Rehab Center has new appearance

Floydada Rehab and Care Center has taken on a whole new look and "atmosphere".

Gone is the "hospital" aura when you walk in the door. Now visitors are greeted with a beautiful colorful aquarium, luxurious furniture, and a relaxed nurse's "study".

The staff of Floydada Rehab have been in the "redecorating mode" since October 2002, and want to show off their work at an Open House, May 16th, from 10:00 a.m. until 5:00 p.m.

The staff has worked hard at creating a "home atmosphere" for residents--starting with the residents input on how they wanted their hallways, rooms, and bathrooms decorated.

Hallways are now decorated in "themes". One hallway, now called Rosewood Lane, is decorated with floral motif with matching wallpaper borders and "nick-knacks". Instead of room numbers, residents now have addresses of "One Rosewood Lane", etc.

Bathrooms are also fully decorated in themes and bright colors. One resident likes to fish and his bathroom was decorated in a nautical theme, with sailboats and red and white stripes.

Another resident loved "Betty Boop", so her bathroom has a "Betty Boop" theme.

A resident donated her husband's "cowboy" collection which was used to decorate a hallway into the "Western Star" boulevard. The walls are full of brands, saws, and a variety of cowboy paraphernalia.

The specialty Alzheimer's unit is now called "Cottage Acres" and is decorated to reflect that theme.

The dining area, now called Kountry Kitchen, feels more at home with a steam "serving table".

"We now let them make their choices on what they would like to eat after they view the choices in the steam table," said Administrator Sandra Seago. "We serve them their choices at their table."

The specialty unit also has a newly remodeled "Country Diner".

The large shower room has been redone to reflect a "warmer look--not hospital look", said Seago.

The small, but cozy, beauty shop is now decorated in a wall to wall "Americana" theme.

Individual residents rooms now resemble what your own room at home could resemble.

Besides the inside changes--the outside is going through some changes too. Residents are now getting into growing their own food.

A "raised" garden has been installed with the help of the City of Floydada who hauled in the dirt, and Lighthouse Electric who donated the framing poles.

Interested residents are given a "plot" to grow their own vegetables. When the vegetables are ready to eat they will be served to the residents.

"We have not just changed the look," said Seago. "We have changed our language. We refer to the center as a "home", instead of a facility.

We let the residents make their own decisions. We know longer 'tell' them they have to take a bath at a certain time. We ask them when they would like to take their bath. We ask when would they like to get up and when would they like to go to bed, and when they would like to eat. We are here to serve the residents."

The "home" will be branching out into a new look in the front of their building soon.

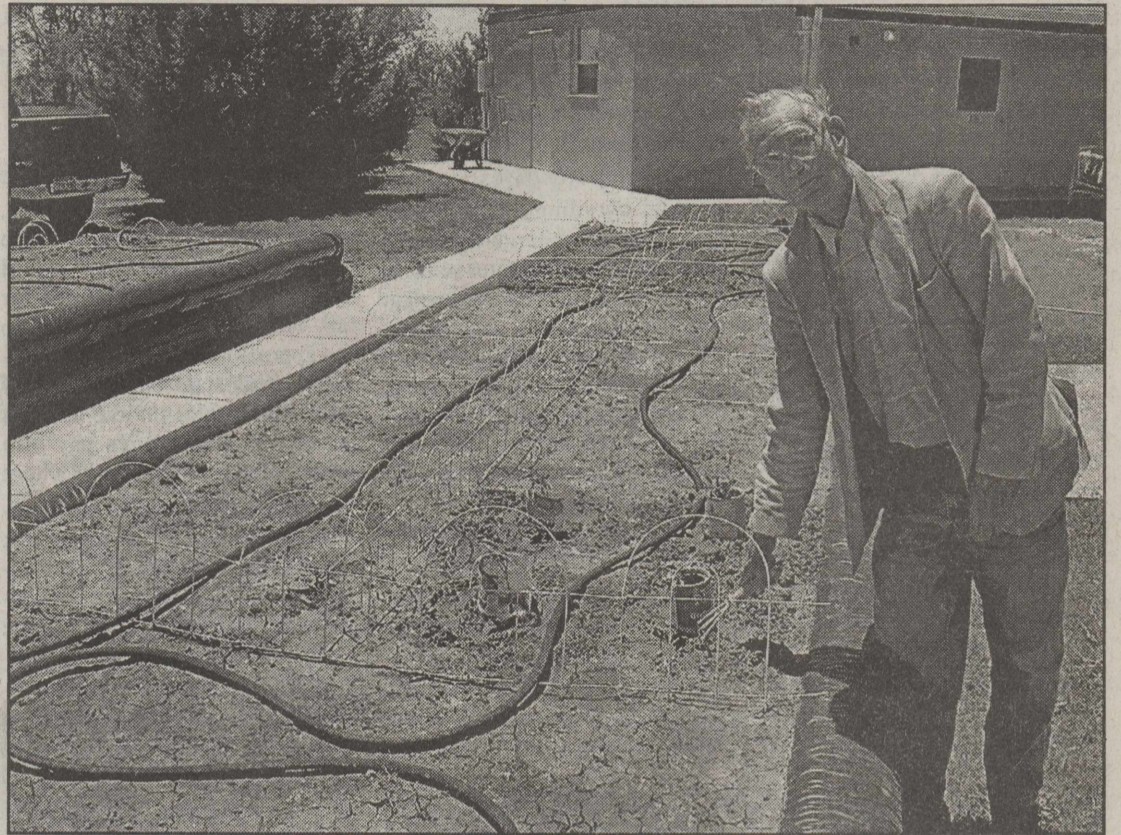

"So many of our residents enjoy sitting outside and they have commented on the fact that all they have to look at is car bumpers," said Seago.

"We are going to pull up the concrete parking lot closest to the front door and put in a fountain, trees, and bushes. There will be a sidewalk to stroll around the garden."

Seago is currently seeking a grant to help with expenses. Anyone wishing to help with this project either with labor or a donation of money, plants, or trees, etc., should call Seago at the Rehab Center.

"We hope we have a lot of visitors at our Open House," said Seago. "The residents love our changes and they would be tickled to death to show off their rooms and bathrooms."

"We want the community to feel welcome here and we would enjoy having them come and join us in our 'Home Sweet Home Celebration, May 16th.'"

Nance retires after 32 years at Providence Farm Supply

Friends gathered last week to celebrate the retirement of Joe Nance, who has managed Providence Farm Supply for 32 years.

A plaque was presented to Nance which read, "For 32 Years of Exemplary Service Operating Providence Farm Supply and Farmers Day Care Facility".

"The job got to be just as much of a Day Care as it was an elevator," laughs Nance, who is known for his sense of humor. "The farmers would sit around every day in the office and dole out advice."

"That advice was worth as much as it cost. We could run everybody's business except our own. I don't know why people didn't hire us to advise them."

Nance is sincere when he says he will miss the job and the company of his "advisors". His friends are also sincere when they reflect on how much they will miss Nance in his familiar office.

Nance says that through the years he has seen the elevator handle 75,000,000 lbs. of grain, and better, per year--and as little as 20,000,000 lbs. per year.

"When I started we had about 30-40 customers," said Nance. "The number of farmers has decreased, but the same amount of farms are being farmed."

Nance grew up in the Lone Star Community and graduated Lockney High School in 1952. He moved to Lockney and lived there for 17 years while raising his family.

Joe and his wife, Peggy, now live in Plainview. They have three daughters: Jody Stamps, Tonya James, and Amy Singh; and two granddaughters, Sarah and Shanna.

Nance said he was custom spraying before he started working at Providence. "I stopped by the elevator one day and mentioned that I was going to quit spraying. The manager, Wayne Chiddix, offered me a job."

Five years later Nance was the manager, and "the rest is history," says Nance.

"It all just sort of fell into place--I guess it was meant to be."

Loyal customers and friends surprised Nance with a "retirement party", Wednesday, April 30, at Trinity Lutheran Church in Providence.

Nance was brought to the party after being "arrested" by Constable Ray Macha.

Nance was "delivered" to the church. When he spotted all the cars parked outside, the surprised

Nance remarked, "I didn't know I owed this many people money."

Grilled burgers were served and presents were handed out.

Besides the plaque Nance received gift certificates and a money jar. He was also presented with a straw hat with an embroidered band that said, "Chevo" on one side, and "Old Fart", on the other.

Nance explained the hat. "There was a Mexican man that used to work for the Stoerners. He couldn't speak very much English but he used to call me 'Chevo', which is the Spanish word for goat. I was dubbed that because of my whiskers I think. The phrase got picked up by the Mexicans in the area because they thought I looked like an 'old goat'----or smelled like one--I'm not sure which."

Nance was also presented with the old clock that hung on the office wall, because as friends said, "He was always watching the clock!"

When asked what he was going to do while enjoying his retirement, Nance said, "Whatever she (Peggy) tells me to! She handed me a list of things to do and I thought it was the Sears and Roebuck Catalog!"

Emergency Farm Loans now being accepted at FSA office in Floydada

By Becky Rainer

Applications for emergency farm loans for damages and losses caused by excessive rain, hail, flash flooding, flooding, and high winds that occurred on June 4, 2002 are being accepted at the Farm Service Agency (FSA) located in Floydada.

Farmers may be eligible for loans of up to 80 percent of their actual losses or the operating loan needed to continue in business, whichever is less. For farmers unable to obtain credit from private commercial lenders, the interest is 3.75 percent.

As a general rule, a farmer must have suffered at least a 30 percent loss of production to be eligible for an FSA emergency loan. Farmers participating in the Federal Crop Insurance program will have to figure in proceeds from those programs in determining their loss.

If the Lord is willing, and the creeks don't rise, to high, we will try our luck at writing again. The doctors seem to think the mental exercise won't upset their plans, so we shall see what we shall see.

Anyhow, it was not the best of times to be under the weather. A great deal of water has gone under the bridge since we last commented on matters, and the matters were things that should have been commented on. The war in Iraq, the trouble throughout the Middle East, the Korean mess, the Texas legislature meeting in Austin, the pending (and continuing) battles over taxation, education and whatever, all provided useful fodder for comment. But the surgeons' priorities took precedent, as they always do, so we had to await their pleasure.

We have written a long (2,600 word) piece for the web page concerning the possible future of matters in the Middle East. It turned out to be too long for a column in the paper, so we have asked Alice to put it on the web page, where it can be accessed by those who might be interested. Just go to the Hesperian website and follow instructions. As always, we welcome responses.

Meanwhile, back at the ranch. The Texas Legislature is faced with the usual problem. Too many demands for money and too little money to go around. What to do? Raise taxes? Cut spending? Hold the line? We have our thoughts, which we will get to shortly.

For many years we have railed about the Texas tax structure. It is not the worst in the nation, by any means, but it could, in our opinion, be made better. It could be made a lot better. One of the ways it could be made better is to change things so huge corporations like the Austin American-Statesman would have to pay franchise taxes just like small businesses who do not have the luxury of being advised by tax lawyers. On any given Sunday, the Austin paper pulls over a million dollars from local businesses and sends the profit off to Atlanta, Georgia, but when it comes time to pay the corporate franchise tax, they are raising in action. They have formed themselves into a "partnership" for the express purpose of avoiding certain taxes. There are other large hypocritical media conglomerates in Texas doing the same, taking advantage of a law designed to aid the formation of small businesses in the state. That does not keep them, or course, from writing thundering, unsigned, editorials advising everyone else just how the cow ate the cabbage.

And then there's the matter of the sales tax. In city after city across Texas we have the spectacle of municipalities "begging their neighbors" by granting all sorts of tax incentives to certain large retail outlets, knowing full well that because of their actions, many small businesses in surrounding smaller towns will go under, and the smaller towns themselves will suffer accordingly. The small businesses, and the small communities, do not have the money to grease the palms of important legislators. Any time the Legislature begins considering the tax situation, you can rest assured that certain voices will be heard more loudly, and more clearly, than others. The loudest voices will be those with the most money to hire lobbyists. They have every right to do just that, but if the Legislature really wants to tackle the tax thing, and we can think of no better time to do it, the matter of sales tax rebates will be, or should be, front and center.

We have written of this particular problem, and solution, many years ago. One very simple change in the tax laws would solve the problem once and for all. The sales tax rebate ought to be apportioned out to communities in this state on the basis of how much sales tax the citizens of those communities pay into state coffers, regardless of where they live, rather than to that community where the collection box calls home. A citizen in Hale Center, for instance, who goes to Wal-Mart in Plainview to buy some nuts and bolts would see that portion of his sales tax normally related to the city where the giant retailer holds forth, go instead to his hometown of Hale Center. The pot holes that might get fixed, or the policeman who might get paid, would be in Hale Center, instead of Plainview. That one simple change would be of tremendous value to small communities. It would not cost any legislator any votes, since he represents a certain number of votes, no matter where they live within his district. But to be honest about it, the vote might cost him some campaign contributions, since the major retail outlets might see the accounting procedure as an added burden, one they do not wish to endure. But we see no real problem. Computers can now figure rebate destinations in the blink of an eye. The only real objection ought to come from those city councilmen who gave away their citizens' tax dollars in the first place, in incentives that should not have been granted. We are under no illusion that the change would be easy for legislators. But the big need would be in legislative courage, a commodity usually in short supply around Austin.

The word around Austin is that Gov. Rick Perry does not want the legislature to get itself tied in knots this session, with many other issues needing to be handled. But sooner or later the legislature will have to address the entire tax issue, and when it does we hope someone is around who has enough intestinal fortitude to make the right calls.

Lockney Senior Citizens News and Menu

By Vera Jo Bybee
Annabell Bramlet and Dorothy Stapp went on the LCU tour of the Eastern States. Covering 10 states in 10 days. They saw so many interesting sights in every state I will not be able to list them all. In Virginia they toured Williamsburg and all that area and got to see the biggest Naval Base in the U.S.A. at Norfolk. They toured Churchill Downs in Kentucky where they hold the Kentucky Derby. In St. Louis Missouri they saw the Golden Arches. A trip they won't forget anyway soon.

Charles and Molly Huffman were in Abilene recently to visit their daughters and families.

Bud Casey is in town for a week's vacation and will be eating at the Center.

Henry Ford and S.J. (Smiley) Williams are both in the Lockney Nursing Home.

I received an email message from a former teacher, Mary Glen Huff Degge. She said, "reading the Lockney News made up for all the tears I caused her to shed when she taught me typing in 1947". She almost gave up teaching after that year but she kept on teaching for 27 more years.

Now Mrs. Degge, you know we just had a little personality clash that caused me to play "hooky" a lot from your class. After that year I graduated as a "honor student" in 1948 and can still type.

This week's Senior Citizen profile is on Gene Belt.

Gene was born on April 21, 1925 three miles north of Lockney to John and Rose Belt. He attended schools at Prairie Chapel and Lockney. He married Claudia Pyle on July 11, 1942. They were the parents of two sons, Johnnie and Ronnie. Claudia and Ronnie are now deceased. When he returned from the service he began farming again and has farmed in Floyd County for 61 years. He and his wife Betty live on their farm north of Lockney and spend some time at the Cotton Center farm. Thank you Gene for being this week's Senior Citizen.

In late 30's and 40's Lockney was a booming little town. People were just recovering from the depression. Everyone was just alike, poor.

However on Saturdays after they took their (weekly?) bath in a #3 wash tub they all went to town to visit with their neighbors. We had a "picture show" run by a Mr. O'Hearn and later Brad Seal. We kids all went to see the serial or continued piece. Then it was on to the "Drug Store" owned by Sam Miller. Estes Woodburn worked there too. All of us kids would hang out at the magazine and funny books rack. Mr. Miller never ran us off either.

Other "drug stores" were Greens owned by Dr. Greer and his sons, Doyle and Wayne. Later came Fred Byrd and then we started calling them Pharmacies cause they took out the soda fountains. Other pharmacist were Payton Powers who was married to Estelle Byers, Wilbur Mize and now we have Danny Clark.

More about old times in Lockney next week.

Bertrand named finalist in children's art contest

Hallie Bertrand, of Floydada, has been named as a finalist in the Treasures of the Texas Coast Children's Art Contest, sponsored by the General Land Office.

More than 6,700 entries, from children in grade K through 6, were received.

Each year, the Texas General Land Office, invites Texas school children to participate in the annual art contest. The purpose of the contest is to encourage young artists to learn more about natural resources along the Texas coast, and to help spread the message, "Don't mess with Texas beaches".

Two winners are chosen from every planning region (24 regions) in Texas. From the 48 winners, one grand prize winner is chosen. The winning drawings appear together on a calendar that is distributed throughout the state.

As one of the 48 winners, Bertrand received two tickets to the Texas State Aquarium in Corpus Christi, two all-day passes to Schlitterbahn Waterpark Resort, and a certificate of recognition from Patterson and a denim journal from Keep Texas Beautiful. Her artwork will also be on exhibit at the Texas State Capitol.

The artwork submitted to the Children's Art Contest is used to support and promote volunteer participation at the Adopt-A-Beach Cleanups.

Kirk places at State UIL meet

Students from across the state of Texas gathered in Austin last weekend for the UIL State Academic Meet held each year on the campus of the University of Texas. To be eligible for the meet, students must compete and advance at both the District and Regional levels.

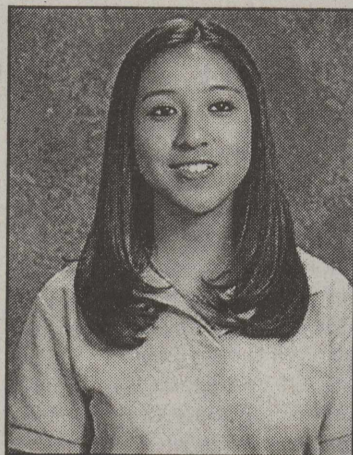

Forty-one students competed Saturday, May 3, 2003 for top 2A honors in Literary Criticism. Each year, all Literary Criticism contestants in the state read and are tested over a designated novel, play, and list of poetry. These contestants must also have an excellent background in and understanding of literary terms and devices, authors and their works, Nobel and Pulitzer Prize winners, historical time periods of American, British, and World Literature, and they must be able to read and critically analyze a variety of literature.

This year, Chelsea Kirk of Floydada placed eighth in the state in the highly competitive 2A Conference which, along with Conference 5A, posted the highest scores for Literary Criticism in the state. Chelsea and her teammates Maggie Hilburn and Melissa Dunlap advanced to Regional competition as a wild card team, and Chelsea had the third highest individual score giving her the opportunity to compete at state.

Chelsea is a senior at Floydada High School and is the daughter of Layne and Susan Kirk of Floydada. Chelsea was coached by Mrs. Hope Crabtree. Chelsea's performance makes her eligible for a Texas Interscholastic League Foundation scholarship to be awarded in June by the University Interscholastic League. Chelsea plans to attend the University of North Texas at Denton in the fall.

SANDRA RENDON, formerly of Floydada, has been selected for membership in the Lamar Middle School Chapter of the National Junior Honor Society.

Membership in this organization includes more than academic success. Students are exemplary in their school citizenship, effective leadership and reliable service.

Invitation to membership in the National Junior Honor Society is one of the highest honors to be bestowed on a student at Lamar Middle School.

Sandra is the daughter of Armando and Sylvia Rendon of Irving. Sandra is the granddaughter of Teodoro and Jessusa Rodriguez of Floydada, Tomas and Eudelia Rendon of Lockney and great grandmother is Vicki Rendon of Lockney.

Morris wins tournament

Saturday April 26 was a beautiful day at Childress and Baylor Lakes, the fish were present, because the water was clear enough to see them. The fishermen were there trying to catch them, but even though all three ingredients were present for a very successful fishing tournament, they just didn't mix on this day. We were reminded of the old saying--"A bad day fishing is better than a good day anywhere else!" A lot of fun was had by all that participated.

Linden Morris won the tournament with one black bass weighing in at 1.46 pounds. Out of a field of 14 fishermen and 7 hours of fishing, this was the only fish caught for the day. There were 3 young men trying to win the youth trophy, but could not catch a fish long enough to weigh. In the sixteen year history of the tournament, this was the least number of fishermen and by far the least number of fish caught.

Although the number of men fishing were down and the number of fish caught was down, the money for our scholarship fund is up, thanks to the generous donations from the citizens of Lockney. It appears that we will be able to present six $500 scholarships to the graduating seniors of Lockney High School at the awards assembly on May 23.

Thanks Lockney for your support of this worthy project.

If there are any questions or if there are those who would like to make a contribution to the scholarship fund, please contact one of these board members: Preston Belt, Lonny Hooten, Monty Teeter, Ted Young, or Eddie Teeter.

Farm loans being accepted

Applications for loans under this emergency designation will be accepted until November 12, 2003. Farmers should apply as soon as possible. Delays in applying could create backlogs in processing and possibly over into the new farming season.

Keaton wins at State

The Texas State UIL Literary Competition was held May 1-3 on the campus of the University of Texas in Austin. Competitors from across the four state regions gathered to compete in a wide variety of competitions.

Rusty Keaton, senior at Lockney High School received a fourth-place medal in Editorial Writing competing against eleven other class 2-A competitors. Keaton qualified for the state meet by placing 2nd at regional competition in Abilene. This is the highest placing ever achieved by a journalism student from Lockney.

"Rusty's achievement is a result of hard work and listening to those who offered him critiques on his writing," said Lisa Mosley, LHS Journalism coach. "He wrote more papers this year than he has collectively over the past three years, and it paid off in a big way."

Keaton had qualified for regional competition in several events for the past three years. This is his first time to advance to the state level.

He is the son of Charles and Donna Keaton of Lockney, and the grandson of Don and Sue Chessir of Floydada, and Claude & Mildred Keaton of Ransom Canyon.

Cottonseed Assistance Sign-up now underway at local FSA

By Shawn Wade

Officially, the application period for the program runs from May 2 through May 23, 2003. Completed forms must be submitted to FSA headquarters by May 23, 2003 in order to be considered for payment.

All companies that ginned 2002-crop cotton are eligible for program payments. Payments are expected to be made in early June 2003.

The 2002 Cottonseed program provides some $50 million to offset 2002 crop cottonseed price shortfalls.

Payment rates will be determined based on the number of applications and resulting tonnage of cottonseed for which assistance is requested. USDA estimates that payment rates for the 2002 program will be in the neighborhood of $8.00 per ton, or about $3.00 per bale.

Ginners who do not receive their application by May 5 should contact Gene Rosera, FSA Price Support Division, at (202) 720-8481, or by e-mail at: gene_rosera@wdc.usda.gov
