Chamber looking for "Individual" sign-up

In an effort to boost their membership the Floydada Chamber of Commerce is encouraging individuals to join the Chamber. "The chamber is not just for businesses," said Chamber Manager lantha Smith. "We help the whole community." Fees for individuals are $40 per year and can be paid out by the month if desired. "The Chamber of Commerce is a voluntary organization of citizens who are working together to improve the economic, civic, and cultural well-being of the area," said Smith. "Any citizen is eligible to be a member," said Smith. "The chamber work is supported by these dues. We have got to have finances in order to pursue projects." Annual Dues for a business with 2-5 employees is $75; 6-10 employees is $150; 11-20 employees is $275; and 21 employees and up is $330. If you are interested in being a part in helping the Chamber help the community, mail a check to the Floydada Chamber of Commerce, Box 147, Floydada, TX., 79235, or call 983-3434 and tell the Chamber of your interest. The Chamber can bill you annually, semi-annually, or monthly.

Tim Assiter wins title of State Champion Auctioneer

The best auctioneers from Texas assembled in Austin for the annual convention of the Texas Auctioneers Association and crowned Tim Assiter with the prestigious title of Texas State Champion Auctioneer. After a preliminary round consisting of 19 auctioneers and a finals round of the top five, Tim Assiter of Floydada walked away with the coveted championship buckle, plaque, cash prize and the title of 2005 Texas State Champion Auctioneer. Assiter, a native of Floydada has been an auctioneer for over 20 years with Assiter & Associates, a company he and his brother started in the early 80's. Adding to his professional accomplishments, Assiter provides his services throughout the United States to such firms that market airplanes, collector automobiles, wholesale automobiles and non-profit organizations. "Tim is probably the most genuine and entertaining auctioneer I have ever had the opportunity to work with - his style cannot be duplicated, it comes from his heart" said an unidentified past State Champion Auctioneer.

Contestants were judged by a prestigious panel of judges including State champions from Kansas, Oklahoma, Arkansas, International Champion and a World Champion. Other winners included State Champion Ringperson Les Ferguson; Senior Champion Robert Oliver and Rookie Champion Angie Meier.

At the conclusion of the President's Gala where he was awarded the championship, Assiter recognized his parents, children and brother for their love and support throughout his life and auctioneer career. Assiter will serve the Texas Auctioneers Association as a goodwill ambassador, conduct seminars and represent Texas in the 2006 International Auctioneer Champion contest in Orlando, next summer.

The convention was held the weekend of June 18 and other business included electing new officers, and inducting new Hall of Fame members.

Before we offer our comments, let us first quote the lead sentence in an Austin American-Statesman story by Mike Ward on what we think is a very important subject...the dispensing of justice in Texas.

Ward's story begins: "Three judges, two prominent lawmakers, a prosecutor and a defense lawyer will be named today to a nine member state commission that could break new ground in studying potential flaws and recommending changes in Texas' controversial justice system."

The commission, the story says, is "expected to be up and running" within a month. Appointed by Governor Rick Perry, the panel will be, again according to the story, "the first group impaneled in years with such broad-ranging authority to look at the criminal justice system from arrest to final appeal."

To say that the study is long overdue is a waste of words. It has been needed for many years. But we haven't had a governor with enough backbone to tackle a subject that will, any way you cut it, cost some votes. No matter what the panel recommends, it will make some people unhappy. The way things go now, the only ones who zero in on the subject are those with a personal interest, and, politically speaking, that is a "wash." There's just about as many people on one side as the other, even if both sides do feel passionately about the subject.

In an effort to be helpful, the Lamplighter will pick up only one aspect of the matter, and do it with a personal experience that bears directly on the subject, and that many of our readers have experienced in one way or another.

We've served on many juries, but the one that sticks in my mind, on this occasion, involved a murder case. A Hispanic family was having a gathering at which beer, lot's of beer, was present. A younger son showed up with a very pretty girl in tow. An older brother, perhaps influenced by beer, asked the younger brother to "fix him up" with the young beauty. That, obviously, made the younger brother unhappy. So he went into a bedroom of the house trailer, got a knife, came back and killed his brother. The defense put the victim's parents on the stand, pleading that it was all a matter of self defense. (They had lost one son. They didn't want to lose another)

The jury after several days, reached a guilty verdict. But it would not have done so without the presence of two black jurors, one of whom, the black woman, repeated more than once that "I know these people. They are always too quick to grab a knife." Had it not been for those jurors, who together overcame the doubts of the panel's one lone hippie (a long-haired blondish creature who kept repeating "this is heavy man, this is heavy," the defendant would have walked free.

Why? Simply because the jurors were not allowed to ask a single question of either side. It came down simply to which lawyers asked which questions. It was a perfect example of the "adversary system," where the day went to the most skilled lawyers, not to where truth and justice resided. Jurors were not only not allowed to ask questions, they were not allowed to take notes. They had to remember a point made several days ago that they wanted clarification on, or the point went unanswered.

When the trial was ended, we got, of course, a letter from the judge, thanking us for our time (while he, himself, was drawing over $100,000 per year for his own time), and asking us for suggestions on how to make the criminal justice system work better.

Needless to say, he got an earful from me. Just as much good would have come from complete silence on my part. His response to my complaints was that I was advocating the English system, while in this country, we had the "adversary system", which had worked well (in his view) over the years. In any case, as I interpreted the matter, the "system" would determine what was best for common citizens.

We have no idea how the study commission will work out. We suspect very little will change, even as we hope for vast change. The nature of politics is that when a problem rears its ugly head, a "committee" is appointed to "study" the matter, with high hopes that by the time a report is ready, the public will have ceased to be seized with the issue, and things can continue as before. Let us hope this commission is different. The subject matter is of tremendous importance, even if the subject doesn't rank high on the public's radar scope of imminent concerns.

In the meantime, about all we can do is congratulate the Governor for tackling the situation, and hope that in the final analysis something good will come from it. If it does, a blow will be struck for liberty, justice, and all those good things.

Letters to the Editor

Dear Editor

I would like to express how proud I am of the Lockney Volunteer Fire Department.

They responded to a call for service at my daughter's residence in the late hours of July 1st to early hours of July 2nd. Their quick response averted a major disaster. The professionalism these men demonstrated is second to none.

I work in a city with a paid fire department and these men can stand side by side and hold their own. The training the men receive is well worth it. They give of their time even after working full time jobs to receive the training and keep the hours mandated by the state.

Our community is extremely fortunate to have such a department. No, our community is fortunate to have the men that volunteer to make up the department.

Gratefully

DR. W.J. MANGOLD AS A YOUNG WWII PILOT---This picture is just one of many on a collage created by the late Dr. W. J. Mangold's granddaughter, Erin Mangold as part of her history project. History teacher Sam Moore, gave his students the following assignment, "Do a project over some aspect of WWII." Erin is the 16 year old daughter of Dr. Gary and Brenda Mangold of Lockney. Her complete project consisted of a photo collage, biography of her grandfather Mangold, and a work of prose entitled "A Soldier's Life." Courtesy Photo

A Soldier's Life

By Erin Mangold

Every day, not knowing whether it will be his last or not. He prays to stay alive so he can at least see his family one more time, and tell them that he loves them. He has made friends; army buddies if you will. They play poker and talk about home, and what they will do when they return. Although they are very tired and sore, some even wounded, they know that they can't give up; they can't lose hope. They are fighting for freedom, for the one's back at home. Some say it's ridiculous; they spit at their feet. They're fighting for them too. Maybe someday they will be proud, and know what these brave soldiers have gone through. When they finally come back, not everyone will be accounted for. A little girl will be missing her father, a mother will be missing her son. It isn't fair and never will be when it comes to war. But we can remember them, and honor them-our brave protectors; the sons of America.

Floydada Senior Citizen News

It has been very busy this past weekend with all the July 4th activities.

Lots of our people had family visitors or were away visiting family.

My son, Greg Bond of Granbury, was home over this past weekend. I had several "Honey do" jobs around the house that needed to be taken care of so I kept him busy with that.

With the July 4th holiday on Monday, I have very little news to report to my readers.

Greg and I took advantage of the free breakfast Monday morning at Lowes Grocery Store. Thank you, Johnny Summers for making this a special day. It was a very good breakfast. Greg got to visit with people he hadn't seen in a while. He left after breakfast for Granbury.

I went back at noon and got a very good hamburger and hot dog. There was a large crowd most of the day.

I also went to the fireworks display at the rodeo grounds late Monday night. There were lots of people there and the fireworks display was much better than I expected. It's nice to live in a small town!

Our sympathy to the family of George H. Mize.

Our sympathy to the family of Maria de la luz Marin Suarez.

Floyd County Historical Museum News

By Carolyn Hardy

Summer is here and the Museum has had a large number of researchers, vacationers and local visitors. Out of state visitors have been from New Mexico, Oklahoma, Colorado, California, Minnesota, Michigan, Florida and Connecticut. Visitors from Texas were from Houston, Silverton, Amarillo, Edinburg, Abilene, Tulia, Lubbock, Edgewood, Kerrville, Wichita Falls, San Antonio, Littlefield, Fort Worth, Dallas, Bellville, McAdoo and Arlington. Many local residents have had out-of-town friends or family visiting and bring them to the Museum to see and read about early Floyd County history. It is unbelievable, the number of people who visit the Museum each week.

A group of history students from Christ the King school in Lubbock toured the Museum on Wednesday morning, July 6. They were accompanied by Bryan Gillihough. The Museum welcomes tours from schools, civic organizations and church groups.

There have been several new books added in the Mary Lou Bollman History and Genealogy Center. Jane Chandler Barnes, of Edgewood, Texas, formerly of Lockney, accompanied by her husband John Barnes and cousins from California, brought in a book, "Our Chandler Family, 1600-2000". Jane's sister, June Chandler Everhart, compiled the book, "Margarette Bond Word brought in a book, "Tell Us Just One More Grandad!" It was written by G.E. Bond.

Jimmie and Gayle Scott brought in a beautiful quilt, current address book and a maroon t-shirt from the Class of 1955 Lockney High School Reunion. The quilt had the names of all who were in school with the Class of 1955 including those who are now deceased. Gayle also brought a book compiled by the Floydada High School Class of 1955 for their 50th reunion. These are great additions to the Museum's collection.

Jerry Holmes recently brought in a community quilt made several years ago by the Jolly Stitchers Sewing Club in the Irick Community, Southwest of Lockney. Each lady in the club made a block with her name on it. After it was finished they held a drawing and Jerry's mother Beuna Weems Holmes won the quilt. The names on the quilt bring back lots of memories. Jerry was also in the LHS Class of 1955. He donated two DVDs made at the LHS 50-year class reunion.

The Museum has a list of people whose names need to be added to the Floyd County Veterans Memorial located on the North side of the Square. If anyone knows a name that should be added please call the Museum and ask to speak to Janet. There are names added to the list almost weekly. Any person who was born, buried or ever resided in Floyd County should have their name added to the Memorial.

YOUNGSTERS PARTICIPATE IN 4TH OF JULY KID'S PARADE

Lockney Senior Citizen News

By Vera Jo Bybee

I hope everyone had a great July 4th and a safe one. I always worry about my grandsons going to visit Tyler in San Angelo who lives on the lake. I know they all have a good time together but I don't guess they will ever be too old for me to worry about them.

My granddaughter Kara and husband Robert Womble, from Stephenville, spent last Thursday night with us on their way to Spearman for their all school reunion. I got to see my first great grandson in the tummy stage. He will be born around October 4th. This was the first time we had seen Kara and Robert in almost two years so it was a great time for us.

Donnie B's former classmate at South Plains, Brack Daniels of College Station, called Donnie the other day and said his sister Jackie had told him about Floyd County's storms and wondered about South Plains so Donnie sent him a couple of the Floyd County papers that had the pictures of the storm in them.

Donnie always enjoys hearing from Brack. They have kept in touch with each other over the years.

Our Lockney Methodist Church's pastor Neely Landrum was still on vacation last Sunday so we had another of our own to bring the message. Carlton Johnson did a great job of bringing the sermon. Neely better get home pretty quick or these boys might just take over his job. No Neely I'm just teasing but it is good to have Carlton and Kyle take over when we need them.

Denny and Johnnie Quisenberry have just returned from a sight seeing trip to nine southern states. Denny enjoyed seeing all the historical places he had always heard about.

Meeting for lunch last Thursday at the Main Street Pizza were Wilma and Linda Edwards, Judy Macha, Edith Cooper, Mary Carter, Margie Savage, Liz Dolloff, Ethelyn Garnett, and Vera Bybee. Wilma thinks we should be called the "Chat and Chew" group.

Our thoughts and prayers are with the Charles Simpson family. He passed away June 30, and was buried here-in the Lockney Cemetery Saturday July 1. His twin brother Tom just passed away four months ago. Seems like they did everything together.

Our sympathy is also with the Ronald Dale Kitchens family. He passed away Friday July 1 and graveside services were held in Silverton Tuesday July 5.

Why is it hard to have a conversation with a goat? Cause it is always butting in.

Menu for July 11-15

Tuesday: Liver and Onions
Wed: Chicken Fried Steak
Thursday: Chicken Strips
Friday: Fish

2005 Heat unit
calculator adds
new features

Counties has improved with open, hot, windy weather improving heat unit accumulations. Most fields are improving in appearance with excellent plant growth and are setting squares at a normal pace. Weather-related effects, in the form of heat stress, is obvious in some fields, especially dry land fields and corners and where irrigation has been late.

Square set percentages have improved within the last week. Previously, first position squares appeared 'blasted' on a small percentage of plants due to lingering weather effects caused by excessive heat, hot winds and extremely low humidity. The cotton plant is notorious for attempting to remain vegetative and promote survival which limits fruit production in times of stress. Since levels of cotton fleahoppers and/or Lygus bugs have not been noted at economic levels, weather factors in combination with this survival characteristic, appear to be the main cause for aborted fruit.

Although the 'first position' fruit should be retained by the cotton plant (producers are extremely concerned with this aspect of plant development), multi-year studies conducted by Brant Baugh, Lubbock County IPM Agent, and Tommy Doederlein, Lynn/Dawson IPM Agent, have shown that the cotton plant will compensate for this loss (to a degree) with a 'normal' year's heat unit accumulation and a 'normal' open fall. (Here again, I'm describing a low percentage of cotton plants which have lost only one functional square.) We can only hope for a more 'normal' occurrence of heat unit accumulation and extended warm fall weather in 2005 than was experienced last year. The first three weeks of squaring is still considered the most crucial and fields should be monitored closely during this period. Again, optimum square sets should be maintained above 85% for the first two weeks of squaring, with a 75% rate minimal during the 3rd week.

From the state guide, economic thresholds for implementing control interventions for the cotton fleahopper are: first week of squaring, 25 to 30 fleahoppers per 100 terminals combined with less than a 90% square set (SS); second week, the same number of fleahoppers, combined with less than 85% SS; and, third week up until the first bloom, the same number of fleahoppers combined with less than a 75% SS. Lygus bug thresholds are identical in relation to SS percentages in each week of squaring, but fewer insects are needed to justify treatment. The first week, only one Lygus bug adult or nymph per three feet of row (average) is required; the second week, again, only one adult or nymph per three feet of row is necessary; and, the third week, 2 adults or nymphs per three feet of row is justifiable. After peak bloom, treatment for Lygus is justified when counts exceed two Lygus bug adults or nymphs per three feet of row with 'less than acceptable' fruit retention, or when plants have failed to retain squares and set bolls normally during the first 4 to 5 weeks of fruiting. With the season that we have experienced thus far, 'less than acceptable' fruit retention for the first 4 to 5 weeks of fruiting would be a disaster.

Neither the cotton fleahopper nor Lygus bugs have been noted in Crosby/Floyd IPM Program fields in treatable numbers this week, even though some insecticides have been applied in our area for fleahoppers. Robert Carter, local agricultural consultant, has reported some fleahopper treatments necessary, but those have been limited to fields adjacent to the 'Cap', and surrounded by pasture and CRP.

Lygus bug Lygus bug nymph

Latest heat unit accumulations are 803 HU's through June 29, 2005, (since January 1) with the average for the same time frame for the past 5 years yielding approximately 1,062 HU's accumulated for that same period. From May 1 through June 21, 2005, there have been 735 HU's accumulated.

Dr. Randy Boman, Area Cotton Specialist, indicates the 2005 heat unit accumulation for the Southern High Plains area in the month of June is approximately 11% above the long term average (30 years +).

Grasshopper numbers continue to hold at sub-economic levels in local I.P.M. Program fields.

Beneficial predator insects and spiders are still present in significant numbers.

Cotton aphids present in Program fields last week have remained in low numbers and isolated in specific areas, predominantly dry land fields.

Latest Texas Cotton Production News from Plains Cotton Growers: Producers in Texas planted 5.80 million acres in 2005, down 1 percent from 2004. Planting in the Rio Grande Valley was completed in early-April under favorable conditions. By the end of April, planting was near completion in South Texas. Cool weather in the southern Great Plains delayed planting activities as producers waited for soil temperatures to warm up before resuming planting. Planting progress was behind the 5-year average through mid-June. On June 13, crop condition in Texas was 51 percent good to excellent, 35 percent was rated fair, and 14 percent was rated very poor to poor.

Squash bugs are now present in all Program pumpkin fields in Crosby and Floyd Counties, in primarily egg or mating adult stages. One isolated field with older plants, beginning to vine and bloom, has had two treatments in as many weeks due to excessively high pest numbers and the repeated occurrence of nymphal stage bugs. Coverage is critical when treating for these pests, and, with windy conditions that have been experienced this spring, it is crucial that insecticide treatments be made at the most opportune time of day. Early morning hours seem to be the most beneficial and ground rig applications can still be utilized in most cases to ensure penetration of the dense plant foliage and thorough coverage to the nymphs which are predominantly on the undersides of leaves.

This Texas Cooperative Extension office would like to wish everyone a safe and happy 4th of July. Although we will be closed on the 4th, I can still be reached via cell phone.

Texas Cooperative Extension will seek to provide reasonable accommodations for all persons with disabilities attending Extension programs. It is requested that contact be made at least one week in advance to advise of the auxiliary aid and/or service required. Extension programs are designed to serve people of all ages regardless of socioeconomic level, race, color, sex, religion, disability, or national origin. Services provided by the Texas A&M University System, U.S. Department of Agriculture, and the County Commissioners Courts of Texas, Cooperating.

TBWEF 2004
collection exceed 96% statewide

At a meeting of the Texas Boll Weevil Eradication Foundation (TBWEF) board of directors held in Abilene, Chief Financial Officer Tina Ballard reported that assessment collections for 2004 exceed 96% statewide and that collection of assessments for 2005 has started following receipt of certified acreage from USDA's Farm Service Agency (FSA).

Anyone planting cotton in the state of Texas is required by law to notify TBWEF of the location of that cotton. For the vast majority of growers, that notification is achieved through certification of acres with FSA.

After the final certification date, FSA transmits files to TBWEF detailing acreage, ownership and location for all cotton.

TBWEF board members openly expressed gratitude and thanks to FSA personnel at all levels for the valuable and cooperative work they do, providing a major contribution to the success of all boll weevil eradication programs across Texas.

2004 assessment collection percentages for the six zones in PCG's 41-county area, as of June 24, 2005, are:

Panhandle	99.4%
Western High Plains	97.5%
Southern High Plains	97.2%
Northern High Plains	97.1%
Northwest Plains	97.1%
Permian Basin	96.0%

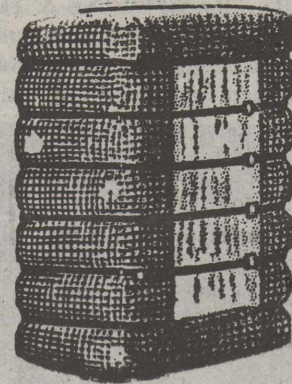

The 2005 Heat Unit calculator went on the Plains Cotton Growers' web site (<http://www.plainscotton.org>) last week and has already received its first upgrade with the addition of several features.

In addition to calculating how many Degree Day 60s (DD60s), or Heat Units, have been accumulated between any two dates at weather stations across the Texas High Plains, the updated PCG Heat Unit page now provides a primer on what heat units are and how they can be used to gauge crop progress.

Also available is a set of quick reference tables that show accumulated heat units from a set of pre-determined planting dates (moving forward at seven-day intervals). Each table includes accumulated heat units for each weather station location in the PCG database. An example of the data provided in the tables appears in the table below.

USDA Rural Development to hold Office Day

Representatives of USDA Rural Development will be holding an Office Day for residents of Floyd County on Tuesday, July 19 to provide information, assist with applications, and answer questions regarding the housing, community and business programs offered by the agency. The event will be held at the Floyd County Courthouse, County Court Room, 1st Floor, 100 S. Main, Floydada, from 10:00 a.m. until noon.

Housing Programs that are offered by USDA Rural Development include the Guaranteed Housing Loan Program, Direct Housing Loan Program, Home Repair and Rehabilitation Grant Program, and the Self-Help Housing and Technical Assistance Program. Assistance is available to very low, low, and moderate income families that live in rural areas, such as Floyd County.

USDA Rural Development's Community Programs are designed to enhance the growth and economic opportunities of rural areas by providing the means for construction, expansion, or enhancement of community facilities, telecommunication and distance education programs, and water and waste disposal systems. Since 2001, USDA Rural Development's Community programs have awarded $868 million for these purposes, and touched the lives of more than 840,000 rural residents in the process.

Entrepreneurship plays a vital role in the economic stability of rural Texas. With USDA Rural Development's Business and Cooperative Programs, rural businesses can gain access funds that normally would not be available to them. With the help of the Business and Industry Guaranteed Loan Program, Rural Business Enterprise Grant Program, Rural Business Opportunity Grant Program, and the Cooperative Development Grant and Technical Assistance Program, businesses and cooperatives can increase the economic opportunities in rural areas throughout Texas.

USDA Rural Development strives to see that rural citizens can participate fully in the global economy by providing technical assistance, funding, and other programs that help rural Americans build strong economies to improve their quality of life. For further information, or

First United Methodist Church welcomes new pastor and family

By Darwin Robinson

The First United Methodist Church of Floydada has a new minister. Pastor Les Hall and his family have been in Floydada a couple of weeks.

The Hall family moved from Canadian, Texas, where Les was pastor for the past five years. He and his wife, Sue, have been married 17 years. They have three girls, Emily, 10, Rebekah, 8, and Lauren, 5.

Pastor Hall told the Hesperian-Beacon, "We are excited to be here in Floydada. It is a great opportunity to serve the members here. They have really reached out to me and my family. The kids have already made many friends here."

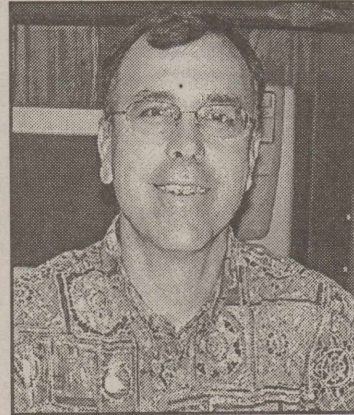

Hall went to high school at Fort Stockton. He received his two year Associate degree from South Plains College and his Bachelor of Science degree in Geology from Texas Tech University in 1984.

According to Hall, the Lord had been dealing with him about his calling into the ministry ever since his high school years at about the age of 16. It wasn't until he graduated from Texas Tech and served two years, 1984-86, ministering to students there, that he surrendered to the Lord's full-time calling.

He was Youth Minister for four years at Saint Luke's Methodist Church in Lubbock. From there he went to Asbury Seminary in Wilmore, Kentucky in 1991 and graduated with a Master of Divinity degree in 1994.

Hall has served in pastorates in the towns of Turkey, Quitaqua and Panhandle.

LES HALL

Hall said, "My desire is to win the lost to Christ, point them to be Jesus' disciples, strengthen all believers and send them out to reach others. I strongly believe in the great commission to win, disciple and send them out to serve."

About 2 weeks ago, our family had an opportunity to see first hand what a special place Lockney is. Having lived there for thirteen years we were well aware of this fact but the outpouring of care and concern that the town showed during Lindsie's illness touched our hearts deeply. When Lindsie became ill, Phil and Cindy Cotham went 2 hours out of their way to meet a friend of ours to pick her up and take her back to Lockney since we were 4 hours away in Comanche. Knowing that a trip to the hospital was probably inevitable, and not sure whether we would have the time to bring her back home, we were very confident that she would receive the very best in medical care from the staff at W.J. Mangold Hospital just as our family always had. To Dr. Kevin Stinnett and all the nurses and staff members at the hospital we are so grateful for the excellent and very professional care which we received. The quality of care received in this small town hospital always has been and will continue to be top-notch. To the inhabitants of Lockney and the surrounding area who came by to check on Lindsie we want you to know how much that was appreciated. Lockney truly is a wonderful place and always will be and that was reinforced to us on during our unexpected visit. Thank you so much.
