A Boomerang

BY MARY MARSHALL PARKS. (Copyright, 1901, Daily Story Pub. Co.) Now Jared, absorbed in speculation When Jared Peters went west to help as he was, had kept a little corner was a logical sequence of the firm con-But an immature mind cannot long dominate a young and healthy physique. On the third day she made several surreptitious visits to the pantry; on the fourth day she dined openly and heartily; and the day after she was startled by the discovery that she had not thought of Jared for several hours. The Sunday following Jared's departure, she permitted Harold Winterset, the son of a wealthy manufacturer from a neighboring city, to accompany her home from church and linger for an hour at the gate; and she was again startled by the discovery that she enjoyed his society quite as much as. Jared's.

Then she went upstairs and sat down in the moonlit window to consider. She had all the rules of love at her fingers' ends. She knew that "Absence makes the heart grow fonder." that true love never forgets or wavers for the fraction of a second. She was therefore forced to the conclusion that ene did not love lared; that she never had loved him; and the manufacturer's son was allowed to call regularly.

Jared's letters were intensely interesting. The little western town which he had taken under his wing was on a "boom." He had already doubled his small capital and was proceeding to double it again. Rose had all the rules of arithmetic also at her fingers' ends. She knew something of geometrical progression; and having become, in view of her large experience, skeptical in regard to the tender passion, she planned her future operations on a strictly commercial basis. After careful consideration, she decided that a budding Western capitalist in the hand was worth more than a wealthy manufacturer's son in the bush; so she did not break her engagement; and she did not mention Harold in her numerous and entirely satisfactory letters to Jared.

Although his love was false, Jared had one devoted admirer. From the day it was declared that the red-faced mite of humanity called Jared was the image of his grandfather, the old man had found his chief occupation in trucing his own characteristics in the growing boy.

"He's a Peters, every inch of him. gran ther would shout when Jared's ly boyish achievements creditable or otherwise, came to his notice.

Gran'ther Peters had always liked Rose; and of all the grils in the country round, he would have chosen her for Jared. When, therefore, at the age of sixteen, Jared thist walked home from church with her, gran'ther retill he was black in the face. He did all he could to foster the budding romance; and when the engagement was formally announced, his rapture nearly caused a fit of apoplexy. When a tattling neighbor brought the news of Rose's double-dealing, the old man flatly refused to believe it; but when with his own eyes, he saw Rose and Harold strolling by, arm in arm, in the dusk, he took to his bed. After two or three days of misery, mental and physical, he arose and spent an entire afternoon in laditing a letter which struck consternation to Jared's It was vague in mapner and matter, but he mathered from it some inkling of the truth; and immediately -not to Rose, but to one of her

The substitute for the of these dire forebodings, followed a ramor that Jared had come home unexpectedly, looking very seedy; and it was surmised, "dead broke."

Friends and neighbors. Rose and Harold among them, promptly gathered on the broad plazza to greet the home comer, and learn the truth of the matter. One giance at the young man's doleful face was enough. Disaster was written on it.

At first he seemed disincilned to talk, but numerous well put queries finally loosened his unwilling tongue. Among the friends Jared made in the west was one who had been born under an unlucky star. He was intelligent and shrewd; but everything he touched turned to ashes. Where others reaped golden harvests, he reaped misfortune, and his affairs became seriousinvolved. He was too young to know that while there is life there is hope; and one night, Jared, who roomed with him, came home to find his friend stretched on the floor with a bullet through his head, and the empty revolver in his own stiffening right hand.

With the callousness of youth, Jared tired to the grape arbor and chuckled adepted this young fellow's story to his of the kitchen, and the chickens own uses. Up to the culminating fully realized the dramatic possibilities of the situation. The stage setting was perfect. rising thunder storm had dyed the summer twillight an inky black; and continual flashes of lightning illuminated Jared's handsome, melancholy face and sombre eyes. He sat opposite his false sweetheart and Harold; and behind him, the old man, white faced but firm-lipped, glared over his boy's head like a wounded tion. As Jared's sad, mellow voice died away with a little break-he felt a pang of genuine emotion as he remembered poor Wiley's face with the bullet hole in the forehead-Rose's heart melted. All that was sweet and womanly and good in her untutored soul rose to the surface. She crossed the plazza, and laying ner hand on Jared's shoulder, resolutely faced her frown ing parents and the chagrined Harold

"I shall stand by Jared," she said, in ringing tones. Jared started to his feet in dismay This climax was precisely the opposite of the one he had courted and expected. The face of the dimpled Kansas girl flitted across his memory, and then disappeared forever. The boomerang he had launched buried itself in his own heart. The two young gium. things who had been playing with the eternal verities of love and death, looked into each other's eyes, and, by the white light of the approaching storm, saw there that which made them afraid and ashamed of what they had been doing-saw the dawn of an everlasting affection—the affection that mocks disaster, and calmly ignores doubters and detractors, as the placid Columbus, Gran'ther's face was convulsed with delight. Tears of joy meandered unheeded down his wrinkled cheeks, as, glaring at the delcomfitted Harold, he raised his staff and brought it down with a force that split it in twain. She's a Peters, every inch of her,"

he roared. "Leastways, she soon will

Rose was somewhat shocked when she learned that Jared's woes were all assumed: and that he had prudently escaped from the collapsing boom with the neat little nest egg of one hundred thousand dollars; but she became reconciled to the situation in time.

"STRICTLY FRESH EGGS." You Cannot Make Hous Lay When They

Don't Wast To. With all that men of science have ione to procure for our tables luxuries without regard to season, so that almost we say "there is no season," no one of them has yet succeeded in wheedling a hen into laying her best and biggest eggs at any other season of the year than that at which the primal hen so distinguished herself. There have been many experiments of all kinds tried with regard to batching chickens and they have all been more or less successful, till the term "spring chicken" has become a misnomer. Or ather there are others beside spring ob man pocket. hickens. We have winter chickens, thanks to incubators and brooders and all sorts of appliances, and fall chickens and summer chickens, and chickens in between seasons, which is one of the compensations scattered all through life if we look for them. But the hen plods on in that tiresome unchanging way and looks untouched by all the means that man has invented for hatching her eggs for her, though no one knows just what she thinks. oh, Miss Grace, I'm stuck on you!" Probably her line of thought takes the stand that you may lead a hen to any kind of artificially warmed and lighter nest, but you cannot make her lay; and cold storage has done much to make us indifferent to the stubborn attitude of the hen. The farmer who doesn't know that he may by the care he takes of his hens influence the manner and kind of eggs they lay for him does not deserve to succeed. Hens like clean, sunny houses, and they like good wholesome food, and in variety. They want a certain amount of corn Harold-if he succeeded in making and meal and they dearly love a flavor of meat in their food. Also they like something in the nature of oyster shells that the shells of the eggs may be up to standard quality. Housekeepers who receive day after day from their grocer eggs of not only a uniform size and of even tintingeither all white or with a tinge of brown-take it as a matter of course, and think perhaps that it is just so in every case. But there are sorters whose business it is to put into cases eggs that "match" in color and size. And they do say that in Boston the brownish eggs have the first call, while in New York the demand is for purest white. It is this demand for uniformity in size and color that induces a poultry farmer to have his hens all of one breed.-Epicure.

MOTHERED BY A DUSTER. Chickens Thrive Under the Protection of an Insaimate Foster-Parent-

Seven fluffy little chickens belonging to a family living on Twelfth street, near Broadway, have a queer mother. says the Louisville Courier-Journal. For the past two weeks the only protection they have had has been a big mother has served its purpose so well that the family expects to raise chickens in the same way every year. The chickens were hatched about three weeks ago, their mother being an old hen which the family had bought in market and had intended to fatten and eat. Before she arrived at the proper condition to be baked she took a notion to set. As is usual in such cases persuasion was vain, and she held to her determination to raise a family. hatched out eight chicks. Of these she was very proud. About two weeks ago neighborhood who could fix it?" a number of friends from out of town visited the family unexpectedly. The she's still got one good key, why not problem of what to have for dinner was a serious one, as it was Sunday and no groceries were open. It was suggested that the hen be killed, but the children were not willing that the chickens should be left to shift for themselves at so tender an age. The problem was solved by the boy, who suggested that the hen be killed and the hig feather duster be substituted for the hen. The duster was suspended just above the floor in the corner placed under it in a box. There they ragedy he told it as his own, and told have remained ever since and are well. An incipient opposition which broke out was suppressed with a strong hand, as all risings of tribes have been, notably that of the Misflwa tribe a few years ago. To prevent if possible the recurrence of such incidents, the heads of fifty prominent Misfiwa tribesmen figure on spikes over the city gates of the port of Rabat and a similar number adorned the gates at Fez. The Enter's Sons

The sons of the German emperor are being brought up in a strict school. While the crown prince is being initiated into student life at Bonn, his three younger brothers, Eithel Frits, August Wilhelm and Oscar, are hard at work at Pleon, where they are subjected to a daily routine stricter even than that to which they are acoustorsed at home. Every day they are up at 5:30, have their cold tubs, then their breakfast, and forthwith begin work. The eldest of the brothers visits the first class of the cadet school, the second ond one attending the lower fifth and the third the upper third. They appear to have all made plenty of friends there, and take an active part in all the games. The most popular game at the present moment is tennis, while the second place is apparently taken by riding and cycling.

Buffalo, N. Y., July 30 .- A joint meeting of railway passenger agents, hotel and newspaper men was held this afternoon with the view of adopting some means for correcting so far as possible the impression that appears to prevail at distant points that railway rates to the Pan-American Exposition are high and that hotel rates in Buffalo are excessive. The confervisitors in its private houses and hotels at rates ranging from fifty cents to two dollars per night, and that no one need pay more than one dollar for a first-class lodging in a private house. The Niagara Falls cheap, one-day special excursions of former years, when trains were overcrowded and everyone membered only so far as the low rate is concerned, and this is quoted as showing what might be done. The passenger agents assert that the present half rates are as low as can reasonably be expected. An extension of the present limit has been looked for. to see the big exposition, but it has not yet been modified. Other points which the representatives of the publishers' association will lay stress upon are that the Exposition is completed in all details and that both Buffalo and the Exposition are well policed and as free from dangerous characters as any city in the country. Cuttage Heirtooms in England. It is still quite a common experience to find fine and even valuable specimens of old English furniture, chiefly made of oak in the cottages of the village folk. These pieces of furniture have been handed down from generation to generation of rural folk such as carters, keepers, woodmen and shepherds. How did the family originally come by them? The explanation is this in many cases. Generations ago, when the furniture, which is once again prized greatly, began to go out of fashion and to be superseded by stuff which we view with contempt nowadays, it was sold and farmers bought much of it. But by and by, the farmer being prosperous, and desiring to be in the fashion, too, like his landlord, bought in its place more modern chairs and tables, etc. Then the village folk bought for a song the despised oak chairs, coffers, etc., and now, once again, the old furniture has come into favor and is finding its way back from the cottage to the hall .-London Express.

Room Yet For More

In the present state of the arts in the United States, how many people could be supported; and how many more people could be provided for by an increase in invention." It is not possible to say how much land would be required to support a single individual anywhere. The consus of the United States for 1900 shows in New York state 152 persons to a square mile or about one to four acres: in Massachusetts there are about 348 to a square mile, or about one to two acres. In Ohio 102 to a square mile; and so on down to Nevada which has two square miles for every inhabitant-or over 1,200 acres for each man, woman and child in the state. over 36 acres to each. The New York would include New York city. The States can, by proper attention to inand moisture, reach a population of from 400,000,000 to 500,000,000. China remains an object lesson to demonstrate an increase quite beyond these figures. Under the best existing conacres for the family of five. In China we have found that under best conditions two people can subsist to the acre. Will a wiser conservatism of nature's forces not slowly increase our chances until, with vastly greater knowledge of the earth's resources than our Turanian neighbors, and multifold easier access to them, we shall be able to sustain a population even larger to the acre, or mile, than

tration of this law of civilization. Intensive farming is displacing extensive farming, and that means that, by improved methods of culture, a family may get better drops and larger profits from ten acres than from one hundred acres by the older and less scientific culture. Not only is population increasing in this way, but the comforts are multiplying. Soiting has taken the place of pasturing, and the growth of mixed crops has supplanted the cultivation of one or two crops on a large scale. The advantages are keeping the land at its best, and decreasing waste. With Intenser culture, and brains, we believe a family of five can get a good living from five acres; or about 130 families from a square mile. This, of course, is not up to the Chinese standard; for at the best few American farmers fail to waste a good trunk is forty-four feet in circumfer- would raise this number about seven | deal in manures, in harvesting, and in storige; while the standard of living requires larger income. A family of five requires in the United States for food, for clothing, for comforts, for repairs of vehicles and tools, and wages of help, not less than $1,000. If you wish to get at the requirements of a single individual you will find that he must be taken strictly as a factor in a family. When All the Flacks Are "Gathered Together"-Why Some Are Kept Back-Trust in God's Providence - Christ's Eternal Fountains To the Gospel Well.

(Copyright, 1901, by Louis Klopseb, N. Washington, Aug. 11. In this disourse Dr. Talmage represents religion as a great refreshment and invites all the world to come and receive it text, Genesis xxix, 8, "We grannet until all the flocks be gathered together and till they roll the stone from the well's mouth; then we water the sheep." A scene in Mesopotamia, beautifully

I hear their bleating coming on the bright air and the laughter of young men and maidens indulging in rustic repartee. I look off, and I see other flocks of sheep coming. Meanwhile Jacob, a stranger, on the interesting errand of looking for a wife comes to the well. A beautiful shepherdess comes to the same well. see her approaching, followed by her father's flock of sheep, it was a memorable meeting. Jacob married that shepherdess. The Bible account of it "Jacob kissed Rachel and lifted up his voice and wept." It has always been a mystery to me what he found all heaven into the bargain. The to cry about! But take hold of it and push it aside, and Christ today steps on one side the then the buckets and the troughs are filled and the sheep are satisfied. We the treasures of the universe, and he cannot until all the flocks are gathered together and till they roll the stone depth, all length, all breadth, all from the well's mouth; then we water the sheep."

Coming to the Gospel Well.

If a herd of swine come to a well, they angrily jostle each other for the precedence; if a drove of cattle come to a well, they hook each other back from the water, but when a flock of sheep come, though a hundred of them shall be disappointed, they only all about it and have known it as express it by sad bleating they come together peaceably. Why Some Are Kept Back

Here is another man who is kept back from this water of life by the stone of an obdurate heart which lies over the mouth of the well. You have well, farewell!" no more feeling upon this subject than if God had yet to do you the first kindness or you had to do God the first wrong. Seated on his lap all these years, his everlasting arms sheltering you, where is your gratitude? Where is your morning and evening prayer? Where are your consecrated lives? I say to you, as Daniel said to Beishazzar, "The God in whose hand thy breath is, and all thy way, thou hast not glorified." If you treated anybody as badly as you have treated God, you would have made 500 apologies; yea, your whole life would have been an apology. Three times a day you have been seated at God's table. Spring, summer, autumn and winter he has appropriately appareled you. Your health from him, your compan-The largest loaves of bread baked in lon from him, your children from him, your home from him, all the bright surroundings of your life from him. Oh, man, what dost thou with that hard heart? Canst thou not feel one throb of gratitude toward the God that made you, and the Christ who came to redeem you, and the Holy Ghost who has all these years been importuning you? If you could sit down five minutes under the tree of a Savfor's martyrdom and feel his lifeblood trickling on your forehead and cheek and hands, methinks you would get some appreciation of what you owe to a crucified Jesus.

Heart of Stone, relent, relent, Touched by Jenus' cross subdued:

See his body, mangled, rent, Covered with a gore of blood. Sinful soul, what hast thou done? Crucified the Eternal Son!

Jacob, with a good deal of tug and push, took the stone from the well's mouth so that the flocks might be watered. And I would that this day my word, blessed of God, might remove the hindrances to your getting up to the gospel well. Yea, I take it for granted that the work is done, and now, like oriental shepherds, I proceed to water the sheep. Come, all ye thirsty! You have an undefined longing in your soul. You tried money making; that did not satisfy you. You tried office under government; that did not satisfy you. You are as much discontented with this life as the celehaten French author who felt that he could not any longer endure the misfortunes of the world and who said: "At 4 o'clock this afternoon I shall put an end to my own existence. Meanwhile I must toll on up to that time for the sustenance of my family." And he wrote on his book until the clock struck 4, when he folded up his manuscript and, by his own band, concluded his earthly life.

Christ's Eternal Fountains. There are men who are perfectly discontented. appreciate the promises of the gospel. When an aged clergyman was dying a man very eminent in the church a young theological student stood by his side, and the sged man looked up and said to him, "Can't you give me some comfort in my dying hour?" "No," said the young man: "I can't talk to you on this subject. You know long." "Well," said the dying man, "just recite to me some promises." The young man thought a moment, and he came to this promise: "The blood of Jesus Christ cleanseth from "That's just the promise I have been waiting for-'The blood of Jesus Christ cleanseth from all sin." the warmth, the grandeur, the mag-

Come, all ye wounded of the flock, pursued of the wolves, come to the fountain where the Lord's sick and bereft ones have come. "Ah," says some one, "you are not old enough to understand my sorrows. You have not been in the world as long as I have, and you can't talk to me about my misfortunes in the time of old age." Well, I may not have lived as long as you, but I have been a great deal among old people, and I know how they feel about their failing health and about their departed friends and about the loneliness that sometimes strikes through their souls.

After two persons have lived together for 40 or 50 years and one is taken away, what desolation! I shall not forget the cry of Dr. De Witt of New pledge of his affection while all heaven | York when he stood by the open grave of his beloved wife and after the obsequies had ended he looked down into the open place and said: "Farewell. my honored, faithful and beloved wife, The bond that bound us is severed. To lean on a prop for 50 years and then have it break under you!! There were only two years' difference be tween the death of my father and mother. After my mother's decease my father used to go around as though looking for something. He would often get up from one room without any seeming reason and go to another room, and then he would take his cane and start out, and some one would say, "Father, where are you going?" and he would answer, "I don't know exactly where I am going." Always looking for something! Though he was a tenderhearted man I never saw him cry but once, and that was at the burial of my mother. After 60 years' living together it was hard to part. And there are aged people to-day who are feeling just such a pang as that. I want to tell the safest and most suitable place. them there is perfect enchantment in the promises of this gospel, and I come to them and offer them my arm, or I take their arm and I bring them to this gospel well. Trust in God's Providences.

You get a little worried for fear that some time you will come to want, do you? Your children and grandchildren sometimes speak a little sharp to you because of your allments. The Lord will not speak sharp. Do you think you will come to want? What do you think the Lord is? Are his granaries empty? Will he feed the raven and the rabbit and the lion in the desert and forget you? Why, naturalists tell us that the porpoise will not forsake its wounded and sick mate. And de you suppose the Lord of heaven and earth has not as much sympathy as the nah of the sea? But you say, "I amso near worn out, and I am of no use to God any more." I think the Lord knows whether you are of any more use or not. If you were of no more use, he would have taken you before this. Do you think God has forgotten you because he has taken care of you 70 or 80 years? He thinks more of you to-day than he ever did because you think more of him. May the God of Abraham and Isaac and Jacob and Paul the aged be your God forever! But gather all the promises to day in a group, and I ask the shepherds to drive their flocks of lambs and sheep up to the sparkling supply. "Behold, happy s the man whom God correcteth." "Though he cause grief, yet will he have compassion." "Many are the afflictions of the righteous, but the Lord delivereth him out of them all." Weeping may endure for a night, but joy cometh in the morning." I am determined that no one shall go out of this house uncomforted. Yonder is a timid and shrinking soul who seems to hide away from the consolations I am uttering as a child with a sore hand hides away from the physician lost he touch the wound too roughly, and the mother has to go and compel the little patient to come out and see the physician. So I come to your timid and shrinking soul to-day and compel you to come out in the presence of the Divine Physician. He will not hurt you. He has been bealing wounds for many years, and he will give you gentle and omnipotent medicament.

But people when they have trouble go any where rather than to God. De Quincey took opium to get rid of his troubles. Charles Lamb took to punch. Theodore Hook took to something stronger. Edwin Forrest took to theatrical dissipation. And men have run all around the earth, hoping in the quick transit to get away from their misfortunes. It has been a dead failure. There is only one well that can slake the thirst of an afflicted spirit, and that is the deep and inexhaustible well of the gospel.

The Great Pitt's Last Words.

The last words of great men are always sacredly treasured, and there is reason for the belief that in instances the words are polished and changed to suit the occasion. Various dying sentiments have been ascribed to the great William Pitt, and Disraeli was fond of telling a story which he heard from an old waiter at the house of commons. Late one night, said the waiter to Disraeli shortly after he entered parliament, I was called out of bed by a medsenger in a post-chaise shouting to me outside the window. "What is it?" I said. "You're to get up and dress and bring some of your pork pies down to Mr. Pitt at Putney." So I went, and as we drove along the messenger told me that Mr. Pitt had not been able to take any food, but had said, "I think I could eat one of Bellamy's pork pies." So I was sent for post-haste. When I arrived Mr. Pitt had passed away. Them were his last words: "I think I could eat one of Bellamy's pork pies."-Youth's Companion.

It is not generally known that since its discoverey in 1502 St. Helena has been destined to be a state prison. In 1511 the Portuguese banished a nobleman, named Fernando Lopes, to this island. The recent appointment, to please President McKinley, of Col. John S. Historian Maclay indignantly denies the charge that any part of his immortal work was stolen from the Edinburgh Review. In 1867, the year of confederation, the population of Canada was 3,371,594, says the Toronto Mail and Express. In 1891 the population was 4,833,239. In 1801 the figure is estimated to be 6,000,000. If we have but 5,500,000, as some suppose, our increase will have been 2,100,000 since the union. In 1867 the area of Canada was 499,700 square miles; in 1901 the area is 3,-470,392 square miles, or about 40 per cent of the area of the British empire. The addition of Manitoba and the northwest in 1870 and of British Columbia on July 20, 1871, and of the province of Prince Edward Island on July 1, 1873, brought in the additional three million square miles. In 1867 we had 2,380 miles of railway, which had cost $150,027,000; in 1901 there are 17.-264 miles, which have cost $998,266,000. In 1867 we exported $57,567,000 worth of products; in 1200 we exported $158. 896,000 worth.

Soo Many Doctors.

The Journal of the American Med ical association is of the opinion that there is a surplus of doctors in the United States, and regrets that the surpius is increasing. There is now one doctor to every 600 of population. As this is not on the whole an unhealthy country, one physician ought to be able to look after the aches and pains of a thousand ordinary people. Wherever more men are employed to perform any kind of service than are actually needed, either the community has to pay too much for services rendered or some of the men employed must be unable to make more than a bare living, if they make that. According to the Journal 1,000 doc tors die yearly, in spite of their skill, but almost 6,000 are born. The medical colleges, although the requires are severer than formerly, are to out 6,000 graduates a year. If this keeps on, how long will it he before there is one doctor for every 100 of the population? Then societies will have to be organised for the raise of stary

READS LIKE ROMANCE.

"Yes," said a Chicago business man to a reporter: "yes, we think we have hit upon one of the greatest inventions of this age of invention, and when the busy world is introduced to our phono-typograph it will stop a moment in amazement and admiration. That may sound to you like a clause out of a circus bill, or a chapter from a Chicago novelist's novel, but it is a true bill, nevertheless. You are aware that for a long time there have been worn with them. Tas best courts for an efforts to combine in some way the present style of typewriter and the phonograph, but until now these efforts have invariably falled. A year ago we discovered in Chicago a young mechanic who had solved the problem. as we believed, and we put money back of our belief, and told him to go ahead with his machine until he had it where he thought it ought to be ready ton canvas gowns. Pink pique, feather to be offered to the world. It is hardly stitched with very dark blue. Taffeta that yet, for the best machine is susceptible of improvement, but we think we have a good thing.

"Of course, I can't give you all of the details, but I think I can make clear to you the general working principle of the phono-typograh. As its names indicates, it is a typewriting of sound. That has been the idea in all other attempts, but it was not found practicable, because the sounds were words, and there were too many words to reduce to machinery, as it were. The phonograph and the telephone principle got the sounds all right, but each sound was a word and that could not be put in type. Our man, however, hit upon a separation of the words into letters, and that brought his field of operation into the limit of twentysix sounds. For punctuating marks we use spaces, but as yet we have no capitals. The machine, of course, is electric, and the operator talks into it as into a telephone, except that he spells out each word and as the sound of the letter strikes upon the disk it is reproduced upon the corresponding letter, which in turn is printed exactly as the ordinary typewriter would print

At first blush the spelling out of each word would seem to entail more time and labor than the old style of typewriting, but a very few hours will show any person that our phono-typograph will do the work of two people in half the time they will consume by the existing methods. We are willing to admit that our machine is not perfeet in all its details, but as far so it goes, and it goes a good long way, it is a world beater. A newspaper friend of mine has one on trial on which he has written a hundred words a mintite, and averages seventy-five right along. He doesn't know anything about typewriting of the old kind, either, and doesn't have to, as glibness of tongue takes the place of nimbleness of fingers. We hope to have them on the market within sixty days, but are in no especial hurry, as there are some small details we want perfected before coming up for judgment. No." conluded the gentleman in response to a now a good thing when we see it."-

A SUMMER LUXURY. There is no more potent beautifier nown than the Turkish bath, and taken with moderation, it is productive only of beneficial results. Unfortunately, a large class of persons whose slender purses will not permit the necessary expenditure are deprived of not only a positive enjoyment, but a decided benefit, says the Plain Dealer. Could its therapeutic value be more widely known possibly tired and nervous humanity would spend less in tonics and more in the indulgence of what is erroneously regarded as but a luxury for the classes, but which, by liberal patronage, should be brought within the limit where it would become a necessity for the masses. "Cleanliness is next to godliness." The consummate purity and cleanliness of persons which results from a Turkish bath produces a lightness and elasticity as well as a state of mental and moral purification which makes one feel "a little lower than the angels."

ARTIFICIAL CALF FEEDER. What an awful disappointment it must be to a calf to wake up some morning and find its mother missing and no warm breakfast waiting, and how disgusted it must feel when the farmer comes in a little later with a pall of skimmed milk, straddles the calf's neck, inserts his finger in its mouth and tries to convince it that drinking is the proper method of feeding from that time on. Happy would be that calf if the farmer would provide it with the feeding arrangement here shown, and happy would the farmer be if he did not have to waste his time in teaching the calf to drink. The calf seems to get along fairly well until the farmer undertakes to withdraw his finger and make the calf go it alone, but then rebellion rises and an upset pail is the result in some cases. Once introduce the calf to this device and he may bunt to his heart's content without upsetting the milk. The arrangement consists of a reservoir, suspended from the wall with a tube leading to a block underneath, on which is mounted a rubber nipple. As the nipple is screwed on the block it may be removed as soon as the feeding is finished, or the entire feeder can be taken down if desired.

GROWTH OF COME INDUSTRY.

A report on the growth and present condition of coke manufacture has been issued by the census office, says the Black Diamond. The report says the manufacture of coke is a compararively new industry in this country. In 1850 the value of coke produced was $15.250, while in 1899 it was $35.586. 445, including by-products amounting to $952,027 in value, or an increase of over 100 per cent in ten years, from 1889 to 1899. This extraordinary growth of the coke industry has only kept pace with the growth of the iron manufacture. According to the report the modern tendency of industry to concentrate in a comparatively small number of establishents is strikingly exemplified in the coke industry, where there is an increase of only 10,6 per cent in the number of establishments reported, as compared with 1889, while the increase in tons of coke produced is 96.2 per cent and in the value of all products, 115.7 per cent.

A capital of $36,502,679 has been invested in the manufacture of the product. The value of the output was $35 .-585,445, to produce which involved an outlay of $7,085,736 for wages, $19,-665,532 for raw materials and $2,184,-968 for miscellaneous expenses.

Pennsylvania leads the six chief producing states, with 26,920 ovens in operation and an output of 13,245,594 tons of coke out of a total of 19,640,-798 tons, or 67.4 per cent of the total output.

HOW TREES BREATHE. F. Schuyler Mathews, in a recently issued work on "Familiar Trees and Their Leaves," says: "The greatest sphere of usefulness which a tree occupies is connected with its life. It is atmosphere the carbonic acid gas which is poisonous to us; it holds and slowly dispenses moisture which the parched air needs; it gives out the ozone (or oxygen in an active electronegative condition) which is particularly conducive to our health; and it modifies heat which would otherwise be overpowering. Step into the thick woods from an open space on a very hot day, and immediate relief is experienced from the intense heat. This is not wholly the result of shade furnished by the trees; much of it proceeds from the modification of the air through the breathing of the tree leaves.

"I have estimated that a certain sugar maple of large proportions which grows near my cottage puts forth in one season about 432,000 leaves; these leaves combined present a surface to sunlight of about 21,600 square feet, or an area equal to pretty nearly half an acre. Every inch of this expanse breathes in life for the tree and out health for the man, while it absorbe in the aggregate an enormous amount of heat and sunlight."

THE CARE OF BRASS.

Lacquered brass needs care if it is to last and look nice long. Of course, it must not be cleaned with brick dust or any of the advertised polishes. It must never be touched with a damp cloth, but in damp weather the brase should be frequently rubbed with a dry duster, or chamois leather, says the Evening Star. Damp destroys the larquer more quickly than anything. Painting ordinary brass over with s solution of shellac after Negro in Georgia Meets an Awful Death at the Hands of a Mob.

Savannah, Ga., Aug. 12.-Eighteen miles south of Savannah on the line of the Seaboard Air railway the charred trunk of the body of Joe Washington, the negro who assaulted Mrs. J. J. Clark, was found. Washington was captured at Liberty City, and brought to Ways station. He was taken before Mrs. Clark who identified him positively as the negro who assaulted her.

The negro's positive identification by the victim sealed his fate. There was a mob of 400 men clamoring at a distance for his life, but the leaders of the mob, numberling less than a dozen, carried into execution the plans of vengeance they had formed. The rest of the mcb was not permitted to come within 100 yards of the place where Washington met his death. This was a spot a few feet from the railway track and not 500 yards from the house in which the negro committed the port of Maj. Gen. MacArthur, dated July 4, 1901, the day that he relinquished command of the division of the Philippines, has been received at the war department. The period covered by the report is from Oct. 1, 1900, when the last report from Gen. Mac-Arthur was dated. He reviews the policy of the Filipinos who were hostile to the Americans, saving that their action since the practical collapse of the insurrection has been a perpiexing problem. With the dishandment of the insurgent field armies the Filipinos organized desperate resistance by banding the people together in support of the guerillas. This was carried out by means of secret committees who collected contributions inflicted punishments and carried on a considerable opposition to the Americans, Gen. MacArthur reviews the manner in which operations were carried on against these guerillas, and says he hopes the policy adopted will in time conciliate the natives and make them friendly to the United States. I wish-that Sympathy and Love. And every human passion

That has its origin above, Would come and keep in fashion; That Scorn and Jealousy and Hate And every base emotion,

Were buried fifty fathoms deep Beneath the waves of Ocean! I wish-that friends were always true,

And motifes always pure.

I wish the good were not so few, I wish the bad were fewer;

I wish that parsons ne'er forsot

To hard their plous teaching; I wish that practicing was not So different from preaching!

I wish-that modest worth might be Appraised with truth and candor; wish that innocence were free

From 'eachery and slander, I wish that men their vows would mind

That women ne'er were rovers; I wish that wives were always kind, And husbands always lovers!

I wish-in fine-that Joy and Mirth. And every good Ideal,

May come erewhile throughout the earth To be the glorious Real Till God shall every creature bless With His Supremest blessing. And Hope be lost in Happiness.
