Sand Hill Declared Wonderful Host; Excellent Talks Made.

Club women of Floydada will be hostesses to the October meeting of the Floyd County Federation of Women's Clubs in accordance with a vote of acceptance of the invitation extended by Mrs. W. C. Grigsby, president of the 1922 Study Club, Wednesday afternoon at the semi-annual meeting of the Federation at Sand Hill. The exact date is to be set later.

Miss Anna Sims, president of the club, was elected president of the federated clubs, succeeding Mrs. W. H. Bethel of Campbell community. Mrs. A. R. #### Home Making a Profession

"Home making is a profession and every woman should have the proper training just as she should be trained for any other line of work," declared Miss Murray in one of the most informative talks of the afternoon session at Sand Hill.

"Every home maker should know how to spend money wisely," she pointed out. "She should know how to select an adequate diet for the family and she should know how to make the home restful and attractive—both inside and out." (Continued on back page—this sec)

City Marshall Takes Cake; Slays Many Dogs In One Year

Get out the silver-plated plaque, and brush it up, ready for presentation ceremonies. City Marshal R. D. (Bob) Smith has been awarded the prize on his record as a dog slayer during the year from April 9, 1929, when he assumed the duties of his office until April 9 of this year.

In that period he has killed a total of 303 dogs, a dog for every day except the real cold ones and the Fourth of July. Of all the complaints the city marshal gets, perhaps the one against the depredation of dogs is the most numerous.

"Folks sure put up a holler when dogs go to tearing up their flower beds and gardens and keeping them awake at night during the dog conventions. Of course, there's just one thing to do, when we get one of these complaints," Mr. Smith said, and the result is a thinning out of the dog ranks.

Wheat-Grazed Yearling Steers, Floyd County, Make Record Weights

1,025 yearling steers from Floyd County last week created a stir on the Kansas City market, when N. A. Armstrong, local cattleman rode into town with them and put them on the scales to make them average no cake and no grain. Immature 595 pounds around, the shipment being an all-wheat grazed lot with bundled hedges was the only supplement feed furnished the steers.

Bill Ferguson, prominent Kansas cattleman, who saw the steers before they left Floydada, declared he never saw a better thousand head of yearling put together in his life. Kansas City market buyers were equally loud in their praise of the steers. The string of steers from Floydada was the biggest lot to reach the Kansas City market this season. On this account and on account of their good looks the steers attracted lots of attention.

Fred Zimmerman, who saw the figures on the cattle before they left Floydada, paid a glowing compliment to Mr. Armstrong, when he declared that to make a herd of 1,025 yearling average 595 pounds on wheat and bundles, meant a combination of a real cattleman handling a real bunch of cattle. "It just isn't done by the average cattleman with the average herd of steers," he declared.

The steers were native Floyd and Motley County cattle.

The glass pierced the calf of his right leg and broke off. He was carried to the Smith & Smith Sanitarium where it was removed and where he remained until Monday when he was able to be moved to his home.

Soup Stuck to Judge's Throat and Hurt Where Tonsils Had Been But Craves Roughness.

Page Diogenes, Themistocles, Ulysses, Ajax, Atlas, or whoever it was that was so tough back in the good old days of mythology. For which of them, however, fortitudiness, ever took a ham sandwich with toasted bread for a diet immediately following an operation to remove his tonsils? The answer is none of them.

But we have with us, right in Floydada, such a man. And what a man! Judge L. G. Mathews is

Twenty-five Floydada Boys Will Go To A. & M.

O. T. Williams and F. F. A. Harmonica Band Will Entertain Monday Night.

Twenty-five members of the Vocational Agricultural Classes of Floydada High School will leave Saturday for College Station, where they will attend the annual state meeting of vocational Agricultural teams of Texas, held under the supervision of the Extension Department of the Agricultural and Mechanical College of Texas. O. T. Williams, vocational instructor, will accompany the boys who will go overland by truck. V. B. Fitch will drive the passenger truck for the trip.

Instructor Williams will enter four teams in the various contests held each year at the meet, and expressed hope this week that they would place high in the winnings. The Floydada Farm Shop team won second place in this division at the state-wide meeting last year, and one member of the team, Martin True, was placed high point man in all winnings. 1740 boys were present at the meet last year, and the attendance this year promises to be larger than ever before.

Members of the Floydada teams who will compete in the contests this year, as announced by Mr. Williams, are as follows: Plant production team, composed of Truman Fuqua, Layton Darrell and Rayford Palmer, with Dan Fondy as alternate; Farm shop team, composed of Porter Finley, Wayne Finley and C. W. McCarty, with Hersell Swebston as alternate; Dairy team, composed of Raymond King, Martin True and Rex Johnston, with Roy Crabtree as alternate; Poultry team, composed of Frank Roberts, Corrick Snodgrass and Ralph Thornton, with Jim Hardgrove as alternate.

An interesting and unusual feature has been added by the Floydada delegation this year in the form of an F. F. A. Harmonica Band. The band is composed of members of the vocational classes, and music is furnished by French harps, Jews Harps, and various kinds of string instruments. The band will play before the entire gathering on Monday night before the final awards are given out.

E. C. Nelson Elected Co. Trustee-at-Large By Majority One Vote

J. H. Upton Re-Elected From Precinct 3, With Olin S. Miller In No. 4.

E. C. Nelson, of this city, was elected trustee-at-large in Floyd County in the trustee election held on Saturday, April 5, it was disclosed by a canvass of the official returns by the Commissioners' Court Tuesday afternoon of this week. In addition, voters in Precinct No. 3 re-elected J. H. Upton as county trustee from that precinct, and Olin S. Miller was elected in Precinct Four.

There were no active candidates for any of the places. The Floydada banker was chosen over L. B. Maxey, who has had the job a number of years, by one vote. His total was 220, against 219 for Maxey. A. R. Meriwether, Lockney business man, received 149 votes. Two precincts do not show in the returns counted. They are Cedar, where no election was held, and McCoy, returns for which were not found by the court.

The job of county trustee will not be a new one to the new chairman of the county board, he having previously served in that capacity in this county. However, since his service as a county trustee the scope of the board's authority has been greatly enlarged until it has become the most powerful body in the county in the matter of school affairs of all kinds.

In Precinct No. 4, three men received a number of votes. Beside Olin S. Miller, W. N. Jones, president incumbent received 44 votes and O. M. Conway 34 votes. Miller's vote was 65.

Clean-up Week In Floydada April 20 To 26, Proclamation Declares

City Officials Urge Co-Operation Of All

Mayor Hanna Proclaims Next Week As Annual Clean Up For City; C. of C. to Help.

Next week, April 20 to 26, is official "Clean Up Week" in Floydada, according to a proclamation issued this week by Mayor W. C. Hanna. Floydada Chamber of Commerce officials and the City organization are co-operating to make the Clean-up week possible, and they are urging that every civic club and organization and every citizen of Floydada lend their efforts to make the annual campaign successful.

According to Mayor Hanna, the idea of the campaign will be to clean up or straighten up the premises around home and business establishments. Cans and rubbish should be carefully gathered and stacked near the alleys, weeds should be cut, trees should be trimmed, and, where possible, fresh coats of paint should be given to every building possible, Mayor Hanna declared.

Trucks with drivers will be supplied throughout the week to gather rubbish that cannot be burned, the Mayor stated. These drivers will collect only cans and other containers that have been punctured and will not hold water, he added. The drivers will collect only rubbish that has been carefully piled near the alleys.

S. W. Ross, secretary of the Floydada Chamber of Commerce, has appointed a committee from that organization to act as co-workers in the movement. This committee is composed of J. C. Wester, Roy Snodgrass, A. A. Bishop and Dr. W. Hubert Seale. This committee will be placed at the disposal of the City officials in charge of the campaign. Mr. Ross stated.

"Each Spring finds Floydada in great need of a clean-up campaign, but never has the city needed a clean-up worse than it does this year," Secretary Ross told a Hesperian reporter this morning. "If you are a citizen of Floydada and have a home here you should be interested in the general appearance of the city. If you are really interested in your home town, you will do your part to make this Clean-up campaign successful, and make Floydada the beauty spot of the Plains" he said.

Various committees are being appointed this week by the respective clubs of the city with the idea of making the clean-up week thorough. These committees will work with the City officials and will be able to assist the citizens of the city in every way possible.

Farm Trailer Fees To Be Refunded Order Of Commissioners' Court

Of the 150 or more Floyd County owners of trailers, who registered and paid fees to operate their trailers on the highways, all farm trailers will be eligible to receive a refund of the money paid, according to an order on the minutes of the Commissioners' Court this week.

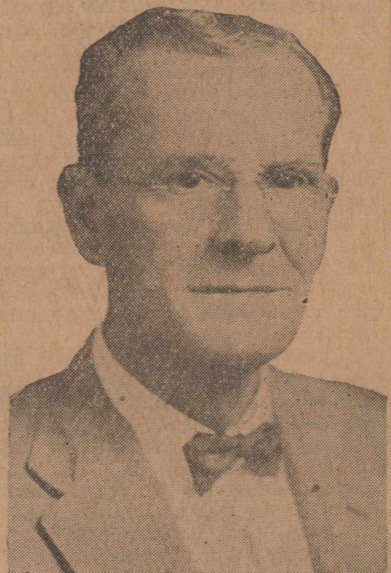

The collection of the trailer fee was provided for in a law passed last fall, but the repeal of that part of the law affecting trailers used for farm hauling by the owner was passed at the last called session of the legislature, effective April 10. Sheriff P. G. Stegall several days ago ceased collection of fees for farm trailers. Commercial trailers, meaning those used in commercial hauling, are not affected by the repeal of the law or the order of the court passed this week.

The order of the court authorizes Tax Collector P. G. Stegall to make the refund. However, it requires presentation and return to him of the plate issued, as well as the papers issued the owner. Another provision is that the request for refund must be made within thirty days from the date of the order.

'Be Enumerated' Is Urge Of Hesperian This Week

"Have You Been Enumerated?" That's the question the Hesperian is asking this week, with the belief that it is highly important that every man, woman and child of Floyd County be listed in Uncle Sam's ten year inventory.

According to information available, the census enumeration in Floydada and immediate vicinity is nearly to completion, and if the census enumerator has missed you, you are urged to get in touch with him. See that all members of your family, your business employes and co-workers, your relatives and your friends and neighbors are all included in the 1930 census.

Due to unemployment and lack of work in Floydada since the first of the year, particularly in the building lines, a hundred families or more have moved from Floyd County or have left the county temporarily. It is highly important that you and all of your family connections be listed in the census enumeration in order to give Floydada and Floyd County a good showing.

Transfer By Denver Is Effective This Year

All Counties On New Line Of Denver Will Benefit.

An increase of $300,000 or more in the taxable valuations of Floyd County, effective for the current taxable year, was made known as an assured fact this week by Wm. McGehee, County Judge and ex-officio presiding officer of the Commissioners' Court, when he made available the information that the Fort Worth & Denver Railway Company had obtained permission from the Tax Board to transfer nearly a million dollars of intangible values to its F. W. D. & S. P. line.

Letter Gives Information A letter written Tuesday of this week by Judge W. D. McKoy, tax and right of way agent of the Fort Worth & Denver lines, to Judge McGehee gave the information, which is the culmination of discussion and correspondence on the matter for the past few months between the two.

Judge McKoy's letter of this week, gave out Wednesday by Judge McGehee, says in part:

"I was at Austin last Friday attending a meeting of the Intangible Board. I succeeded in getting an agreement that $5,000 per mile of the assesses intangible against the Fort Worth & Denver City Railway Company be transferred to the Fort Worth & Denver South Plains new line. This will make your total assessment in Floyd County $13,425 per mile or a raise of $5,000 per mile over last year. I thank you much for your assistance in matter."

Low Tax Rate Helps "I wish to state that your low tax rate in Floyd County caused me to make special effort to accomplish this and I hope, with this raise and other raises you will naturally get, you will be able to keep it low."

Assessments made by Commissioners' Courts are based on tangible assets, whereas the tax which is being transferred to the new Denver lines is an intangible tax, made in the form of an assessment by a board at Austin annually, the figures for which are supplied the respective tax assessors for their rolls. Judge McKoy gives the information that the new intangible values which will be certified for Floyd County, will come out in June when such information is certified by the Intangible Board to county assessors. Intangible values for the other two railroads operating in Floyd County have been rendered heretofore for this county, but on account of the fact that the Denver south plains lines are operating under a lease to the parent line, the intangibles were assessed against that line last year.

While all counties touched by the new Denver lines will share in the million dollars of new valuations rendered for their respective miles of Floyd County, having the greatest mileage of any, will get the lion's share of the benefits. More than sixty miles of the 200 miles comprising the Denver's new lines are in this county.

Mrs. Champ Walters left Monday for Oklahoma City, to be with a sister who is very ill.

CHAPTER XII SYNOPSIS

Dissatisfied with the quiet life in his home surroundings, Athol Meldrum, young Scotsman who tells the story, leaves his mother and brother, Garry, to seek his fortune. At San Francisco, practically penniless, he takes a laborer's job and meets a fellow adventurer whom he dubs, and who is hereafter known as, the Prodigal.

The Prodigal is anxious to join the rush of gold seekers into Alaska, and Meldrum agrees to go with him after he (the Prodigal) comes back from a visit to his wealthy father in the East. Athol, in great need, is befriended by Jim Hubbard ("Salvation Jim"). When the Prodigal returns, the three men join the stampede into the Frozen North, the Prodigal and Hubbard financing the outfit.

Among the motley crowd on the boat is a young girl obviously out of place. She is traveling with her grandfather and a hard-looking couple named Winklestein, who figure as her uncle and aunt. Athol has an opportunity to befriend her, and she tells him a sad story of her life. She is journeying into Alaska to take care of her grandfather, who is obsessed with the idea of getting rich in Klondike. Her name, she tells him, is Berna.

Landing in Skagway, Athol's party at once takes the trail. In a snowslide on the Chilcoot trail, which Berna and her companions take, hundreds of lives are lost. Fearful for Berna's safety, Athol hastens to the scene. He finds the old man dead and learns that Berna is prostrated. Madam Winklestein refuses to let him see the girl, but he leaves a letter for her. At Bennett Berna comes to Athol confesses her love, and begs him to marry her, to save her from the harsh fate she foresees. He is unwilling to take such a decisive step, and tells her they must wait.

Some days afterward Berna tells Athol Madam Winklestein plans to sell her to "Black Jack" Locasto, millionaire miner of evil reputation. While realizing how greedily he loves the girl, Meldrum, in a mixture of emotions, flinches from the idea of immediate marriage, and they agree to wait a year, though Berna is fearful. Reaching the gold fields, Athol and his party find the claims all taken and the camp crowded with idle men.

Athol's party decides to stay and await developments. Unable to locate Berna, Athol seeks information from Locasto, "Black Jack" disclaims knowledge of her whereabouts, and later, evidently aware of the rivalry between them, lures Meldrum to a lonely spot and beats him into unconsciousness.

Through a lucky chance Athol finds Berna. She tells him she has so far evaded Locasto and will die before she yields to him. They set a date for their marriage, the first of June—Meldrum hoping to have made a stake by then—and part.

The Prodigal secures a claim and he, "Salvation Jim," and Athol begin work on it. The Winklesteins have opened a questionable resort known as the Paragon, and Berna is there, as a waitress. Athol greatly dislikes the idea of the girl in such an environment, but there seems no help for it.

A friend of the Prodigal and his partners locate what seems to them a "good thing." After months of unceasing labor the "strike" is made; the four men have won a small fortune. But the incessant work, and anxiety for Berna, has weakened Athol. On the fateful first of June, the day set for his union with Berna, he lies unconscious, in the clutches of typhoid fever.

In the hospital, recovering, Athol learns from Doogan, a fellow patient, that Berna is in the greatest danger from Locasto. Athol steals from the hospital and reaches the Winklestein cabin. There he faces Locasto, but is unable to save Berna. After a long convalescence Athol learns that Berna has been living with Locasto as his mistress,

Explaining his inability to keep his engagement, Athol pleads with her to forget the past and marry him, but she refuses, declaring herself unworthy. Athol threatens to join her in a life of sin, and on her continued refusal to marry him, does so. In the midst of his dissipation he is the victim of a woman's jealous rage, almost at the moment he learns of the death of his mother. Recovering, Athol finds himself in Berna's home. She persistently refuses to consider his offer of marriage, but gladly lives with him.

Two men were crawling over the winter-locked plain. One, the leader, was of great bulk and of a vast strength; while the other was small and wiry, of the breed that clings like a house to life while better men perish.

The small man was breaking trail. Down almost to his knees in the soft snow he sank at every step; yet ever he dragged a foot painfully upward, and made another forward plunge.

"Come on there, you darned little shrimp; get a move on you," growled the big man from within the frosted fringe of his parka. The little man started as if galvanized into sudden life. His eyes, thickly wadded with frost, glared out with the fear of a hunted beast.

"Curse him, curse him," he whimpered; but once more he lifted those leaden snowshoes and staggered on.

The big man lashed fiercely at the dogs, and as they screamed at his blows he laughed cruelly.

"Mush on there, you curs, or I'll cut you in two," he stormed, and the heavy whip fell on the yelling pack. They were pulling for all they were worth, their heads down, their shoulders squared, their breath came pantingly, their tongues gleamed redly, their white teeth shone.

Wearily and worn were men and dogs as they struggled onward in the growing gloom, but because of the feeling in his heart the little man no longer was conscious of bodily pain. It was black murder that raged there.

At last they reached the forest fringe, and after a few harsh directions the big man had the little one making camp. The little man worked with a strange willingness. As he gathered the firewood and filled the Yukon stove, he hummed a merry air. He produced sourdough bread (which he fried in bacon fat), and some dried moose-meat.

To men of the trail this was a treat. They ate ravenously, but they did not speak.

The silence was broken by a whinny and a scratching outside. It was the five dogs crying for their supper, crying for the frozen fish they had earned so well. They wondered why it was not forthcoming.

"Dog feed all gone?"
"Yep," said the small man.
"H—! I'll silence these brutes anyway."

He went to the door and laid on to them so that they slunk away into the shadows. But they did not bury themselves in the snow and sleep. They continued to prowl round the tent, hunger-mad and desperate.

Then rolling himself in a robe, the big man lay down and slept. The little man did not sleep. He was still turning over the thought that had come to him. Outside in the atrocious cold the whinnying malamutes crept nearer and nearer. In the agonies of hunger, they cried for fish, and there was none for them, only kicks and curses. They howled their woes to the weary men.

The little man crawled into his sleeping bag, but he did not close his eyes. He was watching.

About dawn he rose. An evil dawn it was, sallow, sinister and askew.

The little man selected the heavy-handed whip for the job. Carefully he felt its butt, then he struck. It was a shrewd blow and a neatly delivered, for the little man had been in the business before. It fell on the big man's head, and he crumpled up. Then the little man took some rawhide thongs and trussed up his victim.

He gathered up the rest of the provisions, made a pack of the food and lashed it on his back. Then, after a final look of gloating hate, he went off and left the big man to his fate. At last the Worm had turned.

The dogs were closing in. Nearer and nearer they drew. They wondered why their master did not wake; they wondered why the little tent was so still; why no plume of smoke rose from the slim stovepipe. All was oddly quiet and lifeless. Closer and closer they crept to the silent tent.

The man opened his eyes. Within a foot of his face were the fangs of a malamute. At his slight movement it drew back with a snarl, and retreated to the door. Locasto could see the other dogs crouching and eyeing him fixedly. What could be the matter? What had gotten into the brutes?

Where was the Worm? Where were the provisions? Why was the tent flap open and the stove smoking? Then with a dawning comprehension that he had been deserted, Locasto uttered a curse and tried to rise.

At first he thought he was stiff with cold, but a downward glance showed him his condition. He was helpless. He grew sick at the pit of his stomach, and glared at the dogs. They were drawing in on him. Their gleaming teeth snapped in his face. Violently he shuddered. He must try to free himself, so that he could fight.

Grimly the Worm had done his work, but he had hardly reckoned on the strength of this man. With a vast thought of fear he tried to free himself. Tenser, tenser grew the thongs; they strained, they bit into his flesh, but they would not break. Yet as he relaxed it seemed to him they were less tight. He made another giant effort. Once again he felt the thongs strain and strain; then, when he ceased, he imagined they were still looser.

The dogs seemed to have lost all fear. They smelled the blood on his head, and a slaver ran from their jaws. Again he cursed them, but this time they did not move. They seemed to realize he could not harm them.

Again he tried to get free. Now he fancied he could move his arm a little. He must hurry, for every instant the malamutes were growing bolder. Another strain and a wrench. Ha! he was able to squeeze his right arm from under the rawhide. Quickly he wrenched out his other arm. He was just in time, for the dogs were upon him.

He struggled to his knees and shielded his head with his arms. Wildly he swung at the nearest dog. Full on the face he struck it, and it shot back as if hit by a bullet. But the others were on him. Two of them were making for his face. As he lay on his back he gripped each by the throat. In his grip of steel they struggled to free themselves in vain. With his huge hands he was choking them, choking them to death, using them as a shield against the other three. Then slowly he worked himself into a sitting position. He hurled one of the dogs to the tent door. He swung bludgeon blows at the others. They fled yelping and howling.

Then he rose and freed himself from the remaining thongs. He was torn and cut bleeding, but he had triumphed.

"Oh, the devil!" he growled, grinding his teeth. "He's taken everything, the scum! left me to starve. Ha! one thing he's forgotten—the matches. At least I can keep warm."

He picked up the canister of matches and relit the stove.

"I'll kill him for this," he muttered. "Night and day I'll follow him. I'll camp on his trail till I find him. Then—I'll torture him; strip him and leave him naked in the snow."

He slipped into his snowshoes, gave a last look around to see that no food had been left, and with a final growl of fury he started in pursuit.

He had a thought of capturing the dogs and hitching them up; but thoroughly terrified, they had retreated into the woods. To overtake this man, to gulf his lust for revenge, he must depend on his own endurance.

So, with head bowed and shoulders sloping forward, Jack Locasto darted on the track of the Worm.

He came to where the fugitive had made a camp. There were the ashes of a fire.

"Curse him; he's got some matches after all," he said with bitter chagrin. Eagerly he searched all around in the snow to see if he could not find even a crumb of food. There was nothing. He pushed on. Night fell and he was forced to make camp.

Oh, he was hungry! "If I only had a tin to boil water in," he muttered; "there's lots of reindeer moss, and I could stew some of my mukluks. Ah, I'll try and roast a bit of them."

He cut a strip from the Indian boots he was wearing, and held it over the fire. The hair singed away and the corners crisped and charred. He put it in his mouth. It was pleasantly warm, but even his strong teeth refused to meet in it. However, he tore it into smaller pieces, and bolted them.

At last the dawn came, that evil, sneaking, corpse-like dawn, and Locasto flung himself once more on the trail. He was not feeling so fit now. Hunger and loss of blood had weakened him so that his stride insensibly shortened, and his step had lost its spring. However, he plodded on doggedly, an incarnation of vengeance and hate.

Beyond a doubt he was growing weaker. Once or twice he stumbled, and the last time he lay a few moments before rising. He wanted to rest badly. Then night came and he built another giant fire.

Again he bolted down some roasted mukluk. He had to make tremendous efforts to keep from sleeping. Several times he drowsed forward, and almost fell into the fire. At dawn the sky was leaden and the cold less despot. Stretching interminably ahead was that lonely snowshoe trail. Locasto was puzzled.

"Where in creation is the little devil going to, anyway?" he said, knitting his brows. "I figured he'd make direct for Dawson, but he's either changed his mind or got a wrong steer. By Heavens, that's it—the little varmint's lost his way."

Locasto had an Indian's unerring sense of location.

"I guess I can't afford to follow him any more," he reflected. "I've gone too far already. I'm all petered out. I'll have to let him go in the meantime. It's save yourself, Jack Locasto, while there's yet time. Me for Dawson."

There was a strange stillness in the air, not the natural stillness of the Wild, but an unhealthy one, as of a suspension of something, of a vacuum, of bated breath. It was curiously full of terror. Every second the horizon grew blacker, more bodiful, and Locasto stared at it, with a sudden quake at his heart.

"Blizzard!" he gasped. "I guess I'm done for. But I'll fight to the finish. I'll die game."

"I Guess I'm Done For, but I'll Fight to the Finish. I'll Die Game."

He lowered his head and butted desperately into the heart of the storm. He was faint from lack of food, but despair had given him a new strength, and he plunged through drift and flurry with the fury of a goaded bull. He knew his only plan was to keep moving, to stumble, stagger on, to fight for life. He had forgotten his thirst for revenge, forgotten everything but his own dire peril.

"Keep moving, keep moving for God's sake," he urged himself hoarsely. "You'll freeze if you let up a moment. Don't let up, don't rest! Every muscle in his body seemed to beg and pray for rest, yet the spirit in him drove them to work anew. He was making a certain mad headway, traveling, always traveling. He doubted not he was doomed, but instinct made him fight on as long as an atom of strength remained.

Where was he going? Maybe round in a circle. He was like an automaton now. He did not think any more, he just kept moving. His feet clumped up and down. He lifted himself out of snowdrifts; he staggered a few steps, fell, crawled on all fours in the darkness, then in a lull of the furious wind rose once more to his feet. The snow whirled around him in a narrow eddy, and he tried to grope out of it and failed. His feet were frozen; his arms were frozen. Here he would lie down and—quit. It would soon be over, and it was a pleasant death, they said.

Ha! what was that? He fancied he saw a dim glow just ahead. It could not be. He closed his eyes. Then he opened them again—the glow was still there.

Surely it must be real! It was steady. As he fell forward it seemed to grow more bright. On hands and knees he crawled to it. Brighter and brighter it grew. It was but a few feet away. Oh, God! could it be?

Then there was a lull in the storm, and with a final plunge Locasto fell forward, fell toward a lamp lighted in a window, well against the closed door of a cabin.

The halfbreed and I were paying a visit to Jim in the cabin he had built on Ophir. Jim was busy making ready for his hydraulic work of the coming spring, and once in a while we took a run down to see him. He was no longer the cheerful, optimistic Jim of the trail. He had taken to living alone. He had become grim and taciturn. He cared only for his work, and while he read his Bible more than ever, it was with a growing fondness for the stern old prophets. There was no doubt the North was affecting him strangely.

My mind strayed to other things. Chiefly I thought of Berna, all alone in Dawson. I longed to be back with her again. I thought of Locasto. Where in his wild wanderings had he got to? I thought of Gleanie and Garry. How had he fared after mother died?

Lord! a terrific gust of wind shook the cabin. Then there came a lull, a strange, deep lull, death-like after the mighty blast. And in the sudden quiet it seemed to me I heard a hollow cry.

"Hist! What was that?" whispered the halfbreed.

Jim, too, was listening intently. "Seems to me I heard a moan." Once more we listened intently, holding our breath. There it was again, a low, faint moan.

"It's some one outside," gasped the halfbreed. Horror-stricken, we stared at each other, then he rushed to the door.

"Hurry up, you fellows," he cried; "lend a hand. I think it's a man." Frantically we pulled it in, an unconscious form that struck a strange chill to our hearts. Anxiously we bent over it.

"He not dead," said the halfbreed, "only badly frozen, hands and feet and face. Don't take him near the fire."

He had been peering inside the parka hood and suddenly he turned to me.

"Well, I'm darned—it's Locasto." Locasto! I shrank back and stood there staring blankly. Horror crowded into Locasto's eyes.

"Lose my hand—don't tell me that! Kill me at once! I don't want to be maimed."

He gazed at the discolored flesh. Already the stench of him was making us sick, but this hand with its putrid tissues was disgusting to a degree.

Locasto lay staring at it. Then he sighed, and thrust his loathsomeness into our faces.

"Come on," he growled. "Hurry up and get the cursed thing off."

The halfbreed nicked the flesh down to the bone, then with a ragged jackknife he began to saw. I could not bear to look. It made me deathly sick. I heard the grit, grit of the jagged blade. I will remember the sound to my dying day. How long it seemed to take! No man could stand such torture. A groan burst from Locasto's lips. He fell back on the bed. He fainted.

Quickly the halfbreed finished his work. The hand dropped on the floor. He pulled down the flaps of skin and sewed them together.

"How's that for home-made surgery?" he chuckled. He took the severed hand upon a shovel and, going to the door, he threw it far out into the darkness.

you? There's the brand of a dog on you if you do. It don't matter what wrong he's done you, it's your duty as a man to help him. Come on. Get these mits off his hands."

Mechanically I obeyed him. It was as if I was impelled by a stronger will than my own. I began pulling of the mits. The man's hands were white as putty. I slit the sleeves and saw that the awful whiteness went clear up the arm. It was horrible. Tearing of my clothing we laid him on the bed and forced some brandy between his lips.

He moaned and opened his eyes in a wild gaze. He did not know us. He was still fighting the blizzard.

"Keep a-going, keep a-going," he panted.

"Keep that bucket a-going," said the halfbreed. "We've got to thaw him out."

Then for this man began a night of agony, such as few have endured. We lifted him onto a chair and put one of those clay-cold feet into the water. At the contact he screamed, and I could see ice crystallize on the edge of the bucket. I had forgotten my hatred of the man. I only thought of those frozen hands and feet, and how to get life into them, once more. Our struggle began.

In a terrible spasm of agony Locasto threw us off. We grasped him. He fought like a demon. He was cursing us, praying us to leave him alone, raving, shrieking. Grimly we held on, yet, all three, it was as much as we could do to keep him down.

It was hard, but keep him down we did; though his cries of anguish deafened us through that awful night, and our muscles knotted as we gripped. Hour after hour we held him, plunging now a hand, now a foot in the ice water, and holding it there. How long he fought! How strong he was! But the time came when he could fight no more. He was like a child in our hands.

There, at last it was done. We wrapped the tender flesh in pieces of blanket. We laid him moaning on the bed.

Next morning he was still unconscious. He suffered intense pain, so that Jim or the halfbreed had to be every by him. I, for my part, refused to go near. Indeed, I watched with a growing hatred his recovery. I wished he had died.

At last he opened his eyes, and feebly he asked where he was. After the halfbreed had told him, he lay silent awhile.

"I've had a close call," he groaned. Then he went on triumphantly: "I guess the Wild hasn't got the bulge on me yet. I can give it another round."

He began to pick up rapidly, and beheld him grow strong again. I suppose my face must have showed my bitter hate. I thought of Berna. Fear and loathing convulsed me, and at times a great rage burned in me so that I was like to kill him.

"Seems to me everything's healing up but that hand," said the halfbreed. "I guess it's too far gone. Gangrene's setting in. Say, Locasto, looks like you'll have to lose it."

Horror crowded into Locasto's eyes.

"Lose my hand—don't tell me that! Kill me at once! I don't want to be maimed."

He gazed at the discolored flesh. Already the stench of him was making us sick, but this hand with its putrid tissues was disgusting to a degree.

Locasto lay staring at it. Then he sighed, and thrust his loathsomeness into our faces.

"Come on," he growled. "Hurry up and get the cursed thing off."

Amazed! Way Tanlac Relieves Stomach Troubles

For years the remarkable results obtained from Tanlac in the treatment of general rundown conditions have amazed its users, but most surprising of all is the quick relief this remarkable medicine gives in cases of "rheumatism" and stomach ills that yield to nothing else.

Men and women who thought themselves beyond human aid, who suffered for years with pains from stomach and bowel troubles, neuritis, chronic headaches, dizziness, sleeplessness, constipation, who saw themselves daily going down into a sickly early old age have through the amazing stimulating and cleansing action of this REAL MEDICINE, Tanlac, found themselves once more in the possession of a strong healthy stomach and a body free from pain. One user says, "I suffered tortures from muscular rheumatism but after taking Tanlac for a couple of weeks I was over the rheumatism, my kidneys acting fine, my digestion in apple-pie order." Try it—get a bottle from the nearest drugist. Satisfaction guaranteed or money back. Accept no substitute.

Nurse Tells How CARDUI Helped Her

Mrs. W. A. Cox, a well-known professional nurse, of Burnside, Ky., writes: "I was in very bad health, and only weighed 110 pounds. I read in the papers about Cardui, and thought I would give it a try-out. After I had taken one bottle, I could see that I was improving. After I had taken it a month or two, I began to gain, and I weigh at present 168, and have weighed that for some time. I am now 55 years old, and can do as much work as the average middle-aged woman can.

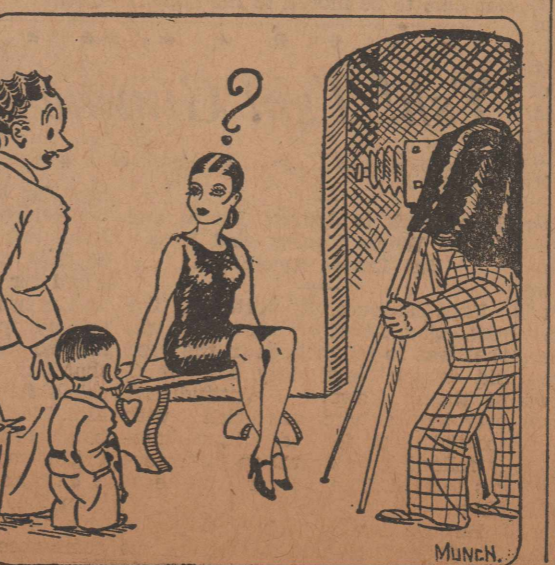

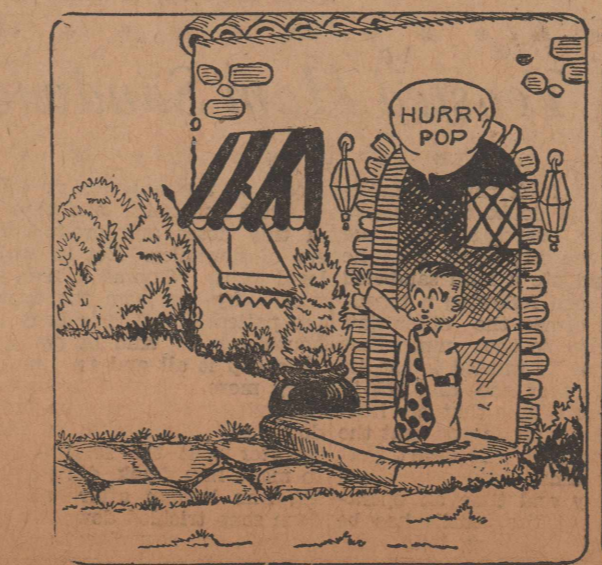

"I would advise any woman, who is weakly and in a run-down condition, to try Cardui, but not to expect one bottle to make her well. I take two or three bottles a year, now, and I feel fine."

The Value of an Education

We hear so much about—the value of an education. We may all of us KNOW the value of an education, BUT do we actually REALIZE its value to us?

The figures in the above chart graphically demonstrate the value of an education. They furnish much food for thought.

The figures were prepared by the Bureau of Education of the United States government, and show the AVERAGE earning capacity of

1. People with no schooling—average earning—$400.00 to $1200.00 a year.
2. People with common school education—average earning—$600.00 to $1500.00 a year.
3. People with High School education—average earning—$850.00 to $2450.00 a year.
4. People with some College training—average earning—$1400.00 to $5000.00 a year.
5. College graduates—average earning—$6000.00 a year.

NOTE that these figures are based on AVERAGE earning CAPACITY. There are, on the other hand, many examples of successful men and women in the business world, with little, or no actual school education. These exceptions, however, but prove the rule.

Education MULTIPLIES the chances of success in life. It INCREASES OUR PERCENTAGE for success. SCHOOLING is one of the most profitable investments a person can make!

Education also increases our ability to grasp and enjoy “the better things of life.”

The endorsers of this page realize that education creates A HIGHER STANDARD OF LIVING; a demand for BETTER LIVING CONDITIONS, and hence tends to make for the betterment of the community and the betterment of business in

SPEEDING DRIVERS DRAW ATTENTION OF OFFICIALS

Sunday last was field day at Floydada for the joy riders, local officials declared this week.

For a time Sunday afternoon was dangerous for the average family out for a pleasant airing to drive in the general vicinity of the pay area. Several citizens complained. During the afternoon, one car claimed by eyewitnesses to be speeding, came to grief on the 300 block of South Main Street, when it struck a parked car belonging to George Finkner in front of Mrs. G. Goen's apartment. Two little girls were playing in the car and one of them, Mary Emma Collins, sustained a severe cut on the face from flying glass.

Harold Merrick, Edwin Barnes and Buck Bishop were the occupants of the car which struck the parked motor vehicle. None of them suffered more than slight injury. The unusual number of speeders has resulted in a warning issued by City Marshal R. D. Smith this week.

Jack McCown, of Whitney, came Monday for a visit with Roy Enbank.

FLOYD COUNTY

Develops Substantially With A Growing Enterprise

$46,950

Realized by Floyd County Farmers
During the month of March from just THREE Items—

$46,950 { Cream $18,450
Eggs $22,500
Poultry $6,000

The wide-awake, progressive farmers of Floyd County are making substantial progress—they are making this community sound, both financially and agriculturally through a substantial income EVERY MONTH from a diversified farm program. Why, from just CREAM, EGGS, and POULTRY one-twentieth of a million dollars was realized in ONE MONTH to "keep the home fires burning!" And practically all of the poultry sales were "culls" since March is considered an off-month by poultry raisers.

Floyd County citizens recognize the value of economy. The farmers and their families have turned a "pin money" proposition into a bread and meat income provider. Practical—sound—economical business methods on the farms are making FLOYD COUNTY A SUBSTANTIAL COUNTY.

WE ENDORSE THIS PRACTICE THAT ASSURES A SUBSTANTIAL FUTURE.

Work of Club Members To Be Broadcast.

Mrs. C. R. Buchanan, chairman of publicity of the Seventh District Federation of Women's Clubs, gives the following information in regard to the broadcasting of the work of club members which will be of interest to club women of Floyd County:

Mrs. R. F. Lindsey, state president of the Texas Federation of Women's Clubs, is seeking to give publicity to her programs of health and beautification. Cooperation is being sought through the medium of communication with the various clubs, the radio, and the press.

It is only a bit of service for each of these agencies and individually it amounts to but little, but the team-work counts for a great deal. When the results of the combined efforts of all have been accomplished these policies will be sufficiently disseminated, and our good Texas citizens will be observing the two programs and in so doing will be making ours a better state in which to live.

Station WFAA is kindly giving one hour, beginning at 10:00 o'clock on the first Thursday morning of each month, to broadcasting for the Texas Federation of Women's Clubs. Club women are cordially invited to send whatever message they may wish to be broadcast to their District Chairman of Radio, who in turn sends it to the state chairman of radio, and the state chairman transmits it to the supervisor of the station above mentioned. Your message should be in the hands of the state chairman of radio as early as the 25th of the month preceding the first Thursday of the next month. May we not listen in, when our turn comes, and be informed of the many worth while things the women of Seventh District are doing? Who will be the first? Send your message to Mrs. Lee Patton, Jayton, Texas, Chairman of Radio for Seventh District.

Oil Enriches Veteran Of The School Room

Brady, Texas, April 14 (UP).—For 42 years C. A. Peterson, 68 years old, taught the three R's. His hair is now white, his vision bolstered by a pair of strong glasses and his enthusiasm perhaps isn't what it was when he stepped into a school room as a youngster in West Virginia.

But the veteran teacher has accomplished what few followers in his profession have been able to do. For he has added a fourth "R"—riches. During his years as a teacher he had accumulated a small farm of 300 acres in Fort Bend County, on which there now is a 1,100-barrel producing oil well with other wells to be drilled.

His service in Texas has been at Hallettsville for seven years, Yoakum 11 years, Kingsville three years, and Eastland six years. He has been in Brady, superintendent of schools, for the last five years.

It is with regret that he leaves the teaching profession, but he said he is tired and that 42 years of dealing with the many problems that arise in handling school systems is enough. His work, he said, has always been pleasant, never dull, and always interesting. He doesn't know just what he will do. There might be a course in college that he would like to take or perhaps he might try an experiment in education if his lands produce sufficient revenue.

for Economical Transportation

it's wise to choose a SIX!

There is one sure way to get greater value in a low-priced car today—choose a Six!

This greater value is instantly obvious when you drive a Chevrolet Six. You notice first of all its greater smoothness. There is no tremor in the steering wheel—no rattle in the floor boards—no rumble or drumming in the body.

In addition to the finer performance of its six-cylinder motor, the new Chevrolet gives you truly remarkable economy.

Its six-cylinder smoothness saves the entire car from the strain and wear of vibration. This, of course, lowers the cost of maintenance and assures a longer-lasting, longer-satisfying automobile.

From the standpoint of operating expense, Chevrolet is equally economical. No other automobile consumes less gasoline and oil. No other shows a lower expense for tires. And no other car costs less for service. Because of its modern engineering, Chevrolet also assures a high resale value.

Chevrolet gives you fully-enclosed, weather-proof, 4-wheel brakes; a modern fuel system—with the gasoline tank mounted in the rear; four long semi-elliptic springs, mounted lengthwise in the direction of car travel. It gives you beautiful Fisher bodies built of combination hardwood-and-steel. It gives you a heavy, rigidly-braced channel-steel frame. And it gives you a full ball bearing steering mechanism.

“Why have air in your tires at all— if you bury it under a lot of needless weight and bulk?”

Yours, J. M. Gullion

ANY MANUFACTURER CAN MAKE a tire that will give long mileage, by piling on a lot of stiff, heavy material. But that superfluous weight kills the cushioning effect of the air. The trick our ablest tire engineers have been studying for years is how to get more real air-cushioning and amazingly long mileage in the same tire. And in these new-type Federal Tire you see the answer—big, plump tire—with a 12% larger cushion of air—with a longer, stronger, yet more flexible side wall—with a new rim-wide full-contact Tread—with a life expectancy of 50,000 miles and more—sold on a “Money-Back” Guarantee.

FEDERAL

It's the most startling tire development ever made. If you want air-cushioned riding comfort at the lowest cost per mile, come in and see the Federal story.

Oklahoma Boosters To Be In Floydada Latter Part Of May

Oklahoma City, April 14.—The Twenty-Ninth Annual Godwill Tour of the Oklahoma City Chamber of Commerce this year will extend through Southwest Oklahoma and West Texas, passing through Floydada it was announced today by Ed Overholser, president. Dates of the tour are May 12-17 inclusive. More than 125 representative Oklahoma City business and professional men will fill a special train making the circuit. The Floydada stop will be made May 15.

Among the first to make reservations for the trip are: Governor W. J. Holloway, Dr. W. B. Bizzell, president of Oklahoma University; Dr. H. G. Bennett, president of Oklahoma A & M College, Mayor Walter Dean of Oklahoma City and Ed Overholser, president of the Oklahoma City Chamber of Commerce. Others making the trip will include the presidents and managers of the leading business institutions of Oklahoma City.

Night stops are scheduled at Wichita Falls, Abilene and Lubbock, Texas, and at Altus and Clinton, Oklahoma, in the order named.

"Recent freight rate decisions and highway development have promoted closer social contacts through the territory to be covered by this year's tour," Overholser said. "There is a rapidly growing community of interest between the cities in this territory. The purpose of this tour is to cultivate that interest, promote better understanding and acquaintance and to establish those personal contacts by means of which people are enabled to work together in harmony in a common cause."

"The common cause of these cities along the route of the tour is the advancement of this vast territory, already making the greatest economic development of any section of the country."

"Oklahoma City has the same interest as the other communities in this development program, hence this get-acquainted tour."

SURVEY POSTAL SITES

Amarillo, Texas, April 14 (UP).—Eight Panhandle towns are included in the proposed survey of 40 Texas towns for location of new postoffice buildings. Senator Tom Connally reported towns with receipts of over $20,000 annually, that do not have their own buildings, will be eligible for a new structure. Special treasury department representatives will survey Borger, Childress, Dalhart, Lamesa, Memphis, Pampa Plainview and Quanah according to word received here.

Road Across State of Texas Now Is Visioned

Increased Federal Aid Will Be Boon To Road Building Activities, Says Moody.

Austin, Texas, April 14 (UP).—Translated from figures into roads, the recent increase of $3,000,000 a year in federal road aid to Texas means a highway across the state in any direction during the three-year period for which the appropriations are made.

Governor Dan Doody figured it out with a ruler and a map. With the $3,000,000 increase for this year alone, he figured, it will be possible to build a road that would extend by airline from Dallas to the University of Texas oil fields or from Dallas to Plainview. It would be equivalent to an airline concrete road from Fort Worth to Amarillo, Fort Worth to Odessa, Fort Worth through Texarkana into Arkansas, or Fort Worth to Corpus Christi. Figured from San Antonio the increased fund would build an airline concrete road from the Alamo to Pecos, Lubbock, Wichita Falls, Paris or Marshall. If Houston is taken as the central point, the new fund would provide a road through Laredo or into Mexico; a road to San Angelo or Wichita Falls.

The total $22,000,000 of federal road aid will be enough for 800 miles of concrete road, the Governor estimated. In practice the federal funds are supplemented by similar funds raised by the State and similar funds raised by counties or road districts. Trebled this way, 2,400 miles of road building is in sight for the three years—the greatest program ever attempted by any State.

The increased road appropriation for Texas, Governor Moody said, he believed is due to the representations made to President Hoover by himself and the Texas State Highway Commissioners when the President called on states to give an estimate of what public work could be undertaken to stabilize business. Governor Moody and the commissioners then suggested that if the federal government would increase its road aid apportionments the states would match the funds and institute large programs.

The fund now apportioned to Texas is greater than that given to any other state. It can be used only on federal designated highways. Of these there are 11,694 miles in the State.

(Continued from page 1—this sec.) The mechanical part of home building should be as efficiently handled as possible. The non-essentials should be "weeded out" and the outside of the house should receive as much attention as the inside. Tourists and people who see only the outside of the homes judge the people who reside there by the exterior appearance of their buildings, so too much care cannot be taken in making the houses attractive.

Miss Murray also brought out points on the care and growth of the proper kinds of shrubbery. She also touched on marketing and emphasized the fact that the home demonstration women are daily increasing their knowledge on diet improvement and that they are interested in reducing costs by raising something on the farm that will actually produce a steady income.

In discussing farm income Miss Murray used as an example the success attained by Mrs. D. S. Battey of Harmony community. Mrs. Battey has realized over a period of seven years an annual average profit of $501.10 from her flock of White Leghorn hens. She started operations eight years ago with 75 baby chicks and the next year she had 30 hens for her original flock. Today Mrs. Battey has 658 hens and over 800 chicks. She has aspirations of building her flock to 900 layers.

"Ships We Are Building" Mrs. Charles B. Smith of Harmony made a most inspirational talk on "Ships That the Home Demonstration Clubs Are Building." The ten "ships" listed by Mrs. Smith were as follows: Workmanship, fellowship, acquaintanceship, friendship, sportsmanship, partnership, salesmanship, leadership, citizenship and stewardship.

She brought out how the "ships" are developing better fed, better clothed families that are realizing larger returns from their labors. She used poster illustrations to demonstrate her excellent points and she graphically outlined the program of home demonstration work.

"Through workmanship we are realizing more efficient homes and better trained children," she remarked. "Association in the clubs means association with 20,000 other club women of the state in addition to the thousands over the nation. Fellowship aids us in getting acquainted in our community, in the county, in the state, and in the nation—and what is even a greater satisfaction we become better acquainted with ourselves. With sportsmanship the ability to take a victory or a loss is developed, and we learn the value of sticking to our project, club or undertaking—of seeing the job through."

"Partnership develops understanding of the homes and groups. Salesmanship comes in when the club woman 'sells' the club work to her neighbor. Development of leadership is important for there is never a surplus of leaders. Citizenship stands for clean hearts, clear heads and community friendship."

"Stewardship represents the big ship and all the other little ships are the life boats—all standing for stewardship." The morning session Wednesday Mrs. George Linder of Floydada made an excellent address on "The Dean of Girls' School." Dr. Mary Henry Lockney discussed "Vaccines and Serums" on the morning program also.

Highlights of the program of entertainment were the numbers by the Comanche Band, a group of intermediate grade students of Sand Hill school. The youngsters were appropriately dressed in Indian costumes and they entertained the visitors with several musical selections on their harmonicas and Jew's harps. They were heartily encored. The Sand Hill Kitchen Band also came in for their share of compliments for their unique numbers on their still more unique kitchen "instruments," under the direction of Mrs. Maggie Tinnin. The women were dressed in a striking uniform of red capes and white skirts.

Other numbers on the program were as follows: Song, "America," led by Mrs. Angus of Floydada; prayer, by Mrs. Kenneth Bain of Floydada; welcome address, Mrs. W. E. Miller, president of the Sand Hill Home Demonstration Club; response, Mrs. Will Snell of Blanco, president of the County Council of Women's Home Demonstration Clubs; talk, "The Right Use of Leisure," Mrs. R. C. Hathcock, teacher in the Lockney schools; address, "Laws of Observances," Miss Irene Angell, teacher of English, Lockney.

State Agent Not Present Miss Mildred Horton, State Home Demonstration Agent, College Station, who was scheduled to make a talk at the meetings was unable to attend on account of illness.

Members of the nominating committee for new officers included Mrs. Linder of Floydada, Mrs. Miller of Sand Hill, Mrs. R. D. Harper of Sand Hill, Mrs. Robin Baker of Lockney, and Mrs. Mal Jarbo of Campbell.

During the afternoon session, Mrs. Angus of Floydada read a beautiful tribute to the memory of Mrs. F. T. Collins of Amarillo, who died February 16. The late Mrs. Collins had held numerous state offices in the federal clubs and served in 1927-28-29 as president of the Seventh District, in which Floyd County clubs are federated.

A rising vote of thanks, moved by Mrs. Bain of Floydada, was given to Sand Hill for the wonderful manner in which they had entertained the members of the club during the day. A rising vote of thanks was extended Mrs. Bethel, retiring president, for her wonderful and faithful work during the past year. Mrs. Linder made the motion for the vote. Mrs. Bethel responded with a few words of gratification for the great spirit of cooperation that had been shown during her presidency.

S. W. Ross, secretary of the Floydada Chamber of Commerce attended the afternoon session and made a short talk commending the women and their accomplishments, and expressed pleasure at being able to attend.

The Sand Hill Club was host at the noon lunch.

Following are the clubs representing and the number of delegates reported present: 1922 Study Club, Floydada, 11; 1929 Study Club, Floydada, 6; Sand Hill Home Demonstration Club, 21; South Plains Home Demonstration Club, 9; Lockney East Side P. T. A., 4; Andrews Ward, P. T. A., Floydada, 3; Lockney El Progreso, 4; Campbell Home Demonstration Club, 5; Roseland Home Demonstration Club, 11; Blanco Home Demonstration Club, 2; Pleasant Valley Home Demonstration Club, 2; Antelope Home Demonstration Club, 9; Lakeview Home Demonstration Club, 2. There were about 100 visitors present.

Miss Peggy Morris, associate editor of Farm and Ranch, Dallas, was in attendance and made a short talk. She is making a tour of ten West Texas Counties and is accompanying Miss Murray. Miss Morris is gathering material for

Wives Of Members Invited To Attend C. Of C. Meet Monday

President J. B. Jenkins Calls Session To Review Activities For Past Quarter.

Wives of the members of the Floydada Chamber of Commerce have been invited to attend the called meeting for the first quarter in the County Court room Monday night, April 21, at 8 o'clock. J. B. Jenkins, president has announced. The women will be given an opportunity to express their view on any matter pertaining to the interest of Floydada and will join in a round table discussion of projects under way at this time.

It was voted at the Chamber of Commerce meeting in January to hold open meetings once each quarter for the purpose of reviewing the work that has been accomplished during the quarter and to outline the activities to be undertaken.

"It is hoped that this meeting will be well attended as there are some matters to be discussed that are of interest to all the citizens of our community. The Chamber of Commerce is anxious to have the cooperation of all the civic organizations of the city as we realize our efforts can be of more benefit if we all work in unison," said S. W. Ross, secretary.

"The women are invited to attend this meeting as well as the men and it is hoped that each member will bring his wife along with him to this meeting as the women will be given an opportunity to express their views on any matter pertaining to the interests of Floydada."

"The Chamber of Commerce has accomplished some of the objectives set out the first of the year but we are very anxious to undertake some things we have not yet attempted on our program. All members and their wives are urged to attend, and any others that are interested in the upbuilding of Floydada," Mr. Ross announced.

feature and news stories for her publication and found some excellent material in Floyd County, in which she is especially interested, she said.

Miss Murray and Miss Morris left Wednesday night for Plainview where they are spending this Thursday.

Miss Horton will attend the one-day course at Canyon, a telegram to Miss Strange this Thursday morning stated. Miss Horton stated that her mother had died, and that it was because of her mother's serious illness that she could not attend the Floyd County meeting.

Mrs. Leon Hart, of Friona, spent the week-end with her mother, Mrs. W. A. Amburn.

Miss Murray Favors Use Of West Texas Shrubbery In Yards

District Home Demonstration Agent Suggests Use of Cactus, Yucca Plants; Praises Miss Strange.

Use native shrubbery if you would like to have pretty yards around your homes in Floyd County is the suggestion of Miss Myrtle Murray, District Home Demonstration Agent, College Station, who spoke before the Floyd County Federation of Women's Clubs Wednesday, April 16, at Sand Hill.

Miss Murray was sincere in advocating the planting or transplanting of cactus, algerita, and other plants that are found in West Texas. "The mesquite, yucca, and bear grass may be used to a wonderful advantage if just a little attention is paid to the landscaping and terracing in the yards," she declared.

"I find people in West Texas taking a great deal of pride and even more time in trying to cultivate as yard and pot plants the shrubbery that thrives in an entirely different section of the state, and West Texans try to do the same thing with East Texas trees and plants."

"Take the natural greenery of West Texas if you would have the best success in making pretty yards," she advised.

Miss Murray praised highly the work being done in Floyd County Home Demonstration Clubs and in Floyd County homes by Miss Marie Strange, County Home Demonstration Agent. "We are especially proud of the work being done in this county. The women go about their work in the right way and they know how to get results as is attested by the large number of honors they have been winning in the state contests. There is not a better county in the state when it comes to home demonstration work, and Miss Strange is giving some splendid assistance to the department of A. & M. College, which sponsors the home demonstration work," Miss Murray concluded.

Miss Peggy Morris, who accompanied Miss Murray, was making her first trip to the Plains. "I think this section of the state is fascinating," she said. "I like the folks out here—and my! how I love their spirit."

Good Crowd Attends First Presentation Of Little Theatre

New Organization Will Give Second Play Before Close of First Season.

More than three hundred people had the pleasure last Friday evening of witnessing the first presentation by the Floydada Little Theatre players at the High School Auditorium. "Her Husband's Wife" was the title of the three act drama presented under the auspices of the Andrews Ward P. T. A.

The first efforts of the newly organized Little Theatre players were well received by the audience, and the general opinion by the audience was that the organization had been fully justified in its first presentation.

Mrs. Gladys Adkins, experienced dramatic coach, directed the play and the able playing by the members of the cast reflected excellent work. Mrs. C. H. Davis, Mrs. C. M. Thacker, Miss Anna Marie Moore, Roy A. Holmes, E. S. Randerson and J. C. Gilliam were the members of the cast and each portrayed their respective parts excellently.

Organized sixty days ago, under the sponsorship of the 1929 Study Club, the Floydada Little Theatre has some sixty members. J. C. Gilliam is president of the new organization and O. P. Rutledge is business manager.

The excellent reception and encouragement afforded the Little Theatre Players in their first efforts last week prompted the announcement this week that another play would be presented in the near future. It is planned for the 2nd play to be given directly following the closing exercises of the Floydada schools in May. The reading committee is at work on the selection of a play and the name of the play and the cast will be announced shortly, it was stated.

Sunday School Lesson

THE RESURRECTION

The International Uniform Sunday School Lesson for April 20. The Resurrection a Reality.—John 20:1-16.

Our lesson deals with the beautiful story of the coming of Mary Magdalene to the tomb of Jesus early in the morning and finding the stone rolled away. Perplexed and troubled, Mary hurried to Simon Peter and to John, breathlessly telling of her discovery. Vigorous John outran impulsive Peter and reached the tomb first, but only looked in while Peter, always ready and daring, went right into the tomb.

The human touches and contrasts in the narrative are very interesting. Not only, have we the suggested temperamental differences between Peter and John, but we have an impression of the delicacy of the deeper devotion of mournful Mary. The two disciples had gone away to their home, but Mary lingered and stood outside the tomb weeping. It was here that she had the vision of two angels sitting one at the head and one at the feet where the body of Jesus had lain, and then as she turned away after responding to their questioning, Jesus repeated their question, "Woman, why wepest thou?" and revealed himself to her.

Recognizing the Divine

It is interesting that Mary should have supposed him to be the gardener, and somewhat strange that she should not have recognized his voice, even though in the probable dusk of the morning she might not have sufficiently discerned his form. Is not that itself suggestive of the way in which the divine touches our lives? It is so close to the human and to our human impressions, and so often we are discovering God where we had looked only for something with human limitations.

The title of our lesson, "The Resurrection a Reality," suggests the question in what sense it is a reality. Is our belief in the Resurrection merely a belief in the integrity of the records, or it a deeply spiritual faith? Could we believe in the reality of the risen Lord if some day we should become convinced that these appearances after his death, so very real and convincing to the disciples, were spirited rather than physical? Has the Resurrection for us some deeper significance in our experience and in our conscience of the living presence of Jesus that goes beyond the questions of historical and literary criticism?

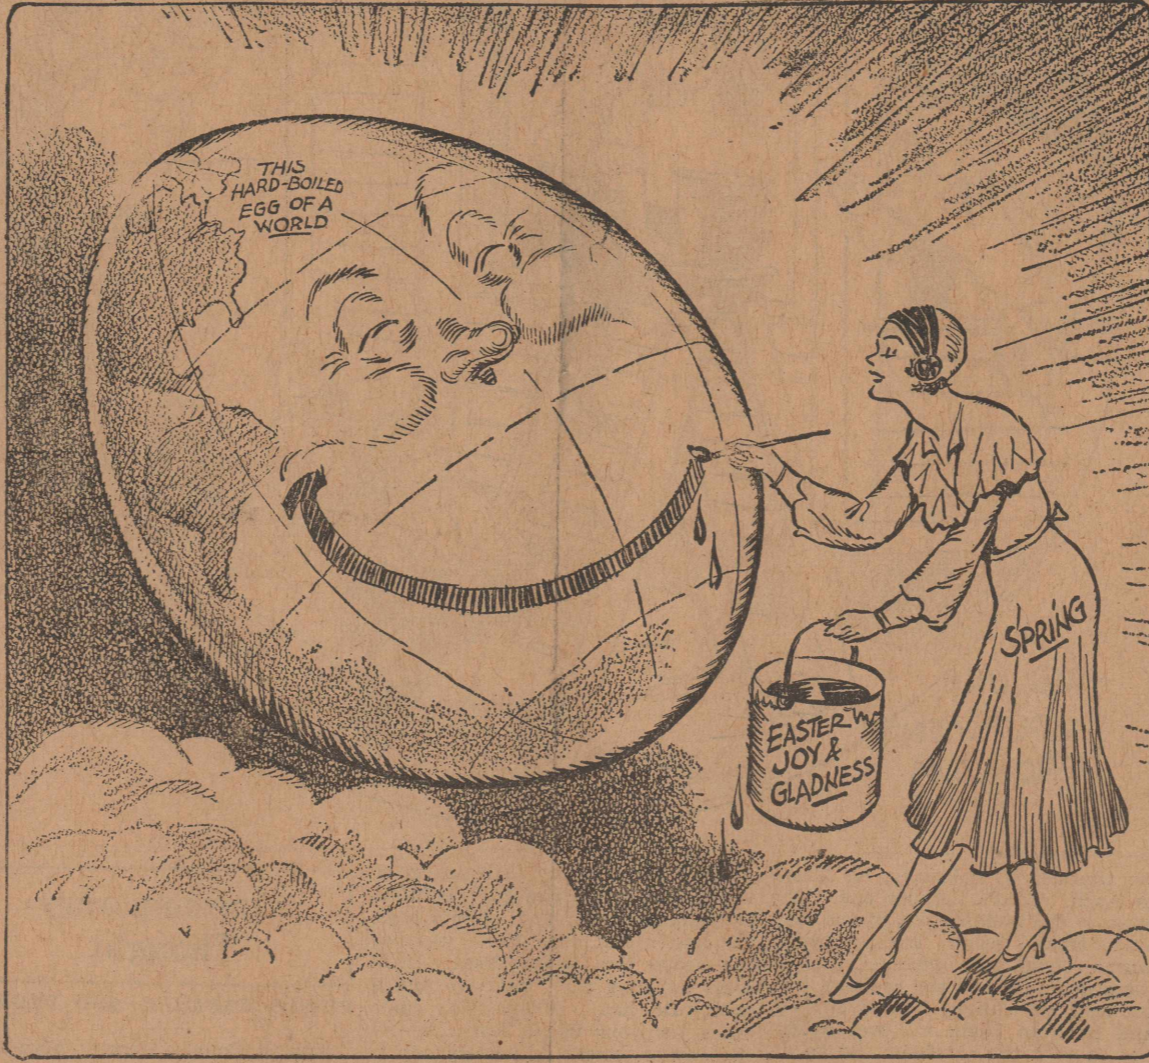

The great outstanding fact in the history of the Christian Church is that the disciples, who were discouraged and about to be dispersed after the crucifixion of Jesus, suddenly had their faith re-established and their fellowship quickened into a new reality and integrity that constituted the historic foundation of the Christian Church. Jesus had become real to them—more real even than during their contact with him in his earthly life, for now they had come to understand his teachings as they had not quite understood it then.

The Resurrection in its spiritual and mystical reality is inseparable from Christian faith and experience. Men will probably always differ as they do today regarding their conception of the nature of the historic facts and regarding the interpretation. This difference of ideas is becoming more and more inevitable in an age that tends increasingly to lay stress upon the outward facts and forms and more stress upon the inward realities of religion.

TOWNSITE OIL WELLS

J. G. Wood returned last week from Olney and Graham, where he spent some three weeks with his mother and transacting business. Both Olney and Graham are beginning to take on added interest as townsite oil towns. Mr. Wood said, Olney already having quite a little pool developed inside the city limits, and a new pool was opened just at the edge of Graham in the past two weeks by the bringing in of a good well.

Motto

Our School: May she always be right; but our school, right or wrong.

FRIENDSHIP

One cannot go far in life without entering upon partnership. We need each other in what ever we undertake, and the man who attempts to sneak through life without giving a fair exchange for what he receives should be held for larceny.

In business and politics one cannot choose his partners but in our partnership in friendship the choice is ours alone. As a result the character of a man is almost infallibly revealed by the friends he makes.

The partnership agreement between friends is hardly a legal document and might not stand in court but it is very real and very binding nevertheless. Even when it is broken by one party through illness or absence or carelessness this does not release the other party from the obligations entered into, but rather calls for a more scrupulous observance on his part to dissolve it. No friendship was ever broken without the aid and consent of both parties thereto.

Life holds few sadder experiences than the dissolving of long friendship that have yielded inspirations, kindness, and mutual profits. The loss of a friend is rightly counted as one of life's tragedies.

From the day when first we start, Each in life to play his part, Till we reach that perfect place Where all toll and Care shall cease Fate can nothing better send Than a true and loyal friend.

—Wanda Teeple.

To The Editors of The Hesperette Knowing that you are always interested in an opening for an investment in a good live business proposition, I take the liberty of presenting to you what seems to be an excellent business proposition. The object of this company is to operate a large cat ranch at Goodnight, near the Buffalo ranch where land can be purchased cheaply.

To start, we will collect 100,000 cats. Each cat will average twelve kittens a year. The skins will sell for ten cents for the white ones and seventy-five cents for the pure black ones. We will have about 12,000,000 skins to sell at an average of 30 cents making our revenue about $110,000 a day gross.

A man can skin fifty cats a day. He will charge $2.00 a day for his work. It will take about one hundred men to operate the ranch; therefore the profits will be $9,800 a day.

We will feed the cats on rats and will start a rat ranch adjoining the cat ranch. The rats will multiply about four times as fast as the cats, and if we start with about 100,000 rats we will have four rats a day for each cat, which is plenty.

We will feed the cats on rats, and in turn will feed the rats on striped carcasses of the cats, thus giving each rat one fourth of a cat.

It will be seen by these figures that the business will be self acting and automatic. The cats will eat the rats, and the rats will eat the cats, and we will get the skins. Make check to my order. Don't bother about having the check certified.

Your truly, Skinnum Whenuyocan. —Virginia Nickels.

Odors

Oh boy, what odors. If you wuz in the 8th period English class you would have to have the doors barred because of the odors coming from the food room.

Oh, them odors, ain't they grand? Some of 'em you can't stand.

Like Little Jack Horner

As the scents came around the corner

Oh, boy, I think I'll pretty soon die

If I can't go to the food room to get some apple pie.

Oh boy, those big steaks.

With bones in 'em you can't break

And now ladies and gents I must go

I smell some more of that good apple pie doe.

—F. C. Harmon, Jr.

Freshmen Class Properly

One Spring afternoon, when the world seemed to be wearing that giggling smile which always accompanies Spring, Winter and Fall, I wandered down by a clear brook and sat down in the shade of a large elm tree. I sat all alone gazing into the clear brook. Suddenly little Finkle Bell, who will always be remembered as the little fairy in Peter Pan appeared. He murmured stowed-like,

"While the sun in heaven (Hic) O'er this magic (hic) mirror shines The future deeds and fortunes of all (Hic) therein you'll find." As I was especially interested in my classmates, I tried to find them first.

Well, and well, if there wasn't our class president, Waldo Houghton, but no longer a class president. Waldo held the crown for the heavyweight boxing title of the world.

Mrs. Adkins had gone to England where she was attempting to add and subject the illustrious English "h" to her enunciation; but sorry to say she got one glimpse of the Prince of Killcrochesenkicket, lord of the house of Blah, and her heart was immediately lost. Mrs. Adkins was living in Scotland doing the Highland Fling for health's sake.

Louise Conner was so taken up with her household cares that she could not spare much of her time, but she was keeping house on the farm for insane rats.

Mary Louise Thurmon, the fattest girl in the class, was climbing the Alps to reduce.

Guy Ginn could be seen training little dressed up fleas how to Charleston.

The official dog-catcher of Muncy was none other than our friend, Mr. William Barnett, who had since married Miss Charlotte Reese. Elwood Patty in his great speech before Congress was asking for celluloid curling irons to be installed in each school for the benefit of the ladies.

And Mary Ann Kimble was listening intently for she was the lady promoting the worthy cause.

Floyd Murry and Mrs. Murry were missionaries to China, but sorry to say Floyd was devouring all the food sent to the starving Chinks.

Lloyd Murry was the best known minister in South Plains, and his wife, none other than Norine Spence, was selling washing powders to provide for the large family.

Elton Goen was putting his left leg over his right shoulder and tictling his ears with his jaw bone in order to obtain a bite to eat.

Wanda Teeple had at least got enough to eat, and never complained about being hungry, for she was playing at the footlights of the Ziegfield's follies.

Kinder Farris was piloting the Graf Zeppelin around the world. Kinder had become awfully rich—he cleaned up on the Florida real estate.

I saw a sign board which read thus: "The Thinnest woman in the world." I became engrossed in this peculiar sign and paid the great sum of five cents to get a glimpse of Missy Hen Harris. Mary Hen explained how she had gained her title—she had kept house for Forrest Fry for one year.

Mr. Davis, our competent sponsor, was president of the Mexican kindergarten at Juarez. Here Mr. Davis had trained an excellent play ground ball team, and was touring the United States to get money for the poor oppressed monkeys of South America.

John Edwards Smith had become the "Beau Braummels" of Eva Glynn Mooney.

Adele McRoberts was doing fancy skating in the Alps mountains.

Then whom should I behold—a member of our class had married into nobility. It was none other than A. C. Goen who had married princess of Ethiopia.

Well, as for me, I was declared hopeless by a famous physician, I. A. M. A. Nutt (but don't let on).

—Virgil Crawford.

Jokes

Harold—Do liars go to heaven? Mrs. Adkins—"Why of course not, why."

Harold—Well it must be an awful lonely place then with just God and George Washington there.

Mr. McWhirter—Kinder, who was the first man? Kinder—George Washington. Mr. Mc.—No it was Adam.

Kinder—Oh, I didn't know you were speaking of foreigners.

A Fish's Love Letter I would swim the mighty ocean to get a glimpse of your dear face, and I would go through a wall of fire for the touch of your dear hand, and I will be over tonight if it doesn't rain.

Mrs. Adkins—"Use the right verb in this sentence."—"The toast was drank in silence." L. V.—The toast was "et" in silence.

Gary's To Drive Home From North In Pontiac

Mr. and Mrs. R. B. Gary, who left the latter part of last week for the big convention of the Delcolight dealers to be held in Chicago this week-end will drive home in a new Pontiac, purchased from the Boerner-Thagard agency, for delivery from the factory door at Pontiac, Michigan.

The Gary's spent a day or two at Quanah with relatives and are making the trip north by rail in a special train arranged for out of Fort Worth. Their homeward trip, overland, will be through the Mississippi Valley.

Mr. Gary was given the trip to the national convention of Delcolight dealers, when he reached a substantial quota of sales set for the period since he has had the dealership for this territory. Today is the last day of the big convention which is being held at the Stevens, world's largest hotel.

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Goins and daughter, Joe V. of Hart visited with her father, Dr. V. Andrews, and Mrs. Andrews Saturday.

Mr. Crow—Where were you last night? Marvin—Just riding around with the boys.

Mr. Crow—Well you had better return this vanity case, one of the boys left in the car.

Robert King—sat at his desk with his head in his hands (he had had an interview with the student council)

Miss Rossen came along and said; Don't worry Robert the student council will give you justice.

Robert—Justice: I don't want justice if they give me justice they would hang me.

Lost—a car. Top windshield is cracked on left side; windshield is scratched where wiper has been; right headlight glass broken; left fender is split; right front wheel is sprung and wobbles; stolen, night of 12th of February. Reward if returned in good condition.

A freshman report says that moonlight in the Freshman class is so bright that the owls are dying of insomnia.

Mr. Davis—Name a liquid that won't freeze. Clara Belle—Hot water.

Miss Brock I suppose you've been through algebra.

Norvil—Yes, but I went through at night and couldn't see the place.

Mrs. Adkins—Lloyd your essay on "My Mother" was just the same as Floyd's.

Lloyd—Yes, mam; we have the same mother.

Pop—There's nothing worse than to be old and bent. Virgil—Yes, there is dad.

Pop—What is it? Virgil—To be young and broke.

Miss Brock—J. E. if Morris gave you a dog and Buck gave you a dog how many dogs would you have? Wilbur—Four.

Miss Brock—Now, dear, think hard, would you have four if Morris and Buck each gave you one? William—Yep! You see I got two dogs at home now.

Mother—Who taught you that wicked word? Everett—Santa Clause? Mother—Santa Clause? Everett—Yes, when he stumbled over my bed on Christmas morning.

When P. W. first went to see her he showed a timid heart and even sat—this—far—apart, but as their love grew stronger they knew its joy and bliss, they knocked out all the space and satupclosekethis.

The Latin Tournay We left Floydada about 7:00 a. m. Friday morning. Driving fairly fast, we reached Lubbock in plenty of time to get registered and listen to a small program between 9:00 and 10:00 a. m. The Floydada Representatives put on a short play in this program which was appreciated by all present. The play was "A Day Without Latin." The cast of characters were Urnon Borum, Maxine Norris, Floyd Murry, and Louise Conner.

We were told that it was our privilege to split all the red signals and speed limits that we wanted to and that the city was ours. We made good use of it while Miss Rosson attended a teacher's meeting.

From 11:30 to 12:30 we had luncheon at the Glorieta Tea Room. Then at 1:00 p. m. the dreaded test was taken. We did not place in this.

After the test we had a drive over the city and went through the engineering and textile building at Tech. Then we had tea at the Tech cafeteria, and met many contestants from other towns. We then attended the Latin Banquet at 7:00 at the Lubbock Hotel where the Floydada Representatives put on a short act by modernizing the Roman Dieties.

A NEW RENTAL CONTRACT

As time goes on it becomes evident that the present-day rental contract between landlord and renter in Texas, the general tenor of which is that the landlord shall have a third and fourth of the produce of the farm, with certain restrictions, additions and limitations it is becoming evident that we are outliving this kind of a rental contract and that some of these days, not far distant, we shall have a new kind, one that will more nearly fit in with the balanced farming program which we, as a people, are beginning to see as the salvation of the country.

Already you begin to see this farmer and that suggesting this or that kind of a change to bring about greater equity and better understanding between landlord and renter. Bankers are beginning to reflect this new attitude toward the rental contract. They are studying their customers and their problems, of course, and this matter of the rental contract, is one of the things that is coming to the fore. Undoubtedly the age-old rental contract in Texas black land is antiquated and out-of-date. Just what its successor will look like is an interesting thing upon which to speculate.

WIDER ROADWAYS CERTAIN

Recently we heard a student of the road problems of the county suggest the idea that we must strive to meet the demands for wide-roads, which means wider right-of-ways on which to build them. It is certain to be one of the problems that will come up in every road or even semi-important road proposal in this section within the next ten years. The Federal Bureau of Good Roads has already spent money on roadways the right-of-way is less than ten feet, we are told, and in the best districts of the east one-boulevards, side by side, are being their appearance. The Floyd County people are beginning to think about their road problems and as well include the question of the width of the right-of-way in their list to have some attention.

LEFT IN THE COLD?

The Hesperian refuses to get "heated up" over the possibility that Floyd County people are going to sleep on their rights long enough that the county will be left entirely in the cold forever and a day in road construction matters. Those who foresee—and doubtless they are right,—and when road construction on major roads will be done along lines and in a manner set out by some state-wide or nation-wide authority, with local people having no part of the money to spend and no voice in the selection of when or where the roadways shall be built, also foresee that counties such as Floyd will be left entirely out of consideration because its people have repeatedly refused to spend their money for good roads. It is one of the possibilities that a comprehensive enough program has not been laid out for their consideration. Whatever the answer, we believe that the people of Floyd County are not going to be lethargic on road matters until it is entirely too late.

WANT ROADS RIGHT NOW

Until such time as it is determined what the people of Floyd County want in the matter of better road facilities it is one of the useless things to attempt to bring up for their consideration another road bond issue.

There are those who, unwisely we think, would have the people voting on the matter of roads every few months until they got so tired of hearing about the matter, they'd either vote for the proposal "just to get rid of it," or would see the road building program for the county in a light that would permit them to start a real construction program.

As anxiously as we desire to see good hard-surfaced roads built in Floyd County, we believe an election wise that will not take into account the fact that our farmers, many of them, are apparently of the belief that the "town feller" is only trying to saddle a huge debt on the land for personal, selfish purposes only. This state of mind is gradually being lifted, but it is plainly evident at present to be red.

THINGS ARE CHANGING

If you were a boy about so you're past thirty now, before the spring had thus far you would have the call of baseball. In all probability a licking, or maybe two, would have been administered before the middle of April because you hadn't gotten home from the lot where all the boys were having a big time, as soon as parental authority thought desirable for milking and similar duties about the place.

But times have changed and, presuming its all for the best, we find them now playing some kind of playground ball or jack or something on a lot about as big as a dime, the while everything is quiet and decorous-like. At least, isn't that the impression you get? Kids may be getting milder and milder, but they are certainly making less noise about it.

EXPECTING A CLEAN UP

Belief that Clean Up Week in Floydada this year should be made real clean up day, has been expressed from so many sources that it seems the event this year should really be an event. That the town should be made clean, that everybody including the city administration should do their part manfully and Floydada citizens have every reason to be proud of the community which they make up. Many an eyesore of one kind and another needs to be gotten out of the way, in addition to the laundering that the average citizen's premises will get.

WHERE'S THE NAIL PICKER

Full many a West Texan has wondered how all the nails, scrap iron, pieces of steel and every other kind of real hard iron has come from the last few days. For, be it recalled, only a year or so ago the state highway department had a man with a high-powered machine go over the road and pick up hundreds of pounds of scraps that would be attracted by the steel magnet he drug on the ground.

Last week was the week of the dairy show in Plainview and the hundreds of cars that made the highways of Floyd County headed for that city, as well as the other ordinary travelers and tourists picked up enough nails to build a house. The tire fixers may have fattened but nobody else fared well. There may have been some new explosives or, maybe better said, explosives, manufactured during the week.

During dry weather, such as particularly marked last week, the winds and tire friction carry off the loose dirt, leaving exposed the hard dirt and the hard pieces of iron, with the result that tires suffer plentifully.

VALUE OF EDUCATION

Practically every child in the higher grade schools, high schools, as well as every adult in Floydada will be vitally interested in the page on school statistics that appears in this week's issue of The Hesperian headed "The Value of an Education."

They are not dry, complicated figures; they are plain, proven, sensible figures. As adults we are interested in seeing that every child in Floydada is given the opportunity and urged to take advantage of it, to have the maximum education possible to obtain, and we must make it available for them; as students now in school, we will be interested to see the proven comparative earnings figure in considering the future that is before us.

Getting an education is not like buying a car, in which case we can put off the decision from one year to another. Getting a proper education is a one-time proposition. It's a "do it now" proposition.

The advantages for this education are before you here in Floydada. When you have referred to the chart in this issue you will realize the need Floydada has for you on completion of the sort of education that will fit you for maximum success!

This And That

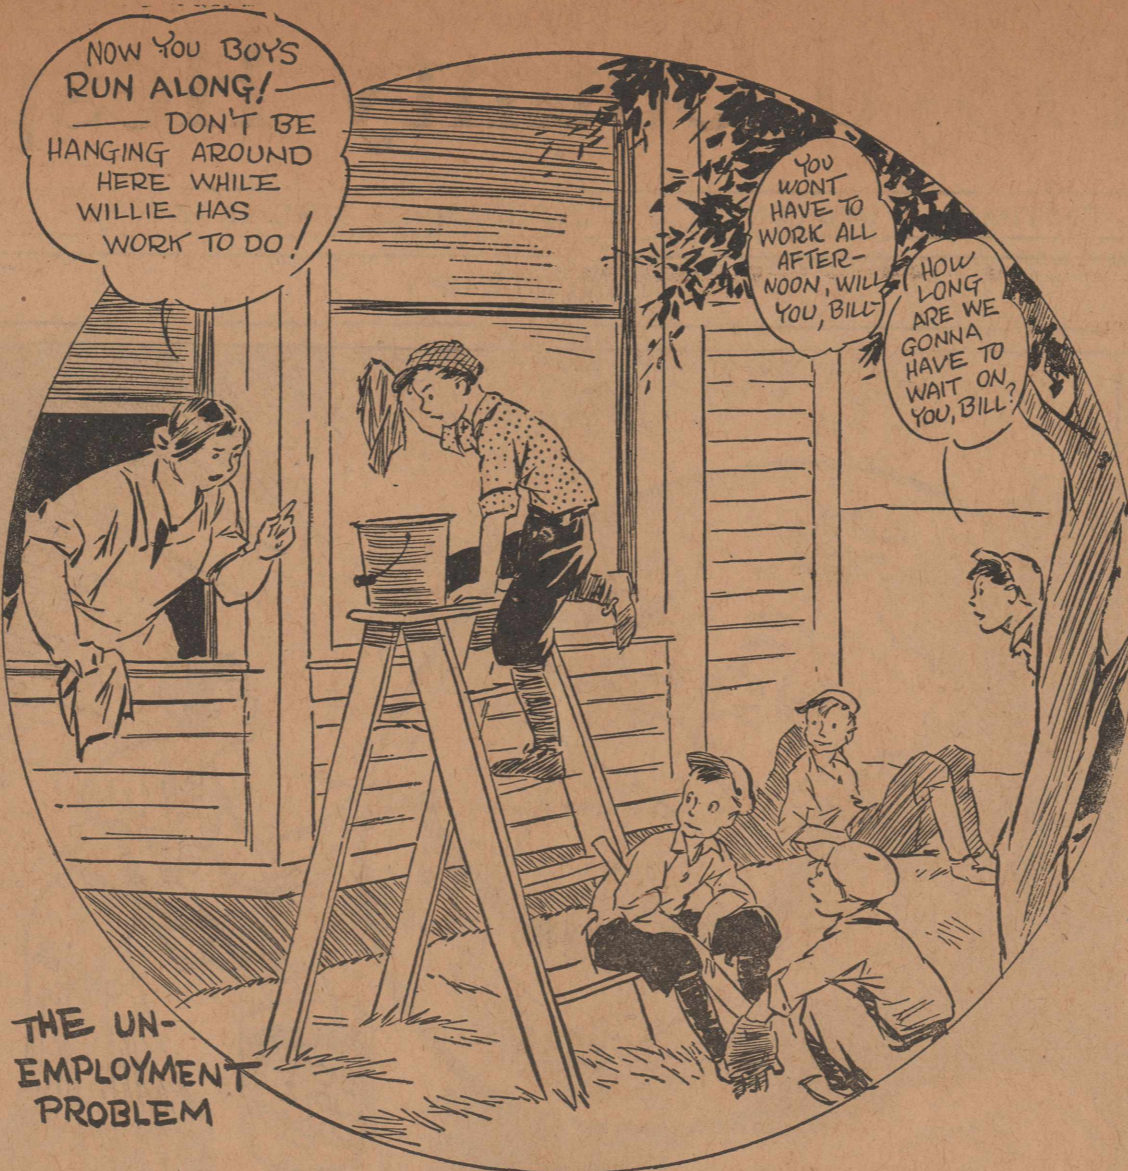

Dandelions this spring! In every direction, nearly half the yards, raising more seed to blow over on the yards where there are none. Dandelions certainly will ruin a yard, and where the infestation is serious experts of the Department of Agriculture say the thing to do is to turn the lawn under and begin all over again.

The serious thing about dandelions is that the light, chaffy seed are carried on the wings of every breeze. So if you have a badly infested yard and would like to see all the rest of the folks in town have some fun, too let 'em grow and you'll get plenty of results.

Floyd County's court house yard is one of the serious offenders. Mr. Browning, the janitor, has dug up a million dandelions since he's been janitor but the plot is too big for one man to keep mowed and keep the dandelions from going to bloom. We have no idea what the commissioners think of the yard and what should be done to it, but the remedy in the final analysis will be to turn the turf under. Since the yard needs levelling badly, anyhow, and a new start of grass in some spots, the loss of the present turf would not be serious. Meanwhile, it would be good to see county prisoners, if any, digging up the dandelions and dropping ordinary ice cream salt in the holes. Whether the salt only retards the yellow flowered pests or whether it actually kills them, at least it does good.

In the rush of business, one way and another, this column has overlooked two or three plainly readable portents of the fact that spring is actually here and that there'll be no more freezes. The first and most important of these is the fact that it did not thunder in February.

THE GREAT AMERICAN HOME

THE UN-EMPLOYMENT PROBLEM

No thunder in February, no freeze in April. That's number one. The other is the budding out of the catalpa trees. Peach trees, pears, plums, elms, ash, sycamore, all of them not native to the country, but out and get caught lots of springs and have to begin all over again. Not so with the catalpas. So go ahead and plant any and everything you want to. There'll be no freeze this April. We lack only the evidence of the mesquite trees. We haven't been out to look at them, but we're satisfied that they are leaving out because it didn't thunder in February and the catalpa trees are leaving out. So confident are we, that we almost announce the mesquites are leaving out, too. However, to be on the safe side we'll not go that far. But it is perfectly safe to announce there won't be any more freezing weather. We are sure of the ground on that point.

Fred Bell is said not to be getting as many noses counted as he expected to find in Floydada. Now, we are not quoting Fred and are just saying what we heard someone say. Fred is the census taker and he's just about through his work. Did he count you and your bunch? The others are getting away down the line on their counts over the county, too. Have they been in your neighborhood and did they miss you? It's important that they do not. We want all the people in Floyd County we can get. What with the wheat and the slump we've lost aplenty without losing some who are just naturally overlooked. Uncle Sam wants the real dope so if you think you know somebody has been missed call attention of your enumerator to it.

We have resolved not to be satisfied with the count of the census takers. If dry weather keeps hanging on, perhaps the interest in county politics will increase and there will be additional entries. Dry years always make interesting campaign years.

One of the funny things is to watch the heat rise in political campaigns among the home boys, the hotter and drier the weather the hotter the election heat. Until some morning we wake up and a good rain has fallen. You come down for your usual beginning-of-the-day argument and everybody is too busy to argue with you. In fact, it is difficult to recall what all the heat was about.

Pink L. Parrish, colorful senator from Lubbock representing this district, "does not chose to run," for governor. He has been one of the "dark horses" for some months and many West Texans were anxious to see him "get in there" and mix it with the other candidates.

Clint C. Small of Wellington, Dan Moody and Lynch Davidson will announce soon, it was predicted by the big senator in the interview obtained from him in Lubbock.

Contemporary Thought

POWER FARMING AND PROFIT

Briscoe County Herald: Man has long been imbued with the desire to do things in a big way; to accomplish more than his neighbor; to make his efforts count. Because of this desire, boys of ambition and vision in every generation have been able to expand their efforts into wider and greater fields. Farm boys have been no exception to this rule.

Power farming has given the young farmer an opportunity to expand. With the tractor, the corn picker and the combine, he can easily double or triple his acreage. The value of his labor and his management are many times greater and his volume of business is much larger. Because his productivity is increased he can operate profitably on a smaller margin per bushel or per unit of production.

But along with his vision and ambition, the average man is likewise cautious. He must be convinced that power farming is profitable and economical before he accepts the idea fully and without qualifications.

THE THIRTEENTH MONTH

Crosbyton Review.—There is a great deal being said these days about changing the calendar. The new calendar, as used by one big mail order company, has thirteen of what they call periods instead of months, and each period has exact-

FLOYD COUNTY 14 YEARS AGO

News items taken from files of the Floyd County Hesperian published in Floydada fourteen years ago.

E. E. Johnson, of Crowell, Foard County, has bought the east half of the Gamble section belonging to the Gamble Brothers, I. D., O. A. and A. N. Mr. Johnson paid $26.50 per acre for the land.

W. Kimble, of Wibaux, Montana, has been in Floydada the past week looking over the situation relative to the opening for a jewelry and optical store. After visiting all sections of the state he has decided to enter business here. For the present and temporarily he will be located with the Woody Drug Company.

The Texas Utilities Company, operating out of Plainview and Lubbock and the City Council of Floydada reached an understanding as the basis for a franchise to be granted by the city at a called session of the council at an early date, for electric lighting and power services. The company is given six months in which to complete the local plant.

A compilation of the winning of individuals at the County School Fair in Athletics has been made for individuals winning nine points or more, as follows: Leland Dawson, Floydada; 19 points; Bob Jones, Lockney, 10 points, Arthur Womack, Sand Hill, 10 points, Homer McCoy, Floydada, 10 points, Earl Chessir, Lockney, 9 points.

George Graham who lives fifteen miles northeast of Floydada had his face badly scalded and came near losing his sight last Friday noon when a half gallon bucket in which he was boiling coffee exploded and threw scalding water and coffee grounds in his face.

ly the same number of days. And, as it is explained, January 2 will be the first day of the first period no matter on what day of the week January 2 falls.

It is said that it would simplify accounts and comparisons in yearly trade and records. But there is pointed out many troubles coming if the new calendar is adopted. Suppose we should adopt it generally and socially. Every year we would be mixing our dates and either be ahead of the game, or behind, after we had run a few thirteen months off the roll. It's like losing a day, or gaining one, when you cross the equator.

Then, thirteen is an unlucky number to lots of folks. Nobody would want to get married in the thirteenth month. Nobody would dare to start a new business in that month. All we could do, and be lucky, would be to take the thirteenth month off. And think of all the extras you would have to do—like having another rent day and gas bills, and etc.

The old rhyme, "Thirty days hath September," and so on, still rings true, and we believe that the old calendar should be used a few centuries longer.

ROADS THEN AND NOW

Pampa Times: So rapid has been the improvement of rural highways in 10 years, yet almost without our realizing it, that the entire diet of the American people has been changed in that brief period of time. Not only that, but the paving of roads has caused a revolution in agricultural methods as well. For every mile of improved highway laid down, some farmer has added something to his production of green vegetables marketed in the big centers of population.

In North Carolina, for instance, farms where nothing but tobacco was grown for years and years are now green with truck crops of all kinds. Dairying, too, has sprung into prominence in many states where it would have been impossible to get the milk to a city 10 years ago. Farmers who once depended almost entirely on one staple crop—corn, cotton, tobacco, wheat—are now going in widely for vegetables and fruits which would have been too perishable to have been grown profitably under old transportation conditions.

You can note a big change of this kind right around Pampa if you want to study the subject a little. Our people are now able to grow many things they did not grow 10 years ago because good roads and the automobile have made it possible for them to get such products to market. We are in better position to fight for our share of prosperity than we ever were before. We've found out that paved highways are essential to farm success. And since success in practically every field depends on success on the farm, it looks as though there is no longer any place in the United States for the man who fights a good roads movement of any kind.

ANOTHER VICTORY FOR WOMEN

Ferguson Forum.—Score another progressive step in the emancipation of women and giving her equal rights with mere man. A smoking room for co-eds in the University of Chicago has been established by the authorities of that institution.

The university authorities surrendered when they realized that the girls just were bound to smoke whether given the privilege or not.

Setting aside a room as a smoking den for the girls was the only solution of this problem of women which has vexed colleges all over the country since the world war when the women first took up cigarette smoking in a big way. Other institutions now may be expected to follow the example of the University of Chicago and Texas co-eds addicted to smoking may soon be given quarters for indulgence in this fad under official sanction.

SAFER TRAVELING

Plainview Evening Herald: Captain "Eddie" Rickenbacker, famous war ace and present-day aviation leader, tells us that within three years flying will be the safest means of travel.

That statement sounds reasonable, considering the precaution both in flying. Already the federal government and the government are taking toward assurance of safety. The government has taken a hand in this business of transportation by air, set up strict rules for pilots to follow, demanded licenses after thorough tests for every flyer, and led the industry in the development of scientific means for the assurance of safety in the air.

Yet flying cannot be said to be in the hands of the pouce as yet.

In the face of all this preparation for the days when the people do take up flying by their own hands, we see another means of transportation traffic laws, still arguing that three decades aid still struggling with a variety of state and over the practicability of licensing its drivers, still lacking a national unity of purpose that is already manifesting itself in aviation. Perhaps some day motoring will assume a more organized and controllable form.

At any rate it is encouraging to know that, when we do take the control stick in the near future, we will not face the conglomeration of traffic and safety laws that we have to put up with in our automobile. We shall fly with a greater feeling of security.

STANDARDIZING THE SCHOOLS OF FLOYD COUNTY

The 1929-30 schools year is closing with more or less marked success. The schools of Floyd County have developed amazingly during the past ten years and the citizenship has a right to be proud of their particular community.

The goal of efficiency has not been reached yet, though, and there is some hard work ahead for the schools to reach that goal. This work must be carefully planned and properly and promptly executed.

I believe that every school should be standardized by the State Board of Education on a similar basis to that of affiliation of the town and city schools. In other words, I think the work in the rural schools should be so unified with the town and city schools that the boys and girls from the rural school can step into their proper places in the town and city schools as easily as if they were changing grades or buildings in a city system.

I believe a course of study should be arranged in Floyd County by the County Superintendent, concurring with the city Superintendents of Schools in Floydada and Lockney, being guided by the State Course of Study, so that when met, no question will be asked and no favors granted when the rural student enters the city schools.

I believe that the good people in the rural communities and the teaching forces in those communities are anxious to begin a program of this kind looking forward to a complete unification of our schools in the next few years.

If a program of this nature is carried out, it will not be long until our motto, "No Rest Until Floyd County Schools Are The Best," will be a reality.

Rotarians Will Meet In Temple On April 23-24

Temple, April 7.—One of the largest and most interesting Rotary 41st district convention in years will be held in Temple, April 23-24 when it is expected that more than 750 Rotarians will gather here.

Temple is planning to entertain the convention in a big way with thousands of additional colored lights in the streets, flags and special decorations. The host city has two new "skyscraper" hotels, a new $150,000 municipal auditorium that is handsomely equipped and has its four leading hotels, principal cafes, auditorium and committee meeting places all within a three minute walk of each other.

District Governor Bernard Bryant in a pre-convention visit here declared the convention facilities are the best he has seen, of highest order and conveniently located.

Temple's beautiful country club will provide special golf tournaments and aid in the entertainment for the visitors.

The Temple and Belton clubs, within eight miles of each other, are combining forces to entertain the convention.

The annual Rotary conference here will bring scores of outstanding Rotarians on a program full of interest. So important will be the morning sessions with their inspiration and vocational addresses that it has been arranged for the Rotary-Annes to have no morning entertainment to conflict with attendance at the general convention.

The opening night the Temple club will be host at a big banquet at which arrangements are being made for an outstanding leader in Rotary International to deliver the main address. Past district governors, past officers, international committeemen will be here.

Tulsa Lady Is Enthusiastic About New Medicine—"Best In The World," She Says.

MRS. G. I. CRABAUGH
"No medicine ever helped me as did Konjola," said Mrs. G. I. Crabaugh, 739 Quaker street, Tulsa, "For more than nine years I had trouble with my stomach. Gas accumulated after meals and I bloated terribly. The pains and pressure often made me short of breath and dizzy. Constipation was another of my worries and I became an almost daily user of cathartics. I had terrible headaches and found it difficult to sleep. My nerves became badly affected and my general condition badly run down.

"I am delighted with the results I obtained from Konjola. Before I had finished the second bottle my constipation had been relieved and my stomach greatly improved. As I kept on with this great medicine my general health improved until I am feeling better today than I have in a long time. I have an excellent appetite and eat healthy without distress. Even neuritis which attacked me occasionally has been totally driven from my system. I cannot say too much in praise of this great medicine.

Though Konjola works quickly, six to eight bottles are recommended as a fair trial. Although many people are benefitted within a few weeks, the longer period is best. Konjola is sold in Floydada,

FLOOR CRACKS
 Cracks in a new well-laid floor are the result of a change in moisture content within the wood itself. flooring is laid. The use of the heating plant may be advisable says the United States Forest Service, to maintain a temperature that will prevent excessive humidity in the building from the time the flooring is delivered until the house is occupied.

BUYING SPECIFICATIONS FOR COMMON COMMODITIES

Every homemaker consciously or unconsciously depends on the so-called "pure food laws," or Federal food and drugs act, to protect her from buying food products containing poisonous and harmful ingredients, colors, or preservatives. Specifications as to what may or may not be contained in various manufactured foodstuffs offered for sale are set up by the United States Department of Agriculture in its regulatory work. Protection is also furnished by the requirement that labels shall tell the truth. Meats shipped from State to State have been subject to Federal inspection and standards for a long time, and the Government has also encouraged the grading of fresh fruits and vegetables and the adoption of standard containers for them.

While existing specifications for foods may be improved from the standpoint of their value to the consumer, and in other ways, they serve as an example of what might be accomplished in other fields of household buying if the idea of specifications, or fact information, from the manufacturer to the consumer, were consistently followed. Recent years have seen a tremendous increase in the number and kinds of textiles sold for garments and household use, to illustrate from one of the important fields of home purchases; great improvement in fastness of color and beauty of texture, and yet in some cases a decrease in durability. How can the housewife buy to advantage unless she is furnished with facts concerning each kind of textile, and what performance may be expected from it? The same point is true with the rapidly growing array of labor savers and other equipment used in homes.

The American Home Economics Association and the Bureau of Home Economics of the United States Department of Agriculture are cooperating in an endeavor to establish specifications for all common household purchases. As a start they have prepared, for clubs and groups interested in discussing purchasing problems, a series of reading references including many on the food and drugs act, meat inspection, and regulations or standards affecting other foods. This reference list will be sent to any groups desiring it. Write to the Bureau of Home Economics, United States Department of Agriculture Washington, D. C.

SOW OATS EARLY

Sow oats early. In the Great Plains area, early seeding is particularly important, says the U. S. Department of Agriculture in a new Farmers' Bulletin, 1611-F, "Oats in the Western Half of the United States." The likelihood of loss from seeding too early is less than from seeding too late. Late freezes are less injurious than hot and dry weather is to late seeding. In some instances, in the Great Plains area, sub-zero weather has not injured oats severely. Oats should be sown early also in irrigated sections. Generally speaking, a little heavier rate of seeding is necessary if seeding is delayed because this leaves less time for tilling. Soils likely to become weedy need more seed than clean soils. Sow slightly more seed on a poorly prepared seedbed. Drilling requires less seed than broadcasting. A crop intended for pasture should be sown thicker than normal. Varieties with fairly large kernels may be sown at heavier rates than the smaller-kernelled varieties. As a nurse crop for alfalfa or clover, oats should not be seeded too thickly or they may choke out the other crops. Farmers' Bulletin 1611-F may be secured from the Department of Agriculture,

One fly killed in early spring means hundreds of flies fewer next summer. Stable manure in which flies may breed rapidly should be hauled to the fields every day, if possible, and spread thin so that it will dry. It is best to use a manure spreader. Manure that is not disposed of daily may be treated with hellebore, which will destroy the fly larvae without reducing the fertilizing value of the manure. One-half pound of powdered hellebore to 10 gallons of water will treat about 10 cubic feet of manure.

Variety of Easter Styles Simplifies Problem of Choosing the Right Frock

BY HARRIET

Selecting the Easter wardrobe is a little like picking one's husband—you should suit yourself and not accept much advice from anyone! This Easter there are many individualized styles, and each different type of woman can find her right meter, if she looks about enough.

If you are still a bit the flapper type, round off your square corners, tighten your skirts a bit and tie scarf in a feminine bow under your chin. But stay the least little bit nonchalant, for it's a pleasant type to be!

If you are demure, do not try swagger clothes. Wear capes and puff sleeves, and square necks and demure collars.

But if you are a mature type, chic and charming, you have about 100 different kinds of costume that you could buy with satisfaction.

For the young girl, there are some very jaunty things this year. The simpler the lines the better, but it doesn't hurt to have semi-fitted things and belts.

I have in mind a twine colored Easter outfit in a soft tweed that is admirable for the young girl, especially the one who cannot have a wide range of clothes.

The coat is made with set-in sleeves, and long, soft lapels that are notched in a tailored manner at the top. The cuffs of the sleeve flare quite a little and there is a little fullness in the skirt's width. It is belted with red and a red and white grosgrain scarf ties under the chin. There is a little red grosgrain turban which has a jeweled clip in the front of it, a little fancy that girls like this spring.

For the very feminine woman, there is a Molyneux ensemble for Easter that is superb. It is a new beige wool mixture that has a fleck of black in it. There is a flat crepe frock under the coat that has beige and black pipings. The coat has a deep cape collar, long tight sleeves coming out from under it and a beautiful beige fox trim at the shawl collar closing.

Topping this outfit is a beige straw and felt hat, the closely fitting crown being of the felt and the brim that is semi-mushroom in shape, is of the straw. Around the hat for banding the narrowest of both felt and grosgrain ribbon in beige runs and both tie in tiny bows in the back. The purse and gloves are beige and the shoes black.

For the chic woman who can wear anything, there are stunning new dressy tweeds this year that unite with fine crepes to make some of the season's loveliest things, and perfect for Easter.

One of these is from Molyneux, in gray mixed with red, an unusual combination and a stunning one for many reasons. The skirt fits snugly to the body, nipping in for normal waistline and then continuing up to a deep yoke line. The top of the frock is made of gray georgette with a lovely collar that comes down to tie in a bow knot. There is a stitched georgette belt in the gray, and the hip length jacket is faced and lined with the gray georgette.

For this outfit, a balibuntl in gray, with a wide banding made up of alternating gray and red narrow ribbon makes a sweet hat. Gloves are gray and so are the stockings.

Dr. Henry and his wife, Dr. Mary Henry, were present at the noon hour and Dr. Henry, as president of the Lockney Chamber of Commerce, gave a very cordial welcome to the visitors. Miss Marie Strange was also present and we greatly enjoyed having her.

This entertaining idea is surely a good one, we meet people and learn of conditions and ambitions that we could learn of in no other way. What I mean: Its very broadening.

We all surely enjoyed our recreation day and hope that when Pleasant Valley Club visits us next Thursday at the home of Mrs. J. D. Christian they can say the same.

Miss Strange will meet with us at Mrs. Luther Holmes' home Tuesday, April 29, for the program that we missed last week.

ALL MEMBERS PRESENT AT BAKER 4-H CLUB MEETING

Baker 4-H Club Girls met Wednesday afternoon, April 9, at the Baker school with all of the members and two visitors, Miss Irene Kreis and Miss Dorothy Wainwright present. Miss Strange showed the girls how to hem and place the pockets on their aprons. The girls are expecting to finish their sewing by the time school is out so that they can begin their cooking lessons.

All of the club girls of the community attended the show last Wednesday afternoon and enjoyed it very much. The girls report that they enjoy their club work very much.

TRICK CLUB TO ENTERTAIN SAND HILL CLUB APRIL 25

Trick Home Demonstration Club met Friday afternoon, April 11, at 2 o'clock with Mrs. J. H. Hanna. "The Foundation Garment" was the subject of the lesson. Miss Marie Strange gave a very interesting demonstration on altering commercial patterns.

The club will entertain the Sand Hill Club on Friday, April 25 at the home of Mrs. Poage. We are looking forward to this time and hope every member of the Sand Hill Club will be present.

Mr. and Mrs. F. S. Truitt and son, Frank, of Friona, spent the week end with Mr. and Mrs. W. I. Cannaday.

Mrs. C. Surginer returned home Sunday from Austin where she spent ten days with Garner Surginer, who underwent an operation for appendicitis April 3. She reported that Garner is greatly improved and would be moved from the hospital Monday.

The enormous weed crop raised with the grain every year is one of the reasons why there are not larger yields of grain in the spring-wheat area, says the U. S. Department of Agriculture. This weed crop can be prevented by eliminating the weeds in stubble fields before they form seeds, by destroying the weed seeds in the soil, and by thoroughly cleaning the seed grain.

SAND HILL CLUB ENTERTAINS ROSELAND CLUB WEDNESDAY

Last Wednesday, April 2, the Sand Hill Home Demonstration Club, entertained the Roseland Club ladies, in the Sand Hill Club room.

We arrived about 10 o'clock. Of course the day was not such a beautiful one, but we were not to be worried about that. The morning was spent in getting acquainted, reading and telling jokes. An essay written by a sixth grade school girl entitled, "The Human Body," was given by Mrs. Miller. It was certainly enjoyed and was a very good description.

Then we went over to the auditorium where several songs were played and sung by the "Kitchen Klatter" band. Mrs. Hanna gave the origin and history of the "Kitchen Klatter" band. This too was greatly enjoyed.

At the noon hour we partook of one of the most delicious luncheons that could possibly be had, prepared by the Sand Hill Club. I don't believe there is any need to say we enjoyed this for as someone said "actions speak louder than words" and we surely did justice to it.

Miss Strange was present for lunch but as she had another engagement could not remain with us through the afternoon, which we all regret.

In the afternoon several kinds of games were played, much to the amusement of all. Mrs. Green certainly makes one enjoy himself and feel perfectly at home but of course she has a splendid club to help her do these things.

We also decided to exchange our club plays. Roseland is to present the play, "A Poor Married Man," at the Sand Hill auditorium Friday night, April 11. Sand Hill plays, "Don't Reckon Your Chickens before they Hatch," at the Roseland auditorium, Friday night, April 18.

Last but not least we were invited over to the school room there to see the work done by the school children, which was grand indeed, and we compliment them.

We regret very much all of our members could not be present, for we would have liked so well, for them to have enjoyed the day with us, as we did. But owing to sickness and other things, four of our members could not go.

We thank each and every one for the nice time we had and hope some time to return this real, "Get together" good time. Reporter.

Correctly Planned Small Homes Have Air of Hospitality

Lines Of 'The Warren' Is Excellent Example

House of Only 26 by 45 Feet Has Architectural Lines of Expensive Homes.

The Warren is one of those hospitable appearing houses that appeals to every home lover. The white finish of siding, stucco or brick, gives it a neat and clean appearance while the hooded roof lines over the first story windows aid in creating that sheltering snug atmosphere which goes with thoughts of home.

Is Economical Home

This little home sits admirably on a small sized lot, for its dimensions are 26 feet 6 inches by 24 feet 9 inches. Yet a study of the floor plans reveal that the rooms are not cramped. On the other hand, they are of satisfactory size.

From the brick foundations to the composition shingled roof this is a house that any builder can be proud to own. It gives everything that is desirable in a home.

The cost of constructing the Warren is reasonable for the average family. This is not an expensive home and at the same time it is not a cheap one.

The total amount that would be spent for the building would depend largely on the manner by which the interior is finished. The floors might be constructed of a variety of hard woods, any of which would be suitable for the purpose yet carrying a variation in price. The same holds true of other materials.

Well Arranged Interior

Three rooms together with a breakfast nook and radio room are found on the first floor. The advent of the radio has made the radio room one of the favored gathering places in the house. In this instance it takes the place of the sun parlor, being located off of the living room, separated from it by colonades. The radio is located at the base of one of the colonades while a bookcase is located in the other.

The living room with the radio room extends across the front of the house. The living room proper is twenty three and a half feet long by twelve feet wide. The staircase leading to the second floor is located at the end opposite the outside door.

A fireplace in the outside wall dominates the room and provides an attractive gathering place during winter evenings. French doors separate the living room from the dining room, which is eleven by twelve feet in dimensions. When the living and dining rooms open off each other, french doors insure privacy—the dining room table can be set and made ready without the guests being forced to watch these activities.

A breakfast nook is located in a small alcove off the kitchen. The nook is lighted by a large window which provides a pleasant vista of the flower gardens in the rear of the house.

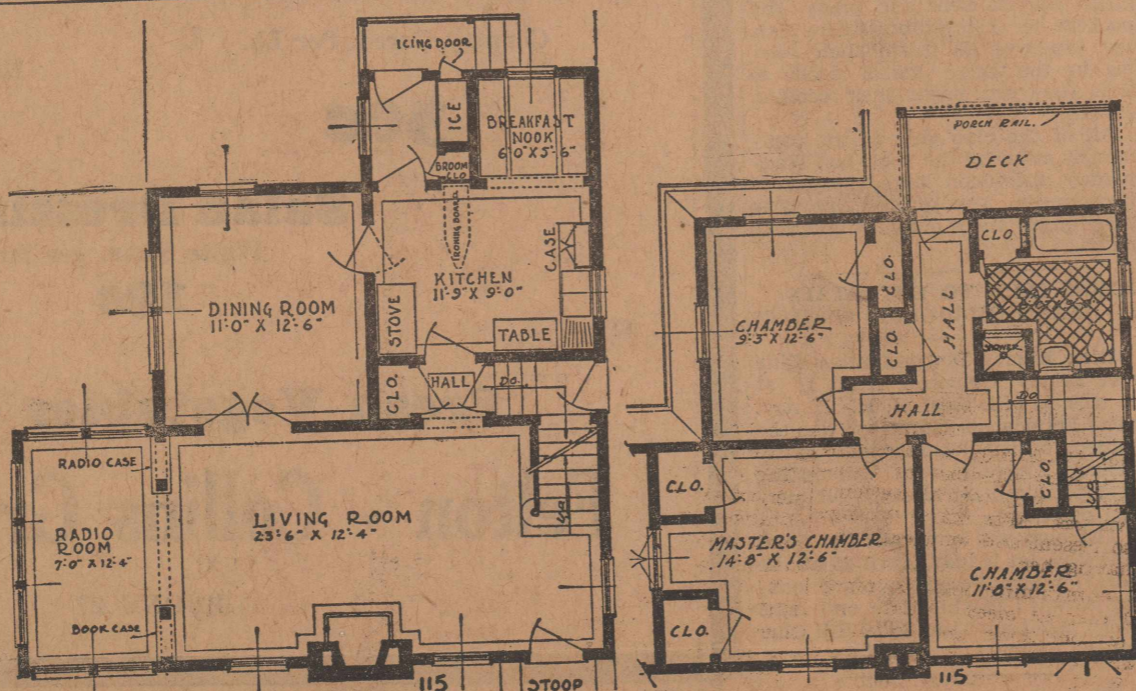

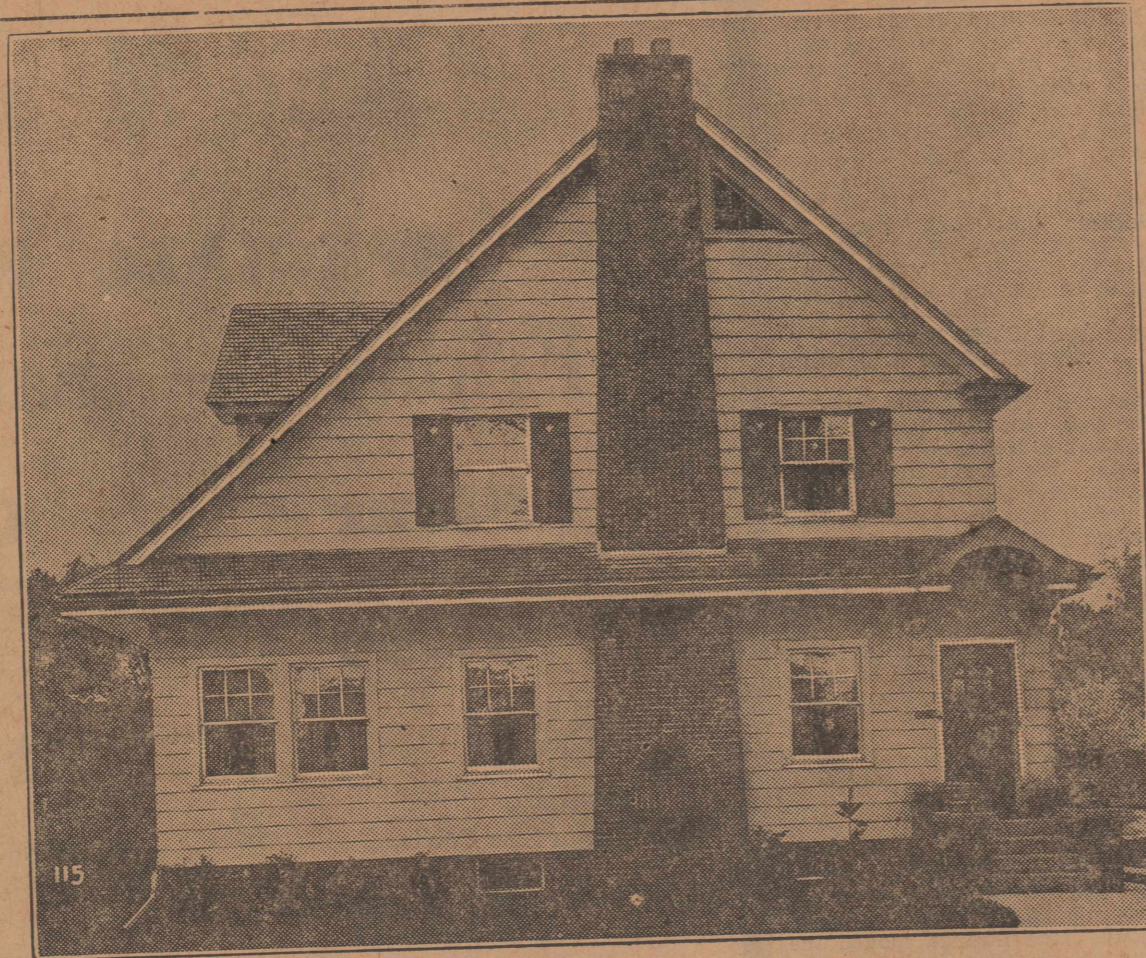

The kitchen is conveniently laid out to save the steps of the house wife. The sink and built-in cabinets are together. The work table is closely adjacent while but a step away is the gas range. A built-in ironing board and a broom closet complete the fixtures of the room. The refrigerator is located in a service entry. An icing door is provided so that ice may be used in the refrigerator, if electrical refrigeration is not used.

Three Chambers Above

The staircase leading to the sleeping quarters above is broken by a landing half way up. The landing is broad and is lighted by a window. Three chambers are found on the second floor, each being off a small hall.

All the rooms have cross ventilation, a very desirable feature for a sleeping room. The masters chamber has two closets, while one closet is found in each of the other rooms. A linen closet off the hall provides

Six Rooms, Bath, Breakfast Nook And Radio Room In This Home

An atmosphere of hospitality, a quality that is often missing from the so-called "modern homes," is given a delightful effect in The Warren, pictured above. Architectural lines and the general lay-out of The Warren give it an air of comfort and welcome.

A study of the plans of The Warren will probably surprise many of our readers because of the large roomy appearance, while the entire proach to which is located in one of the bedrooms. Many of the recently built houses use disappearing stairs to reach the attic, but the design of the Warren permitted a regular staircase to be installed, a convenience if the attic is used at all.

When a basement is desired, it may be fully excavated and the foundation walls are constructed of concrete. A feature of the basement are the concrete partition walls which divide the basement into a number of rooms, each suitable for a certain foundation.

The attic which is not finished off is reached by a stairs, the ap-

Consider Rugs First As Decorative Scheme

When planning the interior decorative scheme of a new home, the floor covering is first considered as striking the keynote of the plan. The floor covering is selected to provide the key color because the floor contains the largest single area.

Usually the rug will contain the dominating color and with it will be woven the contrasting and accentive colors. By following out the color scheme as outlined in the rug the color scheme will work out satisfactorily.

The color scheme should be based on the exposure of the room—warm tones for rooms with a north or east exposure and cool tones for rooms looking to the south or west. It is, of course, possible to handle colors so that the warm tones may be used on the southerly and westerly exposures but the rule is still valuable. Reds and yellows and their variations are considered to be the warm colors while cool colors are green, blue and grey.

The dominating color is found in the large area—the floor covering, while contrasting colors are placed in the smaller areas, such as the walls and wood work, the furniture coverings and draperies.

USE BEST OF GRASS SEED WHEN PLANNING PREMISES

It pays to use good grass seed when planting the lawn. Poor seed is not only poor in quality but often it contains much undesirable weed seed, sure to be a source of trouble later when the grass is growing.

The selection of grass seed depends on the locality, the soil and the shade. The local seed dealer is the best authority on the proper selection of seeds as practical experience has shown him those best adapted for a locality.

When sowing seed it is best to broadcast in two directions using one half of the seed at each sowing. Broadcast at right angles to each other, and do so on right angles to each other, and do so on still days. Then roll the lawn lightly and sprinkle thoroughly.

Newly seeded lawns need plenty of water and the lawn should be sprinkled often. When thin spots appear reseed at once. Lack of water causes serious harm to the lawn and during dry seasons the lawn should be thoroughly soaked at least twice a week to prevent the grass from becoming so dry that it will die.

The lawn requires careful attention. It should be cut at regular intervals and the clippings should always be raked away, as the dead grass will harm the living grass.

Terraces Delightful As Open Gathering Places

The use of terraces located at the side of the house permits the family to sit out of doors yet adds little to the expense of construction. The old fashioned open porch is an expense that is often not warranted, due to its being in use only a few months of the year.

Terraces, with tile, concrete or brick floors, are equally convenient. They may be used as frequently and as long as the open porch. It is true that during storms they may not be put to use, but this is no valid objection for the same generally holds true of the porch. The type of flooring to be used depends largely on the owner. A variety of materials may be used effectively. These terraces are delightful gathering places during the summer months and are charming outgrowth of the porch.

COLONIAL HOUSE SHOULD BE PAINTED SOLID WHITE

White is the traditional color for the Colonial house and many home owners believe that white alone makes an effective paint job for such a building design. Your painting contractor, however, can suggest other color combinations that are equally suitable and artistic.

Do not decide rashly on the color for the house, be it Colonial or otherwise. Get advice and suggestions from the painter. He works with color combinations constantly and knows what colors are effective for your particular house.

OUTSIDE WOODWORK NEEDS THREE COATS OF PAINT

All outside woodwork should have at least three coats of paint if the painter is to do a satisfactory job. Inside woodwork may have three or more depending upon what finish is desired.

New wood for painting should be carefully cleaned and be free from stains that would afterwards show through the paint. All the knot holes should be sealed up with shellac so that the pitch will not afterwards exude through the paint. It should be sandedpapered down and made smooth and clean. Above all the wood must be dry.

TILED LINOLEUM IS BEST FOR BATHROOM FLOORING

If you cannot afford to lay tiles in the bath room, your furniture dealer can supply you with linoleum that has tile patterns that are extremely realistic.

Tiled linoleum is clean, sanitary and decorative. It can be secured in a variety of patterns, enabling you to carry out a color scheme that lifts the bath room from its ordinary monotone.

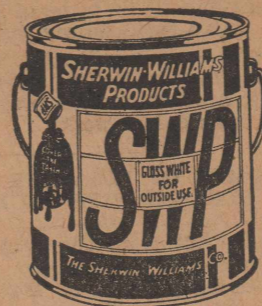

Specify SWP and engage a good painter

Why SWP costs less of your house than any other paint

What will it cost to paint your house? This is what you — not what the paint costs per gallon.

While fine old SWP costs more per gallon, it costs less on your home than any other paint. Why? Because one gallon of SWP will thoroughly paint almost twice as much surface as a gallon of cheaper paint. Therefore fewer gallons of SWP are needed.

So — ignoring the fact that SWP lasts twice as long a cheaper paint, and that its weatherproof colors retain their beauty to the very last — the first cost of painting your house with the world's best house paint is actually less than that of cheaper paint. Buy your paint on a job basis and save. Let us prove it to you by simple arithmetic.

SWP House Paint

The world's standard of house paint quality. SWP is made in one quality only and that the very best. Famous for long life and the permanency of its many beautiful colors. Covers more square feet of surface per gallon. Costs less on the house than cheaper paints at a lower price per gallon.

HIGGINBOTHAM-BARTLETT

"Everything to Build Anything"

Dougherty News

(By Mrs. W. D. Newell)

Dougherty, April 15.—Well folks, here's something interesting this week: Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Newton who recently made a trip to Fort Worth and Dallas, came home with the thought of a very urgent need of a highway thru our little city of Dougherty.

A number of their friends who had passed north of town, along the F. F. Highway had inquired as to where the road was, that led into town, Mr. and Mrs. Newton's experience is only typical of every one who lives in Dougherty. The most popular question is "How do you get to Dougherty?" Why not get together and see if this situation can't be improved.

George Stiles returned from Carlsbad a few days ago greatly impressed with the extent that Floyd County's reputation has as being "opposed to good roads." He reports that a great move is being made to build a road from Oklahoma City to the Carlsbad Cavern. Mr. Stiles says that he was informed, by officials at Carlsbad that their chief concern was, just how would be the best way to miss Floyd County, or at least pass through as small a part as possible. At present the question is how can they get from White Flat to Ralls.

Dougherty and Precinct No. 4 has a chance to get one of the best highways in the United States at a small cost as the Carlsbad Cavern is paying about two-thirds of the cost of construction. "Opportunity knocks but once" so can't we do something?

Well O. B. one of our local citizens worked the egg problem, finding the number to be 721. First he says he multiplied all the numbers together excepting the 7. Then, in order to make it divisible by 7 he added 1, there by making 1 extra with all the other numbers, however he says that was a lot of eggs in one basket.

In regards to wanting advice from the readers what to write about each week I have a few suggestions that I have gathered from readers of your column. The first one suggests that a good warm trail to bark on is more industry, more mills for manufacturing feed stuff instead of having to ship it out a raw product. Personally I'd like to say that for the past two years you have been trying to get the Court House painted, with no results, why not appeal to the club women of the 14 clubs in the county who have been painting everything from dainty wearing apparel to the barns and chicken houses. Here you'll find a bunch of real workers who are accomplishing things. They might each don a pair of overalls, and paint brush and if you'd offer them as good as they received last at the Theatre party they even furnish the paint.

Another reader suggests that you keep on with your nonsense and saying nothing, as the world needs more columns like you're putting out.

Lawrence Tibbett Makes Initial Talking Film

Noted Opera Star to Be Seen Beginning Sunday at Granada, Plainview.

The much discussed screen opera, "The Rogue Song," filmed in technicolor and starring Lawrence Tibbett, leading baritone of the Metropolitan Opera Company, will open an engagement of four days at the Granada Theatre in Plainview starting Sunday.

The production, an original story by Frances Marion with dialogue by John Colton, co-author of "Rain" was directed by Lionel Barrymore.

It is believed the making of this picture was considered somewhat of an experiment inasmuch as Tibbett is the only living opera star of international reputation to have appeared on the screen. However, advance reports of the complete success of Tibbett's talking picture debut indicate that he has paved the way for a wholesale immigration of opera stars to Hollywood.

The songs in the production range from numbers of operatic magnitude accompanied by a symphony orchestra, to simple love songs and gypsy ballads. They include, "To Live, To Love," "Once in the Georgian Hills," "The Narrative," "When I'm Looking at You," "Little White Dove," "The Shame Cry," "The Rogue Song" and "The Bandit Chorus." Assisting in the musical end of the picture are Elsa Alsen, dramatic soprano, a women's chorus and a male chorus.

It is stated that while a large number of persons will be primarily interested in the musical attractions of "The Rogue Song," the producers were careful not to allow the interesting plot of the picture to become submerged in the maze of musical numbers.

The setting is laid in the Caucasus Mountains with Tibbett playing the role of a swashbuckling Russian Robin Hood, leader of a group of singing bandits who steal from the rich and give to the poor. The picture is said to contain some unusually effective cavalry scenes in which a large number of Russian Cossacks participated.

Douglas Shearer, chief sound engineer, headed a scientific staff to take charge of the special blending of sound and color required for this all-Technicolor production. The color work is said to be as fine as anything yet done in the advanced medium, a particularly beautiful scene being that of an Alberta Rasch ballet of 100 girls who dance to the modernistic music of Dimitri Tiomkin.

The production contains a huge cast. Prominent parts are played by Catherine Dale Owen, Wallace MacDonald, Kate Price, Lionel Belmore, James Bradbury, Jr., Nance O'Neill, Judith Vosselli Burr MacIntosh, Ullrich Haupt and the well-known Hal Roach team of Laurel and Hardy, who supply comedy relief as renegades attached to Tibbett's band.

SNAIL KILLING IS LATEST JOB FOR WESTERN RANCHERS

Cowboys and sheep herders of the western ranches now have a new job—one that their predecessors of a generation ago could not have imagined. The job consists in killing the snails which abound in wet areas on the cattle and sheep ranges.

The fact is snails are not desirable neighbors on sheep and cattle ranges. The snail brings with it trouble for the herds in the form of the liver fluke, a pest which infests and often kills sheep and to a lesser degree injures cattle.

The liver fluke has a complicated life history and exists in several forms between the time when it infests the liver of a sheep and the time when it returns to make another sheep unthrifty or to kill it. In the stage of its life before it enters the animal it lives as a parasite of fresh-water snails, the sort which live along the margins of ponds, streams, ditches, and puddles, or on vegetation in such places. After developing to a certain stage in snails, the fluke leave the snails and encyst on vegetation or on the surface of the water. Cattle and sheep swallow the encysted flukes when they drink water or eat vegetation in which these cysts are present, and the fluke starts on a complicated journey through the animal, ending in the liver, where it does serious damage.

It is essential, in eliminating the flukes from an area, to kill the snails in order to prevent reinfestation. It is also desirable to attack the flukes with medicine after they have reached the liver, and carbon tetrachloride is a good remedy for infested sheep, though not for cattle. Methods of treating cattle are still under investigation.

Parastologists of the United States Department of Agriculture are developing practical methods of killing snails wholesale. Snails are highly sensitive to weak solutions of copper sulphate. One part of copper sulphate in 150,000,000 parts of water will kill the snails and will not hurt sheep or cattle. It is easy to poison the snails in small streams by dropping a sack of copper sulphate into the stream near its source. On lowlands along the streams dusting with copper sulphate is effective. Boggy and marshy lands should be drained to eliminate snails, of fenced off to keep sheep and cattle out of these danger areas.

Snail killing is not so difficult! But what old-time cowboy could have imagined the job?
