U.S. will not police embargo

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Clinton administration has notified its European allies that it will stop enforcing the arms embargo against the Muslim-led government of Bosnia beginning Saturday, U.S. officials said today.

The decision could widen a rift between Washington and the Europeans on the war in the former Yugoslavia, leaving the burden of enforcing the ban to the Europeans.

WTC shows positive enrollment increase

Western Texas College had the second highest percentage enrollment increase of established community colleges in Texas this fall, according to figures released by the Texas Higher Education Coordinating Board.

WTC's enrollment increased by 9 1/2 percent — second only to El Paso Community College's increase of 20.50 percent. The fall enrollment here was 1,185 students as compared to 1,086 in 1993.

Dr. Harry Krenek, WTC president, said the staff is pleased with the enrollment growth in the light of several area colleges experiencing a decline in enrollment this fall.

Howard College's enrollment dropped 5.70 percent and Odessa College had a 5.19 percent decrease. Enrollment dropped 3.96 percent at South Plains College in Levelland and .80 percent at Cisco. Midland indicated growth of 1.83 percent.

Some of the larger community college districts in the state experienced sharp declines such as the Dallas Community College District which saw a 14.46 percent decrease in enrollment.

New exhibit opens Sunday at museum

Scurry County Museum pays tribute to the ranching industry with a special exhibit, "Hoofbeats on the Pitchfork Ranch: Photography by Bob Moorhouse," beginning Sunday.

The exhibit, which was developed by the American Quarter Horse Heritage Center & Museum in Amarillo, illustrates the beauty and function of the American quarter horse and life on one of the nation's most historic ranches — as seen through the eyes of its manager, a man who is both artist and cowboy.

What began as a hobby for Moorhouse has grown into a visual history that captures the flavor of ranch life. Several of his photos have graced the cover of "Quarter Horse Journal" over the years; however, the initial exhibit in Amarillo marked the first major showing of his work. The Pitchfork itself embodies a history that prides itself on continuity, as it is still owned by the Williams family of St. Louis, Mo., which founded it in 1883. The original West Texas holdings have grown to more than 165,000 acres, making it one of the few ranches which is larger now than when it was established.

The original "Hoofbeats" exhibit was funded in part through AQHA Honorary Vice President Carl Ballew and his wife, Cam, and MBNA America, a corporate sponsor of the American Quarter Horse Association.

The museum will be open Sunday from 1 to 4 p.m. and Monday through Friday from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m.

The exhibit will remain on display through Dec. 6.

Scouting for Food drive set Saturday across Snyder area

Local Boy Scouts and Cub Scouts are getting set for the annual Scouting for Food Drive, scheduled throughout Scurry County on Saturday.

Some local Girl Scout members may also be assisting with this year's drive.

All food collected will be donated to organizations which provide food to the needy in Scurry County. These organizations will then distribute the food through their respective programs.

Scouts began distributing bags in selected areas on Thursday afternoon. They will continue distributing bags today.

Citizens are asked to place canned goods and other nonperishable food items in the bags and place them outside their homes at or before 9 a.m. Saturday.

Scouts will begin picking up the filled bags at 9 a.m. Depending on the weather, it will take the volunteers until early to mid-afternoon to collect all the bags.

Residents outside of Snyder are asked to place their food donations in a bag and take them to 1912

College Ave., which is the main collection point for this year's drive. There are collection points planned at some of the local grocery stores if there are enough volunteers to man them.

For the convenience of Ira and Hermleigh residents, collection boxes will be placed at the Ira and Hermleigh Community Centers.

Participating in the drive are Boy Scout Troop 27, Cub Scout Packs 61 and 177, and some individual Girl Scouts.

Nurse indicted Four first-degree counts of murder

CHICKASHA, Okla. (AP) — A Grady County grand jury has returned four first-degree murder indictments against a nurse who allegedly told co-workers that she had a role in the deaths of four patients.

Aleata Beach, 48, of Rush Springs was ordered held without bond Thursday. A bond hearing is scheduled Tuesday; the preliminary hearing will be held in January.

District Attorney Gene Christian said the indictment accuses Mrs. Beach of killing four patients at Grady Memorial Hospital. Flossie Fair, 88, of Cyril; Goldie Crumm, 83, of Rush Springs; Irene Mullins, 73, of Chickasha and Darrell Edwin Richie, 31, of Chickasha all died between Aug. 19 and 21.

Ms. Fair had entered the hospital for treatment of dehydration and a bladder infection. Her daughter, Vonciele Mills of Cyril, said doctors had told her before the death that the infection was cleared up and she was expected to be returned to the nursing home.

Richie, a former high school sports star, had been diagnosed two years ago with a rare brain fungus.

Ms. Mullins and Ms. Crumm also had serious illnesses.

Mrs. Beach attempted suicide Aug. 24. Co-workers said she told them she was despondent because of the deaths.

The bodies of the three women were exhumed and autopsies performed. Family members announced at Richie's funeral on Aug. 25 that questions had been raised about his death and his burial. (See NURSE, Page 8)

The feller on Deep Creek says, "There are three kinds of people — the immovable, the movable and those that move."

Keeping tabs on our neighbors: The Lamesa Press-Reporter had good and bad news on the same page.

It reported that the cotton harvest was nearing the 30,000 bale mark, but that an abundance of large, unopened bolls likely won't open because of the feared boll weevil, the cotton industry's equivalent of the plague. A large infestation of boll weevils was discovered in a lush field in the western part of Dawson County.

It's not limited just to Texas. The Lovington Daily Leader reports that the town council is considering a teen curfew for the Lea County, N.M. county seat. Growing juvenile crime was cited as the motivation for the proposed ordinance.

Another Lea County town, Hobbs, is trying to get New Mexico to build a state prison there. Hobbs leaders cited the need for jobs to replace oil-related jobs lost with the downturn in the Hobbs' petroleum-dependent economy.

The Hood County News in Granbury said it was the kind of thing that would drive you nuts.

A Granbury woman told city officials that she was astounded one day when a squirrel leaped out of her toilet and dashed off.

Officials theorized that the squirrel had climbed down the vent pipe into the toilet. The critter dashed to freedom when the startled woman lifted the lid.

It was an unusual sight: a reg flag of the People's Republic of China flying over the Wilbarger County Airport.

The Vernon Record reports it was a symbol of community pride and a hope. The occasion was the reopening ceremony of the Brantley International Inc. helicopter plant. The project was praised as an example of the new level of business cooperation between the U.S. and China.

Teen-ager convicted of capital murder

FORT WORTH (AP) — Tarrant County jurors have rejected claims that a teen-ager had to kill two men to survive in his inner-city neighborhood and have convicted him of capital murder.

Daimion Osby, 19, was convicted Thursday in his retrial in the shooting deaths of two Fort Worth men.

In Osby's first trial, in April, his attorneys argued that he suffered from a kill-or-be-killed paranoia from growing up in a high-crime urban area. That ended with a hung jury when one juror held out for an innocent verdict.

The second jury deliberated 5 1/2 hours before delivering its verdict, which carries an automatic life sentence.

Osby, who must serve 35 years before he can be paroled, was convicted in the double slaying of Marcus Brooks, 19, and his cousin Willie "Peanut" Brooks, 28, in April, 1993.

The defense theory in the case, which has attracted national attention, called Osby's actions a rational act of "urban survival."

"Two juries have rejected 'urban survival'; I hope now we see it die," said Tarrant County prosecutor Renee Harris. "I hope we can stop attacking the community and help build a community that has a crime problem."

Defense attorney David Bays said he continues to believe that the defense theory is valid, "but maybe we didn't have the right facts."

He said his case was crippled by explosive new testimony that the shooting victims were being restrained. The defense also was hurt by the prosecution's success in keeping the jury from hearing testimony from several defense experts, defense lawyers said.

"We couldn't talk about his state of mind, which was our whole case," co-defense attorney Bill Lane said.

During the seven days of testimony, prosecutors blocked the defense's expert witnesses from testifying about how conditions in Osby's Stop Six neighborhood might have affected his state of mind.

Jared Taylor, an author and race relations expert from Louisville, Ky., testified that national crime statistics show that young black males are 25 times more likely than average to commit murder.

Their victims are overwhelmingly other black males — and the sense of danger and fear that is generated by those numbers is well-known among inner-city black youths, he said.

Osby, who seemed shy and soft-spoken when he testified last week, hung his head when the verdict was delivered at 9:30 p.m. He wiped back a tear as a bailiff led him from the courtroom.

"My sister and I can set our sons free; we can let them go," Janet Brooks, Marcus Brooks' mother, told the jurors, who declined to comment as they were released.

In his testimony and in a statement to police on the night of the killings, Osby said the Brooks cousins had been menacing him for longer than a year over $400 he won from Willie Brooks in an illegal dice game.

He said the final confrontation took place in a parking lot after the cousins pulled up in a pickup and began fistfighting with him.

In the first trial, the jury heard only Osby's account of the fight.

In the second trial, two of Osby's friends testified that they were restraining the two victims in a wider-ranging fight when Osby pulled out his .38-caliber revolver and shot the two men in their heads at close range.

Dear Abby

Tennis Coach Tries to Return Born-Again Student's Serve

by Abigail Van Buren

© 1994 Universal Press Syndicate

DEAR ABBY: I have read and enjoyed your column for years, but have never seen my problem addressed. I am a tennis coach (male), in my mid-30s, and live in Florida.

I coach a woman I'll call Susan. She is intelligent and very sensitive. She and her husband are in their early 50s and quite well-to-do. I have worked with them twice a week for nearly eight years.

Four years ago, Susan was "born again." From being not particularly religious, she has gone to attending church every Sunday, Bible study three times a week, and holds prayer groups in her home several times a month. If the church needs money for anything, the people there ring up Susan — who immediately responds with a generous check. Her husband has stopped tearing his hair out and has resigned himself.

About six months ago, Susan began inviting me to church and telling me it was time I settled down and had a family, and church is a great place to meet single women. I am not interested in her suggestion, and I'm running out of excuses. I don't want to risk losing my best client.

Abby, how can I get her off my back without hurting her feelings?
TRAPPED IN RIGHT COURT

DEAR TRAPPED: Your well-intentioned client is probably unaware that her persistence is making you uncomfortable. Try this approach: "Susan, I really appreciate your concern, but I must come to this in my own time and in my own way. If she persists, repeat it. The ball's in your court! Good luck."

DEAR ABBY: My husband recently passed away after a long illness, and many friends and relatives were very supportive during

Mick Jagger on set for '60 Minutes'

NEW YORK (AP) — Even after 30 years together, The Rolling Stones haven't strayed from the basics: sex, drugs and rock 'n' roll.

"I'm afraid that's still there," Mick Jagger said in an interview to be broadcast Sunday on "60 Minutes." "I think that rock 'n' roll is still very much of that sexuality. I think the audience, you know, still takes a lot of drugs. And rock and roll, you have to deliver."

But Jagger, guitarist Keith Richards and drummer Charlie Watts — the three remaining original Stones — said some things have changed since the group was formed in the '60s. There are more aches and pains — and less androgyny.

"Yeah, when you're young is a time that you are rather androgynous-looking," Jagger said. "But that's I think something for when you're young. And I don't think that that really continues when you get older. Because you define yourself more."

It's too bad we all can't cry when people expect us to. Besides, God gives us extra strength when we need it.

Abby, please put this in your column. Some folks are better at controlling their emotions than others.
STILL GRIEVING

DEAR STILL: Shame on that insensitive neighbor. Tears are healing, and some people prefer to shed their tears in private.

DEAR ABBY: To the fellow who complained that his wife said she'd had enough sex to last her a lifetime:

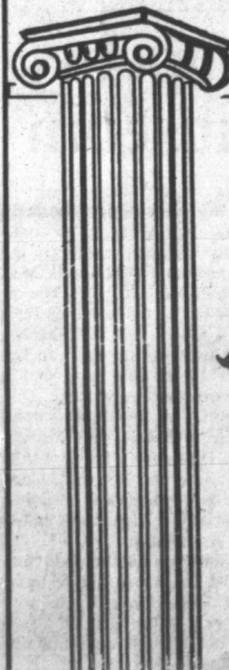

We have been married for nearly 40 years, and my husband read a recent survey that stated "middle-aged couples have sex on the average of once a week."

He says we have to have sex once a day to offset the slack caused by that couple — it's sort of our civic duty, in order to maintain that average. Sign this ...

FCC OKs higher cable rates if more channels are added

WASHINGTON (AP) — Over the next couple of months, consumers may see new cable television channels showing up — and they'll be billed up to $1.50 a month for them.

The Federal Communications Commission Thursday adopted a plan that will allow cable systems to increase rates when they add channels to "expanded basic services," which are regulated levels of service above the lowest-priced basic tier.

They include an array of cable networks from MTV and USA to CNN.

Under the plan, cable operators could charge up to $1.50 a month — or a total of $18 a year — over a two-year period, FCC officials said. In return, subscribers could get at least six new channels.

In the third year, operators may be permitted to charge slightly more — as much as $1.70 a month — for additional channels. But in the fourth year — 1998 — systems won't be permitted to charge consumers for added channels, FCC Chairman Reed Hundt said in an interview.

Coming six months after the agency implemented a 7 percent rate cut, the action could erode some of the savings millions of cable subscribers expected, consumer advocates say.

he was willing to go to five diamonds, he should have bid it the first time.

Despite West's sacrifice, Trezel wasn't willing to assume that East had the club ace. And to try to establish the heart suit without risking East's gaining the lead, Trezel ducked the opening lead.

When West continued with a diamond to dummy's ace, declarer discarded a low heart. South drew trumps, cashed the heart ace, played a heart to dummy's king and ruffed a heart. Back to dummy with a trump, Trezel discarded two club losers on dummy's heart winners. Nicely done.

At another table, South won the first trick with dummy's diamond ace. But after drawing trumps ending in the dummy, he called for the diamond two. When East failed to put in the 10, South discarded a low heart and recovered from his earlier error.

A hamburger meal will be served at noon; the live auction at 3 p.m. and a steak dinner at 5:30 p.m.

Time, the great reaper

By Phillip Alder

Although it feels as if summers run and winters crawl, time moves at a steady pace. However, maybe you agree with Eugene Ionesco: "We haven't the time to take our time."

At the bridge table, though, we must take our time. When the dummy appears, all three active players should pause to plan the campaign. And sometimes we must judge the right time to win a particular trick.

Today's deal was declared by Frenchman Roger Trezel, who died in 1986. How did he time the play in five spades after West had led the diamond king?

West's bidding isn't recommended. First, why pre-empt when you might be able to make three no-trump? A two-diamond overcall is normal. Secondly, having jumped to four diamonds, West shouldn't have bid five. If

Slaton, Wylie battle tonight

Tenth-ranked Tigers command dazzling "D"

By TODD STANLEY
SDN Sports Editor

The Abilene Wylie Bulldogs will take the field against the Class 3A powerhouse and 10th-ranked Slaton Tigers at 7:30 in Snyder's Tiger Stadium.

Tonight's bi-district playoff game pits a Slaton (9-1) team that has averaged over 40 points a game against Wylie (7-3), who has managed only 20.7 points per contest.

The matchup, however, won't be offensive minded, as the Tigers have allowed only 3.6 points a game.

If the Tigers' 33-14 loss to Lovington, N.M. is subtracted from their total points allowed, they have given up a total of three points all season.

The Slaton defense has given a new meaning to the cliché that "Offense wins games, defense wins championships."

Slaton's stingy defense is led by middle linebacker Juan Muniz and outside linebackers Jerald Williams and Charles Thomas.

Muniz averages over 11 tackles per game.

Offensively, the Tigers can hold their own as well.

Quarterback Chris Hammons has connected on 94 of his 160 attempts, amassing 1,373 yards and 16 touchdowns.

Leading the Tigers' ground attack is running back Oskar Solis. Solis, a senior, averages over nine yards per carry.

He carried the ball 193 times, over the course of the season, for 1,764 yards and 29 touchdowns.

Abilene Wylie, on the other hand, commands a high-powered offense of its own.

Quarterback Chris Kincaid has been an integral part of the Bulldog offense. He has completed 92 of 184 passes for 1,105 yards and seven touchdowns.

Teammate Marshall Pinkston, a running back, has rushed for over 800 yards and eight touchdowns on the year.

The Bulldogs, who finished the year with a 28-7 victory over Coleman, are the District 6-3A runner-up.

Slaton, who crushed Lubbock Roosevelt 49-0 in their season finale, represent District 5-3A as champions.

The winner will advance to take on either Alpine or Sonora in the area playoff round.

LUBBOCK—The competition was tough and the two mile times were low, during last Saturday's regional cross country meet held at Lubbock's Mae Simmons Park.

Snyder runners, Jamie Prather and Mary Higby, were ready for the competition. Prather, a senior, placed 31st in the two mile race with a time of 13:25. It was her fourth straight year to make it to the regional meet.

"Jamie did a great job competing all year and she had a good showing at regionals," Snyder head coach Steve Qualls said. "She has nothing to be disappointed about."

"The competition was very stiff. I'm real proud of her."

Meanwhile, Higby, a freshman, hopes to continue the tradition of strong cross country runners at Snyder High. She placed 57th out of 102 runners with a time of 14:26.

"This was a great experience for a freshman to run at regionals," Qualls said. "It should propel her on to bigger and better things."

The regional meet was only Higby's second event at the varsity level.

Joshua's Casi Florida blazed the course with a time of 11:18 to place first in the individual event. Canyon High, the defending state champion, won their 58th straight event by placing seven runners in the top 19 to win the team event with 39 points.

The top 10 individual finishers at the regional meet will compete at tomorrow's state meet in Georgetown.

Additionally, the top 3 teams advance to the state meet.

Rodman skips workout

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — Dennis Rodman, AWOL from the San Antonio Spurs, missed practice Thursday, the day after his three-game suspension by the club was to have ended.

San Antonio coach Bob Hill and general manager Gregg Popovich were unable to reach him by phone several times during the day before making contact in the afternoon. It was not immediately clear why Rodman skipped the workout.

"We would like to have this guy on our team, but it takes two to tango," Hill said. "He has to cooperate."

Popovich had said Rodman, the NBA's leading rebounder the last three years, would remain suspended. Rodman was expected to meet with Popovich and Hill before Friday morning's practice.

"These silly distractions are becoming monotonous," Popovich said. "They are selfish on his part. It borders on the ridiculous. I have no idea what he thinks he will gain. My hope is still that Dennis will grow up and become a part of this team."

The Spurs last week suspended Rodman for three games because of his conduct during preseason.

Rodman missed a team bus and meeting at the start of training camp. He was late to an exhibition game in which he wasn't expected to play, and he was ejected from the Spurs' final exhibition game.

Without the 6-foot-8 forward, the Spurs lost their opener to Golden State, then defeated New Jersey and Utah. San Antonio faces the Knicks on Saturday.

"I've been focusing on the team, not thinking about Dennis," Hill said. "If he wants to be part of this team, that's fine. If not, that's his decision. The guys have demonstrated they can play well without Dennis. I like this team, I like the attitude, I like they way they have come together. And we have won the boards in every game."

"Sean Elliott said the players would maintain their emphasis on upcoming games."

"We're not going to be just sitting here waiting, waiting and waiting, like babies, for Dennis," Elliott said. "No, I am not surprised he didn't show up. Crazy things have happened."

Rodman.

Fishing report

Lake E.V. Spence — Surface temperature was 68 degrees and a number of good reports came in from black bass fishermen.

However, Tommy Brown, and Patti and Mike Hudson, kept striped bass fans happy by catching their limit.

Also, out of Wildcat Marina, Fred Wostek, reeled in a 7.9 pound black bass.

Paint Creek Marina reports included Jimmy Womac reeling in a 4.9 pound black bass on red shad power worms; Kenny Watts nabbed a 4.5 and a 2 pound black bass on deep diving lures; and Bill Neal caught a 7.5 pound black bass on a jitter bug.

Rice can get upper-hand in Cotton race

The Rice Owls won't look for a miracle on Saturday — just their biggest victory of the season.

The Owls, who haven't played in the Cotton Bowl since 1957, will host the Baylor Bears, who haven't been to the post-season game since 1981, in a battle to see who stays in the race to play in Dallas on Jan. 2.

Rice coach Ken Hatfield will keep his team's thoughts away from post-season.

"Our players have to learn how to handle it," Hatfield said. "You try to get across that they don't have to go out and play over their heads. It's not going to take a miracle to win. We just need to do the things you did to get here."

Baylor (6-3, 3-2) is a one-point favorite over the Owls (4-4, 3-2).

Texas (5-4, 2-3) is a 26-point favorite to beat Houston (1-7, 1-3) in Austin's Memorial Stadium; Texas Tech (4-4, 3-2) is a 21-point favorite at home against Southwestern Louisiana (5-4); No. 9 Texas A&M (8-0-1, 5-0-1) is a 12-point favorite at Louisville (5-3); and Texas Christian (5-3, 2-2) is a 21/2-point favorite at Southern Methodist (1-8-1, 0-5-1).

Still in the Cotton Bowl race, all with two losses in league play, are Rice, Baylor, Texas Tech and Texas Christian.

Baylor needs to win out against Rice and Texas to keep its Cotton Bowl hopes alive, but Texas Tech would be the immediate beneficiary of a Baylor win. If Rice loses again, the Red Raiders could go to the Cotton Bowl by winning their last two SWC games, against Houston and Texas Christian.

It's possible even for five SWC teams to end up with three losses, which would put Texas back in the Cotton Bowl picture. That could happen if Baylor were to beat Rice, then lose to Texas, and if TCU were to beat Texas Tech, then lose to Texas A&M.

On multi-team finishes, Texas Tech has the nod, since the Red Raiders have never represented the SWC in the Cotton Bowl.

A&M has dominated the league again this year, but is ineligible for the championship or post-season play.

"I have a lot of respect for Rice, and I felt they'd be right in the hunt for this all along," Baylor coach Chuck Reedy said. "We certainly hoped at this stage of the season we'd be playing for something."

"Obviously, the winner will still be in the hunt and the loser probably no longer will be in the hunt for the Cotton Bowl."

Rice wide receiver Ed Howard expects his holidays to be interrupted. "If we don't go out and play our best game, we'll be home for Christmas," Howard said. "I've seen my family for three years at Christmas. This year, I hope they see me on TV."

TCU also has a chance to play in the Cotton Bowl for the first time since 1959. But the Horned Frogs have Texas A&M still to play, which makes it more difficult for them to win out.

Coach Pat Sullivan is worried about SMU on Saturday, despite the Mustangs' record.

"They're going to be very loose," Sullivan said. "Anytime you've got nothing to lose, you tend to relax and not make as many mistakes."

Houston coach Kim Helton isn't interested in who wins the title, since the Cougars already have three losses, having beaten only SMU.

"If we can't win it, I don't care who wins it," Helton said. "I'd just as soon beat Texas, Texas Tech and Rice and let them figure who wins it."

The Cougars averaged 5.4 points over their first five games this season but they've averaged 20.6 points in their last three. Helton doesn't think that will impress the Longhorns.

"They probably don't have as much respect for us as maybe they do for other teams," Helton said. "So maybe we can go up there and earn some respect."

Texas A&M coach R.C. Slocum is reminding the Aggies the season isn't over.

The Aggies beat Texas 34-10 last week. The Longhorns are usually the last game on the schedule.

"Normally, we pull out all the stops for the Texas game," Slocum said. "We play the game and that's it. Then, maybe, you are getting ready for bowl preparations in a few weeks."

Texas coach John Mackovic doesn't appreciate the Longhorns being written off after losses to Rice, Texas Tech and Texas A&M over the past four weeks.

"I just happen to believe that we'll go through the tough times and get through to the better times," Mackovic said. "With that in mind, I can look forward to the next day knowing that I feel sorry for those of you who cannot."

Test may diagnose Alzheimer's

WASHINGTON (AP) — Chemical drops that dilate the pupils in routine eye exams may be used to diagnose Alzheimer's disease, a lethal disorder that destroys the mind but is difficult to identify in a living patient.

In a study published today in the journal Science, researchers at Brigham and Women's Hospital and the Harvard Medical School in Boston report that an eye drop drug called tropicamide causes the pupils in the eyes of Alzheimer's disease patients to dilate about four times more readily than in the eyes of people without the brain disease.

Huntington Potter of Harvard said Alzheimer's patients are so sensitive to tropicamide that their pupils will change by about 23.4 percent, while patients without the disease show only a 5 percent change.

Although medical science now has little to offer Alzheimer's patients, Potter said there eventually will be drugs to stop the progression of the disease and an early diagnosis will be critically important.

He said an early diagnosis also enables patients to plan, while they are still able, for the inevitable loss of mental ability.

Potter said Alzheimer's now is correctly diagnosed with only 60 to 75 percent accuracy. The diagnosis can be confirmed with absolute certainty only by an autopsy.

Alzheimer's disease progressively destroys the brain, wiping out memory, thought and the control of bodily functions. The disease strikes about 10 percent of the population over the age of 65 and currently affects about 20 million people worldwide.

Tropicamide is used by ophthalmologists to dilate pupils during eye exams. Its effects are brief. When used for the Alzheimer's test, the drug is diluted to about 1 percent of the concentration used in eye tests.

Potter originated the idea of using tropicamide to test for Alzheimer's after noting that patients with Down syndrome were highly sensitive to the drug.

Down syndrome is an inherited disorder that causes mental retardation. In middle age, Down patients often develop the same brain lesions and dementia symptoms that are characteristic of Alzheimer's disease. Potter reasoned that if Down patients were hypersensitive to tropicamide, then Alzheimer's patients may be also.

Leonard Scinto at Brigham and Women's Hospital directed research that found Potter's theory was correct.

Using the eye test, Scinto was able to correctly identify 18 of 19 probable Alzheimer's sufferers from a group of 58 elderly patients.

Potter said one patient was found positive for Alzheimer's, but he exhibited none of the disease symptoms when tested by other methods and was counted as a false positive.

But 10 months later the patient was retested. Potter said that the eye test was again positive and, this time, other tests showed mental losses characteristic of Alzheimer's.

Thus, said Potter, the eye test may be able to detect the disease long before symptoms appear.

Dr. George Martin, director of the Alzheimer's Disease Center at the University of Washington in Seattle, said the possibility of diagnosing the brain disease with a simple eye test "is an exceedingly exciting development." He cautioned, however, that widespread experimentation will be needed before the technique is proven.

Potter said confirming the test's accuracy will require at least two years and research with hundreds of patients.

Science, which published the study, is the journal of the American Association for the Advancement of Science.

Suicide cyclist kills three Israeli soldiers

NETZARIM, Gaza Strip (AP) — A suicide cyclist with a bomb strapped to his body triggered the explosion as he veered toward an Israeli army jeep today, killing three soldiers and wounding a dozen Palestinians and Israelis.

Islamic Jihad, a militant group opposed to Israel-PLO peacemaking, claimed responsibility for the attack. The group said it was in retaliation for the Nov. 2 car bomb killing of an Islamic Jihad leader blamed on Israel.

The attack occurred at a main junction on Gaza's north-south highway, which is patrolled by Israeli and Palestine Liberation Organization forces.

Palestinian demonstrators had gathered at the intersection to protest Israel's barring Palestinians from jobs in Israel.

Seven Israeli soldiers were wounded when the cyclist set off the explosive as he drove near a jeep, an Israeli official said. Hospital officials said four Palestinians in a taxi were also wounded.

There were conflicting reports whether the attacker was riding on a motorcycle or a bicycle.

Brig. Salem Abu Omar, a PLO officer, said a Palestinian on a motorcycle got past PLO police, drove into an Israeli checkpoint and set off the bomb. He said Palestinian police had stopped several buses with protesters who had planned to join the demonstration.

A PLO police colonel was slightly injured in the blast, he said.

At a separate protest outside the slain Islamic Jihad leader's house in Gaza City, Islamic Jihad leader Sheikh Abdullah Shami said the suicide attack was in retaliation for the Nov. 2 car bomb killing of Hani Abed.

Two masked men, each carrying an automatic rifle, told the crowd that Islamic Jihad claimed responsibility for the attack and claimed four Israeli soldiers were killed and a dozen wounded. They said the attacker rode a bicycle.

"This is one of our first responses to the death of Hani Abed," said an announcer at the rally.

Islamic Jihad is the smallest and most violent of the Islamic militant groups opposed to the Israel-PLO accord. It is led by Fathi Shikaki, a doctor based in Lebanon and Syria, and reportedly gets support from Iran.

Islamic Jihad is separate from Hamas, which has claimed responsibility for other terror attacks aimed at derailing the peace process, including the Oct. 19 bombing of a Tel Aviv bus that killed 22 people.

The explosion occurred 200 yards from Netzarim, an isolated settlement of 180 people in the Gaza Strip. Israeli troops and PLO police gather at the junction to conduct joint patrols.

The junction is located in an area of the Gaza Strip still controlled by Israeli forces. The army pulled out of most of the strip when the PLO took over in May, but stayed in some areas to protect Jewish settlements.

From Netzarim, the outskirts of Gaza City with its 300,000 Palestinian residents is clearly visible.

Islamic militants have carried out a series of attacks against Israeli targets in the past month.

On Oct. 19, a bomb went off on a bus in central Tel Aviv, killing 22 victims. The attack was claimed by the Islamic fundamentalist movement Hamas. Two people were killed when killed Oct. 9 when Hamas gunmen went on a shooting spree in a Jerusalem cafe district.

Also last month, a Hamas squad kidnapped an Israeli soldier. His captors killed him during a failed rescue attempt by Israeli commandos.

Likely GOP chairman readies agendas for next Congress

WASHINGTON (AP) — Overhauling the income tax, snuffing out a congressional probe of the tobacco industry, slashing foreign aid — Republicans are busily setting their goals for a new, more conservative Congress.

GOP lawmakers likely to chair committees in the Congress that convenes in January say their Election Day landslide was a popular call to rein in a government that has become too big, too costly and too unresponsive. And for the first time in 40 years, their control of House and Senate panels will give them a huge advantage in moving legislation that does exactly that.

"Clearly, the public doesn't want so much government," Sen. Pete Domenici, R-N.M., returning to his old job as chairman of the Senate Budget Committee, said in an interview Thursday. "We have to go out and get rid of some of government."

Without offering specifics, Domenici said his committee would look for programs "that aren't really working to see what we can get rid of." He also said it would move quickly to strengthen the president's ability to erase individual items in spending bills and to endorse a constitutional amendment that would require a balanced budget.

Behind the scenes, the GOP Senate staff is considering a plan that would trim federal spending by $500 billion to $700 billion through the year 2002, said one Republican aide who spoke on condition of anonymity. The plan is aimed at achieving a balanced budget by then and paying for $100 billion worth of tax cuts for the middle class, the aide said.

Domenici said he would seek support for a plan he has advanced with Sen. Sam Nunn, D-Ga., dramatically reshaping the income tax. People would deduct their savings and investments from their incomes and pay tax only on the difference, which he said would encourage Americans to save money.

The man who will probably chair the House Ways and Means Committee said Thursday that one of his long-range goals is to eliminate the income tax altogether, replacing it with perhaps a national sales tax.

More immediately, Rep. Bill Archer, R-Texas, said the tax-writing panel would move quickly on several tax cut plans, including reductions in the levies paid by some better-off Social Security recipients, people who save money for future medical use and families with children.

Also on his agenda is a cut in the capital gains tax rate. That levy is paid on profits of sales of stocks and other property, and reducing the tax has been a long-range goal of Republicans. Democrats say such a move would chiefly benefit the rich and cost the government money.

Nurse indicted on 4 counts

ial would be delayed so that an autopsy could be performed. Final toxicology reports have not been prepared. Christian said the grand jury felt the facts were sufficient for indictment without any final reports on toxicology.

"Obviously, if these 12 people ... felt it (the evidence) was insufficient to go to trial, then we were wasting our time," he said. "It's going to be a major battle" to win a conviction, he said.

Defense attorney Scott Tack said he wasn't surprised by the indictments, but "it's a major disappointment, especially since there is ... no medical evidence that she did or did not" kill the patients.

"How can you indict, how can you prosecute, how can you try someone without that critical evidence?" he said.

Gwen Beach, the nurse's husband, said the two were expecting the indictments and that she was eager to start the court process.

"Right now, she seems to be in pretty good spirits," he said, adding that she expected to be cleared of the charges.

Investigators have said Mrs. Beach left a suicide note that detailed how the patients were killed. There were reports that three of the victims were killed by air being injected into their intravenous tubes and one was killed with potassium chloride, a drug that freezes muscles and can trigger heart attacks.

Mrs. Beach attributed the confession to her mental state at the time of the suicide attempt.

Officers note arrests, several traffic mishaps

Local law enforcement officials made five arrests Thursday and early this morning and also issued three citations for shoplifting.

A 45-year-old woman was arrested in the 4500 block of El Paso at 8:46 p.m. Thursday and charged with public intoxication. An offense report for assault/family violence was also submitted.

Officers made three arrests at the 250 Club at 12:46 this morning as three 21-year-old males were taken into custody for public intoxication. One of the three was also charged with disorderly conduct.

A 39-year-old male was arrested at 2:11 this morning in the vicinity of Camp Springs Road and Bear Grass Lane on two outstanding warrants for public intoxication.

A 43-year-old male was issued a citation for shoplifting at 6:15 Thursday evening at Don's Value King. An offense report for Class C theft was also submitted.

Police issued a citation for Class C theft to a minor at 7:07 p.m. in reference to shoplifting at Wal-Mart. The juvenile was released to his mother.

Officers responded to another shoplifting incident at Don's Value King at 9:50 p.m. in which a citation for Class C theft was submitted to one adult male and one juvenile male.

Police also investigated a report of the theft of a Sony Walkman from a vehicle parked at Walls Industries parking lot. The calling party declined to file charges.

Police officers also assisted six motorists who had locked their keys in their vehicles.

A two-vehicle accident was investigated at 1:08 p.m. Thursday at the traffic circle on U.S. Business Highway 84. Involved were a 1989 Chevrolet Blazer driven by Dulces Fierro of Pecos and a 1990 Ford pickup driven by John Vigneau of 118 Browning.

Police worked a two-vehicle accident at 5:13 p.m. involving a 1991 Ford Pickup driven by Earl Helton, 2605 Ave. V and a 1978 Monte Carlo driven by Vivian Benitez, 2211 Ave. Z.

Another two-vehicle accident was investigated at 5:21 p.m. involving a 1992 Corsica driven by Stephen Richards of 200 26th St. and a 1990 Bronco driven by Xan Harris of 4010 Austin.

Herbal remedies and menopause

By Peter H. Gott, M.D.

DEAR DR. GOTT: Upon reading your column on post-menopausal hormone therapy, I have become curious why medical doctors do not recommend herbal treatments. I've been taking such a remedy for some time now and after the first week, my night sweats and hot flashes have disappeared completely.

DEAR READER: The reason that herbal remedies are not used is that they are generally ineffective, according to medical authorities. Most women pass through menopause relatively uneventfully, except for moodiness and hot flashes.

For those women who suffer more severe symptoms, such as heavy bleeding, hormone therapy, prescribed by a physician, is more appropriate.

DEAR DR. GOTT: Can a house cat transmit staph infection to a human? My 18-year-old daughter has had this problem for over two years, and her cat has open sores. Are the two related?

DEAR READER: Staph bacteria often infect animals as well as humans, causing open, draining wounds. Your daughter should take her cat to a veterinarian.

The animal may require simultaneous antibiotic therapy (along with your daughter) in order to cure the infection and prevent back-and-forth transmission.

DEAR DR. GOTT: Your December 1992 column discussed a testosterone patch. Due to cancer of the prostate, I first had radiation treatments. They worked for over four years, but the cancer ultimately reappeared. I then underwent bilateral orchiectomy. That cured my cancer but has caused a loss of strength and endurance, in addition to loss of leg and arm hair. Has there been any further progress on this patch and how would a person go about getting in on some of the testing?

DEAR READER: Prostate cancer thrives in the presence of testosterone, male hormone. Therefore, the treatment of this cancer usually includes drugs that block testosterone, or orchiectomy (removal of the testicles), or female hormone (to counteract testosterone).

Unfortunately, all these therapies affect sexuality and can cause weight gain, weakness and hair loss. This is the price you have to pay to have your prostate cancer kept under control.

While the testosterone patch could improve the way you feel, it is absolutely contraindicated in the presence of prostate cancer; you shouldn't use it. Ordinarily, testosterone supplements, in injections or patch form, are reserved for patients who are deficient in the hormone, have symptoms (such as sexual dysfunction), and do not have prostate cancer. For those men who wish to use the testosterone patch, it is available by prescription in most pharmacies.

To give you more information, I am sending you a free copy of my Health Report "The Prostate Gland." Other readers who would like a copy should send $2 plus a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope to P.O. Box 2433, New York, NY 10163. Be sure to mention the title.

Umpire-baiting could become crime

WOODCLIFF LAKE, N.J. (AP) — Don't kill the umpire. Don't even yell at him.

In the state where one town has already banned cursing, another wants to prohibit unsportsmanlike conduct — by players and spectators alike.

The proposed ordinance would prohibit anyone attending or participating in a Woodcliff Lake-sponsored sporting event from fighting, verbally abusing or threatening anyone else at the game.

Violators could be fined up to $100. School sporting events would not be covered.

Most residents and officials interviewed Thursday in this borough of 5,300 were in favor of the proposal. But the state's American Civil Liberties Union chapter said it would place an unconstitutional restraint on free speech, and promised to challenge the ban if it is passed and enforced.

"Speech that is merely offensive to sensibilities may still be protected by the First Amendment," said Legal Director Marsha Wenk. "Speech must do more than offend or annoy or disturb to be banned."

The proposal had been scheduled to be introduced to the council Wednesday, but instead was referred back to the parks and recreation committee for more work.

Councilman Salvatore Princiotta said the ordinance should stand up in court because of its narrow scope. He said it's not as broad as the law passed last month in Raritan that makes it illegal to curse anywhere in public.

Similar measures have been enacted in Arkansas, Delaware, Louisiana, Massachusetts, Pennsylvania, Tennessee and Oklahoma.

Tony Dodsworth, who favors the proposal, recalled launching an obscene tirade after his 9-year-old son was called out at the plate during a baseball game this summer. He told the ump his mask was so tight "oxygen is being cut off to your three brain cells."

Then he looked at his wife and son.

"I saw how embarrassed (they) were and I realized I shouldn't have said those things," said Dodsworth, 39.

Pedro Zamora...

AIDS activist dies

MIAMI (AP) — Pedro Zamora, who got the AIDS virus as a teenager and dedicated his life to educating the public about the disease, died early today. He was 22.

Zamora, who was featured on MTV's video verite "The Real World," died at 4:40 a.m. at Mercy Hospital, said Lori Hay, nursing supervisor.

Zamora got HIV, the virus that causes AIDS, when he was 17. A gifted speaker, he went on a lecture tour, telling audiences at high schools and other organizations that he was infected through unprotected sex.

He testified at a congressional hearing, gave interviews and made a television commercial about AIDS for the federal Centers for Disease Control.

"Knowing that I could die has been scary," he said in the ad. "But what's even worse is knowing that my friends didn't learn a thing from all this. They're still doing what I did that got me infected."

"Pedro is a one-of-a-kind person," his partner Sean Sasser said recently. "I don't think I'll be as lucky again."

This year Zamora appeared in MTV's "Real World," in which ordinary young people are chosen to live together in a house while camera crews film them up to 20 hours a day. The film is edited to show how people deal with their problems.

The people who agreed to live with Zamora for several months knew before filming started that one of their group had the AIDS virus, but they didn't know which one. Zamora told them after the first day they were together.

He said they took it well, but that he had to educate them that they couldn't get AIDS by using the same bathroom or drinking from the same glass.

Facts About The BIBLE BY JOHN LEHTI

"OFF WITH HIS HEAD!"

AMONG THE ANCIENT RULERS, WE FIND SOME TYRANTS WHO TOOK THE LAW INTO THEIR OWN HANDS. WHEN DISPLEASED WITH ONE OF THEIR SUBJECTS IT WAS NOT UNUSUAL FOR THEM TO BELLOW, "OFF WITH HIS HEAD!" NO ONE QUESTIONED THEIR AUTHORITY OR COULD DEMAND A COURT TRIAL. IT WAS JUST AN OPEN AND SHUT CASE! ON THE OTHER HAND THE ISRAELITES WERE UNDER MOSAIC LAW WHICH PRESCRIBED CERTAIN PROCEDURES FOR ALL PEOPLE WHO MIGHT BE ACCUSED OF A CRIME. IT FELL TO THE ELDERS, MEN OF MATURE AGE, TO JUDGE THE OFFENDER, CONSIDERING ALL THE EVIDENCE AGAINST HIM AND FINALLY DECIDE HIS INNOCENCE OR GUILT. THE MORALITY OF THE MOSAIC LAW, STRICT AS IT WAS, GAVE EACH ACCUSED THE PERSONAL DIGNITY OF PRESENTING THE FACTS OF HIS CASE. THE PETTY RULERS DESTROYED HUMAN RIGHTS AND DIGNITY, JUDGING ALL CASES ON THE BASIS OF THEIR OWN NARROW VIEWPOINT--USUALLY IN AN AROUSED STATE OF ANGER. THE LAWS WHICH THE ISRAELITES ADHERED TO, ALTHOUGH THEY WERE SEVERE, WERE MORALLY EXACT.
