Mamie hosts 40th Brunch

By Neta Marble

Mamie Wood held her 40th annual "Breakfast at Mamie's" on Wednesday, June 13, 2001 in the backyard of her home in the South Plains community. The theme for this years get-together was "Texas" and everyone was asked to dress to fit the occasion. One hundred eighteen women from across the area enjoyed breakfast in the beautiful back yard setting.

The breakfast tradition began in 1961 when Mamie hosted members of the Floydada Garden Club. Through the years the breakfast grew to include friends and members of the community. Eventually it became an area event with special guests attending from across the United States.

Each year there has been a special theme, some of which have included flowers, leaves, quilts, frogs, butterflies, dolls and hats. Decorations, apparel, and games have followed the chosen theme. Many years there has been weather conditions to contend Continued On Page 4

Subject: Martha VS the Rest of Us (This was sent to me by a dear friend. I didn't write this--but my friend knows me well enough to know that I would have written it if I had thought of it.)

Martha's way #1: Stuff a miniature marshmallow in the bottom of a sugar cone to prevent ice cream drips.

My way: Just suck the ice cream out of the bottom of the cone, for Pete's sake, you are probably lying on the couch with your feet up eating it anyway.

Martha's way #2: Use a meat baster to "squeeze" your pancake batter onto the hot griddle and you'll get perfectly shaped pancakes every time.

My way: Buy the precooked kind you nuke in the microwave for 30 seconds. The hard part is getting them out of the plastic bag.

Martha's way #3: To keep potatoes from budding, place an apple in the bag with the potatoes.

My way: Buy Hungry Jack mashed potato mix and keep it in the pantry for up to a year.

Martha's way #4: To prevent egg shells from cracking, add a pinch of salt to the water before hard boiling.

My way: Who cares if they crack, aren't you going to take the shells off anyway?

Martha's way #5: To get the most juice out of fresh lemons, bring them to room temperature and roll them under your palm against the kitchen counter before squeezing.

My way: Sleep with the lemons in between the mattress and box springs. Martha's way #6: To easily remove burnt-on food from your skillet, simply add a drop or two of dish soap and enough water to cover bottom of pan, and bring to a boil on stovetop.

My way: Eat out every night and avoid cooking.

Martha's way #7: Spray your Tupperware with nonstick cooking spray before pouring in tomato based sauces and there won't be any stains. My way: Feed your garbage disposal and there won't be any leftovers. Martha's way #8: When a cake recipe calls for flouring the baking pan, use a bit of the dry cake mix instead and there won't be any white mess on the outside of the cake.

My way: Go to the bakery. They'll even decorate it for you.

Martha's way #9: If you accidentally over salt a dish while it's still cooking, drop in a peeled potato and it will absorb the excess salt for an instant "fix me up"

My way: If you over salt a dish while you are cooking, that's too bad. My motto: I made it and you will eat it and I don't care how bad it tastes. Martha's way #10: Brush some beaten egg white over pie crust before baking to yield a beautiful glossy fin-

My way: The Mrs. Smith frozen pie directions do not include brushing egg whites over the crust and so I don't do Martha's way #11: Place a slice of apple in hardened brown sugar to soften it.

My Way: Brown sugar is supposed to be "soft"?

Martha's way #12: To determine whether an egg is fresh: immerse it in a pan of cool, salted water. If it sinks, it is fresh, but if it rises to the surface, throw it away.

My way: Eat, cook, or use the egg anyway. If you feel bad later, you will this case. know it wasn't fresh.

Martha's way #13: Don't throw out all that leftover wine. Freeze into ice cubes for future use in casseroles and sauces

My way: Leftover wine?

Letter To The Editor

Dear Editor:

In the May 31, 2001 issue of the Hesperian-Beacon, an article "Memorial service honors deceased pioneers" was printed.

...a list of the 176 who have died since the last Old Settlers Reunuion are: ...Joe Montgomery."

Is this correct? Is there another Joe Montgomery in Floyd County? My father, Joe A Montgomery died in Floydada in 1925.

I was born in Floyd County in 1918, and consider myself a Floyd County pioneer, however, I'm 83 years young, and in good health. Frequently, I have visitors from Texas who visit Alaska. I enjoy the Hesperian and the Texas Highways.

> Still alive, Joe D. Montgomery

Mr. Montgomery,

The brochure that was given to us did have the name Joe Montgomery on it.

We don't know the history of that Joe Montgomery, but we're happy you're still alive.

The highlight of the capitol tour was the observation of the Senate in session. From the viewing gallery in the Senate chamber, we watched as all 100 of our senators filed in to vote. Among them was Ted Kennedy, who yelled a few words of his opinion on the issue, Hillary Clinton, Trent Lott, Tom Daschel, Phil Gramm, Kay Baily Hutchison, and Strom Thurmond who had to be helped into the chamber and into his chair. The senators voted, milled around, and seemed to pay absolutely no attention to what was happening around them.

The senate was voting on an amendment to the education bill. The amendment concerned the Boy Scouts of America and their use of public schools as meeting places across the nation. It seemed a little odd to me that they couldn't find the answer. Viewing congress in action makes you hope that they know what they are doing. I thought the answer to all of their deliberations was already made known to them. In fact, it was engraved in stone in that very room, and it was staring the United States Senate right in the face. Two rooms of the gallery were filled with the art work of students from around the country. Painting, textile and fabric Design, sculpture, graphic design, and glass pieces filled the walls of the normally conservative institution with the very unique and powerful work of young artists. The National Scholastic Art and Writing Awards Presentation was held in the John F. Kennedy Center for The Performing Arts. The Kennedy Center is the largest venue for opera, orchestra, theater, ballet, and Broadway musicals in the entire area. The building has many different auditoriums, all with a different purpose and all capable of seating thousands. The awards presentation was not at all what was expected. Warnings about what to expect were given by Mrs. Mosley, but they did not resonate in my head. The magnitude of the program did not sink in until later.

The program was presented by Scholastic Inc. and the National Alliance for Young Artists and Writers. They hired a producer and a staff of stage directors, lighting technicians, music operators, and graphics experts. The program itself could be compared to something that you would see on TV. Like the Oscars, for instance, without the tuxedoes, famous stars, and barley clothed people.

The program was "hosted" by the President and CEO of Scholastic. It opened with a large performance from an amazing tap dance group from the Washington Area. That was followed by a taped message from Laura Bush, the First Lady, who was in Europe. The program included speakers who, won Scholastic Art and Writing Awards in the past. One of them was with and this year was no exception with a visit from our West Texas wind.

Guest speaker for the gathering was Nelda Laney, wife of Pete Laney, Speaker of the Texas House of Representatives. She has been instrumental in the renovation of the Texas Capitol and her program was on the work that has been accomplished and the fund raising that made it possible. She showed pictures of the five Christmas ornaments she has designed and told about the selection of each design and a few funny happenings connected with them. Assisting her with the presentation was Nikki Logan of Plainview.

Entertainment was provided by Judy James of Weatherford, Texas. She strummed her guitar while singing several western ballads. James has a regular radio program on the Weatherford station and has recorded two albums, "The Gift of the Cowboy", and "Cowboy Jubilee". She has performed at gatherings across the Southwest and is a regular at the Cowboy Symposium held in Lubbock each year. She is also associated with the Texas Commission of the Arts and the Texas Touring Program Company and Artist Roster.

Pete and Nelda Laney presented Mamie with a Texas Flag that has flown over the Texas Capitol and she was excited to learn that it was flown

By Jon J. La Baume- Manager Since the first of the year the Floyd County Friends Unity Center had been a very busy place. The months of January, February, March, and April saw a total of 89 events with 7336 people attending. The month of May has not been any different; the Unity Center has been used more this month since it opened in January of 2000. A total of 31 events were held with 2679 people attending. An event is defined as the number of days the Unity Center was actually used including setup days, day of the event, and/or cleanup day if needed. 10,015 people have attended 120 events since the first of January 2001. All the events held this month have been either Youth or Community events. The 120 events have exceeded the 101 events held during all of the year 2000.

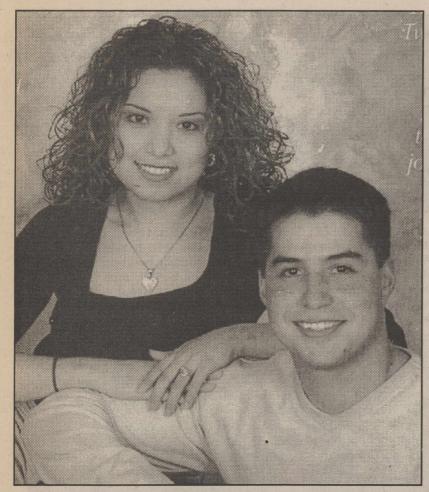

The month of June has slowed down as to the number of events, but several events have already been held with large attendance.

The Unity Center also has been working with the Floyd County Fair Board of Directors and all of their committees to have a very successful Fair this year. Your support of the Fair is needed.

If anyone would like to rent the Unity Center, please call the Unity Center's phone number at 652-3129, or contact Jon La Baume at 983-3334.

If a borrower is willing to consolidate his or her federal student loans, the federal government estimates savings of $136 for every $1,000 owed by students in a standard 10-year repayment plan.

Parents who have borrowed through the federal Parent Loan for Undergraduate Students (PLUS) program will also benefit from lower interest rates. Rates for PLUS loans will drop to 6.79 percent from 8.99 percent. Because PLUS loans are owed immediately, parents will see the effects of the new rates whether they are borrowing for the first time this fall or are already paying loans previously granted by the government. PLUS loans are also eligible for consolidation, allowing parents to lock in a lower rate for the remaining life of the loan.

For students who take out a federal loan for the coming school year, the effects of lower interest may be less direct.

Riding in pickup bed dangerous

By Linda Anderson

Texans love the open road - the sky achingly blue above, the blacktop highway straight and true, the breeze ruffling through the driver's hair...

about it: "On the road again ... '

Could anything sound better? Just don't try to fulfill that tempting picture in the open bed of a pickup. And don't ever let a child ride back there, say safety officials.

"Every year in Texas there are crashes involving children or adolescents riding in the bed of a pickup truck," said Marlene Albers, program manager for rural passenger safety education for Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

Most often victims who survive these crashes sustain head injuries, can be prevented by not allowing anywhich can take years of recovery, she said

Too often victims don't survive. "These incidents take place not on the highway, but in neighborhoods," residential areas or school zones, and many times at speeds of 30 miles an hour or less, she added. One common scenario involves a pickup, a young high-school age driver and a load of his or her friends who are headed to a fast-food place on their lunch break from school. Someone will invariably sit on the edge of the pickup's bed or on the wheel well, and when the vehicle hits a bump or turns a comer, that person is thrown from the pickup.

'We never refer to (these incidents) as accidents," Albers said, "because accidents are predictable, and if someone is riding on the bed of a pickup, you can predict that's an incident waiting to happen.

'It's preventable by not riding in the open bed of a pickup.'

In Texas, where pickups are a favorite mode of transportation, inci-Texan Willie Nelson even sings dents such as this are not uncommon. Senior Trooper Eddie Carmon of Bryan, with the Texas Department of Public Safety, Safety Education Service, has seen his share of crashes, wrecks - incidents - involving people riding in the back of pickups. Too many of them involve young people who are killed or who receive life-long injuries.

> "Teenagers like to ride in the open bed of pickups," Carmon said. "Even at 30 miles an hour, it can kill you if you fall out."

And the tragedy is incidents like this one to ride in the back of a pickup.

Unfortunately, for some people it's not that simple. "Pickups, in Texas, are one of the most common vehicles you see on the road," Carmon said. In many families, especially those who live in rural areas, the pickup may be the only family vehicle.

Because riding in the open bed of a pickup is so dangerous, it's also illegal. Texas law, Section 545.414 states: "Riding in open beds; Offense (a) A person commits an offense if the person operates an open-bed pickup truck or an open flatbed truck or draws an open flatbed trailer at a speed of more than 35 miles per hour when a child younger than 12 years of age is occupying the bed of the truck or trailer. (b) An offense under this section is punishable by a fine of not less than $25 nor more than $200. (c) It is a defense to prosecution under this section that the person was operating or towing the vehicle in an emergency."

The Texas Agricultural Extension Service is working to prevent this kind of incident by educating drivers and the general public on the price paid for the ride in the back of a pickup, Albers said. Through a Rural Passenger Safety Program, a brochure called 'Kids Aren't Cargo" tells of the dangers of riding in the open bed of a pickup and how those dangers can be prevented.

According to the brochure:

-"Children and teenagers account for more than half of the deaths of passengers riding in the bed of a truck."

-"Most non-collision deaths in a pickup truck bed are caused by swerving, braking or rough roads.'

-"Children in covered pickup beds are exposed to carbon monoxide poisoning from exhaust trip!"

Prevention is simple. As the brochure states: "Buckle up everyone, every time, every trip!"
