BESSIE GLOVER

Glover celebrates 103 years

Bessie Glover was honored on her 103rd birthday at Floydada Rehab and Care Center, January 28.

Bobby Gilliland, mayor of Floydada, presented Mrs. Glover with proclamations from President George Bush, Governor Rick Perry and Willard Scott.

Mrs. Glover lived at home in Floydada until the age of 99 years old, when she fell and broke her hip. She is now confined to a wheelchair.

Bessie was born January 29, 1902 in Jones County, Texas. She was raised on a farm in Anson, and moved to Floyd County with her parents, John Abner Hatley and Nora Lee Gray Hatley, in 1917.

According to the Floyd County History Book, the Hatleys moved to Floyd County because there was more room to raise a large family.

Bessie had two brothers and two sisters.

"We came to pull cotton and we lived in a tent," said Mrs. Glover. "It was supposed to be temporary, but we decided to stay. The land was sandy and there were lots of grass burrs," said Mrs. Glover.

Bessie married Jessie D. Glover on October 21, 1920. After they married they lived in the Baker Community until 1924, when they moved to Mayview where their first child, Jesse Tresman was born in 1924. In 1929 they moved to Dougherty, a year after the school was built. While living there, a daughter, Bessie Juaneal, was born in 1929.

After three years the family moved to Fairview Community and lived there from 1932-1935 and then moved in 1936 to the Campbell Community.

For 10 years the Glover's farmed in the Campbell Community. They moved back to Dougherty Community in 1946 where Jessie continued to farm and Bessie babysat "nearly all the children in Dougherty".

In the County's history book, Jessie recalls an offer by Frank Dougherty.

Dougherty told Glover he would give him all the land he wanted if he would just farm with a tractor. The offer was turned down because Mr. Glover wasn't ready to start using power machines. He wanted to keep using his mules.

The Glovers were named Pioneer Couple at the 1986 Old Settler's Day Reunion in Floydada.

Mr. Glover died in 1991. Joining Bessie at her birthday celebration were her son, Tresman Glover, of Madill, OK; a daughter, Juaneal Krambeck and husband, Phil, of Denison, TX; Granddaughters, Mrs. Wes Campbell, of Floydada, and Leah Lackey, of Coleman.

Also present were: a great-grandson Wesley Campbell and wife, Tracy, of Floydada; great-granddaughters, Donna Protsman, of Idalou, and Sonya Campbell, of Lubbock; great-great-grandchildren, Devin Penny, Virginia Protsman, and Kendra Protsman, all of Lubbock, and many friends and family.

Law says slow down for emergency vehicles

As of September 2, 2003, Texas drivers were operating under a new law meant to protect emergency workers parked on the side of the road. Many drivers never knew the law was in affect and now Texas Highway Patrol Troopers will be concentrating on reminding drivers to pull over and slow down.

As of Monday, February 14, drivers pulled over by DPS troopers for traffic violations will receive a flyer that reminds them to slow down or move over for stopped emergency vehicles that have emergency lights activated.

This reminder packs an added punch because it's the law. Since the slow-down or move-over law took effect on Sept. 1, 2003, DPS has written 2,304 citations and 14,404 warnings to drivers who have violated the law. Although the law has been in affect since September, troopers continue to see drivers who do not slow down or move over for emergency vehicles with lights activated, including police, emergency medical service and fire vehicles.

The slow down/move over law requires drivers nearing stopped emergency vehicles with emergency lights activated to either slow down or change lanes. Specifically, the law states a driver must either slow down 20 miles per hour below the speed limit or vacate the lane closest to the stopped emergency vehicle that has emergency lights activated if the road has multiple lanes traveling in the same direction. (If the speed limit is below 25 mph, the driver must slow down to 5 mph.) Drivers should only move over if they can safely and legally do so; otherwise, they should slow down.

"Our Highway Patrol troopers spend a large part of their time working on highways and roads with vehicles speeding past," said DPS Director Col. Thomas A. Davis Jr. "Just the slightest slip of the wheel can endanger them. This law requires drivers to give them and other emergency vehicles the space they need to perform their duties safely."

A violation is punishable by a maximum fine of $200. If the violation results in property damage, the maximum fine increases to $500.

The Floyd County Commissioners met Monday, February 14, and voted unanimously to wait until Friday, February 18, at 9:00 a.m. in special session, to approve a 60 day trial contract with the Hale County jail for the purpose of housing future Floyd County prisoners.

Floyd County Judge William D. Hardin told the commissioners, "We must have a legal contract from Hale County before we can begin transporting prisoners, even on a trial basis. We still are under contract with the Spur facility and I have been assured they will take care of Floyd County."

Commissioner Craig Gilly stated, "Let's not abandon Spur." Commissioner Jon Jones agreed, "Spur will be there for us. Let's don't burn our bridges."

According to Commissioner Lennie Gilroy, Floyd County can leave their Spur prisoners at the Spur facility. Any newly arrested prisoners can be taken to Hale County on a trial basis. "Sheriff David Mull of Hale County told me they have more than 50 beds empty in their recently reopened wing of their jail. They are actively trying to find someone to commit to using these beds. The 60 day trial proposal from Hale County will cost Floyd County $38 per prisoner, the same as what we are now paying per prisoner at the Spur unit. Hale County's original price was $42 per prisoner. Sheriff Mull has agreed to drop the price to $38 a day to compete with Spur," said Gilroy.

Gilroy explained to the commissioners, "Our officers are having to wait a long time for Spur to come and pick up our prisoners. Spur only comes to Floydada once a day, whether it is for a court appearance, to the medical clinic, or to pick up a prisoner."

"I recommend we try Hale County and transport our prisoners to them. It is only 25 miles from Floydada, compared with 70 miles to Spur. I recommend we try Hale County on a trial basis. We could maybe even use

FISD considers closing CCLC

By Darwin Robinson

The FISD Board met Tuesday, February 8, and heard a report by Superintendent Jerry Vaughn for the immediate need (1) to decide to close, or not to close, the Caprock Cooperative Learning Center (CCLC) by the end of this school year, and (2) the need to purchase two additional modular buildings.

Superintendent Vaughn told the board, "We need to decide what we are going to do with CCLC at our next scheduled board meeting on March 10th. Over the years, as budgets and funds became more limited, the other Districts (Plainview ISD, Lorenzo ISD, Ralls ISD, Crosbyton ISD, Idalou ISD, Roosevelt ISD, Lockney ISD, Petersburg ISD) all have chosen to drop from CCLC. During the 2004-2005 school year, Floydada ISD and Ralls ISD are the only participating Districts. Ralls ISD will not be a part of the program after this school year."

"Therefore, with the CCLC fund balance depleted and FISD as the only remaining school, we must evaluate the CCLC program and decide which direction we need to travel. Certain programs offered at CCLC are mandatory and cannot go away, such as, D-AEP and the PAC center.

Both are required by TEC and the state for us to provide these services," stated Vaughn.

"Some things offered at CCLC, which are optional, are Credit Recovery, Drop Out Recovery and the Parenting Program."

Vaughn said, "To continue operating CCLC will cost FISD $335,917 annually. Our current annual contribution to CCLC is $102,350. We would have to increase that by another $233,567 annually."

Vaughn added, "To move CCLC to the FHS campus, would require an additional portable or short-term housing. Available to us are two modular buildings with 8 classrooms each in the Dallas area for $269,077 each, as a one time cost, or there is a lease purchase available."

The CCLC staff would be reduced from five teachers to three teachers to handle the D-AEP and PAC rotation and would save about $60,000 yearly, according to Vaughn.

Other advantages of moving CCLC to the FHS campus would be to incorporate Credit Recovery and Dropout Recovery already taking place at FHS, making it much more cost effective, according to Vaughn.

The urgency of this issue was explained by Vaughn, "Due to our planning stages for the 2005-2006 school year, which is already going on, we need to know what we are going to do about CCLC as soon as possible."

Vaughn also pointed out the need for Science Lab upgrades and more classroom space needed at both FHS and FJHS.

In other matters, the board unanimously approved a $16,336.81 bid, by Butch Fincher of Petersburg, to grade and gravel the bus parking space on the west side of the football field at FJHS.

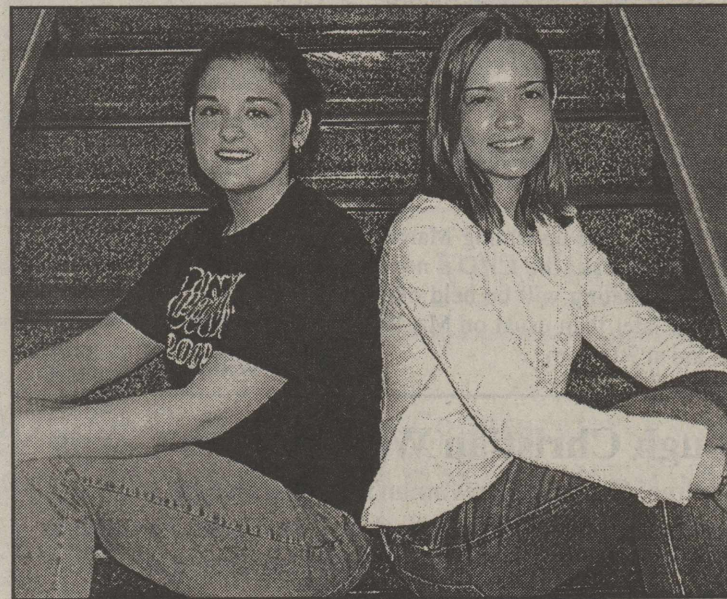

The board approved May 7, 2005 as FISD Trustee Election day.

FISD Business Manager Sharon Rainwater gave the board a Cash Flow Statement update and a Tax Statement. The Cash Flow update showed an Average Monthly Expense at $580,000 and an Ending Cash Balance on January, 2005 at $6,058,382.88.

The board recognized the Students, Educator and Support Staff of the Month. They were: Students of the Month: John David Duus, Gr.1, A.B. Duncan Elementary; Jesse Cervera, Gr. 4, R.C. Andrews Elementary; Joey Martinez, Gr. 7, FJHS; David Mancilla, Gr. 12, FHS; Educator of the Month, Dana Herrington, FHS; and Support Staff of the Month, Vikki Yeary, Federal Programs/Technology.

TEXAS CAPITOL SCHOOLHOUSE--Floydada Jr. High was one of 14 schools in the state to participate in the Texas Capitol Schoolhouse in Austin. The event took place in the Capitol Building in the Rotunda. Two teachers and four students were asked to share their new capabilities through the computer grant received last summer. This took place during legislation in order to give legislators a chance to witness some of the technology that is being used around the state, which in turn might help them make an informed decision about funding. The students did an excellent job sharing their skills and represented Floydada well. Letter to the Editor

Dear Editor,

It is understandable why an individual is opposed to the operation of a commercial dairy located 500 feet upwind of their home. It is interesting, however, to understand the facts about the dairy facility proposed near Lockney and how it could affect everyone.

The proposed facility would: (1.) be located 3 1/2 miles southwest of the city limits of Lockney, (2.) maintain 4,000 head in a confined animal feeding operation, (3.) employ less than 20 people, (4.) consume or contaminate more than 73 million gallons of water each year, and (5.) would accumulate and stockpile 11,388 tons of dry manure.

The TCEQ (Texas Commission on Environmental Quality) has identified dairies of this type to be major sources of water and air pollution. The TCEQ considers commercial dairy operations to be capable of producing more odors and pollution than similar sized feed-yards. Studies have implicated airborne particulates and chemicals from concentrated animal feeding operations to be primary sources of health problems in citizens living downwind of such facilities.

It is our opinion that this concentrated animal feeding operation will be a detriment to the community of Lockney. The proposed facility would: (1.) be responsible for odors, dust, insects, and airborne chemicals blown directly to all portions of the city (2.) cause additional health problems for those with asthma, allergies, or other breathing disorders (especially the very young and the elderly) (3.) make Lockney undesirable for anyone considering moving here because of the odor and other problems (4.) replace responsible established citizens with minimum-wage-earning dairy families that may require state financial support and put additional burdens on the school and hospital districts and (5.) monopolize or pollute what little ground water we have left.

If these issues are important to you, if you feel this proposed facility might cause a nuisance to your established way of life or enjoyment of your own property, or if you simply have concerns regarding this proposed facility, write the TCEQ, voice your opinion, and request a public meeting be held to discuss your concerns. Letters must refer to General Permit Authorization No. TXG920014, must be received no later than February 25 and should be addressed to: Office of the Chief Clerk, MC 105, TCEQ, P.O. Box 13087, Austin, Texas 78711-3087.

The inner circles of various Texas Republican quarters have been abuzz for weeks concerning the possible battles between three Party heavyweights over the upcoming gubernatorial race. Indeed, for that matter, it is obvious that Democrats, as well, are interested. They too have a stake in what happens among Republicans.

Uneasy, indeed, must rest the crown that now sits atop the head of Governor Rick Perry. The State Comptroller, Carol Keeton McClellon Rylander Strayhorn, (at last count) has made no secret that she wants Perry's job. Carol is no newcomer to politics. At one time she served as Austin's mayor as a Democrat, and, as Comptroller, has snipped at Perry since day one.

U.S. Senator Kay Bailey Hutchison yearned for the job even before she became a senator. That became apparent when she was State Treasurer, when a few of us were searching for a candidate to run against a sitting, appointed, U.S. Senator. (Indeed, her desire to move from the State Treasurer's job to the Governor's job was the principal reason Ronnie Earle, the Democratic District Attorney of Travis County, brought indictments against Hutchison, only to drop them when he had to produce.)

Once, when Hutchison was Treasurer, I took her to the Headliners Club in Austin to discuss what some of us hoped would be the solution to our (and the state's) problem. She appeared not at all interested in the Senate seat, but was mightily interested in running against Ann Richards, then the sitting Governor. Clearly, she had a deep and abiding longing for the Governor's chair. She kept insisting that Republicans needed a woman to run against a woman (Richards), and that she was the only logical choice for that effort. Then, unfortunately from her standpoint, a guy named Bush decided he wanted to be Governor, or who at least acquiesced to the pleas of those who had the wherewithal. Kay took the route of least resistance, and became a junior senator. The Senate being what it is,

Hutchison is now Senior Senator from Texas and a member of several committees that are very important to this state. But she still wants to be Governor of Texas. The paycheck as Governor is smaller, but the spotlight is bigger. (A fact that is very important to most politicians.) Whatever, she says she will probably make a decision by midsummer, according to published reports.

Money shouldn't be a problem for any of them. Perry claims nearly $8 million, Hutchison nearly $7 million, while Strayhorn had a paltry $5.7 million, and counting. Any Democrat who enters the race is bound to be well funded by millions of fellow Democrats nation-wide who simply want to defeat anyone who calls himself (or herself) a Texas Republican.

Still, it should be remembered that last time around, the Democrats put forward one Tony Sanchez, the multi-millionaire from South Texas who spent many millions of his own money on the race (estimates vary...some say $30 million, some say $60 million overall), only to be wiped out by Perry. So, while money is important, it's not everything. It should be remembered also that Perry beat the well-funded Jim Hightower hands down when he ran against Hightower, then the incumbent Democratic Agriculture Commissioner, many years ago. Hightower forgot that he shouldn't use the agricultural post, which is essentially administrative, to spout left-wing politics. It didn't sit well with most farmers. And almost no ranchers.

We will make no predictions on the various possibilities at this time, but we would caution any potential gubernatorial candidates to weigh the probabilities very carefully. A great many rank and file Texans, now securely ensconced in the Republican Party, take a dim view of the time-honored Democratic practice, often used by former State Senator Jimmy Phillips, which is essentially to gain notoriety by constantly attacking any potential opponent who might raise his (or her) head.

This state has changed a lot, politically, with passage of time. Just about any statewide Democratic politician really targeted by Republicans is eventually doomed to defeat. That does not include, obviously, those Democratic office holders deemed irrelevant to the overall political process, (like former Speaker of the House Pete Laney, who was, and is, ignored) nor does it include those nominal Democratic officeholders who vote, most of the time, as Republicans. It does include people like Martin Frost in Dallas, who always insisted on being at least one of the Democratic front men when any partisan issue came up. He's gone now. And it includes people like former Rep. Charlie Stenholm, of Stanford, who voted with the Republicans when it was in his best interests to do so, but insisted on representing the Democratic Party otherwise. He's gone now, too.

And, it includes people like Lloyd Doggett of Austin, who was handed a District that is heavily Hispanic, much to his unofficial liking, but a District that will eventually be represented by a Hispanic. Doggett, for the moment, is very quiet, which is one of the reasons he was given a new District that is heavily Hispanic. He won the last time, simply, in our view, because of name recognition. In the future it may be different. He may well be up against a Hispanic who more closely identifies, racially, with the people of that particular (and basically South Texas) District. If so, it will only be fitting and proper, for Doggett has long used the race card to further his political interests. It would be interesting to see him hoist on his own petard. Such an event would delight untold, and usually unhappy, subscribers of the Austin American-Statesman, part of the Atlanta-based media conglomerate, the Cox Corporation. That newspaper has long championed both the interests of Hispanic citizens on the one hand, and the fortunes of Lloyd Doggett on the other. Ultimately, they may have to make a choice. That would be a hoot, not unlike the mental maneuvering that must have gone on in the A-S editorial office when they endorsed George Bush for President, after ridiculing him for four years.

At any rate, we have some interesting politics ahead, despite the fact that George can't run again. Perry can, and Hutchison, and Strayhorn may.

them as our dispatchers," continued Gilroy.

Gilroy concluded, "I have talked this over with Lockney Police Chief Jerry Edwards and he is excited about the prospect of using Hale County. He and his officers will just transport those arrested to the Hale County jail."

In a related matter, the commissioners voted unanimously to purchase a used vehicle for the purpose of transporting prisoners back and forth to their court appearances at the court house.

Following more discussion, a motion to buy the Sheriff's department a "program" vehicle was approved by the court. Commissioner Jones told the court, "I believe we need to furnish the Sheriff's department with the proper equipment to do their job."

One of the Sheriff's other two vehicles is having an engine replaced this week, according to Judge Hardin.

The court accepted unanimously a donation of 9 City lots from John Woelfel, Lots 13 through 21, in Block 51, Town of Floydada, Floyd County, to be used by PAC.

The commissioners appointed 7 Floyd County citizens to The Floyd County Historical Commission for a two year term. Those appointed were: Nancy Marble, Chair; Members: Joyce Williams, June Sherman, J.D. Copeland, Olive Hinton, Carolyn Hardy and Connie Bertrand.

$40,000 was transferred by the court from the Road and Bridge Fund to be divided into the four precincts work funds at $10,000 each.

An Official bond was approved by the commissioners for Carol Leann Duus, who is working in the Justice of the Peace's office and the District Clerk's office.

Floyd County Treasurer Elva Martinez presented the January, 2005 Financial Report to the commissioners. The report showed a Beginning Balance of $784,551.41, with Receipts of $382,515.08. Transfers In and Out were $354,780.84, with Dispersed at $233,790.73, leaving an Ending Balance of $933,275.76.

A Floydada EMS update was given to the board showing 60 runs during the month of January, according to Board Member Tom Farris.

In a related matter and on the agenda, EMS compensation for vacation coverage, was tabled because, "We were not ready to discuss this matter at this time," said Farris.

$27.28 of Indigent Health Care claims were paid by the board this month. "This is probably an all time low (amount) for us," said Farris.

The board approved both the financial reports for the CHD and the Floydada EMS.

We Salute Their Bravery

A Gift of Hope through Christian Women's Job Corps

It can happen to anyone at any time. Overnight, a woman's life can change and it can be overwhelming - job loss, spousal loss, addictions, disability, or illness. For others, it's not a change but a way of life that's been handed down from previous generation. Once a woman's life appears hopeless, escape can prove difficult - but not impossible. She needs encouragement, nurture, and support. She needs to become self-sufficient to provide for herself and her children. Most importantly she needs to experience God's love, forgiveness, and grace. Christian Women's Job Corps exists to minister to all women in need with a hand up, not a handout. This is done by providing a vast array of life skills and job skills training, Bible study, and a Christian woman to be her mentor. (taken from the Texas CWJB brochure)

If you want to help bring hope to the lives of women and their families, plan to be a part of the community organizational meeting Sunday, February 20, 2005, at 2:00 p.m. at the Lighthouse Electric Community Room. A video of the Christian Woman's Job Corps program will be shown. This organizational meeting is open to everyone - men and women of all ages and faith. If you cannot attend and are interested, please contact: Bettye Baker, Rachael Castillo, Ouita Powell, Brenda Parker, Jana Muniz, Connie Johnson, or Dora Ross.

Westbrook completes basic training

Navy Seaman Recruit Chas A. Westbrook, a 2002 graduate of Lockney High School, Lockney, Texas, recently completed U.S. Navy basic training at Recruit Training Command, Great Lakes, Ill.

During the eight-week program, Westbrook completed a variety of training which included classroom study and practical instruction on naval customs, first aid, firefighting, water safety and survival, and shipboard and aircraft safety. An emphasis was also placed on physical fitness.

The capstone event of boot camp is "Battle Stations". This exercise gives recruits the skills and confidence they need to succeed in the fleet. "Battle Stations" is designed to galvanize the basic warrior attributes of sacrifice, dedication, teamwork and endurance in each recruit through the practical application of basic Navy skills and the core values of Honor, Courage and Commitment. Its distinctly "Navy" flavor was designed to take into account what it means to be a Sailor.

Westbrook is a 2002 graduate of Lockney High School.

Cotton Market Weekly A service provided by Plains Cotton Cooperative Association

Strong export sales of U.S. cotton sparked buying at the New York Board of Trade that led cotton futures to settle higher on Thursday.

USDA reported net export sales of U.S.A. cotton reached a marketing year high for a second consecutive week. Sales of 417,200 bales in the week ended December 3 were 12 percent more than the previous week and 39 percent better than the four-week average. Major buyers were China, with purchases of 159,000 bales, followed by Turkey and Pakistan with acquisitions of 69,300 and 47,000 bales, respectively. Sales of 17,300 bales for delivery in 2005-06 were mainly for Mexico.

"We enjoyed a season's record of export sales, and yet prices still traded higher," said one analyst. "That's a very rare achievement for this market."

Export shipments 243,300 bales were two percent less than the previous week and four percent less than the four-week average. Primary destinations were Turkey, Mexico and Thailand.

"Export sales were strong this week, and the active trade buying suggests that export sales are continuing at a strong pace," said a cotton market observer. "It was also China's biggest bite for the season, bringing them up to a shade over 300,000 bales for the two-week period and 1.3 million for the season-to-date," he added.

In spot cotton news, Texas, Oklahoma and Kansas producers sold 51,297 bales online in the week ended February 10 compared to the previous week when 22,673 bales were traded. Prices received by producers selling their cotton online ranged from 33.70 to 35.03 cents per pound versus the previous week's range of 32.31 to 34.62 cents per pound.

In other news, the market was buoyed by USDA's monthly cotton supply/demand report released on February 9. The department cut its estimate of world ending stocks to 46.74 million bales from 47.12 million last month, raised its estimate of U.S. cotton exports to 13.0 million, and boosted estimated imports by China, the world's top cotton consumer, to 9.0 million bales versus 8.75 million projected in January.

"The report was friendly," said one analyst. "The figures were encouraging, especially after a string of bearish USDA production reports over the past few months."

The figures were in line with market expectations, but some in the industry considered it to be a significant report.

"USDA's report was significant in that it produced the first projected reduction in world ending stocks since its July report," an analyst noted. "It kept two other streaks alive, increasing both world production and mill use as it has since the beginning of the reports for this season," he added.

An analyst also said USDA has a record of continuing to cut the American cotton carryover following the February supply/demand figure. "Only twice in the last 10 years, in 1999 and 2001, did ending stocks grow from this time forward," the analyst noted. "The most prominent change was only four years ago when ending stocks increased by 1.5 million as both U.S. exports and consumption collapsed in the second half of the season."

New Choices for Roundup Ready® Cotton

The cottonseed landscape continues to change, with variety and technology options increasing every year.

Some of the biggest strides in variety breeding, innovation and performance are being made by PhytoGen Seed Company, which now offers a broader line of early, mid-maturity and full season varieties for growers in this area.

PhytoGen Seed Company is a joint venture between Mycogen Corporation, an affiliate of Dow AgroSciences LLC, and the J.G. Boswell Company. PhytoGen™ brand Pima and Acala varieties continue to set the yield and quality standards for growers in California. And, the success of our earlier varieties for the Eastern markets has provided an excellent foundation for growth.

That commitment to growth brings new options for your fields:

- PHY 310 R - A new, widely adaptable early season Roundup Ready® variety, which has demonstrated high yield potential and solid fiber quality numbers.
- PHY 410 R - An early-to-mid maturity Roundup Ready variety that has shown the ability to produce high yields and excellent fiber from the East Coast to Texas.
- PHY 510 R - A full-season Roundup Ready variety that performs well in the Southeast and southern areas of the Mid-South.

And, with the registration of WideStrike™ Insect Protection, three additional varieties will be available from PhytoGen in 2005. PHY 440 W features WideStrike alone, while the others - PHY 470 WR and PHY 480 WR - feature WideStrike stacked with the Roundup Ready technology. Field trials have shown that these new PhytoGen varieties also demonstrate broad geographical adaptation and potential for high yield and optimal fiber characteristics.

WideStrike is a new, stacked insect-protection trait that has demonstrated season-long protection from a broad spectrum of worm pests.

All PhytoGen™ varieties are sold and serviced by Dow AgroSciences, and quantities of some varieties may be limited for 2005.

For more information on PhytoGen cottonseed varieties or on WideStrike™ Insect Protection, contact your local ag retailer. Or, visit www.phytoyields.com or www.widestrike.com.

The Cardinals were blessed with their only child, a son, Louis Reid, on November 4, 1951. Like most farmers wives, Polly hauled wheat and maize to the elevators, cotton to the gin, and plowed a few days, but didn't have to do too much of that.
