DEAR MISTER EDITOR:

There was a heap of interesting items in the papers last week. For instance, I saw where one of them column writers was claiming 1964 would be a big year for weddings on account of it being Leap Year. Folks always makes a big to do about Leap Year and how the girls is going to make it or bust that year. Personal, I don't put no stock in that kind of talk. When a girl thinks she is in love and ready for the altar, one year is as good as the next year and she works at it just as hard any year as she does in Leap Year.

Back in the old days a girl might break a leg—I mean limb—chasing her man but the man had to pop the question. It could be that things has changed a little in this matter and wimmen figger if they can vote and wear pants and fly airplanes they can pop the question. Leap Year might make it easier on the girls from the standpoint of etikett, and that's all they was to it anymore.

But I don't mean to hint, Mister Editor, I'm a authority on wimmen. All I know fer shore is you can always tell a married woman by the ring on her finger—but, judging from my old lady, you can't tell her much.

And I see where ole Krushy, that ain't having much success burying us, has come up with a plan to beat the pants off us. Them wimmen athletes from Fussia that was visiting us went home and said America was wonderful on account of "they make prettier panties than ours." Krushy announced immediate that in "due time we will produce panties in color that cannot be matched anywhere on earth." I reckon he aims to come out with some end-of-the-rainbow models.

At the national level I see where one member says he is going to put a bill in the next Congress making cigarettes agin the law. Ever onct in a while we git them kind of bills in the Congress and I figger they was put in to make headlines back home. I recollect when Huey Long was in the Senate he put in a bill to outlaw coats and ties between May and October. They throwed Huey and his bill both out of the meeting. And that's what will happen to the cigarette bill.

About the most unusual item I saw in the papers last week was where Senator Margaret Chase Smith was the "after-dinner" speaker at a big Republican banquet some place in Maine. It ain't often, Mister Editor, you see where a woman is a "after dinner" speaker. Most of 'em can't wait till after dinner to tell it.

Yours truly,

CHRISTMAS PARTY

The Birthday Club met in the home of Arvilla Clayborn for their annual Christmas party on Dec. 19, 1963. Guests arrived bearing gifts to be placed under the beautiful Christmas tree to be exchanged later.

Upon arriving, two of the guests were given small gifts to keep as long as they didn't say "No." So this was a "yes" night to most of them. The two winding up with these were Sonnie Miller and Edwana Fikes.

Two other games were played during the evening, one was to unscramble words about Christmas. These words looked like they were written in a foreign language, but Dorothy Myatt unscrambled them all. Then with a list of articles, one being a "boiled egg" we went peep-into some purses, and after a bit of "egg juggling" between Janelle and Scooter Moody, the prize was given to Scooter. Both prizes were holiday aprons made by Alwana Burch.

The door prize, which was a lovely vase, was won by Edwana Fikes.

Gifts were exchanged and lots delicious food was consumed by the above and Ophelia Kessler, Catherine McCarty, Jo Ann Tucker, Bonnie McWhorter, Catherine Bailey, Polly Reynolds, Orvie Ballew, Peggy Reynolds, Wanda Sumpter, Lucille Clifton, Judy Smith, Nadine Gibbs, Charlotte Vaughn.

This is the time of year when respiratory diseases of cattle begin to appear again.

One point to remember about such diseases is that they can occur singly or in combination. This can lead to confusion and substantial losses unless a prompt diagnosis is obtained.

One of the most costly of these diseases in recent years has been infectious bovine rhinotracheitis (IBR), also known as "red nose."
Generally this disease affects 25 to 100 per cent of the cattle in a feedlot.

Fortunately the death loss is low in most cases, but IBR does cause a sharp loss of weight and condition. This really hits the farmer's pocketbook because the ailing cattle must be fed longer to reach market condition. Among dairy cattle, a similar loss comes in lowered milk production.

Watch out for respiratory diseases. They can run up feeding costs enormously.

IBR is only one of the respiratory diseases with which cattle raisers need to be concerned.
Some of the others include bovine virus diarrhea, malignant catarrhal fever, ulcerative stomatitis, bovine para-influenza 3 and sporadic mucosal disease.

In general, symptoms of the various respiratory diseases of cattle look a lot alike. They include a nasal discharge, fever,
rapid breathing, loss of appetite, depression, excessive drooling and scouring. A low, throaty cough also may be noticed.

Because these respiratory diseases do resemble each other a veterinarian should be called to make a diagnosis at the first signs of sickness. This also will help spot any secondary bacterial infections which can sometimes implicate the situation seriously.

Prevention is a good watchword, too, in dealing with respiratory diseases. In the cases of IBR, cattle can be protected through vaccination. It also is a good idea to isolate replacement animals for about 30 days before turning them in with the home herd.

Son of former Prof-fitt citizens injured in plane accident

Albany, Texas, Dec. 21, 1963.—Mr. and Mrs. John E. Holder were called to Midland Sunday to be with their son, J. N. (Jack) Holder, who was injured in a plane crash at the Midland Air Terminal Saturday morning about 11:40. They found him not seriously hurt and he will be alright following treatment in the Midland hospital. It was thought at first he might have a broken back. But he was in bad shape.

The Holders were driven to Midland by Rev. W. A. Stanley.

Mr. Holder, a veteran pilot, was co-pilot on a twin engined Convair owned by the Union Oil Co. of California. The plane was making a routine instrument approach through light sleet when the accident occurred. The plane completed its approach over the ladder signal lights of the instrument system, but its right wing apparently hit the final light standard, which was bent almost to the ground. The right wing of the plane was found several hundred yards from the main fuselage section.

After striking the standard the aircraft plowed into the ground and then skidded about 400 yards, coming to rest off the right side of the runway.

In the plane were Ray Burke of California, vice president of the company; Donald Key of North Hollywood, pilot; Holder, co-pilot, and Arthur Urleta of Los Angeles, first officer.

Mr. Burke, who got out of the plane, which had broken away from the cockpit, pulled Mr. Holder out of the cockpit, where he was wedged. A highway patrolman got the pilot out. The pilot suffered burns and bruises. Mr. Holder, only son of Mr. and Mrs. Holder, is 42. He is a veteran Navy pilot, serving from 1940 till 1948 in the Navy. He has been with the Union Oil Co. since 1954. He and his family live in Los Angeles.

Mrs. Annie Mae Whiteley and Mrs. Wallace Whiteley of Munday visited in Mineral Wells Sunday with Mrs. Whiteley's brother, Dutch Veal.

Mr and Mrs. John Ford of Granham accompanied by Mrs. Mitt Harrell, were in Mena, Ark.; last week to attend the funeral of Mr. Ford's brother, Seaborn.
