Torpedo donated for display at Veteran's Park in Lockney

A World War II torpedo was donated to the Texas Plains Veterans Association for the Veterans Memorial Park project in Lockney.

Ed Marks, President of TPVA said, "We were able to find it thanks to the efforts of Senior Chief Gilmore at U.S. Navy Reserve Center in Lubbock. He put us in contact with retired Chief Petty Officer Guy Ross of Hobbs, New Mexico who was given the torpedo as a retirement gift. Ross has served as a torpedoman in a submarine.

Marks laughed at the thought of giving a torpedo for a retirement gift. "Most people would get gold watch," said Marks.

"It is inert and presents no danger," said Marks.

According to Marks, Ross had put the torpedo on his front lawn as a landmark to make his house easier to locate.

"Ross was soon visited by a bomb squad and the ATF," said Marks. "They all had a good laugh after learning it was inert. Ross was glad it would have a good home where it would be displayed as part of our military history."

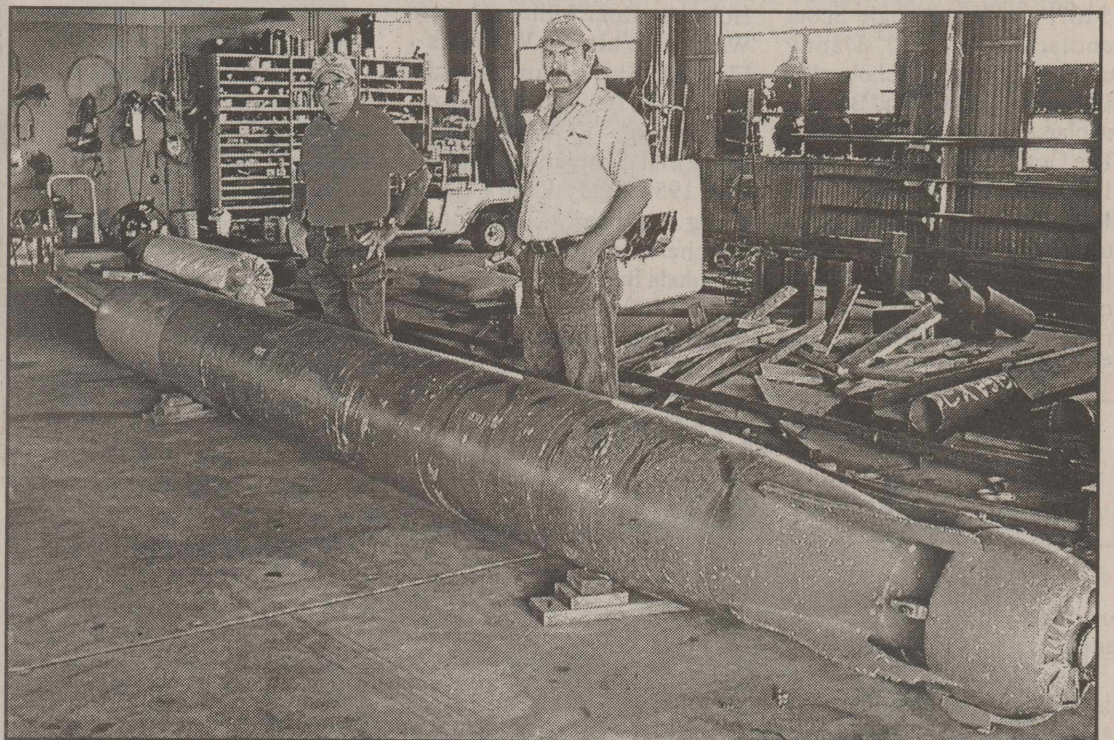

Marks used a 20 foot enclosed trailer belonging to the City of Lockney to haul the torpedo home. It is 19 feet 4 inches long, has a diameter of 20 inches and weighs 2,380 pounds.

"We're receiving a lot of support from the military," said

Marks "The Air Force donated a flight suit, helmet and exposure suit, of the type worn by the B-1 bomber pilots. They want to organize a fly-over for the day we get to dedicate the park. We have also received a commemorative coin by the 8th Bomb Group."

Any Vet who wants to be a part of our organization to build the memorial can contact Ed Marks at P.O. Box 282, Lockney, Texas 79241, or call him at 806-652-3157 or 806-685-0748 (mobile).

"Remember, T.P.V.A. is here to honor those who have served, are serving and will serve," Marks said.

Terry Ellison retires after 20 years as Junior High Principal

Terry Ellison, Lockney's Junior High Principal since 1985, has been cleaning out his office and giving instructions to his replacement, Todd Hallmark.

Ellison announced his retirement from LISD in last month's school board meeting.

A native of Aspermont, Ellison graduated Aspermont High School in 1963.

He continued on to Hardin Simmons and graduated in 1968 with a degree in History.

His first teaching assignment was in Aspermont where he taught speech for one year. Ellison then moved on to teach History, Speech, and Vocational Adjustment Coordination at Dimmitt for 14 years.

He moved up to the position of Assistant Principal at Dimmitt and served in that position for 7 years.

Ellison came to Lockney in 1985-1986 as the principal in Junior High. He has been roaming those halls and encouraging Lockney kids ever since then.

"I love these kids," said Ellison, "and I love their parents. It's all about trust and love. That's what these kids need."

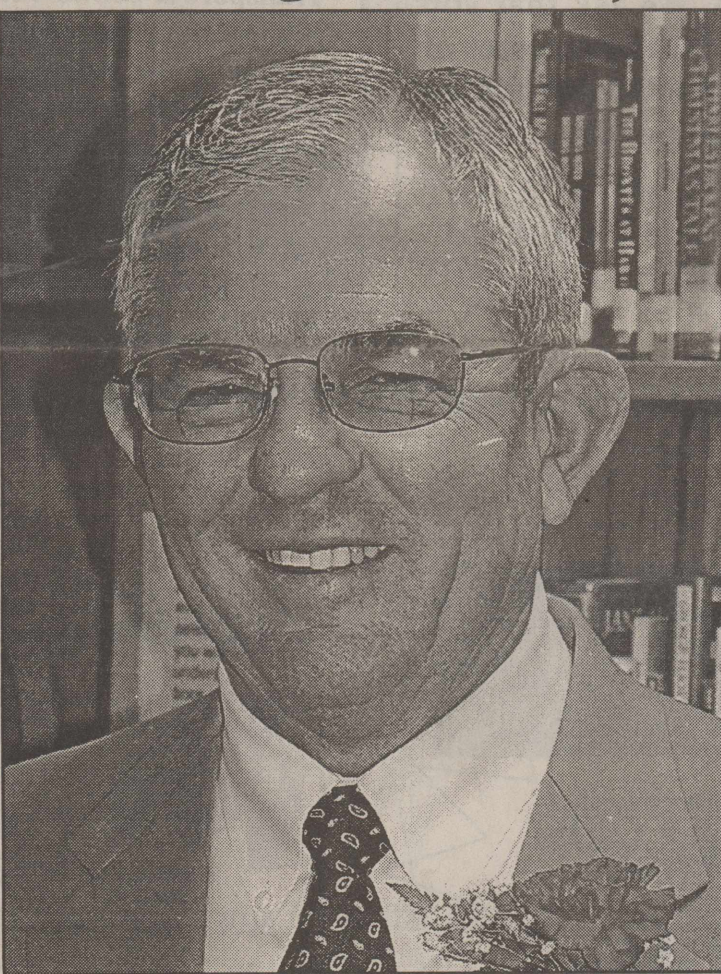

Ellison says he has loved every minute of his time as Lockney's principal. "I've loved it even in the bad times."

"I've tried to prove to the kids that I was only here for one reason and that was for them."

"I tell them I still have eyes and I still have a phone--all they have to do is call me if they need me."

Ellison said he has decided that about the time he finally figured out what to do, that it was then time to go.

"I just can't put how I feel on paper," said Ellison. "It just doesn't look right."

Shuttle display now at Museum

By Darwin Robinson

The Floyd County Historical Museum has a new display about the space shuttle that burned up over Texas a couple of years ago.

Eloy Martinez commissioned wood craftsman, Scott Phillips, to build a one-of-a-kind shuttle model, out of several types of wood, in remembrance of the STS-107 crew.

Martinez graduated from Floydada High School in 1968. He holds a Bachelor of Science degree in Chemistry from Texas Tech University.

Martinez is presently Senior Process Engineer at Lockheed Martin Space Systems Company. He is responsible for developing new process equipment and thermal shielding for the shuttles' external fuel tanks.

Scott Phillips resides Alabama and is a logistics engineer for Lockheed Martin at the NASA Marshall Space Flight Center.

Phillips started his wood working hobby 20 years ago. He has built 75 Space Shuttle models out of fine woods.

He documents each model to make sure he does not duplicate any.

The Space Shuttle model at the Floyd County Historical Museum is made of 11 different fine woods.

Some of the woods contained in the model are mahogany, walnut, maple, cherry, poplar, holly, locust and hackberry.

LHS band students bring home high marks from State

Lockney High School was well represented at the Texas State Solo and Ensemble Contest bringing home ratings of 1, 2, and 3.

Erin Mangold earned a Division 1 in both Vocal Solo and as a part of the French Horn Quartet. Mangold's solo was "Alma Mia".

The French Horn Quartet, consisting of Zachary Montandon, Bryan Cooper, Erin Mangold, and Zane Montandon also earned a Rating of 1. They performed "The Four Hornsmen".

A rating of 2 was earned by Alex Hall with her vocal solo, "Vedrai, Carino", and by Addie Foster with her piano solo, Mazurkas Op. 24. Addie was also part of the Percussion Ensemble.

The Percussion Ensemble and Brass Quartet both earned ratings of 3.

Rion Afill, Tyson Carthel, Danny Cervantes, Bryan Cooper, Landon Cotham, Addie Foster, Brandon Gilroy, Zach Montandon, and Zane Montandon, made up the Percussion Ensemble. They performed the musical selection, "Strike, Shake and Stomp."

The Brass Quartet was made up of Tyson Carthel, trombone, Danny Cervantes, trombone, Brandon Gilroy, trumpet, and Jeremy Pyle, trumpet.

"I am proud of all of our kids," said Lockney Band Director Rob

Lovett. "Everyone did a wonderful job at State. Any small mistake makes a difference in the ratings."

"It is very difficult to get high ratings at State. Even a 3 at State is a good rating. The judges were handing out 4's and 5's. Over 50% of the kids that competed received 3's."

"All groups played very well. It was a wonderful trip. We appreciate the support the school gave us to go to state."

The competition was held in San Marcos at Texas State University, Monday, May 30th. The group also enjoyed a Tuesday trip to Schlitterbahn in New Braunfels, and the River Walk in San Antonio.

Lockney Community Storehouse needs restocking

The Lockney Community Storehouse is currently in need of good, clean twin mattresses and full size mattresses.

"At this time we are in need of most everything," said Director Alicia Luna.

"If anyone would like to donate to the store, we will pick it up if possible. We do issue receipts for tax purposes."

South Plains Hobby Club

By Sandra Lass
The South Plains Hobby Club took their annual Spring outing to Canyon to visit the Panhandle Plains Historical Museum (PPHM) on May 11, 2005. Virginia Taylor took members in her "Doodleman" which included Peggy Roberts, Ann Hartman, Kay Gilbert, Carolyn Marble and Sandra Lass. One the way to the museum, Virginia stopped in Tulia to pick up Juanita Teeple and Martha Taylor. PPHM is located on the campus of West Texas A&M University, opened its doors in 1933 and has grown to be the largest history museum in Texas. The museum covers a city block and the exhibits are located in a large two story building. Each floor is divided into sections to house such things as buggies, wagons, windmills and automobiles. Many of the displays are huge and confirm the reputation Texas has about having things that are larger than anywhere else.

The registration desk is located at the museum entrance where the group was greeted by the museum staff. The area surrounding the registration desk is called Pioneer Hall and occupying one small corner of the room is a full sized stuffed male bison. His fur was brushed and shinier than it probably was when he was alive. Several of us reached over to pet him, but thought better of the idea when we saw one of the staff members looking at us. On the first floor there is a replica of a Pioneer Town as well as paleontology displays. A changing exhibit gallery is located on the first floor as well and will be displaying the painting of Charles Russell and Frederic Remington's Canadian frontier May 29 through August 21, 2005.

There is a theater in the round upstairs where people can sit on cement benches, press a button and listen to a narrative description of the geological changes as the narrator describes them. In the petroleum wing there are photographs of oil boom towns some of which were taken during the rainy season as well as the dry, highlighting the fact that most of the dwellings and business buildings were scarcely more than shacks. The expressions on the faces of the people in the pictures clearly illustrates that working and living in those towns during the boom town days was pretty tough. We saw few pictures of people smiling.

Also upstairs is an extensive collection of Texas artist, H.D. Bugbee's ranching series, painted for the museum's collection

Help offered for ADHD children

Parents with children who may have ADHD/ADD are encouraged to attend a free presentation by Dr. Rafalovich, June 14, at Floydada Junior High.

Rafalovich, an associate professor of Sociology at Texas Tech, has recently published a new book about Attention Deficit Hyperactivity Disorder and Attention Deficit Disorder.

The seminar, which begins at 6:30 p.m., will include supper, door prizes, and games and activities for the children while parents attend the session.

The presentation is being sponsored by the area Community Resources Coordinating Group (CRCG), which is comprised of representatives from most of the area's services to families, such as schools and Special Ed, Juvenile Probation, CPS, MHMR, law enforcement, the courts, counseling organizations, and other entities that provide services to families.

"Because it is the nature of these organizations to come in contact with parents and children on a regular basis, we continually hear from parents what want help in dealing with pressures of raising children today," said Chief Juvenile Probation Officer Reba Moore.

"This prompted us to initiate a series of presentations called 'Parenting with Power', which provide information, advice and help to parents. We hope to have a presentation every other month on topics requested by parents."

The first presentation was held in April with Professor Deborah Bratcher from Wayland, speaking about parenting in general.

"The first session was not very well attended," said Moore, "possibly due to conflicting activities and inadequate promotion of the event. Parents who did attend were surveyed as to topics of interest to them for future sessions and the topic of ADD was the most requested by parents who attended the first meeting."

"There will be time to ask questions of the presenters and there will also be a resource table providing information about resources available to families. Parents will also have the opportunity to suggest future topics as well."

Hey, 'Neaner..Happy 40th !! "WHAT IS A GIRL?"

(Note: The following essay was written by T.O. Collins Gray during the summer of 1940 - possibly in Cloudcroft, New Mexico, while she and her husband, Erman Gray, were on location with their musical-repertoire troupe, The Musical Grays' Stock Company). T.O. was stricken several weeks later with a fatal attack of spinal meningitis at the Datil Guest Ranch, a few miles west of Magdalena, New Mexico, at the age of 25. This work is dedicated by her son, Bill Gray (who was 2 1/2 years old at the time of his mother's death), to T.O.'s granddaughter, Jeanine - on her 40th birthday - and T.O.'s three great-granddaughters - Brityn, Anyssa and Brianna.)

Little girls are the nicest things that happen to people. They are born with a little bit of angel shine about them - tho' it wears thin some times. There's always enough left to lasso your heart - even when they're sitting in the mud or crying tempermental (sic) tears or parading up the street in mother's best clothes.

A little girl can be sweeter and badder oftener than anyone else in the world. She can jitter around and stomp and make funny noises that frazzle your nerves. Yet, just when you open your mouth, she stands there demure - with that special look in her eyes. A girl is innocence playing in the mud, beauty standing on its head and motherhood dragging a doll by the foot.

Girls are available in five colors - black, white, red, yellow and brown. Yet, Mother Nature always manages to select your favorite color when you place your order. They disprove the laws of mind and men. There are millions of little girls, but each is as fresh as a ruby.

God borrows from many creatures to make a little girl. He uses the song of a bird, the squeal of a pig, the stubbornness of a mule, the antics of a monkey, the spryness of a grasshopper, the curiosity of a cat, the speed of a gazelle, the slyness of a fox, the softness of a kitten, and, to top it all off, He adds the mysterious mind of a woman.

Little girls like new shoes and party dresses, small animals, first grade, noise-makers, the girl next door, dolls, make-believe, ice cream, dancing lessons, kitchens, coloring books, make-up, going visiting, tea parties and one boy. She doesn't care so much for visitors, boys in general, large dogs, hand-me-downs, straight chairs, vegetables, snow suits or staying in the front yard.

She's loudest when you're thinking, the prettiest when she has provoked you, the busiest at bed time, the quietest when you want to show her off, and the most flirtatious when she absolutely must not get the best of you again. Who else can cause you more grief, joy, irritation, satisfaction, embarrassment, and genuine delight than this combination of Eve, Salome and Florence Nightingale?

She can mess up your home, your hair and your dignity, spend your money and your time and temper. And then, just when your patience is ready to crack...the sunshine peeps thru' and you're lost again.

Yes, she's a nerve-wrecking nuisance (sic), just a noisy bundle of mischief. But, when your dreams tumble down and the world is a mess - when it seems that you're pretty much of a fool after all - she can make you a king...she climbs on your knee and whispers, "I love you best of all."

Graves and Stephens exchange vows

MR. AND MRS. BRIAN STEPHENS
Nee Deidra Denise Graves

Deidra Denise Graves and Brian Wade Stephens were united in marriage May 2, 2005 during a sunset ceremony at North Maluaka Beach in Maui, Hawaii. Pastor Kimo Kirkman officiated.

The bride is the daughter of Walter Graves of West Monroe, Louisiana, and of Sharon Kurklin of Petersburg. She is the granddaughter of LaVerne Parks and the late H.B. Parks of Morse. She is also the granddaughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. W.C. Graves of Sunray. The groom is the son of Walter and Meredith Stephens of Bloomington, Illinois. He is the grandson of the late Jacob and Ruth Stephens and the late Louis and Layla Behnken, all of Illinois.

The ceremony commenced with the exchange of leis, a traditional Hawaiian symbol of love, aloha, and the couple's commitment to each other. After the couple exchanged marriage vows and rings, the pastor recited a prayer of blessings in Hawaiian.

The bride chose an elegant ivory chiffon gown for the beachside ceremony. The princess style gown featured a sleeveless bodice with pearl and crystal accents, an empire waist, and a sweep train. Instead of a veil, the bride wore a single gardenia in her hair. The groom was attired in a traditional black tuxedo.

The bride carried a bouquet of bright tropical flowers. Something old was her great-grandmother's lace handkerchief, something new was her wedding gown, something borrowed was her grandmother's pearl and diamond earrings and bracelet, and something blue was her garter.

Prenuptial courtesies included a bridal shower hosted by the bride's co-workers in Corpus Christi and a bridal shower in the home of Jeanett Wilson in Ralls. The groom's parents are hosting a post-nuptial reception in Bloomington, Illinois, in July.

After completing their honeymoon in Hawaii, the couple is at home in Round Rock. The groom is a graduate of Flagler College in Florida and is employed at Dell, Incorporated, and the bride is a graduate of Texas Tech University and the University of North Texas and is employed at the University of Texas.

South Plains Hobby Club News

Continued From Page 3 while he was Curator of Art. He also painted a series of murals illustrating the Southern Plains Indians and there is a small room that served as Bugbee's studio complete with his desk, easels, paints and other materials placed just as they were when he was alive. Like many artists, Bugbee first made smaller pencil drawings of what he painted later using oils. Some of the oil paintings were the same as his pencil drawings, only larger. Other of his oil paintings included an added person or plant or structures that he did not have in his pencil drawings.

The group took a break and met Tiffany Taylor and Cammy Lass for lunch at Feldman's. Tiffany is Virginia's granddaughter and has just completed her first year at Amarillo College. Cammy is Sandra's granddaughter and has just completed her first year at West Texas A&M.

After lunch the group returned to the museum to finish the tour.

The next Hobby Club meeting will be held on September 14, 2005. A trip to Apple Country located between Ralls and Idalou is planned. Happy Summer!

How many acres will be planted to corn, cotton and sorghum? What will spring planting conditions mean for American agriculture? In an effort to answer these questions with reliable, objective information, the USDA National Agricultural Statistics Service (NASS) will be surveying farmers and ranchers for the June Agricultural Survey.

"Agricultural surveys provide an important picture of Texas agriculture," Agriculture Commissioner Susan Combs said. "By going to the experts-Texas farmers and ranchers-the Texas Agricultural Statistics Service is able to compile accurate, reliable information about our state's second-largest industry for 2005. This information is needed by state and federal policymakers to develop initiatives and programs to benefit agriculture and help our hardworking producers."

The Texas Agricultural Statistics Service will be conducting the survey and a representative will contact local producers between May 27 and June 13. This survey is particularly vital because it will provide the first clear indications of the potential production of major commodities in 2005.

The information gathered is widely used. Producers rely on the data to reach valid production, marketing, and investment decisions. Industry analysts, extension agents, and farm organizations use the information in a variety of ways that benefit farmers.

"We safeguard the confidentiality of all survey responses," Texas State Director Robin Roark says. "Information from individual operations is combined with other responses to provide the needed data." NASS works with farmers and ranchers to provide meaningful, accurate, and objective statistics that help keep U.S. agriculture informed.

All agricultural statistics published by NASS are available at www.usda.gov/nass/. For more information, call the Texas Agricultural Statistics Service at 1-800-626-3142.

High Plains Groundwater District releases annual depth to water measurements

The plentiful rainfall that blessed the High Plains region with a bountiful 2004-cotton crop left a secondary and just as significant boost deep underground according to the high Plains Underground Water Conservation District No. 1 in Lubbock.

Based on depth to water measurements conducted in early 2005 at more than 1,207 observation wells located in the district's 6.8 million acres service area, 2004 reversed a three-year trend as water levels in the Ogallala Aquifer that underlies the region showed a net rise of 0.74 feet.

The change is attributed to reduced pumpage from the aquifer during the 2004 production season and HPUWCD officials caution that the reported water level rises during 2004, as indicated by the 2005 measurements, should not be interpreted as extensive recharge to the aquifer in most cases. They note the changes are more likely a result of greater leveling and refilling of dewatered zones within the aquifer in the vicinity of previously pumped wells.

The exceptions to this theory may be the area of southern Lynn County and various locations of Lubbock County, as well as other possible locations in the water district where the shallow depths to the water table may allow rapid infiltration of water to the aquifer.

Lynn County had the largest average annual change in water levels with an increase of 3.46 feet. Bailey County and the portions of Crosby and Floyd Counties within the district recorded average water level increases of more than one foot.

Cochran, Hale, Lubbock, and Parmer Counties, plus the portions of Armstrong, Deaf Smith, Hockley, Potter and Randall Counties within the district recorded average water level increases of less than one foot. The portions of Castro and Lamb Counties within the district recorded average water level decline of less than one foot.

Depth to water level measurements are normally made during January to March each year to allow stabilization of water levels in the aquifer following pumpage during the previous year of ground water production.

The current issue of the High Plains Water District's newsletter, The Cross Section, features the results of the annual 2005 depth to water level measurements. It contains individual county maps, which provide the approximate location of each well in the district's observation well network. Each map is accompanied by available 1995, 2000, 2004, and 2005 depth to water level measurements for individual wells in that county. Also listed are available total changes in water levels for each observation well for the periods 1995 to 2005, 2000 to 2005, and 2004 to 2005.

Additional information about the annual depth to water level measurement program is available by contacting the High Plains Underground Water Conservation District No. 1 at (806) 762-0181 or by visiting the water district's web site at: www.hpwd.com

Destroy cotton crop before you replant

Farmers on the High Plains of Texas know that crop damage from foul weather is one challenge they will have to contend with.

Recent storms in the area unleashed hail, high winds and heavy rains that caused significant damage to the emerging cotton crop of many growers. They must make a decision soon about whether to replant cotton or plant an alternate crop.

But before they plant an alternate crop, they need to do a thorough job of destroying remaining cotton plants in their fields, said Charles Allen, program director of the Texas Boll Weevil Eradication Foundation.

"If High Plains growers fail their cotton before the certification date and keep it free of fruiting cotton plants for the remainder of the season, they qualify for a credit on their assessment," he said.

"They'll really help themselves if they do a thorough job of plowing down cotton plants in their fields before they plant another crop," Allen said.

Ensuring no viable cotton remains before planting the new crop, saves the growers money, Allen said.

If the cotton is not destroyed, it may grow back and provide a haven for the cotton boll weevil, he said. The weevils will feed and reproduce in the cotton and become a source for infesting remaining cotton fields.

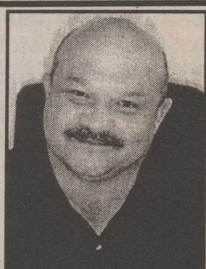

Allen said foundation employees will continue to trap and monitor fields originally planted to cotton to ensure any hostable cotton or potential boll weevil populations are detected. If weevils are found, the fields will have to be treated, along with any adjacent cotton fields.

The new weevil populations and additional field treatments add to the total cost of eradication, he said.

The Texas Boll Weevil Eradication Foundation is a nonprofit, grower-initiated and funded organization dedicated to eliminating the cotton boll weevil from the state in the most cost-effective and environmentally responsible manner possible.

Cotton Market Weekly

A service provided by Plains Cotton Cooperative Association

June 3, 2005

After trading lower Thursday, cotton futures on the New York Board of Trade finished the day in positive territory as trade buying enabled futures to overcome early weakness, traders said.

According to USDA, net export sales of 112,700 bales of U.S. cotton in the week ended May 28 were 70 percent less than the prior week and the four-week average. Major buyers included China, Turkey, Indonesia and Mexico. Net sales of 29,600 bales for delivery in 2005-06 were primarily for South Korea, Canada and Japan.

Export shipments of 257,000 bales were seven percent less than the previous week and nine percent less than the four-week average. Primary destinations included China, Turkey and Thailand.

In the spot cotton market, online trading by producers in Texas, Oklahoma and Kansas were lower in the week ended June 2 as sales totaled 392 bales compared to the previous week when 1,618 bales were traded. One analyst credits the decrease to cotton producers, reluctance to sell at current prices. Average prices received by producers in the most recent week ranged from 37.28 to 40.56 cents per pound compared to 35.10 to 40.96 cents per pound the previous week.

Meanwhile, weather reports appeared to be bullish for cotton futures on Wednesday as news circulated about an intense storm that swept across the Texas High Plains late Tuesday. The storm generated tornados, dumped hail and heavy rainfall and caused damage to many cotton stands throughout the region. The evening storm dealt a second blow to some cotton producers south of Lubbock where an early morning thunderstorm already had swept through causing significant crop damage.

Although it still is too early to assess losses, some observers believe the cotton damage on the High Plains may total between 50,000 and 150,000 acres when the final tally is taken. Many producers in the region now must decide if replanting to cotton is an option.

"When viewed as part of the total 3.5 million or so acres planted, this amount lost is relatively insignificant," said one observer. "However, when it's your cotton or part of your gin's production area it has tremendous individual significance. Simply put, what has been lost for the major part of the area is miniscule compared with the benefit that should be derived from the moisture the area received," he concluded.
