parents to pay for the honeymoon. If not, who is supposed to finance it?
GROOM'S MOM AND DAD

DEAR MOM AND DAD: The groom pays all honeymoon expenses. The groom's parents are responsible for: their own transportation and hotel expenses, if any; their attire for the wedding; the rehearsal dinner (however, if they are financially unable to handle it, the bride's family usually assumes it); a wedding present; and any entertaining they do for the bride and groom.

For everything you need to know about wedding planning, order "How to Have a Lovely Wedding." Send a business-sized, self-addressed envelope, plus check or money order for $3.95 ($4.50 in Canada) to: Dear Abby, Wedding Booklet, P.O. Box 447, Mount Morris, Ill. 61054-0447. (Postage is included.)

DEAR ABBY: I am the mother of twin boys. I have learned that going places with twins is a real adventure. People are fascinated by twins — they are sure to draw a crowd of admiring and inquisitive people. All that attention can be fun — unless you're in a hurry to get somewhere.

It really became annoying when the twins were in twin strollers. I wish I had a dollar for each time I was asked the following questions:

Are they twins? (Yes.)
How old are they? (11 months.)
What are their names? (Jonathan and Donovan.)

How much do they weigh? (About 17 pounds each.)
How much did they weigh when they were born? (2 pounds 14 ounces.)

Are they identical? (No, but occasionally, I get them mixed up.)
Do twins run in your family? (They do now.)

I'll bet they sure keep you busy! (Yes, they certainly do.)

Then I add, "Please don't pinch their cheeks or touch their hands. They were almost three months premature and were in intensive care for two months after their birth. They are fine now, but the doctors say they are still susceptible to illness. Thank you very much."
CAROLE BETH HAWN,
EUGENE, ORE.

DEAR CAROLE BETH: Being a twin, I am familiar with all the "twin" questions. Because we are identical twins and dressed alike until the day we were married — in a double wedding ceremony — we were accustomed to answering endless questions concerning twins.

The most frequently asked stupid question: "Did you ever get yourselves mixed up?" Worse yet, because very few people could tell us apart, we were both called "Twin."

DEAR ABBY: I agree with the Portland, Ore., farmer who asked, "Why all the commotion about how to stop a rooster from crowing?" May I add a few words to the farmer's knowledgeable comments:

Chickens are originally from the jungle. Their wild relatives have lived in tropical forests for tens of thousands of years. Perched in the trees and sensitive to infrared light, roosters see the morning light at least 45 minutes before we humans do. They also have very keen ears — a distinct advantage when living amid dense foliage. It can be difficult to see a predator and keep track of one's flock.

Why do roosters crow? Through their crowing, every rooster knows where every other rooster is at all times. Each rooster can recognize the crow of at least 30 other roosters — probably more. As the protector of the flock, roosters are always on the lookout for possible enemies that could threaten their well-being.

In his own fascinating world of chickendom, the rooster is a lover, a father, a brother, a food-finder, a guardian and a sentinel. He is nothing to abuse, scoff at or degrade.

KAREN DAVIS, PH.D.,
PRESIDENT, UNITED POULTRY CONCERNS INC.

DEAR KAREN: I may never be able to enjoy a chicken dinner again. Who would want to deprive a family of a father, a brother, a provider, a guardian or a sentinel? Gone are those days of finger-lickin' chicken dinners.

Thank you for your letter, which brings to mind something that appeared in my column many years ago. A reader asked: "Do roosters have a sex organ?" My reply: "Yes, but it's nothing to crow about."

For Abby's favorite family recipes, send a long, self-addressed envelope, plus check or money order for $3.95 ($4.50 in Canada) to: Dear Abby, Cookbooklet No. 1, P.O. Box 447, Mount Morris, Ill. 61054-0447. (Postage is included.)
