Farm Board Plan Is Step in Right Direction, Business Men Are Told

First Gov't Effort To Aid Farmers Of Nation

Lubbock Banker Says Sympathetic Aid Should Be Given.

That the Farm Board Plan of aiding the marketing of the cotton crop of the south is a step in the right direction and that the plan adopted by the Board should be given a fair and sympathetic trial by business interests before it is condemned was the burden of a talk to some twenty local business men and farmers of Floyd County at a luncheon at the Del-Rue Cafe Tuesday evening, made by Floyd R. Friend, Lubbock banker.

Offers Means of Relief

The meeting, arranged by J. W. Lanier of the Farm Bureau Cotton Gin Company, resolved itself into a round table discussion of farm marketing problems, with Mr. Friend as the principal authority on the proposals made under the Farm Relief law and the plan of the Farm Board.

The plan does offer a means of relief for the present distressful marketing conditions, Mr. Friend declared in a twenty-minute address preceding the roundtable discussion, and although it may not be a perfect plan, the first step taken in the right direction and will give practical experience as a basis for future operations. As proof of the belief that the Farm Board expects to be of service to the cotton farmers of the south, he pointed to the fact that, although the contract with the member is based on a ten-year plan, the member has option of withdrawal entirely after the first two years and, further, is required under this contract to deliver only every other bale of his crop up to a twenty-bale crop, although he may deliver it all, seasonal, optional and daily pools are to be a part of the new plan in the same manner as under the Farm Bureau plan, which it supercedes.

"Aside from the broader policies evident in the plan of the Farm Board, the fact that the Board is amply financed and need not be subject to 'squeezing' operations during periods of low prices when more margins are required, is a big thing in favor of the plan working in actual practice," Mr. Friend said.

The speaker laid down as his premise the declaration that there must be found some means to get to the farmer some measure of aid similar to that given other labor and give to the farm home equal standards of living accorded people engaged in other industries. From this he argued that business men must lend sympathetic aid to the Farm Board, which is operating under the best information at present available, to give to the farmer the first measure of relief ever proffered by the Federal Government.

"Under present conditions we can't get hurt and the farmer can't get hurt even if the plan fails," he declared, voicing the opinion, "I am strong for a change, and I think it is our duty as business men to get in and give the plan an opportunity to work."

In explaining the detailed workings of the plan he said the receiving and assembling organization in this state is to be known as the Texas Cotton Co-operative Association, the selling agency is the American Cotton Co-operative Association, and the agency for absorbing the losses or assimilating profits that may come into the revolving fund is the Stabilization Corporation. Other details of cotton handling of advantage to the farmers, enumerated by the speaker, included proper classification and knowledge of sales values.

Tom A. White, District Commercial Manager of Southwestern Bell Telephone Company, who accompanied Mr. Friend, spoke briefly of the enthusiasm which had been evinced by business men and farmers in other sections of the plains area and gave it as his opinion that the plan had much merit and deserved support.

Half-Minute Interviews

"Crops are good out around Bovina and that section has had plenty of rain."—Mrs. Henry Cox.

"Hot Springs, N. M., is certainly a wonderful place for people suffering with rheumatism."—Pete Smith.

J. A. Arwine was down at Fort Worth on a visit the other day and he declares that it was so hot down there that a person could not turn on an electric fan "for if he did it would burn a hole right through him just like concentrating the sun's rays with a magnifying glass."

For the present he will not do further work as a regular church pastor, he told a reporter of the Hesperian yesterday. Another daughter is a teacher in Oklahoma City.

Rev. Collins who has been pastor of the church since 1926, will preach for the church here during the remainder of August. No plans had been announced for calling a successor this week.

Lewis Cafe Damaged By Fire Sunday Afternoon

Damage estimated at $3,500 resulted from a fire Sunday afternoon at 4 o'clock in the Lewis Cafe, 117 West California Street. The blaze originated when Bedford Lewis, owner and operator of the cafe, accidentally spilled grease on an open burner.

Considerable damage was done in the ceiling of the building, the walls and to the fixtures, it was stated. The brick building is owned by Mrs. B. F. Manasco. An estimated damage of $1,500 on the building done by the fire was covered by insurance, Mr. Manasco said. Mr. Lewis estimated his loss at $2,500, which was partially covered by insurance.

Efficient work of the Floydada Fire Department soon brought the flames under control.

Mr. Lewis stated that he would re-open for business just as soon as repairs could be made.

The department has answered three calls during the past six days in addition to the alarm Sunday. A blaze this morning at 5:30 o'clock in a small frame structure, owned by P. M. Felton, on East Virginia Street, was extinguished by chemicals as were two other small trash fires, one Saturday afternoon late at the new Fred Zimmerman home in West Floydada, and the other in the alley in the rear of Perry Bros. Store, 102 East California Street, Monday afternoon about 3:30 o'clock.

NICE, FAT WRECKS HELP BUSINESS OF GARAGE MAN

Three nice, fat wrecks of as many makes of automobiles helped the garage business in Floydada Monday. Nobody hurt and since there must be wrecks of course, why isn't it fair enough for them to happen near Floydada?

At any rate, a large sedan overturned on the Matador Highway 13 miles east Monday noon, a family being enroute to Carlsbad Cavern by motor. The shake-up, the garage bill and the general bad taste it left spoiled the fun and the party left the following day returning home without seeing the cavern.

Two other cars, smaller ones, were also towed in to Floydada the same day for repairs after turning over, one on the Ralls Road and the other on Highway 70. Nobody was injured in these wrecks, either.

Kitchen Band Scores Hit As Entertainers At College Station

Sand Hill Club Women Praised For Short Course Programs At A. & M.

Appearing on three different programs at the A. & M. Short Course last week the Sand Hill Kitchen Band, the most unique organization of its kind in the Panhandle, was praised as the outstanding entertainment feature at College Station. The band appeared as the concluding number in last Thursday night's program, the pageant "Texas the Magnificent." They also played Friday on the women's program, and again Friday night.

"Many compliments were heard on the organization and we feel that any one of the three programs they gave was worth the trip for Floyd County," declared Miss Marie Strange, county home demonstration agent who accompanied the band and the other club women of the county to the annual short course. As one of the encores the band played "Dixie" and the entire audience stood until they had finished the number.

Attendance at the short course this year reached the 4,000 mark. Floyd County had the largest delegation of club women that had ever attended from a West Texas county. There were 41 representatives from this county.

Miss Strange took part in the program Friday. She discussed the "how, when, why, and where" of the poultry industry on the farm.

The delegation of club women, 4-H Club girls, and several Floyd County farmers arrived at College Station Saturday, July 26, and returned home Sunday afternoon, August 3, at 6:40 o'clock. They had a special chartered Pullman over the Q. A. & P.

"We feel that all those who went received a number of valuable ideas and they are certainly enthusiastic over the trip," said Miss Strange.

Members of the Sand Hill Band making the trip and scoring such favor with their programs were as follows: Mrs. H. Jackson, director; Mesdames A. R. Hanna, W. E. Miller, J. H. Holmes, J. V. Greer, Ed Holmes, W. M. Jeter, Maggie Tinnin, Elmer Mickey, W. M. Knight, H. O. Shurbet, and Edna Ellis.

HOMEWARD BOUND GROUP DELAYED BY TRAIN WRECK

Homeward bound delegates from Floyd County to A. & M. College Short Course last Sunday morning were three or four hours behind the serious wreck on the Fort Worth & Denver main line near Oklaunion and were delayed some six hours in reaching Floydada. Their Q. A. & P. train, which was to have arrived at Floydada at 12:40 p. m. did not get to Floydada until after 6 o'clock.

Practically all of the Floyd County delegation, except parties who made an excursion to Galveston following the short course, were on the train that was delayed.

Two were killed and fifteen were injured at an underpass near Oklaunion, when a fast train hit a crooked track over the highway, where a heavy boiler pulled by a truck had struck the track and knocked it several inches out of alignment.

One party that made the trip to Galveston was composed of Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Watson, Mrs. Clayton Weathers, and Miss Pauline Teaff of Prairie Chapel, Mrs. Geo. West and Mrs. J. C. Simpson of South Plains, part of whom reached home Monday and the remainder Tuesday.

Lockney Man Kills Self, Despondent Over Wife's Death

Rufus Phillips, 44, Found Dead at Father's Home Near Lockney Sunday.

A verdict of suicide was given by a coroner over the body of Rufus Phillips, 44, who was found shot and fatally injured on his father's farm near Lockney Sunday night. Despondency over the death of his wife, who was killed two years ago in an automobile accident in New Mexico, is declared by relatives to have led to the fatal shooting. A note saying "I am no good for anything," and bidding his two children good bye, and asking his parents to care for them, was found in the man's clothing.

According to reports received by The Hesperian yesterday afternoon, the tragedy occurred at the home of the deceased's father, R. C. Phillips, 12 miles north of Lockney. The deceased had retired to his room, and shortly afterwards a shot rang out. A sixteen year old brother rushed into the room, to find his brother in a dying condition. The shooting occurred at about 7 o'clock Sunday evening. The injured man died less than three hours later.

Mr. Phillips has resided with his parents near Lockney since the death of his wife two years ago. He is survived by both parents, one son, eight years old, and one daughter, twelve years of age. He is also survived by several brothers and sisters, who reside near Lockney.

Funeral services were held from the First Baptist Church in Lockney Tuesday afternoon, and interment was made in the Lockney cemetery.

A ninth-inning rally which included a three base hit by Johnson and a home run by Hart gave Floydada three runs and the victory. Plainview had won the three previous matches by a one-run margin.

Hatchell, Dallas attorney, spoke Saturday afternoon in the interest of the candidacy of Ross Sterling of Houston. Dr. Joe McCollum of Lockney followed Mr. Hatchell's address with a talk supporting the candidacy of Miriam A. Ferguson for governor.

The Crippled Lady Of Peribonka

By James Oliver Curwood

W.N.U. Service

The human element of this story is enriched by a study in heritage—genealogy. Noble blood of two races united. In one case, primitive and savage, but none the less royal; in the other, civilized and cultured to the highest degree. This phase is based on the historical union, some century and a half ago, between the Indian maiden known as Molly Brant, sister of Thayendanegea that greatest of Mohawk chiefs, and Sir William Johnson, representative of King George III in the colonies.

Down through the years to a descendant, to a Molly Brant of the present time, married to a Croesus and living in a palace in the city of New York. Through her son, a throw-back to type, the blood of the original Molly Brant comes into its own. This blending of the primitive and the modern is one of the greatest fascinations of the story. It is given an appropriate setting—in a village far back in Quebec where the Eighteenth century touches elbows with the Twentieth. The American melting pot is symbolized in the Crippled Lady herself.

The late James Oliver Curwood was a writer of adventure stories who had a most wonderful faculty for catching the spirit and translating the romance of a chosen locality. It was singularly fortunate that his affections centered about the north country, about the Habitant sections of Quebec and those farther reaches of forests and snows toward the Arctic.

No one has written more or better stories about the regions he loved than Curwood. New editions of his works make their appearance with new novels regularly than did new novels from his pen during life. One of his last books was "The Crippled Lady of Peribonka," a tale that will be read and read again for many years.

with no neighbors or obstructions between them and the river. For the river is a living, breathing, God-sent thing to the French-speaking people of the place, about whose drowsy lives there still remains, like a sweet-scented veil of old lavender lace, the picturesque simplicity of their great-great-grandfathers of a hundred and fifty years ago.

In contrast to the roaring, passionate Mistassini, fifteen miles away, the Peribonka is peculiarly like the men and women and children who inhabit a few acres of its shores. It has, I believe, given to them much of their character, for of all the people in the habitant country those of Peribonka are the gentlest and most lovable. Even in the floodtimes of spring it is not an angry or menacing river, and in winter it is so genially smooth and well frozen that the habitant farmers use it for their horse-and-cutting races, or as a trail by which to come to town. In spite of its great size and vast forces behind it, the kindness and gentleness of its nature must have made its people what they are. The men are truthful, their morals are right, they believe in God as well as in spirits, they are clean and courteous and hospitable. The women are bright eyed, clear skinned, unroughed, unbobbed, pretty. These people are always looking toward the river, in the evening when they go to bed, in the morning when they get up. They have built their picturesque little church facing it, and the good Father sleeps with his bedroom window opening upon it. The local cemetery occupies an acre of hallowed ground within a hundred feet of the water's edge. A venerable monastery is built at the mouth of it.

Until quite recently the two happiest people in the village of Peribonka were Maria Chapdelaine and her husband Samuel. They are still happy, although Samuel is a bit overcast at present because of a financial loss which has come to him. For years Samuel has run his little store and Maria her kitchen, in which she prepares delectable meals for the few transients who come their way, and until this recent time to which I have referred, there is good reason to believe she was the happiest woman in her little world.

Now there is another. They call her the Crippled Lady. She is often seen sitting on the wide veranda of a quaint little home in a garden of flowers just this side of the church. There is a road which completely encircles Lac St. Jean, connecting the villages and farms in its narrow rim of civilization, and during the tourist season occasional automobiles pass through Peribonka. Their occupants always stare at the Crippled Lady if she happens to be on her porch. She is a vision of loveliness which one cannot easily forget. Women talk about her, and men silently bear away a picture of her in their hearts. Her beauty, if one has only a moment's contemplation of it, strikes almost with a shock. It is Slavic—thick, dark, shining hair drawn smoothly back, a face clearly white as a nun's, unforgettable eyes, a slim beautiful figure in a big chair—and something else. It is that other thing which photographers her so vividly and so permanently upon one's consciousness. Perhaps it is some time before one realizes that what has been seen is not beauty alone but happiness. The Crippled Lady, who cannot walk, who cannot stand alone, is happy, and she covets nothing which God has not already given her. Her voice tells you that.

"The people of Peribonka love this charming foreigner, who has made her home among them. The women are not jealous of her. She makes the significance of purity and beauty nearer and more comprehensive for the men. The Church prayed for her when she was very sick. She is of all religions, just loving God, so that even the sternest of the monks in their grim white walls down near the lake speak and think of her tenderly. The children worship her, and the big wide porch of her home has become a shrine for them. In Peribonka youth still continues to grow up into manhood and womanhood believing with great faith in the visible existence of spirit, both good and bad, and in the varied and frequent manifestations of a divine interest and watchfulness. So the children have come to believe that it was a miracle which sent the Crippled Lady through the doors of death and then brought her safely back again, that she might remain with them always. Even the mothers and fathers believe this, just as surely as they believe it is a sin to steal from one's neighbor or speak falsehood against him. "Thus works the hand of God," the good Father has said. So the Church believes it, too.

They all know her story. And that story is an epic which will live for a long time in the country about Lac St. Jean. I doubt if it will die until the so-called progress of industrially active man thrusts up its grimy hand and inundates it, along with the quaintness and beauty and satisfying nearness to God of living up there.

It is this story I have set out to tell, with a bit of geography to begin with—who the Crippled Lady is and why she is there, how she bravely tried to give up her life for another woman's husband, and why she lives today so happily in Peribonka.

Sunday School Lesson

VALUE OF A GODLY HOME

The International Uniform Sunday School Lesson for Aug. 10. The Value of a Godly Home. I Sam. 1:9-18, 24-28; 2:19.

The president of one of the best-known of American colleges not long ago emphasized the difficulty of certain problems of discipline in connection with student life because of the influence of the ideas and habits prevalent in the homes from which these students came.

Whether, because there is laxity on the part of students in certain directions, re-enforced by laxity on the part of their parents, the fundamental law of the land affecting certain matters should be changed, may be seriously open to question; but the president of this university was on safe enough ground in indicating that where there is no proper discipline or encouragement for the home, the problem of those who are seeking to educate and guide youth is greatly intensified. The quality of a people and of a country ultimately depends upon the quality of its homes and its home life.

Better influences outside of the home have occasionally operated to produce some noble type of man whose energy and ambition have enabled him to create for himself a newer and better environment, but it is doubtful whether there is one case in ten where a man of noble and useful character comes out of a home environment that is low and sordid. Even where the outward environment of the home seems to suggest of the home seems to suggest of advantage or luxury, if the moral atmosphere be corrupt the influence will destroy the foundation of true character.

The Parents' Responsibility
All this would seem to be so true as to be self-evident, yet it is marvelous how home influences are neglected. It is appalling to think of the number of parents who do not take the responsibility to parentage with any seriousness, or who start so late, or who show themselves so ineffective in the training of their children, that the children may be said to grow up with no real guidance at all.

From this condition of neglect and inefficiency in the training of the young it is a pleasure to turn to the positive side and to contemplate the achievements of good homes and good parentage in the production of good lives. Here in our lesson we have the portrait of a godly mother—a mother in instinct and purpose before a child had actually come into her life, seeking earnestly the fulfillment of her hopes, and in the time of fulfillment remembering to the letter her vows and her prayers.

Hannah, devoted to her young son, Samuel, gives him none the less to the service of religion as she had vowed. She brings him, after he had weaned him, to the holy house in Shiloh, and there she pledges him to Eli, the priest, to perform such duties, as Eli may give him in personal service and in the service of the tabernacle.

The Hannahs and Samuels have been by no means limited to the records of scripture or to ancient times. Not long ago I read of a mother in a humble home in a little hamlet of Scotland who back in the middle of last century was rearing seven sons. Every one of these became a man of eminence and usefulness in the world, and every one of them traced the determining influence of his life to this godly and devoted mother.

Nor are these influences always the influences of the mother, or of the father alone. Sometimes the ideals and influences of the father become the determining factor in the lives of the children, especially where the mother shares these ideals and influences.

Mrs. R. S. Stokes, of Lometa, Texas, arrived last week to visit here with her brother, B. P. Woody and family.

Misses Prebble and Annie Lee Durham, of Sterling City, Texas, arrived here last Thursday for a visit with their sister, Mrs. C. H. Davis. They returned home Sunday.

Over 15,000 Daily Demand New Sargon

Vast Growing Army of Sargon Users, Marching Single File, Would Encircle Globe in Only Few Years Time.

(By Richard L. Simms)
ATLANTA, GA.:—More like a tale from the Arabian Nights of old than a record of modern business achievement reads the story of the marvelous growth and development of Sargon, the New Scientific Compound which has become the sensation of the drug trade throughout the United States Canada and other countries.

The old illustration of the pebble dropped into the pool best describes the phenomenal and unprecedented demand and its fame is rapidly spreading over the entire American Continent like a great tidal wave. Recently compiled figures reveal that approximately 15,000 men and women are marching into the drug stores daily for Sargon and Sargon Soft Mass Pills, the marvelous new treatment that is restoring health to countless thousands by new and remarkable methods undreamed of only a few years ago.

Already more than 5,000,000 suffering men and women have put it to the test and have told other millions what it has done for them. Marching in regulation U. S. Army fashion—single file—this vast army of Sargon users would reach from New York to San Francisco and at the present rate of sale—would, in a few years time, encircle the entire globe.

The only explanation of Sargon's triumph in the Medical World is Sargon's true worth. Back of its triumph in the drug stores is its triumph in the homes and it is the grateful endorsements of its millions of users that has made it the most widely talked of medicine in the world today.

Sargon is extensively advertised, it is true, but no preparation, no matter how extensively advertised, could possibly meet with such phenomenal success unless it possessed absolute merit and extraordinary powers as a medicine.

There can be but one possible explanation for Sargon's amazing success and it can be told in one word—MERIT!

50 Years' Use of Black-Draught
"About fifty years ago," says Mr. Lewis G. O'Shields, of Portersville, Ala., "my mother gave me the first dose of Black-Draught, and I have taken it ever since, when I needed a medicine for constipation. I have used this remedy all my married life, in raising my children.
"I have used Black-Draught for heartburn, as I have had spells of this kind, off and on, for years. This follows indigestion, and indigestion comes close on constipation.
"I have found that the best way to head off trouble is to begin taking Black-Draught in time. It relieves me of dizziness, tightness in the chest and backache.
"By getting rid of impurities, Black-Draught helps to keep the system in good order. I always keep it in the home, and have recommended it to many people, in my time."

A Friend in Need

The best "friend in need" in case of fire, accident, theft or death is—INSURANCE; and the average person carries less than half the insurance he should for the protection of property and family. And by insurance is meant all kinds of insurance.

For there are all kinds of insurance available. In fact, to list them here would more than fill the page. That is why we have "insurance specialists." There are men in this town who specialize in insurance, and who should be consulted about your insurance problems just as you consult your doctor on the problems of your health.

These men can advise you as to your individual insurance needs. They can help you secure the protection to which you and your family are entitled.

INSURANCE is an important COMMUNITY PROBLEM! Lack of insurance is one of the primary causes of poverty; and poverty in a community works a hardship on everyone. TO BE PROPERLY INSURED is an OBLIGATION WHICH IS OWED YOUR FELLOW-TOWNSMAN!

There is no definite schedule of insurance which a person should carry! Individual conditions and circumstances govern individual cases.

PROPER INSURANCE PROTECTION SHOULD HAVE THE FOLLOWING SCOPE;

- 1: Protection of family in case of death.
- 2: Protection of property against all types of loss.
- 3: Protection of income in case of accident or sickness.
- 4: Protection for age-retirement.

YOUR insurance problem is worthy of intelligent thought and action NOW.

Many towns have been seriously handicapped by individual poverty due to inadequate life insurance protection or to devastating fires without proper fire insurance protection. Let's not take these chances in

THE OLD SETTLERS

The Old Settlers meet again in a few days and in reminiscence will live over again the old times, the days from the eighties to the early nineteen hundreds.

It might be well for some of us newcomers to watch the old timers and emulate their good traits of patience, fortitude, and grit.

IS OR ARE POLITICS WARM?

Perhaps politics neither is nor are warm. Maybe they or it is or are not, warm being too mild to express the thought.

Anyway, with the new alignments hardly a week old, the speakings and the street arguments are plentiful, and everybody is enjoying them. Few, if any, have become hostile at the neighbors, which is as well.

ADJUSTMENT MAY BE SLOW

Readjustments in business have been made and the band wagon is on its way again, we are told, which may be true where the job was started six months or a year earlier than in this section.

That is not to say that any of us need to let up or give up. It does mean that more than a month or two is yet to pass before we have "good" times again.

However, don't be downhearted. All of us will see through and do about as well as our ability and energy will permit.

DIRECTED PLAY

Directed play, such as has been instituted under the guidance of club women of the community, working through organizations allied in human service, will be worth a lot to many a boy or girl in Floydada during the dull days of summer when the energy natural to the youth gets a healthy outlet.

All of us are more or less one-sided. Play and association under healthy environment helps develop the weaker parts of the average personality, resulting in more normal beings, more capable of standing the stress of later problems that are certain to come.

T. J. Heard nearly quit The Hesperian right in the middle of the road last week, because we can't see Ma for the Sterling smoke, but was somewhat cooled off, when the editor, to keep him in a good humor tussled around and found a definitely Ferguson vote to apply on killing the vote the newspaper man would cast.

As a matter of fact, no newspaperman is taken as seriously by his readers as he takes himself, so that whether The Hesperian gets behind Mr. Sterling or helps to put Mrs. Ferguson in the gubernatorial seat will be forgotten by most everybody but himself in sixty days, maybe sooner.

KEEP YOUR TREES RIGHT

Summer as we have been calculated to be a tough one for all kinds, shade trees that grow and are true in the garden, but first must supply the family and the live stock about the place.

the trees and gardens, but first must supply the family and the live stock about the place.

But seeing the trees through, whether in town or country, in a time like this when there is plenty of heat and not enough water to go around, so far as the weepings from the heavens are concerned, will repay in pleasure of living satisfaction, greater civic beauty.

Give your trees all the attention you can. Miss a political argument or two, if necessary. Next spring you'll be wishing for trees and the tourists will be wondering what kind of folks we are to plant trees and then let them shrivel up and stand as monuments to our carelessness.

A FRIEND IN NEED

How many of us have ever thought how good a town Floydada is depends much on how much insurance we carry and how much insurance our neighbor carries?

The Community Message carried this week on another page of the paper brings it out in a brief but effective way. "A Friend in Need" is what we all want, and those of us who have been unfortunate enough to collect on a protection insurance policy realize that insurance is certainly that.

What the rate of increase in the amount of insurance carried by the American public in the last ten years has been is evidence of the increasing importance of insurance in family life today.

Westward Ho!—where men are men and women are—governors. Here's a hot one, folks. I noticed in the state papers where a scientist is trying to obtain a temperature of 450 degrees below zero.

Truly, to be insured properly is an obligation which we owe our fellow-townsmen.

And while the average amount of insurance carried by the average citizen all over the country is rapidly increasing, still the amount per capita is numbered in dollars and tens of dollars rather than hundreds and thousands of dollars.

Insurance is just another way in which we can better our own personal conditions, our own family conditions, and beyond them, our community conditions.

FLOYD COUNTY 14 YEARS AGO

News items taken from files of the Floyd County Hesperian published in Floydada fourteen years ago.

ISSUE OF AUGUST 10, 1916

Earl Reagan, Oliver Gross, E. L. Campbell and John Hammonds, of Sand Hill made a very easy capture of three wolves last week in the Callahan pasture in Mr. Hammonds' c'ack when they drove out about seven o'clock one afternoon some ten miles west of Floydada.

J. A. Seale & Son, South Main Grocers, put on an auto delivery service for the accommodation of their city trade, beginning last Saturday. Hubert will drive the auto.

Robbins & Darsey closed a deal the latter part of the week between W. S. Thomas and Geo. R. Tibbetts, whereby the latter becomes owner of the town Thomas sections adjacent to the Fairview School north-east of Floydada.

W. E. Buckley, Raymond Buckley and wife and Harry Benton spent last mid-week in Brownsfield on business.

Early this week C. Surginer sold his residence in the southeast portion of town to Ira D. Gamble. The sale carries with it three lots 50 by 150 feet. Mr. Surginer has resided at the place just sold ever since moving to Floydada.

Jokes in Jest

The government announces that the consumer dollar goes further now than it did in 1920. Further away, is what probably is meant.

A house has been erected in London without doors. Probably by sympathetic builders who know how it is to get hard knocks.

Rumanian girl is nearly seven tall and is still growing. If it is down-hearted now she's in a drowsy later on.

'Round The Square

With Old Battleaxe (Himself)

John A. Enoch, who last week read the Community Builders' Page in the Hesperian, entitled "Under the Spreading Chestnut Tree..." says that it used to be "Under the Spreading Chestnut Tree, the Village Smithy Stands," but now it is "Under the spreading Blacksmith Shop the village chestnut stands."

Have you heard the new Texas State song. It is dedicated to "Ma" Ferguson and goes something like this: "Tie me to your apron strings again, I know it ere's room for me upon your knee."

Westward Ho!—where men are men and women are—governors.

Here's a hot one, folks. I noticed in the state papers where a scientist is trying to obtain a temperature of 450 degrees below zero.

Folks, I want it clearly understood right now that Old Battleaxe, Halitosis and all of our family relations are going to use extreme care in casting our ballot in the second primary.

Along about the middle of January Mrs. E. L. Angus invited Old Battleaxe over to have dinner with her the first time she cooked a meal.

Folks, I remember way back when I was just a kid in the first and second grades in school, Uncle Joe Day used to come up and make us a speech each year.

Blessed are the poor. For they can pick up their pork chops in their hands and eat them any way they want to.

Recently when I made my four day extended tour of the southwest, I found lots of roads in New Mexico that were under improvement or in the process of being built, and at every detour, they had a great big red sign that said: "DETOUR, The Sign of Progress."

Blessed are the poor. For they can pick up their pork chops in their hands and eat them any way they want to.

Thinking along this line, it looks to me like there are lots of people right here in Floyd County who ought to have "Detour" signs hung on their persons.

Say, folks, I've made a great discovery. There ain't no use to worry no more about black cats. It don't always mean bad luck when a black cat crosses your path.

Last week I made a trip to Plainview and a black cat ran right square dab across the road in front of me right in Lockney.

engine trouble nor nothing. I just didn't have no bad luck at all. But say, don't a fellow drive careful for about two hours after a black cat crosses his path?

ALONG LIFE'S WAY by Lawrence Hawthorne. These are the things I ask of each new day: A happy heart to cheer me on my way; The chance to do some deed of helpfulness, And work that brings a measure of success; Enjoyment of the beauties Nature traces In wood and field and restful wayside places; The comfort that a cozy fireside lends; And joyful comradeship of loyal friends.

The Roundup

A Sidewalk Review Mostly About People and Personalities in Floyd County.

By The Cowhand Scribe

This week the Cowhand is feeling just right with the world for J. H. Shurbet brought in three big freestone peaches from a tree at his home, 402 South Main Street, and didn't even mention the Official Easter. Result: Some plain and fancy "chompin'" by all the friends of the Cowhand in the office with the exception, of course, of O. T.

Mr. Shurbet brought in a lamb with some fourteen temptin' specimens danglin' therefrom earlier in the week and asked the old Cowhand "to look at 'em." But he made up for the disappointment later.

B. Massey, who makes his home down on the TM Bar Ranch says that the water in Blanco Canyon is getting down mighty low and which brings up the subject of dry weather and an interesting little occurrence Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Ham Smith and children were Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Dooley, of Sand Hill. Mr. and Mrs. Bob Smith of Floydada, were also guests of the Dooleys.

Old Fashions Return To Screen In Talkies

The cycle of fashions has returned to the period when the girls were dressed in laces and plumes. As yet they haven't been accepted but slowly the pendulum is swinging back to the type of dress expressing the more feminine mood.

Already the long gloves have been adopted, along with the long skirts and three-quarter length sleeves. The hair is also being worn in chignons in place of in the boyish bob.

The small waistline is also being glimpsed in some of the new styles as is the bustle and peplum effect. From Paris we hear rumors of the vogue for modest bathing suits and large hats.

At the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer studios, too, the girls have been wearing plumes in their hats and carrying lacy parasols. In this instance, however, they were wearing costumes of the days of "The Florodora Girl" which, as Marion Davies' latest starring picture, will be shown at the Palace Theatre on Wednesday and Thursday of next week.

From bathing suits to street dresses, from afternoon frocks to elaborate evening gowns, these styles worn by Miss Davies and her feminine supporting cast reveal lines that are startlingly near the modern vogue.

Master Farm Homemakers Of Texas

THESE FIVE WOMEN, CHOSEN TO REPRESENT THE RURAL HOMEMAKERS OF TEXAS, WILL COMPRISE THE THIRD GROUP TO RECEIVE THE MASTER FARM HOMEMAKER RECOGNITION AWARDED ANNUALLY BY THE FARMER'S WIFE, THE NATIONAL FARM WOMEN'S MAGAZINE, ST. PAUL, MINN., WITH THE CO-OPERATION OF THE EXTENSION SERVICE OF TEXAS A AND M COLLEGE.

Five Texas Women Get Title Of Master Farm Homemaker

Gold Pin Emblems Awarded; Banquet Given At A. & M.

College Station.—Texas farm women as very material contributors to the welfare of the state were honored on the opening day of the twenty-first annual Farmers Short Course here Monday in the award by The Farmer's Wife, national farm women's magazine, St. Paul, Minn., with the cooperation of the Extension Service, A. & M. College of Texas, of the title of Master Farm Homemaker to five outstanding farm wives of the state.

The five women accorded the recognition winners in the statewide competition, are: Mrs. John McCarrroll, Mobeetie, Wheeler County; Mrs. L. H. Lane, Mission, Hill County; Mrs. C. B. McBride, Brown County; Mrs. O. A. Blankenship, Amarillo, Potter County; Mrs. J. L. Lumpkin, Bowie County.

In the presence of a host of farm men and girls attending the short course, the five winners were presented by Miss Lucile W. Reynolds, The Farmer's Wife staff, with gold pins emblematic of the title accorded. The five women in question are Texas representatives among nearly 100 outstanding farm women of twenty-one states to be honored by the farm women's magazine and cooperating state colleges this year. They make up the third group accorded such recognition in Texas.

The five were selected on basis of records by state judging committee of which Miss Bess Edwards, assistant state home demonstration agent of the Extension Service, was chairman. The winners are mothers of two to seven children and reside on farms of 12 to 640 acres.

Luncheon honoring the winners was tendered by the farm women's magazine at noon following the awards.

SOIL FERTILITY EASILY HELD ON TERRACED LAND

At the soil-erosion experiment station farm near Guthrie, Okla., last year a field cultivated for the first time produced 75 per cent more lint cotton per acre than another field that had been cultivated for 30 years, according to the United States Department of Agriculture. The old field produced 83 pounds per acre, the new field 155 pounds.

Both fields were terraced before the crop was planted last year, and otherwise were treated exactly alike. The poor yield of the old field, the department explains, is a result of the removal of great quantities of plant food during the 30 years—not alone by cropping, however, but by the gradual washing away of the rich top soil, plant food and all, by sheet erosion. A soil survey had shown that each field originally had a surface slope of about 5 per cent; that erosion had taken from the old field from 10 to 16 inches of the surface soil, and that practically no erosion had occurred in the virgin field. Both fields originally were of the same type of soil.

The terraces on the eroded field have prevented further loss of soil, the department says, but it will take several years and much labor and expense to restore the soil to its former productivity. Terraces on the new land will prevent loss by erosion and the fertility of the soil can be maintained easily.

The Department of Agriculture, in cooperation with State agricultural experiment stations, is now studying the soil-erosion problem at six MEET looking fellow he was. Came in the other day and thanked me for selling him Delco-Light. Says he's lots more easy in his mind since his wife got an electric iron and a vacuum sweeper.

"Them old-fashioned irons was awful sorta durable," he says, a feeling a lump on the back of his neck. "And a vacuum sweeper's not near as handy as a broom to soak a fellow with. Now I wonder if you know where I could get a soft rubber rollin' pin."

I guess that's one reason for having Delco-Light I never thought of. I don't think I'll be able to use it much at that. What with comfort, convenience and farm profits, I've got all the arguments I can use.

NEW RURAL BUILDINGS

A dual-purpose type of building is appearing in rural communities which fulfills more functions, houses more activities and centralizes the varied economic and social interests of the community more effectively than does the ordinary community building, says the United States Department of Agriculture. Modern farm organizations recognize that farming is a mode of living rather than merely a business; they plan their community buildings to closely relate the economic and social factors in the conduct of their business.

"DAYLIGHT-SAVING" BIRDS

The graceful Arctic terns, some of which breed close to the North Pole and spend their winters not far from the South Pole, are without doubt the champion "globe trotters" and "daylight savers" of the bird world. Some individuals must make an annual round trip of about 22,000 miles from their breeding grounds to their winter quarters and return. They also probably enjoy more hours of daylight than any other creature living; before they reach their breeding grounds in the Arctic the midnight sun has already appeared, while during their sojourn in the Antarctic daylight is continuous.

Individual birds of this species, according to Frederick C. Lincoln, of the Biological Survey of the United States Department of Agriculture, make the longest flights known to science. An Arctic tern banded as a chick on the coast of Labrador was found about three months later near La Rochelle, France. Another fledgling banded at the same point was found on the beach at Margate, about 15 miles southwest of Port Shepstone, Natal, South Africa, about three months after being banded, during which time it had flown not less than 8,000 miles.

GARDEN BRINGS HEALTH

Huntsville—A half-acre garden has reduced doctor bills from "hundreds of dollars to $11 last year" in the family of Mrs. J. H. Neiderhofer of the Pine Valley Home Demonstration Club in Walker county. With 700 containers of home grown fruits, vegetables and meats on her pantry shelf she has been able to serve well balanced meals in short order, and the saving in grocery bills and health is inestimable, she says.

"Nothing goes to waste," Mrs. Neiderhofer states, "and what isn't canned goes to market. With the help of three of my girls who are 4-H club members I am carrying demonstrations in the 4-H pantry, poultry flock management and living room improvement. My 112 laying hens made me a net profit in a recent month of $35.00 after paying the feed bills."

OTIS CARTER VIS

Mr. and Mrs. Otis Carter of O'Donnell have been the guests here of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. D. P. Carter, since the latter part of last week. They were accompanied to Floydada by Mrs. Carter's sister, Miss Dorris Jo Thomas of Fort Worth.

Otis has been editor of the O'Donnell Index since the first of the year of the O'Donnell Index. He sold his interests in the newspaper week before last he said.

The Floyd County Of Tomorrow

What the Floyd County of tomorrow will be depends on what we, as a community, have to offer new citizens and new business concerns.

To encourage new industries to come to Floyd County, and the entire Panhandle section, we must offer every advantage that a modern community can give—chief among which is Electrical Power.

Not just enough to serve present needs but show a reserve in both ability to produce and financial backing to supply the section, regardless of what the demands may be.

This is just the capacity this firm is seeking to fill in Floyd County.

(By Mrs. W. D. Newell)

the Month of August Got It's Name. The light of current proposals reformed calendar of thirteen equal length, it is interesting to note how the variable of our present months came about. August presents an existing in the old Roman calendar that was called Sextilis. "The month of a year which starts with the spring, and had twenty-five days. Julius Caesar, in re-forming the calendar, gave it thirty days. When Augustus became emperor, he imitated Julius ("July") by naming a month for himself; and, not to be outdone in glory, took a day from February and added it to August, which has since had thirty-one days.

Tuesday morning August 5th and rather conditions in this part of a country are still very dry, however as I write, conditions look more promising than it has had several weeks. The eastern sky dark with lightning once in a while and an occasional thunder, here's hoping.

A. D. Cummings Finds Many Things Of Interest in City of Chicago

Negroes Attend School With Whites, He Says

(Editor's Note: Here's something of interest about Chicago and written in clear-cut style by A. D. Cummings, principal of Floydada High School next year, who is attending summer school in the University of Chicago. He tells in this exclusive article to the Hesperian of some of the things he has seen in the famous city). Following is his special letter:

5461 Blackston Ave., Chicago, Ill., July 29, 1930.

Chicago presents so many things that are of interest to me that I hardly know how to write about them. It will be hard to stay in any one field, and this sketch will be of a rambling nature.

I would like to say something about the University. There are so many beautiful buildings there that one has no idea how to estimate the extent of wealth that has been spent upon it. Of course, it is very old, but most of the buildings are modern. The first school was held there about 1856. The University was endowed by John D. Rockefeller, and has received many endowments since that time. It does not have to want for money. In an article in a Chicago paper a few days ago I noticed that it had been given nearly an hundred thousand dollars during one month.

Faculty Requirements Rigid In securing teachers the University reaches all over the United States, and sometimes into Europe. They have, of course, more visiting teachers during the summer than at any other time. I have one professor that lives at Houston, and teaches at Rice. There are rigid requirements on the teaching force. If one is not well known, he does not teach here. Most of the teachers have doctor degrees, and have written books that are widely known.

The personnel of the school is very interesting, especially to one from the South. There are many negroes, Japs, and Chinese in the student body. Of course, there are almost all other nationalities, but they are not so noticeable. It is worth quite a bit to see negroes that are well educated, and can talk with a great deal of enlightenment. I think that they are to be complimented on being able to get into college, but do not understand me to say that I believe in negro equality. I think that it would be better to have them in a school to themselves. However, negroes are not nearly so equal here as it is sometimes supposed. That is especially true at the University. They are not treated as equals in a social way at all, but are merely given equal opportunity with the whites in school. All these things give one a little different outlook on life, and makes him appreciate a little more keenly the things that are being done in the world. It is my belief that in the next century the question of race is going to be one of the biggest problems with which the world will have to deal.

Library One of Largest The library of the University is one of the largest in the world. It is well stocked, and seems to have a very efficient operating force. It has, however, a contemplated program of improvement. There is no need for anyone failing to find material on any subject, and these professors don't fail to assign it to us. But with so many books to pick from one has little difficulty finding something that can be really enjoyed.

Chicago is one of the best equipped cities in the United States for parks. There are three immense parks all connected by the Lake Shore Drive. The negroes have just about taken one of them, but there doesn't seem to be much that can be done about it. The white people just don't go there. The parks are all well lighted, and well policed.

The drives are wide and arranged so that driving is made as pleasant as possible in heavy traffic. There are all kinds of grounds for lunches, tennis courts, and golf courses. There are little yacht harbors scattered through the parks. These are very beautiful when full of the little boats of all colors. These parks are about the only thing here that affords the million of working people any form of amusement at all. The poorest and the richest all seem to go there. There is plenty of room and entertainment for all.

The lake is all that makes Chicago cool enough to live in. During all this hot weather everybody has been saying if the wind will just blow off the lake it will be cool. It is a sight indeed to see the number of people that are on the beach these hot days. One person said that each one, picked out his own little grain of sand, and lived on it. There seemed to be that many there Sunday afternoon, and they were still pouring in in huge droves. Everybody seems to have a good time on the beach. There is really less swimming than anything else. Five hundred thousand were reported to be on the beach yesterday.

Lake Drive Pretty The Lake Front Drive is very beautiful. The drive is wide enough for several cars to drive abreast. It looks as if all the cars in the world are on the drive sometimes. They pass where they can best get by, and that is a little confusing to one from the South. The city has arranged all kinds of ingenious devices for controlling traffic. There are cops all along the drive. They demand that one drive fast.

There are many wonderful institutions here that I would like to write about, but space does not permit here. There is the wonderful City Library, Art Institute, Field Museum, Soldiers' Field, Shedd Aquarium, and Adler Planetarium. These will be used as a nucleus around which will be built the buildings in which the World's Fair of 1933 will be housed.

Four Floydada Boys Explore; FIND BIG BED OF LAVA-BUT IT HAD COOLED OFF Travel In 'Partnership' Auto

(By W. B. May)

"They couldn't tell up from down," was the report given by four tired and dirty boys as they returned from a trip covering over 1100 miles in the state of New Mexico Tuesday afternoon. The trip covered a week's time and carried them to many points of interest. They carried their bedding and camping equipment and lived in the old Ford. The boys were Winfred Newsome, John Key West, John E. Smith and W. B. May. The trip was made in a partnership car—Mr. Newsome furnished the car and the other boys ran it.

They left here on Wednesday morning and going by Lubbock made Hobbs, New Mexico the first stop of interest. However as they did not have sufficient guardians along (in their own minds) they did not tarry long in this fair city(?) They say that they were careful to leave there early enough to be able to get out of its way before dark came on. The old Ford just naturally went west when they left Hobbs, and it made its next stop at Carlsbad. "That is one beautiful city and it sure looks good after traveling on the dry country all day," they said. Most people who go there remark talking about the wonderful cavern but Carlsbad deserves some credit for its beauty.

Thursday took them through the cavern and here they could talk all day, but all they can say is go and see it for yourself. There might be some interesting points about the cavern and its visitors to the public, here were over 19,500 people who saw the wonders of the cavern during the month of July and the day they went through there were 550 people to go through and of this number 344 were Texans.

On Friday they went toward Roswell and saw some very pretty farming country in the irrigated section. However the high points in the days travel were the 60-mile west of Roswell, and then of all Ruidoso—The play of the Southwest. This is a beautiful place they had heard their lives was the unanimity report of the boys. Immediately joining was the Apache Reservation with a real Indian that was very attractive.

were missing. Mountainair was the first place of note on this route and it was interesting because of the winding road that led up to it. It was probably the highest altitude reached on the trip. The grave of "Billy The Kid," Mexico's romantic outlaw was visited on the return trip and his old territory was passed around Ft. Sumner. The remainder of the trip was made via Clovis.

On the whole the trip was successful and very enjoyable. Excepting seven flats there was no car trouble. They say it makes you feel lucky when you wake up and find did Tuesday morning and found themselves in a red ant bed and not get stung, but wait a minute, on this same morning they ran two large spiders and a centipede over three inches long out of their bedding. Another rare sight was a one way bridge over a rather wide mountain stream containing a highway and a railroad track. It seems like they were trying to have street cars out in the mountains. Life in an automobile is fine and they are going to try it again as soon as they have a chance and if the Ford is running well Grand Canyon will be their goal on the next trip.

'The Unholy Three' Is Chaney's First All-Talking Film

Having waited until a period of extensive experimenting had proved that he could do as strange and unusual things with the microphone as he has done in the past with the make-up box, Lon Chaney will make his all-talking picture debut next Sunday, Monday and Tuesday at the Palace Theatre in "The Unholy Three," talking version of his silent success of some years ago, directed by Jack Conway and with a supporting cast which includes Lila Lee, Elliott Nugent, Harry Earles, John Miljan, Ivan Linow, Clarence Burton and Crawford Kent.

Information is that Chaney purposely asked Merto-Goldwyn-Mayer to give him the curious Clarence Aaron Robbins story as his first dialogue vehicle because of the fact that it permitted him to enter the talkie field with a smash; enabling him not only to talk, but to do so in five different voices, something entirely new to the screen and typical of Chaney's inimitable ability to mystify movie-audiences. Whereas in the past, people have been hard put to tell which of the many "faces" Chaney used on the screen came nearest to his actual physiognomy they will now be equally baffled in determining which of the five voices he uses in "The Unholy Three" approaches his normal voice.
