Israel and Jordan sign historic treaty

WADI ARABA, Israel-Jordan Border (AP) — With prayers, colored balloons and a 21-gun salute, Israel and Jordan signed a peace treaty today to end 46 years of war and launch the Middle East into a new era of hope.

The signing by Prime Minister Yitzhak Rabin of Israel and Prime Minister Abdel Salam Majali of Jordan climaxed an extravagant ceremony attended by President Clinton, who told the audience that peace between the peoples of Jordan and Israel "is no longer a mirage."

Clinton appeared to fight back tears as a stiff, dusty wind whipped his face as he added his signature to the treaty.

At the opening of the ceremony, Clinton, King Hussein of Jordan and Rabin of Israel stood side by side as anthems played and cannons roared.

"God willing there will be no more deaths, no more misery, no more suspicion, no more fear, no more uncertainty," Hussein said.

Rabin said "the time has now come not merely to dream of a better future but to realize it."

"The peace that was born today gives us all hope that the children born today will never know war between us and their mothers will know no sorrow," Rabin said.

"Shalom, salam, peace." Clinton led an array of foreign dignitaries who came to this freshly asphalted former minefield in a show of international solidarity against Arab hard-liners who oppose the treaty.

An hour before the signing, guerrillas in Lebanon fired rockets into northern Israel in an apparent act of disapproval.

"We break the chains of the past that too long have kept you shackled in the shadow of strife and suffering," Clinton said. He called on Israelis and Jordanians to "turn no man's land into every man's home."

An estimated 5,000 invited guests looked on from grandstands, and the ceremony was televised live.

Jordan and Israel turned the signing on their shared desert border into an emotional gala including a joint rendition of "The Star-Spangled Banner," recognizing Washington's peace-brokering role.

The signing plaza was a blaze of flags and a banner proclaiming peace in Arabic, Hebrew and English. Israeli army officers in olive-green fatigues mingled with Jordanian counterparts in red-checked headdress. An Israeli rabbi in flowing robes and turban stood out among diplomats in suits and ties.

The program included readings from the Old Testament and Koran by Jordanian and Israeli clergy, a minute's silence for the war dead, and a reading of Psalms by a bereaved Israeli father.

An Israeli and Jordanian girl, each of whom lost a grandfather in Israeli-Jordanian wars, presented bouquets to Clinton, Rabin and Hussein.

CRMWD board establishes $25.6 million budget for '95

Colorado River Municipal Water District board of directors on Tuesday approved a $25,605,698 budget for the 1995 fiscal year.

The budget is up $1,518,041, or 6.33 percent more than the 1994 budget.

CRMWD is comprised of member cities of Snyder, Big Spring and Odessa, and it also sells to several other municipalities, principally Midland and San Angelo.

Anticipated revenues will be sufficient to match expenditures and will be generated mostly from water sales, according to the CRMWD. Water rates will be set at the January meeting of the board and will take into account revenues from contract cities to minimize the final figure.

Snyder's calculated rate for 1994 is estimated at 77.82 cents per 1,000 gallons, based on an estimated consumption of 925 million gallons.

The new budget includes the start-up of the Lake Ivie-San Angelo-Midland and Odessa pipeline, costs in which San Angelo and Midland will participate.

Approximately two-thirds of the budget outlay is for debt service, primarily consisting of financing for Lake Ivie and the Ivie-San Angelo-Midland and Odessa pipeline revenue bonds aggregating $181,060,000. Of the year's debt service of $15,383,954 (not including bond coverage of $1,538,395) the district's share is $8,730,944. The share for contract cities Abilene (West Central Texas Municipal Water District), San Angelo and Midland will be $6,652,966. WCTMWD, along with San Angelo and Midland, share one-sixth in Lake Ivie debt service, but only Midland and San Angelo share in the pipeline bond retirement with district members.

Also, the latter two cities participate in administrative and operational costs of the 157-mile pipe-

Amy Biehl killers to receive 18 years

CAPE TOWN, South Africa (AP) — A judge today rejected the death penalty and instead sentenced three men to 18 years in prison for the murder of American student Amy Biehl.

"The deceased was killed for one reason only, namely because she had white skin," said High Court Judge Gerald Friedman as he imposed the sentences one day after convicting the young black defendants of killing the Fulbright scholar when she was in South Africa helping educate voters.

Defense lawyer Justice Poswa said the judge ought to suspend most of any jail term imposed on Mongezi Manqina, 22; Mzikhona Nofemela, 19; and Vusumzi Ntamo, 23; all members of the militant Pan Africanist Students' Organization.

Prosecutor Nollie Niehaus had been seeking the death penalty, even though all executions in South Africa have been suspended the past three years.

The three men were convicted Tuesday of beating and stabbing to death the 26-year-old Biehl on Aug. 25, 1993, when she attempted to drive black friends home to Guguletu township, outside Cape Town.

According to testimony, her attackers shouted the anti-white slogan "One Settler! One Bullet!" Such slogans, Poswa said, had been formulated by political leaders and the youths had been swept up by the country's volatile situation.

Describing Manqina and Nofemela as "very fine human beings," Poswa said they would be unable to fulfill their potential if forced to serve long sentences.

The feller on Deep Creek says, "Sam Snead said it best: 'Forget your opponents. Always play against par.'"

It's depressing. We may go and jump off a curb. We just read where people who work at desks spend up to six weeks each year searching for misplaced, misplaced or mislabeled paperwork.

According to people who unstack piles of statistics, when a document is lost for any of the above reasons, it costs your company about $120 in labor to find it, or $250 to recreate it.

Computers were supposed to reduce the amount of paperwork, but we're convinced that computers actually give birth to more and more.

Experts in the office products industry say that 95 percent of all documents are still put on paper. Some 45 new sheets of paper are generated each day by a typical office hound. Of each original, an average of 19 copies are made.

Almost two trillion (my smart friends say that's 12 zeros) pieces of paper are generated yearly in U.S. offices alone.

Snyder, like most cities, is concerned about filling valuable landfill space with paper. On a given day, we toss literally hundreds of prepared news releases received in the mail — many of them sent by federal and state agencies dedicated to paperwork reduction.

Most of the time our desk looks like a 50-gallon collection bin. You can clear it on any given day and it'll be at high-rise stage almost overnight. We remember one crusty editor in Lubbock who only saw his desk top when the tornado rolled through in 1970.

The most amazing thing about a cluttered desk is you never have anything to write on.

Area farmers meet to study proposed weevil eradication

Cotton producers in 18 counties — including Scurry — will be receiving ballots around Nov. 15 to decide whether to establish a boll weevil eradication program that would begin in the fall of 1996.

Some 30 farmers met with representatives of the Texas Boll Weevil Eradication Foundation at the Fluvanna Community Center Tuesday and heard details of the proposed program.

Frank Myers, who serves as the field director of the foundation, told the group, "Our goal is to completely eliminate the boll weevil from this area by using a simple process of trapping them and treating them."

While some farmers in Borden County are already participating in another eradication program, Myers told the gathering, "Our objectives are different - we want to eliminate the weevil and not just to control it."

He added that every farmer who participates in the program would be following the same guidelines in order to ensure the successful elimination of the pest that causes some $25 to $50 million in damages to Texas cotton crops each year.

"It will not be a case of one farmer doing one thing and another doing another," said Myers.

If the eligible cotton farmers in the area vote in favor of the program, they will be assessed a maximum fee of $5 per acre planted in cotton in 1995 and 1996 and a maximum assessment of $10 per acre each year thereafter until the costs of the eradication program are paid off. The assessments cannot exceed the total cost of the program, estimated to be $74.28 per acre planted in cotton.

Each assessment will be collected each year at the time of certification at the county ASCS office, and landlords and tenants will pay their pro-rata share as determined by their lease agreements.

The ballots, which will be due back for tabulation postmarked no later than Dec. 1, will also have a provision for electing one member to the Boll Weevil Eradication Board.

Colorado City farmer Woody

Anderson currently serves as the foundation's chairman.

MALCOLM RIGSBY

Rigsby opens law practice in community

A Snyder native has returned to open a law practice, located on Coliseum Drive.

Malcolm Rigsby, a 1975 graduate of Snyder High School, is returning to his hometown following five years in Lubbock.

"I have really wanted to move back here for quite a while," said Rigsby, who had previously spent some time here working for NL Industries during the early 1980s. "I have a lot of acquaintances here."

Rigsby is the son of Roswell Rigsby and the late Mavis Rigsby. His wife, Marla, is a 1977 graduate of SHS. She taught at Ira when they lived here earlier and presently is a computer lab instructor at Snyder Junior High.

Rigsby spent two years at Western Texas College before graduating from Sam Houston State University in Huntsville. He also worked in the Windham School System of Texas Department of Criminal Justice before starting law school in Michigan. He then transferred to St. Mary's University Law School in San Antonio, graduating in the spring of 1989. Prior to moving to Snyder, he worked in the trust department at First National Bank in Lubbock.

"My background is in trusts and estates, even though I am not board certified in those areas," said Rigsby. "But I plan to offer my clients in this area a good, general practice."

Rigsby and his wife have one daughter, Jennifer, who is 16 and attends school at Ira. Rigsby's brother, Tom, has an advertising agency in Abilene.

The new law office is located at 303 Coliseum Dr. Office hours will be from 8:30 a.m. until 7 p.m. Monday-Thursday and Fridays by appointment.

Rabid kitten in pet store prompts 40 to get rabies shots

CONCORD, N.H. (AP) — Doctors gave rabies shots Tuesday to the first of what could be hundreds of people possibly exposed to the deadly disease by pet store kittens.

About 40 people received shots at Concord Hospital.

And hundreds of people who might be at risk because they played with kittens at the store called the hospital and Hitchcock Clinic asking whether they should get shots.

"That's the problem with kittens — they're adorable," Public Health spokesman Steve Tomajczyk said. "People like to handle them. That's why we're concerned, because the cats had free access to the store."

Authorities said 32 kittens may have been exposed to rabies at the Concord Aquarium and Pet Store since Sept. 19. All but five were sold.

One kitten died of rabies over the weekend, alerting authorities to the threat. Another three kittens that died this month are believed to have been infected.

Health officials were waiting for test results on 14 kittens and searching for nine others that were sold. Five kittens still in the store were not infected. The only way to test an animal for rabies is to kill it and examine its brain.

No cases of rabies in humans have been reported.

Rabies is almost always fatal to people who don't get shots.

"You don't want to make things too sensational, but you want to make people aware of a potential health problem," said Dr. Richard Boss, the clinic's medical director.

Barbara Morgan took her two sons, ages 13 and 8, to get shots at the hospital.

"It's kind of scary but little boys always have open cuts and blisters on their hands," she said. "That's all it takes."

'Rural Scholars' receive certificates

The Cogdell Memorial Hospital Auxiliary has been participating in the Texas Outstanding Rural Scholar Recognition Program for three years. It provides a forgiveness loan, with half the funds coming from the State of Texas and the other half from CMH Auxiliary.

In 1992, out of 19 across the state, CMH received four scholarships. In 1993, there were three new recipients, plus a continuation for a two-year student. And this year three applications were submitted and one was accepted.

The Outstanding Rural Scholar Recognition Program was created by legislation authored by state Senator Steve Carriker of the 30th District. The program provides one-half of the cost of educating rural residents to become doctors, nurses and other health care professionals to serve their home communities.

Local participants of the program include Irene Canales, RN, ADN program, Snyder campus of Howard College, now working as head nurse at the Price Daniel Unit; Lisa Cross, two-year assistance program, BSN, Hardin Simmons University, now working in ICU at Cogdell Hospital; Roe Lynn Fuqua, RN, ADN program Snyder campus of Howard College, now working in OB at Cogdell Hospital.

Others include Lynn Herm, RN, ADN program through Angelo State University, San Angelo, now working with Cogdell Home Health Services; Sheryl McCleendon, RN, ADN program, Snyder campus of Howard College, now working in ICU at Cogdell Hospital; and Connie McDaniel, RN program, Snyder campus of Howard College, now working at the Price Daniel Unit.

Also included are Laurie Stark, RN, ADN program, Snyder campus of Howard College, now working on Medical/Surgical III at Cogdell Hospital; and Trisha Rosas who will complete the ADN program through Howard College in 1995.

Poultry proposal dropped

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Agriculture Department is putting aside work on rules to tighten inspection of chickens and turkeys until it comes up with a broader proposal to overhaul inspections for all kinds of meat.

The new, more comprehensive food-safety proposal, on which the department has been working since mid-1993, is promised for mid-December.

The decision to delay poultry regulations is politically sensitive.

Outgoing Agriculture Secretary Mike Espy, under criminal investigation for allegedly taking favors from Tyson Foods Inc., the nation's largest chicken processor, has been criticized for allegedly favoring poultry over beef when cracking down on bacterial contamination.

The poultry proposal was criticized harshly by the broiler industry and consumer groups when it was outlined in July. Some said the proposal kept the worst elements of an antiquated inspection system and should be scrapped.

It is unclear what will remain in the new, more comprehensive proposal.

USDA officials said safety would not be compromised by the new regulations.

Food industry seeks easier label law

WASHINGTON (AP) — Just months after the government trumpeted new food labels designed to end Americans' confusion over what constitutes a healthful diet, the food industry wants to change the rules.

The National Food Processors Association petitioned the government Tuesday to allow more foods to make claims about their ability to prevent disease. The trade group wants to change the wording it has to use to describe a food's health benefits and the nutrient levels.

"Our goal here is to make sure we have more accurate information going to consumers," said Juanita Duggan, vice president of the association.

If the FDA doesn't make the changes, the association promised to take the issue to Congress next year — noting that dietary supplement-makers just won some congressional relief from similar FDA rules for that industry.

But consumer advocates said such changes would wreak havoc with consumers who are finally learning to understand — and trust — what they read on a package of meat or a microwave dinner. The FDA agreed.

"We're quite happy with the regs as they are," said FDA spokesman Don McLearn. "The feedback we've gotten is, the rules are working quite well, there's more understanding of the food label than there's ever been."

At issue are FDA regulations that went into effect last spring restricting how manufacturers describe their foods. Products must meet special criteria to be called "healthy," to say they're an "excellent source" of the calcium that fights osteoporosis or the fiber that fights cancer, or to say they're low in fat, cholesterol and sodium.

Those criteria are too strict, the food processors said.

For example, processors of whole milk can't point out that it's high in bone-strengthening calcium because it also contains artery-clogging fat. Labels on low-fat and skim milks recommended for most adults, however, can play up the calcium benefit.

But the food processors say whole milk should be allowed the calcium connection, too, as long as the label carries a disclaimer with the fat content. Fat isn't an issue for some people and they should know calcium is in all milk, Duggan said.

Another industry peeve is the FDA's "jellybean rule," under which foods that contain less than 10 percent of certain nutrients aren't allowed to tout what benefits they do have.

Duggan says the rule prevents about 20 fruits and vegetables from being labeled a healthful choice because they don't contain a full 10 percent of such nutrients as Vitamin A.

"The jellybean rule is very important," responded Bruce Silverglade of the Center for Science in the Public Interest, a food watchdog group. "Without it, foods like Coca-Cola could claim they were part of a low-fat, low-cholesterol diet that prevents heart disease" even though they offer no real nutritional value.

club. South won with the ace and played a heart to dummy's queen. East won with the ace (a smooth duck doesn't beat the contract, but is better defense) and returned a club. Declarer won with his king and cashed two of dummy's top trumps, getting the bad news. Now some luck was needed. And it was readily forthcoming. After dummy's last top diamond was cashed, a spade to the ace brought the queen from East.

After drawing East's last trump, American Eric Rodwell played a spade to dummy's nine. His 12 tricks were four spades, one heart, five diamonds and two clubs. But another declarer didn't finesse dummy's spade nine. He thought East had made a "clever" play, dropping the spade queen from the Q-10 doubleton. That South called for dummy's jack on the second round of spades. When East discarded, South couldn't recover.

Pay off to clever play

By Phillip Alder

A bridge player hates to be fooled by an opponent's falsecard. However, if an opponent succeeds in working some magic with a falsecard, you should compliment his good play. The worst scenario occurs when you assume your opponent has tried something clever when he hasn't: He just played the only card in his hand. Then you really look foolish.

Today's deal, from the Generali Two Worlds Trophy, held last August at the Villaggio del Bridge in Italy, illustrates this idea.

In the auction, two no-trump was forcing. Four diamonds emphasized excellent trumps. Four spades was a cue-bid, showing the ace and expressing interest in a slam.

Against six diamonds, West led a

WTC golfers finish in a tie for seventh

ODESSA — The Western Texas College golf team ended its fall season Tuesday with a seventh place finish in the Odessa College Invitational at Mission Dorado.

Leading the charge for the Westerners were Mark Smith and Cory Stone, who finished with matching scores of 224.

Stone shot a 73 Tuesday, good enough for the second low score of the day. Smith, who started out with a 74-73 after 36 holes on Monday ended the tournament with a final round of 77.

Odessa College, the tournament host, took first place with a three round team total of 885. Midland Junior College was second with a score of 890 and New Mexico Junior College took third place with a 902.

WTC finished in a tie for seventh place with McLennan Junior College with a score of 917.

The tournament's medalist was Brett Darter, from Odessa College, who had a three round total of 217.

Other WTC participants included Stan Scarborough (71-78-84-233), Will Gray (79-74-83-236) and Mitch McCallib (82-80-88-250).

Thomas and Thomas share SWC players of the week

LUBBOCK (AP) — No pep talk could do more to inspire Texas Tech linebacker Zach Thomas than the rally cry his mother sends.

"When you're out there on the field, get the ball, get the ball, get the ball," Thomas said, quoting the Hallmark cards mailed each week from home in Pampa.

Thomas had 16 tackles Saturday and his fourth interception of the season to earn The Associated Press Defensive Player of the Week honor.

The AP's Offensive Player of the Week honor went to Texas A&M tailback Rodney Thomas, who rushed 136 yards on 21 carries Saturday and scored the only touchdown in the Aggies' 7-0 victory over Rice.

Zach Thomas also broke up one pass and ran back his interception 24 yards to set up a touchdown in the Red Raiders' 38-7 victory over Baylor.

A&M's Rodney Thomas, a senior from Groveton, caught two passes — one of them a 60-yard TD pass from Corey Pullig.

"He's the biggest part of our offense, our leader," said Aggie offensive coordinator Steve Ensminger. "I couldn't be more pleased with Rodney. He had a little bit of an injury last week but he told me 'don't worry, coach, I'll be ready to play.'"

Thomas gave credit to his teammates for his eighth 100-yard performance that boosted him into sixth place on the A&M rushing list with 2,811 yards.

"The offensive line has worked hard throughout the year to get better so most of the credit goes to them," he said. "My job is just to run hard and do whatever I can to help the team."

Cone edges out Key in AL Cy Young voting

NEW YORK (AP) — David Cone, coming off the worst season of his career, bounced back to again beat out former teammate Jimmy Key in a close vote Tuesday for the AL Cy Young Award.

Cone, 16-5 with a 2.94 ERA for the Kansas City Royals, won the award despite not leading the league in any pitching category. Key, 17-4 with a 3.27 ERA for the New York Yankees, led the majors in wins.

Cone received 15 of 28 first-place votes and finished with 108 points in balloting by the Baseball Writers Association of America. Key got 10 first-place votes and 96 points.

"I thought either one of us would've made a deserving winner. I'm hoping to get a chance to call him and tell him that," Cone said from New York during a conference call.

"My first instinct is to feel this might be a once-in-a-lifetime opportunity. I don't want to demean the award because of the strike. But when you look at the award, you're going to think about the despair of 1994."

Randy Johnson, 13-6 with a 3.19 ERA and a major league-leading 204 strikeouts for the Seattle Mariners, received two first-place votes and finished third with 24 points. Mike Mussina, 16-5 with a 3.06 ERA for the Baltimore Orioles, got one first-place vote and was fourth with 23 points.

Gatewood holds key for Mats

By TODD STANLEY
SDN Sports Editor

One thing is for certain when the Lubbock Estacado Matadors and the Snyder Tigers take the field, a dogfight will ensue.

The two teams meet Thursday night at Lowery Field in Lubbock for a chance at the District 5-4A runner-up spot in the playoffs.

Estacado head coach Louis Kelley said that if a game ever meant anything to a football team, this one means everything.

"Both Snyder and Estacado have one loss in district," he said. "This game boils down to the fact that we have to beat them and they have to beat us in order to go to the playoffs."

The Matadors will rely on the running talents of junior tailback Tyson Gatewood to provide a large chunk of the offensive load.

Gatewood (6-0, 185), is the area's leading rusher, with 1,290 yards in eight games.

"He is unbelievable," Kelley said. "The thing about Tyson is that he is getting better every week."

"He has a lot of God-given talent."

Although Gatewood is a huge cog in the offensive machine of the Matadors, Kelley insists that he is not their only weapon.

"We like to spread the ball around," he said. "Although Tyson is the center of our offense, we like to get the ball to our wingback."

The wingback for the Matadors is Adrian Ross.

Kelley compares Ross (5-9, 165) to a smaller, quicker Gatewood, a comparison that gives defensive coaches nightmares.

At the helm for Estacado is senior quarterback Michael Johnson. Johnson (6-1, 170) has impressed Coach Kelley in his ability to learn the opposing defense, then break it down.

"Michael has come on as a leader of this team," Kelley said. "He is making really good decisions on the field."

Even though the Estacado offense has been tough to stop, the defense is probably the most talented bunch, according to Coach Kelley.

"I've been impressed with the way the defense has matured over the course of the season," he said. "We have been getting better each and every week."

"Last week against Levelland, our defense had its best game of the season. They are playing with a lot of intensity and they want to win."

Leading the Estacado defense is senior end Andre Lang (6-5, 250). Lang, along with a young group of linebackers, has stymied opposing offensive players.

"This is a good group of players," Kelley said. "Our team is not one-sided."

"We have a total unit, both offensively and defensively."

Lady Tigers lose to AHS

The Snyder Lady Tigers had the opportunity Tuesday afternoon to prepare for their District 5-4A playoff game against Lamesa with a non-district warm-up game against the Andrews Mustangs.

Luckily for Snyder head coach Patty Grimmett and her players, it was just that — a warm-up.

According to Coach Grimmett, her team, which was possibly looking ahead to Saturday's game against the Lady Golden Tors, fell to Andrews 15-5, 15-11.

"We had absolutely no intensity," she said. "This was supposed to get us ready for Lamesa, but it sure didn't help us."

Throughout the season the Lady Tigers have been plagued by mental lapses and inconsistent play, but Coach Grimmett feels that the season has been a growing experience. Whether or not that experience has been a good one will be proven Saturday against Lamesa.

The playoff is set for 3 p.m. in Lubbock with a site still to be determined.

"This is a young bunch of girls," Grimmett said. "A lot of them have never been in this type of situation."

"I don't know how they will react to the game, because their play has fluctuated so much during the course of the season. If something goes wrong on the court, they start worrying about it too much. They must go out there, have fun and do what we do."

In underclassmen play, both the junior varsity and freshmen teams fell to Andrews. The JV lost 15-1, 15-1, while the freshmen lost in three games 15-5, 8-15, 15-5.

Snyder Junior High School finished off their season Monday with an eighth grade sweep of Lamesa.

The eighth grade "A" team won 15-9, 4-15, 15-11, while the "B" team finished off Lamesa 15-5, 8-15, 15-11.

The seventh grade teams did not fare as well; both teams lost to Lamesa.

The "A" team fell 15-7, 15-6, while the "B" team finished 15-10, 7-15, 15-10.

Chris Haynes said enjoying Navy life

HAITI - Navy Fireman Christopher Haynes, son of Paul and Lois Haynes of Ira, is one of 6,000 Navy and about 2,000 Marine Corps members patrolling the waters off the coast of Haiti.

Haynes is a boiler technician on board the USS Nashville, an amphibious transport ship, homeported in Norfolk, Va.

Haynes and the rest of the crew, which includes a Marine contingent, are part of an amphibious ready group (ARG) that have spent the last few months steaming the Caribbean waters off Haiti.

The ARG is part of a larger multi-national task force responsible for carrying out United Nations Security Council sanctions aimed at restoring democracy in Haiti.

"I make sure the boilers keep working so the ship is provided with steam, electricity and fresh water," Haynes said.

Haynes entered the Navy in November 1992 after graduation from Ira High School.

"I joined the Navy to see the world, get money for college and make something out of myself."

Haynes, 20, said he's happy being a sailor.

"I enjoy meeting people from other states, being at sea for a while and visiting different ports."

Prospective juror recounts domestic violence court trial

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The soft-spoken prospective juror dramatically put her index finger to her forehead like a gun, then said, "She shot him right between the eyes."

O.J. Simpson, who had been watching intently, turned away and rolled his eyes.

The woman's account Tuesday of her participation in a trial involving domestic violence was the most dramatic moment in another grueling day of jury questioning for Simpson's murder trial.

The day ended with defense attorney Johnnie Cochran Jr. asking for Superior Court Judge Lance Ito to dismiss a man who admitted he was in a bar where a television was playing after Ito had ordered prospective jurors to avoid all media. The man said he heard a news report about a political race, but nothing about Simpson.

Ito denied the request to dismiss the man, and criticized Cochran for making the request a half hour after the man made the revelation. The judge ordered the man to return to court today for more questioning.

Five other people were questioned. Three were kept in the pool and told to return for more questioning on Nov. 2. Two others were excused.

More than half of those questioned thus far — 25 out of 48 — have been dismissed for various reasons, many for disobeying the judge's order to avoid all newspapers, television and radio.

Simpson is on trial for the June 12 knife killings of his ex-wife Nicole Brown Simpson and her friend, Ronald Goldman. Opening statements are not expected until early December.

The 60-year-old woman who described the shooting was kept in the jury pool. She said she was a witness in the trial of a young woman who killed her husband 22 years ago in Oregon.

The prospect said the woman, who she described as having an IQ of only about 65, shot her abusive husband as he attempted to leave a get-together with a friend. The shooter got five years of probation because of the years of abuse and her diminished mental capacity, the prospective juror said.

The woman said the experience had left her with a favorable impression of the criminal justice system. "They bent over backward for that girl," she said.

The prospective juror did not make it clear whether she had witnessed the shooting.

Foreign exchange student attends Hermleigh School

Hermleigh seniors include Katarina Mijailovic of Yugoslavia, who will spend the school year there as part of the International program.

She is living with Clarence and Mary Spieker who are both employed at the school. Clarence is the principal and Mary is a high school teacher.

Though Katarina misses her parents and sister, Jelena, she is enjoying her experience in Texas. The most difficult part for her was getting to Hermleigh. The trip required three days and involved a variety of travel including a car trip, long bus ride and rides in airplanes of three different airlines.

Katarina arrived on Aug. 14, just in time to begin classes on the 17th. Mrs. Spieker said she is an "excellent student with a great sense of humor."

Report: teen births drop

WASHINGTON (AP) — Teen-agers are finally having fewer babies, but there has been no improvement in the overall incidence of low birthweight.

The Centers for Disease Control and Prevention reported Tuesday that the skyrocketing teen birth rate — which rose 27 percent between 1986 and 1991 — suddenly dropped by 2 percent in 1992.

"We feel it's a real change," said Stephanie Ventura, a statistician with the CDC's National Center for Health Statistics who wrote the report. "It reverses a pattern where it had been going up 5, 6, 7 percent a year from 1986 on."

For every 1,000 women aged 15-19 in 1992, the CDC reported 60.7 births, down from the 62.1 births reported the previous year. But the drop actually occurred only among teens 15, 16 and 17, whose rate declined to 37.8 births per 1,000 from 38.7 in 1991. Among 18- and 19-year-olds, the rate was statistically unchanged, 94.5 in 1992, compared with 94.4 in 1991.

Ventura cited other studies that show a trend toward sexual abstinence and improved use of condoms as possible reasons for the sudden change and that rule out teen abortions as a factor.

But that good news was shadowed by the 1992 birth report card's finding that among mothers of all ages, the incidence of low birthweight babies remained unchanged at 7.1 percent.

"The nation's objective for the year 2000 is to reduce the percentage of babies born at low birthweight to no more than 5 percent," said March of Dimes President Dr. Jennifer Howse.

Police note three arrests

Police arrested three people on misdemeanor charges Tuesday, including a 20-year-old male who was taken into custody in the 2900 block of Towle Park Road.

He was arrested at 10:25 a.m. for an outstanding DPS warrant for speeding.

A 39-year-old male was arrested at 5:29 p.m. in the 600 block of 30th Street for public intoxication.

A theft warrant resulted in the arrest at 8:01 p.m. of a 20-year-old male in the 1300 block of Ave. T.

A two-vehicle minor accident was investigated by officers in the 600 block of 33rd Street. The accident occurred at 8:01 a.m. Tuesday.

A complaint was made at 5:35 p.m. in the 700 block of 31st Street in reference to juveniles throwing rocks in a yard. Police made contact with the juveniles and the subjects picked up the rocks.

Police worked three open line 9-1-1 calls early Wednesday morning including calls from 3400 College Ave., 1300 25th Street and 1701 College Ave.

line system which is due to deliver water to Midland and Odessa after the first of the year.

The adopted budget calls for $8,603,349 in operational costs, up 4.39 percent; debt service of $15,383,945, up 7.36 percent; and bond coverage of $1,538,395, up 7.36 percent.

The operational budget, which includes the additional cost of a new control center, breaks down as follows: operations and maintenance, $6,737,729, up 5 percent; administrative and general, $1,498,938, up 1.82 percent; recreational services, which are largely self-supporting, $147,411, up 5.25 percent.

Of the debt service budget, $3.9 million is principal and $11,423,954 is interest.

Electric energy for 1995 is projected at $4,488,709, up 4.37 percent. Directors said the increase is made less because the Ivie pipeline will permit more flexible pumping patterns.

Payroll is $1,962,235, up approximately 3 percent, including several new positions.

The new budget is more complex because in takes into consideration the contract cities' share of the debt service, operation, maintenance and administrative costs of the Ivie supply line system. When deducting the share of the total operation and maintenance and debt service expenses in the 1995 budget that the contract cities will carry, the overall increased cost to the district's member cities for the operation and maintenance expenses is slightly $100,000 over the 1994 budgeted operation and maintenance expenses.

The board of directors will consider amending the budget in early autumn when it may change its fiscal year from January-December to October-September.

Downtown Lexington explodes in violence after teen-ager shot

LEXINGTON, Ky. (AP) — About 30 black youths met with Antonio Sullivan hid in a closet when five police officers entered his house to take him to jail. When he finally emerged, a shot rang out and he fell to the ground, a bullet hole in his head.

Although police said the shooting was accidental, the news of a white officer killing an 18-year-old black man sparked a rampage Tuesday through downtown streets.

As many as 500 black people overturned cars, shattered windows and threw rocks and bottles at white people and police. Five police cars were damaged as officers in riot gear guarded courts and city buildings.

At least nine people suffered minor injuries, including three police officers. Order was restored to downtown and Sullivan's predominantly black east-side neighborhood as darkness fell.

Police Chief Larry Walsh said the shooting early Tuesday morning was an accident. "We're pleading for calm in the neighborhood to let the investigation run its course," he said.

Sullivan's fiance, however, said her baby sitter saw the shooting and told her a different story. "He came out with his hands up," said Sonora Clay. "It wasn't an accident."

Russian plane hijacked

MOSCOW (AP) — Two hijackers with a grenade and a knife seized a Russian jet with 27 people aboard and demanded $2 million and safe passage to Iran. Seventeen passengers were freed during talks in which officials made a partial ransom payment today.

It was the latest in a string of hijackings in southern Russia, which has become a center of crime and unrest since the Soviet collapse.

The hijacking occurred Tuesday night, minutes after the Yak-40 took off from Makhachkala airport nearly 1,000 miles southeast of Moscow.

The plane was heading northwest for Rostov but the hijackers forced the plane return to Makhachkala and then demanded the ransom money in U.S. dollars, said Vladimir Tomarovsky, a spokesman for the Federal Counterintelligence Service. The hijackers have been given $500,000 in U.S. cash, he said.

As a result, the hijackers released 17 passengers, including four children, leaving seven passengers and three crew members on board, Tomarovsky said.

The jet remained at the Makhachkala airport after the ITAR-Tass news agency said it had been refueled as authorities continued negotiating with the hijackers.

Special police and anti-terrorist units were sent to the airport. The Interfax news agency said 40 members of the elite Alpha unit were among the forces.

"Our goal is to have as many hostages as possible released as soon as possible," said Alexei Petrenko, a spokesman for the Russian

The evidence linking diet and heart disease is about 20 years ahead of the studies linking diet and cancer. Diet probably plays a smaller role in cancer, but over a lifetime, it can make a difference.

One of the best protectors against a number of chronic diseases, including colon cancer, is fiber. Many studies examine this relationship, but drawing a correlation is difficult due to the complex nature of fiber.

With funding from the National Cancer Institute, research conducted at Michigan State University from 1990 to 1991 examined the ways different types of fiber interact with colon cancer. So far, this work was only done with animals, but as results are gathered and analyzed, some insight into the fiber-cancer relationship in the human body should be evident.

Preliminary results have shown that the insoluble fibers, which include brans and vegetable stems and stalks, offer more protection against colon cancer than the fiber found in fruit skin and vegetable leaf fiber (soluble fiber). This is so because these insoluble fibers increase the bulk and speed of waste and may help to dilute any carcinogens in the lower intestine and colon, giving them less time to become harmful.

This research determined the components of the fibers that offer the cancer protection and how they work in the body, with the hope of inserting these compounds into other foods.

Basic consensus remains that over a lifetime, diet is important but it won't have a strong therapeutic effect immediately. What most people don't realize is that changing their diets for a year won't undo poor nutrition in the past. Diet should be viewed as a preventative measure over the long run, not a short-term therapeutic measure.

Keeping an eye on Texas

Pumpkin patch poundage increases

The 1994 Texas pumpkin crop may be the largest of recent years, weighing in at an estimated 70 million pounds. Pumpkin farmers have received on average 5 cents a pound for their orange crop; this fall, Texans are paying from 7 cents up to 40 cents a pound for their pumpkins.

necessary for the industry to reach its goal. Opening slaughter facilities will not suffice. We must receive USDA approval of the meat in order for this industry to secure a marketplace for the future.

Starting mid-October Dr. Linda Hoover and Ph.D. candidate Charlie Adams will begin consumer testing of meat obtained from the slaughterers previously mentioned. Approximately 160 consumers selected from Texas Tech University faculty, staff and students will be involved in the study. Panelists will be served emu meat as part of a four-course meal in an upscale restaurant laboratory operated by Restaurant/Hotel Mangement at Texas Tech University as a teaching/research facility. It is anticipated that a complete summary of the data will be available July of 1995.

Wagner continues by saying, "I hear people questioning what the co-ops and industry will do for the emu producers. What the emu producers will do for themselves?

"There are two co-ops within this great industry. It takes considerable time and money to get a co-op up and functioning. If everyone that was thinking of organizing a new co-op would join and become active in one or both of the existing co-ops, this industry would be closer to its ultimate common goal of a commercial market for the American emu."

Zone 7 will meet at the Golden Corral, in Big Spring, Oct. 29, at its quarterly meeting. Guest speaker for this meeting will be Jody Lewis, AEA board member. For further information contact Pate Emu Farm, 573-5340.

Upper Colorado...

McMillan and Sterling elected to SWCD board

Jimmy McMillan of Snyder and Leon Sterling of Ira were elected to the Upper Colorado Soil and Water Conservation District board of directors earlier this month.

McMillan replaces retiring director Walter Stirl, who had served on the board for 25 years in Zone 1. Sterling was re-elected to Zone 2.

The purpose of the Upper Colorado SWCD, with headquarters in Snyder, is to promote sound soil and water conservation programs on agricultural lands within the district and to serve as a voice for farmers, ranchers and local community entities on conservation matters.

The board of directors coordinates the conservation efforts of various local, state and federal agencies and has authority to enter into working agreements with these governmental agencies and private concerns to carry out its purpose.

In Texas there are 213 soil and water conservation districts. Each is a legal subdivision of state government organized by local agricultural landowners with the assistance of the Texas State Soil and Water Conservation Board located in Temple. Unlike most other legal subdivisions of state government, SWCDs do not have the powers of taxation or eminent domain. All conservation programs managed by the district are of a voluntary nature to the landowner or operator or other potential users of the SWCD's programs.

At a regular meeting of the board of directors on Thursday, new officers were elected for the coming year. Leon Sterling replaces Brent Murphy as chairman; Ted Crenwelle replaces Leon Sterling as vice-chairman; Burl Belw was selected as secretary-treasurer.

Is there a substitute for castor oil?

By Peter H. Gott, M.D.

DEAR DR. GOTT: All doctors should have the experience of taking castor oil as a laxative prior to X-ray testing. I'm hoping that maybe you have heard of something that is just as effective a preparation. If you would publicly announce a good substitute, many poor souls would dearly love you.

DEAR DR. GOTT: I've often (facetiously) insisted that doctors shouldn't recommend or prescribe any medicine until they have tried it themselves. Castor oil certainly falls into this category. If more doctors used it and experienced its results, they probably would be far less enthusiastic about insisting that patients use the stuff in preparation for X-ray testing. A far more palatable laxative is Dulcolax (over-the-counter).

Recently, I've heard of a new over-the-counter product (Liquid Prep in a kit) that works well and is much easier on the system than most other laxatives.

DEAR DR. GOTT: My dad continues to evacuate black stools. He got a colo-rectal test kit from a local TV station doing a promotion associated with the University of Chicago, and tested positive for hidden blood in the stool. Still, he refused to see a doctor. I cannot bear to lose him to something that can be fixed if found early enough, or he may find everything is OK. Any suggestions?

DEAR READER: Without question, your father should see a doctor. He is bleeding internally and unless the condition is diagnosed and treated, he could hemorrhage to death.

Intestinal blood can come from any portion of the gut — from the mouth to the anus. Ulcers, polyps (benign growths), tumors, infection, inflammation, and abnormal blood vessels are common causes of blood in the stool, which may be red, maroon or black.

The diagnosis of intestinal bleeding involves X-ray testing and/or endoscopy, during which a specialist examines portions of the digestive tract with a fiberoptic instrument.

Treatment depends on the cause, although transfusions are often required (regardless of cause) if the bleeding has resulted in anemia.

Intestinal hemorrhage also will follow clotting deficiencies, so blood tests may be necessary to identify which clotting factors may be diminished or absent.

In addition, many medicines — especially aspirin and similar anti-inflammatory drugs — may irritate the stomach lining, resulting in bleeding.

Again, your father desperately needs medical attention. It would, indeed, be a tragedy if he bled to death from a problem that could be easily diagnosed and treated.

Because peptic ulcers are such a common cause of intestinal bleeding, I am sending you a free copy of my Health Report "Peptic Ulcers." Other readers who would like a copy should send $2 plus a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope to P.O. Box 2433, New York, NY 10163. Be sure to mention the title.

86 hospitals are accused of patient dumping

WASHINGTON (AP) — Some hospitals are still refusing to treat emergency patients who have no means of paying for the care, despite a federal law that forbids the practice of "patient dumping."

A consumer group, Public Citizen's Health Research Group, reported today that 86 hospitals in 22 states were cited by the federal government for refusing to treat emergency patients for non-medical reasons during 1993 and the first quarter of 1994.

The report also said five hospitals and one physician have been fined and two Texas hospitals voluntarily withdrew from the Medicare program after repeatedly being found in violation of the patient-dumping regulations.

But Joan Stieber, co-author of the report and a lawyer with the organization believes many incidents of patient dumping go unreported and that no state or region is exempt.

"Enforcement is only touching the tiniest tip of the iceberg," said Stieber. "On the whole we think this is a pretty consistent problem across the country."

Under a law passed in 1986, hospitals that treat Medicare patients are forbidden to deny for non-medical reasons treatment to any emergency room patient or to any woman in labor.

The hospital is required to screen each patient and render whatever aid is necessary to stabilize the medical condition.

Proposition 187 divides voters and candidates in California

SAN DIEGO (AP) — Mary Sanchez is fed up with illegal immigrants soliciting work from street corners in her suburb, then getting paid under the table and paying no income taxes.

On Nov. 8 she will vote for Proposition 187, one of the most incendiary ballot measures to hit California since the English-only initiative passed in 1986.

"Save Our State," as backers call it, is so hot that political candidates are forced to take a stand, even if it costs their election. Some observers see a burning hostility in the proposition that threatens to spread.

The sweeping measure would deny illegal immigrants public schooling and most health and welfare benefits. It also would require school, hospital and social workers to turn in illegal immigrants.

"The operative word is 'illegal,'" said Sanchez, who is not Hispanic but is married to a man of Mexican descent.

"When I break the law, I go to jail. If they break the law, they get housing benefits and they get supplemental benefits everywhere. They get paid to break the law."

Polls indicate her anger is shared by many.

A Los Angeles Times survey of 821 likely voters Oct. 8-11 found the measure favored almost 2-to-1, or 59 percent to 33 percent. The margin of error was 4 percentage points.

The support cuts across racial, demographic and party lines. Proponents say it represents a growing frustration with the state's deep recession and the perception that illegal immigrants are exploiting American generosity.

Opponents say the measure is mean-spirited and would only promote discrimination against all minorities, particularly Hispanics. They contend it unfairly blames powerless immigrants for the state's mounting economic problems and will create a permanent, uneducated underclass.

California is home to 1.7 million illegal immigrants that cost the state $2.4 billion a year, according to Gov. Pete Wilson's administration. Other studies say the cost is lower.

Opponents have promised to sue if the measure passes — which is exactly what backers want. They hope to trigger a court battle that would change national immigration policy by overturning a 1982 U.S. Supreme Court ruling that gave illegal immigrant children the right to a public education.

Opponents are delivering their message from church pulpits, get-out-the-vote phone banks and the streets. An anti-Proposition 187 rally on Oct. 16 drew an estimated 70,000 people to downtown Los Angeles.

Politicians are tapping into the collective unease. Or perhaps it is tapping into them.

First was Wilson, a Republican, who favors the measure. As soon as he made the fight against illegal immigration a cornerstone of his re-election campaign, his popularity rose in the polls.

"Our hospitals, our schools, our prisons are overflowing," said Senate candidate Mike Huffington, a Republican congressman from Santa Barbara married to a Greek immigrant. "It's time to send a message to those illegal immigrants who disregard our laws and take advantage of our government's misplaced generosity."

Standing edgily opposed are Kathleen Brown, Wilson's Democratic opponent, and Sen. Dianne Feinstein, fighting to keep Huffington from taking her seat.

"I know that this could cost me votes, quite possibly even the election," Feinstein said last week. "But I simply do not believe it will work."

Many of California's Hispanics feel angered and hurt by the proposition.

Self-Addressed Postcards Give The Thanks Grandma Wants

DEAR ABBY: I wish people would quit complaining about children (or adults) who do not write thank-you notes. How many of these people asked for a present? None! You decided to send it; now you want them to fall all over themselves thanking you.

Abby, I have five grown children, 10 grandchildren and four great-grandchildren, and whenever I send any of them a gift, I enclose a postcard, addressed to myself.

On the back I have written:
"Please check one:
"I received the package.
"I loved the present.
"It was OK.
"I didn't like it."

Abby, I send these cards so I will know if my present arrived. Everyone loves the idea. All they have to do is drop it in the mailbox.

GRANDMA

DEAR GRANDMA: I'm curious: What kind of response do you usually get? Regardless of how easy you make it, there will always be a few who will fail to respond.

I really thought we had a future together, but I never felt I could trust him completely. Billy is very good-looking and can get any girl he wants.

I wanted to test his faithfulness, so I asked Tina — my best friend — to call up Billy just to see if she could get him to go out with her. Well, she did, and Billy jumped at the chance. She said he didn't take her to any place special; they just rode around, got some burgers, then parked and made out. (Just hugging and kissing.)

I finally told Billy that I had set the whole thing up with Tina, and he got really mad at me. Now he's going with Tina, and I'm afraid I've lost him for good.

Abby, was I wrong to have done what I did? I really had to know. Please don't say where this letter came from. Sign me ...

TESTING

DEAR TESTING: You were not only wrong to have set Billy up with Tina, you were also foolish.

To order "How to Write Letters for All Occasions," send a business-sized, self-addressed envelope, plus check or money order for $3.95 ($4.50 in Canada) to: Dear Abby, Letter Booklet, P.O. Box 447, Mount Morris, Ill. 61054-0447. (Postage is included.)

DEAR ABBY: My precious father died unexpectedly about a year ago. I am an only child. My husband and I have no children. My mother is still living. Daddy was everything to our family — our rock of Gibraltar.

Mother and Dad had a telephone answering machine for which Daddy had recorded a message. Abby, Mother calls that number several times a day, just to hear his voice. She finds it comforting, and I have not discouraged her — but there are several people who have told her it was "sick" and creepy to want to hear the voice of someone who is no longer living. Like "Big Brother Tom" who went to the mortuary and took pictures of the deceased laid out in his coffin, she has been severely criticized for wanting to hear my father's voice.

I am still of the opinion that everyone must deal with grief in his or her own way.

If you print this, please use my name.

SHEILA DUNN GARRIGUS, INDEPENDENCE, MO.

DEAR SHEILA: I'm with you all the way. Please accept my condolences.

DEAR ABBY: I am a 19-year-old girl who is very much in love with a guy I'll call Billy. He is 22.
