Little Willie was asked if he ever studied the Bible.
"Yes, sir," he replied.
"Then of course you have read the parables?"
"Yes, sir," said Willie.
"Good," said the teacher. "And will you tell me which parable you like best?"

DEAR MISTER EDITOR:

I see by the papers where some feller from the Institute of Science is perdicting this country was arriving at the "Computer Age." He allows as how in another 19 years just about everything will be handled by them think-machines.

He was claiming the day might come when a jury could feed the evidence into one end of a thinking machine and the proper verdict would come out the other.

That will be the day, Mister Editor, when Judges will either have to temper justice with a heap of mercy or we'll run plum out of jail space.

The older I git the more I believe about half the problems in life requires common sense to solve. And them science fellers won't never come no closer to putting common sense in a thinking machine than they'll come to creating a tree in my backyard.

I recollect onct when I was a boy my Pa was explaining common sense. He told the story about the farmer that died and left 17 mules to his 3 sons. One half went to the oldest son, a third to the second son, and a ninth to the youngest. The feller settling the estate borrowed another mule from a neighbor and made it 18 mules. Then he give 9 to the oldest boy, 6 to the next and 2 to the youngest. This come to 17 mules and he returned the one he borrowed. My Pa allowed as how that was common sense versus book sense. I wonder how a think - machine would've handled that one.

Then they was this item from some feller in the Department of Commerce saving installment buying was the "life-flood of our national economy." He claimed millions of dollars worth of goods is sold ever day that folks don't need and wouldn't buy if we didn't have the installment plan. I will have to go along with him on that one. Just the other week I saw this piece in the papers where a feller in Hamilton, Canada, was doing a rushing business selling horses for $4 down and $4 a week. He said a heap of his customers didn't need no horse but they was buying on account of the terms was right.

But the biggest shocker of the week come from that English feller visiting the United Nations. He allowed as how the United States ought to ask more from Europe. I would have to vote ter that policy 100 percent. It might not do any good to ask but it shore wouldn't do no harm to try. We couldn't git no less from them. And in this connection, I see in the papers where grocery stores in London was bragging that they was now selling "Biscuits made in Britain." I'm glad to know where some of our dough has been going over there. Since its got to go, I'd just as soon see 'em use it fer building ships to trade with the Chinese Reds.

Yours truly,

13 accidents reported in December

"Old man 1963" has quietly slipped away into the past forever. His evident scenes, however, will remain with us till the end of time. Due to the scars left beside the roadway, and the hospital's, at the morgue and in the cemeteries the year 1963 will be remembered as the worst year in traffic history.

The Texas Highway Patrol investigated 13 accidents on rural highways in Young County during the month of December, according to Sgt. Frank Jircek, Patrol Supervisor of this area.

The rural traffic accident summary for this county for the calendar year 1963 shows a total of 104 crashes resulting in 10 persons killed, 57 injured and an estimated property damage of $68 482.

When the final reports are tabulated we will find that more people were killed in Texas traffic accidents during 1963 than any previous year," the Sergeant stated. The final count is expected to be about 10 per cent more than the 2,421 traffic deaths of 1962.

PRESIDENT JOHNSON'S MESSAGE TO THE CONGRESS

November 27, 1963

We publish below the first speech President Lyndon B. Johnson delivered to the Nation and Congress after becoming President of the United States.

Mr. Speaker, Mr. President, Members of the House and Senate, my fellow Americans:

All I have I would have given gladly not to be standing here today.

The greatest leader of our time has been struck down by the foulest deed of our time. Today John Fitzgerald Kennedy lives on in the immortal words and works he left behind. He lives on in the mind and memories of mankind. He lives on in the hearts of his countrymen.

No words are sad enough to express our sense of loss. No words are strong enough to express our determination to continue the forward thrust of America that he began.

THE DREAM FOR AMERICA

The dream of conquering the vastness of space, the dream of partnership across the Atlantic—and across the Pacific as well—the dream of a Peace Corps in less developed lands, the dream of education for our youth, the dream of jobs for all who seek them, the dream of care for our elderly, the dream of an all-out attack on mental illness, and, above all, the dream of equal rights for all Americans, whatever their race or color: these and other American dreams have been vitalized by his drive and dedication.

Now the ideas and ideals which he so nobly represented must and will be translated into effective action.

Under John Kennedy's leadership, this Nation has demonstrated that it has the courage to seek peace, and the fortitude to risk war. We have proved that we are a good reliable friend to those who seek peace and freedom.

We have shown that we can also be a formidable foe to those who reject the path of peace and who seek to impose upon us or our allies the yoke of tyranny.

This Nation will keep its commitments from South Vietnam to West Berlin. We will be unceasing in the search for peace, resourceful in our pursuit of areas of agreement even with those with whom we differ, and generous and loyal to those who join with us in common cause.

In this age where there can be no losers in peace and no victors in war, we must recognize the obligation to match national strength with national restraint. We must be prepared at one and the same time for both the confrontation of power and the limitation of power. We must be ready to defend the national interest and to negotiate the common interest. This is the path that we shall continue to pursue. Those who test our courage will find it strong and those who seek our friendship will find it honorable. We will demonstrate anew that the strong can be just in the use of strength; and the just can be strong in the defense of justice.

We will carry on the fight against poverty and misery, ignorance and disease—in other lands and in our own.

We will serve all of the Nation, not one section of one sector, or one group, but all Americans. These are the United States—a united people with unity of purpose.

Our American unity does not depend upon unanimity. We have differences; but now, as in the past, we can derive from those differences strength, not weakness; wisdom, not despair. Both as a people and as a government we can unite upon a program which is wise, just and constructive.

THE HILL HAS BEEN MY HOME

For 32 years, Capital Hill has been my home. I have shared many moments of pride with you—pride in the ability of the Congress of the United States to act, to meet any crisis, to distill from our differences strong programs of national action.

An assassin's bullet has thrust upon me the awesome burden of the Presidency. I am here today to say that I need your help; I cannot bear this burden alone. I need the help of all Americans. This National has experienced a profound shock and in this critical moment it is our duty—yours and mine, as the Government of the United States—to do away with uncertainty and to show that we are capable of decisive action; that from the brutal loss of our leader we will derive not weakness but strength; that we can and will act and act now.

From the Chamber of representative government let all the world know, and none misunderstand, that I rededicate this Government to the unwavering support of the United Nations, to the honorable and determined execution of our commitments to our allies, to the maintenance of military strength second to none, to the defence of the strength and stability of the dollar, to the expansion of our foreign trade, to the reinforcement of our programs of mutual assistance and cooperation in Asia and Africa, and to our Alliance for Progress in this hemisphere.

LET US CONTINUE

On the 20th of January, in 1961, John F. Kennedy told his countrymen that our national work would not be finished "in the first 1,000 days, nor in the life of this administration, nor even perhaps in our lifetime on this planet. "But," he said, "let us begin."

Today in this moment of new resolve, I would say to my fellow Americans, "Let us continue."

This is our challenge: Not to Seawall tax is 5¢ per gallon for Texas.

hesitate, not to pause, not to turn not to pause, not to turn about and linger over this evil moment but to continue on our course so that we may fulfill the destiny history has set for us. Our most immediate tasks are here on this Hill.

First, no memorial oration or eulogy could more eloquently honor President

Kennedy's memory than the earliest possible passage of the civil rights bill for which he fought. We have talked long enough in this country about equal rights. We have talked for 100 years or more. Yes; it is time now to write the next chapter—and to write it in books of law.

I urge you again, as I did in 1957, and again in 1960, to enact a civil rights law so that we can move forward to eliminate from this Nation every trace of discrimination and oppression based upon race or color.
There could be no greater source of strength to this Nation both at home and abroad.

And, second, no act of ours could more fittingly continue the work of President Kennedy than the earliest passage of the tax bill for which he fought—a bill designed to increase our national income, our federal revenues, and our insurance against recession.
That bill, if passed without delay, means more security for those now working and more jobs for those now without them.

A TIME FOR ACTION

In short, this is no time for delay.
It is a time for action: strong, forward-looking action on the pending education bills to help bring the light of learning to every home and hamlet in America; strong, forward-looking action on youth employment opportunities; strong, forward-looking action on the pending foreign aid bill, making clear that we are not forfeiting our responsibilities to this hemisphere or to the world, nor erasing executive flexibility in the conduct of foreign affairs; and strong, forward-looking action on the remaining appropriation bills.

In this new spirit of action the Congress can expect the full cooperation and support of the executive branch. And in particular I pledge that the expenditures of the Government will be administered with the utmost thrift and frugality. I will insist that the Government gets a dollar's value for a dollar spent. The Government will set an example of prudence and economy. This does not mean we will not meet our unfilled needs or that we will not honor our commitments. We will do both.

As one who has long served in both Houses of the Congress, I firmly believe in the independence and integrity of the legislative branch. I promise you that I shall always respect this.
It is deep in the marrow of my bones.
With equal firmness, I believe in the capacity and the ability of the Congress, despite the divisions of opinion which characterize our Nation, to act—to act wisely, vigorously, and speedily when the need arises.

The need is here. The need is now.
I ask your help.
I know we meet in grief; but let us also meet in renewed dedication and renewed vigor. Let us meet in action, in tolerance and mutual understanding.

AMERICA MUST MOVE FORWARD
John Kennedy's death commands what his life conveys—that America must move forward. The time has come for Americans of all races and creeds and political beliefs to understand and respect one another. Let us put an end to the teaching and preaching of hate and evil and violence. Let us turn away from the fanatics of the far left and the far right, from the apostles of bitterness and bigotry, from those defiant of law and those who pour venom into our Nation's bloodstream.

I profoundly hope that the tragedy and torment of those terrible days will bind us together in new fellowship, making us one people in our sorrow.
Let us here highly resolve that John Fitzgerald Kennedy did not live—or die—in vain. And on this Thanksgiving Eve, as we gather together to ask the Lord's blessing, let us unite in those familiar and cherished words:

"America, America
God shed His grace on thee,
And crown thy good
With brotherhood
From sea to shining sea."
THE WHITE HOUSE, Nov. 27, 1963.

Farmers need to stay alert for tell-tale warning symptoms in their cattle if the "S10 disease" is to be kept under control.

This disease, ketosis, gets its S10 label because annually it causes losses in excess of $10 million in the 1 million cows it affects. It strikes ewes, too, and causes additional losses there.

Ketosis is generally regarded as a man-made disease because it appears to have developed as a result of breeding for more and more milk production. The result is often disastrous, for animals frequently succumb to ketosis because of the extreme demands of high lactation.

Symptoms of ketosis include reduced milk production, reduced appetite, a blank and staring look, an odor like banana oil on the breath, depression, or sometimes extreme nervousness. Generally, it occurs one to six weeks after calving. It rarely is seen in first-calf heifers.

Striving for higher and higher milk production may lead to losses from ketosis.

One of the big dangers is that an untrained person could mistake these symptoms for such diseases as milk fever, grass tetany, rabies, listeriosis or peccary leptospiriosis. Therefore, accurate di-agnosis is very important, and this should be done by a veterinarian.

Although prevention has not been uniformly successful, some success has been reported with a program of providing cows with well-balanced, high energy rations.

In ewes, ketosis occurs a few days to a few weeks prior to lamb-ing and thus has become known as pregnancy disease.

Affected ewes may stand list-lessly by themselves or trail the flock. Later they may be unable to stand, and may develop a slight nervous twitching about the head.
Exercise and good rations during gestation will do much to prevent pregnancy disease.

In dealing with ketosis of either cows or ewes, it is a good idea to do everything possible to prevent the disease. It may develop in spite of this and when it does calling a veterinarian promptly for diagnosis and treatment will do much to keep losses down and shorten the recovery period.

George Moffett will not seek re-election

Chillicothe, Jan. 14.—In a statement today, Senator George Moffett, announced that he would not seek re-election to the State Senate, in which he is now serving his 26th year. He was a member of the House of Representatives for eight years prior to his election to the Senate in 1938. His statement follows:

"A few days ago I underwent a complete physical examination. The results were partially unfavorable. This circumstance, together with the uncertain prospect concerning redistricting, and the fact that I am 68 years old, have persuaded me to retire.

"I am deeply grateful to the people who have chosen me to represent them at Austin for many years. Our Texas state government is among the best in the nation, and I am glad to have contributed something to it."

...to better study—better grades: PROPER LIGHT

Homework is more effective when it's done at a regular time and place, and with proper lighting to reduce eyestrain and fatigue. Good lighting also makes study time more productive and helps keep young minds alert. Check now to be sure your children have proper study lighting, consisting of: a good table lamp with diffusing bowl to soften glare; at least 150 watts of light; a shade wide enough to spread light over the entire work surface. Better light means better sight — better study.
