

CHAMPUS revises prevailing charge

WASHINGTON (AFNS) - A revised formula for setting prevailing medical charges has been put into effect by the Civilian Health and Medical Program of the Uniformed Services (CHAMPUS). These charges are in line with those of other Federal health care programs such as MEDICARE.

A prevailing charge is one of three factors used by CHAMPUS in setting a reasonable charge for a health care service or supply. The others are the customary charge of the medical provider and the actual charge. The reasonable charge is the lowest of the three. It includes both the beneficiary's share and the Government's share.

According to CHAMPUS officials, the change could affect the amount the program pays for any specific service or supply.

Under the revised formula, the prevailing charge is now set at an amount that is high enough to cover the customary charges for 75 per cent of the bills from all doctors or other health care providers in an area during the preceding year. Previously, it had been set at an amount high enough to cover the customary charges for 90 per cent of the bills.

A customary charge is generally the one most frequently made by a doctor or other health care provider for a service or supply.

The change from the 90th percentile profile to the 75th percentile profile has created misunderstandings.

Some beneficiaries believe that CHAMPUS benefits have been reduced from 90 per cent to 75 per cent. CHAMPUS officials emphasize that this is not an accurate statement.

Since prevailing charges are set by geographic area, they may vary from one area to another.

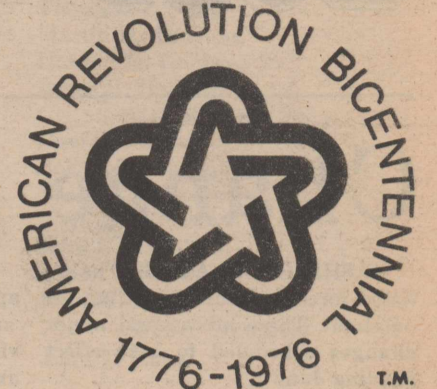

CHAMPUS officials point out that other Federal health care programs have been setting the prevailing charge at an amount which is high enough to cover the customary charges for 75 per cent of the bills. They say that the change in the CHAMPUS formula makes the program's payment policy more consistent with these other Federal health care programs.

Because the change could affect the amount paid by the Government for a particular service or supply, CHAMPUS officials urge that all beneficiaries make a special effort to use a doctor or other health care provider who participates in the program.

A participating medical provider agrees to accept the reasonable charge set by CHAMPUS as payment in full. Thus, a beneficiary is protected against responsibility for costs above his share of the reasonable charge.

from 152 hour course

Graduation ceremonies for the Reese Noncommissioned Officers Leadership School, Class 76-G, were held Feb. 27 at the NCO Open Mess.

Col. Richard A. Ingram, deputy commander for Operations, 64th Flying Training Wing, addressed the class of 14 students who had earned the Certificate of Training from the 152 hour course.

Col. Edward Mendel, wing commander, presented the Honor Graduate award to SSgt. Alvin Lamkin, 64th Supply Squadron. The Commandant's Award went to SSgt. Cecil R. Hughes, 64th Air Base Group. The Academic Achievement Award went to Sgt. Roland A. Chambless, 64th Student Squadron.

SSgt. William T. Davis, speech instructor at the Leadership School, announced the speech award winners. Two students, Staff Sergeant Lamkin and Sergeant Chambless, received the honor. Sergeant Lamkin presented a speech on "What the NCO Leadership School Means to Me." Lt. Col. William V. Finn, base commander, presented Certificates of Training to SSgt. Cecil R. Hughes, 64th Air Base Group and Sergeants Robert D. Griffin, David Salinas, and Roderick C. Burton of the 64th Field Maintenance Squadron and Sgt. Roland A. Chambless of the Student Squadron.

Also receiving certificates were the 64th Supply Squadron's Staff Sergeants Alvin Lamkin and Henry A. Edmond and Sgt. Charles W. Gary. Staff Sergeants Robert L. Barron and Charles F. Baldwin and Sgt. David M. Shepard of the 64th Organizational Maintenance Squadron were also graduated from the school.

SSgt. Gary M. Huber, Det. 11, 24 Weather Squadron, Sgt. William O. Caldwell Jr., USAF Hospital, and Sgt. Fidel Marquez Jr., 64th Civil Engineering Squadron round out the list of graduates.

PME program trains future AF managers

A new five phase NCO Professional Military Education (PME) program will provide the fundamental training necessary to develop better managers and leaders.

During this period of limited funding, every NCO must achieve maximum efficiency from the personnel and resources under their supervision. This new program will help them do just that. In the future the NCO will be able to combine training attained through education with experience on the job. This concept has been applied to technical subjects for some time and will now be used in leadership and management areas as well.

Phase I

Phase I of the program is a 15-18 hour orientation course scheduled to begin June 1. It will introduce military leadership concepts and provide orientation of newly promoted E-4 senior airmen in their duties and responsibilities before advancement to E-4 NCO status.

To become an NCO, senior airmen must complete this mandatory course within 12 months after promotion to E-4. They must have a sustained record of performance and conduct which indicates potential to meet the responsibilities associated with NCO status. Each individual must also be recommended by their immediate supervisor and certified by the unit commander before appointment as an NCO. A formal NCO appointment ceremony will complete this initial period of service and entitles the newly appointed NCO to wear NCO insignia and be addressed as "sergeant."

Phase II

Phase II will be the next step. Upon reenlistment or upon being selected for a supervisory position the young NCO must attend a 50 hour supervisory development course. This will replace the current Management I course and will also be mandatory for civilians in supervisory positions. As an additional benefit, graduates of the local course who are enrolled at South Plains College can apply for three hours of college credit.

Phase III

The third phase will be the NCO Leadership School that is currently operating at Reese. This is a voluntary course with individuals selected for attendance by unit commanders. Air Training Command (ATC) is in the process of getting this course approved for college credit. The exact number of hours is unknown, but past graduates are expected to be eligible for full credit of four to six hours.

These three initial phases will be available at Reese under a base PME Center. This will be a separate organization under the base operating structure and will not be in any way aligned with Education Services. No additional personnel will be provided to establish the PME Center.

Phase IV

Phase IV of the program is the ATC (or other major commands) NCO Academy. The ATC classes are being expanded from 78 to 135 students to allow more senior supervisors to attend the five week and two day course at Lackland AFB, Tex. ATC hopes to have the course accredited before the end of this year by the Southern Association of Colleges to allow for six hours of college credit. Anyone qualified to attend in residence can enroll in ECI course Nine to receive credit.

Phase V

Phase V is the Air Force Senior NCO Academy at Gunter AFB, Ala. The residence course provides six hours of college credit. Persons qualified to attend in residence at the nine week course can enroll in ECI course eight to receive credit.

Successful completion of each phase will provide the necessary foundation for professional advancement and promotion and can put you closer to a college degree.

The complete rephrasing of the program and establishing a base PME Center will take several months and will require the cooperation of everyone—commanders, supervisors, and the personnel being trained.

This formal change emphasizes the requirement for supervisors in the Air Force to be fully trained in the concepts of good management and leadership. Our future success depends on trained personnel making the maximum use of our limited resources. The purpose of PME is to train you and enable you to become an effective supervisor and leader.

that are being made in the professional military education for our enlisted corps.

It appears that the Air Force is finally putting it all together, as we have now a five-phased professional military education in tune with the job assignments and to give individuals the knowledge they may need at the proper point in their careers.

Phase I is an introduction to military concepts to be provided to newly promoted E-4 senior airmen. Upon completion of this course and meeting other requirements and recommendations, the individual is formally appointed an NCO and is entitled to wear the NCO insignia and is addressed as "Sergeant". Phase II is a management course to be given upon reenlistment or being selected for supervisory positions. Phase III is the NCO Leadership School, like ours that is beginning this week.

Phase IV carries on the NCO training at command level and Phase V is the Air Force Senior NCO Academy currently conducted at Gunter AFB, Alabama. Most of these courses also convey the additional benefit of college credits or are expected to convey college credits in the future.

The result of this formal education program should be a more professional NCO Corps which is fully in tune with the needs of the Air Force today and tomorrow.

As a supervisor in today's Air Force, I am very happy to see this program to better prepare our people for career opportunities in tomorrow's Air Force.

Change due in enlisted grade structure

WASHINGTON (AFNS) - The enlisted force structure is getting an overhaul. There are several major changes scheduled to take effect starting June 1.

For the past few years, Air Force noncommissioned officers have expressed a feeling of continuing loss of prestige in job and rank. They've said they were confused over their roles and responsibilities. Their talents weren't being used, they thought.

A number of things tended to fuel this feeling. For one, the regulation describing NCO responsibilities gave just one description for all NCO grades. There was also a question of whether an E-4 is really an NCO.

Some NCOs say "everyone" is a sergeant and this lessens the prestige of being an NCO. There has also been debate over whether an E-7 is considered a senior NCO.

To solve these kinds of problems, the Air Force has now more clearly defined NCO responsibilities, resolved confusion of the status of E-4s and E-7s, and provided a framework for future enhancement of the NCO force.

The major change is a new three-tier enlisted structure. The new structure, including specific responsibilities for each grade, is being spelled out in a revised regulation (AFR 39-6) that will take effect June 1.

The three tiers are: apprentice/trainee (E-1 through E-4 senior airman); technician/supervisor (E-4 sergeant through E-6); and supervisor/manager (E-7 through E-9).

The Air Force has already begun to take steps to use senior NCOs more effectively.

One program started in January. It's the Chief's group at the Air Force Military Personnel Center (AFMPC). The group is working to individualize assignments for all chief master sergeants. To support this program, major commands are identifying their most demanding E-9 jobs around the Air Force. The AFMPC group will match specific talents of the best qualified chiefs to these key jobs.

To help recognize "fast burners" in the lower grades, an early promotion to E-4 has also been announced. Under this E-4 below-the-zone promotion, unit commanders can nominate up to 10 per cent of their eligibles for promotion up to six months early. A board will make the final selections based on a local quota. The quota depends on the number of eligible people on a given base.

Another proposed change is a split grade for E-4s. This change splits the grade into E-4 "senior airman" and E-4 "sergeant."

The program works like this: for the first 12 months that a person is an E-4, he will be a "senior airman." Senior airmen will have all existing E-4 pay and entitlements, but will not be called sergeant.

To become an NCO, these senior airmen wait 12 months as an E-4, complete NCO orientation training, have a record that shows potential, are recommended by their reporting official, and are certified by their unit commander.

When all these squares are filled, they will attend a formal ceremony and receive a certificate appointing them to the NCO corps. After that, they can wear the NCO insignia and be called "sergeant."

The differences in the new airman and NCO insignia are as follows: senior airmen and below will wear the basic current insignia designs with a blue star in the center; sergeants and above will wear the grade insignia now in use with a silver star in the center of the stripes.

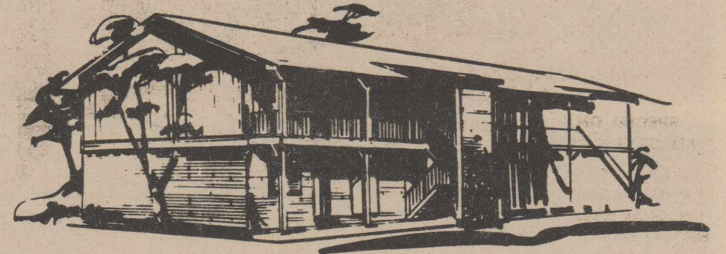

The new system is designed to make NCO status an earned achievement rather than automatic designation. It also gets the unit commander involved in the system and provides an incentive for people to advance to NCO status.

These changes do not affect the time in service it takes to be promoted to E-5. However, a senior airman must become an NCO before he can be promoted to E-5.

These changes will only apply to persons promoted to E-4 after June 1. Those in the grade of E-4 at that time will remain NCOs and wear the present E-4 stripes.

Persons serving as E-2 and E-3 at that time will not have to change insignia until they are promoted to the next higher grade.

Dear
Editor

During the weekend of February 21, 1976, we were privileged to have as guests in our home some of the airmen stationed at your establishment for the purpose of assisting in the marriage of our daughter.

I wish to compliment the following young men on the fine attitudes and conduct they displayed:

A1C Richard Moore
A1C John Nelson
A1C Jack Stamm
A1C Jim Madera
A1C Dennis Lutterschmidt
A1C Ed Herman

Each man gave of his own time and finances to assist us in this endeavor and exemplified the very best in the young people of our land.

The attitude and conduct of these young men most assuredly was a tribute to their families, to the country they represent, and to the United States Air Force.

Many flattering comments were voiced to our family concerning these young men by all who attended the wedding.

These young men did more as ambassadors for the United States Air Force than all the commercial advertising we have ever seen.

Theater Doors

I understand that the base Theater personnel lock the front door to the theater after a movie has been running for 30 minutes. It is understandable that they would close the ticket booth after no one wanted to buy a ticket; however, if there was a fire in the building, the front doors being locked could cause a dangerous situation. I realize that the theater has fire exits in the seating area, but if a person was in the lobby or the rest room when a fire started they may be cut off from escape.

You are partly correct. You are right about the front door being locked after the movie has been showing for 30 minutes. It would be costly to leave a person at the front door to keep unpaid patrons out. On the other hand, all of the theater doors, including the front door, have crash bars and can be opened easily from the inside. Additionally, the Fire Department assures me they would have no problem gaining entrance to the building. If you have to contact someone who is attending a show, I suggest you call the Theater at Ext. 2144.

Speedup retirement possible through relaxed restrictions

RANDOLPH AFN, Tex. (AFNS) — Relaxed retirement restrictions which have permitted a speedup of retirements under the fiscal year 1976 strength adjustment program have been extended until July 1.

An Air Force Military Personnel Center (AFMPC) spokesman said provisions of the policy apply to individuals through the rank of colonel and retirements must be effective by July 1. Applications must be dated before April 1. Both dates are a one-month extension of those previously announced.

AFMPC officials emphasize that approval of applications under the program isn't automatic. Each case will be individually evaluated, with approval depending on the needs of the Air Force. A primary consideration, they say, will be the impact on Air Force skill inventories.

Since denial is possible, they caution that members applying for retirement under the relaxed policy should avoid making commitments that could result in financial loss or hardship in case of disapproval.

Some or all military service commitments from promotions, education, or training may be waived as Air Force reviews individual retirement requests.

Sanitary fill lists hours of operation

The sanitary fill, located on the southwest side of the base, is operated by the Civil Engineering Squadron for the convenience of base personnel.

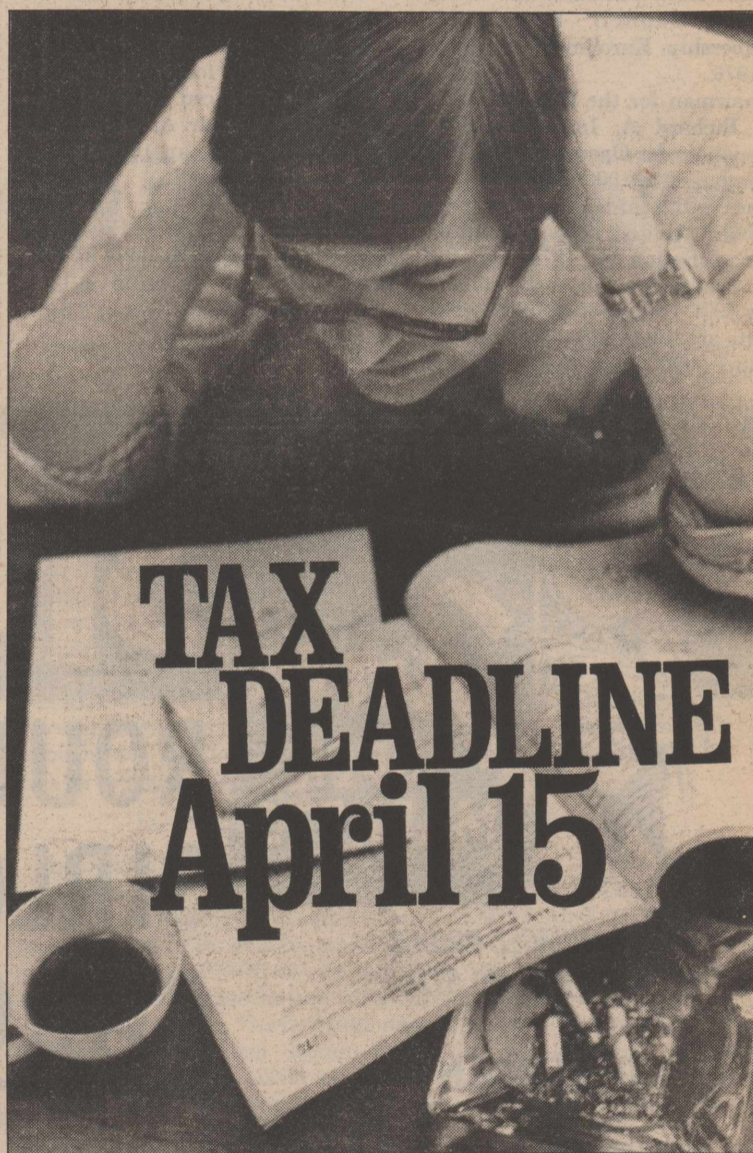

Manning of this squadron does not permit a full time operation of the fill. It is only open to base personnel from 8 a.m. to noon on Mondays and Thursdays. Dumping at other than these times must not be done because of the environmental impact of trash being scattered about the country side by West Texas winds.

Items that are not picked up by the refuse contractor such as large packing crates, cardboard boxes, tree limbs, etc., are the only items authorized for the fill. Normal household and office trash are picked up by the contractor and should not be taken to the fill. Metals of any kind must be taken to R & M for disposal.

By following these guidelines we will reduce the polluting of the surrounding environment and improve the appearance of Reese Air Force Base.

Rec Center plans gala opening

After having been closed for remodeling, Mathis Recreation Center is proud to announce its Grand Opening on March 19.

It promises to be a night to remember as Mathis has gathered some of the best entertainment in the state of Texas. A new stage, stereo room, T.V. lounge, and office-checkout area are just some of the many improvements at Mathis. Opening night, "The Godfathers" from San Antonio will provide an evening of dancing and listening enjoyment. This group has played across the state, and having played at Mathis before, is a great crowd pleaser. The entertainment doesn't stop on the 19th however, as another group from San Antonio, "The Syndicate of Sound", will be playing the next two nights.

Activities begin at 6 p.m. March 19 when the ribbon cutting ceremony takes place. Cutting the ribbon will be two Reese airmen, AIC George Marshall and AIC Angela Marshall. After the ribbon cutting, everyone is invited in to tour the Center. At 9 p.m. the music begins when "The Godfathers" perform. During the dance, a mixed drink bar will be available.

Mathis is proud to show off the new decor in a splendid two week Grand Opening Special. In addition to "The Godfathers" and "The Syndicate of Sound", two other bands from San Antonio and Houston will be performing. On March 26, a group that has had many requests for a return engagement is back. That's right, "American Peddlers" will be back at Mathis. On March 27, another fine group will be making its debut performance at Mathis, "Free Flight" from Houston.

During the Grand Opening on March 19 and during the five special dances, the gameroom will be closed. As a special treat, during the dances refreshments will be served.

Drive begins for Scouts

Reese AFB will enter the South Plains Council Sustaining Membership Enrollment program for 1976.

Chairman for the Reese Drive is Col. Richard A. Ingram, deputy commander for Operations. He has set a goal of $20,000 for Reese.

The South Plains Council and the Lubbock United Way separated their affiliation for 1976, and the Boy Scouts are currently raising their 1976 budget of $240,000. The Scouts are raising $140,000 and the balance will come from 14 area

United Way agencies in the 20 county area the Council serves.

The kickoff for the Council Division's Advanced Gifts began at the start of the year. At the Council Annual Banquet, Jan 16, $112,000 was reported pledged.

The drive among Reese Personnel began last Friday. Anyone among Reese personnel wanting to help with the drive should contact 1st Lt. Bob Johnson, Ext. 2205.

Uniform changes get approval

WASHINGTON (AFNS) - Several Air Force Uniform Board changes have been approved and will take effect soon.

One change to AFR 35-10 will allow wear of the medical aviation badge and medical insignia on service uniforms by flight surgeons and flight nurses.

The board approved several policy changes to improve uniform standardization for men and women. These include:

- Hats will be worn with all service and utility uniform combinations. A navy blue utility cap was approved as an optional item for wear by women with the flight/ field uniform. Either the beret or the optional utility cap will be worn.

- The women's sweater will not be worn as an outer garment. It may be worn indoors and only within the member's work area.

- Women will wear the lightweight blue jacket with zipper closed at least halfway.

- Loafers and tennis shoes will not be worn with the women's flight/field or utility uniform combinations.

Effective date of these changes will be announced by the Air Force Military Personnel Center.

The request for a badge for staff members of the Community College of the Air Force was disapproved. This was based on the specific operation and mission of the college, the growing number of badges, and the costs involved.

An all-weather coat, with zip-out liner, was approved to replace the current standard overcoat and raincoat for men. The outer-shell fabric will be the same as for the women's raincoat. The style is similar to the men's optional topcoat. The coat should be in the supply system in 18 to 24 months. Exchanges will have the coats in 12 to 15 months.

A request to allow wearing of sunglasses in formations was turned down.

The proposal to modify the optional lightweight blue jacket to accommodate a zip-in pile lining was not approved. The jacket was adopted to be worn as an outer garment during the transition period from summer to winter or winter to summer. It was not intended for wear during very cold weather. The board felt that other uniform combinations are more appropriate for wear during periods when a jacket liner would be required.

Golf course offers low noon rates

A special rate for military personnel is now being offered each Friday afternoon at the base Golf Course. Starting at noon, green fees have been reduced to $1.50. This is an excellent opportunity for golfers to get in that extra practice.

All golfers are reminded that all scorecards must be turned in if you desire to establish a handicap. Beginning March 1, scorecards are being verified against the sign in log. If you have not turned in a scorecard, you will be credited with a par round. Remember that in order to have a bonafide score, the card must be verified and only rounds of 18 holes will be considered.

All golfers are cautioned that no one except Golf Course personnel are permitted beyond the tee area of the driving range. This is for your own safety. Further, everyone is reminded that range balls are government property. No one is permitted to play golf with driving range balls.

AIR FORCE NEWS SUMMARY

MAC Not Joking About Security

All Military Airlift Command passenger terminals will soon have a sign prominently displayed. It will say, "We take security seriously. Remarks about bombs, weapons, hijacking, etc., may result in disciplinary action." The sign is a result of several jokes and remarks that have triggered bomb alerts. MAC officials advise all visitors and passengers to terminals to be serious about security.

Extended Overseas Tours Available

Air Force has a new program for people who want an assignment to a country of their choice. It applies to both U.S. based and overseas members who want a consecutive overseas tour (COT). Persons volunteering for a normal overseas tour, plus 12 months, can get priority consideration for an assignment to the country of their choice. Top priority goes to people now overseas. Those serving in short tours can volunteer for an extended COT anywhere. Persons now on long tours are restricted to assignment in their same theater. The Consolidated Base Personnel Office (Ext. 2276) has details for applying.

Lieutenant Colonel Board to Use New OERS

Controlled officer effectiveness reports (OERs) on majors will be considered by the Permanent Lieutenant Colonel Board which convenes at the Air Force Military Personnel Center (AFMPC) April 19. The board will use controlled OERs from the major's cycle that closed Dec. 31, 1975. Reports must arrive at AFMPC by April 1. This will be the second permanent promotion board to use the new OER with rating controls in the "Evaluation of Potential" section. The first permanent board to use controlled OERs was the Permanent Colonel Section Board that met the week of Feb. 23. Previously controlled OERs were used by the fiscal year 1976 Temporary Colonel and the fiscal year 1977A Temporary Captain Promotion Boards.

JUNK OR JUNKE?

Now is the time to take inventory of your possessions, research them, find out what you own, and start thinking about antiques. Why? Because many antiques are packed away in trunks, chests, cupboards, and boxes gathering dust in attics and cellars.

A study of antiques is worthwhile to anyone. We all have treasures but have never taken the time to study or research these possessions. We know it's old, it belonged to Aunt Clara, or Grandmother, or Uncle Seth, and we are not even for sure where it is or if it is packed well, or if it has any value except sentiment.

Clearing out a house in which one family has lived for a long time or disposing of the possessions of an elderly relative is almost certain to be rewarded with the discovery of some antiques. For this reason alone, a person should have some knowledge of antiques.

If you find any old fans, spoons, calendars, hat boxes, paper dolls (printing on the back), a boot-jack or tin container emblazoned with firm or trade names, they should not be discarded as trash. These items so many times are thrown away simple because no one thinks twice. Simple everyday articles may be more valuable than you think.

Anyone in a hurry to dispose of antiques found in an old house is probably wise to ask a reliable dealer to come in and look them over. For a small fee he can advise you on the value and salability.

There are several ways a person can learn to recognize and evaluate an antique. Visits to antique shops and occasional attendance at an auction are means of learning what is being offered for sale, what people are buying and what prices are being paid.

Physician assistants fill void caused by doctor shortage

By Lt. Col. Robert C Maier
Hospital Commander

The Physician Assistant Program was established as a nationwide program in the mid-1960's in an attempt to provide patients more readily available medical care in face of a national physician shortage.

The programs were developed in the civilian medical training areas initially. From that beginning the programs have expanded to about 89 Physician Assistant training programs providing medical health care personnel for at least 34 states. Part of these trained people are going to the towns and communities under 10,000 people where critical physician manning is often commonplace; in fact many small U.S. communities have no physician but rely on Physician Assistants to provide care.

The USAF Medical Service, through the physician draft, had a ready supply of physicians until 1974 when the physician draft was terminated. In anticipation of the upcoming physician shortages the USAF Medical Service followed the lead of our civilian counterparts and established the Physician Assistant Program, which is now in operation. The first class of fully trained Physician Assistants graduated in 1973 and since then have been so successful that the program has continued with added strength and importance.

In the civilian training areas, the quality and quantity of training varies, but the Air Force established a single course with a curriculum second to none. After achieving the necessary grade level on a national testing program, only the best qualified candidates are selected. This year from an approximate field of 400 applicants, 40 students will begin training. Following one year of intense medical education, each student spends another year assigned to a regional or medical center hospital for refinement of his medical knowledge and experience. At these locations, his proficiency is expanded and monitored by each specialty physician with whom he is assigned, by his local course supervisor, and by the "home" school located at Sheppard AFB. Needless to say failure anywhere along the two year course can result in failure to graduate. Following graduation, each Physician Assistant must become nationally certified through testing conducted at various civilian agencies throughout the United States.

While every certified Physician Assistant remains under the supervision of a physician, it is safe to say that each one has demonstrated his competency, tenacity and intelligence. By national standards as well as military regulation, Physician Assistants may provide care for a great many common medical problems which ultimately frees the physician for the more complex medical illnesses. The USAF Hospital at Reese AFB is very fortunate to have two of these fine health care providers. At a time of critical shortages of physicians, particularly within the areas of general practice, family practice, etc, the Physician Assistant has proved himself to be an invaluable member of the health care team both in the civilian and military medical field.

Legal Office begins appointment system

The Legal Office has announced plans for a new system of handling legal assistance.

Effective last Monday, legal assistance will be given by appointment only. Notary service and execution of wills will be available only at certain designated hours. In addition, all claims processing must be accomplished at designated times.

In order to provide satisfactory service to all personnel and organizations on base, a more efficient means of scheduling time for various responsibilities has become necessary. Further, an appointment system will be beneficial to legal assistance customers, both in planning their own time and receiving more efficient service. A large number of legal assistance customers have expressed a desire for an appointment system so that they might avoid long waits before seeing an attorney.

Personnel desiring legal assistance may obtain an appointment by calling the Legal Office at Ext. 2505. Appointments will be limited to 15 minute time periods; however, every effort will be made to schedule persons requiring more time as soon after their first appointment as possible, often the same hour. Appointments should be made at least four hours before the desired time.

Customers desiring wills should give some thought to what they wish to accomplish with their wills. For example, they should know who they want to receive their property, who is to handle the administrative detail of their estate, and who they want to care for their children.

Will execution and other notary service will be available each Monday, Wednesday, and Friday from 10 a.m. til noon. Customers desiring notary service should be aware that notaries are not authorized to certify any signature unless that signature is performed in their presence. Therefore, documents that are to be notarized should not be signed before they are brought in. It is also requested that automobile title transfer papers be filled in except for signature before coming to the Legal Office.

Claims will be received and claims forms issued between 8-11 a.m. on Mondays and Tuesdays and between 1-3 p.m. on Wednesdays and Thursdays. Daily claims briefings will continue to be scheduled for 1 p.m.

CB Radio Pays Off

The Citizens Band (CB) radio which the base Security Police Division bought itself has been paying off in helping them to better serve Reese people. On March 4, the Security Police Division responded to two separate calls for help on the CB unit. One involved a grass fire east of Building 535 and the other involved an auto accident on 4th Street. Keep up the good work SPs.

Defensive Driving Course

April 4-10 is National Defensive Driving Week. April 6-7, Traffic Safety will be conducting a Defensive Driving Course. Those wishing to attend this course should contact Traffic Safety in Bldg. T-100. The class will be limited to the first 40 who preregister. It is recommended that husbands and wives attend this course together.

Win a $50 share in the Reese AFB Credit Union. The Rod and Gun Club here is looking for a name. Entries should be submitted by March 31. Mail entries to Rodney Morrow, Rt. 8, Box 358A, Lubbock, Tex., 79407.

Union Banquet

Local 1810-AFGE is sponsoring a dinner and dance at 7:30 p.m. tomorrow night at the Hillcrest Country Club on North University, Lubbock. All union, nonunion and military personnel are invited. Cost is $4 per person. Tickets are available from Union members. For further information, call Lou Cargail at Ext. 2185.

Beginning Swimming Course

Operation Waterproof is set to begin March 22 at the YWCA pool. This beginning swimming course will be offered to children in the first through sixth grades. Children will meet every day for five days. Red Cross beginner skills will be taught in progression. All instructors are Red Cross Water Safety Instructors with experience ranging from two to 20 years. The fee for the class is $5 for five 45 minute lessons. The pool is located at 3102 36th Street, Lubbock. For more information, call 799-9247.

Courses Offered by Wayland Baptist College

Wayland classes will be offered as follows:

Monday	6 - 10 p.m. — Economics 353-Management in Family Living
Tuesday	6 - 10 p.m. — Religion 123-New Testament
Thursday	6 - 10 p.m. — Psychology 473-Personal Counseling

The 12 week courses will start Monday evening. Registration is any time until classes start at the Education Office, Bldg. 91. Wayland is a four year SOC school that offers credit for service schools. A bachelor of science or occupational education degree plus the regular BA and BS degrees are granted by Wayland.

Magazines Needed

Red Cross would appreciate donations of any unneeded magazines or books you might have around your home. There will be a reading cart for patients in the Hospital ward as soon as there is enough literature collected. Items may be dropped off at the Red Cross field supervisor's office on base, or with Major Caser in the surgical ward at the Hospital.

Preparation begins for Stan/Eval visit

By 1st Lt. Clifford E. Napolitano

The weather is back at Reese and the squadron is busy trying to fix up the paper work in preparation for Air Training Command Stan/Eval.

The squadron is celebrating along with the "new" captains; First Lieutenants Martin Amelung, Darwin Erickson, Bruce Hollister, John Rostberg, Thomas Werry, James Nelson, Kenneth Korsmo, Warren Jepson Jr., James Graves, Hans Hardin and Clifford Napolitano.

The squadron is saying good-bye to Captains Robert Lord and Lester Hodson. We'll miss you both and good luck!

The bowling team is moving up on the charts but support is still needed for our matches coming up on Tuesday nights. The volleyball team continued its winning streak and has only one loss.

The students of 77-01, section two are trying to change the in-flight guide by flying all new ground tracks at our auxiliary airfield, "Fizz". Thanks guys but the controllers really don't need any help.

ACADEMICALLY SPEAKING...

By Capt. Ed Hayden 64th Student Squadron

Eight members of the 64th Student Squadron received word this week of their promotion to Captain. First Lieutenants Ken Korsmo, Warren Jepson, Phil Schoewe, Bob Johnson, Guy Davis, Jim Nelson, John Hennigan, and Bob Schwartz will be providing the beer for the months ahead. Congratulations guys!

Class 76-07

With all our formation checks out of the way the new senior class in 38's is getting short. Some of the guys in section one even managed to eek out another cross-country to fill their squares. Otherwise, everyone is agape with wonder over the assignments that might be on the way up from MPC. Unfortunately, not everyone will get their F-15 to Hickam as requested.

Class 76-10

The dust storms may blow, but 76-10 will testify it's hard to weather a link. As we begin our third week of simulators before we fly, we think we ought to be at least "Link" rated.

Section one will battle their ninth academic exam soon, in hopes of completing nine in a row without a bust. Speaking of busts, that's exactly what the links did last week during the power failure. Flashlights are now required for all links.

Class 77-01

Guess who soloed out his first student last week in section one? No, not the Pillsbury Doughboy, but the old tank driver himself, Capt. Carl Payne. Many of our class members joined him in the splash tank while the rest of the week was spent watching Clovis, Sante Fe, and points west flying by.

Section two has finally managed to get 19 of its 20 members in the air alone. Second Lt. Greg Black was our first to endanger the skies, followed by 2nd Lt. Don Taylor. For all of us who made it back, the reward was a dip in the pool, a solo certificate, and a class patch.

Class 77-02

Everything is moving along rapidly for the new men of 02. Most of us have had four or five flights despite nature's efforts to keep us grounded. But there is one good thing about this windy weather - instead of going out to see the sights, you can stay at home and let them come to you.

Second Lt. Frank Mendes takes this week's "Heads Up" award. He made sure his parachute was in good working order when it popped open upon his exit from the T-37 last week.

We'd like to bid 1st Lt. Ted Kammire (IP type) the best of luck on his approaching honeymoon. IPs, it appears, are human too.

OWC holds election of '76 officers

By Nancy Feibelman

The Reese Officers' Wives Club (OWC) will have its monthly Hail and Farewell at 9:30 a.m. Thursday at the Reese Officers' Open Mess. No reservations are needed.

Mrs. Albert Mullen, OWC parliamentarian, announced the slates of officers to be presented for the next year. For president are Mrs. Jack Cusano and Mrs. Joseph Hickox; for first vice-president are Mrs. Robert Bradshaw and Mrs. Frank Salat; for second Vice-President, Mrs. William Fox and Mrs. Paul Rowcliffe; for third vice-President, Mrs. Gary Boystel and Mrs. Mike Schuster.

Other members to be presented for office are Mrs. Michael Nelson and Mrs. Richard Rasmussen for recording secretary; Mrs. Carson Grimm and Mrs. Rich Sullivan for corresponding secretary; Mrs. Ronnie Cone and Mrs. Donald Luehm for social treasurer, and Mrs. Robert Bauer and Mrs. Robert Schaefer for charitable funds treasurer.

Mathis play premieres

The Mathis Little Theater Group will present its first major production, "Mumbo Jumbo", Monday and Tuesday at 8 p.m. in the Simler Theater.

The doors will open at 7:30 p.m. and admission for the play is 50 cents. Tickets will be on sale at the door or advance tickets can be purchased from any of the cast members.

Thanks for support

The Mathis Little Theater Group cast would like to thank all the good people who brought their dirty vehicles to be washed last Saturday.

Colonel Ingram was waiting for the cast at 9 a.m. and was the first customer. His support and the support of all the other people who brought their cars in is appreciated.

Other than a few aches and pains and broken fingernails the cast is alive and well and preparing feverishly for the greatest thing to hit Reese since sliced bread!

Children cause problem

By Sonny Serutan

The unattended child problem has again been brought to our attention.

Suggested Remedies

• Enforce a strict "No Child under the age of 10 unless accompanied by a nonbowling parent" rule.

• Have the counterman monitor the actions of the children (you can forget this suggestion, the counterman is not paid to baby sit. Linda Perron and her staff have that job).

• Post a sign stating that the customers are responsible for their children.

We are soliciting your ideas in this matter. Please call Ext. 2116 or write the Bowling Center, MWR Division, Reese AFB, 79489.

Let's go down the line.

Larry Wymer led the Ball and Chain League Thursday night with a 209 game, 543 series. Rod Wilson was second with a 537 and Ron Padgett had a 523 for third. Sharon Padgett showed the ladies "what for" with a 199 game, 520 series. Karen Moerbe was second with a 488 and Jo Ann Clark was third with a 487 series.

The Cotton Pickers on Friday night saw Dallas Swope roll a fine 223 game, 605 series. Did you ever wonder that if Dallas had been born farther west, would his folks have called him Amarillo? Always wonder about things like that. Ron Crouch had a 547, Bob Wocking 531 and Ed Rodriguez 524. Jo Ann Clark had a 528 for the ladies, Johnnie Caskey 527 and Shirley Walker 522.

The AJBC guys and gals came out bowling Saturday. Samuel Dancy led the pack with a 193 game, 486 series. Erin McGarrigle led the girls with a 168/444.

In the Bantam Division, Randall Swope had a 151 game, 391 series and Anita Rodriguez had a 121/328.

We are taking entries for the mixed doubles scratch league. When you call, give us your name, average and phone number.

Don't forget Scotch Doubles Saturday night. Come early and be sure you get in the action.

S.S. didn't work this week. He went to a wedding. He claims that the brides father was so clumsy he dropped the shotgun three times. That made the bride so nervous she almost dropped the baby.

Sonny says, "There is more to the world than what you see in your mirror."
