DoD announces FY 1978 budget details

WASHINGTON (AFNS) - Former President Ford's fiscal year 1978 budget will provide real increases in funds for deferred force modernization and continued improvement in readiness of U.S. forces, according to details announced by Secretary of Defense Donald Rumsfeld.

The Department of Defense (DOD) announcement placed total fiscal year 1978 obligational authority at $123.1 billion, an increase of nearly $13 billion in the baseline program.

According to DOD officials, defense-related outlays are estimated at $110.1 billion. At this level, defense represents 25 per cent of the total federal budget and 5.4 per cent of the gross national product.

The budget has reduced or eliminated programs which DOD says contribute marginally to defense objectives and has placed a number of restraints in some estimates in order to offset cost of essential improvements.

Total defense manpower (civilian and military) has been held below the fiscal year 1977 level and the military construction program has been partially halted pending a review of long-term facilities and base-structure needs.

Highlights of the budget of particular interest to Air Force personnel are as follows:

Forces

- Strategic missile force levels will remain constant in fiscal year 1878. By the end of fiscal year 1978, the force will consist of 450 Minuteman II missiles, 550 Minuteman III missiles, 54 Titan II missiles, 10 Polaris submarines and 32 Poseidon submarines.
- The number of B-52 and FB-111 squadrons will remain at 24.

• The Air Force will continue with plans to bring the 26 tactical fighter wings currently in the active force structure up to strength. During the period fiscal year 1977 to the end of fiscal year 1978, one F-4, two A-7 and one F-105 squadrons will be replaced by three F-15 and two A-10

Manpower

 Military manpower will increase by 2,000 in fiscal year 1978. This is primarily related to an overall increase in nuclear security forces, partially offset by decreases in other support activities.

decrease by 5,000 in fiscal year 1978.

Major Budget Changes

• Real increased investment is programmed for F-16, F-15, and F-14 fighter aircraft, the B-1 bomber and the advanced tanker/cargo aircraft.

• There will be program growth of $.9 billion in research, with major effort being applied to the Navy air combat figher (F-18), the Air Force and Navy cruise missiles, vertical/short takeoff and landing technology and programs, the Army attack helicopter, Air Force M-X missile, the Air Force space shuttle and research and exploratory development for all the military services.

• In real terms, the total obligational authority for military personnel will decline by $100 million. This represents an increase of $145 million for the reserve components and a decrease of $245 million for the active forces.

The reduction in active-forces monies reflects a further reduction in the proportion of officer to enlisted personnel and a decline in permanent-change-of-station costs.

Credits for PME may be forthcoming

Randolph AFB, Tex. (ATCPS) -Air Training Command (ATC) Professional Military Education (PME) Program has been accepted as a candidate for accreditation by the Southern Association of Colleges and Schools (SACS) Commission on Occupational Education Institutions (COEI). As an institution, the program includes PME centers at 13 command bases.

As a candidate for accredition, ATC PME will undergo an evaluation to determine if it meets not only the needs of students, community, and employers, but also the standards of quality of the occupational commission.

The evaluation process includes self-study by the assistant for Professional Military Education, deputy chief of staff for Personnel, Headquarters ATC, Randolph AFB, Tex. The evaluation process also requires review by a visiting team of professional educators representing the SACS member occupational institutions.

Because of the numbers and geographical separation of the ATC base PME centers, the self-study process may not be completed until mid-1978. However, earlier completion is a goal.

Beginning this month(January), graduates of ATC PME phase III will be given college credits by the Community College of the air Force. The credits will be given also to approximately 6,000 NCOs who have already completed the ATC PME program.

Founded in 1895, the Southern Association is a voluntary, nongovernmental agency composed of more than 10,000 colleges and universities, occupational institutions, and secondary and elementary schools. It is one of six regional accrediting associations in the United States and encompasses 11 southern states from Virginia to

The purpose of regional accreditation is to improve the quality of education. Each member institution must carry on a continuing program of improvement and undergo periodic reevaluations.

FROM THE

BOSS

One of our biggest problems is communications. I've said it before and, unfortunately, it's still true. There should be a continuous flow of ideas throughout the base concerning current policies, programs, and our mutual problems. This flow must be twoway, and the communications process must be complete so that information is not lost in the process. While we would hope that the chain of command would work so well that all communications requirements would be satisfied, unfortunately, that is not the case. As a result, we have a number of additional channels for working out our problems, such as the Complaints System, the IG, and the Human Relations Council (HRC). Today, I'm going to talk about the HRC.

This council is one of the most productive groups on this base. Membership of the HRC provides a cross section of all of our people, and is composed of at least 50% in the grades of E-4 and below. At least one-third of the representatives are women and minority people. Each representative is nominated for appointment to the HRC by Social Actions, approved by me, and then receives special training from our Social Actions people. The duties of the HRC are to discuss problems and irritants that have base-wide impact; to circulate among work areas to identify such problems; to discuss and work out tentative solutions; and to brief me, our unit commanders, and other base people on council activities and recommendations.

The HRC is generally not an action agency but works to identify base-wide problems which are out of the purview of the unit commanders. In the formal open meetings with the HRC, we discuss problems that they have identified, and examine the roots of the problem to determine possible solutions. While the HRC is not intended as an action agency, from time to time I have asked them to work specific people problems both on and off base.

All commanders need feed-back concerning their operation. In this instance, the HRC provides me with feed-back about problems of general application concerning our base climate for human growth and development. They do much more than that however, in that they provide positive recommendations to effect solutions to the problems that they have identified. I have stated before, and do so again, I am very pleased with their track record. I believe that they have identified and we have resolved a number of the worse irritants to the people of Reese. They provide a welcomed means of communications, one that I'm very pleased to have, one that gives you another avenue for resolving your problems where they have common application.

Colds: most frequent childhood sickness

By Capt. Patricia Smith Charge Nurse of Pediatrics, USAF Langley Hospital

Probably the most frightening incident of any parent's life is to have a sick child. One of the most frequently found illnesses at this time of year is the common cold.

Take this typical case as an example of what happens and what you should do when your infant has a cold.

Usually your baby's first sympton will be a low-grade temperature, 100.06 degrees to 102.6 degrees rectally, for two days. There is only one way to know how high it gets.

Use a thermometer. You can't be accurate by just feeling the baby.

The baby then becomes fussy, eats poorly and coughs when lying face up. The nose is at first stuffy and after 24 to 48 hours drains clear mucus which later becomes white and then yellowish or greenish white.

If your baby runs a rectal temperature above 101 degrees for more than 24 hours, consult your pediatrician. Otherwise, the following procedure will prove helpful in treating colds or respiratory infections in an infant under one year of age:

First, remove nasal secretions with an infant-sized ear bulb syringe before feedings, naptime, bedtime and during the night, if needed.

Then, put into each nostril six to eight drops of a solution of one teaspoon of salt and one pint of boiled water that has cooled.

Also, keep the baby on its abdomen most of the time, in order for the secretions to drain out of the chest. Elevate the head of the mattress at a slight angle to aid in drainage.

If coughing is severe, a cool mist humidifier can be used or, if easier, steam the baby 10 minutes every four hours by turning the shower on hot in the bathroom, getting the room steamy and holding the baby in your lap in the room during the steaming period.

During the first fussy, feverish 48 hours, Tylenol or aspirin can be given at the following dosages: Tylenol, one half dropperfull every four to six hours for two- to sixmonth-old children; or one dropperfull every four to six hours for six months to one year olds. For those one to three years old, two dropperfulls every four to six hours.

Also, one grain of baby aspirin for children 10 years and under. For a child more than one year old, the above suggestions, plus an increase in the amount of water and fruit juices, should be tried. If these prove ineffective, you should pick up the child's medical records and see a doctor for some decongestant.

Keep in mind that a cold is caused by a virus infection that cannot be cured by any known antibiotic. The average cold in an infant under one year of age lasts six to eight days. In an older child, it sometimes will linger a little longer.

Practicing a fire escape plan can prevent injury to family

By Bob Hitch Base Fire Chief

Fire in a home is something we all try to avoid. Yet sometimes despite all safeguards fire erupts.

Injury to household members can be minimized by regularly practicing a family fire escape plan. Exit drills in the home (EDITH) can help with evacuating a home or apartment quickly and safely in case of a fire or other emergency.

The National Fire Protection
Association and the Reese Fire Department suggest these guidelines to help set-up a fire escape plan.

An approved smoke detector installed outside of a bedroom door, between bedrooms, and the rest of the house offers occupants the earliest possible detection of smoke and fire. Most lethal home fires occur between midnight and 6 a.m.

As part of the programmed modernization of Reese Village, smoke detectors will be installed in each residence by the Air Force. In addition, having some simple signal device (like a police-type whistle) at each persons' bedside will help arouse everyone if a fire is suspected before the smoke detector sounds an alarm.

Before opening a door, feel it with the back of your hand. If it is hot, DON'T OPEN IT. If you must open the door, open it only an inch or so. If smoke enters the room, close the door and seek an alternate exit.

If you sleep with your bedroom door open and you are aroused by the smell of smoke, DON'T STAND UP. Roll out of the bed and crawl along the floor. Standing up may put you high enough to be overcome by the superheated air that forms and progresses downward from the ceiling.

Plan at least two routes to the outside from every room in the house. Always allow for the possibility of fire and choking smoke and fumes blocking halls and stairways.

A window may be the only alternate escape route from an upper-floor. Be sure exit windows work easily and are large and low enough to get through. Use any available porch, shed, or garage roof to reach safety. If needed, install an escape ladder. If possible, assign children to bedrooms which offer easy rooftop or ladder escape routes.

Specific Plans

Include specific plans for evacuating infants, disabled, or invalid members of a household who would need special help. Totally disabled or bedridden members in Reese Village should be reported to the Fire Prevention Section at Ext. 2868/2311.

Pick an assembly point well away from the house, where all members of the family will meet for a "HEAD COUNT." Be sure everyone understands that the house must not be re-entered for any reason.

Call For Help

Plan to notify the Fire Department (885-4501) from a neighbors phone — NOT from inside your own burning home. When reporting the fire by phone, BE CALM, SPEAK CLEARLY AND GIVE THE COMPLETE ADDRESS OF THE FIRE. Tell the alarm dispatcher if all family members are accounted for. In duplex homes, notify neighbors of the presence of fire.

Credit Cards help clubs stall cash flow problems

Editors Note: This is the second article of a series on the use of Credit Cards in the Open Messes, Package Store and Child Care Center. This article further explains the system and answers questions that have been called in concerning the

by Lt. Col. Thomas P. Laffey Consolidated Club Manager

How does the credit card system benefit the clubs? The primary benefit would be the increase in the cash flow. A good example to explain this cash flow problem would be merchandise bought and charged at the package store.

A customer purchases goods worth $50.00 from the store in the first week of December and charges it to his club bill. The sale ticket eventually ends up on the 3rd floor of Bldg. 800 in the accounts receivable section and is added to the buyers club bill. The bills are sent by mail to the individual or are available at the clubs by the end of December. The individual who made the purchase may not pay for the charges that occurred on Dec. 5 until approximately Jan. 15. The cost of the goods bought for $50.00 was absorbed by the package store for 40 days, which is a very poor cash flow

Under the new system, the cost of the merchandise that was charged on Dec. 5 can be redeemed by the package store through Bank Americard within 3 days from time of purchase. The result is a far better cash flow which can be utlized for payments and savings.

An added benefit to the member would be the amout of payments due when the bill is received. Presently, if a member charged the sum of $100.00 during a billing period, he would have to pay the full amount due upon receipt of the bill. Under the credit card system, the member would have the choice of paying in full, paying 10 per cent of the total or $10.00 which ever is higher. Interest will be charged only on accounts which are not paid in full within 25 days following billing date.

The following questions were called in the past week:

If I already have a Bank Americard, will I have to apply for another one?

No, the individuals who already have a current Bank Americard will only be required to put their current card number on the application form. The charges and club bill will be included on their monthly bill.

If I am TDY or on leave, how will I be able to prove that I am a club member if the Band Americard has no distinguishing features from any other Bank Americard?

This is a problem and the present solution is for the clubs to issue a seperate card that can be shown upon request at you local club or other club. The issuing bank for Bank Americard is not permitted to put any additional information on the card such as Reese Open Mess

Foundation offers contest for ROTC

WASHINGTON, D.C., January 12 - The Aerospace Education Foundation has announced its fifth annual Air Force Junior Reserve Officer Training Corps (ROTC) contest on "The Imperatives of National Readiness.

Students enrolled in junior ROTC programs in high schools throughout the country will compete for the first prize $4,000 scholarship.

Foundation President Dr. William Ramsey said key defense leaders consider national readiness critical to America's deterrent strength. 'Not only should young people be aware of this concept, but all Americans should understand it." he said. "National readiness combines many elements all relating to America's ability to respond to threats. Equipment, manpower, natural resources and national will are among them," he noted.

According to Dr. Ramsey, students may use any format to explain to the public any element of the theme or a combination. "The topic is too broad for comprehensive treatment, so we're encouraging students to be selective. What they choose to explore will be weighed by the judges," Dr. Ramsey said.

Contest rules allow a variety of formats including essays, scripts, playlets, audio presentations, videotapes and sound-slide productions.

To help students with the topic, the Foundation forwarded to all AFJROTC units a speech by Air Force Chief of Staff Gen. David C. Jones and has forwarded the Air Force Association's 1977 Policy Statement and Policy Paper on Force Modernization and Readiness along with other reference

To date, 142 schools have entered the contest. Entries are due at the Foundation's Washington headquarters by March 5, 1977.

Judging will take place in April by nationally-known experts in fields relating to the subject. Of five runners-up, a national winner will be chosen according to certain criteria laid down in the contest announcement. The winning unit will receive a $4,000 scholarship to a post-secondary school and the scholarship may be awarded to one person or divided among a maximum of four chosen by the unit. The school also will receive a distinctive plaque, and its winning entry will be shown at the Association's Aerospace Briefings and Displays scheduled in Washington next September.

Four runners-up will receive plaques and 20 honorable mentions will receive certificates.

Supply AA unit responsible for organizational equipment

The Allowance and Authorization Unit (A and A), a division of the Equipment Management Branch is run by Mrs. Erlene Stolk, the A&A Unit Supervisor. A&A is a very import division within the entire supply complex, because it is through this unit that all organizacome to order equipment type items.

Mrs. Stolk, who serves in the grade of GS-7, is assisted by SSgt. Leslie Stramel, the NCOIC of A&A. and A1C Calvin Shelby, the A&A Clerk, in performing such tasks as authorizing custodian requests in accordance with the Tables of tional equipment custodians must Allowance (TA's) which are applicable to the specific requesting activities. This job involves comparing the paperwork submitted by the custodian with the TA for that particular organization to be sure that the organization is indeed authorized to have the equipment requested.

If the custodian's request is authorized, it is then processed by the A&A Unit into the 1050-II computer system. Based on urgency of need for an equipment item, a custodian can be authorized a priority request which the supply depot will consider before other routine requests. In this way, the custodian is able to cordinate with the A&A Unit in order to insure timely delivery of mission essential equipment.

The A&A Unit is vital to the overall supply operation. By monitoring organization requests, this unit insures that each organization is fully equipped to perform its mission without being overequipped, resulting in excesses and unnessary expenditure of government funds.

Debate at Mathis tonight

"Debate" will be performing at the Mathis Recreation Center beginning at 10 p.m. tonight. The band will play until 2 a.m.

The group began back in 1971 in Clovis, N.M. Vern Blair, Donny Jones and Eldridge Green got together as a soul trio. A year later Thomas Green was added on keyboards and vocals and Alvin Ruffins was brought in on bass. In 1972 they decided to add a girl vocalist and so Diane Johnson became a featured part of "Debate."

The group is best noted for their wide range of music and on-stage antics. Vern Blair on lead, has a whole bag of tricks up his musical sleeve. The group is also very proud of the fact that they have never missed a performance in more than four-and-a-half years of playing road gigs.

Musicians by choice, they believe in giving a crowd what they came to hear . . . an attitude which quickly made them the number one soul group in New Mexico!

Whataburger makes a special burger for ladies. We call it the Whataburger Inc. Like our famous Whataburger, it's made with a 100% pure beef party, your choice of the finest garden fresh lettuce, onions, tomatoes, crisp pickles, mustard or salad dressing — and served hot on a golden, toasted bun. The only difference is that it's smaller than the giant quarter-pound Whataburger, so it's less filling. Isn't that more what you had in mind?

Whataburger is what a burger should be.

Talon Talk

54th gets around to it

The dapper staff of Talon News Central has been forced by popular demand to repeat a previous article. (Ann Landers isn't the only one with repeat articles). It seems pertinent to have this particular article repeated though as the 54th busily gets ready for the assault of the 64th Stan Eval Wing Weenies on their Formal Inspection to iron out the rough spots prior to the arrival of the boys from Randolph and the ATC/IG Team.

There are a lot of people running around the base and the Squadron asking if this is done or that has been accomplished, if the files are current or if the pubs have been posted, whether some piece of paper work is in the in or out of the out basket??? or if . . . on and on ad nauseum.

The most common replies are: "just about, I'll let you know just as soon as I get around to it".

Well here it is, just what you need to be ready for the Wing or ATC or for your next OER cycle. A handy little number that will keep your from ever having to say "I didn't finish it cause I haven't got a-round-to-it." Yep, here is your very own Round To-It. Keep it in your desk for future reference or give it to a friend or co-worker in case he hasn't got a round to-it and that is slowing the work progress of your shop.

There is a serious side to this article though as the old 54th bids farewell to Lt. John Corley as he departs the hallowed hall of 105 to become a Stan Eval type. Farewell to Capt. Terry O'Day as he leaves for OV-10s in Germany and congrats to Capts. Don Luehm, Don Alfson, Gene Johnson and Ken Ferretta as they perpare for OV-10s to Germany and O-2s to Davis Monthan.

The big news is the 54th grew by two this weekend as Jeff Fortezzo of Check Section, with a little help from Marilyn, gave birth to a 10 pound boy, Jason, and Roger Hamilton of Squadron Scheduling brought a baby girl in "on the due date" with an assist from Chris. Best of Luck to Jason and Heather and their parents also.

The 54th Roundballers are tearing up the courts and currently are holding 2nd place. Lets get some support and a few cheers for their game on Feb. 1.

MAINTENANCE CORNER

Tips T'ops

We thought it would be worthwhile to pass on to all concerned some often overlooked fact about tachometers and gyros. It seems that after a tach has sat overnight and a low temperature drop occurs, the lubricant on the small bearing becomes thicker (or tacky, if you'll forgive me) and on engine start will cause the pointer to fluctuate. Many times, continuing to operate the engine will allow the lubricant to warm up and the fluctuations will cease.

The same thing happens to gyros. If the attitude gyros don't completely erect on a cold morning, give the system another chance by actuating the fact erection swtich. If this sort of thing should happen on the T-38 HSI or the T-37 J-2 compass systems, indicating a heading error, actuate the fast slave switch. Many times these actions will clear up the problem and save a few deviations.

Lieutenant misses own party

By 1st Lt. Mike Dendinger 35th Flying Training Sq.

I'd love to fill you in on what's been happening around the squadron, but I don't know myself. I've been cross-country every weekend this year and so haven't been active on the local party circuit, etc. (that's the only place I learn any news - they don't tell me anything in the squadron.)

If any of you happened to attend the farewell party "C" Flight threw for me last Saturday, come on down and tell me about it. I was spending a swinging night in Enid, Okla. on a no-notice student X-C. Evidently the Chalupa folks went all out for this thing. I got a sneak look at the mug they got for me - whoever grease penciled my name in above the grease penciled wings (and just to the left of the big dent with the rust spot) was a true artist. Brings a tear to one's eye. I was a little suspicious, however, when Scoop Jackson waited until I was strapping into the airplane Friday afternoon to tell me really miss those guys.

I was pulling some G's in the Auger Inn last weekend when I ran into Steve Joseph. Any of you who remember Steve will be interested to know he just made major two years below the zone. He sends his regards.

The latest out of Check Section is that John Boggs has the assurance of a senator that he's going to get a fighter for his next assignment. The "senator" also gave Bozo the inside scoop that Ethiopia is about to my party was Saturday night. I become the 51st state, and sold him a controlling interest in the Brooklyn Bridge. John says the bridge will come in handy to fly under when he gets his fighter.

Toad Flight - IDENT

Once again, we have a multiple award. Toad 01 goes to the GCA controller at Randolph AFB who gave me a perfect approach — right into the Taj Majal — then had the nerve to say my gyros appeared inop and start gyro-out instructions. Toad 02 goes to Hans Hardin for laughing during and after the above mentioned incident. Last but not least, Toad 03 goes to Easy Lead for a 35-10 violation. Seems Wayne had an unsightly red streamer hanging out of his pocket when he walked in the building last Sunday. All together now — IDENT!

Don't forget Scotch Doubles and the Rent-a-Lane programs.

The ladies afternoon league needs just a few to get started. If you are interested call Ext. 2116.

S.S. our worthless entertainment director tried again this week. He brought in two pink elephants, a purple snake and a polka dot horse Saturday. It was a waste Frenchie, Darrell and Roy seldom comes in except on weekdays; and they are the only one that could see them.

Credit Union basketball team clinches league title

The Credit Union Team from Reese continued its winning streak last week with two wins over the McLain Oil Team in the Lubbock Recreational League. It was a close one in the first game with the final score being 62-55, but the Reese Team came back the second night with a convincing 78-47 truimph.

In the second game, Jack Cusano scored a season high 40 points to lead all scorers. Bill Bendel and Matt Skundrik also scored in double figures with 12 and 11 points respectively.

record to 8-1 on the season. With only two games remaining in the regular season, the team is assured of a first place finish.

Following the regular season, an inter-city playoff will take place. The top two teams from each division in the Open League will compete against teams from the Industrial League. If the Credit Union team continues to win, it would go to a regional tournament and then to the State Playoffs.
