'Old-Time' Trades Day To Be Held In Floydada, Monday, July 6

Council Will Meet To Consider Water Rates

City Petitioned by Over Hundred Property Owners for lower Summer Rates.

In answer to a petition bearing the names of over a hundred users of city water, members of the City Council will meet this week-end for the purpose of considering a reduced schedule of summer water rates. Mayor W. C. Hanna stated yesterday that he felt sure the council would grant a substantial reduction, at least during July and August, and that if a new schedule of rates was adopted, it would begin with the June 20 meter readings.

Citizens petitioned the council last week for the summer water rates, but due to the rush of the wheat harvest, the council has not been able to meet. The petition urged the reduction to make it possible for property owners to maintain their trees, shrubs and lawns in good condition through the dry summer months. It also pointed out that many families would be dependent upon their gardens for a large part of their food this summer and a lower water rate was needed to meet the economic situation.

S. W. Ross, E. P. Nelson and others were in charge of the petition. The hope of the petitioners is that the price reduction will increase the volume of the city's water business to such an extent that it will not greatly reduce the city's income from this source.

W. O. Shurbet Raises Nation's First Cotton For Season Of 1931

Distinction of owning the farm that raised the nation's first bale of cotton to go on the market for 1931, comes to W. O. Shurbet, former resident of Floyd County, now of Lasare in the Rio Grande Valley.

Newspaper dispatches last week told of the arrival of the nation's first bale at Corpus Christi from the region of Raymondville. The bale was ginned at Lasare on Friday of last week and forwarded the next day to Corpus Christi, where it was planned to have ceremonies attendant to its sale. However, the Gulf Storm that day had business somewhat disrupted and the people in an excitable state of mind, so Mr. Shurbet was prevailed upon to leave the bale in a hotel at Corpus and return later, when the auction would be held.

The bale from Mr. Shurbet's place, seven miles from Raymondville, reached the market just three hours ahead of the second bale to go on the American market of the new year's crop.

Surprise Dinner Marks Seventy-fifth Birthday S. B. McCleskey

Mrs. S. B. McCleskey and the McCleskey children surprised their husband and father with a birthday dinner and home-coming Saturday last, celebrating his seventy-fifth birthday in a fitting manner, when all the family, including the grandchildren, were assembled and a big time enjoyed by all, at the parental home 506 South Fourth Street.

Children, in-laws, and grandchildren present included Mr. and Mrs. Sam McCleskey and family, Mr. and Mrs. Roe McCleskey and family, Mr. and Mrs. John McCleskey and family, of this city, and Mr. and Mrs. W. O. Tye and family of White Deer. Mr. and Mrs. Fletcher Haines and family, of Floydada, were also guests for the occasion.

Mr. McCleskey has been prominent for many years in the county, having served the county from 1896 to 1900 as county treasurer and from 1904 to 1908 as sheriff. Later he served precincts 1 and 4 as public weigher. He came to the county in 1891 from Bosque County, Texas. He is a native of Tennessee.

NEPHEW W. C. GRIGSBY IS SLIGHTLY HURT IN WRECK

Rev. Robert G. Hill, pastor of the First Christian Church of Teague, nephew of W. C. Grigsby of this city, his wife and two children were badly shaken and bruised when their car overturned two miles east of Matador about 8 o'clock Wednesday morning. They were given medical treatment at the Smith & Smith Sanitarium at noon Wednesday.

A puncture and a sand bed were attributed as the cause of the wreck.

The family were enroute to Plainview to attend a reunion of relatives. They were guests a short time here Wednesday of W. C. Grigsby and family.

State Health Officials Will Stage County-Wide 'Healthcade' In August

H. D. Agent

Miss Martha Faulkner, new home demonstration agent of Floyd County, successor to Miss Marie Strange, Miss Faulkner is a graduate of Texas Woman's College and her home is in Granbury. She assumed her duties here June 1 upon the resignation of Miss Strange, who is continuing her college work toward her degree. She is proving to be popular with the home demonstration club members.

IMPORTANT BUSINESS LINE FOR LEGION MEET MONDAY NIGHT, JULY 6

Important business matters are in line for a meeting of McDermott Post American Legion set for Monday night, July 6, and Roy Snodgrass, post commander is urging all members of the post and all ex-service men to be present.

Paramount in the evening's business program is the organization of a post emergency-relief committee. This committee will carry on with the advice and assistance of the County Central Committee in a state-wide health program to combat disease in drouth stricken areas of Texas, Mr. Snodgrass said.

Rotary Committees Are Announced By Rutledge

Public Information: Tom Bishop, Chairman, Glad Snodgrass, W. E. Patty.

Every Community Will Be Included In Program of Talks On Public Health.

A "Healthcade," a series of educational meetings beginning August 4 and extending over a period of three days will be conducted in Floyd County by Dr. D. C. Peterson, director of the West Texas Mobile Health Unit of the State Department of Health, to make clear to the people the value of public health work.

Meets Local Workers
Dr. Peterson was in Floydada Monday conferring with Miss Dorothy Wentland, state health nurse; Buel C. Ruthven, state sanitary engineer; Dr. V. Andrews, county health officer, and other members of the health committees working in this section.

"We hope to visit every community in Floyd County during the healthcade, giving talks and handing out literature," Dr. Peterson said. "We will explain just what public health work is and why it is of value to the people. It does pay on the money invested and that's the thing we will bring out."

Dr. E. D. Hopkins, health engineer with the department at Austin, and Miss Olga Buresh, in charge of state nursing service in West Texas, will also be here for the healthcade.

Dr. Peterson has 100 counties under his supervision in the West Texas Health Unit.

"I am well pleased with the work that has been done in this county and am glad to know that the people are receptive of a service that is bound to be of untold benefit to their community," Dr. Peterson declared.

B. Y. P. U. Ass'n Will Hold All-Day Picnic Saturday On Canyon

Representatives from the 29 churches embraced by the Floyd County B. Y. P. U. Association are expected to attend the Fourth of July picnic at the Hank Smith Rock House on Blanco Canyon. All of the delegates will bring their lunches and we expect to have a big picnic spread at the noon hour," Joe Breed, of Floydada, general director of the association announced.

The association embraces Floyd, Motley, Briscoe, and Hale counties. The picnic program is scheduled to begin at 10 o'clock Saturday morning and will continue throughout the day. Attendance is expected to reach the 400 mark.

Rev. C. S. Bourns of Lockney is chairman of the committee on program and arrangements.

Ice Prices Reduced; New Schedule Rates In Effect This Week

A reduction in the price of ice, effective this week, both retail and wholesale, was announced yesterday by S. M. Cole, manager of Texas Utilities Company, who said the reductions were effective both on delivered ice and ice delivered at the dock. The dock price is down twenty per cent in quantities of twenty-five pounds or more. Small cuts, either at dock or delivered, are practically the same as formerly.

The new price at the dock on 100 pounds of ice is fifty cents and on 200 pounds ninety cents. Included in the price reductions is the wholesale price to rural distributors.

LEE MONTAGUE ABED, GAINS STRENGTH, FELTON SAYS
Lee Montague, pioneer Floyd County resident, who has been confined to his bed for the past two months following a paralytic stroke, is gaining strength and doing nicely, according to P. M. Felton, who with his wife and daughter Winona, visited the Montague's in Plainview last week-end.

Mr. Montague became ill while at his ranch at Tucuman, New Mexico, and the family recently brought him to Plainview, where they have a residence.

W. J. DRACE IMPROVED

Only a slight improvement is shown this week in the condition of W. J. Drace, of Matador, who has been confined to his bed for the past two weeks following a stroke of apoplexy, according to attending physicians. His recovery will be slow, it was stated.

Mr. Drace is an old settler in this section and is the father of Hal

Hesperian's Weather Fo' Caster Nearly Got Rain, But Not Quite

Showers to Good Rains Last Night Over West Half County Reported.

The Hesperian Official Weather fo'caster nearly made it rain a good rain in Floyd County but not quite. The gulf disturbance and the showers that have fallen around in spots over this part of the state occurred according to his signs, but the actual downpour of heavy rain failed to materialize and Old Fo'caster is hard to get along with now.

The peacocks, the horned frogs, the big-bellied toads, the locust trees and everything gave their signs right square in a full moon, and other things happened, too, that made it impossible for it not to rain between Friday night and Monday night. So the clouds did squeeze out a few local showers round about over the county, but that's all. Meanwhile, Fo'caster is willing for The Hesperian not to call any names temporarily at least.

Weather during this week has been considerably cooler than last, the showers and cloudy days bringing several degrees lower temperature. Reports from over the county indicate that in some localities the need of rain is marked, while in others cotton and feedstuffs are still looking good. All sections of the county, however, need good rains at this time for the row crops.

Last Night's Reports

At Floydada a good cotton shower fell, three-tenths of an inch being recorded; at Baker, Geo. L. Fawver reports no rain; Barwise, W. R. Dooley reports a good rain; South Plains, Thornton Drug Co. cotton showers; Lockney, Security State Bank reports one-fourth inch rainfall; at Lakeview, no rain according to W. T. Hopper; four miles out on the Lakeview road, slight rainfall Mrs. C. M. Battey reports; at Dougherty, no rain reported anywhere in territory; points east on the Q. A. & P. report no rain, according to Bob Medlen, agent at Floydada; at Crosbyton no rain fell; at the Hoffman place east of Fairview no rain fell, Mrs. Hoffman reports nice cotton shower falling early this morning.

A good rain fell at Harry Christian's place in Blanco, where water standing in the crop rows this morning. Efforts to reach Almon, Harmony, McCoy and Starkey by telephone were unsuccessful.

A tourist this morning early in Floydada said rain began falling at Ft. Sumner yesterday afternoon about 6 and fell ahead of him all the way to Plainview, where the fall gradually began to lighten all the way to Floydada. Heavy rains fell west from Plainview to the New Mexico line, he said.

MULESHOE YOUTH KILLED WHEN CAR HITS SHIPLEY TRUCK NEAR CLOVIS, N. M.

Hugh T. Kennedy, of Muleshoe, was killed Monday night near Clovis, New Mexico when a car he was driving crashed headlong into a truck owned by the Shipley Brothers. Clovis ranchers, according to reports in state papers yesterday, John and Elex Shipley, owners of the truck, are brothers of D. D. Shipley of this city, and are well known here. The truck was driven by L. P. Hickson, the report states.

Kennedy, who was a baker at Muleshoe, is believed to have been a former resident of this city. According to E. E. Boothe, a young man known as Ted Kennedy was employed in the Boothe Bakery here some five years ago, and was believed to have been employed at Muleshoe.

Kennedy's head was crushed by the impact and he died a few minutes after being taken to a physician. He was apparently blinded by the trucks lights, and was driving at a high rate of speed, the report in the daily papers stated. Neither John Shipley nor Hinkson were injured. The car and truck were demolished.

ATTENDS PENNEY MEETING

Walton Hale, manager of the Floydada store of the J. C. Penney Company, spent Tuesday in Amarillo where he attended a conference of managers of Penney stores in the plains area.

He returned home Tuesday night.

ON VACATION TRIP

Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Fry, in company with Mrs. Calvin Steen and Mrs. H. E. Edwards, left yesterday on a vacation trip for Long Beach, California. The Fry's plan to return in about two weeks.

Mr. and Mrs. B. F. McIntosh and children returned the latter part of last week from a vacation visit spent at Ciddings and other points south of

Horned-Frog Test Fails To Prove; W. P. Daily Tries

W. P. Daily had perfectly good intentions and his plan might have worked but the evidence was not quite sufficient to prove whether the famous Eastland claim of a horned frog's Rip Van Winkle stunt is true or false.

Anyway Mr. Daily did his part. Three years ago he placed a live horned toad in a block of concrete and Wednesday morning the formal opening exercise were held at the Hesperian office with a due and proper amount of witnesses.

But the froggie was dead. He had been killed by the weight of the concrete and had not had a fair test. It was suggested that if the horny animal had been placed in a wooden box and then the concrete added Floydada would then be in a position to challenge or endorse Eastland's claim that a horned toad lived for years and years in a cornerstone of a building and was alive when removed twenty-odd years later, or something like that. What's left of the frog is on display in the Hesperian office window.

Those who saw the opening process performed included G. C. Tubbs, J. A. Wymann, L. B. Maxey, O. P. Rutledge, Mr. Daily and members of The Hesperian staff.

Three Slightly Hurt When Car Overturns On Matador Highway

Mr. and Mrs. C. Plummer and daughter, of Fort Worth, were painfully but not seriously injured about 3 o'clock Wednesday morning when the Nash coupe in which they were riding overturned at a corner on the Matador highway fifteen miles east of Floydada.

They were given medical attention by Dr. J. S. Rinehart and following a short rest at the Tourist Hotel Wednesday morning continued on their trip to Clovis, N. M., where Mr. Plummer will be employed.

Mrs. Plumber suffered two deep cuts on her right hand and her right leg was injured below the knee. She was the most seriously injured.

The young daughter was bruised about the head and shoulders and her right limb was cut below the knee.

Mr. Plumber was bruised and shaken considerably. He was driving the car at a fast rate of speed, it was stated, and he did not see the turn in the road in time to slow down sufficiently to make the corner.

The top and the radiator were smashed but the car was repaired after being pulled in by a truck and used to continue the trip to Clovis.

COOPER TO LAMESA

Elder H. P. Cooper and family this week left for Lamesa, where Mr. Cooper will engage in the ministry. He resigned from the ministry at the City Park Church of Christ here recently to take up the new work at Lamesa.

Merchants Offer Many Special Prizes, Gifts

Old-Time Event Staged For Entire Territory By Firms.

Inaugurating a plan for the holding of an old-time East Texas trades day the first Monday in every month, local business firms and organizations this week have issued invitations to the people in the rural community to cooperate in the first event Monday, July 6.

Special merchandise prices are being offered along with other prizes, awards and gifts being offered by the business men for "First Monday."

The general plan calls for just a good old-fashioned trades day with nothing elaborate and with the "hullabaloo" cut out. Farmers are urged to bring in their livestock, poultry, household goods, and farming tools and "park" them on the square and barter and trade as long as they like. It is believed that the exchange idea can be used to advantage by the residents of the rural communities, enabling them to obtain many items and articles that they need by meeting at a common point and "swapping" just as they did in olden times.

Floydada merchants are maintaining complete stocks of up-to-the-minute merchandise and furnishing the needs of their patrons in this territory with the very lowest of prices.

It is hoped that Trades Day can be maintained as a feature for Floydada and continued through the year, making every first Monday an anticipated event.

Local business men are giving the reduced prices on merchandise and the prizes as special attractions to draw as many folks to town a possible, effecting savings for them and at the same time affording them an opportunity to exchange personal property.

Stone Department Store, Inc., will offer two pairs of ladies' shoes free. The gifts will be restricted to women residents of rural communities only.

The women are asked to come in and register and have their feet measured. The shoes will be awarded the first two on whom they are a perfect fit, the management acting as the judge.

Martin Dry Goods Company will give a $5 pair of shoes to the man bringing in the largest variety of livestock for Trades Day. They are asked to report at the store and the notation will be made by the management when it will be state the exact time the prize will be given.

Seale & Jones Dry Goods will give free one dozen towels to the largest family visiting their store on Trades Day. They will also give a free jumper to the largest man visiting their store Monday.

J. U. Borum Variety Store has special free feature that will be planned at the store. Special attention is called to the show window. Mr. Borum said, where the det will be shown.

Baker, Hanna & Company will give free 25 baby chicks, two w old, on Trades Day. Everyone been invited to visit the store ask for details.

J. C. Penney Co. will give a pair of overalls to the man largest waist measure visiting store Monday.

Other stores will have show windows and visit and inquire about the specials.

It is hoped to add features in the future, make the Trades Day more interesting to people entire trades territory.

"Come to Floydada the slogan local business featuring."

THE STORY

CHAPTER I—It was 1889. Yancey Cravat, just returned from the newly opened Indian territory where he had participated in the Run over the border, is describing this adventure to a large family gathering of the Venables. The Venables, ruined by the Civil war, had left Mississippi and settled in Wichita, Kan. Five years before Yancey Cravat had appeared in Wichita and won as his bride sixteen-year-old Sabra Venable. Gossip said of Yancey Cravat that there was Indian blood in him. He is a clever criminal lawyer and editor of the Wichita Wigwam. A born orator, he combines something of the charlatan, much of the actor and a dash of the fanatic. When the Run started, Yancey had raced his pony against the thoroughbred mount of a girl. When her horse fell and broke both forelegs, he stopped to shoot the crippled animal. The girl leaped on his mustang, galloped to the quarter section and got the land by right of claim. Yancey announces he is going back to the Oklahoma country to start a newspaper in one of the new towns. Sabra, defying her mother, says she will go too.

CHAPTER III

Indians were no novelty to the townspeople of Wichita. Twice a year, chaperoned by old Gen. "Bull" Plummer, the Indians swept through the streets in their visiting regalia—feathers, beads, blankets, and—most brilliant of all—moccasins—a brilliant sight. Ahead of them and behind them was the reassuring blue of United States army uniforms worn by the Kansas regiment from Fort Riley. All Wichita, accustomed to them though it was, rushed out to gaze at them from store doorways and offices and kitchens. Bucks, braves, chiefs, squaws, papooses; tepees, poles, pots, dogs, ponies, the cavalcade swept through the quiet sunny streets of the midwestern town, a vivid frieze of color against the drab monotony of the prairies.

A crowd enough people they seemed by now; dirty, degraded. Since the Custer massacre of '76 they had been pretty thoroughly beaten into submission. Sabra, if she considered them at all, thought of them as dirty and useless two-footed animals. The once-wild things seemed tame enough now, herded together on their reservations, spirit broken, pride destroyed.

The child Cim had got it into his head that this was to be a picnic. He had smelled pies and cakes baking; had seen hampers packed. Certainly, except for the bizarre load that both wagons contained, this might have been one of those informal excursions into a nearby wood which Cim so loved, where they lunched in the open, camped near a stream, and he was allowed to run barefooted in the shadow of his aristocratic grandmother's cool disapproval.

There was a lunatic week preceding their departure from Wichita. Police fought their going to the last, and finally took to her bed with threats of impending dissolution which failed to achieve the desired effects owing to the preoccupation of the persons supposed to be stricken by her plight. From time to time, intrigued by the thumpings, rappings, shouts, laughter, quarrels, and general upheaval attendant on the Cravat's departure, Pease rose from her bed and trailed only about the house, looking in for white dimity wrapper, like a drowsy and distracted ghost. She issued orders. "Take this. Don't let that. It can't be that you're going those behind! Your own Sarah Moncrief du Tisme entered every inch of them with her fingers."

"Mamma, you don't understand," she says there's very little and it's all quite rough and wild, almost."

"You can't prevent you from going you're a lady, I hope, you're planning to be one in a sunbonnet and no Yancey seems to have a fancy to."

Cravat took along to the wilderness such oddments as his training, lack of grace, and southern family tradition. There were two trunks covered and lumbered with boxes, stowed away in the belly of one; the print-securely roped and lashed to the other.

As, to the Wichita eye, unusual in the sight of covered freighters that go lumbering off to the horizon. Their like had never tracked in the Kansas prairie in this small expedition with there was some of the poignancy of the and the ridiculous. The bizarre, impractical; the slipped, terribly determined staring with the gaze of one who blink but once is to tears; the child, out excitement and ingone. From the day of the Run, black descendant of the servants, had begun ged to be taken along. Denied this, he had sulked for a week and now was nowhere to be found.

The wagons, packed, stood waiting before the Venable house. Perhaps never in the history of the settling of the West did a woman go a-pioneering in such a costume. Sabra had driven horses all her life; so now she stepped agilely from ground to hub, from hub to wheel top, perched herself on the high wagon seat and gathered up the reins with deftness and outward composure. Her eyes were enormous, her pale face paler. Yancey had swung Cim up to the calico-cushioned seat beside Sabra. His short legs, in their copper-toed boots, stuck straight out in front of him. His dark eyes were huge with excitement. "Why don't we go?" he demanded, over and over, in something like a scream. He shouted to the horses as he had heard teamsters do. "Giddap in 'ere; Gee-up! G'larng!" His grandmother and grandfather, gazing up with sudden agony in their faces at sight of this little expedition actually faring forth so absurdly into the unknown, had ceased to exist for Cim. As Sabra drove one wagon and Yancey the other, the boy pivoted between them through the long drive, spending the morning in the seat beside his mother, the afternoon beside his father, with intervals of napping curled up on the bedding at the back of the wagon.

Now, with a lurch and a rattle and a great clatter of hoofs the two wagons were off. They had made an early start. By ten the boy's eyes were heavy with sleep. Sabra coaxed him to curl up on the wagon seat, his head in her lap. She held the reins in one hand; one arm was about the child. It was hot and still and drowsy. Noon came with surprising swiftness. They had brought along a precious keg of water and a food supply sufficient, they thought, to last through most of the trip—salt pork, mince and apple pies, bread, doughnuts—but their appetites were enormous. At midday they stopped and ate in the shade. Sabra prepared the meal while Yancey tended the horses. Cim, wide awake now and refreshed, ate largely with them of the fried salt pork and potatoes, the hard-boiled eggs, the mince pie. It was all very gay and comfortable and relaxed. Short as the morning had been, the afternoon stretched out, somehow, endlessly. Sabra began to be horribly tired, cramped. The boy whimpered. It was mid-afternoon and hot; it was late afternoon; then the brilliant western sunset began to paint the sky. Yancey, in the wagon ahead, drew up, gazed about, got out, tied his team to one of a clump of cottonwoods.

"We'll camp here," he called to Sabra and came toward her wagon, prepared to lift her down, and the boy. She was stiff, utterly weary. She stared down at him, dully, then around the landscape. "Camp?"

"Yes. For the night. Come, Cim." He lifted the boy down with a great swoop.

"You mean for the night? Sleep here?"

He was quite matter-of-fact. "Yes. It's a good place. Water and trees. I'll have a fire before you can say Jack Robinson. Where'd you think you were going to sleep? Back home?"

Somehow she had not thought. She had not believed it. To sleep out of doors like this, in the open, with only a wagon top as roof! All her neat conventional life she had slept in a four-poster bed with a dotted Swiss canopy and net curtains and linen sheets that smelled sweetly of the sun and the air.

Yancey began to make camp. Already the duties of this new manner of living had become familiar. There was wood to gather, a fire to start, water to be boiled. Cim, very wide awake now, trotted after his father, after his mother. Meat began to sizzle appetizingly in the pan. The exquisite scent of coffee revived them with its promise of stimulation.

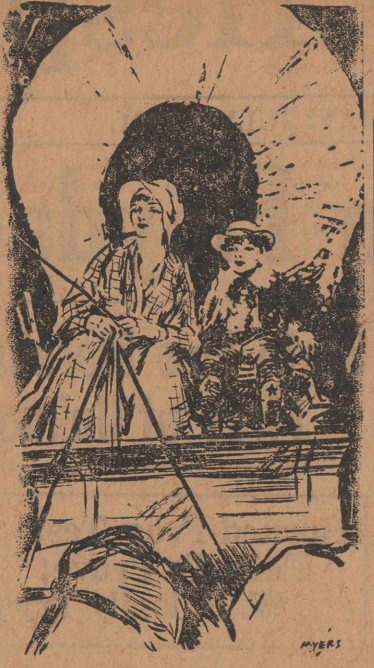

"That roll of carpet," called Sabra, busy at the fire, to Yancey at the wagon. "Under the seat. I want Cim to sit on it. . . ground may be damp."

A sudden shout from Yancey. A squeal of terror from the bundle of carpeting in his arms—a bundle that suddenly was alive and wriggling. Yancey dropped it with an oath. The bundle lay on the ground a moment, heaving, then it began to unroll itself while the three regarded it with starting eyes. A black paw, a woolly head, a face all open mouth and whites of eyes. Black Isaiah. He had found a way to come with them to the Indian territory.

By noon next day they were wondering how they had got on at all without him. He gathered wood. He started fires. He tended Cim like a nurse, played with him, sang to him, helped put him to bed, slept anywhere, like a little dog.

Yancey pointed out the definiteness with which the land changed when they left Kansas and came into the Oklahoma country. "Oklahoma," he explained to Cim. "That's Choctaw. Okla—people. Humma—red. Red people. That's what they called it when the Indians came here to live."

Was a Hard Trip for the Child

Suddenly the land, too, had become red: red clay as far as the eye could see. When the trail led through a cleft in a hill the blood red of the clay on either side was like a gaping wound. Sabra shrank from it. Its glare seared the eyeballs.

It was a hard trip for the child. He was by turns unruly and listless. He could not run about, except when they stopped to make camp. Sabra, curiously enough, had not the gift of amusing him as Yancey, had, or even Isaiah. Isaiah told him tales that were negro folklore, handed down by word of mouth through the years.

Often the days were gay enough. They fell into the routine, adjusted themselves to the discomfort. Sabra got out the sunbonnet which one of the less formidable Venables had jokingly given her at parting, and this she wore to shield her eyes from the pitiless glare of sky and plain. The sight of her in that prairie wilderness engaged in the domestic task of beating up a bowl of biscuit dough struck no one as being incongruous. The bread supply was early exhausted. She baked in a little portable tin oven that Yancey had fitted out for her.

As for Yancey himself, Sabra had never known him so happy. He was tireless, charming, varied. She herself was fascinated by his tales of hidden mines, of Spanish doubloons, of iron chests plowed up by some gaunt homesteader's hand plow hitched to a stumbling mule.

The wind, at certain periods of the year, blows almost without ceasing in Oklahoma. And when it rains the roads become slithering rains of greased red dough, so that a wagon will sink and slide at the same time. They had two days of rain during which they plodded miserably, inch by inch. Cim squalled. Isaiah became just a shivering black lump of misery, and Sabra thought of her dimity-hung bed back home in Wichita; of the garden in the cool of the evening; of the family pleasant in the dining room; of the pleasant food, the easy talk, the luxurious ease.

At Pawnee Yancey saw fresh deer tracks. He saddled a horse and was off. They had, before this, caught bass in the streams, and Yancey had shot prairie chicken and quail, and Sabra had fried them delicately. But this was their first promise of big game. Sabra welcomed this unexpected halt. She and Isaiah carried water from the creek and washed a few bits of clothes and hung them to dry. She bathed Cim. She heated water for herself and bathed gratefully. She set Isaiah to gathering fuel for the evening meal, while Cim played in the shade of the clump of scrub oak. She was quite serene. She listened for the sound of horse's hoofs that would announce Yancey's triumphant return. Vaguely she began to wonder if Yancey should not have returned by now. She brushed her hair thoroughly, enjoying the motion, throwing it over her head and bending far forward in that contortious attitude required by her task. After she had braided it she decided to leave it in a long thick plait down her back. Audaciously she tied it with a bright red ribbon, smiling to think of what Yancey would say. She tidied the wagon. She was frankly worried now. Nothing could happen. Of course nothing could happen. And in another part of her mind she thought that any one of a dozen dreadful things could happen. Indians. Why not? Some wild thing in the woods. Broken bones. A fall from his horse. He might lose his way. Suppose she had to spend the night alone here on the prairie with the two children.

In a sudden panic she stepped out of the wagon with the feeling that she must have her own human things near her—Cim, Isaiah—to talk to. Cim was not there playing with his bits of stone and twigs. He had gone off with Isaiah to gather fuel, though she had forbidden it. Isaiah, his long arms full of dead twigs and small branches, was coming toward the wagon now. Cim was not with him.

"Where's Cim?"

He dropped his load, looked around. "I lef him playin' by hisself right hyah when Ah go fetch de wood. Ain' he in de wagon?"

"No. No."

"Might be he crep' in de print wagon."

"Wagon?" She ran to the other wagon, peered inside, called. He was not there.

Together they looked under the wagons, behind the trees. "Cim! Cim! Cimarron Cravat, if you are hiding I shall punish you if you don't come out this minute." A shrill note of terror crept into her voice. She began to scream his name, her voice cracking grotesquely. "Cim! Cim!" She prayed as she ran, mumbly. "O God, help me find him. O God, don't let anything happen to him. Dear God, help me find him—Cim! Cim! Cim!"

She came to a little mound that dipped suddenly and unexpectedly to a draw. And there, in a hollow, she came upon him, seated before a cave in the side of the hill, the front and roof ingeniously timbered to make a log cabin. One might pass within five feet of it and never find it. Four men were seated about the doorpost outside the rude cabin. Cim was perched on the knee of one of them, who was cracking nuts for him. They were laughing and talking and munching nuts and having altogether a delightful time of it. Sabra's knees suddenly became weak. She was trembling. She stumbled as she ran toward him. Her face worked queerly. The men sprang up, their hands at their hips.

"The man is cracking nuts for me," remarked Cim, sociably, and not especially glad to see her.

The man on whose knee he sat was a slim young fellow with a sandy mustache and a red handkerchief knotted cowboy fashion around his throat. He put the boy down gently as Sabra came up, and rose with a kind of easy grace.

"You ran away—you—hunted every—Cim—" she stammered, and burst into tears of mingled anger and relief.

The slim young man seemed the spokesman, though the other three were obviously older than he.

"Why, I'm real sorry you was distressed, ma'am. We was going to bring the boy back safe enough. He wandered down here lookin' for his pa, he said." He was standing with one hand resting lightly, tenderly, on Cim's head, and looking down at Sabra with a smile of utter sweetness. His was the soft-spoken, almost caressing voice of the southwestern cowman and ranger. At this Sabra's anger, born of fright, vanished. Besides, he was so young—scarcely more than a boy.

"Well," she explained, a little sheepishly, "I was worried . . . My husband went off on the track of a deer . . . hours ago . . . he hasn't come back . . . then when Cim . . . I came out and he was gone . . . I was so—so terribly . . ."

"Won't you sit and rest yourself, ma'am?" suggested the spokesman. The words were hospitable enough, yet there was that in the boy's tone which conveyed to Sabra the suggestion that she and Cim had better be gone. She took Cim's hand. Now that her fright was past she thought she must have looked very queer. She hid her face in her hand and her tears and her pigtails and her screaming. She thanked them, using a little southern charm and southern drawl, which she often legitimately borrowed from the ancestral Venables for special occasions such as this.

"I'm ve'y grateful to you—all," she now said. "You've been mighty kind. If you would just drop around to our camp I'm sure my husband would be delighted to meet you."

The young man smiled more sweetly than ever, and the others looked at him, and inexplicable glint of humor in their weather-beaten faces.

"I sure thank you, ma'am. We're movin' on, my friends here and me. Pronto. Floyd, how about you getting a piece of deer meat for the lady, seeing she's been cheated of her supper. Now, if you and the little fella don't mind sittin' up behind and before, why, I'll take you back a ways. You probably run further than you expected, ma'am, scared as you was." She had, as a matter of fact, in her terror, run almost half a mile from camp.

He mounted first. His method of accomplishing this was something of a miracle. At one moment the horse was standing ready and he was at its side. The next there was a flash, and he was on its back. It was like an optical illusion in which he seemed to have been drawn to the saddle as a needle flies to the magnet. Cim he drew up with one pommel, holding him with one hand; Sabra, perched on the horse's rump, clung with both arms round the lad's slim waist. Something of a horsewoman, she noticed his fine Mexican saddle, studded with silver. From the sides of the saddle hung hair-covered pockets whose bulge was the outline of a gun. A slicker such as is carried by those who ride the trails made a compact, ship-shape roll behind the saddle. Suddenly she noticed that the young rider wore gloves. The sight of them made her vaguely uneasy, as though some memory had been stirred. She had never seen a plainsman wearing gloves. It was absurd, somehow.

A hundred feet or so from the camp he reined in his horse abruptly, half turned in his saddle, and with his free hand swung Sabra gently to the ground, leaning far from his saddle and keeping a firm hold on Cim and reins as he did so. He placed the child in her upraised arms, wheeled, and was gone before she could open her lips to frame a word of thanks. The piece of deer meat, neatly wrapped, lay on the ground at her feet. She stood staring after the galloping figure, dumbly. She took Cim's hand. Together they ran toward the camp. Isaiah had a fire going, a pot of coffee bubbling. His greeting to Cim was sternly admonitory. Ten minutes later Yancey galloped in, empty handed.

"What a chase he led me! Twice I thought I had him. I'd have run him into Texas if I hadn't thought you'd be—"

Sabra, for the first time since her marriage, felt superior to him; was impatient of his tale of prowess. She had her own story to tell, spiced with indignation. . . . and just when I was ready to die with fright, there he was, talking to those four men, and sitting on—the knee of one of them as though he'd known him all his life, eating nuts."

Yancey seemed less interested in the part that she and Cim had played in the adventure than in the appearance and behavior of the four men in the draw, and especially the charming young man who had so gallantly brought them back.

"Thin faced, was he? And a youngster? About nineteen or twenty? What else?"

"Oh, a low voice, and kind of sweet, as though he sang tenor. And his teeth—"

Yancey interrupted. "Long, weren't they? The two at the side, I mean. Like a wolf's?"

"Yes. How did you—Do you know him?"

"Sort of," Yancey answered thoughtfully.

Sabra was piqued. "It was lucky for us it was some one who knows you, probably. Because you don't seem to care much about what happened to us—what might have happened."

"You said you wanted to go a-pioneering."

"Well?"

"This is it. Stir that fire, Isaiah. Sabra, get that meat a-frizzling. Because we're moving on."

"Now? Tonight? But it's late. I thought we were camping here for the night."

"Well eat and get going. Moonlight tonight. I don't just like it here. There's been a lot of time lost this afternoon. We'll push on. In another day or so, with luck, we'll be in Osage, snug and safe."

They ate hurriedly. Yancey seemed restless, anxious to be off.

They jolted on. Cim slept, a little ball of weariness, in the back of the wagon. Isaiah drowsed beside Sabra. She must have dozed off, for suddenly the sun's rays were sharply slanted, and she shivered with the cool of the prairie night air. Voices had awakened her. Three horsemen had dashed out of a little copse and stood in the path of Yancey's lead wagon. They were heavily armed. Their hands rested on their guns. Their faces were grim. All three wore the badge of United States marshals, but there was about them something that announced this even before the eye was caught by their badge of office. The leader addressed Yancey, his voice mild, even gentle.

"Howdy."

"Howdy."

"Where you bound for, pardner?"

"Osage."

The questioner's hand rested lightly on the butt of the six-shooter at his waist. "What might your name be?"

"Cravat—Yancey Cravat."

The spokesman's face lighted up with the slow, incredulous smile of a delighted child. "I'll be doggoned!" He turned his slow grin on the man at his right, on the man at his left. "Yancey Cravat!" he said again, as though they had not heard. "I sure am pleased to make your acquaintance. Hear about you till I feel like I know you."

"Why, thanks," replied Yancey, unusually modest and laconic. Sabra knew then that Yancey was playing one of his roles. He would talk as they talked. Be one of them.

"Aimin' to make quite a stay in Osage?"

"Aim to live there."

"Go on! I've a notion to swear you in as deputy marshal right now, darned if I ain't, and no mistake. Law'n'?"

"I'm planning to take up my law practice in Osage, yes," Yancey answered, "and start a newspaper as well."

The three looked a little perturbed at this. They glanced at each other, then at Yancey, then away uncomfortably. "Oh, newspaper huh?" There was little enthusiasm in the marshal's voice. "Well, we did have a newspaper there for a little while in Osage, 'bout a week."

"A daily?"

"A weekly."

"There was something sinister in this. 'What became of it?'"

"Well, seems the editor—name of Pegler—died."

"Who killed him?"

A little shadow of pained surprise passed over the features of the marshal. "He was just found dead one morning on the banks of the Canadian. Bullet wounds. But bullets is all pretty much alike, out here. He might 'a' killed himself, plumb discouraged."

The silence fell again. Yancey broke it. "The first edition of the Oklahoma Wigwam will be off the press two weeks from tomorrow."

He gathered up the reins as though to end this chance meeting, however agreeable. "Well, gentlemen, good evening. Glad to have met you."

The three did not budge. "What we stopped to ask you," said the spokesman, in his gentle drawl, "was, did you happen to glimpse four men anywhere on the road? They're nesting somewhere in here, the Kid and his gang. Stole four horses, robbed the bank at Red Fork, shot the cashier, and lit out for the prairie. Light complected, all of 'em. The Kid is a slim young fella, light hair, red handkerchief, sort spoken, and rides with gloves on. But then you know what he's like, Cravat, well's I do."

Yancey nodded in agreement. "Everybody's heard of the Kid. No, sir, I haven't seen him. Haven't seen anybody the last three days but a Kaw on a pony and a bunch of dirty Cheyennes in a wagon. Funny thing, I never yet knew a bad man who wasn't light complected—or, anyway, blue or grey eyes."

"Oh, say, now!" protested the marshal, stroking his sandy mustache.

"Fact, you take the Kid, and the James boys, and Tom O'Phallard, and the whole Mullins gang."

"How about yourself? You're pretty good with the gun, from all accounts. And black as a crow."

Yancey lifted his great head and the heavy lids that usually drooped over the gray eyes and looked at the marshal. "That's so," said the other, as though in agreement at the end of an argument. "I reckon it sees fur killers and fur killers of killers. . . . Well, boys, well be lovin' Good luck to you."

"Good luck to you!" responded Yancey, politely.

The three whirled their steeds spectacularly, raised their right hands in salute; the horses pivoted on their hind legs prettily. Cim crowded with delight. They were off in a cloud of red dust made redder by the last rays of the setting sun.

Yancey gathered up his reins. Sabra stared at him in bewildered indignation. "But the person who shields a criminal is just as bad as the criminal himself, isn't he?"

Yancey looked back at her around the side of his wagon top. His smile was mischievous, sparkling, irresistible. "Don't be righteous. Sabra. It's middle class—and a terrible trait in a woman."

Late next day, just before sunset, after pushing on relentlessly through the blistering sun of midday, Yancey pointed with his wagon whip to something that looked like a wallow of mud dotted with crazy shanties and tents. Theoretically he picked Cim up in his arms so that the child, too, might see. But he spoke to Sabra.

"There it is," he said. "That's our future home."

GEORGE WASHINGTON'S TRAVELS

Now thoroughly aroused, Governor Dinwiddie moved to resist French aggression. Washington was offered full command but, pleading lack of experience in so serious a matter he accepted service as second in command under Colonel Frye and left Alexandria on April 2, 1754 under orders to build roads for the advancing artillery. Destiny's messenger, in the guise of a military courier, soon handed the courageous youth greater responsibilities.

BEHIND bolted doors in this cabin, now preserved in Riverside Park, at Cumberland, Maryland, Washington sought his own counsel upon hearing that the half constructed fort at the Forks had been captured by the French. With the sudden death of Colonel Frye, leadership had again fallen to this apt youth.

LORD FAIRFAX WRITES on the BLESSINGS OF THE PIPE

CRISES were now becoming the stepping-stones to greatness for this resolute youth. Lord Fairfax, always present in body or spirit as grave hours approached, sent this counsel:

"I would that you smoked a pipe. It confers great equanimity in times of doubt, and the Indians hold it to be helpful in council; for while a man smokes he cannot discourse, and thus must needs obtain time for sober reflection. Indeed, my dear George, when I reflect upon the many statues of worthless kings and the monuments to scoundrels in graveyards where the dead lie and the living lie about them, I am inclined to set up a fine memorial at Greenway Court to the unknown Indian who invented this blessing of the Pipe. He must have been a great genius."

Writes Interestingly Of The 'Big Country'

Lee Mayhew, Former Resident of Floydada, Tells Hamilton Friend of Trip.

Under date of April 8, A. L. (Lee) Mayhew, former resident of Floydada, and son of Mr. and Mrs. E. B. Mayhew, wrote an interesting letter from Sea Side, Oregon, to Miss Artie Powell, of Hamilton, telling of his trip into the west and thence northwest. The letter, re-produced in The Hamilton Herald-Record, recently came to the attention of Mrs. Will Snell, who points out that Lee has numerous friends and acquaintances in this area and that his letter would likely be of general interest to people of this country. It is as follows:

As I have already mailed you a card I will follow it up with a report as to why I am here, and what it is about. I guess you have been wondering about the 'why' cause of me being this far from Texas.

Conditions in California got so terrible, and the Major Oil Companies got into an oil war that caused many men to be laid off, and naturally me being one of the last ones put on, I was the first one to get let out I tried as hard as any one over did to find something in any line but it seemed almost impossible. However the manager of the Sinclair office begged me to stay on the Pacific coast so that he could get in touch with me on short notice, so I am staying as I know there is not any thing in Texas now, only my people to go back to. I like California mighty well, and I hope some day to make my home there. There are so many things of interest there for one to see. I love the climate, and the Hollywood atmosphere.

Along about this time two boys from Floydada came out to Los Angeles looking for work. Of course they did not find any thing, and they each had enough money to get back to Texas, but one wanted to go back and the other wanted to come north. Well of course I came with the latter. I would not take a thousand dollars for the trip. I saw more beautiful scenery than I ever dreamed really existed.

We came right up the coast from Los Angeles to San Francisco. San Francisco is some city, but I do not like it as I do Los Angeles, for one thing I do not like all the various foreigners there. Of course Los Angeles has a world of them, but not so many as San Francisco. I think San Francisco is about twice the size of Dallas. The city itself is built along the seashore and back up into the Rocky mountains. You see here the mountains come to the seashore. We crossed the Great Bay on ferry. It was only about twenty miles wide but it was some thrill for a Texan, you may bet. The fellow who is with me is a real sport, and when you think we did not have plenty of fun, well you have another think coming. Ha. There is not much pretty scenery between Los Angeles and San Francisco, mostly by the sea. Of course that would be pretty to one never having seen the Pacific. Even now tho' I get a thrill every time I look at the mighty ocean.

After leaving San Francisco we drove into the timber. I love the trees so you may be assured that I got some kick out of the trip. About two hundred miles this side of San Francisco we left the coast and got more into the mountains. By referring back to your geography you will remember that the largest Red Wood forest of trees in the world are located between San Francisco, California and Eureka, California. Well, we drove through this. It is too beautiful for words. Some of the trees were twenty-five feet in diameter and two and three hundred feet in height. I don't think there is any need to worry about the world ever running low on lumber. There are just hundreds of miles of forest land that does not look as though man has ever set a foot in. All through this part of the country there are many beautiful mountain creeks and rivers. There are springs all along the road side just gushing up out of the earth. The water is ice cold, too, being snow fed. You have seen calendars with rivers flowing over rock boulders and the water spraying in all directions. The water is of a blue green color. There is still a lot of large game in this part of the world. Deer, bear, wolves and they say some lions. We saw some bears in cages along the highway.

At Eureka, California, the largest saw mill in the world is located. It is really so large affair. In driving through this part of the world we would be driving down by the sea a few miles and then the highway would take us back up into the mountains into the sleet and snow. In just a few minutes we would drive from sea level to an altitude of several hundred feet and some times thousands.

As this was our destination we did not stop until we got here, however there were lots of places I wanted to stop and just let the rest of the world go by.

This is a land of saw mills and fishing industries. We are only above twelve miles from the Columbia river. You may judge by that, we are up in the "Big Country." We have been up to the river. It is some stream of water. They say it is eight miles wide at the mouth where it empties into the Pacific. As you know it is the boundary between Oregon and Washington. While we were up the river we saw an English ship taking on lumber for a foreign part. It was flying the English flag too, and that made me feel as though I were in some foreign country. It is only about one hundred miles up the river to Portland. I want to go there soon. We plan to go through Washington and possibly on up into Canada before we come back to Texas. I don't feel that I would ever come back up into this part of the world again so I want to see as much of it as I can this time.

It is 1493 miles to Los Angeles from this point and from there to Floydada it is 1445 miles so you may judge by that I am rather far from home. I plan to go home this fall and I am going to stay there if I possibly can. I am too far from my dear mother.

Sea Side is a nice little seashore town of about 7,500 people. It is a summer resort and people come here from all parts of the world in the summer months. I think I am going to like it all right. We plan on staying here for about ninety days and then go up into Washington and stay until fall. From this point it is about 600 miles to the Canadian border and we sure want to go over as we are so close.

I would enjoy a letter from you as I don't hear from that part of the world so very much any more. We cannot even buy a Texas newspaper here. The farthest eastern paper we can buy is the Denver Post.

High School Tuition Decision Is Rendered

State Supt. Marrs Says Supreme Court Ruling Makes Change in Administration.

(By S. M. N. Marrs, State Superintendent of Public Instruction.)

The recent decision of the Supreme Court in the case of Neota Camp et al vs. Dallas City Schools, known as the Love high school tuition case, materially affects the administration of the rural high school tuition law.

The court holds that no one can receive the benefits of free high school tuition unless he has been enumerated on the scholastic census and is subject to be transferred. It will be necessary, therefore, to exclude from the benefits of this law the following classes of students:

1. Scholastics who reside in the rural school district but who were omitted from the scholastic census in March.

2. Scholastics who are of high school grade who have become residents of a rural, non-high school district after the taking of the census unless such pupils have been enumerated within the county or in an adjoining district of a contiguous county and have been transferred to the district of their new residence.

3. Pupils over seventeen years of age. These pupils are not subject to transfer and are not allowed to attend school, even in their home district, without the payment of tuition.

4. Pupils enumerated in one county who desire to attend high school in another county, unless the high school student resides in a county line district and desires to be transferred to a contiguous high school district in the adjoining county.

This decision is based upon the theory that only such children as have been enumerated are subject to transfer and that only those who have been transferred can receive the benefits of the high school tuition law.

The State Superintendent has made a much more liberal interpretation of the provisions of the high school tuition law, but his construction must now be revised to conform to the decision of the Court. He has uniformly held that all pupils who were under twenty-one years of age and who resided in a district were entitled to attend the free school maintained by the district. This has been the interpretation of the statutes since 1913. When the high school tuition law enacted, it naturally followed that it would be the responsibility of the district to pay their tuition if no high school was maintained in the home district. The Supreme Court seems to hold that the enumeration of the child and the consequent apportionment of the funds is the basis of his right to the privilege of free high school tuition and not his residence in the district. This decision places the administration of the schools, in so far as the older students are concerned, on the same basis as prior to 1913, and there seems to be no practicable remedy except an amendment to the constitution.

SHERIFF'S SALE

With The County Clubs

Miss Faulkner and twelve members of the Pleasant Hill Home Demonstration Club met at the home of Mrs. C. F. Camden on June 25, with Mrs. Camden as hostess. "The 4H Pantry" was the subject studied. Mrs. S. D. Scott discussed "a well arranged menu" and Mrs. C. F. Camden discussed "A well filled pantry". We also discussed ways of raising money to fix our club room and also made plans for July meeting.

Miss Faulkner gave an interesting talk on pantry and several useful hints on canning. Our next meeting will be with Mrs. F. J. Wilkes on July 9.

Mr. and Mrs. Joubert Clements and Miss Ruth Collins, of Plainview, were guests of Mr. and Mrs. T. P. Collins in Floydada Sunday. They, with a party of friends, enjoyed the afternoon at Floydada Country Club.

Mr. and Mrs. Jim Lawliss and daughter, of Clovis, New Mexico, were in Floydada on a short visit with friends, while away from that city on a vacation tour.

Judge C. B. Shewsbury, of Silverton, was a business visitor in Floydada last week-end.

N. L. Talkington, of McKinney, was a business visitor in Floydada last week.

C. H. Brazier, Crosbyton druggist, was in Floydada for a short time on business Thursday.

Mrs. J. W. Howard returned Saturday from a week's visit with relatives and friends at Jacksboro.

With its record of only 11 sunless days during the last 19 years, Gunnison, Colo., claims the title of "Sunshine City of the World."

Dear Sirs:-

You will be somewhat surprised for me to inform you in this way that the Federal Double Blue Pennant casings you sold me at your place on June 17th, 1928, have never been flat yet. I think they have run some 29,000 miles, although I do not have records on the mileage. But I do know they have been on back wheels of my Chevrolet Sedan for three years without the air ever being out for any reason. I have used the car in my work as pastor all this time, and have given those casings some pretty rough service at times over rough rock roads.

Wish you would give me address of factory making that casing as I wish to write them about casings referred to above.

Thinking you might like to have th record, I am,

Faithfully yours,

W. R. HILL.

(Rev. Hill was formerly pastor of the First Baptist Church of Floydada.)

Dougherty News

(By Mrs. W. D. Newell)

The Month Named For Julius Caesar
July, named after Julius Caesar who was born in this month, is now the seventh month of the year. The earliest Roman calendar made it the fifth month and gave it the name of the Quintilis, which means fifth. When the calendar of Julius Caesar went into effect, the month was re-christened for him previous to Caesar's time it had only thirty days, but he added an extra day to give it the same length as the longest months.

July flower, Water Lily.
July gem, The ruby.

Month of National Holidays
July is the month of three great national holidays.

Canada: Dominion day, July 1, the day on which the Confederation act went into effect.

United States: Independence day July 4th.

France: Fall of the Bastille, July 14th.

Inclement weather prevails this (Tuesday) morning with a good showing for rain. If the writer could have remembered whether it rained when the fog goes "up" or "down" a better report could be given, at any rate the fog lifted and vanished and it remains to be seen whether it rains or not.

Cotton is looking fine in this part of the county, despite the dry weather. A good percent of the row crop needs cultivating but otherwise is looking good.

The general belief here is that one more week will about wind up the wheat harvest. The yield in most fields has been better than the past two years and the test of a greater percent of the crop has been good.

Miss Alberta Mueler of Wichita, Kansas says she will realize more money from her wheat this year than last, because of a bigger yield regardless of lower price.

Last Saturday afternoon, Buster Hall suffered a painful injury when he was changing a spare tire on his car. The tire blew out causing the rim to strike his right hand breaking his first finger and bruising his hand considerably. He was taken to Floydada where he received treatment.

Dog Days

Dog days, a superstitious belief among the Romans begins July 3rd and lasts through August 11th. They believe that the intense heat of July, and the diseases and other calamities following from it were somehow connected with the star Canicula, (or the little dog,) in coincidence with the sun.

In England and in some parts of our own country, town authorities order all dogs muzzled about the beginning of July.

Grandmother Colston is improving after an illness of all last week. Miss Janet Bardin from Lakeview was a guest of Mrs. H. L. Handley and family Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Tye and daughter from Amarillo, Judge Howard and wife and daughter, Nell, from Floydada were visitors in Dougherty Monday afternoon.

Red Cross Health Nurse to Visit Dougherty.

Miss Wentland, Red Cross Health Nurse will hold a clinic at the school house Friday morning beginning at 9 o'clock. Every parent is invited to bring their children and have them examined. Application for the typhoid serum can be made and they will be prepared to give immunization for smallpox and diphtheria free of charge.

Mr. and Mrs. Coy Mitchell and baby from Eldorado, Oklahoma came Friday for a few days visit with his uncle J. M. Brownlow and family.

J. E. Newton, who is at Chillicothe threshing, visited his wife and daughter here Sunday.

Church News

Rev. Earl Landtroop filled his regular 4th Sunday appointment here Saturday night and Sunday.

Rev. Dunn from Crosbyton preached Sunday afternoon at the Methodist church.

The Epworth League will present the following program Sunday evening beginning at 8:15.

Subject: "What is Christian Patriotism?"

The Aim—The leader.
Song—"My Country 'Tis of Thee"
"The Flag Speaks"—Hershall Nelson.
"The Red"—Jonnie Brownlow.
"The White"—Miss Annie McNeil.
"The Blue"—Faye Russell.
"America First"—Two Leaguers.
Song "The Star Spangled Banner."

Business, benediction.

The Woman's Missionary Society met at Mrs. C. E. Bartlett's home Monday afternoon with Mrs. H. D.

Bloodworth and Mrs. C. E. Bartlett as joint hostesses.

The following program was rendered:
Song: What a Friend We have in Jesus.

Devotional by Mrs. C. F. Lincoln, scripture John 4.

Foretelling Future Illiteracy by Mrs. J. N. Bartlett.

Duet by Miss Alberta Meuler and Mrs. W. D. Newell.

For the period of worship: 1st part Mrs. Lee Hawk; 2nd part Mrs. C. E. Bartlett.

A very enjoyable social hour was enjoyed by nine members and two visitors. The hostesses served ice cream, cake and tea.

Providence News

Providence, June 29.—Mr. and Mrs. Will Kramer, of the Rio Grande Valley are here looking after their farm and wheat interests.

Mr. and Mrs. Clay Mercer were visitors in the Lone Star community Friday.

Mrs. W. C. Ooley, of Plainview, was in our midst last week looking after her farm interests here.

A. A. Shaw is helping Mr. McAvoy at the Cerial switch during wheat harvest. He is weigher.

Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Batey, of Happy, were guests Sunday of their son, G. C. Batey and family here.

C. R. Veigel and family of Plainview are in our midst during the harvest season and will remain until school commences again in town.

Mr. and Mrs. Sam Newman and children, of Kress, were visiting at the H. E. Sammon home Monday.

Roseland News

Roseland, June 29.—Most every one is busy harvesting their wheat.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Roberson, Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Whitlock, Mr. and Mrs. Hilburn Casey and Mr. and Mrs. T. F. Casey visited Luther Casey who is confined to his bed with appendicitis at the home of his sister, Mrs. C. H. Rose, Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. S. F. Byars were Lockney visitors Saturday.

Several from this community attended the funeral of R. V. Wilson last Friday at Lockney. This community is in sympathy with the family and especially his sister Mrs. W. J. Casey and brother J. C. Wilson. Mr. Wilson was a former resident of this community and was highly thought of.

H. M. McDonald and Wilson Kimble spent Tuesday in Lubbock on business.

Miss Peggy McKinney Named Secretary Of M. E. Epworth League

Attendance At District Rally Small Due to Busy Season.

Miss Peggy McKinney of this city was elected to the office of secretary and treasurer of the Plainview District of the Methodist Epworth League at the rally here Saturday and Sunday with the local leaguers as hosts. Other officers elected were as follows: Hazel Sewell, Plainview, president; Lloyd Carmickle, Petersburg, vice-president; Evelyn Doak, Plainview, pianist, and Pauline Shelton of Lockney, recreational director and pep leader.

While attendance was small due to the rush of the harvest season, the meeting was declared an enthusiastic success. The plans for consolidation of the league with the Sunday School department under the general head of Young People's Department was the main topic of discussion at the business sessions held Sunday morning and afternoon.

Those in attendance at the rally were guests of the local league at a picnic supper Saturday night on Blanco Canyon. Lunch was served to the delegates at the church Sunday noon.

"We certainly want to express our sincere appreciation for those who opened their homes to our guests over the week-end," stated Miss Madge Dorsey of the committee on arrangements.

Approximately forty-five were present for the rally, representing leagues at Plainview, Petersburg, Olton, Lockney, Hale Center, and Littlefield.

The next league rally will be held at Olton, it was decided. It will probably be held in September.

Those who registered were as follows: Roberta Addison, Rebecca Griffin, Nina Canterbury, Favor Owen, and Trula Maud Jetton, all of Hale Center; John Price and Lloyd Carmickle, Petersburg; Hazel Sewell, Evelyn Weiss, Vivian Teague, Evelyn Doak, Rankin Fain, and Cannon Visor, Plainview; Inez McDaniel, Flora Maggard, Mary Elizabeth Poir, Mable Maggard and Suzanne Maggard, Hale Center; Inez Kennedy, Mrs. L. S. Kennedy, Ruth Dennis, Charlie Fay Owen, Olton; Cio Brownlee, Columbus, Miss; Pauline Shelton, Mauritta Brotherton, and Annetta Johnson, Lockney; Evelyn Jones and Gladys Gallo-way, Olton; Irene Meador, Littlefield; Virgil Gore, Canyon; John Howell, Olton; Irene Meador, Littlefield; Rev. Price, Petersburg, and Mrs. C. B. Meador, Littlefield.

SOCIETY

Mr. and Mrs. Keim Hosts Friendship Club.

The Friendship Bridge Club and guests were entertained last Friday evening by Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Keim at their home on South Main Street.

Five tables of bridge were at play during the evening in which Mr. and Mrs. T. P. Collins received high score for the visitors and Mrs. Flynn Thagard and J. C. Gilliam for the members. Delicious iced punch was served during the games and refreshments of sherbet and cake at the conclusion.

Visitors playing were Mr. and Mrs. T. P. Collins, Mr. and Mrs. S. W. Ross, Mrs. Wanda Banker and Miss Annabel Thagard of Los Angeles, Calif., members were Mr. and Mrs. L. T. Bishop, Mr. and Mrs. Robert McGuire, Mr. and Mrs. R. B. Rosson, Mr. and Mrs. Flynn Thagard, Mr. and Mrs. B. K. Barker, Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Gilliam and Walton Hale.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert McGuire will be hosts to the club Friday evening July 10 at 8:45.

Mrs. Banker Entertains With Bridge

Mrs. Wanda Banker entertained last Friday afternoon at the home of her mother, Mrs. N. A. Armstrong, with five tables of bridge at play.

Pastel colors with yellow predominating was used as the chosen color scheme. The different tables were named for national parks of the country and at the conclusion of each game the tallies instructed the player, who represented a tourist from different towns, to their next place of interest and also their next partner. This making each tourist play with a different partners each time.

Mrs. A. B. Kiem held high score. Lovely refreshment plates with apricot ice, cake and mints which were presented fruits and flowers, were served to Mrs. Flynn Thagard, Mrs. Wanda Banker, Mrs. L. G. Stewart of Falls, Mrs. T. P. Collins, Mrs. N. A. Armstrong, Mrs. Homer S. Ross, Jack Henry, Mrs. A. B. Keim, T. B. Maxey, Mrs. L. T. Bishop, Fred Brown, Mrs. J. C. Gilliam, Mrs. Louis Condra, Mrs. B. K. Barker of Lockney, Mrs. W. H. Ross and Miss Annabel Thagard of Los Angeles, California.

Girls Honorees Give Party

Misses Gwendolyn Snodgrass and Probascio, of this city, and Bernine Stewart, of Wichita Falls, returned last week-end from a house party given in their honor by Mrs. R. Reeves and Mrs. Edd Gardener, of Jericho, Texas.

The girls had many interesting and novel experiences, among which were a round-up and a chuck wagon dinner at the Smith Ranch, horse-back riding and swimming on the Ryan Ranch, several miles from Jericho, and a theatre party at Pampa.

Other members of the party were Dorothy Snodgrass, of Amarillo, Joyce Smith of Jericho, and Dorothy Joe Ryan of Clarendon.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Bass Entertain With Bridge.

Five tables of bridge were at play at the lovely party given by Mr. and Mrs. Frank Bass at their home on West Crockett Street last Monday evening.

Dainty hand painted score cards with back ground of gold and designs in pastel colors with table covers of light green were used. An interesting feature was the baskets of refreshments served picnic style on the lawn.

Mrs. A. J. Folley and Luther Fry received high score. Those enjoying the evening were Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Minor, Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Folley, Mr. and Mrs. L. T. Bishop, Mr. and Mrs. Luther Fry, Mr. and Mrs. O. P. Rutledge, Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Keim, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Stovall, Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Arwine, Miss Geraldine Massie, Mrs. J. C. Gilliam, and R. R. Bass of Dallas.

PHOTO LOCAL SUNDAY SCHOOL MEMBERS IN NATIONAL MAGAZINE

A photograph of the honor pupils of the Sunday School of the First Christian Church of this city appeared in the June 21 issue of "The Front Rank," church magazine which has a nation-wide circulation among the Christian churches. Every person in the picture had been in attendance at Sunday school every Sunday for more than a year.

The photo, of the 34 individuals, was made May 7 and was sent to the church magazine by the pastor, Rev. Claude Wingo.

In the cutlines accompanying the picture the following comment was made on those having special records: "Out of an enrollment of 127, there are 35 persons who have better than one year of continuous attendance to their credit. Miss Ruth Enoch has missed but two Sundays in seven years; Junior Rutledge will complete four years of perfect attendance on the last Sunday in August; Mr. and Mrs. John Enoch, Blanche Enoch, and Rex Brown have completed two years of perfect attendance.

In the Kitchen

Useful hints that are of interest to the housewife are presented from time to time in this column. If you have a favorite recipe send it in to "The Kitchen Editor" and it will be published with proper credit given. Perhaps you will find new ones here—clip them. Women readers are invited to make this their open forum for the kitchen. Anything that interests you interests others—contribute something—you are invited to chat with your neighbor "In The Kitchen."

—The Cook.

Low cost cold meals for hot days are a little bit more difficult to plan for an schieve than cooked ones the U. S. Bureau of Economics says. Delectable cold concoctions usually cost more than plain and simply prepared cooked meals. The low cost food guide has only a small weekly allowance of meat which is often the basis for the cold meal. Cooking meat with potatoes or cereal extends its flavor so much more than if it is eaten by itself. But today's menu uses cold sliced picnic shoulder as the mainstay of the dinner, which is not entirely given over to cold food.

If the shoulder is prepared the day before, cabbage could be cooked with it for the latter part of the cooked period and served as one of the hot vegetables for that day. Picnic shoulders, like many cuts of beef and pork, are cheaper right now than they have been in years, and they have the advantage in being the least expensive meat for cutting cold.

Potato salad makes an excellent accompaniment for the shoulder. It is an old favorite and has the additional recommendation that it doesn't cost much to make. A hot green vegetable is quite appropriate for the cold meal. Wilted lettuce was chosen since the new loose leaf lettuce can usually be found now in the market at very attractive prices.

RECIPES

Tomato Rarebit on Toast

2 tablespoons butter or other fat

½ cup finely cut celery

½ green pepper, chopped

1 small onion, chopped

2 tablespoons flour

1 pint canned tomatoes

1 pound cheese, shaved thin

1 teaspoon salt

2 eggs.

Melt the fat in a heavy skillet, add the celery, green pepper, and onion, cook for a few minutes, and stir frequently. Sprinkle the flour over the cooked vegetables, pour in the tomatoes, and add the cheese and salt. Cook over low heat and stir until the mixture thickens and the cheese is melted. Pour some of this mixture into the well-beaten eggs, then pour all back into the skillet, and continue to cook over low heat until thickened and creamy. Service on crisp toast or crackers.

Creamy Rice With Prunes

½ cup rice

1 cup boiling water

1½ cups milk

½ teaspoon salt

½ cup sugar

2 cups chopped fruit, fresh or dried fruit soaked and cooked.

Cooked the rice over direct heat in the cup of boiling water. When the water has been almost absorbed put the rice in a double boiler, and the milk, salt and sugar. Cover and cook until the rice is tender. Mix the rice and fruit and when chilled serve with top milk.

Wilted Lettuce

2 quarts leaf lettuce or the outside leaves of head lettuce

4 tablespoons bacon fat

¼ cup mild vinegar

1 teaspoon salt

Wash the lettuce thoroughly, and cut into small pieces with scissors.

Heat the bacon fat, vinegar, and salt in a skillet, add the lettuce, cover, and heat until the lettuce is wilted. A little sugar may be added if desired. Serve at once.

Small Grains, Green Cut, Make Fine Hay. And Increase Price

Beards Not Dangerous for Live Stock, Farm and Ranch Writer Says.

Several Floyd County farmers, who have been anxious to assure themselves of a supply of feed for their live stock for the fall regardless of what may be the outcome as regards row crops, cut their small grains while the head was in the dough and have put it up in the form of hay. Among these is N. A. Armstrong, who put up a large field of wheat. He feels sure it is going to prove of high feeding value, and will be worth much more net to him than the wheat he harvested for the market.

Another field of wheat that was handled in this manner was a sixty-acre wheat field of The First National Bank. J. V. Daniel, vice-president of the bank, says they have met numerous objections from customers to the plan, who say the beards will be injurious to the live stock. It is his contention that this is incorrect, especially where the feeds were put up in the green state. From the sixty acres they realized something more than forty tons of hay and are saving the expense of combining, of course. Against this saving must be charged the cutting and baling expense, which are not so heavy, however, and can be handled by the folks on the farm, who thus effect some income for themselves instead of paying it out in heavy machinery charges.

"We feel like we have nearly twice as much value in this piece of wheat as we would have had to go ahead with the regular harvest and put it on the market at present prices," Mr. Daniel said. "We, at least, know where the feed is going to come from to carry live stock on the farm through a good long period of time."

Answering the argument that the beards will lodge in the throats of cattle and prove injurious in that manner, Mr. Daniel points to a recent article appearing in Farm and Ranch, bearing on this subject, taken from the experience of the writer. In this article headed "Beards Not Dangerous," it is declared:

"Many questions are being asked about the effects of barley, wheat, and rye beards, when these crops are cut and cured for hay, to feed livestock.

"The writer has seen bearded barley straw fed to cattle all winter without injury of any sort.

"Occasionally the beards may adhere and collect in the mouth, but this is rare, and if it should happen to occur the collection of beards may be removed from the mouth without great difficulty.

"Better hay is made when these cereals are cut early, while all the plant is still green, and the green beards are even less likely than the ripe ones to cause trouble."

Mr. Daniel gives it as his opinion that the time is not far distant when the Floyd County farmer is not going to allow himself to be caught short of feedstuffs for his live stock. Farmers in this area, he believes, from experience the past year are going to have more barley and wheat for heavy feed and roughness from their winter fields and are going to see that their supply is ample to carry them through whether there is a successful row crop or a failure in the fall. It rarely happens that fairly good crop does not hit either in the spring of small grains, or in the fall of the forage feeds and corn, he points out, and it is going to be a matter of insuring themselves against the damage that can be done by a shortage of feed that farmers are undertaking this kind of a plan. "We are hurt worse in this county by the fact we were caught short of feed last fall than from any other thing," Mr. Daniel said, although not discounting the seriousness of low commodity prices on the farms, and the stringency of money matters in the money centers, which in turn has been felt throughout the agricultural area. "Any year that Floyd County farmers have had plenty of feed-stuffs we have come through with flying colors in my experience," he said.

Without previous political experience, Edw. J. Barrett, 30-year-old World War veteran, of Chicago, Ill. spent just $100 to get elected to the Illinois State treasurership in which office he will be required to handle approximately $100,000,000 a year at an annual salary of $10,000.

Scott Asks Teachers To Attend Institute, And State Gathering

"We hope to have the best representation of Plains teachers at the Teachers' Institute in Canyon September 3, 4, and 5 that we have ever had to discuss the session in Amarillo November 26, 27, 28, of the Texas State Teachers' Association," said Price Scott, county superintendent, recently in outlining plans for attendance of Floyd County educators.

"This is the first time the state institute has been held any nearer the Panhandle than Abilene and it is usually held at Dallas, Houston or San Antonio.

"We want to join one hundred per cent in welcoming the state organization to this section. We feel it is a distinct honor to get the convention which is attended by the leading educators from every college and university in the state.

"We want to have all the teachers in this section at the Institute in September so that we can all cooperate in outlining plans for the state meeting. We want to show our loyalty and want all of our teachers at Canyon to help put on a program in September that will be a credit to this territory.

"I am hoping that every teacher in Floyd County will make their plans to attend the state meeting in Amarillo," Mr. Scott declared.

Undaunted People In Hall Storm District Re-Build, Re-Plant

Out of literal chaos, flooded homes, and ruined crops in Hall County which resulted from the cloudburst in that section several weeks ago a brave, energetic, determined citizenry has gone diligently to work and replaced their homes, re-planted their crops and are facing life with a smile, states Miss Dorothy Wentland who recently made a trip to the area which is included in her district of state health aid.

"Their water supply was destroyed, wells were sanded out or polluted and in many of the houses mud and debris was deposited from two to three feet in depth. There is danger of dysentery and typhoid and in every instance sanitary conditions are of the worst.

"Undaunted, the people have gone right to work to replace their homes and to re-plant their crops. The Red Cross and the State Health Department have helped in every way possible.

"Food and clothing and every pound of seed necessary to re-plant 16,000 acres have been donated, exemplifying the wonderful spirit of West Texans who have been quick to come to the rescue.

"I visited every family in the district and found a need for considerable work as to the nutrition aspect and sanitation. There were about sixty families in Hall County alone in the wake of the storm. The work has been carried forward rapidly and efficiently," Miss Wentland stated.

CHURCHES

METHODIST CHURCH

Consider your habits, remember the church is kind to your Spiritual needs. If you were present last Sunday cultivate the habit. If you were absent consider the possibility of that becoming a fixed habit.

The Sacrament of the Lord's supper will be administered at the eleven o'clock hour. You are especially invited to participate in the service. Rev. W. M. Beavers will preach at the evening hour. The third quarterly conference will convene at the close of service. We are expecting a 100% attendance of church officers. All are invited to remain for conference.

Last Sunday was a good day with us, 327 at Sunday school. Young peoples services at eleven o'clock. A splendid crowd was in attendance.

All the regular activities of the church for next Sunday will hold their services. Our choir is manifesting a wonderful improvement lately bringing us the message in song. Come early and bring the children. We appreciated the presence of out of town people in services last Sunday. If you know anything good about the church broadcast it. If bad make it a petition in your prayer.

S. H. Young, Pastor.

CLOSING EXERCISES DAILY VACATION BIBLE SCHOOL FIRST CHRISTIAN CHURCH

Sunday night June 28, marked the close of a most successful daily vacation school held for three weeks at First Christian Church. In order to reach the standard of efficiency desired it was necessary to limit the attendance this year. Children under 6 years of age were not accepted. Children above the sixth grade in public school were not accepted except as assistants or to take work in classes, provided. After strict limitations had been placed on attendance we still had 60 enrolled in the school. 35 of this number were members of First Christian Church or Sunday School, 10 from the Baptist, 3 from the Methodist, 8 from the Church of Christ, and 4 from no church.

Thirty eight of this number were granted certificates for attendance and efficient work.

The child had to attend every day and do all assigned work or make up same to be entitled to a certificate.

The following were granted certificates: beginners: Marquinta Price as assistant, Kenneth Johnston, Frances Ruth Garrett, and Margaret E. Stewart.

First year primary: Minnie Lou Heald, James Wester, Kenneth Hodge, Billie Joe Poole, Joe Arwine, Matjorie Duncan, Glenn Wallace Norman.

Second year primary: Edna Earl Price, Winifred Hodge. First year junior: Christine Wingo, as assistant, Willie Mae White, Wilson Gresham, Irene Probasco, Leeman Norman.

Second year junior: Kathleen Hodge, assistant, Anna Bell Pope, Brooksenn Price, Fred Hanks, Lewis Gilliland, Estel Baker.

Third year junior: Gladys Ruth Brown, assistant, Lon Davis, Jr., assistant, Bonnie Wingo, James Roy Heald, Barbara Lynn McCleskey, Katherine Gresham, John Rucker, John Yearwood.

The teachers who have labored through these weeks with patience and zeal are: beginners, Mrs. J. N. Johnston, Miss Hazel Probasco, Mrs. Viola Fawver, Miss Myrtice Meador, assisted by Marquinta Price.

First year primary: Miss Blanche Enoch and Miss Ruth Enoch.

Second year primary: Mrs. W. Edd Brown.

First year junior: Miss Bernice Gresham, assistant—Christian Wingo.

Second year junior: Mrs. L. H. Dorrell, assistant—Kathleen Hodge. Third year junior: Mrs. Claude Wingo, assistants, Florene Dorrell, Gladys Ruth Brown, Lon Davis, Jr., John Kimble.

Ruth Enoch has been the official pianist for the school and except for the week that she attended Ceta Canyon Young People's Conference she has not missed a minute. Mrs. John Enoch has been the efficient song leader and instructor for the school and after her return from Hot Springs, New Mexico did not miss a minute of the school.

Each class was taken period at a time for instruction. Patience is that thing that is most needed today to try to teach children to sing, how well this had been accomplished was seen by the work done Sunday night.

We wish to thank all parents who lent their assistance. We want to doubly thank our loyal teachers for their efforts. We want to thank all children for their splendid behavior. We believe that the final results of such work will never be known in this world.

Claude Wingo, Pastor.

CAMPBELL BAPTIST CHURCH

Rev. G. W. Tubbs, Pastor Sunday School Sunday morning at 10 o'clock. Preaching at 11 o'clock. B. Y. P. U. at 7 o'clock and evening preaching services at 8 o'clock. Everyone invited to come and worship with us.

FIRST BAPTIST CHURCH

Dick O'Brien, Pastor

Our program is slowly climbing back to normal. Last Sunday we almost reached the 400 mark in Sunday school attendance, having 394 present in time to be counted. Our Training service attendance was also above that of the Sunday before. Our religious life is the one phase of our uncertain existence upon this earth that should never suffer a depression. Drouth or flood may come in the natural world, disastrous breaks may occur in the industrial markets of the commercial world, kings may be crowned and uncrowned in the political world, international boundaries may be radically changed in the physical world, friends may prove false in the social world, but God always remains the same. His promises are sure. His word He never alters. When all else fails we can depend on Him. Indeed mans extremity is God's opportunity. Where the help of man fails the help of God begins. The outlook is dark, no one will deny, but the uplook is as bright as ever.

Let us put in the time granted to us for work earnestly during the six days assigned for physical labor, and on the Sabbath give God that consideration which He commands and so richly deserves. If we want Him to be gracious to us, then let us first be grateful to Him. This is the only way, but a sure way out of our present depression.

We invite you to worship with us at the Baptist church next Sunday. The program begins at 9:45 in the morning and continues to 12:00. The evening services begin at 7:30 and continue until 9:30. The pastor expects to be in the pulpit at both preaching hours.

SENIOR B. Y. P. U. PROGRAM

At the meeting of the Senior B. Y. P. U. last Sunday new officers were elected. The following officers are now in charge: Pete O'Dell, president; Gilbert Nichols, vice-president; Faye Newell, recording secretary; Zela McRoberts, corresponding secretary; Bernice Patton, reporter; Amy McRoberts, leader group captain No. 1; Buck Bishop, leader group captain No. 2 and Milton Sims and J. D. Moore assistants.

Group one will render the following program Sunday evening, July 5 at 7:30: Subject—Living for Jesus through helping others. Scripture reading—Faye Newell Introduction—Amy McRoberts

Helping Others—True of early Christian—Lola Mae Grundy

Christ identifies himself with helped and helpers—Bernice Patton Such help is sure to please Jesus—Jewel Grundy

This help brings highest good to men—Orlene Copperell

Helping others to prove our love—Zela McRoberts

To help is the highest honor given men—Etha Williams

Such help always wins—Herwin Strickland.

This is the helping men most—Mrs. G. A. Lيدر

Visitors and new members are always welcome.

Let's be on time and one hundred per cent present.

Among those enjoying an outing at Roaring Springs Sunday from Floydada were Mr. and Mrs. J. G. Wood, Mr. and Mrs. Martin Brown and baby, Ross Henry and family, Leland Dawson and Floyd Cash.

Wilson, Former nty Resident, Is buried At Lockney

Funeral services were held at Lockney Friday afternoon at 4 o'clock for R. V. Wilson, 44, former Floyd County resident, who was shot and killed Wednesday of last week at Prechado, N. M.

Mr. Wilson had ridden to town from his farm near Prechado for his mail and was shot from his horse by a man by the name of Moore, relatives said, with whom he was alleged to have had a previous misunderstanding. The shooting occurred between 3 and 4 o'clock Wednesday of last week.

Services were conducted at 4 o'clock Friday afternoon at the Lockney Baptist Church, by Rev. C. S. Bourns, pastor, assisted by Rev. Pingle, the deceased's pastor at Prechado. Interment was made in the Lockney cemetery.

Mr. Wilson formerly made his home in the Roseland community, moving to Portales, N. M., some two years ago. He had been residing at Prechado since December where he was homesteading a farm. He was born near Blum, Texas, where he was reared.

Surviving relatives include his wife and two daughters, Mrs. Kelly Taft of Farwell, and Miss Kathleen Wilson, who resided at home with her parents; his father, O. V. Wilson of Blum, and his step-mother; four sisters, Mrs. W. J. Casey of Lockney, Mrs. Guy Smith of Paducah, Mrs. W. T. Davis of Luling, and Mrs. R. C. Dashner of Hillsboro; two brothers W. L. Wilson of Sweetwater, and J. C. Wilson of Roseland community. All were present for the funeral with the exception of Mrs. Davis of Luling and Mrs. Dashner of Hillsboro.

PRAIRIE CHAPEL WOMEN HAVE FIVE GATHERINGS DURING MAY AND JUNE

The Prairie Chapel Home Demonstration Club met at the home of Mrs. Frank Whitfill on Tuesday, May 12. Miss Strange gave us the demonstration on Angel Food Cake. A chocolate nut and two white Angel Food cakes were baked. Club members brought fruit and whipped cream to serve with the cake and we all enjoyed the refreshments and appreciated the demonstration. Fourteen members and eight visitors were present.

Our hearts were heavy when we learned that Miss Strange had resigned to attend C. I. A., but we hope she will be sent back near us when she has won her degree.

On Tuesday, May 19, our club entertained the Harmony Club at the school house. The weather was "having 1's again" but they were brave enough to come and we did our best to make them forget the threatening clouds and rumbling thunder. Both clubs just forgot all about the chickens that might get a soaking and concentrated their thoughts on fun. All the ladies took part in the games and contests.

We hope the ladies who were awarded all-day suckers saved them until early the next morning as it would be such a waste to fail to get the full value of them.

We were glad to meet all the ladies and especially delighted to have Mrs. Krause, formerly Miss Neel Holland. Several years ago she was a teacher in our community.

At the conclusion of the games, ice cream and cake were served to the following visitors from Harmony: Mesdames Miller, Krause, Carr, Battey, Smith, R. B. Gary, Spence, Snodgrass and Miss Blanche Ramsey. Other visitors were Mesdames T. E. Cowart, Horace Weeks and Teaff. Misses Roberta, Pauline and Grace Teaff.

Eight members were present at the home of Mrs. Douglass Watson on Tuesday, May 26. Mrs. Watson gave a demonstration on Quick East Bread and Mrs. McPherson made a butter cake.

Because of the threatening weather, only a few members were present on Tuesday, June 9 at the home of Mrs. Walter Lovell. Our new agent, Miss Faulkner, was present and gave an interesting talk on the Four H Pantry. Mrs. Lovell is pantry demonstrator for our club. Mrs.

McLeod joined the club at this meeting.

Eight members were present on Tuesday, June 23 at the home of Mrs. E. M. Whorton. Plans were made to raise funds to send a representative from our club to A & M. short course next month. We decided to accept the services of the free health nurse. The nurse will be here with a physician sometimes during July and will examine children free and those wishing it will be vaccinated free of charge. The nurse will also tell us many simple remedies that are to be found in every kitchen. We hope everyone in the community will take advantage of this offer and bring the children. Notice of the date will be published later.

Our visitors at this meeting were Misses Ina Merle Copper, Ann Walker and Pauline Weathers.

Our first meeting in July will be at the home of Mrs. Paul Cooper and our program will be on "Citizenship." The second meeting in July will be at the home of Mrs. Herman Huffman.

Sunday School Lesson

GIFT OF THE HOLY SPIRIT

The International Uniform Sunday School Lesson for July 5. The gift of the Holy Spirit. Acts 1:6-9; 2:1-8.

It is fitting that from the study of the Gospels we should proceed to the Acts of the Apostles. As I have pointed out, the Gospels are of little value except as they become expressed in action. The Gospels do not mean much to us unless they influence our conduct. The power of Christ to save and bless our lives no matter how great that power may be, means nothing to us until it is power in our lives. So it means a great deal that following the teachings we come to study the acts of those who with earnestness, sincerity, and courage sought to put the teachings of the Master into practice.

We find these early disciples gathered together first upon the day of Pentecost. Pentecost was a Jewish religious feast so-called because it was held on the 50th day after the second day of the Passover. It was also called the Feast of the Harvest. For us, however, its significance is now found in its place in the history of the Christian church. It is thought of as marking the beginning of that constructive movement in which those who had given themselves to the teaching of Jesus now devoted themselves to the continuance of his work in the world.

Unknown and Ignored

If we can with any realism get in our minds the picture of this occasion, we shall stand in awe before the spiritual courage of this group of early Christians. They were a relatively small company, unknown and ignored in that vast Roman world of which they were a part. Their Master had been crucified and buried, and only a relatively small number had seen him in his resurrection body. Their faith depended upon witness and upon their deep response to the moral and spiritual teaching that gave that witness effect. They were gathered on this day of Pentecost as a group of devout men and women. The record is that they were "with all accord in one place." Deep consecration to truth and righteousness was in their hearts. There was no spirit of self-seeking. There was no vain ambition. There was no narrow and contentious spirit. They were there with one supreme idea in mind—the idea of realizing the will of God and of finding grace and strength to accomplish it. No conditions could have been more favorable toward a real manifestation of religion or toward a revelation of the highest way of life and service. The whole conditions were as favorable for the reception of spiritual power as if some great recep-ing station had been constructed to absorb power from the physical universe.

Spiritual Power

The outward manifestations of this spiritual power are of interest to us, but they cannot be very easily understood, nor do they seem the important part of the record. It is quite possible that they had relatively little to do with the really vital spiritual experiences, as they have had very little to do with the real manifestation of religion in other great revivals or outbursts of religious experiences, where they have often been a handicap and a hindrance rather than a help.

The real significance of the occasion was the spiritual quickening that came to these early Christians on the day of Pentecost, the consciousness that some real endowment of power had come into their lives under the strength of which they pledged their lives to the service that has been instrumental in establishing the Christian church with its centuries of history and progress.

SHERIFF'S SALE

THE STATE OF TEXAS,
County of Floyd.

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN That by virtue of a certain Alias Execution issued out of the Honorable County Court of Law No. 2, Dallas County, of the 3rd day of February, 1931, by the Clerk of said County Court at-Law No. 2 for the sum of Seven Hundred Twenty One & 19/100 ($721.19) Dollars Less credit of Two Hundred Fifty and No/100 ($250.00) and cost of suit, under a Judgement, in favor of Texas Drug Company, A Corporation in a certain cause in said Court, No. 57278-B and styled Texas Drug Company, A Corporation vs. T. H. Stewart and, placed in my hands for service, I, J. M. Wright as Sheriff of Floyd County, Texas, did, on the 25th day of June, 1931, levy on certain Real Estate, situated in the City of Lockney, Floyd County, Texas, as described as follows, to wit: A tract of 1 1/4 acres out of the J. D. Burleson Survey, Abstract No. 1227, together with all improvements thereon, situated in the Town of Lockney, Floyd County, Texas, and levied upon as the property of T. H. Stewart and that on the first Tuesday in August, 1931, the same being the 4th day of said month, at the Court House door, of Floyd County, in the Town of Floydada, Texas, between the hours of 10 a. m. and 4 p. m., by virtue of said levy and said Alias Execution I will sell said above described Real Estate at public venue, for cash, to the highest bidder, as the property of said T. H. Stewart.

And in compliance with law, I give this notice by publication, in the English language, once a week for three consecutive weeks immediately preceding said day of sale, in the Floyd County Hesperian a newspaper published in Floyd County.

Witness my hand, this 25th day of June, 1931.
J. M. WRIGHT,
Sheriff Floyd County, Texas.

Judge O. R. Tipps, of Silvertown, was among the out-of-town residents in Floydada Thursday last.

Jo Dick Moore has been at Amarillo for several days on a visit with relatives.

Roseland News

(Too late for last week)

Roseland, June 22.—Little Carley Whitlock, who has been suffering from infections and a fractured bone in his hand is doing nicely at this writing.

Miss Lucy Dean Rose is spending a few days with her aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Casey.

Mrs. Guy Sams, who is suffering from a case of smallpox is doing nicely at this time.

Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Cox, of Lockney, visited with her mother and father, Mr. and Mrs. T. F. Casey Sunday.

R. L. Casey is on the sick list this week. Mrs. F. S. Byars is also on the sick list. She is suffering from heart trouble.

E. P. Thompson, of California, who is visiting with his daughters, Mrs. Buck Sams and Mrs. E. B. Rankin, spent Tuesday with Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Whitlock. Mr. Thompson and Mr. Whitlock are old time friends.

Mr. and Mrs. F. W. Cooksey, of San Antonio, spent several days last week and this on their farm near Dougherty, during the harvest of the wheat. Mr. and Mrs. Cooksey are with the W. S. Brown real estate agency in San Antonio. Business conditions in that area are not very promising, the Cooksey's say.

Mr. and Mrs. Edd Bishop and little son, of Dalhart, spent last week-end here visiting with his mother, Mrs. Jennie Bishop and other relatives. Mrs. Bishop spent Saturday in Matador visiting with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Harrison Williams, and Mr. Bishop spent Saturday in Stamford, on business. They returned home Sunday.

Mrs. C. E. Meador and daughter, Miss Irene, of Littlefield, spent Sunday here visiting with her son, Clark Meador, and also attending the Epworth League Conference. They were accompanied by Misses Katherine and Eddythe Walker, also of Littlefield, who visited with friends and relatives here over the week-end.

S. F. Kreis, of Knoxville, Tenn., arrived Friday for a visit with his son, A. H. Kreis and family, in the Campbell community. He was accompanied by a brother, A. M. Kreis, and F. A. Weigle and C. M. McLemore, also of Knoxville.

Itinerant Nurse Is Pleased With Local State Health Work

Miss Olga Buresh of Austin, in charge of the West Texas division of the State Nursing Service, who was here last week visiting with Miss Dorothy Wentland and checking over the work being done by the State Health Department representatives, praised the organization and methods in Floyd County.

"Miss Wentland has been doing some mighty efficient work and has everything well organized," Miss Buresh commented. "This is one of the best counties I have visited so far."

Miss Buresh is one of the three itinerant nurses at work in the state serving 27 counties in the drouth area of Texas. Only 20 of the counties in the state so far have the nursing service.

The five nurses carrying on the work include Miss Wentland, Miss Evelyn Richter, Miss Violet Jones, Miss Catherine Vevra and Miss Ruth Kooker. Miss Wentland has had charge of the work in Floyd, Crosby, Briscoe, Swisher counties; Miss Richter in Parmer, Lamb, Hockley, and Lubbock counties; Miss Jones in Collingsworth county; Miss Vevra in Taylor, Jones, Fisher, Curry, and Mitchell counties; Miss Kooker in Dickens, King, Stonewall, Kent, and Garza counties.

Miss Buresh praised the interest and spirit of co-operation being manifested in the health work in Floyd County. She left this mid-week for Wellington, having come here from Spur.

J. EVETTS HALEY VISITS FRIENDS HERE LAST WEEK

J. Evetts Haley of Austin, field representative of the Plains Historical Society of Canyon, who has been in Lubbock for the past several weeks in connection with a law suit filed by Fred Spikes for alleged libel in "The History of the XIT Ranch" which was written by Haley, was in Floydada Friday visiting friends. He was en route home after a short visit in Canyon. He was a guest here of Mr. and Mrs. A. D. Cummings.

Haley is now engaged in gathering historical material for the University of Texas. He is also writing a book on the life of Col. Chas. Goodnight, famous West Texas pioneer ranchman.

Haley has visited here a number of times in the past while engaged in collecting historical facts from Floyd County pioneers for the Historical Society at Canyon. He has attended a number of the reunions of pioneers of this section.

NEW MASONIC OFFICERS ARE INSTALLED SATURDAY

New Masonic officers for Floyd City Lodge Number 712, A. F. & A. M. were installed Saturday night at the installation ceremonies held at the Masonic Hall. E. S. Randerson was master of ceremonies, and installed E. B. Johnston as Worshipful Master, succeeding J. W. Clontis.

Other officers installed were Hal Scott, S. W.; B. F. McIntosh, J. W.; C. Surginer, treasurer; N. W. Williams, secretary; Tom Bishop, S. D.; Will Boothe, J. D.; M. L. Probasco, S. S.; H. D. Payne, J. S.; Bob Henry, Tyler and Tom W. Deen, Chaplain.

MRS. W. P. FULLINGIM CONTINUES TO IMPROVE

Mrs. W. P. Fullingim, of Lorenzo, stricken with apoplexy nearly a month ago on Sunday morning while teaching a Sunday School class, continues to gain strength following two operations.

Her condition was such this mid-week that doctors felt she could safely be out and if her condition continues satisfactory, she will probably visit here this week-end with her mother Mrs. W. A. Shipley, and sister, Mrs. R. C. Curry.

BANKS, POST OFFICE TO BE CLOSED JULY FOURTH

"Oh, for the life of a banker or postal employe!"

Only employes of the two local banks and the local postal clerks will enjoy a "Fourth O' July" holiday in Floydada Saturday, according to reports reaching the Hesperian office this week. Present indications are that other business houses in the city will remain open through the day. Because Independence Day falls this year on Saturday, and because the wheat harvest is not to a completion yet, is given by a majority of the business firms as their reason for not declaring a holiday Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Goins of Mulshoe spent Saturday and Sunday here visiting with relatives.

Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Kirk and baby of Silvertown spent last Sunday visiting with Mr. and Mrs. S. Goen and family.

Mrs. Olin S. Miller of Center community has recently had as her guest her sister, Miss Mabel Ruth Duke of Lubbock. Miss Duke is a member of the Lubbock High School faculty.

Morgan Makes Bond In Bigamy Charge Monday

John R. Morgan, 43, of Kansas City, charged with bigamy in Floyd County Court, succeeded in making bond Monday and was released Monday afternoon from the Floyd County jail. Morgan's bond was set at $2,000. He left immediately with his wife and five year old daughter for their home in Kansas City.

Morgan was charged with bigamy in Justice J. S. Solomn's court following an examining trial held Saturday, June 20. Robt. A. Sone represents the defendant in the examining trial and District Attorney A. J. Folley represented the state.

Testimony brought out the details of a brief courtship and marriage by Mr. Morgan to a local school teacher at Clovis, New Mexico on Sunday, June 14. The state maintained that he was at that time legally married, his wife residing in Kansas City.

Miss Carrie Belle Carter of Abilene, who has been a guest during the past month of Miss Ruth Rutledge, returned home Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Bill Dally left Wednesday morning for Vernon where they will visit friends and relatives.

Mrs. C. E. Delk of Amarillo spent last week visiting with her father Dr. V. Andrews and other relatives. Mr. Delk came down Sunday to accompany her home.

Y. W. A. ELECTS OFFICERS

The Baptist Y. W. A. met Monday afternoon at the church for the purpose of electing new officers. Those elected were: Amy McRoberts, president; Johnnie Johnston, vice-president; Bernice Patton, secretary; Zela McRoberts, corresponding secretary; Hattie Goens, treasurer; Etha Williams, chorister; Verdine Snodgrass, pianist.

The members present were Bernice Patton, Johnnie Johnston, Etha Williams, Verdine Snodgrass, Zela McRoberts, Anna Laura Martin, Hattie Goens, Clara Belle Gollightly, Amy McRoberts, Faye Newell, and Mrs. Henry Cox. The next meeting will be held at the City Park on Tuesday, July 7, at 7:30 o'clock.

ROYAL AMBASSADORS ELECT BUSTER DAVIDSON PRESIDENT

The P. D. O'Brien Chapter of the Royal Ambassadors met at the home of Buster Davidson for organization on Tuesday evening at 7 o'clock. The following officers were elected to serve a term of three months: Ambassador-in-chief, Buster Davidson; first assistant ambassador, Carl Leatherman; second asstant ambassador, John chapter recorder, Irvin Allister scribe, Gilbert Shirey; steward, Holland Patton; custodian, Leon Williams; herald, Ralph Johnson.

The Chapter will meet at the Baptist Church Thursday evening at 7 o'clock in its regular weekly meeting. All boys between the ages of nine and sixteen are cordially invited to come.
