BARWISE GIN MODULE FEEDER TOPPLED BY STORM

Weather wipes out crops

Insurance adjusters in Floyd County were just beginning to get caught up on processing claims from a May 10th hailstorm when a more devastating storm moved through the County, June 4th.

Winds clocked at 83 mph brought driving rain, dirt, and hail into the city at approximately 4:30 p.m. Tornado sirens blared warning residents to seek shelter quickly. Wind damage was greatest to utility poles, trees, and metal structures. A second storm that traveled through the county, at approximately 6:30 p.m., brought larger and more damaging hail.

According to Lighthouse Electric Operations Manager Tony Whitfill, "The storm tracked southeast through the county taking out 26 large transmission poles and over 30 smaller distribution poles in its path."

According to Whitfill, in Floyd County the Sandhill and Harmony communities were the hardest hit. "Thirteen transmission poles broke like match sticks, and fell across Hwy. 400 west and north of Petersburg," said Whitfill. "Six miles south of Floydada we lost 12 transmission poles. The transmission poles are 25 inches across and it would take a straight wind of 80 mph to snap one. We also lost about 30 distribution poles all around the county--but mostly in Sandhill and Harmony."

"A Happy Union farmer told me he had 10 inches of rain south of Happy Union. He said this was the first time he had lost everything on all his farms. He said the storm was wide enough to get it all. Everything is flattened."

Rainfall around Floyd County registered at: 1.9" in Lockney, 1.4" in Muncy, 2" in Floydada, 3.5" at Barwise. Rainfall measurements were not considered accurate because of the blowing rain.

In Barwise, the module feeder at Barwise Gin was blown down and it is estimated that 7,000 to 8,000 acres of cotton, that are usually ginned at Barwise were destroyed. The module feeder will be rebuilt by ginning season.

Floyd County Extension Agent J.D. Ragland gave a rough estimate of 15,000 - 20,000 acres of cotton being destroyed in Floyd County in the May and June hail storms.

Nick Long, a local insurance agent, said, "We just finished adjustments from the May 10th hail storm and now we are starting over again. Of course if we totaled your property the first time there is nothing more we can do--total is totaled. The second storm that came through brought bigger hail and broke out skylights and windows."

"Since I started this business in 1988 this is the first time we have had this much significant damage twice in the same storm season. It is frustrating for everybody, but people have been patient and I appreciate their attitude."

The driving rain and dirt also created hazardous driving conditions and was responsible for an accident involving one vehicle and four juveniles.

When the storm hit four pedestrians, a 12 year old boy and a 12 year old girl, an 18 year old female and a 19 year old female, attempted to run across the street from Rosa's Restaurant on 2nd Street, to their home at the corner of Mississippi and 2nd Street. All four were struck by a 4 door sedan in the 400 block of W. Mississippi, driven by a woman.

"The pedestrians couldn't see the car because of the storm and the driver of the car couldn't see the pedestrians," said Police Chief Darrell Gooch. "The car was not moving very fast and the pedestrians were not hurt very bad. They were taken to W.J. Mangold Memorial Hospital with bumps and bruises and were treated and released."

According to Gooch, "As in every bad storm with possibility of tornadoes the emergency vehicles leave town and get away from the path of the storm. Everyone had driven off when the accident happened and they had to turn around and come back into town during the storm to take care of the accident victims. Two Floydada ambulances and a Lockney ambulance responded, as did the Fire Department and Police. The emergency workers had hard hats on to protect them from hail, and the victims had been taken into homes to protect them from the storm."

New equipment helps Coronado digs

By Darwin Robinson & Nancy Marble

The Coronado archeological site in Blanco Canyon, south of Floydada, has been a very busy place the past ten days. New equipment and new techniques are being used to map and locate the exact campsite of Francisco Vazquez de Coronado and his army when they passed through the area in 1542.

Dr. Donald Blakeslee, Director of the Archeology Department at Wichita State University in Wichita, Kansas, has been leading a team of volunteers and co-workers this past week using a newly invented magnetometer. It is being used to conduct a magnetic survey of a certain part of the canyon floor within an area of about 230 meters wide and 450 meters long.

Dr. James E. Bruseth, Ph.D., Director of the Archeology Division of the Texas Historical Commission and Bill Pierson, THC's magnetometer operator brought their equipment to the Jimmy Owens site on Wednesday, June 2nd, to begin work which continued through Saturday.

The magnetometer, a super sensitive metal detector, was originally purchased for the THC's Fort St. Louis archeological project near Victoria, Texas. It allows archeologists to create high-tech magnetic readings of the site and target their work to areas of greatest potential.

Concerning this weeks' work with the magnetometer, Dr. Blakeslee commented, "There is a pattern here. Previously, where we had done a block excavation with scattered hearths with bison bones around it, here we got a line with three of the Coronado nails. These nails were lined up and about a meter apart."

"Some of these nails were used as horseshoe nails, but these were used as if driven into green wood. These were probably used to nail bison skins to their lean-tos. We may end up with a better signature than previously thought."

"These big clusters (of nails) was where they had shot a horse and then clipped off the old horseshoe nails," Blakeslee theorized.

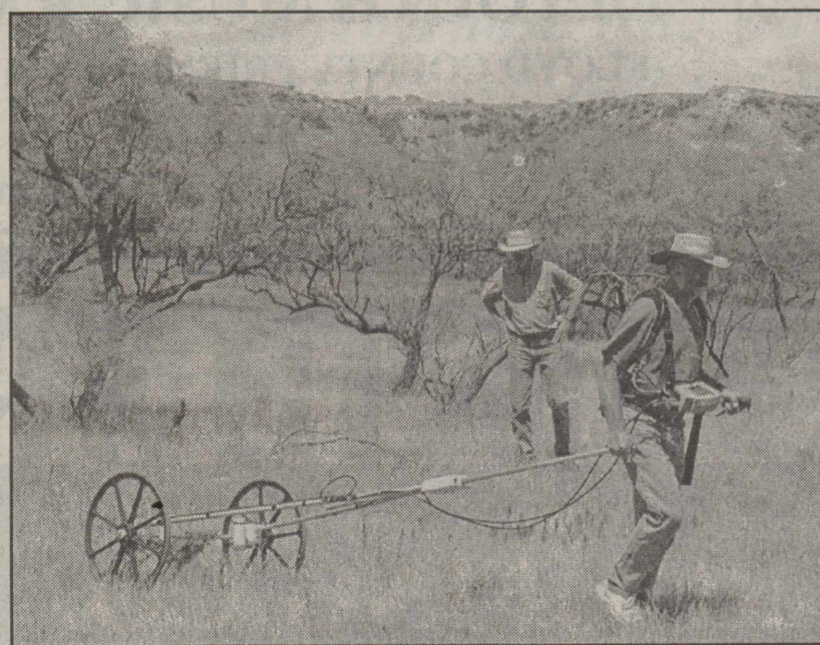

Others working closely with Dr. Blakeslee were Kansas Archeologists Don Hinkle and Henry Roeckers. Don Hinkle excavated a nearby dig site of about five feet by five feet where he personally unearthed several pieces of metal from the old encampment.

Dr. Bruseth and Archeologist

Pierson produced maps which revealed patterns of distribution of metal.

"Extreme Fest" bringing Christian music concert to youth at Unity Center

The Christian community, of Floydada and Lockney, have joined forces to bring a music fest to area youth, June 22, at the Unity Center in Muncy, from 6:00 p.m. - 11:00 p.m.

The event, called "Extreme Fest", is drawing support from a wide variety of churches and denominations. Jake Galvan, one of the organizers for "Extreme Fest", said, "Our goal is to expose and introduce our youth to various types of wonderful Christian music."

"We have quality bands who are donating their time and talents to "Extreme Fest".

Coming from Dallas is "Link". An all girls band from Lubbock, called "Infinity", will also perform, as will the San Angelo group called "Smog".

"We are stepping out in faith as far as expenses are concerned," said

Galvan. "All the food and drinks will be free and of course there is no charge to attend. We will also be giving away free T-Shirts."

Anyone wishing to help with this event and who would like to make a tax deductible contribution can make checks payable to: Calvary's Cornerstone Fellowship, 505 N. 2nd, Floydada, TX., 79235.

Local blood drive will help replenish area blood supply

Before you take off for your family vacation or the beach or the golf course, Christina Mendez hopes you'll stop by the Floydada Covenant Home Health Care blood drive to give your summer blood donation. The drive will be held at their center at 115 E. Missouri of Friday June 14th from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m.

Now, more than ever, your community needs your blood regular donations. "The Floydada community could easily meet its needs if people would give four times a year," says Connie Hollinshead, Community Relations Rep for United Blood Services. Donating blood takes less than an hour from the time you walk up to the blood drive until you finish your juice and cookies. "By setting aside just four hours a year to donate blood, one person can help save the lives of 12 people, and can help bring an end to blood shortages," Ms. Hollinshead added.

"We are significantly down with donations compared to last year. We are struggling to keep up with the area hospital needs. Area hospitals have to postpone surgeries due to the critical shortages."

Christina Mendez urges donors to call for an appointment. "If we know you're coming, we'll be sure to save you a seat!" she laughs. "Seriously, by scheduling appointments ahead of time, we can make sure there will be plenty of staff on hand for our blood donors. We realize that everyone's time is valuable and we are committed to making this a quick and easy process," Mendez says.

She encourages those who can't make the drive to call United Blood Services at 806-741-1752 to set up a convenient time to donate at a blood center or another nearby blood drive.

According to the American press, President George W. Bush and Egypt's President Hosni Mubarak met in Washington this past weekend to discuss the Middle East mess.

And, according to the Israeli press (two weeks prior to the Mubarak meeting), there was to be "no change" in America's Middle East policy until after the U.S.-Egypt meeting, "if then." Mr. Sharon, the Prime Minister of Israel, was to follow Mr. Mubarak to Washington, and there could be no decision until Mr. Bush found out what Mr. Sharon would agree to.

That, as the Israelis' predicted, is exactly the way it turned out. Mr. Bush met with Mr. Mubarak. He listened to Mr. Mubarak, but he could not bring himself to agree with Mr. Mubarak. He first must listen to Mr. Sharon. Mr. Mubarak made sense, but Mr. Sharon represents real politics. That was the key.

A change in U.S. policy? What policy, pray tell? There is no U.S. policy. There has been no U.S. policy. There will be no U.S. policy until Israeli Prime Minister Ariel Sharon tells U.S. policy makers what that policy should be. In the meantime, people will die.

In an effort to muddle through, or rather muddle along, the U.S. will castigate Yasser Arafat (it's easy to castigate one so powerless) and praise Ariel Sharon (it's easy to praise someone who has the U.S. Senate in his hip pocket) while calling for the nations of the world to step up to the plate and declare themselves against terrorism. When all is said and done, the U.S. will probably propose something they will call a "three track approach" to arriving at some sort of peace in the region, with each "track" depending upon the successful conclusion of each of the other tracks, the result of which will be to drag the whole thing out until Israel has had sufficient time to populate that portion of the conquered "territories" not already populated with recently arriving Jews from around the world. (The Washington Post reports that 36 new Jewish settlements have been launched in just the past 12 months alone on land occupied by Israel since 1967.)

One is tempted to blame the Middle East situation on the U.S. President, since he has (ostensibly) the power to make things happen, there or elsewhere. But that overlooks many things about the U.S.-Israeli connection. When Sharon first sent his tanks and troops into West Bank towns and villages, Bush indicated his extreme displeasure. He made plain, publicly, that Sharon should withdraw "now". Sharon, proving to the world he was right with his "We own America" comment, said he would withdraw when he got ready. The U.S. Senate, contemplating future political campaigns without funds from certain friends of Israel, overwhelmingly passed a resolution voicing its support for Israel, and calling on the U.S. government to support Israel. Bush, with an eye to the next election cycle, waffled. After first seeming to come down hard on Sharon, he flipped, adopting the Israeli line in all things. Sharon's bloody moves became "understandable." Sharon says there can be no peace until violence stops, even as more land is taken and more settlements erected. Indeed, Sharon said before he left Israel for Washington that there will be no Israeli withdrawal to borders in force before the 1967 war, nor will there be any timetable for "negotiations". He said the same in Washington. The current talks are merely a formality, in Sharon's books.

Without doubt, Mr. Bush knew Sharon's position before Sharon ever left Israel for Washington. That was the reason Bush stonewalled Mubarak. So, the U.S. is maneuvering to make Arafat a mere figurehead, to please Sharon. (Our own view, for what it is worth, is that both the Palestinians and Israelis would be better off with different leaders, but we don't vote in their elections.) Predictably, the Bush attitude found favor with George Will, William Safire, and even Cal Thomas, to name only a few. He is still not pro-Israel enough to satisfy the rich t.v. preacher Pat Robertson, or Bill Kristol and others at the Weekly Standard, but according to recent polls he is making some headway among American Jewish voters, and that's very important in politics.

In the meantime, Sharon's tanks and troops are back in the West Bank towns and villages, wandering at will, destroying anything standing in the way, and America discusses things with Egypt in an effort to come up with something that pleases Sharon, and the U.S. Senate.

It is said that the darkest part of the night is just before the dawn. Maybe so, but whoever coined that phrase obviously did not have the Middle East in mind. There, it has been dark for about as long as we can remember. The dawn never seems to come. Only occasionally do we get a glimpse of hope that peace will prevail in the Holy Land, and those instances of hope are few and fleeting. Until Mr. Bush begins to act like the President of the United States, rather than a lackey of Ariel Sharon, that's the way it will be.

merous metal targets. The information gathered will provide valuable direction for future efforts in the canyon.

A significant artifact found during the week's limited excavation was identified by Dr. Blakeslee as a copper lacing tip aglet, which would have been used by members of the Coronado encampment, as a item used to lace up their clothing, since they were a pre-button society.

Dr. Blakeslee said, "The dig is progressing well and we will know where to put in a major excavation when the results of this data is read. That is our next and last step."

Members and friends of the Floyd County Historical Museum provided food and other services throughout the week. Dr. Blakeslee told the Hesperian-Beacon, "We appreciate all those who have helped and donated their time and food for us here."

HIGH WINDS IN JUNE 4TH STORM TURN OVER CONCESSION STAND AT ANNIE TAYLOR PARK

Commissioners ponder tornado shelter

By Darwin Robinson

The Floyd County Commissioners met Monday, June 10th, and discussed the liability problems when the basement of the courthouse is used by the public as a storm shelter.

Floyd County Judge William D. Hardin told the commissioners, "Last Tuesday we had a number of people here in the courthouse (basement). The PAC kids went to the jail (basement), but I told Bruce Ballou to bring them to the courthouse next time and we will take them."

"I have no objection to the public using the courthouse (basement), but I think there is some liability," Judge Hardin said.

Commissioner Lennie Gilroy commented, "There is probably no more liability than in anybody ever coming into the courthouse and falling down the steps or whatever. We have insurance that covers that already."

Judge Hardin said, "I would say that it is more, because they are going to the basement. They have been using the outside door (on the East side) and the door and the steps there are not safe."

Commissioner Jon Jones said, "I think we have got to let the people use the courthouse as a shelter."

The commissioners' court took time out from their meeting and toured the basement and looked at the areas of safety concerns. The commissioners unanimously voted to delay any actions on the matter until further investigation.

In other matters, the commissioners unanimously approved a request by the City of Floydada to assist the City in rebuilding the Floydada Park. Judge Hardin said this will also help the City in applying for grants.

Upon the recommendation of Judge Hardin, the commissioners voted unanimously not to set any fee for a Flood Insurance permit.

The court transferred $40,000 from the Road and Bridge Fund into the four precincts, or $10,000 into each account.

Three farm contracts were approved. Two were in Precinct 3 and one was in Precinct 4. One was for cutting drainage ditches on a ranch road on the J.P. Taylor Partnership ranch seven miles east on FM 689. Another one was to clean a pit by David Fortenberry three miles east of Cedar Hill, and another one was 12 miles east and 3 miles south of Floydada on the R.J. Lucius Estate to build up a feed road and to clean out a waterway.

The commissioners agreed to advertise for sale a 1979 Chevrolet pickup owned by the county.

County Extension Agent J.D. Ragland gave a report to the commissioners. Ragland said, "Our work this past month has been real steady. Our Cow Patty Bingo at Old Settlers Day was a good successful fund raiser."

"We had 60 4-H'ers to attend the State 4-H Roundup supper and 12 kids attended our two day 2nd Annual Floyd County Roping School. Another 12 4-H'ers attended the four day Leadership Lab at South Plains College."

"This coming week will be a big week for us as we head to College Station for the State 4-H Roundup. We will have 30 kids who will participate in the events, and 31 adults are going with us. We will be the second largest group outside of Hale County going to the Roundup," Ragland added.

Concerning the recent rains Ragland stated that it was very beneficial for the county's crops. He said most of the cotton in the county was in good shape despite the recent hail.

Ragland said, "I am guessing, but I believe between 10,000 and 15,000 acres were destroyed or damaged by the recent hail storms."

Ragland mentioned a Farm Bill Educational meeting to be held on June 18th at the Ollie Liner Center in Plainview.

Floyd County Treasurer Mary Shurbet gave the monthly financial report. The May 1 through 31, 2002 report showed a Beginning Balance of $374,402.28, with Receipts of $164,685.82. Transfers In and Out were $112,262.90. Disbursed showed $211,892.78 leaving an Ending Balance of $327,195.32.

City of Floydada giving away one free alley clean-up

Floydada's City Council has authorized a one-time alley clean up this summer, free of charge, to residents of Floydada.

Jesse Morales, Code Enforcer, will be in charge of this clean up campaign. Residents are reminded to leave their unwanted items in the alley behind their homes.

The week of June 3, a notice was delivered to all residents that this clean-up project began. After the work crew cleans up an alley, each resident along that alley will be notified with a notice on their door. Once the resident receives this green notice, no more junk may be put in the alley. If Code Enforcement finds junk in the already cleaned-up alley, the resident may be subject to a citation payable in Municipal Court. Residents may also pick up landfill coupons at City Hall.

The City of Floydada alley work crew started cleaning up alleys on Monday, June 3. Work began in the alley in the 900 block between W. Price and W. Ross Streets in the northwest part of town. Work continues to be moving at a steady pace.

So far the crew has cleaned the following alleys: 300-900 blocks between W. Price and W. Ross; 300-900 blocks between W. Ross and W. Grover; and 300-900 blocks between W. Grover and W. Lee.

To Those Who Want To Burn The Flag Just Ask Permission...

(Author Unknown: found at <http://mrmom.amaonline.com/poems/theflagfl.htm>)

For those who want to light Old Glory on fire, stomp all over it, or spit on it to make some sort of "statement", I say, let them do it.

But under one condition; they MUST get permission from three sponsors.

First, you need permission of a war veteran. Perhaps a Marine who fought at Iwo Jima? The American flag was raised over Mount Surabachi upon the bodies of thousands of dead bodies. Each night spent on Iwo Jima meant half of everyone you knew would be dead tomorrow, a coin flip away from a bloody end upon a patch of sand your mother couldn't find on a map. Or, maybe ask a Vietnam vet who spent years tortured in a small, filthy cell unfit for a dog. Or, a Korean War soldier who helped rescue half a nation from Communism, or a Desert Storm warrior who repulsed a bloody dictator from raping and pillaging an innocent country.

That flag represented your mother and father, your sister and brother, your friends, neighbors, and everyone at home.

I wonder what they would say if someone asked them permission to burn the American flag?

Next, you need a signature from an immigrant. Their brothers and sisters may still languish in their native land, often under tyranny, poverty, and misery. Or maybe they died on the way here, never to touch our shores. Some have seen friends and family get tortured and murdered by their own government for daring to do things we take for granted every day.

For those who risked everything simply for the chance to become an American...what kind of feelings do they have for the flag when they Pledge of Allegiance the first time? Go to a naturalization ceremony and see for yourself, the tears of pride, the thanks, the love and respect of this nation, as they finally embrace the American flag as their own. Ask one of them if it would be OK to tear up the flag.

Last, you should get the signature of a mother. Not just any mother. You need a mother of someone who gave their life for America.

It doesn't even have to be from a war.

It could be a cop. Or a fireman. Maybe a Secret Service or NSA agent. Then again, it could be a common foot soldier as well. When that son or daughter is laid to rest, their family is given one gift by the American people; an American flag. Go on, I dare you. Ask that mother to spit on her flag.

I wonder what the founding fathers thought of the American flag as they drafted the Declaration of Independence? They knew this act would drag young America into war with England, the greatest power on earth. They also knew failure meant more than just disappointment. It meant a noose snugly stretched around their necks. But they needed a symbol, something to inspire the new nation. Something to represent the seriousness, the purpose and conviction that we held our new idea of individual freedom. Something worth living for. Something worth dying for.

I wonder how they'd feel if someone asked them permission to toss their flag in a mud puddle?

Away from family, away from the precious shores of home, in the face of overwhelming odds and often in the face of death, the American flag inspires those who believe in the American dream, the American promise, the American vision...

Americans who don't appreciate the flag don't appreciate this nation. And those who appreciate this nation appreciate the American flag.

Those who fought, fought for that flag. Those who died, died for that flag. And those who love America love that flag. And defend it.

So if you want to desecrate the American flag, before you spit on it or before you burn it...

I have a simple request. Just ask permission. Not from the Constitution. Not from some obscure law. Not from politicians or the pundits. Instead, ask those who defended our nation so that we may be free today. Ask those who struggled to reach our shores so that they may join us in the American dream. And ask those who clutch the flag in place of their sacrificed sons and daughters, given to this nation so that others may be free.

For we cannot ask permission from those who died wishing they could, just once...or once again...see, touch, or kiss the flag that stands for our nation, the United States of America.

MRS NATHAN PILKINTON
(nee Megan Hays)

Megan Elizabeth Hays and Nathan Stuart Pilkinton, both of Lubbock, were united in marriage on Saturday June 8th, 2002 at 7 P.M. in Westminster Presbyterian Church in Lubbock, with Pastor Paul Cunningham officiating.

South Plains Hobby Club

By: Sandra Lass

The South Plains Hobby Club met at the home of Flora McNeill on Wednesday, May 8, 2002 at 2 P.M. President Peggy Roberts called the meeting to order. Members present included Shirley Bell, Donnie Bowman, Dorthy Cummings, Gleyne Earle Cummings, Sandra Lass, Carolyn Marble, Nancy Marble, Peggy Roberts, Virginia Taylor, Juanita Teeple, Beth Tye, Shirley Weldon and Mamie Wood. President Peggy Roberts introduced Flora McNeill; Floydada resident and world traveler, and thanked her for inviting the Hobby Club members into her home and sharing her experiences and items she has collected during her travels. Flora McNeill began by describing a series of pictures she had hanging on the walls of her den. She said that a local artist, Ted Bell, had painted the pictures and that one of them was a picture of a house in which she and her husband had once lived. Ms. McNeill took the group on a tour of her house where she had displayed various items she had purchased while traveling. As our group passed through Ms. McNeill's hallway, we noticed a very large map of the world on one of the walls with a colored pin marking each place she has visited. The pins were too numerous to count and virtually covered most of the continents of the world.

As she described items she purchased while traveling, Ms. McNeill said that she enjoyed meeting people, learning about other cultures and sharing her experiences with others. She said that she liked folk art and showed us several items including a layered felt picture of a bird crafted by a six year old who lived on an island in the Panama Canal and a "tea sipper" from Argentina, which is a carved wooden flared-lip cup set in a metal holder and containing a straw. Ms. McNeill said that tea was brewed in the cup, passed from person to person for each person to take a sip. Ms. McNeill showed the group a very small hand-painted box made from camel bone which she purchased in the Middle East and a pair of earrings made from ostrich shell which she bought in Australia. She showed the group a four thousand year old wooden bowl that she got in New Zealand and a hand-embroidered table runner from Portugal.

While on one of her trips to China Ms. McNeill purchased a cinnabar metal vase that had been coated with shellac many times before carving designs on it. She said that it can take as long as two years to treat and make one of the carvings and that this type of art has existed since the twelfth century. Ms. McNeill showed the group a cup from China that had a picture of a dragon on it. She said that she had been told that when filled with hot water the picture of the dragon turns in to a picture of the Great Wall of China. She then said that after refreshments she would demonstrate the transformation to us and that this would be the first time she had tried it. Ms. McNeill said that some of the best bargains could be found on the cruise especially since there are no taxes on items purchased on board the ships. She said that she had purchased many items this way as well as in the various countries that she visited. One type of collectable that she was most interested in finding was statuettes of the Madonna, which she has found in virtually every country she has visited.

Ms. McNeill said that she has collected some very unusual items right here in the United States. She described a camping trip she once took to Arkansas, where for a set fee she and her husband dug up and filled their pickup bed full of quartz. She added that the trip for quartz gathering was not one of her favorites but that the place had a beauty of its own. She showed us a pair of earrings made of ashes taken from Mt. Helens and a hand painted porcelain container from Philadelphia that was made in the nineteenth century for ladies to place hair removed from their combs and brushes. The hair was used as filling for pin cushions.

After refreshments were served, Ms. McNeill demonstrated that picture of the dragon indeed changed to the Great Wall of China when she put hot water in the cup. The group thanked Ms. McNeill for her tour of the world and sharing with us some of its wonders and presented her with a gift. The next meeting will be "Breakfast at Mamie's," to be held on Wednesday June 12, 2002.

McCarty and Ray pledge nuptials

MRS CHESTER LYLE RAY III
(nee Deidra McCarty)

The Ranch House Bed & Breakfast was the setting for the wedding ceremony of Deidra De'Ann (Dede)McCarty and Chester Lyle (Butch) Ray III. The couple was united in marriage on Saturday, May 18, 2002 at 6:30 p.m. in Canyon.

Officiating the ceremony was Bro. Frank Duckworth retired minister and family friend.

Parents of the bride are Richard (Dickie) and Debra McCarty of Lockney. Parents of the groom are Chester Ray II and Darlene Ray of Clovis, New Mexico.

The rolling canyon and ranch land was the background for the outdoor ceremony. The altar area of the backyard was decorated with clear Christmas lights, flowers and greenery on the archway. Clear Christmas lights also decorated the fence around the backyard. The chairs were decorated with white bows and greenery.

The bride's grandparents and mother were ushered in while Eva Maria played. Both grandmothers wore navy blue dresses. The mother of the bride wore a short-sleeve ivory dress with a floral stretch lace overlay. The burgundy and navy blue were colors brought out in the floral overlay.

The bride, escorted to the altar by her father, wore a traditional white gown. The sleeveless bodice was embroidered lace with pearls and sequins. The empire waist fell into a princess style skirt. The skirt was white satin and fell into a chapel length train. Her veil was white tulle attached to a headband of pearls. The bride made her bouquet and those of the bridal attendants. The bride's bouquet was made of burgundy, navy blue and white silk roses and greenery matted on a heart-shaped rattan basket top. For something new, she wore her wedding gown; something old, a dinner ring made from the bride's late paternal great-grandmother's wedding rings. Something borrowed was a strand of pearl necklace from the bride's mother and a pair of pearl earrings from the brides maternal grandmother. Something blue the bride wore a blue garter. She wore pennies in her left shoe bearing birth dates of the bride and groom and their wedding year.

The father of the bride was attired in black wrangler jeans, a black tuxedo jacket, white tuxedo shirt, black boots and a black bow tie.

Shelly Jones of Richardson, was Maid of Honor and Terri Fortenberry of Paradise, Texas, Matron of Honor. The bridal attendants, wore burgundy floor length a-line satin dresses with short sleeves and scoop necklines. The bouquets were of burgundy, navy blue and white silk roses and greenery matted on a round wicker mat. Shelby Vick of Smyer, niece of the bride, was flower girl. Brittany Ray, daughter of the groom, was the ring bearer. Both young ladies wore matching floor length dresses of navy blue. The dress bodice was square necklines; double straps over the shoulders and the empire waist fell into an a-line skirt. Matching white sandals completed their attire.

The groom and his attendants were attired in black tuxedo jackets, black wrangler jeans, white tuxedo shirts, black bow tie and black boots. The groom was escorted to the altar, by his father and groomsmen. Serving the groom as best man was Jason Babitzke and groomsman was Chris Landers, friends of the groom.

Flower corsages and boutonnières were of burgundy red roses and greenery.

Ushers were Raymond Clark and Jeremy Strickland, both friends of the bride and groom. They were attired in black wrangler jeans, white tuxedo shirts and navy blue satin vests and, bow ties.

Musical selections included, "You Had Me from Hello" after the bride was given in marriage, and "I Cross My Heart" after they exchanged their vows.

The reception was held in the new barn adjacent to the house. The register table was adorned with a bouquet of burgundy red roses and alstrameria and fern; bridal book, pen and a large picture of the bride. A black wrought iron wagon held gifts for the bride and groom.

The bride's table draped with a white underlay and lace tablecloth held a three-tiered wedding cake. The cake was traditional white cake decorated with fresh burgundy red roses and white alstrameria trailing down the cake tiers. The cake topper was a bride and western-attired groom standing in front of a gold heart with a white rope lasso entwined. Crystal punch bowl and serving dishes; a dozen, burgundy red roses, nuts and mints completed the table decorations. Serving at the bride's table was Lisa Cudd and Katie Clark friends and co-workers of the bride.

The groom's table draped in an ecru linen tablecloth held a German chocolate sheet cake with chocolate frosting, silver coffee service and silver vase holding white alstrameria flowers and fern. Completing the decorations, was the unity candle and matching tapers. Serving at the groom's table was Andrea Bennett of Edmondson and Amie Herman of Lockney, both cousins of the bride.

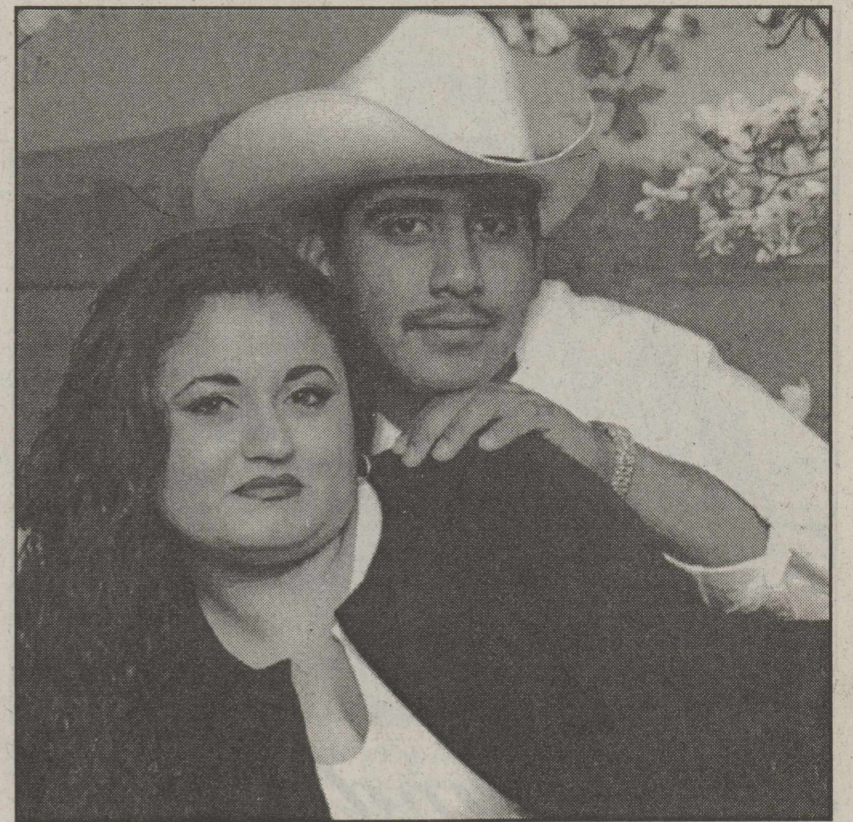

While the song, "You and I", played, the bride and groom lit the unity candle from the matching tapers lighted by the parents of the bride and father of the groom.

The bride chose a black and white checked blouse and black capri pants bordered with black and white check on the bottom of the pants and white sandals for her travel attire. The groom was attired in denim blue wranglers and navy, khaki and white short sleeve western shirt.

The couple will make their home in Canyon.

The National Center for Educational Accountability is a joint project among the University of Texas at Austin, the Education Commission of the States, and Just for the Kids.

In October of 2001 the Center became an Organized Research Center under the University of Texas at Austin. The Center identifies high performing schools, investigates their practices, and makes the information publicly available to educators. This improvement model is now being implemented in six states.

Lockney baseball team All-Star bound

By David Fairchild

The Lockney baseball program has had a lot to look back on the past three years, two District Championships and three consecutive trips to the Regional Quarterfinals. Too add to this there were two seniors who were selected to participate in the Texas High School Baseball All-Star Game.

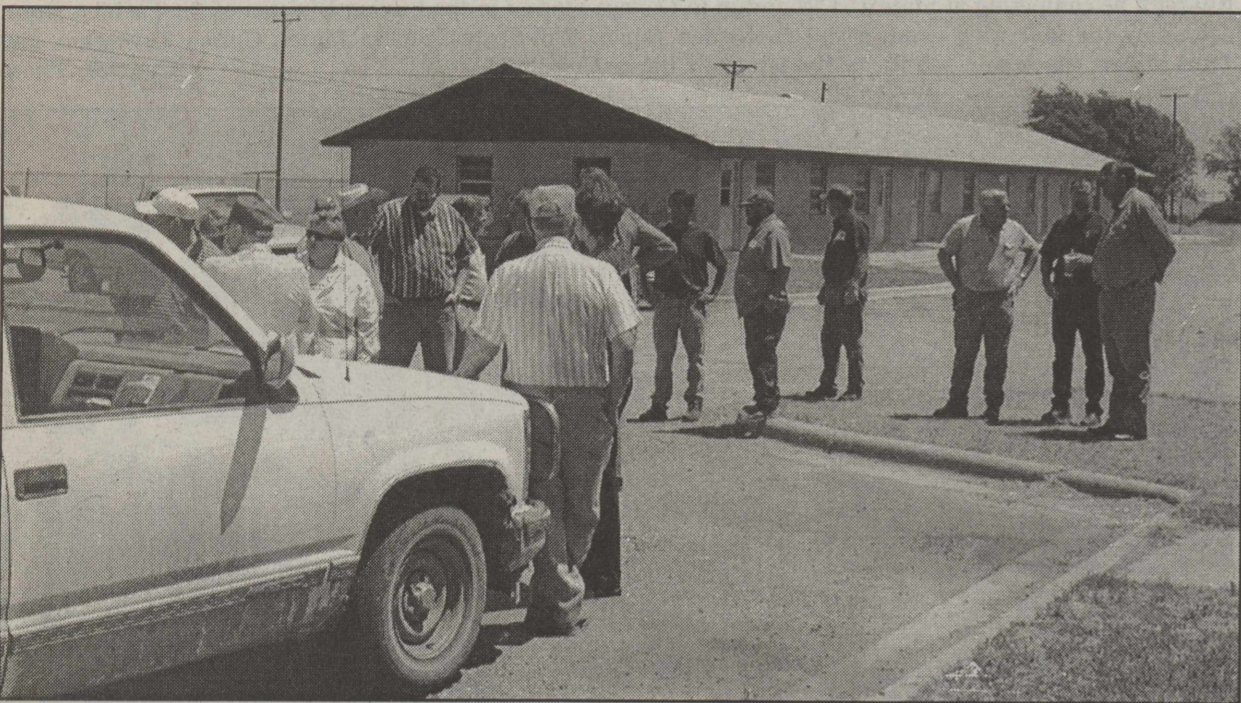

Two years ago it was Jordan Lambert who participated in the 2000 All-Star Game in Arlington. This year, Jared Lambert participated in the "Greater West Texas All-Star Game" at Lubbock Christian University. The year ended with Jared being coached by his high school coach, David Fairchild, who was selected to coach the North Squad. Jared who has been a four year starter for the Longhorns had been offered a baseball scholarship but is undecided on which school he will attend.

Chas Westbrook, a three year starter for the Longhorns, will participate in the Texas High School Baseball All-Star Game in Round Rock June the 15th. Chas has had several baseball scholarships offered as well, but is undecided at the time.

I am real excited for these young men and the accomplishments they have received. The Longhorns will lose six seniors that have played a very important role in the success that the Longhorns have had.

Floyd County Extension Service Tips on Turf series by J.D. Ragland

Once again, Texas Cooperative Extension is offering an eight week series of articles on "Tips On Turf". These articles offer helpful tips to homeowners addressing lawn, garden and tree care management practices. This is the third article in the series. We will discuss "Choosing Bermudagrass As A Turf and Proper Fertilization".

Bermudagrass is a popular turfgrass for lawns, golf courses, athletic fields and general utility areas. Found in Australia, Africa, India, South America and the southern United States, it grows well in nearly all soil types and resists drought. Bermudagrass ranges from very fine to coarse leaf texture, and it has a low, dense growth habit. It spreads both above ground (stolon) and below ground (rhizomes), which makes it very aggressive and able to wear well and compete successfully with most weed species.

The biggest negatives to bermudagrass are that it tends to creep into flower beds, and it does not tolerate shade well. Do not select bermudagrass for lawns that are shady.

Coarse-textured varieties such as Common bermudagrass can be established from seed, sprigs, plugs or sod. They require less management than some other bermudagrass varieties, but normally produce a lower quality lawn.

Hybrid varieties such as Tifway 419 have a finer texture and produce very high quality lawns. However, they require more maintenance than coarse-textured varieties. The hybrid varieties do not produce viable seed and must be grown from sprigs, plugs or sod.

Dwarf varieties such as Champion or Tifdwarf are finely textured grasses for use on golf course greens that require intensive management. They are not recommended for home lawns.

Follow these guidelines for mowing, watering and fertilizing your bermudagrass lawn, as well as for controlling weeds, insects and thatch, and eliminating compacted soil. Because many factors can affect turf growth, these are general recommendations.

It is best not to bag grass clippings. They decompose quickly and return many nutrients to the soil. If you do bag the clippings, consider composting them to use in the landscape.

Fertilizing
 Begin fertilizing after the grass turn green and there is little chance of a late frost. Have the soil tested to determine what nutrients your lawn needs. For information on soil testing procedures, contact your county Extension agent. If you do not have the soil tested, use a complete fertilizer with a 3-1-2 ratio of nitrogen, phosphorus and potassium (Examples: 15-5-10, 21-7-14, etc. Every bag of fertilizer has the nutritional analysis printed on the bag).

Apply 1 pound of soluble nitrogen per 1,000 square feet of lawn every 4 weeks, or 1 1/2 pounds of slow-release nitrogen fertilizer every 8 to 10 weeks, or 1 1/2 pounds of slow-release nitrogen fertilizer every 8 to 10 weeks. To determine the amount of fertilizer to apply to equal 1 pound of nitrogen per 1,000 square feet, divide 100 by the first number in the fertilizer analysis. (To determine the amount needed to apply 1.5 pounds per 1,000 square feet, substitute 150 for 100.) For example, if you are using a 15-5-10 fertilizer, then 6.6 pounds of fertilizer per 1,000 square feet will be needed. 100/15 = 6.6

Then determine the size of the area to be fertilized. If your lawn is 5,000 square feet, it will need 33 pounds of 15-5-10 fertilizer (5,000 / 1,000) x 6.6 = 33 pounds of fertilizer

Next we will take a look at lawn mowing and watering recommendations.

Harmony E.E. Club News

Members and guests met June 4 in the club room with Melissa Long as hostess. Roll call was answered by a funny cooking story. Minutes of the last meeting were read and approved.

Guests were introduced and it was announced that the next meeting will be at the home of Lucille Miller, June 18, 2 p.m.

Melissa reported on the 4-H activities which included 31 members going to College Station to enter the contests. They will have entries in 11 contests and one candidate for a scholarship.

Karen Miller announced about the State Meeting in Amarillo this year. If you are planning on attending this meeting, reservations must be in by July 15.

The program was given by three 4-H members who will be entering contests in college station. Rachel Miller have her three minute talk on her project of growing food and food preparation. She prepared a black-eyed pea dip which we got to enjoy as part of the refreshment plate.

Melissa Dunlap prepared a spinach salad which we also enjoyed sharing. She also showed the garment she had created in the Specialty Category. It consisted of pedal pushers, jacket, and top.

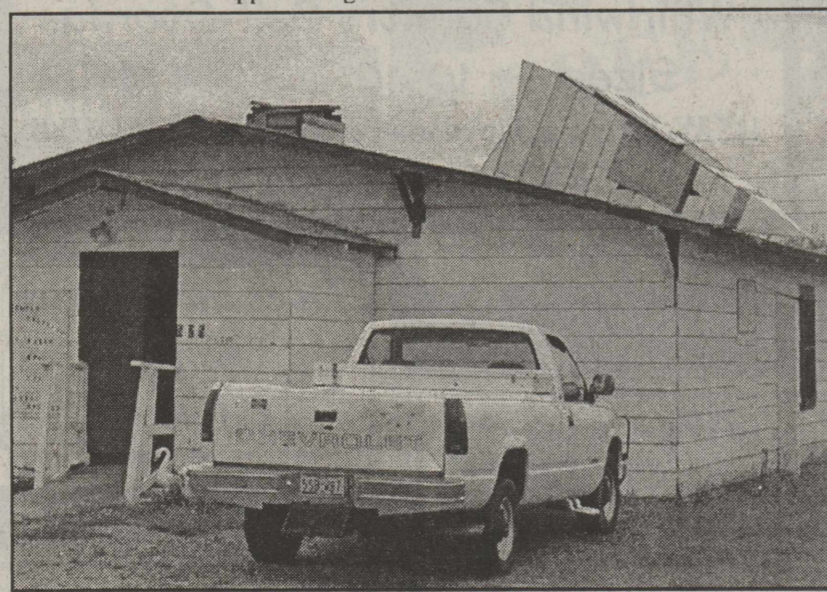

Laura Miller showed her dressy garment consisting of red pants, jacket with lining, a black and white cylindrical print to be worn with black shoes piped in white. The girls were planning to model their outfits but because of the approaching bad weather, the garments were only shown.

We enjoyed the delicious dip and salad along with the hostess refreshments of chips, miniature chocolate treats, banana bread and punch and coffee.

Those attending were: Juanita Pool, Vivian Curtis, Maye Williams, Ruth Scott, Imelda Ramsey, Lucille Miller, Doris Snodgrass, Karen Miller and hostess Melissa Long. Guests were Sharon Bussey, Jovita Montes, Laura Miller, Rachel Miller and Melissa Dunlap.

We had a storm with rain, high winds, and some hail. We had another one a little later with lots of heavy rain, hail, but not so much rain. I think all the cotton was destroyed as well as wheat not harvested.

Give Thanks

By: Edward G. Marks
When the day is done and the sun has gone to rest;

In the still of the evening when life is at it's best.

Give thanks to God for the day the ones He has already given.

For the day was filled with treasure and God's glory did abound.

His goodness warmed us like the sun and His blessings were all around.

So be thankful for what you have and thankful for who you are.

For God knows each one of us just like He knows the stars.
