Mrs. Ferguson Holds Slender Lead of 2,398 Votes; Unofficial Count Ends

'Ma' Finally Leads In Governor's Race

All State Races Save That of Governor Follow Usual Trends In Run-Off.

A definite and full unofficial count in the race for the governorship of Texas will not be completed until after the county executive committees meet Saturday, according to the best information available from Texas Election Bureau this week, which records the fight for votes between Gov. Ross S. Sterling and ex-Governor Miriam A. Ferguson as the most amazing in Texas history.

This morning's reports from the tabulations made last night, give Mrs. Ferguson a lead of 2,398 votes over her opponent, the present incumbent. Her vote stood at 476,750, while Mr. Sterling had 474,352, with 251 out of 254 counties complete.

It was announced Wednesday late by the Texas Election Bureau that it would tabulate no more returns until Saturday, when it would gather the official returns from each county seat for release to Sunday morning papers.

The counties carried as incomplete are Kimble, Reagan and Zavalla, in all of which, on the face of incomplete returns Sterling was leading.

Mrs. J. A. Seale Is Buried Here Today; Funeral Held At 10

Funeral services for Mrs. James A. Seale, of Cisco, former resident of this city, were held at 10 o'clock this Thursday morning from the First Methodist Church conducted by Rev. I. A. Smith and assisted by Rev. F. O. Garner.

The body rested in state at the home of Mrs. P. M. Smith, 524 South Wall Street Wednesday night. It was brought overland in a hearse by H. C. Wippner, of Cisco.

Mrs. Seale was 72 years of age and died at her home in Cisco at 5 o'clock Monday of septicaemia, following an illness of four days.

Interment was made in the Floydada cemetery. Her body was placed side that of her husband, J. A. Seale, who was buried here in 1918. The funeral had been set for Wednesday afternoon but heavy rains made it impossible to reach Floydada with the motor hearse until 6 o'clock Wednesday afternoon. Local arrangements were handled by the F. C. Harmon Undertaking

Leads For Governor

Here is a recent photo of Mrs. Miriam A. Ferguson, who now holds the unofficial lead for the Democratic nomination for governor of Texas. She won the run-off race over Ross S. Sterling, present incumbent, in one of the most amazing elections ever held in the South.

B. K. Barker Named City's New Alderman

B. K. Barker, local Ford dealer, Tuesday was elected alderman of the city of Floydada succeeding Ohmer W. Kirk, resigned. His vote was 131. E. E. Boothe, extensive property holder and at present engaged in the tailoring business, was second with 73 votes. O. P. Rutledge received one vote.

Neither of the two leading candidates were seeking the place, their names being petitioned on the ticket by interested citizens.

A. C. Goen conducted the election, which was held at the city hall. He was assisted by W. C. Grigsby and J. G. Wood.

A canvass of the vote had not been made this morning and a date for Mr. Barker's induction into office has not been set.

Barker has served the city as a councilman four times previously, serving under four mayors.

His first experience as a councilman was during the administration of R. E. Fry, when he served two years, and he has served successively under Judge F. P. Henry, W. D. Smith and during the first term of W. C. Hanna.

CAT'S HEAD SHOWS NO SIGN OF RABIES; BIT HAROLD CHAPMAN SUNDAY

Reports received Wednesday late from Austin indicated that no signs of rabies were found in the head of the cat which bit Harold Chapman, 12, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Chapman, of this city, late Sunday afternoon.

The stray half-grown cat bit Harold on the left wrist when he picked it up near the home of F. C. Harmon in South Floydada in preparation of carrying it away from the premises so it would not annoy the neighbors.

Harold and his friends killed the cat and under the instructions of Dr. V. Andrews the head of the animal was packed in ice and sent to the Pasteur Institute at Austin.

School Equalization Board Completes Work

Values on Farm Lands Again Cut As Equalizers Find Total Growing.

All farm lands in Floydada Independent School District will show values for taxation ranging from 10 to 20 per cent lower than the values set by the equalization board last year, Secretary J. T. Dawson said late yesterday, when the equalization board completed its hearings after four days. Other values were also equalized, some of them being reduced and some raised, but the general trend from last year figures was downward.

More than 200 persons appeared before the board in the four days in which they sat, beginning Saturday and closing late yesterday. The board was able to satisfy practically every property owner who called on them in answer to notice to appear. The board was composed of J. M. Willson, Dr. V. Andrews and W. T. Stiles. No public meetings or hearings were held, the board seeing the taxpayers only one at a time.

It was estimated yesterday that the total valuations for the district still would run $2,800,000 after the reductions since some increases for equalization were made and some property was "picked up" that had not been rendered, including a considerable bit of personal property.

Lands more closely adjacent to the city of Floydada did not take as great a reduction in general, it was indicated, as land that was further away. The biggest cut made on farm property from last year was about twenty per cent and the least ten per cent.

The changes made will not affect the school district budget set up last week by the board of trustees, their figures having been made on an estimated valuation of $2,800,000 they were informed by the equalizers would be included in the completed rendition sheets.

Those planning to attend from Floydada include Lon M. Davis, J. W. Lanier, L. V. Assiter, and Bill Scott; Mr. Patterson and Geo. Whitfill, of Lockney.

Cole and daughter, Marilyn, left today for Corsicana, Texas, and during an absence of a few days will locate a place for the winter for Mrs. Cole and daughter to make their home, while the young lady attends school. Corsicana and Waco are being considered, Mr. Cole said Wednesday. A lower climate than the plains has been advised for Marilyn by physicians. Mr. Cole will return as soon as he has settled his family comfortably.

E. S. Randerson Is Named to Succeed Wright As Sheriff

Party Nominee To Start on Unexpired Term September 12, Date Set by Court.

Appointment of E. S. Randerson, Democratic nominee, as sheriff of Floyd County to fill the unexpired term of J. M. Wright was made Monday by the Commissioners' Court. On motion the court accepted the resignation of Sheriff Wright to become effective September 12, when Mr. Randerson will be sworn in at the regular term of the court, it was indicated by the minutes on file in the office of the county clerk.

Needed More Time
The court indicated that Sheriff Wright preferred to have his resignation, which was made Saturday, become effective September 1, but Mr. Randerson declared that he could not get his personal business affairs arranged and his bond made on such short notice, so September 12 was the date set for the change, both men signifying an agreement to the court.

Mr. Wright, who began his work as a peace officer as a deputy under the late P. G. Stegall, and was appointed sheriff in 1930, stated Saturday that he did not feel that he could make expenses and do full credit to his work since the court had discontinued payment of his deputy in effecting economy measures. He maintained that he could not afford to hire deputies.

"In making his resignation the court feels that Mr. Wright was not quite fair in not giving us more time," Judge J. W. Howard said Monday. "In cutting out the telephone at the jail we did not mistreat anybody. The jail is furnished as a home for the sheriff without cost to him and for that matter the other county officers pay for their telephones in their homes. It seems to the court only fair that the sheriff pay for the telephone in his residence and save the expense item for the county," the judge commented.

Appointment of Mr. Randerson was made at a meeting of the court which had previously been called Monday on some business matters. Mr. Randerson was elected Saturday as nominee of the Democratic party for the general election in November. He has been a resident of the county for fifteen years. His former home was at Gustine in Comanche County. He also resided at Snyder for a year and a half before moving to Floydada.

The term of the present sheriff was to have expired December 31 and the new officer would have been sworn in January 1, 1933.

Daylight Burglary At Woody Drug Co. Sunday

Burglars between 10 o'clock and 1:30 in the afternoon Sunday broke into the Woody Drug Company and took four or five dollars from the cash drawer, some fountain pens and some cigarettes. The burglars effected an entrance through the back door by tearing off the screen and breaking the door glass.

Louis Condra, who closed in the forenoon and re-opened the store at 1:30, discovered the damage done to the door and began a checkup on possible losses. The items listed above were all he missed. No arrests had been made this mid-week.

CAT PLAYS FOSTER MOTHER TO GRAYSON CO. SQUIRRELS

A cat that is playing foster mother to three little squirrels as well as mothering two kittens of her own is the latest show in the window of The Hesperian office. She belongs to Avon, son of Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Powell, eight miles east and one and a half miles south of Floydada, who loaned them for the interest they might be to the public.

The cat is a regular barnyard variety of mouster. She plays mother to the little squirrels the same as to her own kittens without favoritism, and with entire nonchalance.

The squirrels, about two weeks old or a little older, were captured by the Powell's on a recent trip down-state. They are natives of Grayson County. They had been in captivity four or five days when the cat was found to mother them.

It is expected the mouster and her strange brood will be displayed until Saturday night at The Hesperian office. Yesterday and this morning they have attracted quite a bit of attention from passers-by. Generally the first expression from an on-looker is one of wonder that she hasn't already eaten the squirrels.

Miss Mabel Smith returned home Tuesday from Slaton where she spent the past week as a guest of Miss Yvonne Henry, Rev. I. A. Smith and children, Nora, I. A. Jr., and Elaine and Bert Ione Smith went to Slaton for her.

Step Made For Economy In Floyd County Funds

Effort Being Made To Keep Expenses Within New Budget.

Contract between the Extension Service of Texas A. and M. College and Floyd County providing for the services of a home demonstration agent will be discontinued in October; in accordance with an order entered on the minutes of the Commissioners' Court Monday.

May Call Session
The work of the home demonstration agent is to be discontinued, the records state, "at the regular term of the Commissioners' Court for October, 1932." The regular date of meeting of the court is October 10, but it was indicated that action

The court has set September 12 as the date for a public hearing on the proposed budget for the county for the next biennium. Citizens will meet with the court and discuss the items of the entire county budget.

might be taken at a called meeting earlier in the month.

Miss Martha Faulkner is the present holder of the office, the salary for which comes from county, state and national sources. She became agent June 2, 1931.

"The court has taken this action strictly on account of financial matters," said Judge J. W. Howard Tuesday. "We are doing everything we can to hold the county budget within the limits recommended by the auditors in view of our prospective income from taxes.

Court Favors Work

"The present court favors the work and has indicated that it hopes the new court can work out a way of continuing the services of the home demonstration agent. We had to work out a budget as required by law and it seemed we had to do something to cut the county's expenses.

"I have always been in favor of the home demonstration work," Judge Howard asserted. "The work of our agent has been very satisfactory."

"The only way we could continue the work would be to issue securities," (Continued on back page)

Informal Programs Will Mark Opening of Floydada Schools Monday at 9

Enrollment of pupils in the Floydada Public Schools will begin Monday morning following informal programs, it was announced this week by Superintendent A. D. Cummings. The program at the High School and enrollment at Andrews Ward will begin at 9 o'clock. No classes will be held at the East Ward building. Pupils up to and including the seventh grade will go to Andrews Ward and all others to the High School.

The 19 students promoted last spring to the high seventh will go to the High School but no division will be made in the seventh grade this year and no class will be graduated this winter from the ward school it was explained.

At the High School songs by the general assembly will open the short program. Special vocal duet numbers will be given by Miss Vela and Verla Blassingame with Miss Patytee Loooper at the piano.

Rev. I. A. Smith Pastor of the First Methodist church, will deliver the main address which will be followed by the introduction of teachers and announcements by Superintendent Cummings.

No formal program has been planned by Principal O. K. Davis of the Andrews Ward school. Announcements will be made but no address. A program may be held later next week.

Actual enrollment will start at the High School about 10 o'clock, Superintendent Cummings announced.

"All rural school pupils and those who have not been in school here previously with the exception of those coming from Andrews Ward will enroll in the superintendent's office," he explained.

The 8th and 9th grades will enroll in the lower study hall and the 10th and 11th grades in the upper study hall. The department of vocational agriculture has been moved to the northeast corner room on the first floor and the room formerly occupied is now the lower study hall. The change was made, it was explained, to relieve a congested condition that existed last year in the use of the locker equipment.

"By sending the high seventh grade students to the eighth grade at high school we will not have to hire an extra teacher," Superintendent Cummings explained. "They will be on trial and if they cannot do the work may have to go back to the seventh. Some completed the work in the summer and received diplomas."

Vacancies created by the resignation of Mrs. Leroy McDonald, of this city, and Miss Eddythe Walker, of Littlefield, have not been filled, it was stated Wednesday by W. Edd Brown, chairman of the School Board.

"We will make the appointments if necessary Monday night or Tuesday," Mr. Brown said. "We are going to try to operate without employing more teachers but we are going to wait until after the classes get organized and things get started off before we take any action," he explained.

Members of the faculties of both schools arrived this mid-week for the Floyd County Teachers' Institute. Members of the staff at the high school are as follows:

A. D. Cummings, superintendent; O. T. Williams, principal and agriculture; R. P. Terrell, geometry and coaching; J. M. Teague, algebra; Mrs. J. M. REDUCED SCHOOL BILL

Big bills or little, bills are hard to pay with market conditions as they have been, so the average citizen does not note that a really big cut has been made in his bill for public free schools in Floydada Independent School District. It was time the cuts began to be made and especially is this true as regards farm lands in the district.

Property and especially lands in this school district got out of line several years ago when wheat was two dollars a bushel and cotton thirty cents per pound, when new schools could hardly be built fast enough to accommodate the increasing student body and when new ideas and thoughts were being introduced into the scholastic curriculum.

An investment in more and better schools is a good thing for the country, proven uncontrovertibly in a nation-wide manner. However, when the wherewithal is not available to pay the bills, the bill must be cut. We must keep in mind, at the same time, that the saving we are forced to effect is going to be paid for by the scholastics.

FREE PUBLIC SCHOOLS

The free public school is an institution peculiarly American. While it is the pride of the people, it is at once the admiration and despair of America's critics. From abroad they come to wonder and go away in amazement. That all the people may be given equal educational opportunities to a certain degree is the aim of the school system. To it may be ascribed the development of the American spirit and genius of the past two or three decades. The public free school has only begun to demonstrate itself in the life of the country as a whole.

The system should be protected and promoted. Its functions as an educational factor should be constantly broadened, not curtailed. It should branch out into the arts, into vocational service, into the grades of wider living, to bring a broader development to all the masses. And property should rightly foot the bill. That such a good day may speedily return when Floydada and Floyd county people may once more go onward with their educational program must be devoutly wished for. Meanwhile we must hold the organization together as best we can until this topsy turvy world gets itself righted once more.

CONTESTS ARE IMMINENT

That a series of election contests over the state, probably developing in a state-wide fine combing of records of the run-off primary will be forthcoming as soon as the county executive committees of the democratic party have finished their work and the state committee its work, is indicated by reports out of Austin, which quote Mr. Ferguson as saying such an action will be taken behalf of his wife should she not win a majority when the final tally is made.

Floyd County election judges were extremely careful in handling the off and they may well be proud they were. For should Mr. King be counted out at the last ball canvass, so strong is his following and that of his friends that a majority also be anticipated from Floyd, along with 131 other counties, is under suspicion. At least it is anticipated that our vote has a possibility of being too high. Floyd County may be included in a category which will be rebe interesting to note just a majority of the votes we polled in the off will be determined as they were cast illegally. It will be a big job if undertaken on a wide scale and will cost a penny.

BUBLIC WANTS FAIR PLAY

at the general public would like to see the man with most legal votes who the office goes without saying, every legal voter to have a say in the choice of the democratic nominee, if the voter is a democrat, a vote and a fair count, sums up the earnest desire of the man of the town and on the farm.

The contests are instituted and rules used will get the result desired then let the contests begin. Notably neither Mr. Ferguson, Sterling nor their allies will have the job of re-counting. Returns are provided to be made over by the executive committee by the courts, which have cooperative jurisdiction, it appears. The man who got the most votes won't get the office, the people will be satisfied as to the election, however sorely they may dislike the actual result itself. There is no reason to believe that this result cannot be obtained.

ENCOURAGING SIGNS

Floyd County farmers have sold the bulk of their products at a figure below the cost of production for so long that the upward swing of the cotton market has been a most heartening and encouraging sign. While Floyd County has its best crop in seven or eight years in prospect the evidence is that much of the other cotton territory in the south will have a crop considerably below the average, and with this prospect the price has gone upward quite consistently for nearly thirty days. If one had cotton to sell this week middling seven-eighths would bring around eight and a quarter cents in Floydada. Better grades and staples, which we may expect with confidence, would bring a premium over that figure. Cream, eggs and a few of the other basic commodities have climbed quite a bit in sympathy with cotton, and although the signs of good production and good prices together are most encouraging.

MUZZLING THE NEWSPAPERS

One of the problems the newspapers and reporters have had the past few years is that of the farmers grain dealers, cotton merchant or produce dealer, who insists that facts as to production in a given territory should be suppressed. Better newspaper men than work on The Hesperian have been muzzled rather effectively. These reports are injurious to the market, it is maintained. One of the grievances of the farmer against the newspaper and the Chamber of Commerce is that they are boosting always the production figures which tend to reduce the prices that will be offered.

Truly, the newspapers are the source of information for the masses but they are not depended upon by the dealers who make and break markets. They depend on trained, experienced students of conditions, upon the weather bureau, the laws of choice and chance, and the laws of averages. The big shots don't care whether the newspapers out in the country are muzzled or not. That such newspapers have any effect, by the things they publish, on the market, is a figment of pure imagination on the part of their readers. Big shots don't gamble on newspaper reports. They bet on chinchins. But the "boys at the forks of the creek" don't believe it. And fume when they see something in print that the market dealers already know. Mine own people would like to choke a news reporter about once every so often.

THE COMMITTEE FUNCTIONING

Newspaper reports for the week are that Mr. Hoover has another big assembly of master minds concentrating on something in Washington, and that these master minds are being divided up into committees and will save the country again shortly. Mr. Hoover is a much more capable man than he is credited with being locally. On the other hand he has the fatal weakness of the type. He is just naturally not fitted for the job he holds. The president will be catalogued as a "committee minded" executive. The kind that spends a lot of time assembling data, cataloguing it and cramming voluminous reports in pigeon holes, and naming another committee to create another bureau to undertake the study of something else, to which his attention has been diverted meanwhile.

The president doesn't have the type of mind that should have been guiding affairs at Washington the past four years. No other president could have avoided the calamitous business situation, but a Newton D. Baker or an Al Smith certainly would have avoided many of the errors which have been the rule the past three years.

TIME FOR BETTER TIMES

That it were high time business came out of the doldrums and that some good signs appear on the horizon is indicated by study which one is impelled to make of the people around him. On every side are persons who give signs of having taken about all the punishment they expect to take without "doing something about it."

This winter, with its enforced idleness, would have been the time for this state of mind to have exhibited itself in many queer ways. Better prices, return of hope, a partial realization of deferred good fortune, will avert some of these queer reactions that otherwise would have exhibited themselves.

The strain has been great. Few of us are the equals of the men who three years ago entered the depression. None of us are better off for it.

Often A Picnic's Not A Picnic

The Round-up By The Cowhand Scribe

Well the races may be over but my nose is still running. I been ratin' one of these doggone summer colds. Everybody got so excited over the governor's race they plumb forgot me in the line-up and not one single vote did I get for Cowketcher. You never can tell, you never can tell. I turned out to be a dark horse but I was so far back in the shade that I was plumb overlooked.

According to present plans I will run on the independent ticket in the general election in November. I may contest the election last week but I'm so busy trying to get over the governor's "hoss race" I haven't got much time for myself.

Now folks have been trying to raise fruit on the Plains for years and along early in the spring the snow comes out and heats up the limbs, the buds pop out on the trees and what happens? Why a nice big freeze comes along and kills everything just about the time the fruit producers get all bloomed out.

I got a suggestion to make that I wish somebody else besides me would try. Right after the first big snow comes this winter, go out and dig a hole around the peach and pear trees and the plums. Fill this hole with snow and pack it good. Cover up with dirt, straw, leaves, and old sacks. It might be a wise idea to try this on just one tree and if it works this winter then you could do it on all the trees next year.

The idea is to retard the "raising of the sap" or something as late as possible so that the trees will bud and bloom late and the fruit will not get frozen. Mebbe this plan is a solution to our fruit problem. I hope so.

K. A. Osburn the other day was showing his friends a nickle with some melted brass stuck on one side and the shape of the metal strongly resembled that of a "dominecker-rooster," as he put it. The coin evidently had been in a fire and it was just a coincidence that the brass had become shaped to resemble a chicken.

J. N. Johnston was talking about plans for the meeting of Tennessee folks in Floyd County in September and I suggested that we have a meeting of the former residents of Parker County. "That would be great," he said. "If each one would bring just one peanut and one watermelon to the meeting we would have plenty to eat."

Coach R. P. Terrell is trying to help some boys residing out in the county who want to come to town for school this year. The lads have offered to work in some business establishment or in some home for their room and board in order to attend school. Here's a good opportunity to put through an arrangement that will serve the interest of both parties. If you can use a boy about the place or in the store get in touch with the Cowhand or leave word at The Hesperian office for Coach Terrell. He'll appreciate it the boys will appreciate it, and we'll all be happy.

Wh-a-t's g-g-good for a-a-a (kerchoo) a cold? That's a prominent question it seems recently. I found out that everything is. I'll pass along my suggestions that I've collected and if they'll cure you then you're to be congratulated.

If you have a sore throat and "the peeling is gone" from the way it feels, you have a headache, your eyes water, and your nose demands attention and you sneeze about every hour the chances are that you have symptoms of a cold.

Now for avoiding one. First get two dozen handkerchiefs and keep them handy. Drink all the fresh water every day you can hold. A couple of teaspoons of soda in luke warm water three times a day is suggested. Take a laxative and aspirin are said to help. Sleep regularly. Go to bed early. Avoid getting too hot and then cooling off suddenly. Eat regularly and as much as your neighbors will bring in.

Don't sneez in the house. Go out behind the barn when you feel a sneeze coming on. This will avoid exposing others.

If that keeps you from catching a cold you're tougher than I.

Friend: "A man with ten children nowadays deserves a lot of credit, don't you think?"

Grocer: "Well, how could he feed a family like that without it?"

Lawyer: "And just how bad do you want this divorce, Mose?"

Mose: "It only cost me a string o' fish 't git married to that gal, sub, but mah goodness, Mistah Lawyer, ah'd give a whale to git rid o' her."

Automobiles wouldn't be so dangerous if the horsepower of the engines were proportioned to the horse-sense of the drivers.

Butcher—"Round steak, madam?"

New Bride—"The shape doesn't interest me, just as long as it is tender."

If you have trouble in making yourself understood perhaps you are using the wrong kind of appeal. Remember the lady who was called to the door of her cottage by a shaver of a lad.

Lad—"Does 'oo want to buy some tute 'tittle tittens?"

Lady—"What did you say?"

Lad—"Does 'oo want some 'tittle tittens?"

Lady—"What is it?"

Lad—"Does 'oo want to buy a dam dood tat?"

Gotta go get the cows.

Clipped Quips

A scientist says a mosquito can fly 14 hours without alighting. But it seldom does.

It would be some compensation if we could believe a crooner feels as bad as he sounds.

Slender figures are all right in their place, but we don't admire those in our bank book.

Anyway, when they take all the trains off there won't be so many grade crossing accidents.

WHY THEY GROW

Wood County Democrat: Some towns more richly blessed in natural resources than their neighbors, forge ahead and gradually come to be known as good towns. They tackle the problems that stand in the way of progress with a high energy and a firm determination, and a complete unanimity of purpose. The result is, these towns grow. The invisible something that seems to inspire every citizen of the town to labor for the common good, is there. There is a willingness to co-operate on the other fellow's plan and a continual and active concentration on some worthy objective. This kind of spirit will make a live town in the middle of the wilderness.

Contemporary Thought

WHEN WINTER COMES

Plainview Herald: Nocturnal temperatures of 58 to 68 degrees is sending most of the Plains residents under more cover these nights. A light woolen blanket, added to the lighter covering which is necessary throughout even the warmest summer nights, is a reminder that soon the leaves will begin turning and winter will come.

People, as sure as shootin' there are a lot of us who are going to think this winter how plentiful good vegetables were during the summer. There's just a lot of us who will be wishing before Thanksgiving that we had canned up a lot of these vegetables.

There has been a lot of canning of a lot of different things this summer. Many people have remembered the lesson that the hurrying ants with the burdens of grain, seed and what not teaches, and have laid up in the season of plenty for the winter, which the "signs" indicate will be a hard one.

Vegetables are yet to be had at little cost. In many instances they may be gathered on the shares and canned on the shares. Any industrious person can lay up a lot of canned goods with mighty little, if any outlay of money.

The Herald doesn't believe strongly in "signs," but there are a lot of people who do and a lot of them who can tell you the "signs." Most of those say that the "signs" point to a hard winter. It may be a hard one or it may be a mild one. We will have winter and we occasionally have severe ones.

The week will be cared for in some manner by the strong, as has always been the case in the Plains country, but there's not going to be a hot gravel train for those who have shown no disposition to care for themselves. People just aren't thinking that way these days.

LEGION STATES THE CASE

American Legion Weekly: The American Legion has issued an official statement to the public on controversial questions relating to veterans' legislation. The organization points out that at no time has it been responsible for mismanagement of expenditures for veterans' relief. As is better known, it did not favor full payment of the compensation certificates. The Treasury is paying $100,000,000 annually for non-service disabilities, and meantime legitimate claims for relief languish or are delayed in consideration.

The Legion in its statement says: "This non-service disability cost ($100,000,000) is not the responsibility of the American Legion, as the Legion has never advocated such payments. This added cost... is the responsibility of the administration, which drew the legislation, secured its introduction, and forced its passage in the Senate and House."

There are 350,000 persons receiving this donation from the Government. The Legion never favored it, is not responsible for it, and repudiates it, by official statement. It is well that this should be known and understood by the country.

Extravagance in the Veterans Bureau has been one of the scandals of excessive cost of Government. Criticism has been widespread and perhaps the Legion has suffered from it, unjustly, as its statement shows. So general has been the criticism that both political parties condemned it in their national platforms, pledging reform along the lines of disability compensation limited to disabilities directly traceable to the service. This is the only defensible principle, and especially when the volunteer system has given place to the universal draft. Under that system there is no more reason why the Treasury should compensate for disabilities incurred outside the service for service men than for non-service men.

The costs of war are nothing short of frightful. The Legion in its statement calls attention to the fact that of one billion dollars appropriated to the Veterans Bureau annually, amounting to about one-fourth of the cost of government of the United States, two-thirds goes to other beneficiaries than World War veterans. Spanish War pensions now exceed those for the Civil War, the former amounting to about $116,000,000 annually and the latter to $97,000,000. Cost of administration and hospitalization is high. The total, however, is a round billion dollars. When so great a drain is made upon the income of the Nation there should be no excuse for waste and extravagance.

These loan companies seem to bother me! I wonder why? The only thing that a farmer must have that he can't get is rain. The only thing that we don't have to have that we get plenty of is a vice.

Here is a pretty fair record of an amateur baseball club. Elmer Mickey and myself have been playing with Plainview and in last six games our team made runs while the other teams made total of 7. Three of the games shutouts. Olton in Lamb Co. West Side in Hale County and Skillet in Briscoe county took Cats. All of the games but were played in Olton during tournament that we won the week.

Last week I had been ball and my bundles were on the ground. Saturday morning looked like rain so I was set them up in a hurry. 2180 bundles (109 shocks bundles each) in 3 1/2 hours, rate of one bundle every 3 1/2 hours. This is no farmers that like to work hard you will set will be ordered to the table just after I think bundles should be ground for at least two they are cut, then set the in the morning in order to leaves for fodder. Then of dry weather in the you can stack it up, be the the job and have some fire.

I had some early maize and after those hard rains, heading out before I could give it the last plowing, the heads would snap off the stalks would break, so to leave a few rows, let take it and sell if it would better feed. Many farmers argue that under no conditions feed be plowed after heads out. (Many farmers will nearly anything—it seems that majority voted for Ma Ferguson). The feed was all planted the same day, on the same kind of ground and worked the same with the exception of this last plowing. The rows I plowed is making one ton per acre and is still standing. The rows I left made about 1200 lbs. per acre and was all flat on the ground due to the dry spell with the ground unstirred.

GOOD PROSPECTS

Nolan County News, Sweetwater: If there's anything in bright prospects, the world has already turned that much talked-of corner around which prosperity has been lurking all these months. Locally, at least, we are moving into the fall season with better outlook for bumper crops and well-provided rural population than perhaps any time in history. Good times, comparatively speaking, are a cinch for this fall—there's an abundance of feed, probably a record cotton crop, and plenty to eat. Compared with the last few fall seasons, this coming fall is going to seem like a boom. There is better tone in all business, folks just naturally are feeling better, and there's wide-spread optimism in the air. And that, after all, may be the first real turning point to eventual recovery.

A Farmer's Life "As He Lives It" BY ED HOLMES (Station C. E. H. Farm)

Everything is quiet on the western front now. Charles (Shot) Baker has left us to get ready for school again. That young ten-year-old is a fine kid and we sure do miss him. He left a bunch of flag ships on our tank that will float until the whales sink them I suppose. The other day he had a string tied to one end and was leading it around and fell in on top of it with his clothes on!

Red, our youngest and fastest milk-maid was working hard at the job the other evening when all of a sudden he hollered out, "Ed I'm belching up that Toddy." I asked him how did it taste and he said, "It tasted good."

These loan companies know a lot about human nature. If you have had any dealings with hogs you will know that if you are in a close pen with one, if the pig will grunt you can tell what he is thinking about and you are in no danger. Just any kind of a grunt will do but if the runt won't grunt, you better watch out!

The same way with these loan companies. You must continue to put out some kind of a grunt. They want the money but the last few years it seems that the farmers don't pay regular. Those guys don't know there is a depression on. If you can't pay as you are supposed to, you had at least better answer every one of their letters, but watch your promises to them! They can remember promises better than any old maid. If you can talk them out of an ymoney, you can be the president some day.

These loan companies seem to bother me! I wonder why? The only thing that a farmer must have that he can't get is rain. The only thing that we don't have to have that we get plenty of is a vice.

Hester West Tells of First Events on Voyage to China

Following is the second of a series of articles written by Miss Hester West, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jno. L. West, of this city, who is enroute to China where she will attend a language school one year and will then be made an instructor in nursing at Soo Chow in the foreign mission field of the Methodist Church:

Vancouver, B. C. 6:00 p. m. Friday.

Well, well here we are. Got in at 9:00 this morning and have most of the red tape gone through with. Have a trip to the Japanese consuls' office still ahead of us. Went this afternoon but he was not in. Until 9 in the a. m. Miss Hood was already here, also the Miss Buschbaum who is going to Korea.

We have already seen about our baggage, seen the ship (from the outside) and gotten our mail. I had a number of letters but the one from home was the only one I read. The others will save until we get on the steamer. I was so happy to get one more letter from home before the ocean separates us. I felt that the letter could have said many other things but even if it didn't, I was able to read between the lines and know that none of us have said all that is in our hearts. Your second daughter is a very queer sort of a crank but she has a feeling of love and respect for her home and her family even if she doesn't show it. I just wanted you to know it.

It has been cool and misty all day but we have enjoyed it. I wish I had gone in the ship so I could tell you what she looked like from that side, but we have been very busy and she was not open until 2:30 so I have not been back. She is all white on the outside except a thin line of bright blue just below the deck. She is not as large as I had thought for. You know I have a very vivid imagination! Annie Clyde is to share our cabin. Let me tell you a joke on her. The wife of the owner of the mattress factory in Waco gave her a large double mattress. Well, the poor child hated to leave it at home for fear of hurting the woman's feelings so she brought it and it has already cost her $23.00 besides a lot of extra bother and worry!

I have bought me some wool and silk underwear and some woolen hose here. Prices are very reasonable and there is a variety to choose from.

Yes Mama, I am trying to be careful of both my money and the Board's. Traveling on a long trip is an expensive undertaking. Things you might endure for a short time would not be at all possible on a long journey. We have averaged about the same for all of us on travelling expenses and the worst is over now, thank goodness. Our expenses are included in our steamer ticket until we get to Shanghai.

Our ship is to sail at 11:00 in the morning and that means we are going to have to make our time count for as much as it is possible so I had better end this letter and mail it tonight. Don't expect another one from me for about five weeks. We are not stopping until we get to Japan and as it takes about three weeks for it to come back to you it will be a long gap. However, as soon as we land in Shanghai we are to send a cable back to Miss MacKinnon and she will notify you that we are safely there.

I am glad all of you are doing well. It makes it easier for me to go. Tell Burette to soon recover so he won't work my family and his to death. Give everybody my best regards and tell them to ask the Lord to bless us in our work and to keep our faith pure and strong.

Remember that I love you each one and pray for you.

One hour out from Vancouver. I am sitting alone in our small cabin. The others are yet on deck but I came down to get my steamer rug for it was getting rather cool for me. While I was here I thought I'd rattle you off a note to let you know that all is well with me and my crowd. There are quite a group of first class passengers and a large crowd of those who are going second so we had a crowd to see us off. There was no one in the crowd who knew us but when I threw my paper ribbon a little Chinese girl caught. When we had moved so far out that it broke, she waved me a hearty goodbye so, we were told goodbye after all. The ship is not a large one but it is sailing along very smoothly and quietly now. It is misty and cloudy yet outside so we could not get a good view of the receding land but even so it was pretty and green. They certainly do have beautiful trees here.

Our cabin is clean but is very small hope we do not have to sneeze or we will have to get out in the hall. I am to sleep (?) in the upper berth. Won't that be fun? I think so. Not even a touch of sea sickness has crossed our path so far. The sailors are all Orientals. They are very polite and mind their own business. The servant boys all wear black satin trousers and white silk coats and black satin shoes, very much like our bedroom slippers.

We have tan and green goose down comforters for our cover. Miss Hood's sister-in-law sent her two dozen red, red roses for a farewell gift and she passed them around to the group, mine is in the water jar right in front of me and you can well imagine that I am enjoying it. I have tried to write to everyone I was supposed to write. There I want to get a few lines from you.

take it slowly about spending more money right now. Later. Have just had lunch. Had curry and rice, vanilla ice cream, rolls and butter. It was good. Several letters from Scarrittites.

We are to get to Victoria at about four thirty and stay until seven. I want to get one or two letters off there. They will be the last ones to mail until Japan unless we meet a steamer coming this way that will bring them back for us. Miss Hood and Lorena are across a 2 foot wide hall. Their door opens directly in front of ours. I guess they will be able to keep us out of mischief. We all call Miss Hood "Little Mary" and have a hard time keeping up with her. She is a sight but a very precious one indeed. There are ever so many other missionaries on with us. Many are going to China and several to Japan but not the majority. We are making new friends all along the way. There is a young man on here who is going to SooChow to teach but please don't be alarmed. Lorena and Little Mary will see to it that they have the required number of nurses in the mission hospitals. So poor me, the life of an old maid appeals to me any how.

Tell Mrs. Massie that I wanted to get her a letter but was not able to get around to it. Give my love to all my friends.

MAGIC LIGHT GROWS GREEN APPLES RED

This amazing feat is accomplished by means of the ultra-violet lamp, in the rays of which the green apple is transformed. The process, originated by Dr. John M. Arthur, has far-reaching commercial possibilities and is expected to prove of enormous value to the American fruit growers. Apple consumers like their fruit red and the blushing, scarlet-streaked varieties always command the biggest prices in the market. Many apples ripen to a white juiciness inside, but retain the green skin that makes small appeal to the eye. Hereafter the miracle-working method of Dr. Arthur may be extended to the entire yield of an orchard, and the apples, green by nature, will be ripened to a fascinating crimson as the magic light plays upon them. Indeed, the plant wizard, beating nature at her own game, can give the green apple an even, brilliant red all around, while the apple colored by the sun will be darkly stained on one side and fade to an unattractive pink on the other.

With only the sun to color them, apples need all the summer months to acquire their red, but with his ultra-violet lamp, Dr. Arthur can give the greenest apples a rosy hue in forty-eight hours and in no way impair its natural flavor, says Popular Science Monthly. The only apparatus required is the lamp, a pane of glass that transmits ultraviolet rays and a refrigerator chamber in which to keep the apples cooling during the process. Simple as it seems, it was only through patient experiment with a myriad light sources and color filters that Dr. Arthur found the particular rays responsible for the mysterious transformation of the fruit and learned how to use them.

Since the Boyce Thompson Institute is an endowed, nonprofit-making organization, the new process of coloring apples will be presented as a gift to the world, as have been its many achievements in the past. Meanwhile its experiments press on with other important and novel investigations. Plants are grown upside down. Flower pots travel along a railway, following a spot of sunlight from a huge lens in a

Produce Market Outlook

(By O. T. Williams Vocational Agriculture Teacher, F. H. S.)

Mixed Color eggs at New York advances 2 1/2 to 3 cents per dozen up to the middle of July. This was the highest point reached since February. This advance was due to the scarcity of good eggs, and prices too low to induce storage withdrawals so early in the season.

The Storage Situation
The into-storage season for eggs for 1932 is rapidly approaching a close and with the period of short production just ahead considerable interest is now being centered in probable price developments within the next month or so.

Owner of Storage Eggs a Factor
Much will depend upon the policy followed by owners of storage eggs during the late summer and early fall months. Should such owners be willing to sell when prices reach a point to permit moderate profit rather than refuse to sell in the hope of larger profits later in the year, prices should hold within a relatively narrow range.

greenhouse roof. An instrument resembling a spectroscope is used to imprint a rainbow pattern upon a leaf. Into a room full of vegetation coal gas is piped and the plants thrive on it. A rosebud droops and withers under a bell jar filled with illuminating gas. Fantastic though they seem, all these experiments have a well-planned purpose.

Leakage of illuminating gas from pipes in greenhouses causes a staggering loss to nursemen by poisoning their plants. "We have found a way to detect it," Dr. William Crocker, director of the institute, explained, "as effective as the canaries that miners carry down shafts to warn them of gas peril. The humble tomato plant is our lookout. So sensitive is this "botanical one party bird" that it will detect one part of gas in 100,000 parts of air and warn of danger by drooping its leaves."

Not satisfied with learning how to guard against it, the Boyce Thompson experts want to know just how illuminating gas poisons plants. It was Dr. Crocker who conceived the unconventional notion of growing the plants upside down while gassing them. His associates were first amused, then surprised. Inverted, the plants were immune to poison!

Food Shortages
In New Hampshire only 17 percent of the school children get enough milk; only 21 per cent get enough vegetables and only 34 per cent get enough fruit.—The Country Home.

Hoover's Last Word
It seems strange and incredible that after all the centuries of man's experience with war we still have to discuss it or argue against it.—President Hoover in Woman's Home Companion.

Cold Storage

The peak holdings of eggs in cold storage this year will probably be the smallest in sixteen years. Eggs on cold storage July 1, 1932 was 3,340,000 cases, which is 33 per cent less than this time last year and 34 per cent of the 5-year average.

Total stocks of all classes of poultry reported in cold storage in July 1, 1932 amounted to 36,689,000 lbs. compared to 32,762,000 lbs. one year ago and 43,463,000 lbs. which is the five-year average.

In addition to these facts, we should consider the scarcity of laying hens both at home and in other states. These facts give us a little brighter future than we have had in some time.

HESTER WEST CIRCLE GIRLS RETURN FRIDAY FROM CAMP

Members of the Hester West Circle returned last Friday evening from the encampment held at Roaring Springs from Wednesday till Friday. Mrs. T. W. Whigham and Mrs. G. V. Smith were sponsors of the encampment.

In connection with the camp fire work the girls took up the Bible study course on, "Great Souls at Prayer." Misses Nora Smith, Leah Smith, Wilmina Salisbury and Mrs. Whigham conducted the lessons. The party had a regular camp stove and prepared ideal meals in addition to the two swims a day and hikes they took.

The girls wish to express their appreciation to those who made it possible in any way for them to have the encampment and also to Mr. Whigham and Roy Holmes, who took them to Roaring Springs and returned for them. Plans are being made to hold the encampment each year.

TIMBER STRENGTH

The strongest lumber in the redwood tree is near the bottom, says the Forest Service of the United States Department of Agriculture.

In testing both virgin and second-growth redwoods, the department found that the difference in the specific gravity between the wood at the top of the tree and the bottom was about 15 per cent, with the greater specific gravity for the lower part. Lumber with this greater specific gravity is stronger.

This knowledge is useful to lumber users seeking structural material, because they can select the lower logs for their purposes.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Stovall returned home Monday after spending the summer at Austin where they attended the summer session of the University of Texas. They will both teach in the Floydada schools again this year.

Dr. H. W. Watkins, representative of the Educational Chiropractic Clinic, with headquarters at Macon, Missouri, was in Floydada the first of the week arranging for a free clinic to be held here Wednesday and Thursday, September 14, 15.

Ex-Officio Salaries Of County Officers Cut $4,620 Annually

Court Works to Keep Budget Within Bounds of $21,000 Total In Taxes.

Ex-officio salaries of county officials with the exception of that of the sheriff will be reduced from 20 to 33 1/3 per cent in 1933 under budget provisions passed by the Commissioners' Court in session Monday.

Efforts are being made to keep the budget of the county within the limits recommended by the Rankin Audit Company, it was pointed out by the court. The salary cuts will become effective on January 1, 1933, totaling a reduction of $4,620 annually.

The budget provides the following ex-officio salary cuts: county judge from $2,250 per year to $1,800 per year; sheriff left at $1,000; four commissioners from $1,800 each to $1,200 each; county clerk from $250 to $180; county attorney from $1,260 to $840; district clerk from $800 to $540; janitor from $1,260 to $840.

All of the officials listed above with the exception of the commissioners and the janitor receive additional pay from fees for various services.

Cut $500 Month on Salaries Including the salary for the home demonstration agent of $125 per month, totaling $1,500 per year, which will not be included in the 1933 budget, the total reduction in expenses will be $6,120 annually or $12,240 for the next biennium or $500 per month on salaries alone.

While all items of the budget have not been completed, it was indicated by the court that the total expenses are figured to run about $23,000 annually and that the expected revenue on the general fund totals only $21,000.

Slashes in the expenses are being made to meet the reduction in revenue which is resulting from a reduced valuation of property in the county this year. The county valuation was set at $9,072,000, a reduction of slightly more than 28 per cent from the 1931 figures of $12,700,000.

Commissioners Pay Cut The reduction in valuations automatically reduced the salaries of the commissioners from $150 per month to $100 per month for 1933-34.

On the motion which was passed by the court Monday a record vote was taken and Judge J. W. Howard cast the deciding vote for its passage. Commissioners G. L. Fawver and W. H. Henderson voted "aye" and Commissioners T. Z. Reed and M. H. Taylor voted "no." Commissioners Taylor and Reed asked that it be recorded that they were opposed to the provisions of the motion on the grounds that all county salaries should be cut 33 1/3 per cent.

The court purchased a new 8-foot leaning-wheel grader to cost $346.72 and a warrant will be issued on the road and bridge fund to cover payment.

FUNERAL SERVICES HELD FRIDAY FOR CECIL BADGETT

Funeral services were conducted last Friday afternoon at 4:30 for Cecil Badgett, brother of Mrs. L. T. Bishop, of this city, and D. R. Badgett of the Center community, at the family home in Whitewright. He was drowned Thursday afternoon. The service was conducted by the Rev. W. H. Ackerly, Baptist pastor, and Rev. J. B. Russell, Presbyterian pastor. Interment was made in the city cemetery.

Mr. and Mrs. Bishop and son and Mr. Badgett returned home Tuesday morning.

Mr. Badgett drowned Thursday afternoon in a tank near Whitewright as he was in swimming. The drowning was credited to a sudden heart attack or cramps as the only parties with him at the time could give no definite account of how it happened.

McCHESNEY'S RETURN FROM 3,000 MILE VACATION TRIP

Mr. and Mrs. H. G. McChesney and children, Herbert, Glenn Jr., Marjorie and Joan, returned Saturday evening from a 3,000 mile vacation trip. They visited relatives and friends at Kansas City, Des Moines, Cedar Rapids, Bristow, Oklahoma, and Oklahoma City. They were away three weeks.

"We traveled approximately 3,000 miles and did not have a bit of motor trouble or a flat tire," Mr. McChesney said.

"Things certainly seem to be on the up-grade where we went," he said. "I saw at least 50 new buildings under construction and I never saw so much painting and improving going on before in my life. The folks up that way declare the depression is over.

Trench Silos For West Texas Feed Crop

JUST WHAT ITS NAME IMPLIES, a trench silo is simply a trench dug into the ground into which chopped feed crops may be stored for feeding as succulent ensilage to adiry cows, beef cattle and work stock during periods of dry pastures or bad weather. Cheap, easily dug, easily filled, ensilage easily removed, the big disadvantage of a trench silo is excessive spoilage which may be avoided by properly filling, and by providing drainage. More than 200 were dug in Texas in 1931 and county agent reports indicate a big increase for 1932, especially in West Texas.

"IN MEMORY OF MY MOTHER"

By Mrs. Bob Greenway
The following poem was written in honor of Mrs. J. Q. Carpenter by her daughter, Mrs. Bob Greenway, of Wolfe City.
Mother, dear has passed away,
Her work on earth is done,
She's gone to live in that fair land,
Where there'll be no setting sun.
Mother how we miss you
Your place can not be filled
We seem to feel your presence yet
Although your voice is stilled.
Mother, dear your life on earth
Was one of love and cheer,
Your life was one of sunshine
To friends and loved ones far and near.
Your love brought cheer to every one
Like sunshine after rain;
Although our hearts are heavy
Our loss is heaven's gain.
We'll never forget you Mother, darling
For with us you have loved and prayed
There never can be any other
Like you our precious mother.
Some bright day we shall meet you
If we'll only live faithful and true
The Lord has prepared a home for his own
A home mother for you—
We'll strive to be like you Mother,
We'll follow your footsteps each day
Like you followed the footsteps of Jesus
That led to that home far away.
Your work is now finished mother
And Jesus has claimed his reward
He knows what is best for his children
Who ever believe in the Lord.

12 And the harp, and the viol, the tablet, and pipe, and wine, are in their feasts: but they regard not the work of the Lord, neither consider the operation of his hands.

13 Therefore my people are gone into captivity, because they have no knowledge; and their honorable men are famished, and their multitude dried up with thirst.

14 Therefore hell hath enlarged herself, and opened her mouth without measure: and their glory, and their multitude, and their pomp, and he that rejoiceth, shall descend into it.

15 And the mean man shall be brought down, and the mighty man shall be humbled, and the eyes of the lofty shall be humbled:

16 But the Lord of hosts shall be exalted in judgment, and God that is holy shall be sanctified in righteousness.

Verses 22, 23—

22 Woe unto them that are mighty to drink wine, and men of strength to mingle strong drink:

23 Which justify the wicked for reward, and take away the righteousness of the righteous from him!

Time.—Isaiah's early prophecies were about B. C. 766. He died about B. C. 679.

Place.—Isiah's home was in Jerusalem.

The Lesson Comment

Once more we pause in our course of study, to take up the temperance question for discussion and instruction. This is necessary, because we are just as prone to forget, as were the Israelites about whom we have been studying. Before we take up the lesson proper, let us recall that this temperance, or prohibition, question is not new.

We are not prepared to say who was the first to become intoxicated, but we know that in Genesis 9:21, there is an account of the drunkenness of Noah, and in Levit. 10:9, there is a recorded prohibition law, made by God himself, long before the Eighteenth Amendment was thought of. In Jeremiah 35, mention is made of an Anti-Saloon League, or some kind of prohibition association, in which men took the vow of total abstinence. No, it is no new thing. Drunkenness was prevalent in the time of Isaiah, and from his warning against it we have our lesson for today.

Isaiah is generally accepted as the greatest of Old Testament prophets. He was a writer of both prose and verse. He was a man of great influence, the intimate friend of kings. He moved in the highest society, and it was mostly to these people whom he knew so well, that he sent out this warning against strong drink.

Isaiah pictures the drunkards of his time as spending the long day in drinking. They arose early to drink, and continued into the night—drinking, inflamed with wine.

They stumbled; right things seemed wrong; wrong things appeared right. David says: "The wicked shall be turned into hell, and all nations that forget God." Israel, in her drunkenness, forgot God and went into captivity. Men were bowed down, and great men were humbled.

THE STATE OF TEXAS,

Golden Text.—Do not drink wine or strong drink. Levit. 10:9.

How Old?

He doesn't look a day over fifty. And feels like forty.

At the age of 62.

That's the happy state of health and pep a man enjoys when he gives his vital organs a little stimulant!

When your system is stagnant and you feel sluggish, headachy, half-alive—don't waste money on "tonics" or "regulators" or similar patent medicines. Stimulate the liver and bowels. Use a famous physician's prescription every drug store keeps. Just ask them for Dr. Caldwell's syrup pepsin.

This appetizing syrup is made from fresh laxative herbs, active senna, and pure pepsin. One dose will clear up almost any case of biliousness, constipation,

But if you want to keep in fine shape, feel fit the year 'round, take a spoonful of Dr. Caldwell's syrup pepsin every few days. You'll eat better, sleep better and feel better. You will never need another laxative.

Give the children a little of this delicious syrup two or three times a week. A gentle, natural stimulant that makes them eat and keeps the bowels from clogging. And saves them from so many sick spells and colds.

Have a sound stomach, active liver and strong bowel muscles that expel every bit of waste and poison every day! Just keep a bottle of Dr. Caldwell's syrup pepsin on hand; take a stimulating spoonful every now and then. See if you don't feel new vigor in every way.

Relieves Women's Pains

Here is an example of how Cardul has helped thousands of women: "I was very thin and pale," writes Mrs. F. H. Scott, of Roanoke, Va. "I suffered from weakness and a severe pain in my back. This pain unnerved me, and I did not feel like doing my work. I did not care to go places, and felt worn, tired, day after day.

"My mother had taken Cardul, and on seeing my condition she advised me to try it. I have never regretted going so. I took three bottles and it built me up. I gained in weight, my color was better and the pain left my back. I am stronger than I had been in some time."

A HEAVEN FOR FOOLS

If wishes were horses and beggars might ride;
If apples should never have worms inside;
If corn should grow without any care,
Nor moth, nor rust should corrupt anywhere;
If good things were ours without any pain,
And wickedness caused neither trouble nor stain;
If excellence could for a trifle be bought,
And learning to live cost nary a thought;
If automobiles could run without any gas
And honk their own horns when pedestrians pass;
If never a dog had ever a flea;
If ships full of holes could travel the sea—
What a heaven for fools such a world would be!

FEDERAL AGENTS REMOVE MANY DRUGS FROM MARKET

On August 27, 1907, eight months after the Federal food and drugs act went into effect, a Government inspector bought a package of a medicine labeled as a cure for headaches and as a "brain food." That purchase, according to Dr. F. J. Cullen, chief of drug control, Federal Food and Drug Administration, was the beginning of action that led to the first legal battle involving a drug under the new law.

Federal experts examined the so-called "brain food" and found that it contained a large quantity of a coal-tar chemical, acetanilid. Acetanilid, in some cases, eases pain and induces sleep, but it also depresses the heart and is a poison if taken in sufficient quantities. Labeling the preparation as a "brain food" disarmed the buyer's suspicion with regard to the dangerous character of the article. It also led people to believe that the article actually was a brain food. This drug was not only harmful, but was labeled with words that were misleading and deceptive. The Government prosecuted the manufacturer and forced him to change the label.

Cullen points out that since that date Federal officials who enforce the national pure food and drug law have removed from trade thousands of so-called patent or proprietary medicines, pharmaceuticals, and drug products for which false or fraudulent, curative claims have been made. These include preparations advertised and sold for use against such extremely dangerous diseases as tuberculosis, cancer, influenza, rheumatism, venereal diseases, diabetes, and a large number of maladies of such vital organs as the heart, stomach, liver, and kidneys.

A simple menu becomes more interesting when the table has a colorful tone. Lemonade glasses, spotted or striped for circus day, will add a festive note. So will deep blue or bright red glasses combined.

Low First Cost of Trench Silo Causes Its Revival

Short Time Required to Dig and Ease of Removing Silage Also Good Points.

College Station—Trench silos for storing the abundant feed crop in West Texas this year are recommended by M. R. Bentley, farm engineer of the Texas A. and M. College Extension Service. Calling attention to this old practice which has been revived throughout the State in recent years with great success, he gives the principal advantages of this mode of storage as low first cost, and the short time required to dig one ready for filling. It is easy to get the silage out, except possibly in rainy weather. The greatest disadvantage of a trench silo is the danger of excessive spoilage which may largely be avoided by care in filling, he says.

"Recent observations of a number of trench silos indicate that the thing that should be emphasized in reducing spoilage losses are the packing of the silage; the filling of the trench full to running over; and then covering the silage in such a way that rainfall and surface water will not run down through the silage," Mr. Bentley states. "More water should be added to the silage put into a trench than would be required in a pit or aboveground silo.

"The silage covering, whether it be dirt or green-cut vegetation, should be put on so that surface water will not run down the trench walls. While the rainfall that actually falls on the silage does not put enough water in the silage to injure it, the fact that the top of a filled trench is comparatively large in proportion to the total amount of silage, much silage may be tainted by the rainfall water passing down through the rotted covering into the upper portion of the silage. The point is, enough water should be applied to the covering to make it form an air tight lid; then, as much as possible, avoid letting water pass down through the covering or down the walls into the silage. A generous amount of covering material is desirable to prevent the loss of silage on the top.

"Several trenches were filled with unchopped stalks last season. Apparently unchopped stalks do not make quite as high quality silage as chopped stalks, but the practice should certainly be continued rather than to do without silage.

"With reference to the size of the cross section of a trench, it should conform to the size of the herd that is to be fed, but a shallow trench, say less than six feet deep, is likely to show a proportionately larger amount of spoilage. The depth will be governed by the convenience of getting the dirt out and the feed hauled out; as well as the size of the herd. One cubic foot of space should furnish room for about 25 pounds of ensilage.

"There is apparently no advantage in sloping the trench walls except to prevent them from caving. Straight up and down walls are not uncommon. It is suggested that the walls be made as near vertical as practicable when the trench is to be filled immediately, and then if the walls cave after the trench is emptied, slope them before refilling."

SCIENTISTS DEVELOP "SHATTERPROOF" GRAPE

"Shatterproof" grapes is one of the latest accomplishments of scientists of the United States Department of Agriculture and one which may save grape growers of the United States thousands of dollars annually.

Shippers lose large sums yearly from grapes which "shatters" or break from the stem, in transit. Dr. Charles Brooks of the department has discovered in laboratory experiments that subjecting the grapes to carbon dioxide gas before they are placed in the refrigerator car prevents much of this shattering. He has applied for a public-service patent which will make the method free for anyone to use.

Carlot shipments of grapes in the United States have averaged more than 60,000 for the last 10 years and department officials believe that general use of the new method may save the grape growers large sums of money every year.

MEAT STAMP IS HARMLESS

Inquiries have come to the United States Department of Agriculture concerning the practice of butchers in trimming the familiar purple Federal inspection stamp from fresh meat at the time of sale. This is entirely unnecessary, department specialists explain, as the fluid used in marking meat is made according to a Government formula from harmless ingredients—as harmless as fruit juices.

Formerly labels were attached to the meat that had been federally inspected and passed, but this proved expensive and otherwise unsatisfactory. The purple stamp provides a safe, clear, and permanent mark of inspection for the benefit of the meat buyer. Its presence signifies that the meat came from an animal that passed a thorough inspection by trained men.

FARM POPULATION GAIN

The increase in farm population in 1931 was the largest and most significant in the 10 years in which the United States Department of Agriculture has been estimating changes in population. For several years of this period annual decreases were reported and only during 1930 and 1931 were appreciable gains indicated. On January 1, 1932, the farm population was 31,260,000 persons as compared with 30,612,000 on January 1, 1931, a gain of 648,000, according to department estimates.

Step Made For Economy In Floyd County Funds

and we did not consider such a step wise at this time." At present the agent receives a salary of $225 per month and from this amount must pay her own traveling expenses and the upkeep of her own car to make the daily trips to club meetings over the county.

Records indicate that the county pays $125 per month and the Extension Service of A. and M. College pays $100 per month toward the salary of the agent.

There are at present 18 Women's Home Demonstration Clubs in Floyd County, embracing residents of 23 communities and a total membership of 543 women. There are 167 girls in the 10 Girls' Home Demonstration Clubs, the total county membership of women's and girls' clubs being 710.

Products of five county club women have been standardized under the 4-H Better Products label including Mrs. R. H. Ashton's rugs, Mrs. S. M. Lester's rugs, Mrs. W. E. Miller's peas with pork, Mrs. C. A. Smith's pine needle work, and Mrs. Maud Merrick's chow chow.

Mrs. Miller, Mrs. O. W. Fry, and Mrs. A. R. Hanna have been designated as Master Home Makers of Texas and R. B. Gary and O. W. Fry as Master Farmers in Extension Service selections.

Mrs. Miller also has won first in the state garden and the state kitchen contests.

Miss Alta Lloyd won fourth place in the state bedroom contest for the girls this year.

A six months' report from Miss Faulkner sent to the Extension Service officials disclosed some of the accomplishments of the clubs this year.

The club women had assisted from November to April 887 non-members; 32 demonstrations were given by the club women which were attended by 736; since March 1 of this year 216 new club women have been added, and 1,482 women have been reached in the co-operation plan in the county.

A total of 525 gardens were planted this year all having some type of irrigation. From November to April a total of 1,150 animals and fowls, valued at $6,826.24 on foot, after canning were valued at $18,936, or tripling in value.

A total of 1,802 gallons of milk were made up into 1,764 pounds of cheese, valued at 15 cents per pound. The cost of coloring and incidentals was $12.53 and the milk cost $90.10, the total cost running $102.63 and the cheese being valued at $264.60, more than doubling the value.

In poultry 25 demonstrators showed above all expenses a net profit of $2,347.62 in spite of low prevailing markets with careful culling, feeding and planning.

These figures are presented to give a brief summary of the work that has been accomplished in Floyd County in the six months period and does not take into consideration the immense canning program that has been carried on in the county.

The new industry being carried forward by Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Miller, of Sand Hill, in filling an order for 3,000 cans of field peas with pork for A. and M. College is made possible through the co-operation of the home demonstration agent and the Extension service as well as the sale of home-made rugs and other products.

One main goal of the work, as previously outlined by the agents, is to prepare standardized products that may be placed on sale by the farmers and their wives and sold under a standardized label to increase the farm revenue and at the same time assure the public the very best. Included in the work is suggestions, inspiration and guidance in the development of better homes and farms in Floyd County.

Work with vegetables, fruits, poultry and dairy products, clothing, and home improvement, has been carried forward step by step and the preparation and conservation of meat products has increased.

Developing and assuming leadership among the rural women and girls and helping others as well as themselves have been two big results of the 1931 home demonstrations, which made possible the reaching of more families than ever before and resulted in plans being made by the County Council to reach 85 per cent of the farm families in the county during 1932.

During 1931 the wardrobe demonstration, which has as its aim clothing the family economically, wisely and well had a good opportunity to prove its value. The club girls as well as the women did their share.

Bedroom improvement demonstrations looked for things which farm families could do to make the family centers restful and usable with little or no money. Walls and floors were refinished; and better lights, curtains and pictures were added, together with other inexpensive improvements.

Better 4-H Products, which is the trade name for standard products prepared by home demonstration women have found their way into Texas shops, groceries, and large department stores.

Not alone to fill pantries but to raise a supply of fresh vegetables for the table and for sale, the club women and girls have used demonstration methods in raising gardens.

Home Demonstration work was established in Floyd County December 9, 1919. Miss Josie York, of Scurry County, was the first agent. Judge Howard was county judge and the commissioners were as follows: Chas. Trowbridge, Precinct No. 1; G. F. Rigdon, Precinct No. 2; H. R. Brown, Precinct No. 3, and B. C. Willis, Precinct No. 4. The portion of the salary of the agent at that time paid by the county was $900 per year. All members of the court voted in favor of establishing the work in the county with the exception of Mr. Rigdon who voted "no" because "of the financial condition of the county."

Miss Mabel Faulkner, cousin of the present agent, succeeded Miss York in May, 1924. Miss Blanche Bass, now Mrs. A. J. Folley, became agent in October 1925, and was succeeded by Miss Marie Strange in April 1929. Miss Faulkner, who now holds the office, was appointed upon the resignation of Miss Strange in 1931.

Standardized Items Will Be Feature Of H. D. Club Exhibits

Products made by Floyd County Home Demonstration Club women being sold under the 4-H Better Products label since standardization will be featured with work done by the Girls' Home Demonstration Clubs in the annual exhibit to be held in the Manasco Building across the street from the Palace Theatre on West California Street Friday and Saturday, September 23, 24.

Hooked rugs, canned peas, pine needle trays, and chow chow will be included in the special display.

Standardization of their products for sale on the commercial market is one of the stressed phases in the work being done by the women and girls.

Arrangements have been made for the exhibits to be brought in any time now and left with S. W. Ross, secretary of the Chamber of Commerce, who will assist with the exhibit, and Miss Martha Faulkner, county home demonstration agent, director of the exhibit.

'Ma' Finally Leads In Governor's Race

from Reagan, Sterling 782 and Mrs. Ferguson 203; from Zavalla, Sterling 580 and Mrs. Ferguson 558.

The Election Bureau stated that Kimble and Zavalla counties probably were complete, but correspondents had neglected to so inform the bureau. Kimble had reported 1409 votes as compared with 1392 cast in the first primary in July. Zavalla has reported 1,130 against 1,106 in July.

The outstanding vote was estimated at around 150. If all should be cast for Sterling, the result would not be changed.

Strictly Unofficial
In previous statements, the bureau called attention to the fact that its tabulation was strictly unofficial and was made simply that the public might know the results of elections before the official count, eight days later.

The official count will be certified to the Texas State Democratic Executive Committee, which in turn will certify the nominee to the State Democratic convention. The convention then declares the nominee and authorizes the plating of his name on the party ticket to be voted on in the November general election.

Predictions that there will certainly be a contest between the opposing forces over the election, have been widely circulated, although there had been only one statement from either side on the subject until last night. This came Monday morning from J. E. Ferguson, husband of the candidate, who said that unless Mrs. Ferguson had a majority of the votes when all the count was in, a contest would be instituted. The counties which would be contested were not indicated in this statement.

Gov. Ross Sterling said Wednesday night that there was no doubt but that he obtained "a substantial majority of all votes lawfully cast," in Saturday's run-off primary with Mrs. Miriam A. Ferguson. "I will be declared the nominee for governor of Texas in accordance with the orderly processes of our primary election laws," he was quoted by the Associated Press as having said.

Sterling Leads First
In the first reports received Mr. Sterling had a slight lead in the unofficial tabulations made by the Texas Election Bureau and broadcast to newspapers all over Texas. At 11:30, however, a majority of more than 22,000 for the governor dwindled dizzily away and Mrs. Ferguson took a lead which it was thought would be maintained throughout. However, at the count at 1 o'clock Sunday morning Mrs. Ferguson's lead had disappeared also, and Sterling again had a majority of upward of 2,500 votes, with more than 850,000 votes accounted for out of an expected total of 925,000. At 2 o'clock Sunday afternoon his lead had increased to more than 2,800 votes with 895,000 votes accounted for. Sunday night's tabulation gave Mrs. Ferguson the lead for the second time, but Monday morning's 11 o'clock bulletin put Sterling some 3,400 votes in the lead again, a lead which he maintained until Monday night, the figures gradually growing smaller however.

Tuesday morning with 947,763 votes tabulated Mrs. Ferguson had swung into a 1,297 lead to which she has tenaciously clung since, gradually widening the number of votes between herself and Governor Sterling until this date.

In the other races the same ratios as in early returns were maintained throughout the week, the latest tabulation from the Bureau giving the following figures:
Railroad Commissioner (six years)—Satterwhite 345,708, Terrell 516,604.
Railroad Commissioner (four years)—Hatcher 407,778, Thompson 446,593.
