County Fair opens next week in Muncy

The 50th Anniversary of the Floyd County Fair will kick off at the Unity Center, in Muncy, August 14-16.

Admission to the Fair is free, however there will be a $5.00 fee for admission to the Saturday night entertainment by Jimmy Burson and "Texas in the Swing".

Records show that the Floyd County Fair had its beginnings somewhere around 1906. The Fair continued until 1929.

In 1929 the Fair was held in the B.B. King Building on the north side of the square.

According to the Fair catalog, some of the entertainment events were a baseball game between the Fort Worth Cats and the Lockney independents, a carnival, a buffalo-riding contest, a water fight between Floydada and Lockney Fire Departments, and a fireworks display every night.

Attendance was good in 1929 but it did not top the record 10,000 people on the closing day in 1928.

Department Entry books open up for exhibitors, Wednesday afternoon, August 13, at 1:00 p.m. and will stay open until 7:00 p.m. Judging starts at 7:30 p.m. Department competitions include: crafts, art, photography, embroidery, knitting, crochet, quilting, sewing, latch hooking, and cross stitch.

Judging will also take place for canned fruits and vegetables, breads, cakes, candies, pies, and cookies.

A noted photojournalist, David J. Sams, will be the photography judge this year. He is a Pulitzer prize nominee and a contributing photographer for Field and Stream and Texas Parks and Wildlife Magazines.

There are divisions for youth and adults in the various departments.

Agriculture Entry books open at 4:00 p.m. and close at 7:00 p.m., on Wednesday.

Thursday, August 14, the Flower Department Entry Books open at 9:00 a.m. and close at 12:00 p.m. Judging begins at 1:00 p.m.

For more information on submitting your exhibit, contact: Charlene Brown, Gail DuBois, Regina Nelson, Elaine LaBaume, Angela Ragland, Donnell Gowens, James Hinton, or Aileen and Charles Williams.

BLASTING THE HEAT -- Fireman Rodney Hunt aids his son, Kameron, and a friend in the Lockney Volunteer Fire Department's water polo game at Old Fashioned Saturday last weekend in downtown Lockney. Teams of helmet wearing children and firemen blasted a target suspended in the air and got a little wet in the process. The popular event helped children cool off as the temperature climbed over 100 degrees. (Staff Photo)

Children came from all over west Texas and surrounding states to participate in the pull. Public Service Announcement from Floydada Emergency Medical Services

Due to the number of people coming to and calling the Ambulance station seeking medical attention, it has become a major concern of the EMS staff that no one will be there when needed and feel it is necessary to inform the public that the station is not always staffed. Emergency care is available twenty-four hours a day but not at the EMS station.

You are taking a risk that no one will be at the station to help you with the emergency at hand. We are glad to help you if someone is there but if it is a serious emergency you may risk further injury or illness by coming to the station. If you have an emergency please call 911 and we will come to you. This is what Emergency Medical Services do for you. Calling 911 will always get someone to the emergency in a rapid manner and save time when it counts.

If you do go by the station and no one is there please go to the sheriff's office and they will get a staff member for you. The goal of the emergency medical service is to start and continue life saving treatment and provide safe rapid transport to the appropriate hospital.

Call 911 or 983-4901 for emergencies.

Call 983-3004 for EMS business and/or questions.

Courtroom Activities

In County Court, July 29, 2003:

Citizens invited to take part in Leadership program

The Lockney Economic Development Corporation, Opportunity Lockney, invites residents of Lockney and the surrounding area to participate in the initial class of Leadership Lockney, a program designed to enhance and develop Lockney's leaders of tomorrow.

Based on the highly regarded Texas Rural Leadership Program, Leadership Lockney is designed to provide the knowledge base, practical skills, and personal contacts necessary to effectively lead in rural communities.

The program will begin on Sept. 5 and will meet from 9 a.m. until 4:30 p.m. on the first Friday of each month through April, with graduation in late April or early May. Each day-long session will include lunch, and all materials are provided as part of the program fee. Cost of the program is $200, or $22 per month. Partial scholarships may be available from some Lockney businesses.

"The Opportunity Lockney Board of Directors recognized the need to provide leadership training as an opportunity for those who would like to have more knowledge, skills, and personal contacts to benefit them in leading existing or new community organizations," said Dr. Bobby Hall, LEDC president.

"Leadership Lockney is designed to do just that, by allowing participants to interact with government, civic, academic, economic development, business, and social leaders not only from the Panhandle and South Plains, but also from across the State.

"This program will be very interactive as participants not only listen to presenters, but also have the opportunity to participate in discussions and projects. Each session will also include an on-site tour of key organizations in the area, ranging from businesses to health care organizations, governmental offices, educational facilities, and more.

"A tremendous amount of work has gone into this program, and we are bringing in outstanding presenters from across the region and state to lead the sessions. I think those who have participated in leadership programs in other communities will recognize how powerful leadership training can be in enhancing all aspects of our community."

Individual topics to be addressed during Leadership Lockney include communication, media, conducting effective meetings, motivation, city and county government, leadership styles and skills, problem solving and conflict management, strategic management, workforce development, volunteerism, economic development, grant funding, future trends, and developing allies for organizations and communities.

Tours will include area media organizations, hospital/health care, city and county government, education, agriculture, and retail business.

Leadership Lockney hopes to enroll 15-20 participants in its initial class. The program has garnered the support of the Lockney Independent School District, which is accepting applications for high school students wishing to enroll. Applications are available from the LISD offices, and partial scholarships for students are available.

"Anyone interested in developing their leadership skills, discovering the many state resources available to help Lockney businesses and organizations, and making personal contacts with business and community leaders in West Texas should participate in Leadership Lockney," said Hall.

Applications, plus an informational brochure and tentative schedule of events for each session, are available at City Bank in Lockney. For more information, call the Opportunity Lockney office at 652-8895, or contact Hall at 652-1127.

Information is also available from Opportunity Lockney board members Brenda Johnson, Nell Glasscock, Phillip Glasson, Jeff Terrell, Abel Luna, or Jack Covington.

Senate Democrats seem determined to prove they are smarter than House Democrats. House of Representatives Democrats fled to Ardmore Oklahoma so they wouldn't have to belly up to the bar and do their duty. Our Senate Democrats, on the other hand, headed for Albuquerque, New Mexico. The climate is much better in Albuquerque, we're told, than either Ardmore or Austin.

We have friends in Albuquerque, they having gone there from Odessa, but they paid their own way. And they didn't flee from responsibility in the process. In fact, they went there because a sense of responsibility took them there. That sense of responsibility is absent among Texas Democratic legislative members at the moment.

Still, a sense of responsibility is no more prevalent among Texas editorial board rooms than among Senate or House Democrats. The flight of the Democratic bumblebees generates little or no criticism among Texas newspaper editorialists. The Austin American-Statesman is a good example. The paper's editorial writers can do nothing but rave about the courage of the absent legislators. Nor can the paper, for that matter, ever admit that it came into existence as the mouthpiece for a post-civil war Democratic Party. Over the years the party's zigs and zags (are you old enough to remember, gentle reader, when some Democratic Party organizations held so-called Jay Bird Primaries in which negroes were not allowed to vote?) were matched by the newspaper's editorial zigs and zags. In that regard, nothing has changed. It still finds favor with any position that will inure to the benefit of the Democratic party, no matter what that position might be at any given moment.

We still think our idea (of stripping legislators of their office when they refuse to obey their oath and represent their constituents) is a good idea. Obviously there will be no such constitutional amendment passed by a legislature that can't even muster a quorum (a proposed constitutional amendment requires 100 votes in the House, for instance, before voters get a crack at it)

Somebody once said that in war, truth is usually the first casualty. Politics is a kind of war, fought with other weapons, but like real war, truth also takes a beating. Much editorial comment has centered, of late, on what is called Senate "tradition" that allows Senators to park a bill at the top of each calendar, and then require a 2/3 majority vote to "suspend the rules" in order to take up other proposed legislation. The result, of course, is to allow a minority of Senators to determine the flow of legislation. Obviously, Senate Democrats don't want that changed. Being in the minority, it becomes very important that "tradition" be observed. Except. There's always the "exception."

Our memory of the legislature goes all the way back to the Speakership of some guy named John Lindsey in the 1950's, with a Lieutenant Governor named Ben Ramsey, in whose tenure a guy named George Parkhouse of Dallas was the closest thing to a Republican, and Parkhouse was no Republican. There has never been a 2/3 "tradition" of near unanimity among members of the Senate on redistricting matters (except when the body had no Republican members), as long as I can remember. That was certainly not the case during the time when Bill Hobby, or Ben Barnes, or Bob Bullock, sat in the Lieutenant Governor's chair. None of those Lieutenant Governors wanted to see more Republicans in the Texas Senate, or the U.S. Congress. So they did what they could to see that it didn't happen, including the gerrymandering of the state's Congressional Districts to favor Democratic chances. And they made certain that Democratic will prevailed simply by ignoring the so-called "tradition" in order that a minority of Senators could not block action.

It would be nice, but is obviously not required, for editorial writers to at least mention the truth, if only in passing.

Quite frankly, we have always thought the 2/3 rule in the Senate was nothing but a dodge, a cop-out, a fraudulent excuse for members who did not want to do their duty until sufficient money was amassed in appropriate places to make a vote worthwhile. Why the rule should be afforded some sort of sacred status by Texas daily editorial writers is beyond us. Why they should also reward cowardice with editorial praise is beyond us.

There are honest men and women in the Senate, but there are also those who think much better with greased palms. In fact, there are Senators who became Senators for no reason other than money. Both Senators and House members make much of the fact that they don't make much...salary, that is. But they have seen to it that the salary is only a part, a very small part, of their total take home pay. There's the overly lucrative retirement account, in which their legislative retirement income is based not upon their own salary, but upon the excessively generous salary of District Judges. (Now the salary of District Judges is upward of $130,000 per year) There's the per diem pay, over and above the salary, there's the pay received from "investigating" this or that problem. All in all, one can understand why so many State legislators spend so much money to acquire a position that theoretically pays so little.

And then, when the mood strikes, some head off to Ardmore Oklahoma, or Albuquerque, New Mexico, and take offense when people expect them to stay hitched and do their job.

Lockney Senior Citizens News

By Vera Jo Bybee

Thanks goes to Virginia and David Sissney for making our pretty membership cards.

Gene Newton can drive now and is back at the Center taking lunch, dues and memorial money. Come by and see her or mail your money to Senior Citizens. Box 82, Lockney, Tx. 79241 and you will get one of our pretty new membership cards made by Virginia.

Recently Jody and Rusty had as their guest for lunch at the Center their granddaughter, Candace Baccus of Lubbock. She came through on her way to Washington State and left her dog here for Jody to dogsit.

Jerry Paul and Elsa Cooper's guest for lunch at the Center Monday was his aunt Margaret Collier of Floydada.

Guest of Wanda Carthel for lunch at the Center Monday was her daughter, Sherry and daughter of Lubbock

Donnie, Becky and I were sitting on the front porch last Saturday when a white suburban pulled up and stopped. It was Eldon Fortenberry and his mother Ruth of Hereford. They had been to Floydada to the Fortenberry reunion and they stopped by Lockney on their way home so Ruth could meet me or see me in person cause she hadn't seen Donnie or I in over twenty years. She said she enjoyed my article so much and just wanted to put a face to the person that was doing the writing. Oh me I wonder what her thoughts were. Did I look older or younger than she thought. I didn't ask her. Ha!! But I appreciated her and Eldon stopping by so much.

Slick Stennett fell Saturday and broke his hip. He had surgery Monday at Covenant in Plainview to repair it. Teresa is staying with her son Gary and wife Debbie, our niece, who live in Plainview.

Lou Aston a former Lockney resident is recuperating nicely from carotid artery surgery at the Elm Brook Retirement home in Lubbock.

Gladys Bobbitt and daughter Donna recently visited her brothers, sisters, aunts and cousins in Bakersfield, Ca. They were gone for about nine days. She was really proud to see that her brother Jack Hall who is recuperating from open heart surgery with 5 bypasses is doing really well. She and Donna really had a nice time.

Margie Cypert celebrated her 80th birthday Saturday at her mother's, Bessie Starkey, home just west of Flomot. Her Starkey siblings were all there to help her celebrate. Her granddaughter Tracy Otto and husband Jim and baby son Christopher of Ft Worth also spent Saturday night with Marg and Homer.

Lucy Dean Record has been busy during the month of July entertaining in Colorado.

She plays the piano or keyboard with two men musicians. One who plays a banjo is from Austin, and the other one is from La Juna, Co. They entertain weekly at the Rocky Mountain Lodge in Antonita, Co. She also plays for the Sunday Church Service at the Lodge and at the singing a longs in her cabin there.

On July 28 Lucy Dean and the band played in the Creede area at a dinner celebrating the 50th anniversary of the Korean War armistice. Also at Creede on July 29 they played at a community event.

It was a fun July but Lucy Dean says it is always good to be back home in Lockney

Our sympathy goes to Lahoma Rowell Clower of Seminole on the death of her husband Ira. His burial services were held at Cotton Center last Thursday. They are the parents of five children. Four daughters and one son. Lahoma was raised in Lockney and graduated from High School here. She is the daughter of Henry and Viola Rowell also of Lockney.

FISD welcomes the start of 2003-2004 school year

By Jerry Vaughn, Superintendent

School bells will have been ringing 113 years for Floydada ISD with the start of classes on August 18, 2003. The Floydada Independent School District has grown from 20 students to over 1800 students at its peak enrollment. Approximately 1020 students are expected to attend classes at the campuses of FISD on the opening day of the 2003-2004 school year.

The administrative staff is very excited about the upcoming school year. FISD is committed to the improvement of student achievement in all areas as we move into this new and exciting school year. In order to achieve this goal, FISD administration and staff welcomes the many opportunities to work with the parents and the community to provide the very best for our students.

Teachers and staff will report to duty on August 13, 2003 at 8:30 with a general faculty and staff meeting being held at the A.B. Duncan cafeteria. When the staff reports, there will be several new additions to the instructional staffs of our campuses. We are very pleased with the quality of teachers we have added to each campus. The new teachers will be a great compliment to an already outstanding teaching staff and will enhance the quality of instruction for the students of Floydada ISD.

Mr. Wayne Morren, high school principal, is very excited about the upcoming school year

Joining Mr. Hobbs on the Junior High staff will be Kathy Seymour, Math; Freddie Tobias, PE; Elizabeth Young, Special Education. Regina Orr, will be joining the Junior High staff as a teaching assistant.

McGaugh named as Eagle Scout

By June McGaugh

Red, white and blue decorated the Floydada Masonic Lodge on Saturday, July 26 where Boy Scout Troop 357 held an Eagle Scout Court of Honor for Jay McGaugh.

Life Scouts Derrick Griggs, Brian Odom and B. J. Chappell conducted the flag ceremony.

"There is a Hero," by Billy Gilman was played and some of the lyrics were brought out by Nick Long. Nick compared the lyrics to the Eagle Rank, noting there is a fire inside yourself, always trust yourself, there is strength in a willing hand and there are victories in your life that are never planned. He also noted that only 3 to 4% of Scouts achieve their Eagle Rank.

The Eagle Rank requires earning 6 ranks and 21 merit badges. Nine of these are the scout's choice and the National Council mandates 12. The boys must finish all of these requirements plus the Eagle Scout project, and the Board of Review by their 18th birthday.

Jay has earned 26 merit badges, the 50 miler award, top scout award and has been active in fundraisers.

Nick commented that Jay learned something different from each requirement and these were earned and not given. Nick challenged Jay to live his life by the scout pledge, motto and slogan. Jay's project consisted of locating, marking and placing flags at veteran's graves in the Floydada Memorial Park on Veterans Day and Memorial Day.

Scoutmaster Bobby Gilliland began the Light of the Badge ceremony by asking several members of the court to speak on behalf of the candidate.

Assistant Scoutmaster Curtis Emert certified that Jay qualified for the required merit badges of the Eagle Rank. Assistant Scoutmaster Jerry Chappell reviewed Jay's leadership in the troop school affairs and other clubs.

Assistant Scoutmaster Curtis Emert said that teachers, pastors, parents, neighbors and others were interviewed and had told him that in Jay's daily life he has practiced the principles of the Scout Oath and Laws.

Life Scout B. J. Chappell requested that Jay be informed of his responsibilities before the Eagle Scout Badge was awarded.

1st Class Scout J. C. Chappell assisted and as the white of the Eagle Badge was lit, Life Scout Derrick Griggs said, "May the white of your badge remind you to live with honor."

The Blue of the badge was lit and Life Scout Brian Odom said, "An eagle is loyal to his ideas. Blue is the emblem of loyalty."

As the red was lit, Life Scout Derrick Griggs stated the red should remind him of courage.

After the entire badge was lit, Life Scout Brian Odom defined that the final obligation of an Eagle Scout is service.

Scoutmaster Gilliland asked Jay to stand and asked if he accepted these responsibilities. Jay responded, "Yes Sir."

Mr. Long gave Jay the formal charge of Eagle Scout.

Jay presented his mother with her Eagle pin and a kiss. He pinned the Eagle tie tac on his father.

As the audience came to attention and saluted, June McGaugh had the honor of pinning the Eagle Scout Badge on her son.

Jay then turned to the audience and stated he would do his best to live by the honor given to him. He presented his Scoutmaster, Bobby Gilliland, with patches from the 2001 National Scout Jamboree; Assistant Scoutmasters Curtis Emert and Jerry Chappell with handmade tomahawks; and Nick Long with an eagle wings plaque. These tokens were presented in appreciation for their support, encouragement and help in obtaining his Eagle rank.

Everyone dismissed and enjoyed browsing Jay's scouting memorabilia of plaques, pictures, derby cars, scrapbooks, etc. Refreshments of cake, punch, mints and nuts were served by Robbie Odom, Darla Chappell, Barbara Gilliland and Judy Griggs.

Students tour New York and Washington, D.C.

By Sherry Colston

On Saturday June 7, a group of students and adults connected with Floydada Junior and Senior High Schools, left by plane for Washington D.C.

We toured the Smithsonian Museums and took the Monument Tour (Vietnam, Korean, Iwo Jima, Lincoln, Jefferson, and FDR) at night on Saturday. On Sunday, we toured Arlington National Cemetery and the Changing of the Guard, Mount Vernon and Alexandria. Monday morning we met our Congressman Mac Thornberry and his staff on the steps of the Capitol and had our picture made with him. We went on a staff led tour of the Capitol Building to learn more about our nations law making body and its history.

We departed Washington D.C. Monday June 9, by chartered bus, after touring the Air and Space Museum. We arrived in New York City in time for dinner and a tour of the Empire State Building. It was beautiful at night.

Tuesday morning we toured New York City and saw the Twin Towers Ground Zero, Wall Street, Greenwich Village and Central Park and the famous Strawberry Fields Memorial. In the afternoon we toured the Statue of Liberty Island and Ellis Island. Tuesday night we saw the Broadway play, "42nd Street" with Tom Wopat.

Wednesday was more sight seeing and a free afternoon spent in Manhattan. Some went to FAO Schwartz for some shopping. Others went to St. Patricks Cathedral and Saks Fifth Avenue and Rockefeller Center. That night we went to another Broadway show, "Beauty and the Beast".

Thursday we went to the Metropolitan Museum of Art before departing for home.

Cotton Market Weekly
A service provided by Plains Cotton Cooperative Association

Technical factors drove the cotton market lower on the New York Cotton Exchange this week in volatile trading. Most market attention was focused on funds and other speculators as USDA's weekly export sales report and mill use data released by the United States Census Bureau failed to provide any surprises.

As expected, a tremendous amount of shipments were concluded in the week ended July 24 as mills rushed to take advantage of the high Step 2 payment rate before the current marketing year ends. According to Cotton Outlook, the total of 338,500 bales of U.S. upland cotton shipped during the week was the fifth largest of the 2002-03 season and marked an unprecedented seventh time that weekly exports of upland cotton have exceeded 300,000 bales in a single marketing year. More importantly, however, the week's turnover pushed total shipments beyond USDA's forecast for the season with one more week remaining.

Sales for the week were termed "mediocre" by the trade as only 58,700 bales were sold, 61 percent below the previous week and a 42 percent drop from the four-week average. Net sales of 104,600 bales were made for delivery in the 2003-04 marketing year that begins Aug. 1.

One trader said that sales of new crop

U.S. cotton could slow as the acceleration in shipping cotton abroad due to the high Step 2 payment may lead to a short-term glut of U.S. cotton overseas. In addition, observers noted that foreign buyers still have to get used to the transition to the new and higher cotton prices.

Activity improved on the spot cotton scene as online sales by Texas, Oklahoma and Kansas producers increased in the five trading days ending July 31. A healthy 8,297 bales were sold compared to the previous week when 1,520 bales changed hands. Prices received by producers selling their cotton online ranged from 48.37 to 54.06 cents per pound versus the previous week's 48.28 to 52.48 cents per pound range. In other news, the National Cotton Council annualized U.S. textile mill cotton use at 6.56 million bales based on data gathered by the U.S. Census Bureau for the month of June. The figure was down sharply from the 7.94 million bales reported in June 2002 and lower than the 6.76 million bale estimate for May of this year. Although not friendly, the figures were not as bad as most analysts feared.

"The report simply confirms that U.S. mill use is weak and probably will get weaker," an analyst commented. "All interest has to be focused on exports for the consumption of the U.S. crop."

That export interest remains largely focused on China. The All-China Federation of Supply and Market Cooperation, on behalf of the government, said that China's cotton inventories are expected to shrink to 7.9 million bales in September, the lowest level in five years, because of declining output and increasing domestic demand. Therefore, China's cotton imports are expected to be much higher this year because of the anticipated rise in demand.

Meanwhile, The National Agricultural Statistics Service (NASS) reported the condition of the U.S. cotton crop was unchanged on balance during the week ended July 27 compared to one week earlier. NASS rated 55 percent of the crop "good to excellent" which also was equal to the rating one year ago. The Far West made a good advance, but with the exception of Tennessee, the Memphis Territory deteriorated.

rated. Texas also suffered a modest downturn.

Signing up for the 2001-2002 Crop Disaster Program has been a challenging process for many growers, but not for the reasons many might expect.

Yes, the program is complicated, but most information is already in the computer and accessible to the folks at the Farm Service Agency.

In fact, one of the more challenging aspects of the process has just been getting into the office to complete the application. Fortunately, the overlapping priorities have been juggled quite nicely by FSA employees and the process continues to move forward.

One aspect of the program that producers do not need to worry about right now is whether or not they will run out of time to sign-up for the program before they can get down to the FSA office. Officially, the 2001-2002 CDP sign-up window ends August 25, 2003 and leaves plenty of time for setting appointments and getting to the FSA office.

Due to the number of applications that some counties must handle, some offices are already scheduling CDP appointments for after the August 25 date.

It is important to note that the regulations governing the program DO provide for an extension of the sign-up period. The rules allow the FSA Deputy Administrator the discretion to set a later date as necessary.

It also provides growers who did not qualify for benefits for the crop loss portion of the program, time to study whether they can qualify for assistance based on reduced crop quality.

The 2001-2002 Quality Loss program will be figured on a bale-by-bale basis comparing the average quality of each bale to an average quality for the county. A 20 percent decrease in the average loan value of a bale compared to the county average will trigger a payment under this section.

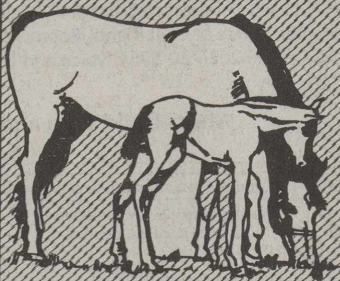

Texas Cooperative Extension Risk Management Specialist Jay

Yates has prepared a short summary of the Quality loss program to help producers make this determination.

It is important to note that producers who only suffered quality losses will have to contact FSA in order to determine their eligibility.

Thought for the week - If there is righteousness in the heart, there will be beauty in the character.

If there is beauty in character, there will be harmony in the home.

If there is harmony in the home, there will be order in the nation.

If there is order in the nation, there will be peace in the world. -Chineses Proverb
