Seven Major Commands Get New Graduates

Reese will graduate the largest class of the past year on September 11 when 46 young officers will be awarded silver wings of the Air Force pilot.

Seven major commands are being assigned the graduates. Three graduates are returning to their Air National Guard units.

Air Training Command is retaining 11 of the graduates, six of them as instructor pilots. Strategic Air Command is being sent ten of the new pilots, Tactical Air Command nine and Military Air Transport Service six. Three graduates go to Air Defense Command, three to Air Force Communications Service and one to Air Force Logistics Command.

Graduation speaker will be Brig. Gen. Henry C. Newcomer, director of inspections in the office of the inspector general.

Air Force Chief Lauds Personnel For Contribution

All members of the Air Force are commended by Gen. Curtis E. Lemay, chief of staff, on occasion of the 17th anniversary of the service.

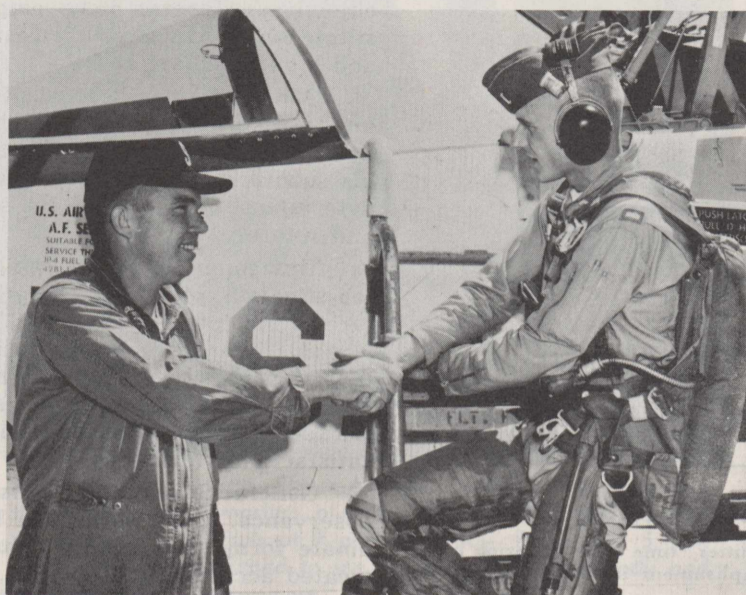

"On September 18," the general said, "the United States Air Force will celebrate its seventeenth anniversary as a separate military department. The past 17 years have witnessed a tremendous increase in our total aerospace power and combat effectiveness.

"Strategic missiles have been added to the piloted aircraft in the deterrent force. Aerospace defense systems have been improved, and airlift, COIN, and tactical air forces modernized.

"The Air Force has become the defense department's primary service for space research and development. At the same time, our technological research and new-gained knowledge have served humanitarian needs. Through these achievements the cause of peace and freedom have been served.

"The secretary and I commend each of you for your efforts in meeting this challenging task and we feel confident that you will continue to fulfill this global responsibility."

The FPCA — Federal Post Card Application — provides an easy way to get an absentee ballot.

SOLOIST—First member of Class 65-E to solo in the T-38 Talon, 1st Lt. William J. Fitzgerald receives congratulations of Capt. Gale Hearn, commander of Flight 9, 3500th Pilot Training Squadron, after he lands.

Three On-Base Classes Programmed

Reese military personnel will have the opportunity of enrolling in three on-base high school classes for the fall semester — English grammar, beginning algebra and slide rule.

The grammar class will include study of the eight parts of speech, including nouns, verbs, prepositions and adjectives, sentence structure, capitalization and punctuation. The course is especially valuable to persons who plan to take the high school GED test or who are planning to take college English at a later date, said Floyd

Reeves, base education officer.

Beginning algebra will include general numbers and formulas, simple equations, positive and negative numbers, graphs and systems of equations. The course is needed for a study of electronics and for college entrance.

The slide rule course is intended to teach rapid calculations and includes learning the scales, multiplication and division, squaring and square root, cubes and cube root, sines and log scales. It will be helpful to men planning to be engineers.

On-base classes will meet once a week for 12 weeks from 6:30 to 9:30 p.m. in Building 915, starting September 21. Algebra classes are to meet on Monday, grammar on Tuesday and slide rule Wednesday. Interested persons are asked to enroll without delay in the base education office in Building 1031 so that contracts may be signed with teachers.

Stops Announced For School Bus

The bus schedule for Reese children attending the Frenship schools in Wolfforth has been announced. Classes start at 8:40 a.m. on September 4.

School buses will start at 8 a.m. on the south side of the hospital, with these stops:

- Trailer park—8:15 a.m.
- Arnold and Mitchell—8:17.
- Arnold and Wagner—8:18.
- Arnold and George—8:19.
- Arnold and McGuire—8:20.
- McGuire and Mitchell—8:21.
- McGuire and Harmon—8:22.
- Harmon and George—8:23.
- Principal's home—8:24.

Afternoon stops will be at the hospital at 4:20 p.m. and follow the same route to the principal's home at 4:34 p.m.

Entries Sought In Photo Contest

Reese photography enthusiasts were urged this week to begin working on entries for the annual Air Training Command photography contests. Two classifications will be used again this year — black and white and color.

Each of the two classes will have portrait, animal and pets, sports or action, scenic and experimental entries. Points toward the ATC commander's participation trophy will be obtained by each base competing in the contest, with additional points for winners.

Help to Reese photographers will be given in a workshop starting at 7 p.m. Tuesday in Mathis Service Club with 2nd Lt. Richard Estes in charge. All interested personnel may attend the workshop.

Director Praises Validation Team

Reese in general and the manpower validation team attached here were given high praise by Col. L. M. Voss, Air Training Command manpower and organization director, and his aides following a visit here early this month.

The colonel told 1st Lt. Patrick Dolan, Reese team officer, he was highly pleased with the operation of the base and with cooperation given the team in "compiling a fine record."

Colonel Voss was accompanied by four other officers and visited various areas of operation here.

New Food Service Contract Signed; Airmen Mess Check Duty Eliminated In Setup

The extra duty job of mess checker is passing from the Reese picture on October 1.

Airmen first class and airmen second class now have the duty, and have had for a long time, of performing mess check, a few hours on weekend but lengthy hours on workdays. They start away before dawn and end up well into the night in the wing dining hall.

But a new food service contract effective October 1 makes the contractor responsible for all mess checks. This phase of activity is a part of the contract just signed with the ABC Food Service, Inc., of El Paso, which was highly recommended by officers of bases on which it operates.

The Reese contract is "the best" ever had for food service here, procurement officials state.

ABC Food Service for five of the past six years has served Vandenberg AFB in California, for three years has been under contract at Robins AFB, Ga., and for two years has been the contractor at Mather AFB. In getting the Reese contract for a year starting in October, the firm offered better terms and conditions than any of the other bidders.

Plans call for ABC to send in supervisors and to use local labor, in the main, it was said.

All Reese Personnel Urged To Start Absentee Voting Procedure At Once

Reese personnel this week were urged to secure and mail requests for absentee ballots to their home states without delay in order that they are assured of a vote in the general election on November 3.

Most states have set a deadline for acceptance of these requests, standard form 76, and most of the state officers point out that sufficient time is allowed them for proper handling of the applications.

Reese voters with residences in the District of Columbia must have their applications reaching that area by September 19. New York has set 10 days prior to voting day as the deadline. October 2 is set for Arizona, Arkansas and California and the following day in Indiana, Iowa and Kansas.

Dates set in other states include:

- October 13 — Rhode Island, South Carolina and South Dakota.
- October 14—Kentucky.
- October 19—Wyoming.
- October 24 — Maryland and Massachusetts.
- October 25—Hawaii, Idaho and Illinois.
- October 27—Louisiana, Maine, New Hampshire, North Carolina, New Jersey, Nevada and New Mexico.
- October 29—Tennessee.
- October 30—Alabama, Colorado, Connecticut, Delaware, Florida, Georgia, Texas, Utah, Vermont, Virginia and Washington.
- October 31—Alaska, Michigan, Minnesota, Mississippi, Missouri, Montana, Nebraska, Ohio, Oklahoma, Oregon, Pennsylvania and West Virginia.
- November 3—North Dakota.

Wisconsin automatically sends SF 76 to the voter, once he is registered and sends instructions on returning.

Virtually all states accept absentee ballots until polls close on election day, November 3.

College Schedules Currently Available

Reese personnel planning to enroll in Texas Tech or South Plains College classes this fall may check class schedules in the base education office.

Enrollment at South Plains is September 8; Tech registration is September 15 and 16.

Students should initiate registration procedures in the education office.

Our way of life depends upon the VOTE.

Quota Larger For Promotion

Airmen second class and airmen first class hoping for an extra stripe in the October promotion cycle will find their chances more than double that of June.

Airmen third class expecting to move up also face improved prospects but not on the scale of the two higher grades.

The October quota for staff sergeants, just released by the Air Force, numbers 8,000. The airman first class figure is pegged at 25,000 and the airman second class quota is 19,000.

Air Training Command is allotted 535 staff sergeants, 1,104 airman firsts and 1,239 airman seconds.

Communications Airman Honored

A2C Clinton E. McAdams has been selected winner of the airman of the quarter award for the April-June period in the 2053rd Communications Squadron, which includes detachments at Webb and Amarillo AFB's.

The letter of nomination said the airman has performed his duties "in an excellent manner and with a minimum of supervision." It also stated that McAdams on his off-duty time prepared reports and documents industriously and accurately and that he also possesses good knowledge of shop organization and administration. He also prepared instructions for work in his unit.

Airman McAdams was recognized as airman of the quarter with a letter from his commander, a three-day pass and two steak dinners at the NCO open mess.

PLAYERS NAMED

Two men, A3C Alexander A. Pietruszynski, and A2C Enrique B. Saudi, will represent Reese in the Air Training Command chess tournament August 31 at San Antonio. They are winners of the Base tournament in Mathis Service club.

BIG MELONS—About a ton of watermelons—41 of them weighing upward of 50 pounds each—were donated to Reese last week by a Carlisle neighbor, William A. "Farmer" Johnston, former finance officer in the Army. Johnston grew the melons on his farm near Carlisle and joined his father, Col. Ben H. Johnston, retired, of Tulsa, in the gift. The melons were served in the wing dining hall. In this picture, sons of William Johnston are futilely trying to move a bulky melon. Ray, 5, and Bud, 8, are making the effort as Jack and Robbie, 7, give encouragement from behind.

VISITOR—Major Augusto Reyes, right, chief of public information for the Chilean Air Force, is spending a year in the Air Training Command information office watching the USAF information program in action. Here he is briefed by Col. Cecil H. Scott Jr., ATC chief of information.

ATC Commander Gives Greetings

Jewish personnel of Air Training Command have been extended greetings by Lt. Gen. Robwert W. Burns, ATC commander, as they observe the Jewish New Year, Rosh Hashana.

"On the occasion of the Jewish New Year I extend greetings to all Jewish personnel in the Air Training Command," the general said. "The significance of moral and religious observances is vital to the preparation of people who must properly discharge their responsibilities in an environment of international crises provoked by militant materialism.

"May the New Year bring you, your families, and all mankind the blessings of health, happiness and peace."

LOS ANGELES AFS (AFNS)—Floyd W. Duffey has donated the $1,300 he won through the Air Force suggestion award program to the Christian Hacienda orphanage of Tijuana, Mex.

Procurement Needs Good Management

Management of personnel, facilities, time and materiel is particularly important to mission accomplishment in Air Training Command's base procurement offices.

The combination of a complex job and limited personnel resources make good management and training a must. Facility utilization must be at or near the maximum and time and materials must be conserved.

This climate allows the young officer assigned to procurement ample opportunity to put his training to work.

He must participate in technical discussions where procurement guidelines are "laid down" early to meet target deadlines. He must also calculate "lead time" factors and coordinate the efforts of others to a considerable degree in achieving his goals.

Finally, he must accomplish these tasks while concerning himself with the problems normally associated with training others. This is no small challenge.

But, to the aggressive young officer intent on a career that is at once demanding and at the same time rewarding, it can be the source of much satisfaction in job-accomplishment.

With increasing emphasis on cost reduction and increased efficiency, the opportunity for rapid recognition and advancement in this field has never been better. See your Personnel Officer. (ATCPS)

Firm Marriages Based On Quest

(By the USAF Chaplain Board)
"When you are ready to get married," parents tell their daughters, "be sure to pick out a good, steady young man who has a job with a future and who saves his money. Then you will have security and happiness." This always sounds like good advice.

Many parents feel that a young girl would naturally want to picture her future husband as driving away from a handsome new home each morning in a big shiny car on his way to the executive offices. The wife-to-be, after giving the maid a few instructions, would then drive away in the second car to the country club.

Fortunately for young couples, marriages never seem to follow the lines of this dream architecture. According to experts on mate selection, marriages are more often based on the desire to fulfill hidden emotional and spiritual needs, and not merely on physical attraction or the desire to find financial security or social status.

What kind of mates do we seek? After thousands of computations and correlations, experts on marriage conclude that we select a partner whose personality fills our own unconscious or conscious needs. In other words, the husband and wife seek complementary emotional resources to make their marriage work.

Apparently, then, love is not basically a quest for the handsome person, the new home and shiny car. Instead it is a quest for completeness.

Commander's Comments...

By COL. DUDLEY E. FAVER
Wing Commander

Lieutenant General W. S. Stone, Air Force Deputy Chief of Staff for Personnel, recently stated his opinion regarding the importance of the first-line supervisor. Although recognizing that higher echelons contribute to organizational good health by prescribing sound policies for promoting overall objectives, General Stone emphasized that there is no substitute for a harmonious relationship between the individual and his immediate boss.

Our operations here at Reese bear out this philosophy, for I am sure that every capable supervisor in this organization realizes the impact his every word and action has upon his subordinates. He knows full well that how he supervises determines the pattern of his subordinates' actions — present and future.

This supervision may well extend beyond the day-to-day job situation, often into the personal affairs and related welfare of his people. However, the capable supervisor never lets this interest and understanding be carried to the degree that would allow him to tolerate substandard performance. Instead, he carries out his responsibilities in positive action that seeks the best possible solution for any problems or dissatisfaction which may exist.

General Stone's opinion is most valid and worthy of our observance. The relationship between supervisor and subordinate forms the basis for our effectiveness and should be treated accordingly.

Vote As Free Americans

(An AFNS Editorial)

One way we can perform our duties as free Americans this election year is to become informed on the candidates and issues and then vote. Those of us serving away from our states of residence can keep informed through subscriptions to home-town newspapers or by requesting literature from nonpartisan citizen voting leagues.

Unit voting officers are equipped to advise everyone on absentee balloting requirements in each state. Don't delay until it's too late to exercise the precious privilege of voting in a free election.

Although general election day is Nov. 3, many states require early registration. Find out now what you must do in order to have your voice heard when the time comes to choose our national leaders. Register and vote!

"Prophecy is always unsure. But if anything is certain it is that this Nation can never again retreat from world responsibility." — President Lyndon B. Johnson.

New Vice Chief Assumes Duties

WASHINGTON (AFNS) — Airman, diplomat, tactician — all of these descriptions apply to Gen. John P. McConnell, the 56-year-old native of Booneville, Ark., who became Air Force vice chief of staff on Aug. 1.

General McConnell, who was graduated from West Point 32 years ago this summer, succeeded Gen. William F. McKee in the Air Force's second most important military assignment. In a career that has seen American aerospace power evolve from bi-planes to intercontinental ballistic missiles and the YF-12, General McConnell has worked in almost every phase of the growth of the Air Force.

Since his first duty with the 79th Pursuit Squadron at Barksdale Field, La. in 1933, he has flown fighter aircraft, commanded bombers, planned and directed overseas combat operations, and participated in the development of the nation's deterrent forces.

Language Tests Given Revision

A new test program designed to provide closer evaluation and proficiency rating of military personnel with foreign language capabilities has been started in Air Training Command.

Under the sponsorship of the Defense Language Institute, a new set of 29 language proficiency tests (LPT) have been distributed to replace the current exams which are now obsolete.

Magnetic tapes have replaced phonograph records formerly used in testing. The prerecorded, reusable tapes (one for each language) contain materials spoken in the specific language and are necessary for the administration of the tests.

Also included in the program is a new system of recording LPT results which is currently being standardized for use by all military services. Some added requirements included in the new program insure that the individual who achieves a 4 or 5 level of proficiency not only received high test scores, but has the background and experience to warrant his assignment to a position requiring the highest possible level of bi-lingual or native language ability.

Airline Courtesy Cards Available

Braniff Airways has announced that its regular courtesy cards are available to active duty commissioned officers of the U. S. forces without the usual red tape. A simplified application form is used and there is no fee for the card.

The courtesy cards are good for travel anywhere on Braniff's domestic system and to and from Mexico City. The officer need not be in uniform when he travels, except when traveling on standby, space available basis, to take advantage of the airline's half-fare offer to servicemen traveling on official leave. The officer may also obtain tickets for his family's air travel on Braniff with the card.

Officers may apply at any Braniff sales office or write Braniff, Pioneer Hotel, Lubbock.

MELODYMEN — The Chuck-A-Lucks, calling themselves the nationally known masters of mirth and melody, will appear at Mathis Service Club at 9 p.m. Saturday, September 5. All Reese people are invited to see "one of the best comedy and song acts in show business."

SAC Gets New Control System

WASHINGTON (AFNS) — A new electronic command and control system which will be used to direct Strategic Air Command forces is being phased in at Offutt AFB, Neb.

The war room at SAC headquarters is being remodeled to accommodate the system, known as Project 465L. It is one of the largest command and control systems ever produced and will supplement other existing SAC communication and control systems. Project 456L is, basically, a two-way communications system funneling information to SAC headquarters and sending operational instructions to subordinate units. The entire data handling process is automated, using computers as the storehouse and control element for the mass of information.

SEASON'S END—The Reese Little League officially drew to a close last Sunday with a banquet in the NCO Open Mess. A total of 93 trophies were presented to players, coaches and workers who made the 1964 season the best yet. Topping the league were the Braves, with a 17-3 record. The Dodgers grabbed second spot, followed by the Giants. The Yankees took first place in the minor league, besting a resurgent Cardinals club. Colonel Joseph E. Payne, acting wing commander, spoke at the gathering.

General Cautions Against Letdown

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AFNS)—Gen. Bernard A. Schriever, Air Force Systems Command commander, warned here against a letdown in national attitudes toward the job that remains to be done in the nation's defense effort.

General Schriever said the success of the ballistic missile program has given the United States "clear strategic superiority."

He pointed out, however, that after every great achievement, there is always some temptation to let down.

The nation would be most unwise to let this happen now because the Soviets are working night and day to upset the U. S. advantage, General Schriever said.

There are several areas of ballistic missile technology that will continue to be extremely important during the next 10 to 15 years, he said.

As examples, he cited "achieving greater accuracy for our existing missile force, developing more sophisticated reentry vehicles to confuse the (enemy) defense and finding new basic concepts that will give greater reliability.

"... Technology is the key to our nation's future... not only in the military area but also in the economic area," he declared.

"Those of us who are responsible for the national security must ensure that technical progress does in fact serve national military policy effectively," General Schriever added.

Board Scheduled In Project 20-3

WASHINGTON (AFNS)—The Air Force convenes its annual board here Oct. 26 to consider retaining on active duty certain Regular Air Force male line officers serving in the permanent grades of colonel and lieutenant colonel.

Those not selected for retention will be retired within approximately six months of Secretary of the Air Force approval of the board's report.

Surprising Reese Rattlers Win Fourth In ATC Tourney

The Reese baseball team pulled an upset in the Air Training Command tournament in the opening game and went on to finish fourth in stiff competition last week at Randolph AFB.

The strong Keesler Tarpons were expected to have no trouble with the Reese Rattlers in the first game of the tourney, but found themselves on the short end of a 7-4 score when the game was over. Reese then upset the Laughlin Raiders, 13 to 0, but that was the end of the road. Reese fell before Randolph, 10 to 0, and was eliminated by Sheppard, 8 to 7.

The Lackland Warhawks repeated as ATC champions, defeating the favored Randolph, 9 to 6 and 3 to 2, for the title. Lackland had four wins, no losses, with Randolph 4-2 and Sheppard 3-2.

Reese picked up 105 points toward the ATC commander's trophy on the tournament record.

In defeating Keesler, Reese scored three runs in the first, two in the third and two in the fourth innings, while Keesler scored only in the fourth. Pat Scallon was winning pitcher, backed by a two-run homer and a double by Joe Burns and four singles by Ron Kepner in five times at the plate.

Hansel Faulkner pitched a two-hit shutout against Laughlin as Reese collected nine hits and took advantage of Laughlin errors.

Against Randolph, the Rattlers

scored three potential runs in early innings cut off by spectacular plays and Randolph added four runs to its score in the ninth. Jim Liller, nursing a sore arm, was losing pitcher.

Reese held Sheppard scoreless for three innings in its closing encounter, but also was unable to score in the same innings. In the fourth frame, the Reese defense fell apart to allow seven runs. Five of these were recovered in the top of the fifth and the score was tied in the seventh. But Sheppard pushed over the winning run in the eighth.

Mike Clem, Scallon and Faulkner pitched the losing game, with Faulkner taking the loss. Kepner contributed two consecutive home runs, each with a man on base.

Reese finished highest of the smaller bases and had numerous rooters from the San Antonio area.

Reese Competing In ATC Softball

The Reese all-star softball team, selected from members of intramural squads, competes next week in the Air Training Command tournament at Amarillo AFB. Its record matches well with those of other teams.

The team defeated the Gulf Oilers, 19 to 3, and Fields and Company, 9 to 1, last week in practice for the ATC contests. Robinson and Broxton homered against Fields.

A3C Jim Bailey of Lackland and SSgt. Ralph Morrow of Sheppard tied with 290 strokes for first place in the open division. On a play-off Bailey won.

In the latter event, he staged a photo finish with A3C Bill Green of Sheppard.

Air Force, NASA Working Together

WASHINGTON (AFNS) — The last six years have been a steady strengthening of understanding, coordination and mutual support between the Air Force and the National Aeronautics and Space Administration, NASA Administrator James E. Webb says in the August issue of The Airman magazine.

Citing support given NASA in several areas, Webb says the rapid rate of progress of his organization in the national space program would have been impossible without the launch vehicles and related technology derived from Air Force missile programs.

NASA was created in 1958 by the National Aeronautics and Space Act and given broad responsibilities in meeting space needs of the nation. Military space activities were reserved to the Defense Department which in turn appointed the Air Force to implement the major portion of the military space effort.

Since then, both agencies have worked closely in space exploration.

In an article written especially for The Airman magazine, the official journal of the Air Force, Webb points out that NASA has relied heavily on the Thor, Atlas, Agena and Titan II rockets developed by the Air Force and plans to use them extensively during much of this decade.

An Air Force Atlas was used to launch four successful flights of Mercury astronauts in Earth orbit and the Titan II will be used to boost the two-man Gemini spacecraft.

The unmanned Ranger 7 spacecraft, which recently landed on the moon, was carried aloft by an Atlas-Agena combination developed by the Air Force.

NASA continues to look to the Air Force for many essential services in support of its operations, Webb writes.

'ARISE' UNDER TEST

RICHARDS-GEBAUR AFB, Mo. (AFNS) — The 328th Fighter Wing, Richards-Gebaur AFB, Mo., is testing "Action Reporting for Improved System Effectiveness" (ARISE), a new Air Force maintenance procedure system.

CANDY SEE—Candy See and The Zircons, who have appeared coast to coast, will provide entertainment from 9 p.m. until 1 a.m. Friday at the NCO open mess. The young people have appeared in night clubs and on television in many states and set a record with 15 weeks of performance at Las Vegas. Candy See, blue eyed blonde dancer and singer, has been applauded everywhere she has performed.

General Comments Further About Military Discipline

Seeking to assist commands of Air Training Command in maintaining proper military discipline, Maj. Gen. Henry K. Mooney, ATC vice commander, has prepared many suggestions on conduct. Some of these were published recently in The Roundup. Others follow:

Lounging in uniform on the street: Either walk, stand, or sit. Don't drape around a handy post, pole, waste can, or hydrant.

Phone dangling: If your senior calls and asks for information which you don't have readily available, do not leave the phone to get it without first asking if you should. You might leave an infuriated senior dangling on the phone when he couldn't afford to wait for you to return.

Maintain that barrier: It is a compliment to you that your senior can relax in your presence during off-duty hours. The extent of the informality and relaxation should be governed by your senior — not you. Do not extend off-duty informality into the next official day, if you desire to continue enjoyable informal relations when you're off duty.

R.H.I.P.: Do not resent privileges extended to your senior. Some day you will want the same. Remember, he has worked up from the bottom through your grade and has done without, just as you are doing now.

Perfect Memory: How many times have you forgotten "that brainstorm I had last night" or those things-to-do that you never remember at the right time? A few 5c memo pads with pencils strategically located around the house and office (and in the pocket, too) will solve this. Write yourself a reminder.

Take it like a soldier: — An old, almost forgotten, Army saying or way of life, still applicable to all military services. Kipling, in his famous poem "IF" said: "If you can meet with Triumph and Disaster, and treat those two imposters just the same — you'll be a Man, my son." In the service, as in all life, you must expect disappointment, disillusionment, and disaster. A sure way to wreck your life in the service is to belly-ache to influential friends every time something happens that is not to your liking.

Hats tilted: If your hat is uncomfortable, take it off and hold it in your hand. Do not tilt it on the back of your head like a taxi driver.

Plan To Control Officer Education

WASHINGTON (AFNS) — The Air Force has outlined a plan to develop a sounder basis for managing the officer-education program.

The new system will allow the Air Force to better compute future shortages in specific types and levels of education and improve career planning and utilization of officers by giving more consideration to educational levels in making assignments.

The first step of the plan was carried out this summer when major air commands were determined to be filled by officers possessing specialized advanced education.

The second step begins in October when each officer's educational record will be reported in detail and the information fed into the personnel data system using electronic data processing techniques. This information will become part of the reservoir of data quickly available to personnel management experts.

CONTROLS TIGHTENED

WASHINGTON (AFNS) — The Air Force is instituting tighter assignment controls to insure that only the most highly qualified and professionally competent officers are selected for duty in South Viet Nam and Thailand.

AMPHIBIOUS QUARTER-TON—The driver of this vehicle becomes a pilot when the water wings are used for floating along in deep water. Rubberized nylon bags are inflated with exhaust gases from its motor and the floating vehicle is propelled by the action of its wheels in the water. This new type swimmer is being tested for possible military use.

Greater Cost Cutting Effort Asked

WASHINGTON (AFNS) — Lt. Gen. T. P. Gerrity, deputy chief of staff for systems and logistics, has called for the best efforts of all Air Force members in meeting an unprecedented cost reduction savings goal of $2,087 million in Fiscal Year 1965.

Writing in the August issue of the Cost Reduction Program publication, Cross-Feed, General Gerrity said:

"I want personally to thank each and every member of the Air Force for his efforts in helping the USAF achieve its cost reduction goals in FY '64. I solicit your continued support of the Cost Reduction Program in FY '65. We have had a year of solid accomplishment, but with higher goals in FY '65, we cannot afford to relax in our efforts to make more dollars available for force modernization.

"The Air Force portion of the Defense Department's Cost Reduction Program is without precedent in its target of auditable savings of $2,087 million. We have a big job ahead in meeting this goal — a big job and a tough one. It is going to require the best efforts of all of us. Success in the Cost Reduction Program in FY '65 will demand from everyone in the Air Force a cost awareness demonstrated by daily efforts to make every possible dollar savings."

Officers Urged To Be Teachers

WASHINGTON (AFNS) — The Air Force expects some 330 vacancies in the summer of 1965 in the Air University teaching system.

Though most of the vacancies will be filled by members returning from overseas, education officials point out that highly qualified officers serving in the continental United States will be considered too.

Two hundred officers will be needed to serve as professors and assistant professors of air science in the Air Force Reserve Officers Training Corps. One hundred openings are expected to occur on faculties of the Air University resident schools and 30 more in sister Service schools having Air Force representatives on their staffs.

Officers Offered Regular Status

WASHINGTON (AFNS) — About 950 line of the Air Force officers will be offered integration into the regular establishment in Fiscal Year 1965 under the first phase of an augmentation program planned to govern regular appointments for the next several years.

Appointees will be picked this year from two groups — those with less than three but more than two and less than eight but more than seven years of active commissioned service as of July 1.

About 1,300 reserve line officers in the seven-year group will be screened by a board convening Dec. 7 to select 250 regulars. The two-year group board will meet Jan. 25, 1965, to consider 4,800 eligible officers and select those to be offered the remaining 700 regular appointments programmed for FY '65.

The September issue of Air Force magazine and Space Digest will be the fourteenth annual "Air Force Almanac" issue with numerous highlights. Articles by Gen. Curtis E. LeMay, Air Force chief of staff, and Eugene M. Zuckert, secretary of the Air Force, will be included, along with a special report from Viet Nam, a forecast of the future of military aircraft and special reports of the type which characterized past almanac issues. In addition, the almanac is to feature special articles, with charts, of major Air Force commands, a guide to Air Force bases, a comprehensive bibliography of aerospace literature, a photo gallery of Air Force aircraft and missiles and prize-winning Air Force photos.

Meet the Doc

One of the busiest doctors in the Reese hospital is Capt. Edgar M. Daly, a specialist in obstetrics and gynecology. The doctor came to Reese with much experience in his field at the Lloyd-Noland hospital in Birmingham, Ala., a hospital widely used by U.S. Steel personnel and their families in the area. He received specialized training in obstetrics and gynecology at the Medical College of Alabama, from which he was graduated, and in the Lloyd-Noland hospital. He's on his first military assignment at Reese and says he has been busy ever since his arrival. He likes his surroundings and his work.

"The people are just fine." Doctor Daly grew up in Birmingham where his father was a physician. His parents moved to Jacksonville, Fla., and he now calls that his home. He and his wife, the former Dorothy Jo Diadone of Homewood, Fla., have four sons, Daniel 6, Patrick 4, Stephen 3 and Kevin 1. "There's just one thing, though," Captain Daly comments. "I love to fish and always have spent as many weekends as I could sea fishing. Where do I go here?"

Single Fund Campaign For Federal Personnel Tested In Seven Cities

A single charity drive for federal personnel may result from a test drive being staged this fall in seven major cities of the nation. This fall, for the first time, the campaigns of the United Funds, National Health Agencies and International Service Agencies are being consolidated into a single drive known as the Combined Federal Campaign. Also, for the first time, payments of pledges by voluntary payroll allotment will be authorized. The test drive is being staged in Washington, Chicago, Minneapolis-St. Paul, San Antonio, Macon, Dover and Bremerton, Wash. President Lyndon B. Johnson named Treasury Secretary C. Douglas Dillon chairman of the campaign in Washington.

"I am confident," the President said, "government personnel will welcome this opportunity to demonstrate that in one combined campaign all the basic needs of these (health, welfare and social service) agencies can be adequately fulfilled and that they will meet squarely their civic responsibility with a generous gift or pledge." The President cited that a combined drive will cut campaign costs in the government economy drive. The seven-city campaign is aimed at reduced management costs, a one-time giving period and increased contributions through voluntary payroll withholding.
