Bankers issues apology

Bankers and La Esperanza settle lawsuits out of court

By Alice Gilroy
The lawsuit filed by Bankers Petroleum against La Esperanza and the subsequent counter-suit by La Esperanza was settled out of court, Friday, July 22.

The details of the settlement are sealed but all claims were dismissed "with prejudice", meaning that neither side can address the issues again in a lawsuit.

Also part of the settlement was a "private and public apology" by Bankers president, Mr. Ford Nicholson, to La Esperanza Oil and Gas and owner Nancy Shockey.

"In the hearing held in Floydada on Monday, July 18, 2005 it became apparent that due to misinformation and miscommunications, some claims were erroneously stated in Bankers' pleadings filed in the lawsuit. It certainly appears to me that the facts revealed at the hearing exonerate La Esperanza and Nancy Shockey from many of the allegations of wrongdoing."

Bankers also congratulated La

Esperanza on "its monumental efforts in the Palo Duro Basin Shale Play."

"La Esperanza has successfully acquired 50,000 net mineral acres from a U.S. public company," said the apology, "then leased an additional 150,000 gross mineral acres beginning the summer of 2004 through March 2005, and then leased an additional 153,000 gross mineral acres in the Shale Play in Briscoe, Motley, and Floyd Counties."

Nicholson said Bankers' has the highest regard for La Esperanza achievements in the Palo Duro Basin Shale Play."

Bankers also "clarified" that the "net" acreage, mentioned above, totaled approximately 255,000 acres.

Both Bankers and La Esperanza will pay their own court costs.

According to Raul Guerrero, title manager with La Esperanza, "Both companies will still be cooperating with each other but will not be partnered anymore. We will be going our own separate ways for the most part." Bankers and La Esperanza will still be active in the Palo Duro Basin Shale Play and all past leasing agreements entered into with La Esperanza and Bankers will be honored according to Guerrero.

"La Esperanza will be expanding into other counties also," said Guerrero.

In the original lawsuit, filed July 6, Bankers had claimed a "breach of contract" by La Esperanza.

La Esperanza denied all claims and sought damages of $810,1663.27 from Bankers.

Both companies had also sought temporary restraining orders against each other.

Bankers is an oil and gas company "engaged in the business of exploring for and producing oil and gas. LEOG is an oil and gas company engaged in the business of leasing for oil and gas acreage within the area generally known as the Palo Duro Basin."

ASSISTED LIVING CENTER COMING UP-Chad Shoor and Adam Mole of Burgett Construction Company from Shallowater were seen bringing up the framework for the Assisted Living Center in Floydada. It is estimated to be 6 months before the center will be finished.

The Lamplighter

By: Ken Towery
email: chowdipper@austin.rr.com

We see by the Austin paper (in a piece by Mike Ward) where the Texas State Senate has voted to increase the pay of all sorts of judges substantially, and in the process increase their own retirement pay, substantially and incidentally. The Texas House of Representatives had previously voted to do the same thing, but minor differences remain between the two chambers, which will no doubt be ironed out quickly, since their own situations can be improved thereby.

In passing, however, it should be noted that David Dewhurst, the Lt. Gov. and leader of the Senate, says he will allow no conference committee votes until the Legislature takes care of the business for which the Governor called them together. That means they have got to come to some sort of agreement on taxes and school finance before they increase their own income.

The story noted that the present situation, that of tying the pay of judges, particularly District judges, to the retirement income of Legislators, started way back in 1991. When the pay of judges goes up, the retirement pay of Legislators goes up also, and has, since that time. Now what do you think, gentle reader, was running the House of Representatives at that time, and had the genius to engineer such a thing? If you don't know, we're not going to tell you, but you may, if you wish, call Pete Laney over in Hale Center and ask him. He was around during those years, and may remember. He may even return your phone call, if he doesn't know what you are calling about.

The present pay raise legislation was, according to the story, authored in the Senate by our own Senator Robert Duncan, of Lubbock, who otherwise has a pretty good head on his shoulders. But Duncan is a lawyer, out of the law firm of Crenshaw, Dupree and Milam, or something like that, whom many of us supported despite the fact that he was, publicly, "advised" on politics by Karl Rove. Senator Duncan would normally do what he could to incur the good will of District Judges before whom he might be called upon to practice. Other lawyer-Senators are in a similar boat. The current situation is no exception, and as long as voters tolerate it, there will be no change.

Over the years, as long as the present damnable situation has prevailed, certain people have advocated tying lawmakers' retirement income to school teachers income. I don't know why it has to be tied to anybody's salary, other than their own. Many people, including no few school teachers, have opposed that idea from the beginning. And the legislature, in its wisdom, is reluctant to adopt any idea that may have some organized resistance anywhere in the electorate. That is merely a given. So they settled on judges, who also prefer to have their salary raised with a minimum of fanfare, out of the public limelight. The judges can always find somebody to bell the cat, and this time was no exception. And we will note that the vote was taken quietly, without benefit of a roll call. Just like over in the House.

So the salaries went from where to where? Well, the pay would jump about 23 percent. Judges, excuse us, "Justices" on the Supreme Court and "Judges" on the Court of Criminal Appeals, would go from $113,000 to $150,000. The pay of District Judges would jump from a mere $101,000 to $125,000 per year, plus a few perks. And since the retirement income of state officials, of which Legislators are a part, are, for the most part, pegged to an involved formula that credits age, length of service, and pay schedules to retirement income, people like Speaker Tom Craddick down in Midland, would have drawn $103,500 when he retires, but will now, obviously, get more. (He's been in the Legislature since 1968. Former House Speaker Pete Laney has been there a little less.) This is of course despite the fact that a member of the Legislature draws down only $7,200 a year for what is supposed to be a part-time job, plus $128 for every day they are in session. By tying their retirement pay to the salaries of Judges, the portfolio of a sitting state official is considerably enhanced.

I suppose one could be philosophical about it, and say that as far as personal finances are concerned, this shows how little difference there is between the 2005 Legislators, most of whom are Republicans, and the 1991 Legislators, most of whom were Democrats. On some issues, there are vast differences, but in terms of personal finance, very little indeed.

LOCKNEY SENIOR CITIZENS NEWS

By Vera Jo Bybee

Betty Veal and I went out to Kenneth Gregg's vegetable garden to see what he has available. His tomatoes are not ripe yet but he has squash, cucumbers and sweet corn ready to sell. I bought a box of sweet corn and it was soooo good. Maybe because it was my first mess of the year.

If you want some good vegetables you must come to Lockney to Gregg's vegetable garden.

The Senior Citizen Center also wants to thank Kenneth for donating all the fresh vegetables to the Center. Van Bradley who works for Kenneth brings them to Center for us old folks to eat. You must come to the Center and eat so you can sample the corn, squash and cucumbers.

More thanks from the Center goes to Molly Huffman and Virginia Sissney for making our memorial cards and membership cards. Since July 1 there have been 78 members to pay their dues.

David Frizzell accompanied his daughters Cindy Cotham and Julie Dorman and their families on their annual Colorado vacation to the Rocky Mountain Lodge at Antonita. Cindy said there several Lockney families there on vacation.

Talking about vacations Robbie and Tracy Long and children had planned on going to Destin Florida with Tracy's parents and her brother and sister and their families. Well the sharks came and hurricane Dennis hit so they turned around at New Orleans and came back to Texas and had a good time at Lake Palestine. Texas is always best. Right Tracy?

Last Friday Mary Quattlebaum and Joy Assiter came to Lockney and picked up Joyce Wilson and me. We went to Tulia and met Orlie K Simpson of Lockhart and Millie Simpson of Amarillo and Martha Jennings of Tulia for lunch. Later we went to Martha Nell's for dessert and more visiting.

When we got back to Lockney we stopped at Mary McCarter's to see how she was recuperating from her knee replacement surgery. She is getting along great.

This week's Senior Citizen profile is on Juanita Broseh.

Juanita Tinsley was born on March 7, 1929 at Lockney, Texas to Roy and Edith Downe Tinsley. She attended school at Sterley and graduated from Lockney High School in 1946.

She met Kenneth Broseh from Electra in 1956 and they were married in a garden wedding on August 22, 1957 at her familie's home in the Sterley community.

Floydada Boy Scouts attend National Scout Jamboree

BOWLING GREEN, Va.

A July 24, 2005 AP story in the Washington times recently reported on the tent city that has sprung up on an Army base, an hour from Washington D.C., which will house more than 40,000 Boy Scouts, leaders and volunteers from around the world arriving for the 2005 National Scout Jamboree.

Floydada Troop 357 has 3 Scouts attending the Jamboree.

AP Reporter Michael Felberbaum quoted military spokesman Major Vince Mitchell, "It is extraordinary to see. If this was a city in the commonwealth of Virginia, it would be the seventh-largest city."

The story goes on to say "the temporary village, created every four years at Fort A.P. Hill since 1981, is in jeopardy because a federal judge recently ruled that the Pentagon can no longer financially support the event.

"If the ruling stands, the Boy Scouts of America would have to find another location for their next gathering.

"A lawsuit filed by the American Civil Liberties Union of Illinois contends that the Defense Department's sponsorship violates the First Amendment because the Scouts require members to swear an oath of duty to God. No other youth organization receives millions of dollars in government support, the lawsuit states.

"In exchange for getting the use of the Army training base, the Scouts have spent about $20 million on base improvements that include road paving and plumbing upgrades. The Army uses the Jamboree as an opportunity to train its personnel in crowd control, communications and other logistical skills.

"It is our belief that what they do is not fund the Jamboree," said Robert Bork Jr., a spokesman for the Irving, Texas-based BSA. "It is not as if the military is writing us a check."

"Still, an estimated $7.3 million in government money will be used to transport military personnel and goods to the base for this year's event, which includes a scheduled visit from President

Tips on Turf

From time to time we the Floyd County Cooperative Extension Service will provide helpful information to homeowners regarding lawn care or tree management. This week we'll discuss a simple method for evaluating your lawn's irrigation system. The following information is provided by Mr. Roger Havlak and Drs. David Chalmers and James McAfee with Texas Cooperative Extension. The following recommendations can be applied for automatic systems as well as traditional water hose and sprinklers.

Have you ever wondered if your irrigation system is placing water evenly throughout your landscape? Do you have areas in your turf that seem to remain rather dry compared to other sites in your lawn? Do you have any idea how many inches of water is applied when you irrigate for an hour? One method used to answer all of these questions is an "irrigation audit".

An irrigation audit is used to evaluate the performance of your irrigation system. By performing an audit, one can obtain an application rate (inches of water per hour) as well as the distribution uniformity of your system. It is a rather simple task to perform.

Just take several catch cans (i.e. tuna fish cans, cat food cans, dog food cans, etc.) and place them in one of your zoned areas. Place a catch can two feet from each irrigation head and one between irrigation heads. Turn on that irrigation zone for 15 to 30 minutes and measure the amount of water (inches) captured in the cans with a measuring tape or ruler. Record the values and obtain an average for all the can measurements. For example, if your average is 1/4 inch for 15 minutes, you would then have an application rate of 1 inch per hour for that zone. By drawing a diagram of your zone, you can also record the values for each head and see just how uniform the water is being applied to your lawn. Do this for each zone to evaluate your entire irrigation system. Make the needed adjustments to your system so that you can have an efficient and effective irrigation system.

For more detailed information on "Water Management for Turfgrass" and "Irrigation Audits", go to the <http://aggie-turf.tamu.edu> and click on "TurfTips" or contact Floyd County Extension Agent, J.D. Ragland at 806-983-4912.

Reach, throw, then go

Contrary to what's portrayed in movies, drowning victims usually don't scream and splash when in distress - they just go underwater.

"When we encourage people to watch over your family near the water, we're encompassing several messages, including never swim alone, keep a close watch on friends and family in the water, and keep a constant eye on children," said Steve Hall, education director for the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department. Hall recommends that groups or families assign one person to keep a constant watch on both adults and children in and near the water.

"It's especially important to be aware of hazards when you're on an open water body like a lake, river or bay," added Hall. "Someone who is a weak swimmer may be in the water at waist level and their next step could be a 10-foot drop-off."

Practical advice from water rescue experts includes the steps, "reach, throw, then row."

The first step is to use a rope, tree branch or other object to try to reach the swimmer from shore. The next step is to throw something buoyant such a life jacket, inner tube or a plastic foam ice chest. If the first two steps fail, put on a life jacket and row out to the swimmer with a boat or a raft.

"Unfortunately, we see many multiple drowning cases where folks go into the water to rescue a friend or a loved one who is drowning and they end up becoming a drowning victim as well," said Alfonso Campos, chief of marine enforcement at TPWD.

"It's essential that you first try to help the swimmer using the reach, throw, and row method. If those steps don't work and you must go into the water because there is no other option, it's essential that you wear a life jacket, take a flotation device for the swimmer, and call for help or alert someone before you head into the water," he said.

TPWD is responsible for enforcing the Texas Water Safety Act on all public waters, certifying boater education students and instructors, and maintaining statistics about boating-related fatalities in Texas. TPWD also offers boating safety classes.

Frequently asked questions about boating laws

Frequently Asked Questions About Boating Laws

Does the "Open Container" law apply when I'm in my boat?

No. This law, effective Sept. 1, 2001, prohibits the possession of an open container of an alcoholic beverage in the passenger area of a motor vehicle. It does not apply to watercraft.

Can my driver's license be suspended if I'm arrested for operating a boat while intoxicated?

Yes. Effective Sept. 1, 2001, a person's drivers license will be automatically suspended if the arrested person:

- *Is operating a watercraft powered with an engine having a manufacturer's rating of 50 horsepower or more; and
- *The person refuses to provide a specimen (breath or blood) to determine intoxication.

The period of suspension for first time offenders is 180 days.

Who reports boating accidents to your department?

It is the responsibility of the boat operator who is involved in the accident. Each operator must file a boating accident report if the accident:

- *Results in death; or
- *Injuries to a person requiring medical treatment beyond first aid; or
- *Causes damage to vessel(s) or property in excess of $500.

Report forms can be downloaded from the TPWD Web site under the BOATING link.

How do I find out if there are any special water safety regulations on a lake I want to visit?

The rules in the Texas Water Safety Act apply to all public water in Texas. The local governing body of incorporated cities or towns, county commissioner's courts, and political subdivisions can pass rules relating to restricted areas and the operation and equipment of boats it deems necessary for the public safety.

You must contact the entity in charge to determine if any special rules apply.

One's greatest blessing is having family and friends who care. Dayne and I have been so blessed by each and everyone's phone calls, cards and visits during Dayne's recent surgery. We are so rich with many friends that words are not actuate enough during this trying time. Thank you does not even come close as to how we feel. Jesus' healing power has glorified God's power in Dayne's emergency surgery.

A special thank you to our church family and especially Brother Bill and Brother Scott for the visits and prayers and to our Adult II Sunday school class, we have felt all of the prayers. Thank you and may God bless and keep each and everyone.

Dayne and Penny Golightly

For the quick response to our emergency fire call, we wish to thank you.

Bill and Aliene Hambright

Thanks to everyone that have shown your love and concern through cards, thoughts and prayers during my past and recent surgeries. May God bless each and everyone of you always.

Sam Baker's last wishes honored by his family

By Joyce Williams

Sam Baker's last wishes were honored by his family July 4, 2005 at 10:00 a.m. They scattered his ashes over the farm in the Sandhill Community, where Sam and his wife, Betty, had lived and raised their two children, Donna and Chuck from 1948 to 1964.

Sam retired from farming in 1964 and bought Bakers Insurance Agency in Floydada. In 1992 he sold the agency to Goen and Goen and retired. His nephew, J.O. Dawdy and family now own the Sandhill farm.

On July 4, 2005, Sam's family gathered from Davidson, North Carolina, Lubbock, Seminole and Lafayette, Colorado to meet at the Sandhill farm. His son, Chuck conducted the service with prayer, words of love and fond memories as he scattered his father's ashes over the land he had loved.

Grandson, Sam Garret Baker of Davidson, North Carolina presented the United States flag to mark the location of the ceremony. A fenced metal plaque is planned for the spot in the future.

Those present for the family memorial July 4 included his wife, Betty Baker; son, Charles and wife Dana and children Sabrina, Lexa and Sam Garret of Davidson, North Carolina; daughter, Donna Brand and her husband Larry of Lafayette, Colorado; niece, Carol and Jerrel Griffin of Lubbock; nephew, J.O. and Cheryl Dawdy and their daughter, Leigh and her husband Andy Crammer of Seminole.
