Keep Home Fires Burning' Braswell Tells Group Lions

Four Cities Represented Here Tuesday at Group Meeting of Lions Clubs.

"Sit steady in the boat" and "keep the home fires burning" was the two-fold keynote of a group meeting of Lions Club officials of Floydada, Turkey, Matador and Quitaque, held in this city Tuesday afternoon.

"In years gone by, when practically the entire world was thrown into a turmoil, we will remember that the government called upon the public to keep the home fires burning," Braswell stated.

Linking in hand-in-hand with Lion Boss Braswell's talk, a paper entitled "Sitting Steady," was read by T. S. Stevenson, local banker.

Seventeen guests, including the visiting Lions officials, were present for the noon luncheon Tuesday, who together with local attendance ran the total to between thirty-five and forty.

Group Meeting Instructive Officials and interested members of the four Lions Clubs in Group 30, of District T, obtained very interesting and instructive information on club activities at the group meeting that followed the noon luncheon.

To avoid misunderstandings and inactive committees, Governor Braswell recommended a meeting of all directors and officials at least once each month.

Lion delegates from the three visiting clubs who registered for the meeting, and the city they represented as follows: Quitaque—H. G. Gardner, E. L. Yeats, B. D. Wither, F. P. Rumph and Lion Boss R. D. Kutch; Matador—E. M. Rice, J. S. Owen, Joe E. Boyd, and H. F. P. J. Pin; Turkey—L. A. Mullens, J. Hardcastle, M. T. Blum and Lion Boss O. E. Edgar.

Has Coin Made In 1797; Hesperian Seeks One Older

"These fellows who have been telling about their old coins haven't a thing on me in fact, I think that I can go on them one better" says A. S. Hollingsworth, local Express Agent, who has been reading reports of old coins now in possession of Floyd County folks.

The oldest coin in the collection was a British half pound, made in 1797. This coin was especially interesting because of its size and weight, the coin was slightly larger in diameter than a United States silver dollar, and about twice as heavy.

The Hesperian's "Official Money Tester" agrees with Mr. Hollingsworth that this is the finest collection that we know of, but he is now after somebody to dig up some coins which will surpass those in this collection in age.

Work was resumed Wednesday afternoon of last week on the new Center School house following a decision handed down recently by the Civil Court of Appeals in Amarillo in favor of the trustees of the district who had been enjoined, after the foundation had been laid, from further construction by an injunction filed in protest of the location of the new building.

Classes have been conducted in the teaching and in a temporary boxed shack, 14 by 22 feet. W. E. Grimes is principal of the school. Miss Opal Hartsell has the intermediate department and Miss Mamie Carson conducts the primary classes.

It is hoped that the building will be completed in 30 working days. The Center school will make the twenty-fifth brick school house in the 30 rural schools in the county.

Two File For Lower Freight Rates This Week To Move Cattle

S. W. Ross Made Official to Issue County Certificates to Allow Reductions.

Two applications for reduced freight rates on shipments of livestock from Floyd County to other sections for winter pasturage were filed this week with S. W. Ross, secretary of the Chamber of Commerce, who has been designated by the U. S. Department of Agriculture to issue the certificates.

County Judge Wm. McGehee was named as the official for Floyd County to sign the orders for the reduced freight rates, according to a notice received from the Texas division of the drouth relief, and Mr. Ross was appointed by the committee in Washington.

Freight agents of the Q. A. & P. and the Santa Fe railways this week had received authorization that the reduced rates of 33-1/3 per cent would be in effect.

V. L. Weaver of Lockney was the first to apply for a certificate under the new provisions. He shipped a car of cattle Tuesday to Branson, Colo. He made application Monday, S. T. Cooper of Lockney made application Wednesday to ship two cars of cattle this week to Texline.

Mr. Ross has urged those desiring to have feedstuff shipped in or wishing to ship livestock to make their application for the certificates two or three days in advance of the date of shipment, since this step will prevent delay.

Arrangements for lower freight rates over railroads for drouth stricken sections were made through the U. S. Department of Agriculture, which is assisting in the national relief to farmers and stock men.

USES SLIDE TO CUT SHORT GRAIN ON SANDERS FARM

Use of a slide for cutting row forage grains is being made on the M. T. Sanders farm west of Dougherty, where Will Sanders is in charge of the farm. A feed crop of some seventy-five acres is being handled in this manner and a lot of live stock filler being stored for the winter in this manner.

Mr. Sanders said the manner in which his son is handling the crop is getting all the feed and at the same time not getting a lot of dirt as is the case where the feed is being cut up with a lister and then stacked.

The feed stands about 18 inches tall and has a head with matured grain about every twenty feet, Mr. Sanders said. Besides making a better feed handling with the slide, the handling in that manner saves a greater percent of the feed, he thinks, and gets it into the stack in better shape.

The home-made rugs were "Manufactured" from men's old woolen trousers. The articles cost 10 cents for two spools of thread each and $10 worth of backache" the makers explained.

"If the local exhibit of the home demonstration clubs could have been held earlier in the year so that the dates would not conflict, we could have carried off many more prizes at the Tri-State Fair in Amarillo," declared Miss Marie Strange, county home demonstration agent.

The rugs will be placed on display at the exhibit here next week. They will also be shown at the State Fair at Dallas.

Four new directors to serve with eight hold-over directors of the Floydada Little Theatre, are to be elected at the general meeting of all members of the organization at the Chamber of Commerce office on West Missouri Street Monday night of next week.

Call for the meeting on the night of September 29, was made by the board of directors in a meeting last week, when a nominating committee was named to select a list of eight members from whom the members would choose the four new directors. The nominating committee named the following for the members to vote on: Roy Enbank, Mrs. Miriam O. McDonald, Roy Holmes, M. E. Rogers, Mrs. L. T. Bishop, Mrs. W. H. Seale, Mrs. T. W. Whigham, Mrs. Carl Minor.

General interest on the part of the membership will mean that excellent entertainment can be provided through the Little Theatre during the season.

One matter among others which will have to be given attention at an early date is that of the selection of a play director to succeed Mrs. Gladys Hamilton Adkins, who was director last season.

Slight Clues Left By Thieves, Burglars In Two Cases This Week

Truck Load Hogs Taken From Armstrong; Cigarette Haul at Massie Wholesale.

Very slender clues were left by thieves who stole a truckload of hogs from the N. A. Armstrong hog feeding lot in the south suburbs of Floydada last Friday night, when fences were also cut and laid back for fast work. Equally slender threads of evidence are available with which to run down a burglar or burglars who took eighteen cases of cigarettes, valued at $1100, from the Massie Wholesale Grocery Monday night.

The burglars apparently stacked large rolls of hog wire high enough to reach a small window on the east side of the grocery through which to effect their entrance. The next morning one of the doors had been removed by taking off the hinges from the inside, and it appeared the cigarettes had been carried out through a box car and loaded into a car or truck having brand new casings.

Burglaries from Floydada to Quanah the same night, including two new Chryslers taken from the show room of a dealer in Quanah, indicated the burglary here was part of a well-planned program.

The theft at the Armstrong hog pens was done by the use of a truck. When the fence was cut, the thieves used chute boards from the Q. A. & P. stock pens to load the hogs. The boards and the cut fence where the hogs were loaded were found by Grover Smith, in charge of the Armstrong pens, following day about noon. The overloaded truck led by the pens into the Lakeview street but were lost in the traffic there. The loss to Mr. Armstrong is estimated at $250.

Rural Schools Close To Permit Pupils To Gather Cotton Crop

Six rural schools closed Friday of last week to permit the pupils to assist in gathering the cotton crop, according to reports made to County Superintendent Price Scott. Others may have dismissed but Mr. Scott had not been notified of their action Wednesday night.

The schools have dismissed for a period of one to four weeks, the time depending upon weather conditions. If the weather continues favorable the suspension of class work will continue until most of the crop is gathered. Two factors have necessitated the temporary closing of the schools in the rural communities, Mr. Scott points out. The shortage of hands is one factor and the price being paid for the staple does not allow enough margin for the farmers to hire the work done in all cases and they have to take their children from the schools to aid in getting the cotton out of the fields.

Records show that the schools are closing this year from two to three weeks earlier than has been the custom in the past. Those closing last Friday were the following: Allmon, Sand Hill, McCoy, Antelope, Fairview, and Cedar. Others possibly will close this week or next if favorable weather continues to prevail, it was pointed out.

EXPECT TO SAVE EYESIGHT OF L. G. NORRELL'S SON

Belief that the eyesight of the young son of L. G. Norrell, five miles west of Floydada, would be saved, was expressed by Dr. Jacob S. Rinehart this week, the lad having suffered a serious injury to his eye in a peculiar manner several days ago.

Practicing riding a horse he was intending to use to ride to Sand Hill school, the lad alighted on a piece of barbed wire, a barb striking him in the eye, where it cut a gash between the pupil and inner canthus. It was feared the injury might be very troublesome and cause the loss of sight of the eye.

The Crippled Lady of Peribonka

By James Oliver Curwood

WNE Service
(©, 1929, Doubleday
Doran & Co., Inc.)

SYNOPSIS

CHAPTER I.—Introducing some of the people of the pretty little French-Canadian village of Peribonka, particularly the Crippled Lady, idol of the simple inhabitants, and heroine of an epic destined to live long in the village annals.

CHAPTER II.—How the romance of Molly Bryant, sister of the great Indian chief, Joseph Bryant, and Sir William Johnson, in pre-Revolutionary days, comes down to today with the birth of a son, Paul, to Molly Kirke, wife of a powerful New York financier, and her death when Paul is thirteen years old. Molly Kirke was a descendant of Molly Bryant, and her boy has many of the Indian characteristics. At thirty-two Paul marries Claire Durand, daughter of his father's business partner. He is in charge of an immense engineering work on the Mistassini river, near Peribonka, which his millionaire father has undertaken, but his Indian blood discolors the destruction of the wilderness, and his thoughts are more of the Crippled Lady than of his work.

CHAPTER III.—Paul's wife is in Europe, she having no inclination to live in "those horrible woods." He comes to see in Carla, daughter of a central European immigrant, with her devotion to her invalid mother and her work of educating the village children, his ideal of womanhood.

CHAPTER IV.—Paul writes to his wife, urging her to join him, though Carla is the inspiration of the letter. Later that evening, passing the Haldan, long a hopeless invalid, is seen. He enters the cottage. Mrs. Haldan, long a hopeless invalid, is Paul's efforts to comfort Carla feel, bring them closer together.

CHAPTER V.—Claire announces her intention of joining Paul on the Mistassini in a short time. She also writes to Carla, of whom she has heard from Paul, a letter of kindly sympathy, on the death of her mother.

CHAPTER VI.—Paul goes to Quebec to meet Claire, and brings her to his temporary home. Though she is apparently glad to be with him, and evinces warm friendship for Carla and Paul's other friends, she feels she is only there because she feels it her duty. She is not really happy. He becomes aware of a gulf between him and his wife.

CHAPTER VII.—Paul, Claire, and a party to visit the "Big gorge" of the Mistassini, an appealingly swift current which disappears in a mountain side. Curious belief is that anything dropped into it is never seen again. In part they cast into the stream pieces of wood, and other objects, watching them disappear. Finally they carry a large log to the edge of the rushing water. As they toss over it upends, striking Paul and throwing him into the stream. The women with whom Paul's life is entwined see him go to what they are sure is certain death. One asks the other if she is going with him. Receiving no answer, she announces, "Then—I am!" and springs into the water.

CHAPTER VIII

Paul saw the swift, deliberate plunge through space of the slim body, which, in the uncertainty of his vision, an instinctive and positive impulse told him was Claire's. A woman's piercing cry came from the cliff, but no responsive echo of horror escaped his own lips, no sound, but an articulate gasp as the figure struck the water and disappeared. An appalling and devastating weakness seized upon him, a deadly sickness of shock, a thing that loosened the grip of his fingers from the clinging belt of weeds and made him limply impotent against the dragging force of the undertow. For an instant his brain reeled in darkness. He began to go down, easily and slowly, as if the cruel and murderous hands below were fearful of arousing the inertness to which he had momentarily succumbed. Then water struck into his face and startled him. Heart and brain leaped in response to its warning, and he thrust up wildly and caught the weeds again. They hung closely to the rock, allowing him to drag his body up until his shoulders were out of the water once more. He heard Derwent shout, as if from a mile away, but he paid no attention to the cry, nor did he look toward the cliff. The thought in his mind was that Claire would be with him in another moment or two. She would come to the surface near the rock, and he must be ready to seize and hold her with him until the weeds gave way—or a miracle happened.

Five or six feet from him, where the water was like a pool of oil that had no motion, a little disturbance suddenly flicked its surface—a change of light, a drifting up of something intangible and shadow, a nebulous blotch which changed under his eyes to substance, a floating mass of hair. The sun was shining, the water was almost black, but there was no glint of gold in what he saw. The hair was dark. Carla's face became a part of it in a moment. It seemed to him that the monsters who lived about the rock held her up for him, with a smile on her lips and in her eyes, her face toward him and her arms reaching out. He was held in a daze, and might have fancied some of the things he saw. But Carla was there. She, not his wife, had come to join him in death. The quiet, terrible drama of it held him from calling her name as he waited for her to come within his reach. But the undertow brought her no nearer. For a second, two of them, three or four, it held her away from him, and each of these seconds was a lifetime in passing. Then he saw the distance between them widening, and as it widened the things below began to drag Carla down. She made no struggle, did not cry out to him, but only raised her hands so that he might see they were waiting for him, and wanting him, as she went to her kingdom of Micomicon, her land of dreams.

He swung himself out, thrusting against the rock, and when the ogres of the water pit dragged at their victims Carla was in his arms. His brain was keenly alive again, and he knew that teams of oxen could have pulled but futilely against the under-currents, which, one after another, were transporting them irresistibly and yet without great haste through watery space.

Thought of physical salvation scarcely filtered in a ray of hope through his mind, and his senses were untrifled by the suffocating presence of death. In Carla were his strength and courage. He locked his arms about her closely. He could feel her clinging to him with the same desire to remain inseparable when the end came. Strange. A kingdom of Micomicon—a land of Alnaschar—a place of faeries—a world of dreams—They were going to it all. Between the walls where no man had ever looked, Death! A magnificent adventure with Carla in his arms! A roaring filled his ears. They were traveling swiftly now. His senses grew less distinct, like colors merging one into another in a sunset sky. Queer, why it should end like this, after years of life—he and Carla—together—as it must have been intended from the beginning. A glorious graciousness of Fate, an immortal symphony of fulfillment—to pass on like this with Carla, no matter how many hundred centuries had gone before! And some one—his wife—had said—that seconds meant more than years—when—like this—

The roaring was an enormity of sound. It was like the wind in the cave of Aeolus, its thunder like Stentor's blasts rumbling through the empty bowels of the earth. They numbed and anesthetized, yet left him with a shred of living, thinking cells which told him they were tearing through the gullet of the gorge, and which, at the same time, held his arms unyielding as bands of steel about Carla's body.

Although close to the edge of an abyss of utter darkness, consciousness did not quite leave him. Vaguely he experienced the thrill of being transported out of a hell of tumultuous sound into a soft and gently drifting sea which was without noise or violence. For an interval he fancied his arms were wings and that he was trying to fly, making rather a bad mess of it because one side of him refused to co-ordinate with the other. This was the arm, only one arm now, which held Carla. With the other, after a little, he found himself clawing and digging into something. A man many live a hundred years, but when he is ready to die and looks back over the path he has traveled, it seems very short, and the hundred years no more than a few hours. Paul had reflected upon the illusory and baseless fabric of time, its inadequacy and the hollowness of its human measurement. "One who is happy has but a fleeting vision of life," Carla had said to him once. "To live long and terribly, one must be unhappy—in prison." It was odd why he should be thinking of this as he continued to claw and dig. But time had fastened itself upon him like a leech, and if each second of his wide-awake life had been as long as these few seconds he would have lived a thousand years. During this cycle of his existence he slowly and tediously progressed, until, with air filling his lungs again, and the smothering folds of near-insensibility breaking away from him, he knew that he was no longer in water that his fingers were clutching at soft sand, and that the burden which he had dragged with him was Carla.

There was scarcely a breath between this knowledge and the full and poignant possession of every faculty with which his brain was capable of being inspired. But darkness, mystery, the defeat of death, and the fact of his own physical salvation were submerged all at once in an agonized appeal to the limp, dead form which he clasped in his arms. The spirits of the sable blackness about him listened to his voice calling Carla's name as he struggled to bring life back into her body. Once he had worked over a little girl who had been taken from the water, and now memory came to him vividly of the first gentle beating of the heart again, the slow returning of the soul into the tender body, until the child lived and breathed once more. But Carla's soft breast gave no response. Her lips were cold and lifeless, and, at last, believing her surely dead, he kissed her mouth and eyes, as the father of the little girl had kissed his child when she was returning to him. When the first whisper of breath came from Carla's lips he was holding her like this, staring into the blackness. Her heart, beating faintly, responded to the call of life close against his own. Her lips grew warm. Her eyes opened. Paul kissed her again in the blackness that shut them in and found that she was alive.

He did not cry out or speak, but brushed her thick, wet hair back and pressed his face close to hers, and waited. In her first consciousness Carla's arms crept about his neck. Her lips breathed his name. Words were futile for a little while. Only in silence could they calm each other, a silence of voice, where other sound was moaning and throbbing about them. Both knew what it meant as the seconds counted themselves off. They had come through the mouth of the gorge, and were caught in a subterranean hole in the earth. Chance. A miracle. God. That they might have each other at last, with the barrier between them torn away. This was Carla's thought, and her arms drew closer about Paul. He belonged to her now, for there was no other world than this—a pit of gloom with death for its walls, an abyssal grave, where love, for a space, would build for them "the great world's altar stairs that slope through darkness up to God."

She almost spoke the words. Instead she whispered:

"It was right for me to come, Paul? You are—glad?"

"I know—now—that I expected you," said Paul.

"I HAD a stubborn case of constipation after a very severe spell of grip," says Mr. John B. Hutchison, of Neosho, Mo. "When I would get constipated, I'd feel so sleepy, tired and worn-out."
"When one feels this way, work is much harder to do, especially farm work. I would have dizzy headaches when I could hardly see to work, but after I read of Black-Draught, I began taking it. I did not have the headache any more."
"When I have the sluggish, tired feeling, I take a few doses of Black-Draught, and it seems to carry off the poison and I feel just fine. I use Black-Draught at regular intervals. It is easy to take and I know it helps me."

The Attribute Of Success Is STAYING POWER

Lincoln had a great philosophy. When things were at their worst, he would say calmly: "THIS, TOO, WILL PASS."

GREAT PATIENCE and stick-to-it-iveness today are absolutely essential for the man or woman who succeeds during life. It is the ability to SIT QUIETLY during a turmoil that identifies the man who will be carried high by time and the growth of the country.

Every Tough Thing Passes

ALMOST EVERY PROBLEM becomes less hard under the softening influence of time. When the turmoil is thickest the wise man calmly and quietly SITS—not losing his confidence, staying with his property, and keeping faith in his own ability and that of his fellowman—STAYING POWER, that's it!

HOGS GOOD PROPERTY

Owing to the severe drought that has hit the corn belt, the Department of Agriculture and other authorities are well-agreed that the man who can hold on to his hogs and keep them moving to market during the period of the next twelve months is going to realize a good profit. The hog supply is low and is going to become even lower in the natural course of things.

While there are lots of people who will not be able to take advantage of the fact that hogs are going to be a good price, there are others who have not sold off their feed during the past few years and can be able to take advantage of this opportunity. There seems to be no doubt, whatever these authorities agree, that the hog market is going to be worth while for sometime.

FEEDING COTTON SEED

Banks and county farm agents and people of that kind come in for quite a bit of criticism, first and last, the banks first for trying to get their customers to keep their property around them and in good shape, the farm agent for all the time harping on livestock and feed production.

With everybody in a rather disgruntled, possibly mad, state of mind right now, the suggestion made before the bankers' convention recently by E. L. Tanner, county agent of Dickens County, and in which bankers present heartily concurred, that every effort should be made to keep the dairy herds intact for the next twelve months and giving advice as to emergency feeding rations—this suggestion may fall on deaf ears.

The first thing the banker suggests is that the farmer not sell his cottonseed on the low market so he can use it to keep from selling his live stock on the present ruinous basis. A banker cannot understand a man would want to sell cottonseed at present prices and buy it back equivalent a little later at double the price. Neither can the banker understand why some way cannot be found to keep from sacrificing $75 Jersey cattle for $20 on most farms, where there is cottonseed and headless hedges or kaffir bunches.

Everybody can't take advantage of the fact that when everybody wants to sell is the time to buy, but there are plenty of people in Floyd County, we hope and believe, who can do this and thus save the high type of Jerseys for the county in the future. Jerseys will be $75 and a $100 again in a year or so. It always happens.

STUDYING THE NEW PLAN

Numerous farmers and business men in Floyd County are studying the plan advanced by Judge Gossett of the Federal Land Bank for the establishment of Intermediate Credit Banks over the area where financial matters have become so acute on account of the prolonged dry weather that it has reduced the pasture and feed supply to an unusually low level.

Whether the plan offers relief in a really effective manner is to be seen. Some are agreed that it will prove worthwhile, while others are still to be convinced. If the plan works, it would release a lot of credit that could be used acceptably. In Crosby and Motley Counties exhaustive investigations are being made by bankers and business men and in Motley County they are going further and asking the Red Cross what help they may hope to get for their more unfortunate from that source.

ADVERTISING BY RADIO

The Federal Radio Commission is taking the side of those esthetic souls who would have their radio programs "without the blatant advertising" which they are now enduring. One member of the commission the other day made the declaration that unless some means is found of curbing the advertising, making it more subtle or something the time would be not far distant when the public would demand some kind of regulation, possibly a tax for the purpose of obtaining the radio programs without the advertising, federally supervised, presumably. In European countries, he pointed out, radios are taxed and the tax money used to provide the amusement. Who oversees the kind of entertainment provided, is not stated, but of course there would be a commission or bureau or something in the seat of government to attend to that.

It would be fine if the esthetic people who don't like to hear about groceries and shoes and overalls at a bargain could be taken care of at the same time we kept the Federal Government from playing papa to everything, but since it seems impractical, we prefer to depend on the effect of public sentiment to keep advertisers within bounds. Once a bureau gets started it grows and grows in power and ramifications and expense and middlemness in the affairs of the people of the country.

'Round The Square

Haltosis made another smart crack yesterday. She said that what this world really needs is a war that will kill off the right people.

Well, Floydada High lost her first football game of the season to the Plainview Bulldogs, but Old Battleaxe doesn't feel so badly over the loss. Both teams played good football, but both crews had their weaknesses, too. But O. B. is not going to criticize them right now. I'm going to see about two more games and then tell you just everything that there is to be told about the Whirlwinds. And if they have lost all three of the games, brother, I'm going to do some plain and fancy criticizing. But we will wait to see what we shall see.

Say, do you remember the good old days when a wife always agreed with her husband? Neither do I.

Lots of folks round the square have been kidding me about highway ditches and bar pits, but nothing serious has happened today.

(This is written on Monday, and Lord only knows what will happen before this goes to press.) Maybe some of the folks didn't read what I had to say last week about the highways in Floyd County, or maybe if they did they just considered the source and kept quiet about it. Anyway, I still stick by what I said last week. I still believe that Floyd County is spending too much time and too much money on the highway bar pits and not enough time and money on dragging the tops of the roads. What we need to do is sell some of these tractors and graders and put mules and men to work dragging the roads. What we want is smoother roads and rougher ditches.

Since we are not having any election, I don't guess that the above paragraph is going to cause anybody to lose a job.

Folks, isn't very often that Old Battleaxe finds a movie star over whom he gets sentimental, but really, in all seriousness, I've found one now that I think deserves a second thought. And just like lots of other good things and good folks, we didn't realize it until it was too late. I have in mind that memorable character, Lon Chaney, the man of a million faces.

I shall never forget the picture in which Chaney played, entitled, "Laugh Clown, Laugh." It was in this picture that Chaney, playing the clown in a road show, had tragedy on all sides. He was indeed an unhappy man behind the stage, yet when he appeared in the spotlight, he made millions laugh. And in order to make them laugh, he, too, had to laugh. The story ended a tragedy, the clown was killed while in the spotlight—with a smile still on his face. The song "Laugh, Clown, Laugh" was played at Chaney's funeral.

Weber and Field, the world's most famous comedian team of a bygone day, were once playing in a large city in the East. Two men stood beside a billboard announcing the famous comedy act, and one remarked: "I wish that I were this fellow Weber. He is not bothered by common worries and troubles like the rest of us. All that he has to do is to laugh and act silly so that other folks will laugh at him." The other man hung his head and walked away. He was Weber—on his way to the theatre to make people laugh. His wife had died only a few minutes before.

Old Battleaxe, in his clumsy way, has tried to paint a picture for you folks in these two illustrations. I hope that I have succeeded. This mental picture may be summarized in three words—"Laugh Clown, Laugh."

That guy on California Street says that a true friend is one who knows how worthless and low-down you really are, but doesn't go around telling the whole dog-gone world about it.

One man round the square made the remark this week that red beans taste as good to him right now as ripe olives did six months ago. Gosh, that's getting it down to a gnat's bristle, isn't it?

Some folks just can't understand why I call my auto Betsy Ann True-love, because she never runs smooth. For high on to two years old Betsy Ann has been in pretty good health, but for the past two months she has been kinda puny. I took her to one of these here auto hospitals last week and they gave her a thorough examination. Well, the first thing they did was to pull out her choker and they found it all coated over, which they said was a sure sign that something was wrong with her innards. After calling in several other specialists and holding a conference over her carcass, they decided that she needed an operation to remove her carbon and grind her valves. Then too, she has got a little trouble down around her differential which is liable to give some trouble if an operation is not performed thereabouts, too. Altogether, it was decided that she was going to be ill for sometime unless she got relief from the operations. There are just exactly forty reasons why I don't have this operation underway now. A great big, round, silver dollar accounts for each of the reasons.

But Old Betsy Ann has been a mighty faithful car. For two whole years she has suffered untold agonies for my pleasure (sniff, sniff) But now it does seem that she is bound for the place where all good cars go—to the second-hand market. But before she departs from her earthly worries, I am going to dedicate a little song to her memory, to be sung to the tune of "America." (You've heard that song haven't you?) Here it is:

My auto, tis of thee, short cut to poverty, of thee I chant, I blew in a pile of dough on you two years ago, now you refuse to go, or won't or can't. Thru town and countryside, you were my joy and pride, one happy day. I love thy gaudy hue, thy radiator cap so new, now down and out for true, in every way. To thee old rattle box, came many bumps and knocks, for thee I grieve. Badly thy top is torn, frayed are thy seats and worn, a cough effects thy horn, I do believe. Thy perfume swells the breeze, while good folks choke and sneeze, as we pass by. Thy motor has the flu, thy spark plugs missing too, thy windshield has turned to blue, and so have I. Gone is my bank roll now, no more 'would choke a cow, as once before. Yet if I had the "mom," you just bet your life son, I would buy a new car, and have more fun. Amen.

Better shut 'er down, George before somebody tosses a fender at us.

FLOYD COUNTY 14 YEARS AGO

News items taken from files of the Floyd County Hesperian published in Floydada fourteen years ago.

ISSUE OF SEPT. 28, 1916

The first cold wave of the fall visited Floyd County last night and at the present promises to prolong its visit through the greater part of this afternoon. The temperature fell to within eighteen degrees of the freezing point by seven o'clock this morning.

The four year old son of Mr. and Mrs. E. C. King sustained a broken leg last Thursday afternoon.

Rain last Saturday night over Floyd County, amounting to four fifths of an inch at Floydada, did no damage to cotton crops. Two horses and one cow in different parts of the county were killed by lightning which accompanied the rain. The horses belonged to Harry Stanley and the cow to J. J. Day.

Nothing definite is announced relative to the tractor demonstrations during the 1916 Fair, S. W. Ross, secretary, stated today.

L. A. Crews and W. J. Burke, grain dealers, have entered the local grain market and have announced a partnership under the firm name of Burke & Crews.

Stokle Bishop left last week for Dallas where he has entered Southern Methodist University. E. P. Nelson succeeds him as bookkeeper with the Price-Foster Dry Goods Co.

The Roundup

A Sidewalk Review Mostly About People and Personalities In Floyd County.

By The Cowhand Scribe

Coach L. T. Barksdale has developed a smooth-working little high school football machine as evinced by the game Saturday night at Plainview between the Bulldogs and Whirlwinds. The high school lads reeled off plays with the consistency of a college crew and the encouraging factor was the way in which the F. H. S. men handled the ball. Once they got their fingers on the pigskin they stayed with it. Not a single fumble was chalked up against the Whirlwinds in the entire game which is exceptionally unusual for a high school game and especially one staged this early in the season.

Floydada can justly be proud of the Green Peppers, the girls' pep squad of Floydada high school. They made a short impressive appearance at the game Saturday night and they literally yelled their heads off. With their snappy songs and encouraging yells they contributed their part to the fight for honors. Power to you, Peppers, and while they are not looking let's give nine cheers for those faithful and hard-working leaders: Maureen and Helene Hay and Kinder Farris.

Mrs. W. H. Hilton is a croquet fan but she much prefers to play bridge.

Farmers are rushing to get the cotton out of the fields and many of them are getting much more than estimated they would be able to gather from the tiny stalks. The average height of the stalks this year runs around 6 inches and the bolls are just barely off the ground. The picking is being rushed to get the crop gathered before a rain (?) comes along and washes the staple stalk and all down the furrow.

"Variety" the showman's magazine, in a little box in a recent issue had an "amusing" incident recounted. A fellow, it seems, had worked up an act with a number of trained chickens and it was a good one. A booking agent wrote to Mr. Debaron telling him that he had a place for Debaron's Roosters in a bill. Debaron wrote back: "Sorry, but I ate the act." All of which made a very nice little joke but there's a great big serious fact along the same line right here in Floyd County.

To put the proposition figuratively many Floyd County farmers have spent months in building up flocks of fine chickens—getting ready for their act. But what are they doing now—ask the poultry dealers and they will tell you that the chickens are being sold from the farms rapidly—sold at flat market prices.

And some day in the not far distant future a booking agent in the form of The Public is going to come along and tell the folks that "he" has a place ready for their act. What will be their inevitable answer?—they've sold the act!

Kill not the goose that is laying the golden egg—the meal ticket. Keep the chickens on the farm for future production if at all possible. Where there is a will there is a way.

Speaking of geese—Thursday night of last week there was a lot of honking and general noise making over Floydada by a bunch of wild geese. They must have found a worm that some of the local birds missed from the amount of fuss they were making. Friday morning five fine specimens were seen flying low over the residence section and ye nimrods who saw the feathered tribe sent up a string of wishes "for a rifle."

Geese and ducks in this section will not be plentiful this year for two very logical reasons—the water in the lakes over this section of the Plains as a whole, and not an overabundance of feed stuff to attract the migratory birds. Probably it is just as well for the ducks and geese for one big campaign by J. O. Dudley of Fairview, who won the trap shoot in Amarillo the other day, and the year would be closed until more reserves could arrive.

Now that Mr. Dudley has arrived on the scene it is nothing but proper that he should be given the spot light for a second or so. A friend of his was relating recently how Mr. Dudley shot a post protruding out of the water in a lake until it just gave up and fell over. This feat was accomplished with a rifle and the post was actually cut off by the accurately placed bullets. When it comes to marksmen, Floyd County has a man who can stay with the best of 'em.

An amusing description was given the other morning over the radio of the difference between an upper and lower berth on a railway car. It went something like this: "An upper is lower because it is 50 cents cheaper but in an upper you have to go down when you get up."

Notice on several farms old-time row binders in action. Wise is the man who saves stalk and head of his row crop for winter feeding. The hardware stores are selling binder twine again like they did back in the good old days—except, perhaps, on not so large a scale.

Just glimpses: Earl Clements hovering around a fine specimen of watermelon reposing on the floor beside the deck of Geo. B. McAlister over at the Texas Service Station.....H. O. Pope whitening on a tire casing trying to find out if the bead was made of small wire—which it was.....Mrs. L. D. Britton doing a good job of driving a dairy delivery truck just for fun.....a big green varmint commonly known as a worm trying to cross the sidewalk and getting stepped on by The Cowhand's stick horse.

Didja ever notice that a fellow who likes to do the most hollerin' is a specialist in loafing and will turn down an offer of a job unless "the pay suits him?" Didja, huh.

MRS. H. N. PORTERFIELD WRITES TO FLOYD COUNTY FRIENDS THRU HESPERIAN

Editor of The Hesperian: We arrived in town of Roy, New Mexico, about two weeks ago, joining Mr. Porterfield, who has been here sometime—and are very comfortably domiciled in our new home.

The country coming up here was interesting, indeed, especially the "David Valley" we entered a few miles this side of Logan. This valley is forty or fifty miles in length and is dotted with whitefaced cattle and a few green fields. A ranch house, church and filling station occupy a prominent and beautiful location and we are told that the owner (who lives in other climes) now owns almost the entire valley, having just gradually bought up the hundreds and hundreds of acres as the people tired out and wanted to sell. Isolation is unfavorable to man's higher needs.

At the end of the valley we came to the caprock which is lovely with its winding road and beautiful cedar greens and magnificent carved rock—God's handiwork. God touched up this old world with beauty to lift man from his groveling estate. Americans do not have to leave their country to find His beauty. This caprock is a sudden rise of one thousand feet and is about one mile and a half to the top, upon which we found the climate very exhilarating. Since climate, more than any other one factor, determines the energy of the people, we expected and are finding great working forces here. We are 5,868 feet above the sea and only about forty miles from the mountains where one may drive over and roll up a snowball. The fields of growing or maturing corn and beans, wheat and broomcorn are wonderful to us who have come from a dry country. The threshing of the extensive bean crop is in full swing, it being an unusual good crop this year. The people plant from a few acres to six hundred, eight hundred and a thousand and acres to beans. One man selling to the Marshall Company has eleven hundred acres of beans. About 150 men and boys have come from Floyd County to help in this tremendous harvest.

In every place one may go you find good people and intelligent folk. Such is the case here, the school being exceptionally good for so small a town, and there are several Protestant churches and one Catholic church and a Catholic school which has not opened yet. A priest and two or three nuns reside here, their congregation being represented mostly by Spaniards.

About ten miles from Roy one can find deer, bear and antelope. Some deer came up to the town section last winter. A man is allowed to kill only one deer.

This much I just wanted to say through your good paper, to our friends and readers.

Mrs. H. N. Porterfield, Box 151, Roy, New Mexico.

JUST THINKIN'

by Charles S. Kinnison

So Futile

A quarrel is a thing that's so futile, Especially one that is mean. And while we are snarling And bitterly quarreling, We poison ourselves with our spleen! And most of the quarrels we indulge in, Are mere Triviality's child— A thing that should shame us, And yet they inflame us To actions and words that are wild! And what is the good we accomplish? I haven't discovered it yet There's no one the gainer— And when we are saner How often our words we regret! The days are too precious to spoil them With bickering, quarreling and strife— For when we are scrapping And snarling and snapping— We also are shortening our life!

Sunday School Lesson

REVIEW OF CHARACTERS

The International Uniform Sunday School Lesson for Sept. 23. An Estimate of the Character Studied During the Quarter. Devotional Reading: Psalms 26:1-5, 8, 11, 12.

The review of the quarter's lessons is suggested in the form of an estimate of the characters studied during the period.

First we have Abraham, the great pioneer, manifesting virtues that have not always been characteristic of the pioneer. The pioneer with all his courage and endurance and determination has often been a fighting man, grasping and eager in his ambition. But Abraham with all the virtues of the pioneer had a largeness of spirit and magnanimity that had made him very truly the father of the faithful.

The Greatness of Jacob
Jacob comes before us as a man deprived of the foremost place, who was bound to achieve it and to get it by hook or by crook. As a matter of fact he used both hook and crook, and his life appears in many respects as unlovely. But he had in him, with all his trickery, elements upon which something could be built, and in this respect he differed from his more likeable brother, Esau.

Moses stands before us as a commanding figure, great in his moral strength, courageous in his leadership, one of the world's great masterful characters, a rebel against injustice and wrong, but an upbuilder of the foundations of a true society in law and righteousness.

Three women appear in our lesson studies; in fact, one should say four, for one cannot consider the character and career of Samuel without thinking of his mother, Hannah. Deborah, the judge of Israel, stands as a sort of female Moses, a married woman with a call to tasks that went beyond her own home and household, yet a woman who appears in the leadership of the nation with her real strength in her womanly courage and virtues.

In Ruth with her devotion to her mother-in-law, Naomi, we have a picture of persistency and devotion that can attach to love and gentleness.

The study of Samuel is against a background of evil condition in Israel — drunkenness, licentiousness, and corruption. Samuel displays the qualities that one would expect from one who had been devoted to his mother's prayers to the service of religion.

The story of the first king of Israel is one of the world's great tragedies—a man with a marvelous natural endowment and with great opportunity, throwing all away through lack of self-control and dying a hopeless suicide after he had lost a battle. In contrast to Saul was his son Jonathan, of whose friendship with David one lesson has taken account.

Amos, the herdsman, a farmer with uncorrupted nature and clear vision, came from the fields to denounce the sins of the city and to remind people that no nation could be great that sought to build upon unrighteousness and injustice.

In the record of failure and corruption we have one lesson that marks righteous purpose in high places. The story of Josiah, an eight-year-old boy, is an inspiring story of reform.

Like Amos, Jeremiah rebuked formalism and called upon the people to manifest their religion by right living.

Last of all, the story of Jonah revealed the glorious conception of God, whose mercy was proved to be not limited to one race or nation.

Miller Hen Was Fourth During Month Of Aug.

A White Leghorn hen entered by Mr. and Mrs. Olin Miller of Center-view Farm in the Texas National Egg Laying Contest at College Station won fourth place in the number of eggs laid during the month of August among the 600 entries and not fourth place in the entire contest as was stated in last week's Hesperian. There is one more month before the conclusion of the contest for which the final outcome will be received about October 10, Mrs. Miller said, and complete records for the 11-month period will be available at that time.

The national contest opened in November and will close after the tabulations are made for the month of September.

The hen entered by Mr. and Mrs. Miller winning fourth place during the month of August also placed ninth in weight of eggs.

Mac Hand, Herschel Green, and Harold Porterfield were among those returning last week-end from Roy, N. M., where they have been helping with the bean harvest.

UNUSUAL COINS OBTAINED BY J. T. J. DAWSON IN DAYS THAT HE RAILROADED

More interesting coins. Stories The Hesperian has had in the past few issues of the paper have been interesting to J. T. J. Dawson, who has also been by way of a coin collector himself, especially during his days of service with different railway companies as agent and operator in Kansas, Texas, and possibly other states.

One of the coins he has in his collection is a 20c piece, which used to be quite common in circulation. This one bears the date of 1875. He got it while he was agent for the Katy at West, Texas, in the late '90's. It is slightly smaller than a quarter and has smooth instead of milled edges.

A "trade dollar" issued back in the days when the United States was trying to work out its currency problems in exchange markets with South American countries, is one of the first coins he saved. This "dollar" was legal tender in the United States for 80 cents. He got it as a prize in a spelling match at school in 1880 back in Missouri. "The teacher offered a dollar as a prize for the winner of the spelling match. I won the match."

Three of the pieces in his collection long have been out of circulation. One of these, a "flying eagle" penny, made in 1857, is about the same size of the present pennies, but it is fatter. He also has a copper 2-cent piece made in 1864, two three-cent pieces of silver, about the size of a dime, made in 1873 and 1881, respectively, and a half-dime made in 1872. It is very thin and about half or two-thirds the size of a dime.

"Various people at various times, turned most of these in at the railway stations, some of them through mistake, and others just to get rid of them, I guess," Mr. Dawson said.

FARM BUREAU COTTON ASSN' CHECKS MAKE SETTLEMENTS

Last week marked the close of the records of the Farm Bureau Cotton Association for the seasons of 1928-29 and 1929-30, when $530,000 was disbursed to farmers of the state in final settlement of the two seasonal pools, in which several Floyd County farmers had put their cotton.

Local banks handled several of the final checks last week and this.

Mrs. A. E. Steen, who has been visiting in the home of her son, Homer Steen, for a few months, left the latter part of last week for Norman, Oklahoma, to visit with her son, Dr. Carl T. Steen.

R. C. Watson returned home Thursday last week from Tusculumbia, Alabama, and other nearby points in that state, where she had been on a visit for several weeks with friends and relatives at her former home.

Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Moreckel, and their daughter Mrs. W. M. Holland, of Springfield, Missouri, have been visiting for several days with their son, Harry Moreckel and wife, of Pleasant Hill. They are leaving this week for home, planning to return by way of Amarillo and the Tri-State Fair.

Mrs. W. H. Sharp and daughter, Lajuana Jo, spent from Thursday till Saturday night of last week visiting her parents Mr. and Mrs. A. S. Erb of Olton.

Mr. and Mrs. Robt. A. Sone and son Robert Jr., spent Sunday and Monday at Mulehoe visiting Mrs. Sone's sister Mrs. Connie Gupton and family.

Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Folley took his mother Mrs. C. W. Folley, who has spent the past few weeks here visiting, to the home of his Uncle, B. F. Folley, near Quitaque Sunday, where she will visit for several days before returning to her home at Mart.

Dairy Showmen Lose Lumber In Unusual 'Haul'

April Fool right in the middle of September! Funny time of the year to be pulling jokes according to the way O. L. Stansell, Jack Henry, and Robert Smith look at it. Friday they purchased 48 feet of lumber and went down to their freight car at the Santa Fe depot to prepare to ship their registered Jerseys to the Amarillo Tri-State Fair.

All of the stalls were set up in the car and everything was in readiness Friday night for the loading of the cattle the following morning. When they arrived on the scene Saturday morning the car was still on the track but that was about all. Some unscrupulous persons had seen fit to remove the stalls and every available piece of lumber.

More planks had to be purchased and more work had to be done in setting them up before the county herd could be loaded.

Miss Mamie Littlefield left the latter part of last week for Lawton, Oklahoma, where she plans to spend the winter.

"A few years ago, I found that I was very weak and nothing I ate seemed to give me any strength," writes Mrs. R. B. Douglas, 704 South Congress St., Jackson, Miss. "I suffered intense pain in my head and back. At times I would have to hold to something to steady myself, so as to do my little work. I was worried about my condition. "My mother told me that I should take Cardui. After taking two bottles, I felt stronger, but I kept on taking it until my head and back quit hurting. I took about six bottles in all, and have never quit praising Cardui."

California Civil War Veteran Saw Lincoln's Assassin Trapped and Shot

A story which often is brought up whenever the death of Abraham Lincoln is discussed is that John Wilkes Booth, his assassin, got away from pursuers and lived to a ripe old age under an assumed name in either Texas, Oklahoma or London.

The man taken for Booth, so the story goes, was an innocent Confederate soldier who had changed coats with Booth during the assassin's flight through Virginia and whom the Federals had killed to save the face of the government.

If there is one man able authoritatively to dispute this theory it is W. A. McDonald of Westminster, Calif. He helped pursue and corner Booth, saw him get shot and die. And he is the last living man who witnessed these events.

A Case of Shock

McDonald, who enlisted when 17, was a member of the Eighth Illinois Cavalry, the bodyguard of the president, and stationed outside Ford's theatre in Washington the night of the assassination. He recalls vividly the pandemonium in the theatre soon after Lincoln, watching a performance of "The American Cousin" from a box seat, was shot.

After all these years the veteran is still mystified at the fact that Booth managed to escape with the theatre filled as it was with soldiers. But it was a case of shock. No one seemed to know what to do. In fact, 12 hours had elapsed before anyone thought of starting out in pursuit of the assassin.

It was then that the president's bodyguard, divided into detachments of 12 men each, was directed to begin the search.

"Our detachment," said McDonald, "was the first to pick up the trail, it being learned that the noted actor was accompanied on his flight by Daniel C. Herold. The hunt led us to the large plantation of Dr. Samuel Mudd, in Virginia.

"We learned from the negro servants that Booth and Herold had been in hiding there for several days. Dr. Mudd was placed under arrest and sent to Washington as a conspirator and later to jail for aiding the fugitives. He had given medical aid to Booth who had broken his leg making his escape from the theatre the night of the assassination."

After 12 days of search the fugitives were found in a barn belonging to a man named Garrett near Fredericksburg, Va., McDonald recalled.

"It was an easy matter for us to surround the building," McDonald remembers. "Our leader, after giving instructions not to shoot unless necessary, ordered the men to surrender. Soon a dark form emerged from the barn. It was Herold. We could hear Booth cursing him for surrendering."

"Convinced that Booth was determined to stay in the barn and fight it out, we set the building on fire. Through knot holes we could see him, leaning upon a crutch and holding a carbine, crouching in a corner."

"The flames crept nearer and finally Booth started for the door. At this moment, Boston Corbett, a sergeant, aimed his gun through a knot hole, shooting Booth in the head and back. We carried him from the barn and laid him in the open field. He suffered painfully in dying and his last words were, 'Tell my mother I died for my country.'"

The Secret Burial

The body was taken on board the monitor, Montauk, where it was identified by Dr. John F. May. Because of the feeling against the dead assassin, he was secretly buried under the floor of one of the warehouses in the arsenal grounds on Greenleaf's Point. It was customary at that time for felons to be buried there.

The body remained there until February 20, 1869, when it was reinterred at the request of Edwin Booth, a brother, in the family plot in Baltimore.

As far as Boston Corbett, the man who killed Booth, is concerned, McDonald has this to say. "Corbett was court-martialed for disobedience to orders. Severe punishment was suspended and he later toured the country. He finally died in an asylum."

FIRE DESTROYS GARAGE AND HIGHWAY SUPPLIES

A double garage located at 717 South Main Street, was destroyed by fire Saturday morning at 9:30, when fire of unknown origin also burned an automobile trailer belonging to Oliver Allen and supplies of the Highway Department, including probably 100 signs.

Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Mills reside at the house, having moved here from Matador some two weeks ago. Mr. Mills is employed with the department maintenance crew.

The double garage belonged jointly to Mrs. E. L. Morris and Mrs. Jno. N. Farris.

CITY GETS FARMERS' MONEY, SAYS JARDINE

"If a farmer becomes prosperous, what happens to the money he makes?"

This question is answered by former Secretary of Agriculture W. M. Jardine, in the current issue of The Country Home.

The city gets it in the end, he says.

"On the face of things it appears that everything else would take care of itself if the farmer is given more money and allowed to spend it as he wants," Jardine continues. "But experience proves that this is not necessarily true. Many families, relatively prosperous, move to town to get the benefits of the city's standard of life. The prosperous farmer either sells his farm or places a tenant in charge. In the latter case, the farm must support two families. The new man has his fortune to make out of the soil. The owner spends his income on things that deprive his farm community not only of his money but his intelligent direction.

"Even though the owner retains direction of his farm, his income is spent in the town. If he sells it outright, his wealth goes into stocks and bonds, which enrich the cities. If he stays on the farm, his surplus wealth goes into securities that upbuild the cities. The perennial loss of surplus wealth from the country is one of the outstanding causes of a barren country life. It is slow to accumulate, but surplus wealth can do a great deal if it is wisely utilized. It should be the means of making the farm home a desirable place to live," Jardine declares.

Dougherty News

(By Mrs. W. D. Newell)

Jimminy is a bit slow yet. The Cotton Gin Co. at Dougherty had only gained 25 bales up to Monday night, September 22nd. Many farmers started picking this week however and it is thought that probably, that many more, bales will be brought in this week.

One of our local citizens made a trip to the city of Floydada one day last week and this is what he submits to this column—

"After reading the account last week of the bantam car at the advertising Desk of The Hesperian and then, seeing the car later in the week, I sat down to rest one night and let my mind reflect back over the past. I recalled an account of the late aeroplane achievements and being in a dreamy mood, this is how I saw things: We will get in our little auto and drive out to the landing field, run the plane out of its hanger, next we will fold up our little car, like we did the baby carriage in the days of the horse and buggy, store it away in the fuse-lage of the plane. Then we will board the plane, fly to the city, land on the Municipal field, park our plane, pull our car out, unfold it and get in and strike out to do our shopping."

This is some "dream" Walter had but who can tell but that we may see this very thing happen. Oh! Boy! Won't we have fun then.

Folks, the old world is surely getting better just listen to what we grow here in Dougherty.

We are growing beans 14 inches long, 1-1/2 inches wide and 1-2 inches thick. One stalk has an average of 5 beans on it. This is not a freak bean. They are eatable vegetables.

This is the same bean variety that "Jack in the Bean Stalk" planted with one exception, instead of the immense foliage, this bean is dwarfed in stalk, growing on an average of about 2 feet high, being dwarfed purposely so the wonderful growing quality would go to the bean instead of the stalk.

Any one who doubts this, the writer will be pleased to show you these beans in our own back yard.

BAPTIST CHURCH

P. D. O'Brien, Pastor
 We are now well into the second week of our revival. In spite of the fact that many of our folks are busy we are having very fine attendance at both the morning and evening services. Brother E. F. Cole, who is doing the preaching, is bringing some of the best messages we have ever heard. There is nothing of the clap-trap about his methods, but he goes straight to the heart with simple gospel truths. Many have been saved and many others have joined the church, but we are hoping the best in the way of visible results is yet to come. Next Sunday the meeting will close at the evening service. It has not been decided whether we will have the baptizing Sunday or wait until Monday evening. If you have not been in the services we would appreciate having you come before the meeting closes. The spirit of co-operation on the part of pastors and members of the other churches in town has been splendid. We renew the hope that the entire community shall be spiritually blessed by these services.

FIRST METHODIST CHURCH

G. T. Palmer, Pastor
 The coming Sunday brings us to the close of the Sunday school year. We are very grateful for the good constructive work of the Sunday school during the past year. Splendid progress has been made in all the departments of the school. Our officers and teachers are faithful and earnest in meeting their responsibility. As we stand at the threshold of the new Sunday school year we find it in our hearts to make the school bigger and better during the coming year. And in order that we may reach this worthy goal we urge upon each one the importance of being in their place. The coming Sunday is to be observed as promotion day in the Sunday school and the eleven o'clock hour will be given over to this work. A program in keeping with the spirit of the day has been prepared, and at this time the certificates of promotion will be presented to the students who are to receive them. This will be a great event in the life of these students. We would like to have the fathers and mothers present upon this occasion. At the close of this service we will have the installation of the offices and teachers of the school for the ensuing year.

We have received 35 into the church the last two Sundays, and the most of these coming on profession of faith. We welcome these into the fellowship of the church, and pray that God's blessings may be upon each one. There are many others who should unite with the church, and we are expecting these to come at the first opportunity. The three Leagues will meet at 7:00 p. m. Let all of our Leaguers be in their places at this hour. You are cordially invited to worship at the Methodist Church.

THE PUBLIC EXPECTS

Just Three Things of the Light and Power Industry—
LIGHT AND POWER AT REASONABLE COST
DEPENDABLE SERVICE, AVAILABLE SERVICE

The history of the industry for the past twenty years is a record of steady reduction in rates to its customers. Today the electrical dollar is the only commodity dollar that will buy more than it did in 1914.

The dependability of the service throughout the United States hardly requires discussion. If service is cut off for even a few minutes it is so unusual it becomes front-page news.

Electric service is available in every city, town and village, and in almost every hamlet, as well as on six hundred thousand farms throughout the country.

"To serve the public well and truly" has been the sole aim of the industry.

The Only Farm Relief I See

(By O. T. Williams)
The only Farm Relief for the Farmers, as I see it, is by the "hen, sow and cow" way. I know that you are saying, "how are we going to feed our livestock and poultry this year with little feed being produced and very little money being obtained from the cash crops that are marketed." I think that I see a way out of this trouble. At least I want you to think and talk over with your banker the plan that I have to offer.

There will be about 4,000 tons of cotton seed produced in this county this year. The seed will bring nearly $90,000 at present prices. But the 4,000 tons of seed if hauled home, will feed 7,000 dairy cows. If each cow only produces 200 lbs. of butter fat that would be 1,400,000 lbs. This if sold at 30c per pound would bring into this county $420,000.00. Assuming that the roughage and wheat pasture is worth as much as the seed, this would cost $180,000.00 to produce 1,400,000 pounds of butter fat. This would leave nearly a quarter of a million dollars profit. The skim milk, if fed to hogs and laying hens, will pay for the cost of the cotton seed. Good results have been obtained by feeding the milk to hogs at the ratio of one gallon of skim milk to five pounds of either ground milo grain or ground wheat. If the laying hens are given all of the skim milk (after it has soured) that they will drink and all of the grain that they want, very good egg production may be expected.

I have worked out, with the information that I could get, two rations that contain cotton seed, milo heads, and other grain sorghum roughage such as hegeria bundles without heads.

Ration No. 1. 100 lbs. cotton seed 750 lbs., milo heads, 750 hegeria bundles.

Ration No. 2. 100 lbs. cotton seed 2600 hegeria bundles.

All of these feeds should be ground, and fed in the following amounts; to the cow weighing 1000 pounds, feed the following twice daily:

Ration No. 1: 1 gallon cotton seed 4 gallons milo heads, 8 gallons hegeria bundles.

Ration No. 2: 1 gallon cotton seed

16 gallons hegeria bundles. If it rains so that the cows can have access to a good wheat pasture, then two thirds of the grain and roughage can be saved to be fed during the cold winter months when pasture is poor.

I do not claim that the best results can be obtained by the above rations, but some ready cash will be coming in each week and it will be a way out of selling your livestock and laying hens.

Mr. E. L. Tanner, County Farm Agent, Dickens County, hit the key note in a recent speech made before the Caprock Bankers Convention at Crosbyton. Read what they are going to do in Dickens County:

"The following are the facts of feeding dairy cows in an emergency as we have. In fact the principles are the same during any year:

"1. The dairy cow has eight times the capacity in her stomach that a horse has. A 1000 pound horse holds one-half bushel in his stomach. A 1000 pound cow holds four bushels. This is the fundamental fact to be taken into consideration in economical feeding of a cow. Fill that four bushels with roughness or good grazing before you offer her anything else. No dairy section has ever made a success until this fact has been soaked in good and deep into the dairyman. The trouble with most of the reading that our farmers run across is that this fact is taken for granted and the discussion is all about high powered concentrates.

"Our advice to our farmers here is to plant not less than two acres of wheat as soon as possible for winter grazing per cow. In an average year this will give a cow all the grazing she wants during November and December. January and February it will not. Again in March, April, and May it will.

"Any good three-gallon Jersey cow that gives one pound of butterfat per day and has all the wheat pasture she can consume and who has in addition from one to two gallons of cotton seed has the feed necessary to make the three gallons of milk and the pound of butterfat.

"How much is an acre of wheat worth per month when grazed by a cow? Two gallons of cotton seed weigh eight pounds. At thirty-dollars per ton that is twelve cents per day. The pound of butterfat will be worth not less than 36c per pound during this time. This will leave 24c per day as what the wheat is worth for pasture, which is 12c per acre per day or $3.50 per month or $15 above cost of seed and sowing for the five months, in butterfat.

"We are urging our farmers to save what little roughness they are making for January and February when ordinarily the wheat pasture runs short.

"By actual chemical analysis one gallon of cotton seed weighing four pounds contains all the ingredients (except a small amount of carbohydrates) that it takes to make a gallon of milk which weighs eight pounds. This is for ordinary Jersey milk of four and one-half per cent butterfat. There are a lot of arguments against this feeding of cotton seed to our cows but they do not come from practical feeders. I know of dozens of farmers who feed it year in and year out as long as it lasts; of course they have other feeds as good roughness. From practical observation I would recommend that any cow capable of producing not more than 300 pounds of butterfat (a pretty rare cow in this section) receive nothing more than home grown feeds which are common on any west Texas farm. Two acres of Sudan grass in the summer per head supplemented by three or four pounds of grain (any kind) will produce a pound of butter fat per day. During the average fall and spring, two acres of small grain supplemented with whatever roughness is available and a gallon or two of cotton seed will do the same.

The dead of winter, when everything is shut off, all the roughness that a cow will consume and cotton seed and other farm grain will do the work. These are practical facts gleaned from experience with practical farmers.

"Our dairy problem in West Texas as I have observed it divides into two parts: First those farmers whose cows will not average over a pound of butterfat per day for the lactation period. Our problem here is to get these farmers to plant enough pasture to take advantage of the four bushel basket at all times. There is where economical production lies...and by economical production I mean production of butterfat per acre and not per cow. The second problem is those cows that are high producers and they are relatively few—cows which produce over three gallons of milk. The average cow which a farmer calls a five gallon cow if her milk were weighed over a period of 300 days would turn out to be a three gallon cow or under. This cow requires more study and planning for her grain and roughage problem. But they are negligible in this section.

"For a cow 1200 pounds of cotton seed per year plus all the grazing she can use, plus whatever roughness and other grains available will make the most economical ration available at any time. We are recommending that our farmers put up seed up to two bales per cow."

KONJOLA FREED FT. WORTH MAN OF RHEUMATISM

Suffered Five Years—Kidney And Stomach Ailments Also Banished.

MR. N. R. DANIEL

"I suffered from rheumatism for four or five years," said Mr. N. R. Daniel, 808 East Arlington avenue, Ft. Worth. "This settled in my left leg and hip and I became so sore and stiff that I walked with a limp. I could not stoop sufficiently to lace my shoes. Later I became afflicted with stomach pains caused by gas. My kidneys became affected and I suffered constant back pains. "I watched local endorsements of Konjola and decided to give it a trial. I noticed a change while I was taking the first bottle so I continued the treatment. Today the pains of rheumatism have entirely passed. I move my limbs freely and without effort. The stomach and kidney ailments have gone the way of my rheumatism and I no longer suffer from constipation. Even head catarrh which bothered me for years has been relieved by this new medicine."

The files of Konjola contain many such instances. Konjola is free from alcohol, nerve-deadening drugs or heart-depressing chemicals.

Konjola is sold in Floydada at Floydada Drug Co., and by all the best druggists in all towns throughout this entire section.

Buy A Home---When Everyone Wants To Sell

BUY EITHER ONE THAT IS ALREADY BUILT OR ONE FROM US.

Business may not be good and some people may be out of work, but it is caused principally by the unemployment of surplus money and the lack of leadership in our communities.

Fundamentally, the way to make money the easiest on any proposition is to Buy when everyone else wishes to sell and sell when everyone wants to buy.

The old adage may be trite, but nevertheless true:

"Buy Low And Sell High To Obtain Riches"

There never was a better time to obtain good values in homes than at present. This country "comes back" faster than any place in the U. S., and if you buy a bargain from someone who is anxious to sell or a new one from us, you will make money.

That has been proven many times in the past. Why not prove true again?

C. F. Redlich, Minneapolis, Minn., nationally famous Rupture Application Expert, will demonstrate without charge his unequalled method AT Plainview, Wednesday, Oct. 1 at the Hilton Hotel from 10 a. m. to 4 p. m.

Mr. C. F. Redlich says: "The 'Perfect Retention Shields' hold the rupture perfectly, no matter what position the body assumes or how heavy a weight you lift. They give instant relief and contract the opening in a remarkably short time.

The secret of their success is in their simplicity. An expertly adjusted device seals the opening without discomfort or detention from work. It is practically everlasting; sanitary, comfortable and actually holds ruptures which heretofore were considered uncontrollable.

Local Grid Eleven Lost 'Opener' In First Night Game

F. H. S. Whirlwinds Show Good
"Stuff" Against Plainview Buldogs Saturday Night.

Saturday night, September 20, has been marked on the sport calendar in the football realms of Floydada High School, as the date for three important events in the history of the 1930 Whirlwinds; namely, the first high school night football game in West Texas, the first game of the season for the Whirlwinds, and their first defeat of the season. After struggling for three-quarters of a game in a scoreless tie with the Plainview Bulldogs at Wayland Field in Plainview, the Whirlwinds allowed their grid hosts to break-away with a pass that netted twenty-five yards to place the pigskin across the goal line and mark up a 7 to 0 defeat for the locals.

Football, in its twilight stages, is declared by many of the 750 people who witnessed the game Saturday night, to be even more interesting and much more pleasant than day-time football. Wayland field was lighted by twenty-four giant floodlights which illuminated every spot on the gridiron, making every part of the play and every play easily visible for both players and spectators. There were no glares or "blind spots" on the entire field.

Fair to excellent grid performance on the parts of the members of both elevens made the "curtain riser" for high school football in this immediate section an excellent one. Both crews were made up principally of "raw" material, and yet, both displayed excellent football knowledge and rare judgment and fight. Neither team held an advantage over the other because of weight or experience, and neither displayed any remarkable talent or ability that will likely upset the expectations.

Coach L. T. Barksdale's Whirlwinds got away for a good start at the beginning whistle and followed through until the final gun with a series of well executed end runs, spiral plays and line plunges that continually netted ground. Only five passes were attempted by the local gridsters during the entire encounter, three of which were complete. Other than one pass attempted by Floydada in the second quarter, neither team staged an aerial play during the first half. Floydada centered her attack on long end runs, and the Bulldogs settled down to a string of off-tackle plays. Plainview attempted ten passes and completed four, all within the last half.

Plainview's score came in the third quarter, after a stage of three attempted passes from Wester, half back, to Walker, right end. With the ball on Floydada's thirty-yard line, Wester tossed the pigskin to Walker, who had a clear-away to the goal line. The kick for extra point was successful, tallying the final count of 7 to 0.

A summary of the game shows that the F. H. S. lads piled up nine first downs against five first downs by the Bulldogs. Floydada drew three penalties of five yards each and one penalty of fifteen yards. Plainview drew four five yard penalties. The Whirlwinds punted thirteen times for an average of 28 yards, and Plainview punted thirteen times for an average of 30 yards.

In Floydada's line-up each man showed up to good advantage, but outstanding were McLaughlin, Carter, Hale, captain de Cordova, and Head. Fleetfoot "Little" Murray and his "Big" twin brother came in for their shares of the glory, also. Starting line-ups for the two teams, was as follows:

Plainview
Stevenson—L. E.—Workman
McLaughlin—L. T.—Hart,
de Cordova (cap)—L. G.—Koen
Bell—C.—Goodwin
Langford—R. G.—Mitchell
Allen—R. T.—Scallings
L. Murray—R. E.—Walker
Heald—L. H.—Terrell
F. Murray—R. H.—Wester
Carler—F. B.—Pierce (Cap)
Heald—Q. B.—Hamilton

Officials were: Reference, Kimbrough, Simmons; Umpire, Woodward; Head Linesman, Cross, Wayland; Field Judge, Rump, Texas.

JOHN KEY WEST IS MADE STUDENT TOP-SERGEANT AT JOHN TARLETON COLLEGE

John Key West, Floydada boy who is a student at John Tarleton College at Stephenville, Texas, has been promoted to Provisional Top Sergeant of Company A of the Military school, according to a letter received this week by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. John L. MRS. L. B. GOUGH DIES AT HOME IN BEAUMONT

Mrs. L. B. Gough, of Beaumont, formerly Miss Louise Noblitt, one time teacher of Latin and English in Floydada High School, was found dead in bed at her home in that city Friday morning of last week by her husband and two daughters, her death being due, presumably, to heart failure. News of the death was received by relatives here Saturday.

Mrs. Gough had been teacher of English in the Beaumont High school for a number of years and her husband is employment director for the Magnolia Petroleum Company's plant there. Funeral services were held at Cookville, Texas, her childhood home, Sunday afternoon. The surviving children are Marjorie, 15, and Emma Louise, 13.

Mrs. Gough was a niece of Messdames E. C. Nelson and A. D. Summerville and a cousin of Mrs. W. D. Standifer of this city.

The John Tarleton football team this season has fifty huskies working out, and their metal will be tried tomorrow, September 26, when they go up against the Simmons University Cowboys. It will be a night game played on the university field.

Coaches Wisdom and Choc Sanders report that prospects are excellent for a strong Plowboy team this year. Several veterans have returned to the squad, and a large number of well known high school performers are competing for places on the team. Starks Green star on the Floydada team last season, is with the Tarleton team this fall, and will likely be seen in action Friday.
