NUMBER 10

Bids Offered For Reese's New Training

Twenty-six aviation firms, the largest number to compete in bid openings in Air Training Command, submitted bids for training Reese pilot training students Monday, with Randy C. Hill of Brownfield the apparent low bidder.

Hill bid $13.49 per hour for training students in their initial flying at Reese in a new program, with Garland Foshee of Seminole asking $15 per hour and the Valley Aircraft of Los Alamos, Colo., asking $15.37 per hour.

Major Joseph V. Sullivan, Reese procurement officer, said a facilities and capabilities check will be conducted of apparent low bids before a contract is signed. He expects the signing within a few days.

The contractor will be required to conduct 30 hours of flying training in T-41A Cessna aircraft leased from the Air Force. He will provide instructor pilots, train under direction of Air Force officers and maintain the aircraft and field.

The contractor may operate from a sod or paved field, properly drained and safe.

Bidders were present at the bid opening in the Reese NCO open mess from Colorado, California, Oklahoma, Florida and Texas. Three bidders were from Lubbock, seven from Brownfield, one from Shallowater, two from Fort Worth, one from Houston, one from Amarillo and one from Hobbs, N. Mex.

Starting next August, Reese undergraduate pilot training students will receive their first 30 hours of flying training in the T-41A with the civilian contractor. Students will then complete 90 hours of flying in the T-37 primary jet trainer and 120 hours in the supersonic T-38 jet before receiving the silver wings of Air Force pilots.

Bids are being opened at each of the eight undergraduate pilot training bases. Previous to the bid opening Monday at Reese, 16 bidders at Moody AFB, Ga., made up the largest number of competitors.

Present at Reese and listening intently to bids, was a delegation of 16 Brownfield business leaders who hoped to locate the new phase of flying in that community. Included were the mayor, bankers, city manager, chamber of commerce leaders and others. They were hopeful the Terry County airport four miles east of Brownfield would be used for the initial training.

Under the contract to be signed, Reese AFB will house and feed students and will transport them to the training area, which must be within an hour's driving time of the home base. Civilian contract training will be monitored by Reese flying and aircraft maintenance personnel. Project officer is Maj. Raymond Sofaly, until recently squadron operations officer in the undergraduate pilot training program.

Machinery To Name June 1 Reese Promotees Clicking

Machinery for promotions of airmen at Reese and other Air Training Command bases was grinding this week so that a stringent schedule set by ATC is carried out.

Nomination lists for airman second class through master sergeant were due in the wing personnel division Wednesday and the airman eligibility report with supporting documents is due in ATC headquarters Monday.

The Reese selection board for staff sergeant through master sergeant will meet March 18 and 19, with the time-in-grade cutoff dates supplied each base by ATC on March 26.

April 9 is the date nomination lists, selection folders and other date on technical and master sergeants are due in ATC and on May 3 the ATC board meets to consider tech sergeant nominees. The Reese report on airman first class and staff sergeant nominees is due in ATC by May 5. On May 10 the command board to consider master sergeant nominees will meet.

The command limitation board on airmen first and staff sergeants meets May 13 and on May 17 bases will be notified on promotions to technical and master sergeants. May 25 is the deadline for each base to notify other bases on promotions of men elevated under this base's quota, but reassigned between the time of nomi-ination and the June 1 promotion date.

Each base is allowed until June 4 to have payroll and other cards on each promotee in ATC headquarters.

License Plates Sale For Reese Ending Thursday

Reese automobile owners will have their last opportunity to secure 1965 Texas license plates on the base next Thursday when deputy Lubbock county collectors visit Mathis Service Club to issue the plates.

The deputies have come to Reese annually for several years and are hopeful license sales will be heavy. They will be at the club from 10 a.m. until 3 p.m. Thursday. Car owners will be required to show certificates of title and 1964 license numbers. If the cars are not registered in Texas the owners will be required to secure licenses at the Lubbock court house.

Deputies say they will not return to the base next year if sales are not sufficient for them to spend time here. The 1964 sales were below expectations.

Junk the junk — prevent fires.

Liquor Board Makes Drive Against Minor

Reese people this week were advised that the Texas liquor board is tightening enforcement of the law dealing with minors drinking or possessing alcoholic beverages. Board members it was said, are making arrests and seizures particularly on "the strip" south of Lubbock.

The Texas law provides a fine of $10 to $100 for minors purchasing alcoholic beverages. The same fine is applicable for a minor consuming alcoholic beverages in public places when he is not accompanied by his or her parent, guardian, adult husband or wife or other adult persons into whose custody he or she has been committed by a court and who is visibly present.

A minor who is driving an automobile is considered to be in possession of any alcoholic liquor which might be in the car, regardless of whether an adult other than those mentioned above is in the car and had purchased the liquor.

A minor in a car which contains alcoholic beverage is considered in possession whether he actually bought the liquor or not. The fine is $10 to $100, plus $15.50 court costs.

A minor, under Texas law, is anyone under 21 years of age.

Presbyterian Pastor Talks Here Sunday

The Rev. Clements E. Lamberth Jr., pastor of John Knox Presbyterian Church, will speak on "The Church Teaching" as missionary Sunday of the Reese annual Protestant Preaching Mission. He will talk at the 11 a.m. service.

The mission theme is "The Church Today."

The Reverend Lamberth is a graduate of the Austin Presbyterian Theological Seminary in Austin and a former student of the Princeton Theological Seminary, Princeton, N.J. He is on the executive committee of Christian Education for the Synod of Texas and has served on the Christian Education Committee of the Central Texas Presbytery.

Pastors of four Lubbock churches are speaking each Sunday during March in the Reese mission.

Cost Reduction Primary Project, Says New Chief

WASHINGTON (AFNS) — Reduction in operating expenses will continue to receive top precedence under Air Force Chief of Staff Gen. John P. McConnell.

Writing in the March issue of Crossfeed, a newsletter devoted to an exchange of cost reduction ideas, General McConnell pointed out that doing a better job for less has always been an Air Force goal.

"But," he added, "today's tighter military budgets, increasing complexity and rising costs make cost reduction our first priority program."

"As Air Force chief of staff, I want to express my unqualified support of the Cost Reduction Program."

General McConnell said that the object of the Air Force cost reduction effort is not merely to save money, but "to divert dollars from areas where they are not fully effective to areas where they are sorely needed."

He called for greater personal interest and exploitation of new areas in meeting the Air Force share of a higher Defense Department goal in fiscal year 1965.

Periscope Clocking Reese Drivers; Commissioner Gets Speed Evidence

A new gadget which brings the same results as radar used by state and city traffic officers to catch speeders went into use at Reese this week.

Following Air Force regulation, Reese Air Police built an enoscope, which is a large box-like affair containing a periscope on its side. The enoscope is placed along curbs or near streets on base and in Reese Village and 88 feet away, watching the mirror, an Air Policeman stands with stop watch.

As a driver comes into view in the mirror, the stop watch is started. When he passes the policeman, the watch is stopped. Just how many seconds were required to cover the 88 feet shows on a table how fast the vehicle was traveling.

Speeders are being given tickets and the enoscope information will serve as evidence when accused drivers appear before the federal commissioner on his regular visits to the base for hearings and to assess fines.

The enoscope can be used day or night and operates efficiently when placed between parked cars, near or several feet from the street and under many conditions, says 1st Lt. Charles Gourley security and law enforcement officer.

Researching regulations and supervising construction of the enoscope for Reese was SSgt. Joseph Mullins of the Air Police.

DISPLAY—This display has been set up in the Reese BX by the Girl Scouts as a part of observance of the 53rd anniversary of Girl Scouting this week. The Reese troop attended a special church service Sunday night at the Chapel to open the observance and will participate in the council-wide service Saturday in the Lubbock coliseum. Reese girls are helping prepare the district council exhibit.

Hope Expressed For Finish Of Health Drive By Tuesday

With five units reporting 100 per cent participation Monday morning, Maj. Glenn O. Hickey, project officer for the annual National Health Agencies drive at Reese, has stated that he hopes to have 100 per cent base-wide not later than next Tuesday.

"The drive is planned to end April 1, but there is no reason why we cannot end it sooner," the major said. "Let's wrap this drive up ahead of schedule as we should."

Already 100 per cent in participation are Field Training Detachment, 3501st Student Squadron, 3501st Pilot Training Squadron, resident auditor and safety division.

Nearing 100 per cent were the 3500th PTS, with 95 per cent; Communications Squadron, 85; manpower engineering, 80; and Hospital and Supply Squadron, 75 each.

Other percentages included Field Maintenance 50; Weather, 50; Organizational Maintenance, 60; Air Base Group, 60.

President Lyndon Johnson has given his support to the campaign.

"It is an agreeable duty to authorize the National Health Agencies' 1965 appeal..." he said in his memorandum to the heads of the executive departments. "I hope that each Federal employee and members of the armed forces will make a substantial gift..."

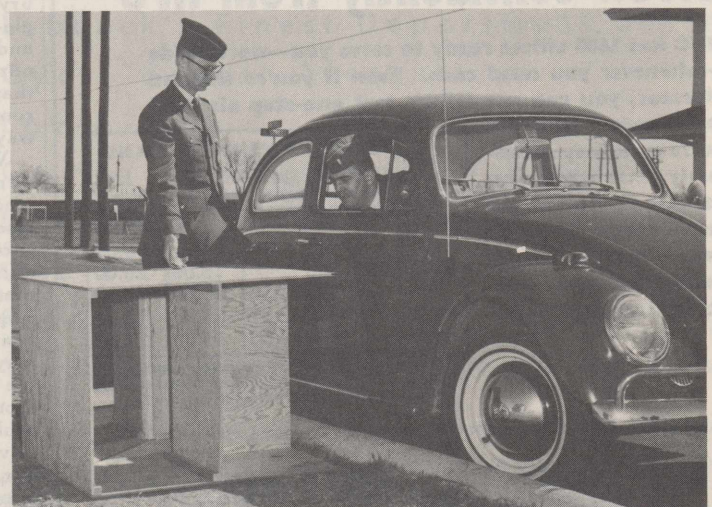

Major Hickey pointed out that 12 health agencies are taking part in the 1965 campaign and will benefit from Reese contributions.

Each will use funds from Reese in research, community services and education on controlling and fighting fatal and crippling diseases which affect the mind, health and other parts of the body.

"Persons suffering from these diseases are looking hopefully to Reese and other military installations to provide a means of helping them escape from the troubles which assail them," Major Hickey said. "In every previous campaign our goals have been met or surpassed. We have opportunity now to extent that record."

FLIES F-5

EGLIN AFB, Fla. (AFNS) — Maj. Gen. Gilert L. Meyers, commander of the Tactical Air Warfare Center, here, flew his first ride in the Air Force's new Northrop F-5 fighter aircraft. The Air Force has directed TAWC to conduct an operational evaluation of the F-5 later this year.

SPEED CHECK—Using the newly constructed enoscope, 1st Lt. Stuart R. Forbes, assistant staff judge advocate, checked his auto speedometer. Here he leans from his car to check the stop watch with 1st Lt. Charles Gourley, security officer, as the latter stands by the enoscope.

Commander's Comments . . .

By COL. DUDLEY E. FAVER
 Wing Commander

When discussing business and business practices with our civilian friends and neighbors, it is consistently revealed that their frame of reference regarding the principal of giving a full day's pay is identical to ours in the Air Force.

Managers in private industry do not expect workers to leave the job before their assigned day is ended, nor do they expect a jam of automobiles at the main exit immediately prior to quitting time. Neither do these managers anticipate any lines of employees waiting in building doorways for the whistle to blow.

It has always been my opinion that the man in uniform and his counterpart in civil service have pledged themselves to do everything possible to meet job requirements and that most of us abide by that pledge.

And yet, we sometimes wonder at attitudes which permit some persons to overstay the allotted time for a coffee break, to permit too many distractions, to linger overtime on conversations which hamper their duties, and to shorten the day by departing the job early.

Government is a dynamic business and Reese Air Force Base is important to that business. As in the case with conscientious support of every member, especially regarding the manner in which that member allots his time during duty hours. To assure that this occurs is good business and an elementary principle of management.

As in the past, the human, materiel and financial resources available to us at Reese make it absolutely imperative that each person daily manage his time and energies to the maximum. With the reductions that we expect in each of these areas and an early increase in our work load, we must give even greater attention to these details. The new Command Performance Evaluation system is designed to help us with this essential analysis.

Money To Serve, Not Master Man, Chaplains Cite

(By the USAF Chaplain Board)

Your attitude toward money is part of your philosophy of life. If you love money for its own sake, you will hoard it like a miser. If you love money because it provides power, status, and luxury, you may devote yourself single-mindedly to accumulating it and find you have neither time nor energy to enjoy it. We know that the "love of money is the root of all evil." It has an insidious way of mastering us.

We should refuse to be a slave to money, but we certainly cannot ignore it. In our society money is essential. Few of us seem to have enough of it, and many of us have difficulty in managing the little that we have. Too many of us are preoccupied with financial problems. In this preoccupation we may forget that life is more than the sum of our possessions. Although lack of money can cause problems, money itself cannot solve all problems. In most cases our real problems are caused by other factors and cannot be cured by means of money alone.

It is important that we assume a right attitude toward money. Your life's goals will be achieved partly by means of money. The essential thing is to select worthy goals and to pursue their achievement. Money will be necessary but only in its role as your servant—never as your master.

Lubbock Theatre Center Seeking Play Costumes

Help from Reese personnel in providing costumes for actors in "Rasbomon," an outstanding play, has been asked by the Lubbock Theatre Center.

Mrs. Philip Watson has been put in charge of costumeing and is hoping for aid from Reese families who may have served in the Far East. Badly needed are Japanese kimonoes, zorii, ornate swords for warriors, hats suitable for the samurai and his wife, tabis and wooden or ivory rattles.

Mrs. Watson asks that calls be made to her at SW 9-4729 or to the theatre, SH 4-3681, as soon as possible. The play won an international award.

Every day 800 American homes burn and most are caused by carelessness.

Lowry Modifies Drainage; Saves

LOWRY AFB (ATCPS) — A modification of a primary drain line costing $54 in the powerhouse systems at the Titan missile complexes at Lowry is saving the Air Force $2,668.80 in manhour costs each year.

Formerly if the cooling system in the powerhouse failed, the sub-area of the intake fan would become flooded. This caused undue damage to the equipment in the area and even caused settling of the air intake structure.

The water had to be removed by a portable pump and hose which necessitated many costly manhours of pumping it out and caused a powerhouse shut down.

A powerhouse failure can cause the temperature to become very high and cause other equipment to fail, such as the water chillers and various electric motors.

By modification of the draw line, a vent pipe was installed at the highest point of the drain line eliminating the flooding condition.

A savings of 1,200 manhours, totaling $2,668.80 per year, is being realized from the change at the complex sites.

Table Tennis Team In ATC Competition

Three airmen represented Reese in the Air Training Command table tennis tournament last week at Lowry AFB.

A3C Kenneth R. Rowe, in singles, fell to the champ from Amarillo in the first round, won on forfeit from James Connally in the loser's bracket, and then was eliminated by the Chanute champ.

In double play, A2C Raymond Reed and A2C Everett Matthews lost to Randolph and Laughlin teams.
