In Brief

More vehicles

TOKYO (AP) — For the first time in 15 years, Japan made fewer cars, trucks and buses than the United States.

The Japan Automobile Manufacturers Association said today vehicle production in 1994 declined for a fourth consecutive year. Japanese makers produced 10,554,119 vehicles last year, down 6 percent from a year earlier, said an association official, Hiroki Mochida.

That was 1.8 million vehicles less than U.S. production of 12,357,486 vehicles in 1994, which increased by 13.4 percent from 1993, Mochida said.

Bids contain good news

Will be acted upon later this month

By Wade Warren
SDN Staff Writer

Opening the bids for a new inmate telephone system Monday was a lot like opening envelopes from Publishers Clearing House — they all appeared professional on the outside and the papers inside were even more official-looking.

The only difference was that the commissioners and Scurry County citizens actually were winners.

It wasn't Ed McMahon with a million-dollar payoff, but in these budget-watching times at the county, it was almost as good.

The apparent high bidder for an inmate telephone system at Scurry County Jail was North American InTeleCom. The proposal seemed almost too good to be true to the Commissioners Court.

The San Antonio based company — a wholly owned subsidiary of Diamond Shamrock — submitted two plans with each guaranteeing monthly payments and a $25,000 signing bonus.

One of the plans offers a 46 percent commission on all phone calls made by inmates with a guaranteed monthly payment of $2,500 while the other one offers a 38 percent commission plan and a monthly guarantee of $2,000.

Sheriff Keith Collier told the court that the company currently operating the system — Global TellLink — pays a commission of 25 percent which averages about $600 monthly to the county.

TellLink submitted a bid package Monday but it arrived by courier some 90 minutes after the bid opening deadline of 11 a.m. It will be returned to the bidder unopened.

An Abilene company, Abilene Telecommunication Service Co., submitted a proposal of 35 percent commission while Security Telecom, Inc. submitted a bid of 39.5 percent.

Southwestern Bell bid 28 percent commission plus a signing bonus of $1,000.

Each system submitted allows jail inmates to make calls either locally or out of town. All calls are collect; the party being called has the option to accept or refuse the call.

Also, the calls are all computer operated and no jail manpower is involved in the calling process.

Commissioners are expected to consider the proposals again when they meet on Jan. 30.

Much of Monday's time was spent reviewing a 77-page document dealing with safety and loss control for the county — a meeting which wrapped up with approval of the document this morning.

Julie Strunk serves as chairman of the loss control committee and other members include Charlie Bell, Joe Cheyne, Stephanie Knipe, Noreen Taylor, Kathryn Roberts, Bill Sikes, Alfred Kohl, C.D. Gray Jr., Jerry Gannaway, H.V. Walker and Beverly Glasscock.

Assets frozen...

President clamping down on terrorists

WASHINGTON (AP) — Outraged by the weekend bombing in Israel, President Clinton today ordered the freezing of U.S. assets belonging to 12 groups and 18 people accused of undermining peace plans with terrorist acts.

The Islamic Jihad faction that claimed responsibility for the bombing that killed 19 people was cited in the executive order, which took effect after midnight. The order mentioned at least one right-wing Jewish group linked to terrorism.

Clinton's directive also seeks to prevent suspected terrorists and their organizations from getting charitable donations from U.S. sources, the White House said.

Press secretary Mike McCurry released a partial list of the group cited in Clinton's executive order, including Hamas, Islamic Jihad, Hezbollah, Kach and the Palestinian Liberation Front.

He said the move was part of the administration's sweeping effort to strike back at terrorists. Clinton joined world leaders deploring the weekend bombing in Israel that killed 19 people.

Calling the terrorists "enemies of peace," Clinton on Sunday expressed the administration's fear that continued violence in the Middle East will thwart efforts by Israel and its Arab neighbors to make peace.

"We have reason to believe they are specifically involved in an effort to disrupt and destroy the peace process," McCurry said of the list.

McCurry said the groups and people targeted by the administration are "foreign organizations and individuals who we believe lend support to terrorist activities."

The action, taken under the International Emergency Economic Powers Act, is aimed at blocking the U.S. assets of the targeted groups. The Treasury Department was notifying banks today of accounts suspected of being tied to the groups, he said.

The order would forbid financial transactions with the groups, McCurry said, and seek to restrict the flow of charitable donations to the organizations.

He said the order was to be made public later today.

Clinton plans to make mention of this and other efforts to combat terrorism in his State of the Union address tonight, McCurry said.

The SDN Column

By Roy McQueen

The feller on Deep Creek says, "The past doesn't change, but our memory of it sure does."

Although we've almost operated a computer since 1979, we're convinced that we're gonna remain "computer illiterate."

Trying to read one of those blasted manuals reminds us of the written directions on "easy-to-assemble" purchases. No doubt, some professions have a language of their own.

A "Christmas tree" in the oilfield or a "sandfighter" in farming is not what the average person would imagine.

According to experts, the average person has a practical vocabulary of 30,000 words (including those little-used phrases when you stomp your toe in the dark).

A recent survey reveals that the average merchant's vocabulary ranges from 15,000 to 25,000 words. A salesman's range is between 14,000 and 38,000 while a secretary may vary from 16,000 to 29,000 words.

Accountants are slightly higher, from 22,000 to 30,000. A middle manager or professor may have a range up to 48,000 words. Corporate executives and English teachers were tops, peaking out at a typical vocabulary of more than 50,000 words.

But even the English prof may have trouble with his native tongue if he happens to make a trip to Japan. There, advertising executives are selling goods by concocting slogans in goofy, but eye-catching English.

There is no end to the Japanese fascination with mangled, mind-bending English. Japanese believe that English lends an air of sophistication and worldliness.

The need to understand has resulted in a collection of Japanese English called "Japanese Jive." It's handy in case you want some "creep for your coffee," or "jazz for your breath" (mouthwash).

Clinton expected to promise a leaner, kinder government

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Clinton stands before Congress tonight with the promise of a leaner, kinder government, a growing job market, a safer world — and with hopes of winning back voters who deserted him after his last State of the Union address.

Working in his study most of the day Monday, the president prepared an address that aides predicted would welcome Republican cooperation whenever possible on a line-item veto, reduced bureaucracy, immigration control, and welfare and campaign finance reform.

But he will be combative — defying a few pet projects, resisting intrusions on foreign policy and accusing the Republicans of threatening the poor with some of their welfare reform plans, aides said.

Few new programs or ideas will be unveiled, with the most likely exception being a proposed increase in the $4.25-an-hour minimum wage. Aides said Clinton has decided to seek a rate of $5 an hour over two years, but he won't spend much time on the idea in the nationally broadcast speech, scheduled for 8 p.m., CST.

Sure to draw GOP opposition, a minimum wage increase is viewed in the White House as a way "to try to keep people interested in work rather than in welfare," Chief of Staff Leon Panetta told Fox TV today.

"So, I wouldn't be surprised if the president would address at least the theory of protecting the minimum wage in his speech," he said. Proposing a higher rate would please the liberal wing of Clinton's party, at a time when he is trying to cast himself as a moderate.

Republicans argue the wage increase would cost teen-agers jobs, and question whether Clinton can work with them on the sweeping centrist agenda he is promising.

"The fact is, the minimum wage is a very destructive thing," House Majority Leader Dick Armey said today on Fox. "We have a proven history of minimum wage increases in eliminating ... low wage jobs. That works very, very perniciously against the ability of the unskilled, untrained, inexperienced worker getting their start in life."

One year ago, Clinton stood at the House lectern, waved a pen at a Democratic-controlled Congress and brazenly vowed to veto any health care legislation that didn't suit him. "We will make history," he declared, "by reforming the health care system."

The political environment today is drastically different: Republicans are now in charge, massive health care reform is no longer in the script, and the focus will be on the political future of the president, not one piece of legislation.

To keep his re-election hopes alive, Clinton must begin tonight convincing voters that he learned from the November Republican landslide.

Appeals process moves forward for Johnson Jr.

The seemingly never-ending appeals process of convicted murderer Dorsey Lee Johnson Jr. will presumably be headed to the 5th Circuit Court in New Orleans, now that it has moved forward another step.

On Monday, Federal District Judge Sam Cummings of Lubbock adopted the findings of a magistrate in favor of the State of Texas and against the defendant. Johnson now has 30 days to file an appeal with the 5th Circuit Court.

The appeals process has taken eight years for the Colorado City man, who was convicted and sentenced to death in 1986 for killing an Allsup's convenience store clerk during a robbery here.

In a landmark case in 1993, the U.S. Supreme Court denied his appeal on the grounds of youthfulness, 5-4. Johnson was 19 at the time of the murder.

In a brief hearing in 132nd District Court on Sept. 1, 1993, Johnson was ordered to die by lethal injection on Nov. 12, a date coinciding with his conviction in 1986.

Court papers filed prior to the November execution date on behalf of Johnson's counsel, Robert C. Owen of the Texas Resource Center, requested an indefinite stay. 132nd District Court Judge Gene Dulaney denied that request, and instead set a new execution date for Jan. 27, 1994 at the request of District Attorney Ernie Armstrong.

Just hours before his scheduled execution, Johnson was granted a stay by the Federal District Court in Lubbock. Magistrate Judge J.Q. Warnick was appointed to study the case and submit his findings to Judge Cummings. That process took almost a year.

On Monday, Judge Cummings adopted the magistrate's findings, which were in favor of the state.

It is now expected that Johnson — his lawyers have said that he has converted to the Moorish Science Temple and now prefers to go by Johnson Rev. — will file a writ with the 5th Circuit Court in New Orleans, and possibly, again in the U.S. Supreme Court.

At some time during or after the appeals process, the case will go back to 132nd District Court for a new execution date to be scheduled, unless an appeal is granted.

Contacted this morning, District Judge Dulaney said he will wait to set another execution date until the case has gone through the 5th Circuit Court, or if no appeal has been filed, after 30 days.

Governors may fear wider registration

CHICAGO (AP) — Supporters of a law requiring easier voter registration say it is being stalled in five states by Republicans who fear newly-registered liberals will flood polling places and sweep them from power.

"What you would tend to bring in would be the poor, the disenfranchised," says state Rep. Clem Balanoff, an outspoken Chicago Democrat who has campaigned for easier registration. "The power brokers don't want that. They want a small, controllable electorate."

On Monday, Attorney General Janet Reno sued Illinois, California and Pennsylvania to force them to comply with the 1993 National Voter Registration Act. The Justice Department held off suing South Carolina and Michigan, saying those states would get more time to comply. All five states have Republican governors.

Critics of the 1993 National Voter Registration Act, nicknamed the "motor voter" law, say it infringes states' rights, imposes a costly mandate without federal aid for pay for it and might lead to fraud.

"It's a sad commentary on Washington," said Pennsylvania's attorney general, Ernie Prete Jr. "Just as we're cleaning up the latest election-fraud mess in Philadelphia... the Justice Department takes us to court to force us to lower our standards and make fraud easier to commit."

About 70 million Americans are not registered to vote, Reno said. The law requires states to provide registration by mail, at social service offices and through the drivers licensing process.

Illinois Gov. Jim Edgar said the Legislature declined to pass a compliance bill last year because lawmakers viewed it as "another federal mandate with no money."

California Gov. Pete Wilson said the lawsuit "is not surprising and has no impact on our legal efforts to block implementation."

Wilson has vetoed compliance legislation, ordered state agencies not to obey the law and sued to overturn it. The Pennsylvania Legislature did not act on the law in 1994.

Michigan Gov. John Engler signed a compliance law but ordered state officials not to implement parts that cost money until the federal government paid for them.

Former South Carolina Gov. Carroll Campbell vetoed compliance legislation as he left office. His successor, David Beasley, has promised to "fight the Justice Department all the way down the line."

Asked about opposition from Republican governors, Reno said: "Why anybody would have to go to get a driver's license in one place and go to another place to get registered to vote has never made any sense to me."

Georgia has registered more than 18,000 people through the new procedures in 23 days since the law took effect Jan. 1, compared with 85,426 registered in all of 1994, Reno said. Florida has registered an average of more than 3,000 new voters a day through driver licensing. Kentucky registered 10,000 voters during the first 10 days of implementation.

Reno said some state officials administering the new law could be paid partly with federal aid.

Letters to the Editor

Editor:

I live near Lake Thomas. If the lake was full, I would have plenty of water at my front door. The lot that I lease calls for 100 foot of water. The houses we live in were put there because the lake was there.

I have attempted to talk with Mr. Ivie, head of the Colorado River Municipal Water District. He would not listen to the information I wanted to present. He does not have all the information he needs concerning his own lake.

We live in the Sterling Tank Addition which at one time had plenty of water, but has not had water for a number of years for a variety of reasons, including the sale of water to oil companies that depleted the water that used to be near our houses.

Our situation is desperate. We were told by Mr. Lewis that we could pump water out of the lake, but Mr. Ivie said that we could not. Traveling 22 miles to Snyder and 22 miles back home is a very time-consuming process. My neighbors include a disabled couple and I haul water for them. They are having a hard time just making it, and I would hope that the water district would have more compassion concerning the plight of working people and the disabled. I must work for a living, so it is hard to take off work and haul water. It is very hard to find 20 hours per week to haul water.

Mr. Ivie suggested a couple of solutions that are simply not realistic. He suggested drilling our own water wells. He knows full well that you would get nothing but salt water anywhere in the area.

Mr. Ivie also suggested that we form a water district. This is not possible because there are not enough people. A water district requires taxation, and we do not want taxation. We are willing to pay for the cost of the lines and for the water we use. We are not asking something for nothing.

Also, drilling rigs in the area are allowed to tie on. We are talking about just needing household water. If CRMWD sells water for revenue, it seems reasonable that the more water it sells, the more revenue it would have. We only need to take water from the waterline that goes to Snyder. We want to pay for our own water line and pay for the water we use.

We understand how precious water is. Our bathroom rule is "If it is yellow, let it mellow. But when it is brown, flush it down. Cattle drink water from the line."

Drilling rigs get water from the line, but people who need it for house use cannot get water. It does not make sense.

When the rules to tap water lines were changed in the 1960s, we had water on our property. It is now 6,000 feet to water, and I have been told to stop pumping water from the lake by Mr. Ivie.

Contrary to what Mr. Ivie believes, Sterling Tank has not had a dam on the small tank that used to be on it since the early '60s. The water now goes into Lake Thomas.

It seems there should be a solution to this problem which would be fair and reasonable to all parties concerned. We are willing to pay our share.

Sincerely,
 Lewis Wise

For nutrition, Kiwi is winter wonder fruit

Vitamin-packed kiwifruit add flavor, nutritional bonus to winter breakfasts

You might not guess it glancing at their fuzzy exterior, but kiwifruit are a nutrition powerhouse, packed with nutritional bonuses that make them worthy of a top spot on America's grocery list. What's more, available in abundance during the winter months, kiwifruit are a nutritious way to add pizzazz to cold-weather breakfasts.

Vitamin C
One of the best, all-natural sources of vitamin C, kiwifruit pack a whopping 230 percent of the U.S. Recommended Daily Intake per serving — nearly twice that of oranges. Widely accepted as a protector against the common cold, vitamin C (an antioxidant) may also help prevent heart disease and certain cancers. In addition, new medical research suggests that vitamin C has a protective effect on sperm that may prevent birth defects and may actually help people stay healthy longer.

Fiber
With five grams per serving (two medium fruit), kiwifruit provide 20 percent of the Recommended Daily Intake of dietary fiber. Dietary fiber helps regulate digestion and is thought to prevent certain types of cancer. Kiwifruit is also a top soluble fiber source (1.4 grams per serving, compared with 1.0 grams per three prunes). Serving kiwifruit for breakfast is a good way to get a jump on consuming the National Cancer Institute's recommended 25 grams of fiber per day.

Potassium
Although it's a little-known fact, kiwifruit actually offer as much potassium as bananas (approximately 475 mg per serving). Potassium may help lower blood pressure, according to a recent report from National Heart, Lung and Blood Institute. What's more, potassium is critical for athletes and fitness enthusiasts, since it helps muscles contract, assists nerves in transmitting signals, regulates water balance and, most importantly, helps maintain the heartbeat.

Despite the common perception of kiwifruit as a summer fruit, California-grown kiwifruit are available during the winter months, when many other fresh fruits are out of season.

For a tasty and healthy winter breakfast, kiwifruit can be pureed and swirled into oatmeal, sliced atop hot cereals or mixed into pancakes. What's more, kiwifruit are quite portable and are ideal as snacks or for brown-bag lunches. They can be eaten whole "the edible skin adds a bonus of fiber and texture), quartered, or halved for scooping with a spoon.

For additional information regarding kiwifruit, consumers can send a self-addressed, stamped envelope to: California Kiwifruit Commission, 1540 River Park Drive, Suite 110, Sacramento, CA 95815.

KIWIFRUIT "SWIRL" FOR HOT CEREALS
3 kiwifruit, peeled and cut into large chunks
2 tablespoons honey
Hot cooked oatmeal or cream of wheat
In food processor or blender, puree chunks of kiwifruit. Stir in honey. Swirl 2 to 3 tablespoons of mixture into individual servings of hot cereal. Makes 1 cup fruit swirl.

KIWIFRUIT PANCAKES
1 1/2 cups all-purpose flour
2 tablespoons sugar
1/2 teaspoon baking soda
2 teaspoons salt
2 eggs
1 1/2 cups buttermilk
2 tablespoons vegetable oil
2 kiwifruit, peeled and finely chopped
1/2 cup chopped pecans (optional)

In large bowl, stir together flour, sugar, baking powder, soda and salt. In small bowl, lightly beat eggs; stir in buttermilk and oil.

Quickly stir buttermilk mixture into dry ingredients, just until flour is moistened (batter will be lumpy). Stir in kiwifruit and pecans. If batter is too thick to pour, stir in 2 to 3 tablespoons more of buttermilk.

For each pancake, pour about 1/2 cup batter onto lightly oiled, heated griddle, 350 degrees F., or large non-stick skillet. Cook over medium to medium-high heat until underside of pancake is lightly browned and surface is covered with small unbroken bubbles, about 2 minutes. Turn; cook second side about 1 minute.

Serve hot. Top each stack of pancakes with slices of kiwifruit, garnish with pecan halves and serve with syrup, if desired. Makes 16 four-inch pancakes.

Juarez, McCabe presents program at BSP meeting

Mary Ann Juarez, Adopt a School coordinator, and Ann McCabe, assistant superintendent of Snyder Independent School District, were speakers at the Beta Sigma Phi meeting held at the Snyder National Bank meeting room on Jan. 10.

Juarez and McCabe explained the Adopt a School program and related goals of uniting the community and the school children by pooling resources to provide quality education. The program is a partnership in which people work together to make schools better places to learn, thus making Snyder a better place to live.

To be a partner, Juarez said, a business or organization "adopts" a specific school. This "family" then shares time, talents, resources and expertise. Also, the kind of projects taken on are limited only to the participants' abilities and needs.

Following the program, president Marie Boone conducted the business meeting where discussion was held on sorority meeting places and time, and the upcoming state convention in San Antonio. All committees presented reports and the next social, a Super Bowl party, will be held at Brenda and Byron Hedges.

Hostesses Loyce Cave and Loretta Dodson served a vegetable and dip platter and provided a potted plant for a hostess gift, won by Carla Allen.

Bygone newsreels

NEW YORK (AP) — Remember newsreels? Long before there was nightly news on television, people saw current news and sporting events on the screen of their local movie theater.

Newsreels began in France with the Pathe Journal in 1908. They reached their heyday in the 1930s. Movie theaters then provided a feature film, second feature, "Coming Attractions," sometimes an organ recital and, always, a newsreel.

The newsreel usually ran 10 minutes or so, covered about six news stories, features and sporting events, and was changed at least twice a week. Newsreels gave a fast-moving, uncontroversial, black-and-white glimpse of the world. But their days were numbered by television. By the 1970s, newsreels were a memory.

One down or one up

Everybody has themes for deals that appeal to them. I particularly like the ones in which the "normal" play isn't right, for whatever reason. But I also enjoy deals like today's, because most players would go down. Yet if you think of the right play, immediately you know it is right.

Be warned, though, that the theme isn't quite in Herman Melville's class. In "Moby-Dick" he wrote, "Give me a condor's quill! Give me Vesuvius' crater for an inkstand! To produce a mighty book, you must choose a mighty theme."

South might (should?) have bid four spades over four diamonds, reaching an easy contract to make as the cards lie. However, in love with his eight-card suit, South went for five diamonds. After West led the club king, how should South have planned the play?

The declarer ruffed the lead, drew trumps and cashed dummy's top spades. This was reasonable play because if West had the spade queen, the contract was always safe. However, when South led a third spade, East produced the queen and switched to the heart queen, defeating the contract. Where did South go wrong?

As so often happens, the error occurred at trick one. South should discard a spade. Let's suppose West continues with another club. South ruffs, draws the trumps, cashes dummy's top spades and ruffs a spade in hand. Declarer returns to dummy with a trump and discards his two hearts on dummy's brace of spade winners. Instead of one down, declarer harvests an overtrick.

Annual GS cookie sale time

The annual Girl Scout Cookie Sale is underway and orders are being taken by some 125 scouts locally by telephone, knocking on doors and personal contact.

The annual Girl Scout Cookie sale is a major funding source for the West Texas Girl Scout Council and makes up more than half of the yearly budget. Funds raised from the sale help 2,300 girls, within a 16-county area.

Buyers will see a small price increase, the first in five years. Due to the increase in the cost to manufacture the cookies, the cost of girl incentive and the increase in program activities, the council needed to raise the margin of profit. A box of cookies will cost $3.

Each council has a volunteer board of directors who determines the price, date of sale and the flavor of cookies. All funds stay in the West Texas Girl Scout Council.

From the $3 box of cookies sold, 85 cents goes to the cookie company; 35 cents goes to the troop; 29 cents goes to girl recognition and awards; nine cents stays in the service unit to fund special city-wide events; and $1.42 goes to the WTGS Council where 50 cents is used for the Camp Boothe Oaks, 47 cents goes to council programs, and 45 cents is used for membership and development leadership training.

Zola Schelegel, Snyder's cookie chairman, says the pre-order campaign will continue through Jan. 22 and cookies will be delivered Feb. 17-March 4.

Sukkot is the Jewish Feast of Tabernacles, celebrating the fall harvest and commemorating the desert wandering of the Jews during the Exodus. It occurs in September or October.

FRUSTRATION!

Nightmare continues as WTC falls

By TODD STANLEY
SDN Sports Editor

It almost doesn't seem fair for the Western Texas Lady Westerners. As if someone was toying with their emotions, WTC came out of the conference gates running at full speed, but somewhere along the way they lost a wheel.

After winning their first two conference games, the Lady Westerners (9-13, 2-3) dropped their third straight Monday night at the Scurry County Coliseum with a 83-66 loss to South Plains.

In a game that saw the Lady Texans whistled for 20 fouls, the Lady Westerners accumulated 31. Thus, the stage was set for South Plains (14-9, 2-3) to win the game at the free-throw line...and they did.

The Lady Texans shot 74 percent (32-43) from the foul line, circumventing any and all WTC comeback attempts.

In the first half, the Lady Westerners kept the game close early, as South Plains continued to gain a five-point lead, only to lose it on WTC's next possession.

Finally, at 3:35 freshman Donna Carrell tied the game at 28-28 with a running jumper in the lane.

South Plains answered back, then capitalized on a WTC turnover when Robbyn Smith converted a 3-pointer to increase the lead back to five points, 33-28.

Moss, then answered with a 3-pointer of her own, just to see SPC's Emily Fowler net a 3-pointer in return to make the score 36-31.

With time running out in the first half, Monica Watts turned a steal into a layup and a seven-point lead, 40-33, as the teams went into the locker room.

In the second half, South Plains took over, as the Lady Texans worked their lead to as many as 11 points.

With the score 55-44 in favor of the Lady Texans, WTC's Ericka Thompson got hot.

Thompson canned two 3-pointers and had two layups in a span of under three minutes and teammate Jackie Wright scored three straight buckets to cut the SPC lead to just six points, but it wasn't enough.

SPC continued its strong field goal and free-throw shooting and burned WTC with powerful rebounding in the latter part of the half, which spelled doom for the Lady Westerners.

"We lacked any concept of team play tonight," WTC head coach Brenda Welch-Nichols said. "We couldn't work the ball and get it to where we needed it to go, which could be a lack of discipline on our part."

"We continue to try and force the ball and that just won't do."

Nichols was also wary of South Plains' ability to control the game.

"South Plains controlled the tempo and if you want to win, that can't happen," she said. "They out rebounded us and out shot us, but we can't let this game get us down. We have to play Frank Phillips on Thursday."

South Plains head coach Lyndon Hardin said he was pleased with the effort his team gave.

"I thought we came out and shot the ball well," he said. "There was a point in the second half when they (WTC) started coming back, but we were able to keep our composure."

"We knew they wouldn't quit, so we keep taking it to them."

WTC travels to Borger Thursday to take on Frank Phillips at 7:30 p.m.

Rice considers retiring

MIAMI (AP) — It's almost enough to make San Francisco fans root against their team.

All-Pro receiver Jerry Rice says he may retire if the 49ers beat San Diego in Sunday's Super Bowl.

"I'd like to put off that retirement, I can assure you," Chargers coach Bobby Ross said with a smile.

Rice, 32, opened the door to an early exit when he answered a question at a news conference Monday about the possibility of retirement.

"That might be something to think about," Rice said. "If I think the fire is still inside, I'll continue to play. If it's gone, it's time to walk away from the game."

The 49ers believe Rice has plenty of fire — and NFL seasons remaining. Coach George Seifert, for one, doubts that his perennial Pro Bowl receiver will quit.

"That's the first time I've heard any mention of that," Seifert said. "I'd be surprised if that's what he did."

Davis takes Miami job

MIAMI (AP) — Although he doesn't exactly fit the job description, Butch Davis is the new coach of the Miami Hurricanes.

The Dallas Cowboys' defensive coordinator arrived Monday in Miami, and a news conference was planned for today to announce his hiring, according to a university source who asked not to be identified.

When Miami officials began their search two weeks ago for Dennis Erickson's replacement, athletic director Paul Dee expressed reservations about candidates with no head-coaching experience. Davis falls into that category.

Because recruiting season is at its peak, Miami officials were anxious to conclude the search that began when Erickson departed for the Seattle Seahawks.

Upon arriving in Miami, Davis declined to confirm that he had taken the job.

"I'm one of the finalists for the deal," he said. "It's very attractive, very much so."

Davis' salary of $110,000 this season with the Cowboys was lowest among NFL coordinators. He accepted a 5-year contract with Miami that will guarantee him almost $700,000 a year.

Levelland: next foe on Tigers' hit list

By TODD STANLEY
SDN Sports Editor

Tonight is a big night for both Snyder High School basketball teams.

After a promising start, the Snyder boys have seen their winning ways suddenly disappear into the distance.

If they hope to get back on track and make a run for the playoffs, they must shift into overdrive against the state's No. 7-ranked team and District 5-4A leader, the Levelland Lobos.

"Tonight we will have to play hard and get after it if we want to win," Snyder head coach Bud Birks said. "We've got to make sure all of our players are going one hundred miles per hour and do all the little things correctly."

Snyder (12-12, 0-4) has played good enough to win their last few games. However, because of bad breaks, the Tigers have witnessed early leads slip away.

If the Tigers are able to utilize their intense defense and inside game—not to mention a couple of favorable bounces of the ball—an upset could begin to brew.

However, if the Lobos can break the Snyder press and capitalize on the Tigers suspect transition defense, much like Lamesa did, the Tigers might be in for another bumper.

"To pick up a win tonight would be a tremendous boost to this team," Birks said. "Winning at Levelland is a tough thing to do, but I don't think it is an insurmountable task for this team."

Much like their male counterparts, the Lady Tigers have their collective work cut out for them as they take on the No. 1-ranked Lobettes.

In their first meeting, Levelland, No. 22 in the USA Today national rankings, used the Lady Tigers as punching bags en route to a 59-26 victory in Snyder.

The loss to the Lobettes confirmed to Snyder head coach Steve Qualls that there was still a lot of work to be done before the Lady Tigers could command respect in District 5-4A.

After the loss, the Lady Tigers regrouped and have proceeded to win three of their last four, including a 55-46 win over Lamesa Friday.

Not only will the Lady Tigers be taking on a tough team on their own court, but they will have to deal with a huge distraction as well.

Tonight, Levelland head coach Dean Weese is shooting for his win number 1,100.

Snyder (9-12, 3-2) sits at the crossroads with this game. An incredible upset would knock Levelland (20-1, 4-0) off their pedestal and would propel the Lady Tigers into the thick of the District 5-4A race. A loss would be yet another set back on the season, diminishing Snyder's chance at a playoff berth.

Last rites for Rose Kennedy underway

BOSTON (AP) — Rose Fitzgerald Kennedy returned today for a last time to the church where she was baptized, as mourners said goodbye to the woman remembered as "a combination of the sweetest gentleness and the most tempered steel."

Six of her grandchildren served as pallbearers as her wooden casket was taken into Old St. Stephen's Church.

Sen. Robert F. Kennedy's widow, Ethel, and R. Sargent Shriver, husband of Eunice Kennedy, gave Scripture readings as the service began. Cardinal Bernard Law presided, and read a telegram of condolences sent by Pope John Paul II.

"Mother knew this day was coming, but she did not dread it. She accepted and even welcomed it, not as a leaving, but as a returning," her last surviving son, Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, said in remarks prepared for the funeral.

"She has gone to God. She is home. And at this moment, she is happily presiding at a heavenly table with both of her Joes, with Jack and Kathleen, with Bobby and David."

Mrs. Kennedy, who outlived her husband, Joseph, by 25 years, died Sunday at the age of 104.

Kennedy said his mother "always thought her children should strive for the highest place, but inside the family, with love and laughter, she knew how to put each of us in our place."

He remembered her reciting "The Midnight Ride of Paul Revere," and playing the piano and leading the family in "Sweet Rosie O'Grady," which always drew demands for an encore.

"She sustained us in the saddest time — by her faith in God, which was the greatest gift she gave us — and by the strength of her character, which was a combination of the sweetest gentleness and the most tempered steel," Kennedy said.

A private burial was planned next to her husband at Holyhood Cemetery in suburban Brookline.

A funeral procession including two buses and two limousines left the family compound in Hyannis Port, heading to Boston 70 miles away for the funeral at Old St. Stephen's Church and a eulogy by her only surviving son, Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass.

"Mother knew this day was coming, but she did not dread it. She accepted and even welcomed it, not as a leaving, but as a returning," Kennedy said in remarks prepared for the funeral.

"She has gone to God. She is home. And at this moment, she is happily presiding at a heavenly table with both of her Joes, with Jack and Kathleen, with Bobby and David."

Mrs. Kennedy, who outlived her husband, Joseph, by 25 years, died Sunday at the age of 104.

About 100 family members and friends rode in the procession.

Emissions...

House picks panel to study proposal

AUSTIN (AP) — A special House committee has been named to consider a bill that would suspend federally required auto emissions testing in Texas for three months.

The committee planned to hold a public hearing on the bill Tuesday afternoon, and the full House is expected to consider it Thursday, Speaker Pete Laney said.

Laney said he wanted "to make sure that bill could be considered in an expeditious manner and the public still have a full opportunity to let their views be known."

Federal law requires emissions testing in areas with high levels of certain pollutants, including Dallas-Fort Worth, Houston-Galveston, Beaumont-Port Arthur and El Paso.

Critics have said the program, which went into effect Jan. 2, is too costly and onerous.

"I think folks see that we need to back up and look and move a little bit slower on this and implement a different type program than the one that has been implemented," said Rep. Peggy Hamric, R-Houston, a sponsor of the bill.

The bill would suspend testing for 90 days to allow the Legislature and Texas Natural Resource Conservation Commission to revise the program.

Mrs. Kennedy, who outlived her husband, Joseph, by 25 years, died Sunday at the age of 104.

About 100 family members and friends rode in the procession.

"Mother knew this day was coming, but she did not dread it. She accepted and even welcomed it, not as a leaving, but as a returning," Kennedy said in remarks prepared for the funeral.

"She has gone to God. She is home. And at this moment, she is happily presiding at a heavenly table with both of her Joes, with Jack and Kathleen, with Bobby and David."

Mrs. Kennedy, who outlived her husband, Joseph, by 25 years, died Sunday at the age of 104.

Judge Ito rules...

Simpson can't talk directly to jury, but can show scars

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The judge in the O.J. Simpson trial today turned down his request to talk to the jury directly as his trial gets underway but let him show jurors scars on his knees.

Superior Court Judge Lance Ito rejected the defense request to let Simpson talk with little comment, making the ruling after hearing prosecutor Marcia Clark denounce the idea as "a blatant attempt to impress the jury with his charisma and star appeal."

He ruled as the court took care of last-minute items before opening statements were to begin.

Riggan to host broadcast on satellite Feb. 1

Tim Riggan, the Edward D. Jones & Co. investment representative in Snyder, will host a live satellite broadcast Wednesday, Feb. 1. The program will feature Sen. William Roth (R-Del.), co-sponsor of last year's Super IRA bill, and Rep. Amo Houghton (R-N.Y.), a member of the House Ways and Means Committee.

They will discuss the proposals currently being considered by Congress to help individuals ensure their retirement security, including the prospects for the restoration of a fully deductible IRA for all workers. Mark Mullet, tax counsel for Sen. Roth, will also be a guest on the program.

"There is cause to believe that if changes aren't made in our current system, Social Security could be insolvent by the time today's 30-year-old reaches age 65," Riggan said. "I think today's workers know not to count on Social Security as the primary source of retirement. We hope our program will provide some of those answers."

"In addition, this is an opportunity to hear directly from our nation's lawmakers about whether we can expect the reinstatement of the tax-deductible IRA," Riggan said. "Viewers will also get a chance to ask questions of our guests on the air live and to voice their opinions through an 800-number survey."

The program will be aired simultaneously from studios in Washington, D.C., and from Jones' headquarters in St. Louis, Mo.

For more information on the Feb. 1 broadcast or to reserve a seat, contact Riggan at (915) 573-4055.

1985 hospital deaths prompt investigation, exhumations

SPRINGFIELD, Ohio (AP) — After 30 patients at the 300-bed Springfield Community Hospital died in April 1985, dozens of empty vials of a potentially fatal anesthetic were found hidden throughout the hospital.

The hospital conducted a secret six-month investigation, but nothing amiss was found and the case was closed.

Now state officials have reopened the probe after the former head of the anesthesiology department claimed up to 30 patients may have been given fatal doses of the muscle relaxant Pavulon. One body exhumed last July showed traces of the drug; three more exhumed this month are being tested.

"There's no doubt in my mind there was one or more people involved in euthanasia," said Dr. Paul Andorfer, who headed the anesthesiology department for 17 years before leaving in 1993 over an unrelated dispute.

The hospital has denied his allegations.

Andorfer, who said he wasn't informed of the 1985 investigation, started his own probe when he joined the county coroner's office. His findings prompted Coroner Dirk Wood to call in state officials.

Ted Almay, chief of state's special investigations division, would not say how many hospital deaths are under review. None have been classified as a homicide.

Of the 30 patients who died in the private hospital in April 1985, 20 died during the night shift and 15 of those died while the same respiratory therapist was on duty, Andorfer said.

A hospital security file showed that as many as 200 vials of Pavulon, which regulates the breathing of patients on ventilators, were unaccounted for in the first five months of 1985, Andorfer said. In July 1985, 59 empty Pavulon vials were found in three storage areas. Investigators never determined who hid the vials, and a body exhumed in 1985 contained no traces of the drug.

The therapist, who Andorfer and the hospital wouldn't identify, was placed on leave in August 1985. She quit after being charged with receiving stolen property from the hospital.

The therapist resented patients who required a lot of medical care because they kept her from a dice game she played while on duty, a former co-worker told the Springfield News-Sun.

Hospital spokeswoman Kim

Parks said the hospital has found no evidence of criminal behavior and that the therapist was placed on leave as a "precautionary measure" not related to the investigation.

One of the bodies exhumed this month is that of Vivian Norman, who died while recovering from a broken hip and arm. She had told her family she thought something was wrong at the hospital, her daughter said. Although she told her family to demand an autopsy if she died, none was performed.

"I cannot sleep at night. I go back on the night she died," said Dolores Norman, who was in her mother's room when she suddenly had trouble breathing and died.

"She told my sister Ruth, if I die out here it will be from the drugs," Norman said.

Understanding triglyceride levels

By Peter H. Gott, M.D.

DEAR DR. GOTT: During recent cholesterol testing, my count was again under 200 milligrams per deciliter, while my triglycerides were again over 300 milligrams per deciliter. Why, when the cholesterol is good, do the triglycerides remain so high?

DEAR READER: Although they are the two major fats in the bloodstream, cholesterol and triglycerides are generally independent of each other.

Your cholesterol is normal, indicating that you, like many Americans, have probably made an effort to restrict dietary cholesterol. This is beneficial, because high levels of cholesterol are associated with heart disease and stroke.

The relation between excess triglycerides and health problems is less clear. Ordinarily, the triglyceride level should not exceed 150 mg/dL.

However, levels above 200 or 300 are not rare and do not necessarily need correction. For example, diabetics often have high triglyceride levels, even though their diabetes is under good control.

Also, a diet high in fruit may harmlessly elevate the triglyceride level.

I don't know the cause of your abundant triglycerides. You should ask your doctor about this and, at the same time, inquire about whether he believes therapy, such as the prescription drug Lopid, is necessary.

Ordinarily, medicine (such as Lopid) is reserved for patients who, because of serum triglycerides above 1,000 mg/dL, are at risk of inflammation of the pancreas.

To give you more information, I am sending you a free copy of my Health Report "Understanding Cholesterol." Other readers who would like a copy should send $2 plus a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope to P.O. Box 2433, New York, NY 10163. Be sure to mention the title.

DEAR DR. GOTT: Please provide information on hyperacidity. Is there medication or a proper diet for this?

DEAR READER: Many people experience the periodic heartburn and indigestion caused by hyperacidity. This is often worsened by caffeine-containing beverages, spices, citrus fruits, rich meals, and alcohol.

Therefore, to discover what dietary restrictions might help you, I suggest that you experiment by eliminating foods that you know aggravate the problem.

Also, you might try using over-the-counter antacids, such as TUMS and Maalox, to relieve your symptoms.

If these simple steps don't do the trick, see a doctor, because you may need X-rays to test you for hiatal hernia or an ulcer.

Remember, too, that smoking increases gastric acid.

Finally, if you are using non-prescription anti-arthritis medicine (such as aspirin, Aleve, Motrin, and others), you should immediately stop it. Such drugs commonly cause gastric irritation, ulcers and intestinal bleeding. Tylenol is an acceptable substitute.

Former policeman questioned in sons' death

HOUSTON (AP) — Police went to the residence of 31-year-old Frank Anthony Picone after he showed up at a hospital emergency room with a gaping wound in his chest and said he had been shot at home.

But when they arrived Sunday evening at the second-story condominium of Picone, a former policeman who was fired from the Houston police force last August, they found the bodies of his two sons — Franco, 5, and Julian, 15 months.

Picone was reported in stable condition Monday at Spring Branch Memorial Hospital.

Picone and his wife are divorced. The boys lived with their mother, but were visiting their father for the weekend, officials said.

The 5-year-old boy, apparently asleep when he died, was shot in the back with the same gun that wounded his father, police spokesman Robert Hurst said. The gun was found next to the boy's body.

The infant, apparently drowned, was found lying on the floor in the bathroom outside the bathtub, which had about half a foot of water in it, Hurst said.

Police spokesman Robert Hurst said Monday that Picone's wound was inflicted at close range and was surrounded by gunpowder burns.

No charges had been filed as of Monday night. Police investigators questioned Picone Monday in his hospital room.

Police released no information on the boys' mother except to say that she had not been harmed.

Picone drove himself to the emergency room, officials said. Dr. Dimitris Kyriazis, a surgeon who worked on Picone, said the man didn't say how he had been shot when he walked into the emergency room Sunday with the 3-inch-by-3-inch wound.

"He didn't say anything. He was in severe pain, mostly asking for pain medication," Kyriazis said.

Hurst said Picone was fired by the police department for violation of department rules.

Police on Monday released the text of an Aug. 8 statement from Chief Sam Nuchia, who then indefinitely suspended Picone for a "complete lack of good judgment and disgraceful conduct" after his romantic efforts toward a female officer were rejected.

According to Nuchia, Picone harrassed the other officer to the point where she filed a trespassing complaint and after Picone had at least twice pulled his service revolver outside her home and threatened to kill himself if she did not resume their relationship.

'Hijack' technique poses threat to global network

NEW YORK (AP) — Hackers call it "getting root" — electronically breaking into the very heart of a computer system.

Now, somebody has figured out how to pierce hardware and software "firewall" barriers and gain top-level access to the kinds of computers that give millions of people gateways to the Internet.

This major security threat is emerging just as the worldwide computer "network of networks" is starting to become an important medium for commerce.

The loot collected by electronic thieves can include credit-card information and even the "digital cash" being tested as currency for on-line shopping. Commercial secrets can be pried loose from corporate computers.

Intruders can "hijack" target systems, then copy or destroy documents or do other damage by masquerading as an authorized user on the host system, the government-financed Computer Emergency Response Team warned in an advisory posted Monday on the Internet.

And when the thieves are done, they leave little or no evidence behind.

"We're in a real battle now," said Sanford Sherizen, president of Data Security Systems of Natick, Mass.

"There have been a lot of cases where credit card information has been asked for and given" on line, Sherizen said. "People might as well stand on a street corner and yell the information out, or get a plane and trail it in the sky."

An estimated 20 million people use the Internet. Most log on through host computers at universities, corporations or commercial access providers.

Hackers might be able to use the new technique to gain access to individuals' home or office computer files, said Ann Redelfs, spokeswoman for the San Diego Super-computer Center, where the first break-in was reported. But "until people start doing large-scale banking (on line), that's just not the type of information that hackers are looking for," she said.

The first known victim was computer security specialist Tsutomu Shimomura of the San Diego center. One or more culprits controlled his computer for more than a day and electronically stole a large number of security programs he had written. Shimomura said the intruders also destroyed files in an apparent effort to cover their tracks.

It took four days for officials at the supercomputing center to confirm what had happened, he said.

An unknown number of attacks have been reported since then, said Tom Longstaff, manager of research and development at the CERT coordination center in Pittsburgh.

The New York Times, which first reported the attack Monday, said federal officials are investigating. FBI officials wouldn't comment.

The technique used in the attacks — called Internet protocol spoofing — isn't new, at least in theory. It exploits a weakness in the Unix operating system, the backbone of the Internet, that was described in academic papers in 1985 and 1989.

The Internet breaks computer messages into digital data "packets" with addressing information — the protocols — used by network computers known as routers, which deliver the data. Spoofing can fool the router into believing a message is coming from an authorized source.

"Intruders can use IP spoofing to gain root access for any purpose," the CERT advisory said.

Once inside a system, intruders can use a "hijacking tool" to take over connections from any user on the system, the advisory said.

Did not renew

AUSTIN (AP) — For those who think insurance companies wouldn't dare cross those in charge of making the laws that govern their industry — think again.

State Sen. Teel Bivins, who heads a Senate Finance subcommittee considering the Texas Insurance Department's budget, noted during a Monday hearing that his insurance company recently decided not to renew his policy.

"The reason they gave was there were too many claims," said Bivins, R-Amarillo. "I was surprised and irritated."

Bivins said he believes he submitted three claims, but just one stuck vividly in his mind: The bathroom plumbing problem that prompted his 5-year-old to exclaim with delight, "Mom, I can wade in my bedroom."

The senator said he has since received coverage from another company.

Postage Hike Gets Woman's Considered Stamp of Approval

by Abigail Van Buren

© 1995 Universal Press Syndicate

DEAR ABBY: Oh, brother — here we go again. Another increase in U.S. postage! Has it been only four years since the last one? Don't you think it's outrageous to charge 32 cents to send a letter? I can remember when you could get a postcard for a penny!

I considered protesting the hike in postage by delivering my local mail personally, so I got in the car and drove 15 miles to our utilities payment center. As I was standing in line waiting to pay, I thought about how I had just spent $1.26 for gas and an hour of my time; so next time, I'll just put a 32-cent stamp on it and drop it in the mailbox.

Then I called the airlines and asked how much I'd have to pay for a round-trip ticket to deliver this letter to you in person. The price ranged between $600 and $900 — so I thought I'd put a 32-cent stamp on it instead.

Maybe 32 cents to mail a letter isn't so bad after all.
