Choral Club Formed By Floydada Singers Is New Civic Group

Organization To Give Vocal Music Programs; Membership To Total 50.

Organized for the improvement of choral singing and to furnish entertainment for civic occasions, the Floydada Civic Choral Club, once thought of only as a possibility but now an actuality, is going forward with plans for annual programs. It is the first organization of its kind in this city.

Mrs. G. E. Bond, president of the club, with Mrs. W. E. Patty, vice-president, and Mrs. O. W. Kirk, instructor in voice and music, are the originators of the idea of such an organization and have been instrumental in its actual organization during the past three weeks.

The set quota of 50 members has about been reached, Mrs. Bond announced. The members are admitted into the organization by a vote of the members. Other officers of the club are Mrs. Jerry Withers, secretary-treasurer, Mr. Cooper, custodian, and Roy Holmes, executive member.

Announcement has not been made of the selection of pianist and director for the organization which includes mixed voices, it was pointed out. Young and old, alike, take part in the programs. Meetings are held every Monday night, the next to be held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. O. T. Williams. A sight-singing period is held each evening that the club meets to teach the group to read music. Collective voice singing is held to help the quality.

"We plan to become federated with the state music organizations," Mrs. Bond said. "We hope to make a success and make this a useful organization—a permanent thing. In early spring we plan a light, colorful operetta. We will use the younger group in it. We hope to give two entertainments each year—one of a light nature and the other 'heavy'."

Present plans call for the presentation of a Christmas cantata on the Nativity, possibly at the Palace Theatre, it was indicated.

Makes $500 Bond On Assault Charge After Pistol Shots Go Wild

Wallace Sparks, local service car driver and automobile mechanic, is under $500 bond on a charge of assault with intent to murder following the firing of a pistol twice Saturday morning about 9:30 on West California Street.

Both shots, fired at Fred Jones also of this city, went wild, one of the bullets cutting a hole in the hood of a car parked at the curb. No statement was made relative to the matter, except that of Sheriff P. G. Stegall, who said that a charge of assault with intent to murder had been filed and that the defendant made bond the same day to await the action of the grand jury.

Father Of Bill Sharp Succumbs At Plainview

G. C. Sharp, father of Bill Sharp of this city, died early this morning at his home at 317 Broadway, Plainview, following an illness of over a week, during which time he suffered with heart trouble and other complications. He was taken seriously ill on Wednesday of last week, at which time, Mr. and Mrs. Bill Sharp left for his bedside, where they have been until his death.

Mr. Sharp, who was 72 years of age, is survived by his wife, four sons, one daughter and one sister. His wife resides in Plainview, one son, Bob, lives near Plainview, and one lives at El Reno, Oklahoma. Bill Sharp resides in this city and owns a mechanical shop located in the Triangle Garage, and the home of the other son, Cliff, is unknown by friends of the family in this city. The daughter, Mrs. Medlin, is confined to a hospital in Fort Worth.

Arrangements for the funeral services were not complete at 10 o'clock this morning.

ATTEND DISTRICT WOODMEN CIRCLE MEETING FRIDAY

Mrs. W. H. Hilton, accompanied by Mrs. J. D. Starks, Mrs. Jas. K. Green, and Mrs. J. M. McCauley, attended the district meeting of the Woodmen Circle held in Amarillo, Friday, October 24.

The meeting was called to combine two districts and organize them to meet twice a year to study the Woodmen Circle work. Officers were elected for the organization as follows: president, Mrs. Jennie Linbloom; first vice president, Mrs. George Easom, both of Amarillo; a secretary from Plainview; treasurer, Mrs. Edna Brown, of Memphis. The meeting place for April was not decided on at this meeting. There were two hundred or more visitors present and a number of drills in the work were put on for the visitors. A special program had been arranged and was presented.

NEW DENVER SCHEDULE FOR SOUTH PLAINS LINE NOT DEFINITE YESTERDAY

What effect the changes in train service on the Fort Worth & Denver main line between Amarillo and Dallas, will have on the schedule of the south plains line of the Denver through South Plains and Lockney, was not known yesterday morning to K. L. Canning, agent of the line at Lockney. "While we are anticipating a slight change in the schedule, we have received no information or instructions from the general office as yet," Mr. Canning said.

The south plains line of the road carries a heavy load of mail, quite a bit of the mail in the morning delivery at Floydada coming in over the Denver by way of Lockney, and local interests are anxious that the schedule be maintained at approximately the same hours as are now in effect.

G. A. AND CLYDE MADDOX COMPLETE PURCHASE OF F. F. F. SERVICE STATION

Purchase of the F. F. F. Service Station at the corner of Main and Mississippi Streets was announced yesterday by Clyde Maddox, of this city, and his father, G. A. Maddox, of Hopkins County, who have completed the purchase of the station. The purchase from Sullivan and Smalley was completed Tuesday afternoon.

Clyde Maddox has been a resident of this city for the past year, and during that time was employed with the C. P. Looper Company, as well as other firms in this city. G. A. Maddox has made his home for the past several years in Hopkins County, and is moving this week to Floydada to make his home.

O. L. Sullivan and Noah Smalley have been proprietors of the station for the past ten months.

1931 License Plates For Floyd Co. Autos Received By Stegall

License plates for automobiles and trucks in Floyd County for 1931 registration have been received at the office of Sheriff and Tax Collector P. G. Stegall, and distribution of them will begin about December 1, he said this week. Plates will be issued, however, at that time only to those car owners whose cars are already registered in Floyd County for the year of 1930, and the new license plates should not be used, of course, until the first day of the new year, he pointed out.

The first number for Floyd County is D-64601, the style of numbering having been changed. The new plates are the same size as in former years. This year the plates have white letters on a black background. 3,000 of the license plates were sent to this county.

William R. Mullings Of Aiken Buried Here

William R. Mullings, 22, of Aiken, son-in-law of Robert E. Jones of that city, succumbed to kidney trouble at 9:15 o'clock Saturday morning of last week and funeral services were held Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock at the Aiken Methodist Church. Interment was made in the Floydada cemetery at 4:30 o'clock Sunday afternoon.

Funeral arrangements were in charge of Grady Hall, formerly of this city and now residing in Plainview. The remains were brought here by the Lindsey Funeral Home here. Deceased had been in ill health for about a year and had been in bed for the past three or four months. Several Floydada people attended the services in Aiken which were conducted by the Rev. Pickens, pastor of the Aiken Methodist Church. Relatives and friends attending from Floydada were Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Hall, Mr. and Mrs. Ed Brown and family, Mrs. Fred Brown and children, Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Jones, and Fred Jones.

Surviving the deceased are his parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Mullings his wife, and other relatives.

12,409 Certified Population Floyd Co., Says Bureau

12,409 is the certified population of Floyd County.

The certificate to this effect, issued by the Bureau of the Census at Washington, D. C., and forwarded to Judge Wm. McGehee, County Judge, was received Wednesday, and has been filed in the records of the office of County Clerk Tom W. Deen.

The additional population in the county automatically separates the offices of the sheriff and tax collector. P. G. Stegall, present incumbent, is the nominee-elect for the sheriff's office and C. M. Meredith, at present tax assessor, will be the county's first collector after the separation of the two offices.

Canyon Gridsters To Furnish Stiff Game Here Friday

Whirlwinds Preparing for Encounter With Strong Eleven From District One.

Showing a world of pep and enthusiasm despite the fact that they are stepping out of District Two, and calling forth one of the strongest grid combinations in District One, the Floydada High School Whirlwind eleven are preparing this week for tough battle tomorrow with the Canyon Eagles. Although Friday's encounter is not a conference game, local fans are looking forward to the clash because it promises to be a thriller in every respect, and will probably be one of the best games on the F. H. S. grid-iron this season.

Latest reports from the Eagle's nest at Canyon are that the Eagles will make their hundred mile trip to this city Friday morning, arriving at their destination supported by a volley of side-line backing that will turn every mind to football, for one afternoon, at least.

Coch Barksdale, with the assistance of O. K. Davis, is preparing his Whirlwind crew for one of their toughest games this season. Barksdale says that, with "dope" so uncertain, and information so scarce, he is preparing every one of his recruits for the game Friday, with the assumption that "it's going to be a mighty hard game."

The record of the Canyon Eagles has been hard to trace down. On last Friday, they downed Hereford by one touchdown. They have tied Happy O and O; scored a touchdown on Pampa though buried under an avalanche of counters; beat Claude 7 to 0; and defeated Clovis 7 to 6; With such a varied record behind them local "dopsters" can't quite figure out the Canyon eleven, other than it will be a mighty tight game.

Coch Barksdale has been putting his Whirlwind gridsters through stiff work-outs all week, springing a new system on them Wednesday that tested out their wind, worked them in spin plays and exercised their skill at side-stepping and stiff-arming. His entire crew is in excellent shape, with the exception of Bridges, who last week sustained a sprained shoulder muscle that may keep him out of this week's game.

Lee Wilkinson Takes Doctor To Crosbyton In Plane; Brother Ill

Lee Wilkinson made a trip by plane Saturday to Tulla and carried Dr. Shaw of that city to the bedside of his brother, T. T. Wilkinson, who has been ill with typhoid fever at his home in Crosbyton for the past eight weeks. The condition of Mr. Wilkinson's brother was not considered critical but Dr. Shaw was the family physician in East Texas.

The trip from Floydada to Tulla, Crosbyton and return required only two hours flying time.

ANDREWS WARD BREEZES, RALLS SECOND STRING PLAY 6-6 TIE TUESDAY

The Andrews Ward Breezes, future stars of Floydada High School, got some more experience under fire Tuesday afternoon of this week, when they were pitted at Floydada Baseball Park against the second string team of the Ralls High School, the Ralls boys outweighing the local school's team somewhat. The score was 6 to 6. The two teams played on about equal basis, the Andrews Ward boys putting over a touchdown in the first quarter, using principally end runs. The Ralls team made their score in the third quarter using straight football with line plunges to travel downfield. Mr. Reed, assistant coach of the Ralls team, had charge of the visitors.

The Breezes breezed through the third string of F. H. S. last week and won the decision in a 6-0 game.

Light Frost Tuesday Night Nips Cotton, Feed And Vegetables

Gradually Clearing Weather Brings Return of Cotton Harvest After 20 Days.

With weather gradually clearing during the past five days, open enough for the resumption of harvesting on a slow schedule were seen again beginning Monday of this week after farmers had been out of their fields for more than twenty days. Good seasons were falling during this period, however, and the period of waiting.

Tuesday was the first "rough" day of the fall season, feed and cotton drying fast in a mild norther that blew a forest of winter beginning about daylight. By night the skies had cleared and a light frost fell. Farmers said Wednesday that the frost nipped cotton, feed and vegetables to some extent although it would not be called a killing frost.

Wheat planting has been resumed in most fields, where the job was not complete, which is a rather large per cent, and cotton harvesting is also being resumed in a brisk manner this mid-week. Cotton picked the first of the week was too damp for the gins to handle well as a general rule, but the staple is expected to improve steadily the remainder of the week.

Some 400 bales of cotton are expected to be turned out by the gins of the county by Saturday night if the weather continues favorable.

Little Theatre Ends Season Ticket Sales Friday, November 7

Season ticket sales for the Floydada Little Theatre productions will close November 7, it has been announced. Membership cards selling for $1.50 each and entitling the purchaser to admittance to four shows by the organization, membership with the group, and reserved seats at all performances have been placed on sale at all of the drug stores.

"What Happened to Jones" is the title of the first play that will be given this year by the Little Theatre group and will be staged Friday night, November 7 at the high school auditorium. The lead for the three-act comedy is played by O. T. Williams, vocational agriculture teacher in Floydada High School. Mrs. Robert Sone is directing the cast which has been practicing every week-day night for the past two weeks.

Cummings is chairman of the production committee appointed by President J. C. Gilliam to have charge of the properties, costumes, lights, and curtain for the performance. Roy Holmes and Fred Jenkins are the other two members of the production committee.

The Little Theatre was organized here last year and has had a marked success. The object is to furnish entertainment for the community with local talent.

"What Happened to Jones" will require two and one half hours for presentation and will be one of the best comedies staged in Floydada in recent years, those who have seen the rehearsals declare.

Mrs. T. W. Whigham is chairman of the ticket sales committee and she is being assisted by Mrs. E. L. Angus, J. D. McBrien, Vernon Harmon, and Tom Bishop.

ROTARY-LIONS HEAR TALK ON COTTON BY McALLISTER

"America's system of buying and selling cotton through the cotton exchange at the present time is undergoing radical changes that will completely revolutionize the industry within the next few years." This, in substance, is the message brought by Geo. McAllister before the Lions and Rotarians of this city in joint meeting Wednesday noon. Mr. McAllister endorsed the Federal Board System, and stated that this organization and other groups are bending their efforts to prevent fluctuating the market during the cotton season with an over-supply, while during the off-season, the demand causes the price to jump.

Mr. McAllister, for a number of years, was associated with the cotton industry. He is, at present, local distributor for the Texas Company oil products.

Rev. Claude Wingo gave the group a short talk, telling of the history and origin of Halloween. Mr. McAllister was the only guest of the club.

JUDGE GOINS IMPROVES

Judge J. I. Goins, of Marietta, Oklahoma, who has been seriously ill at his home there and in an Ardmore hospital, continues to improve and is now able to be out of door at times, his parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Goins, learned this week from correspondence from his son. His condition was so serious at time that relatives were notified and went to his bedside. An infected jaw, following the extraction of a tooth, was the cause of his illness.

Spur School Put On Probation By League Committee At Austin

Spur High School has been placed on probation in the State Interscholastic League following action of the state executive committee Monday night at Austin. Dispatches did not indicate the length of the probation period but it was pointed out that Spur was not expelled from the league.

The executive committee sustained the charges of the district committee made following the filing of material by Superintendent W. E. Patty of this city as protest against playing a scheduled game with the Spur eleven. Superintendent Patty maintained that ineligible men had been playing with the team and the state league officials sustained the charges. Spur was scheduled to play here Friday, October 17, but the game was cancelled and the Whirlwinds met the Tulla Hornets for a second time this season.

The executive committee sustained the charges of the district committee in which it was held that undue influence and pressure was brought to bear by officials of the Spur school on officials of the Dickens school to obtain a transfer certificate for Grady Edgar from Dickens to Spur and to obtain an additional credit which would make him eligible for interscholastic competition.

SAND HILL CLUB TO HAVE OUT-DOOR GYMNASIUM FOR NIGHT BASKETBALL GAMES

An out-door gymnasium for night basketball is being prepared for the Sand Hill School this week by the Sand Hill P. T. C. Society, according to Ed Holmes, president of the association. Electric lights from the Delco system are being wired to the basketball court on the south side of the old school building, and the ground prepared for playing. Elmer Mickey and Calvin Golleher have charge of the lighting of the court, Holmes stated this week. During favorable weather, it is believed that the out-door court will be just as good, if not better, than an in-door gymnasium in many respects.

Father Of J. A. Arwine Dies At Lubbock Sun.

Funeral Services for D. I. Arwine Held at Bridgeport Monday Afternoon.

David I. Arwine, father of J. A. Arwine of this city, died Sunday morning of this week at the home of his daughter, Mrs. A. F. McCarty at Lubbock, following a long illness.

Mr. Arwine was 88 years of age and resided with his daughter at Lubbock. Upon news of his father's fatal illness, Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Arwine and two sons left immediately for Lubbock to be at the bedside. Funeral services were held Monday afternoon at Bridgeport and interment was made in a Bridgeport cemetery. The body was sent to Bridgeport by train Sunday night. Mr. McCarty accompanied the body, while Mrs. McCarty and Mr. and Mrs. Arwine went to Bridgeport by automobile.

J. A. Arwine and Mrs. McCarty are the only immediate relatives surviving the deceased. Both were present for the funeral services.

The Arwine Drug Store in this city was closed through Sunday and Monday, and all other drug stores in the city were closed between 3 and 4 o'clock Monday afternoon, during the hours of the funeral.

Remodeling Begun On Boerner Building For Harmon, New Lessee

Remodeling was begun yesterday on the Boerner Building at 113 South Main Street for the occupancy of the new lessee of the building the Harmon Furniture store. Work will be completed in ten days to two weeks, Mr. Harmon estimated yesterday, following which the new business house will be occupied by his establishment.

Changes contemplated include wings to the balcony that will increase the space in the building materially, giving more room for display. A new plan is also being worked out for the display windows also.

This week the furniture company has a sale under way, preparatory to removal to the new location.

J. F. McCARTY IMPROVED

Following receipt of a message that their father, J. F. McCarty was dangerously ill at his home in Rio Hondo, Texas, Mrs. John L. West of this city and Edgar McCarty left Wednesday of last week to go to his bedside. Mrs. Edgar McCarty accompanied them. Reports reaching friends here indicate that Mr. McCarty's condition is much improved and Mr. and Mrs. Edgar McCarty and Mrs. West are expected to return home today or tomorrow.

General Election Vote Set For Tuesday, Nov. 4; Five Amendments Up

Four Parties Offer Lists of Candidates From Which Voters of State May Choose.

Floyd County voters, along with the voters of the rest of the state and nation, will go to the polls in an "off year" politically Tuesday of next week, to select their choice of candidates from a list offered by four parties. Of these, however, in this county, only one party has a county ticket in the field. This is the Democratic Party.

A number of voters of the county will be surprised to know that in addition to the Democratic, Republican and Socialist tickets offered, the Communist Party will also have candidates on the ticket for United States Senator, governor and lieutenant governor.

Little general interest is being evinced in the forthcoming election, except in one district in the state—the San Antonio District—where a hot campaign is being waged between the Democratic and Republican nominees for Congressional Representative. In some portions of the state, also, there is considerable interest in the success of the proposed amendments to the state constitution, five in number. In each instance, the amendments represent changes in the constitution to meet demand from various quarters. For instance the first amendment appearing on the list would change the provision of the constitution enforcing a long vacation on the Supreme Court. This change would permit the court to sit at any time during the year.

The second amendment proposed, for and against which votes will be cast, would subject the lands of the University of Texas to taxation for county purposes and provide for the payment of these taxes to the proper county authorities where the lands are located.

The third amendment would fix the terms for the convening of the legislature of the state.

The fourth would provide for an increase in the maximum pay of legislators to $10 per day for the first 120 days and thereafter not exceeding $5.00 per day and decreasing the pay for mileage travelled by each member going to and returning from the legislature from $5 for each 25 miles to $2.50 for each 25 miles.

The fifth and last amendment proposed would make it possible for the permanent University of Texas fund to be invested in bonds of the United States, the State of Texas, or counties of this state, or school bonds of municipalities, or in bonds of any city of the state, or in obligations and pledges issued by the Board of Regents of the University of Texas, or secured by such obligations and pledges, for the construction of dormitories and other buildings for the use of the University of Texas, or in bonds issued under and by virtue of the Federal Farm Loan Act of 1916.

Officials who are to hold the election on Tuesday have been issued their supplies of ballots, instructions, tally sheets, poll lists, etc. These officers were named, with two exceptions, by the Commissioners' Court in August of 1929, as provided by the statutes. The two exceptions are Will Snell of Starke, where the presiding judge named, Judge Jno. W. Howard, is disqualified by the fact that he is a candidate; and east Lockney, where E. E. Wells is presiding officer in place of Z. T. Riley, who with his family, is spending the winter in the Rio Grande Valley.

The list beginning with Number One, and running through the nineteen boxes in order are:

South Floydada, J. E. Maddox; North Floydada, E. P. Nelson; Starke, W. M. Snell; Allmon, A. S. Green; Sand Hill, O. B. Gross; East Lockney, E. E. Wells; West Lockney, A. J. White; Aiken, J. E. McAvoy; Providence, H. J. Rajten; Lone Star, T. S. McGehee; Sunset, H. T. Bradshaw; Fairmont, George Pigg; Cedar, J. V. Gilley; Center, W. B. Jordan; Baker, W. H. Nelson; Antelope, Will Graham; Lakeview, Wayne Wright; Harmony, R. B. Gary; Goodnight, Will Merrell.

Tuesday a suit of Mary E. McClenden and others against R. L. Brown and others, the differences being over a question of a land forfeit was settled. A compromise was reached and judgement will be rendered, based on the compromise agreement.

Today the suit of Cox & Thompson of Plainview, against W. B. Hatcher, will be tried before a jury and tomorrow the suit of the First National Bank of Plainview against C. J. McGee and A. B. Brown is docketed to be tried.

This is the last week in which a regular venire of jurors has been summoned.

BROTHER OF B. NICHOLS BURIED AT CARLSBAD N. M.

H. S. Nichols, brother of Burret Nichols of this city and Dee Nichols of Lockney, was buried last Friday near Carlsbad, New Mexico, where he died early Friday morning. Mr. Nichols, who was a cotton inspector for the government, was 39 years of age. The funeral services were held at 3 p. m. Friday. The deceased is survived by his wife, six brothers, two sisters and his mother, Dee Nichols, of Lockney, and Burret Nichols of this city, and his mother and wife were the only relatives who were present for the funeral services.

Burret Nichols returned to his home in Floydada Monday night.

HAT SHOP MOVES TO NEW HOME IN BANK BUILDING

The Hat Shop, which for the past several years has been located in the balcony of the C. R. Houston Company on the West Side of the Square completed the removal of their millinery stock the first of this week to the Floyd County National building, in the location formerly occupied by the Pollyanna Art Shoppe on Missouri Street. The stock has been completely rearranged and the shop re-modeled throughout.

Mrs. Ruth Brown Hall and Mrs. E. P. Nelson are proprietors of The Hat Shop.

Ralls Boy Wins First In U. S. Judging Meet

J. Wiley Holmes of Ralls won first place in Guernsey cattle judging at the National Dairy Show last week at St. Louis, Mo., in competition with other boys from every section of the United States and Canada. The Ralls team consisting of Clarence Young, Ellis Henry, and Holmes won fifth place in the national contest. There were 36 teams competing and the Ralls boys represented Texas, having won first place in the state at the judging contests held this summer at College Station. E. E. Young is coach of the team.

While in St. Louis the team members were guests of Judge I. R. Kelso, president of the Texas Utilities Co. The Ralls boys returned home Thursday of last week.

The Crippled Lady of Peribonka

By James Oliver Curwood

WNU Service
(©, 1929, Doubleday
Doran & Co., Inc.)

SYNOPSIS

CHAPTER I.—Introducing some of the people of the pretty little French-Cadian village of Peribonka, particularly the Crippled Lady, idol of the simple inhabitants, and heroine of an epic destined to live long in the village annals.

CHAPTER II.—How the romance of Molly Bryant, sister of the great Indian chief, Joseph Bryant, and Sir William Johnson, in pre-revolutionary days, comes down to today with the birth of a son, Paul, to Molly Kirke, wife of a powerful New York financier, and her death when Paul is thirteen years old. Molly Kirke was a descendant of Molly Bryant, and her boy has many of the Indian characteristics. At thirty-two Paul marries Claire Durand, daughter of his father's business partner. He is in charge of an immense engineering work on the Mistassini river, near Peribonka, which his millionaire father has undertaken, but his Indian blood derelicts the destruction of the wilderness, and his thoughts are more of Carla Haldan—not then the Crippled Lady—than of his work.

CHAPTER III.—Paul's wife is in Europe, she having no inclination to live in "those horrible woods." He comes to see in Carla, daughter of a central European immigrant, with her devotion to her invalid mother and her work of educating the village children, his ideal of womanhood.

CHAPTER IV.—Paul writes to his wife, urging her to join him, though Carla is the inspiration of the letter. Later that evening, passing the Haldan, long a hopeless invalid, is lying in bed. He enters the cottage. Mrs. Haldan, long a hopeless invalid, is dead, Paul's efforts to comfort Carla, he feels, bring them closer together.

CHAPTER V.—Claire announces her intention of joining Paul on the Mistassini in a short time. She also writes to Carla, of whom she has heard from Paul, a letter of kindly sympathy, on the death of her mother.

CHAPTER VI.—Paul goes to Quebec to meet Claire, and brings her to his temporary home. Though she is apparently glad to be with him, and evinces warm friendship for Carla and Paul's other friends, she feels she is only there because she feels it her duty. She is not really happy. He becomes aware of a gulf between him and his wife.

CHAPTER VII.—Paul, Claire, Carla, and two friends make a luncheon party to visit the "Big Gorge" of the Mistassini, an appalling swift current which disappears in a mountain side. Current belief is that anything dropped into it is never seen again. In sport they cast into the stream pieces of wood, and other objects, watching them disappear. Finally they carry a large log to the edge of the rushing water. As they toss it over it upends, striking Paul and throwing him into the stream. The two women with whom Paul's life is entwined see him go to what they are sure is certain death. One asks the other if she is going with him. Receiving no answer, she announces, "Then—I am!" and springs into the water.

CHAPTER VIII.—Paul sees the action, and believes the woman is Claire. Clinging to a rock, which temporarily checks his rush to death he recognizes Carla as the water brings her nearer. He clutches her, but the two are carried onward. Then, a miracle! Paul's feet touch solid earth. He drags himself, with the girl, into a subterranean cave.

CHAPTER IX.—Fully satisfied there is no chance of escape, and that for their few remaining hours they are in a world of their own, Paul and Carla reach a perfect understanding as to their mutual love.

CHAPTER X.—A frantic search for the bodies of the two begins, no one believing they could have escaped death. Paul, with matches he has in a waterproof box, builds a fire of driftwood, beside which he leaves Carla. Devising a torch to light his way, he begins what he feels is a hopeless exploration of the cave.

CHAPTER XI.—Continuing his search, on the second day of their imprisonment, Paul climbs a wall of rock, groping toward a tiny shaft of light he has seen. Almost unbelieving, he finds there is a possibility of escape. He returns to Carla and tells her. The pair, their joy in the thought of returning to the world tempered by the knowledge that it means their separation, make their way to the spot. Leaving Carla, Paul climbs toward the light. The girl, anxious to share danger with him, essays to follow him.

CHAPTER XII.—Paul above, hears the crash of falling rocks. Descending, he finds Carla buried in debris, but alive. Almost insane, he tears her from the mass and with her in his arms makes his way to a party of searchers. Carla is found to be paralyzed from the waist down, but will live. Claire, who has left for New York, is notified. She sends expressions of happiness to both Paul and Carla, and asks Paul to come to her. Carla insists he go at once. He leaves torn with conflicting emotions, loving Carla and bound to Claire.

CHAPTER XIII

Paul had told only Claire that he was on his way to her. At the station a familiar face came out of the hurrying streams of humanity to greet him. It was Jimmy Ennerdale, whose presence always gave him greater comfort than that of any other man. He had known Ennerdale for a long time, and Claire had grown up with him like a sister. Jimmy had always seemed older than Paul, with a premature grayness in his hair and a slight stoop in his thin, sensitive body. His affection for Paul possessed the unchangeable quality of the marble out of which he was slowly and persistently chiseling fame for himself as a sculptor. He had been working in the West, and Paul had not seen him for a year. Ennerdale had grown older in that time, he thought. His face was thinner, his hair whiter over his temples, his physical tone even less robust than when he had seen him last. He had the same quick, nervous alertness about him, and it did Paul good to see the gladness in his face as they gripped hands. He knew that Claire, unable to meet him herself, had sent Jimmy in her place.

"She is like a child, waiting for you," said Ennerdale, as they rode toward his home. "I was there with mother last evening, and she asked me to meet you. She cried and laughed and is damnably happy. If you don't mind, I'd like to come over when you two have settled down, and have you tell me about this monstrous happening. May I?"

"You know you don't need an invitation," said Paul. "Come tomorrow."

He had an odd feeling of not knowing what was going to happen as he left Ennerdale and entered his home. He could feel himself under a strain roused by the nearness of explanations which it was Claire's right to hear and his duty to make. It would be hard to talk about Carla, as he must, even should Claire in her wisdom ask for nothing.

Claire was waiting for him in her room. This act of thoughtfulness pleased him. She knew that in a peculiarly embarrassing moment they should be alone. Both were sensitive, each a little fearful of what one or the other might betray in their first greeting. He was thinking this when he went to her. As her door closed behind him, his first impression was of a room filled with flowers. Claire, like Carla, loved them. The air was delicately fragrant with their perfume. Claire was bending over a mass of white roses when he entered, and then came toward him with both hands held out. She did not put her arms about him or offer him her lips, yet never had he seen such a light of happiness shining in her eyes. He made a movement to kiss her, but she drew back in such a way that her act seemed scarcely to be repelling him.

"Not now, Paul. Not until we have talked. Then, if you want to kiss me, you may."

She was astonishingly free of the tension which he had anticipated, and as she stood with her fingers clasped warmly about his, telling him how glad she was that he was alive, and how doomed to despair and unhappiness she would have been if he had not lived to return to her, he wondered if it were Claire, his wife, who was talking to him or another Claire—some one he had never known. For she seemed, all at once, to have drawn herself farther away from his than she had ever been, but in such a sweet and friendly way that the change in her seemed one which could not bring hurt with it.

It was Claire's fight that was the hardest. It was going to take a Joan of Arc courage to say what she had planned to say. She made him sit near by, so they were facing each other.

"Paul, we are going to be honest. You will promise me that?"

He knew he was preparing to equivocate as he gave his word. A lie to save Claire from hurt was more creditable than truth. The impulse to shield her, to keep from her all suspicion of his love for Carla, swept over him as he looked at her. She was like the flowers on the table, as easily crushed, he thought. More vividly than ever he saw the difference between her and Carla. Carla would fight on through tragedy, even to death. Claire, suffering more, would droop and fade like a petal in a rose, shrinking from the quicker and more physical action which the other would find for himself. He was not analyzing himself, or her. The thought—like a picture—impressed itself upon him, and Claire, gazing at him in these epic, introspective moments, as if partly seeing the swift visioning in his mind, surprised him by saying:

"Paul, I wonder if you know, just how much I honor and respect you. I wonder if you realize how fine you are. I have failed to play my part—as your wife. I have not let you know these things as I should. The fault in our lives is not yours. It is mine. I think I could have made you love me. Yet I saw the unfairness of it unless I could make myself love you first. I hoped and prayed for that.

"There wasn't love when we were married, on either side. You did not love me, not in the way you wanted to love a woman, and my feeling for you was an immeasurable respect and admiration for an honorable gentleman. It seems trite and superficial to say that the interest of our families brought us together, does it not? But it is true. I wanted to love you. But I discovered—after a little while—that something was in my way."

"I know," he found himself saying. "You couldn't love an animal, Claire. I was that, until the day you came to the Mistassini. I have been blind and brutal. God knows I am only half worthy of you!"

"And Carla?"

So softly did his wife speak Carla's name that for a moment it seemed as if he had not heard it.

"We have promised ourselves to be honest," she continued. "Do you remember a letter I wrote you from Paris in which I said I was coming to you and that I was sure a more important thing would happen for us in your woods than any journey, like your promised one around the world, could give?"

"Yes, I remember."

"Do you know—now—why I told you that?"

"I have only wondered."

"It was because I had seen, because I had read between the lines of your letters, because I knew at last a great love had come into your life, and that Carla Haldan had brought it to you. You do not love me. You love Carla. And, loving her, you would sacrifice everything for my sake."

His fabric of lies was gone, his soul laid bare under the gaze of his wife's eyes.

"I want to hear you say it, Paul." She was repeating Carla's words whispered to him in the blackness of the earth. "That is why I came to you there. A woman may hide her love from a man, but not from another woman, and it was impossible for Carla to keep her secret from me. Yours was still more open, though I saw you making a magnificent fight. I know, Paul. But I want to hear it from your lips. I must hear it. Do you love Carla Haldan?"

"Yes, I love her."

"More than any other woman in the world?"

"I could only love one woman in that way."

He was conscious of having struck a deadly blow, a hurt he would rather have died than inflict upon Claire. It had dragged itself from him in spite of his determination, and he waited for his punishment, its effect on her. Claire's eyes did not waver. She did not flinch. A starry, radiant light came into her face, and she gave a breathless, half-articulate cry, not of shock or of pain, but of joy. He saw the blood flushing her cheeks, the tenderness leaving her body, and they sat for a time in silence, neither making an effort to speak.

Then he said:

"I thought I would hurt you. And you are glad!"

"Yes, I am glad. I thank God you love Carla."

She rose to her feet, and took a letter from the table. She was trying to keep from crying as she gave it to him.

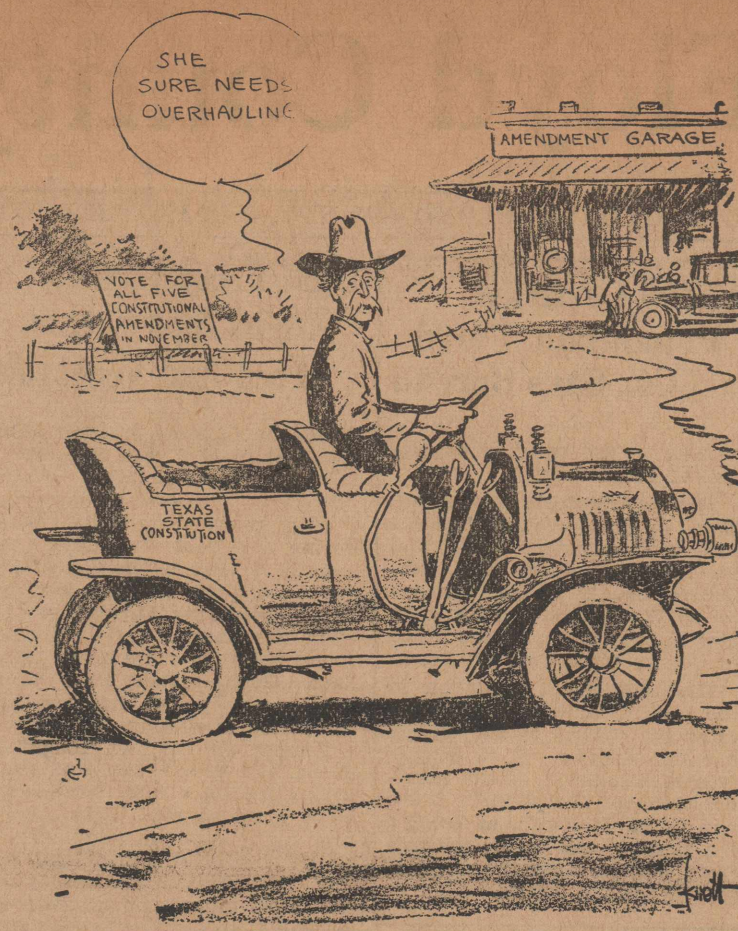

"I want you to read it and then come back to me," she said. "This evening, if you will, Paul. I lack the courage to tell you things. You will understand when you open it, alone."

He went to the Kirke-Durand building and lost himself in the human stream going up with the elevators. On one of the floors was an office, always ready for him. He shut himself in and locked the door.

He opened the letter. There were many pages, closely written in Claire's hand. With almost childish candor they began to tell him of a woman's fight to triumph over herself. Like an indestructible resilience they breathed the sureness of Claire's faith in herself. Without emotional effort she told him that unless Carla had come into his life she would never have let him know what she was about to reveal. There was no man in the world more worthy of a woman's love than he, she said. Yet, from the beginning, she had been unable to build her respect and admiration into greater things she should have given him. That was one reason why, repelling the thought of making him care greatly for her when she could not love him, she had kept herself away from him so much. One's passion for another, in its holiest form, was guided by a single factor. One might stem that and hold it back, but it was impossible to make it die. Such a love was Carla's for him. Then she spoke of another man. It was Jimmy Ennerdale, the sculptor, who was driving his way so persistently to success. She had accepted Jimmy almost as a brother during her girlhood, but very soon after her marriage the truth had come to her, she said, and had grown stronger with each year. She cared for Ennerdale just as Carla cared for him. It was Paul who might have been her brother, with such frank and unembarrassed simplicity did she confide in him. She knew that Ennerdale loved her, and repeated that a man could not conceal that fact from a woman, though he did not express it in words, and she was sure Jimmy had no idea of her sentiment toward him. This love for Jimmy was the other reason, the more vital of the two, which had held her aloof from Paul. She loved Jimmy's work and wanted to become a part of it. She had never held it to be possible, and had not thought of it in that way until she knew that he loved Carla.

Paul finished, and it seemed as though tiny raindrops were falling in his brain, so clearly could he hear and feel the beating of his pulse. In a few moments the moaning of life came to him in a distant wave. It struck nearer in the slamming of an elevator door. Indistinct voices passed down the hall. From another street, blocks away, the hammering of rivet drivers on new steel rose above the rush and roar of traffic. Paul looked from his window, as if he might see the pit, out of which the same sound had come night and day for three years. His eyes fell upon gloomy, sooty walls. Under him lay an unending fabric of men's toil, a great sea of roofs strung with wires, craggy with ugly architectural warts, broken with chimneys, streaked with tarred gutters, and with the gaping, shifting mouths of ventilating funnels sucking air into their artificial lungs. He looked down and saw a thousand moving things, in a stream like ants, every hurrying particle a human soul struggling in the furious Twentieth century effort to make itself greater than God. From all this Claire had freed him. She had given him new life, and with it love and happiness. He crushed her letter in his hand as if some pitiful breath might wrench its precious pages from him.

Clinometers soon will be issued to all airports having Weather Bureau observers.

In Claire's voice was a trembling note of happiness when he said this.

"Dear old Paul," she cried softly. "But you mustn't come to me until evening. I have something which I must do before I see you again."

That night, when he went to his home, Claire was not there. She had left a note for him.

"I have gone to see Carla," it said. "Only a woman can make another woman—like Carla—understand."

MEASURE CLOUD HEIGHT WITH NEW INSTRUMENT

Prof. C. F. Marvin, Chief of the Weather Bureau, United States Department of Agriculture, recently invented a simple instrument through which a weather observer can look at clouds over airports at night and determine their height, or the "height of ceiling," as the aviator terms it.

This instrument, named the clinometer, resembles a very short telescope, although it has no lenses, and is used in conjunction with a searchlight. The beams from the searchlight are projected on the bottom of a cloud, usually straight up. Five hundred feet from the searchlight—sometimes 1,000 feet—the observer stands and looks through the clinometer, ranging it of air but containing a little gas, and to see how their presence affected the passage of electricity.

Into the hollow tube, which had been pumped out almost to a perfect vacuum, Dr. Bitter admitted a minute quantity of gas. Then he shot an electric current through the tube, bathing it in a ghostly, shimmering radiance, reports Popular Science Monthly.

Applying a strong light on one spot on the tube's side, Dr. Bitter set up a microscope and camera at the other side. Meanwhile molecules of gas, clustering in ring-shaped groups, became visible under the passage of the electric current, as shown in the small photograph.

Although molecules are ordinarily invisible, they are plentiful. A cubic inch of ordinary air contains 400,000,000,000,000,000 of them.

INVISIBLE MOLECULES CAUGHT BY CAMERA

Taking pictures of molecules of gas, particles so small that the most powerful microscope in the world can not detect them, was the recent feat of Dr. Francis Bitter of the California Institute of Technology.

With these photographs he was able to count the number of molecules in a long glass tube exhausted

THE MARKED SPOT

The spot designed for their last resting place may be just another spot designed for the departed unless properly marked. Loving hearts need no marker to guide the steps to the place where loved ones lie. But so that the world might know, mark the one spot on earth that is for ever theirs.

Scares Spooks By Such Looks

Look! A spook! But Clara Bow, above, is not as scared as you think. Mindful of the Halloween tradition that goblins will catch you if you don't watch out, Clara's merely watching out as hard as she can. And that pumpkin is helping her, too.

Mr. and Mrs. Rutledge Entertain Owl's 42 Club.

Mr. and Mrs. O. P. Rutledge entertained the Owl's 42 Club last Thursday evening at 7:45.

The Halloween motif was carried out in decorations and refreshments. Mrs. Geo. Smith and G. A. Linder held high score for the members and Mr. and Mrs. Luther Dorrell for the guests.

A salad course, pumpkin pie topped with whipped cream, and hot coffee were served to the following: Mr. and Mrs. Geo. A. Linder, Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Fry, Mr. and Mrs. Lon M. Davis, Mr. and Mrs. T. S. Stevenson, Dr. and Mrs. Geo. V. Smith, Mr. and Mrs. Ross Henry, Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Angus, Mr. and Mrs. W. Edd Brown, members present; Mr. and Mrs. Luther Dorrell and Mr. and Mrs. Edd Johnson, guests.

The club will meet November 13 at 7:45 with Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Fry.

Triple Four Club With Mrs. Horn.

Mrs. A. P. Horn was hostess to the Triple Four Bridge Club and other guests at her home on West California Street Tuesday afternoon at 3 o'clock.

In the games played Mrs. A. B. Keim held high score for the members and Mrs. George Sherrill for the guests.

A salad course was served to the following members: Mrs. E. L. Angus, Mrs. T. P. Collins, Mrs. A. B. Keim, Mrs. G. L. Kirk, Mrs. Leslie Surginer, Mrs. A. A. Bishop, and Mrs. H. B. Sams; guests were: Mrs. Bill Dally, Mrs. Tony B. Maxey, Mrs. Glad Snodgrass, Mrs. John Roagan and Mrs. George Sherrill.

Mrs. A. B. Keim will be hostess to the club Tuesday afternoon, November 18, at 3 o'clock.

Men's Bible Classes Given Joint Social.

The Men's Bible class, which meets at the Palace Theatre, and the class of men taught by Mrs. Lon V. Smith at the church, held a joint social meeting in the basement of the church last Tuesday night, from 7:30 to 10 o'clock. There were forty present, and not a dull minute from the time the doors opened until the last one left. The play was directed by Mrs. Ruth Brown Hall, Mrs. H. P. Watson, Mrs. K. A. Osborne, and Mrs. G. A. Linder, and they kept the program moving every minute. Many pranks were played on the innocent and unsuspecting members of the classes, which kept the crowd in an uproar of laughter.

At 10 p. m. refreshments, consisting of sandwiches, cakes, apples, coffee and cocoa were served. Everybody present pronounced the affair 100 per cent successful, and it was voted to make it a monthly affair. From now on the down-town class, and Mrs. Smith's class will merge their social interests. A motion carried to hold the next social meeting on Tuesday before Thanksgiving. A unanimous invitation was extended the Brotherhood Class of the First Methodist Church, to meet with us at that time. George A. Linder is teacher of the Brotherhood Class. Then the classes expect to entertain their wives in the December meeting. H. P. Watson is president of Mrs. Smith's class, and G. C. Tubbs is president of the Palace Theatre class.

1929 Study Club Entertains Husbands.

A jolly good time was the keynote of the party given Thursday evening in the basement of the Baptist Church by the members of the 1929 Study Club in honor of their husbands.

Mrs. E. L. Norman, Mrs. S. J. Latta, Mrs. Edwin Heald, and Mrs. Boone Hall served as hostesses for the club.

Halloween decorations of cats, witches, and pumpkins were used in profusion. One corner of the room was occupied by an old witch who presided over a large black kettle full of pop-corn.

Each guest wore a Halloween hat and the spirit of friendliness was increased by the use of given names which were printed on small pumpkins and pinned on each guest as they entered.

Much credit for the success of the evening goes to the entertainment committee composed of Mrs. Leroy McDonald, Mrs. A. A. Bishop and Mrs. T. W. Whigham. Many amusing contests were held, including dramatizations of stories and songs with motion. Mrs. Boone Hall and L. J. Welborn starred in the production of Little Red Riding Hood. Prizes of peanut and lolly pops were given the favored ones.

At the close of the evening the hostesses served refreshments in keeping with the Halloween idea to the following: Mr. and Mrs. L. J. Welborn, Mr. and Mrs. Leroy McDonald, Mr. and Mrs. Troy H. Jones, Mr. and Mrs. Lorin Leibfried, Mr. and Mrs. Robt. A. Sone, Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Folley, Mr. and Mrs. A. A. Bishop, Mr. and Mrs. T. W. Whigham, Mr. and Mrs. Robt. McGuire, Mr. and Mrs. P. D. O'Brien, Mr. and Mrs. O. W. Fry, Dr. and Mrs. W. Hubert Seale, Mr. and Mrs. J. D. McBrien, Mr. and Mrs. A. D. Cummings, Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Norman, Mr. and Mrs. Boone Hall, Mrs. Edwin Heald, Mrs. S. M. Cole, Mrs. K. A. Osborn and Mrs. S. J. Latta.

Mrs. T. P. Rucker and mother, Mrs. W. D. Smith, of Lubbock spent Sunday as guests of Mr. and Mrs. Homer McDonald.

Mrs. Lon M. Davis and Mrs. E. L. Angus spent from last Saturday till Monday afternoon at Canyon and Amarillo. In Canyon they visited Mrs. Davis' parents and sister.

Mrs. S. S. Ramsey and Mrs. R. P. Weathers and children of Tahoka spent the week-end here as guests of Mr. and Mrs. O. P. Rutledge and family. Mrs. Ramsey is Mrs. Rutledge's mother and Mrs. Weathers is her sister.

Paducah Passing Machinery Fails To Stop Whirlwind 12-0 Victory

Floydada Gridsters Grab Second Conference Game On Paducah Gridiron

A powerful passing machinery from the headquarters of the Paducah Dragon backfield failed to weather the steady slash and bang of a Floydada Whirlwind last Friday afternoon and the Paducah grid squad went down under a 12 to 0 defeat before the onslaught of the Floydada High School eleven. Backed by 265 enthusiastic Floydada rooters onboard a special train, Floydada's gridsters had a comparatively easy time in the encounter staged on the Dragon battleground in Paducah.

Many Passes Attempted Time and again, Coach Barksdale's crew threatened to run the score up to 18, 24 or more, but on two counts lacked the final scoring punch that would have doubled the score. Not once during the scrap did the Paducah lads threaten to score, although their steady bombardment of passes, ranging from 20 to 35 yards, kept the local lads guessing.

Paducah began their aerial work on the first plays in the game. Crump, heavy quarterback, alternating his tricky passes to first end and then the next. Their pass formation was cleverly planned, being preceded by lateral passes in the backfield that kept even the sidelines wondering where the pigskin had gone.

Paducah's passing machinery was also on the job last Friday, with the heaviest end of the work taking place from Bridges to L. Murray. During the encounter, Floydada attempted eleven passes, five of which were attempted in the last quarter and three in the third period. Floydada completed six out of the eleven passes attempted and had one intercepted.

A summary of the first downs shows just how clearly Floydada out-played the Paducah crew. The totals gave Floydada thirteen and Paducah four. In the first half, Floydada made three first downs each quarter and Paducah made two firsts in each quarter. Paducah failed to make a single first down in the last half, and Floydada increased her count by four in the third period and three in the last.

Last Friday's game was not a punting game, neither team punting often nor for any distance. Floydada punted only four times, twice each in the second and fourth quarters. They punted a total of 114 yards, or an average of approximately 29 yards. Paducah punted eight times for a total of 251 yards or an average of approximately 31 yards.

Special Train To Paducah Boarded By 265 Grid Fans

Ample proof that Floydada football fans can and will support the Whirlwind gridsters to the final degree, was reflected last Friday afternoon when a special train pulled out of the Q. A. & P. station in this city with more than 265 people aboard, enroute to Paducah to witness the Whirlwind Paducah grid game. The bulk of the crowd was composed of Floydada grid fans, with more than forty uniformed high school pep squad girls, school students, faculty members and Coach Barksdale's entire squad of grid recruits. Three coaches were over-flowing on the trip to Paducah, and a fourth coach was added before the return trip.

Puffing and steaming out of the Floydada station, the train added to the tremendous uproar of encouragement to the local high school gridsters. Pulling into the local station on the return trip, all was confusion and laughter making the triumphal return a red-letter day for the Whirlwinds.

Robt. Medlin, local agent for the Quana, Acme and Pacific Railway stated this week that the Floydada-Paducah Special was one of the most orderly and well-conducted specials that he had had the privilege of overseeing.

W. E. Patty spoke well of the behavior of the crowd in general and especially of the school students. S. W. Ross, secretary of the Floydada Chamber of Commerce, Mr. Medlin and Supr. Patty were instrumental in securing the specially chartered train. The train pulled out of Floydada at 1 o'clock, arriving in Paducah at 3:15 and leaving Paducah for the return trip at 7 p. m., arriving home at 9:30.

The first quarter as the result of a spectacular line play by Floyd Murray that netted 34 yards, a long pass from Bridges to Lloyd Murray and with Heald carrying the pigskin over the remaining three yards on two downs. Their second and last touchdown came in the third quarter when Heald intercepted a long pass from Crump of Paducah on Paducah's twenty-five yard line and toted the pigskin to the five yard line, where Welch carried it the rest of the way across the chalk line. Both tries for extra points were unsuccessful.

Was Conference Game To pick the outstanding players on Paducah's squad was not so difficult. Crump was the man. Crump passed; Crump plunged through the line; Crump tackled and got his man; in fact Crump was on all parts of the field all the time. In the last quarter, Crump smashed through Floydada's line and threw the locals for a thirty yard loss, single handed. Watts, Paducah's left half deserves honorable mention, while Craig, right end, is by far the best lineman on the crew. Most of their men this season are new, but Coach D. S. Dickerson is already making plans for his boys next season, as only two men out of the string will graduate this year.

Last Friday's game was Floydada's second conference game this season, their first game being an easy victory over Roaring Springs. In this sub-division of District Two, the Whirlwinds have only one more interscholastic game scheduled and that with Lockney on Armistice Day. By virtue of their victory Friday, Floydada eliminated Paducah from the race for the district crown, and stepped up another notch on their own record.

Starting Line-Ups Starting line-ups of the two teams were as follows:

Table with columns for Position and Name for both teams: Paducah and Floydada. Includes players like Stephenson, McLaughlin, Stovall, Bell, Deen, Murray, Goolightly, Heald, Bridges, and Murray.

Officials: Bosley, Paducah, head linesman; Conely, Quana, referee; Wester, Floydada, field judge.

ATHLETIC NEWS

Done—And How!
“We done it”—as the old saying goes. We beat Paducah 12 to 0. Now all that remains is to beat Lockney and be one of the “big four” in this district. The Whirlwinds outplayed their opponents on every turn and showed more and more improvement. Maybe the special was the cause of our winning. Let's have another special somewhere. Our whole team worked together and enabled us to win. Paducah not once threatened to score. One Paducah fan said our team looked like Texas Tech's—maybe they do—our team is all boys and so is Tech's.

When we meet Lockney to celebrate the end of the war on Armistice, there won't be any celebrating as to the end, but there will be one started in those short-horns' stadium. Did you ever hear about the old lady who thought football was a round corn on your foot? I guess we all aim to pack up and go to Lockney on Armistice and if we win we'll come back with half of Lockney but if we lose we'll move Floydada there. But doggonnit we ain't gonna lose. One win in eleven years is enough for Lockney and they ought to be satisfied.

I see where Amarillo plays at Lubbock Saturday but I'll bet my boots that's not a better game than Floydada and Lockney. Remember only two weeks till the Lockney game, so get your spurs ready to ride those Longhorns!

Notice

All seniors who intend to buy a class ring must have their finger measurement taken by Thursday.

Reports

The Dramatic Arts Club
The Dramatic Arts Club met in the language room during activities period October 22. The constitution was read by the chairman of the constitution committee and unanimously adopted. The president, Floyd Bell, was elected at a former meeting. The following officers were elected at this meeting: vice-president, Carl Marshall; secretary-treasurer, Mildred Welborn; reporter, Hazel Probasco, and sergeant-at-arms, Chester deCordova. Yearly dues of fifty cents were voted on and adopted. The president appointed a membership committee of Edna Mae Nelson, Patty Loooper, Thelma Crawford, Russell King and Hunter King, and a program committee of Christine Trowbridge, Virginia Grigsby, and Winona Felton. Mrs. Teague and Coach Barkdale were elected honorary club members from the faculty. It was decided that the club should meet twice each month on the first and third Wednesday nights and at times during activities period when a call meeting is necessary.

Girl Reserve Meeting

There was a general meeting of the junior and senior girl Reserves Monday to decide about a party to be given for the new members. A committee was appointed to decide about the entertainment and refreshments. This committee consists of Latan Hale, Amy McRoberts, Helene Hay, Christine Trowbridge and Gwendolyn Snodgrass. The girls voted to have the party at the Andrews Ward Gymnasium, Wednesday, November 5. There were sixty-five girls present and this number was to be turned in to the National Secretary of the Girl Reserve.

Pep Squad

The pep squad is improving all the time. We had a large number to go on the special train to Paducah. At the half of the game the pep squad formed the letters F. H. S. on the field. While we were in our formation we gave several yells for the Whirlwinds and Floydada. Friday, when the Whirlwinds play Canyon the pep squad will have all members present and will give a new formation and several new yells and songs.

Latin Club
The Latin club met in Mrs. Breed's room, October 22, 1930. The president, Maxine Norris was absent, so Ruth Rutledge, vice-president, presided in her place.

Business session was held and then the following program was rendered:
Song “America” my club members
Jupiter: Hugh Jeff Ayres.
June: Marzelle Hale.
Song: “Old Gray Mare” by club members.

Cross Word Puzzles: In Latin, by club members.

The Special Train
Special to the Hesperette
There is more to the act of securing a special train than most of us realize. The special train that carried 259 happy people to Paducah—Floydada ball game was first thought of in the early part of the week. Then the weather cleared up some and the talk of the special began to wane. But with the rains of the middle of the week everyone knew that there was going to be very few Floydada boosters in Paducah if that train was not run. We are very grateful to Mr. Patty and the Q. A. & P. for the train. There were many conversations held between Mr. Patty and Mr. Medlin before the price and the minimum number was agreed upon. Finally the number was put at two hundred and the price at one dollar. We knew that we could put that over.

However, about thirty minutes before the contract was to have been closed there were a great many tickets yet to be sold. The pep squad girls were in anguish. They knew that they could sell more tickets than we had ever thought about needing. Some boys were desperate, and even went so far as to offer to buy two or three extra tickets for someone. They were not particular about whom they were for, just so they secured that train. After several students had lost a heart beat or two, the Chamber of Commerce called up and told the administration to sign the contract. It was a happy bunch of people that assembled at the depot at 12:30 there were a few disappointed-looking faces of children that were not going, but their disappointment seemed to fade into a gladness because the Whirlwinds were going to be well backed by their boosters from Floydada. There seemed to be a rather unnecessary bit of delay about getting out of town, but there is always much confusion around a special train, and the Q. ran as nearly on schedule as a special could.

The train arrived in Paducah about three-thirty. It was met by a number of people. There were people with cars that carried most of us to town if we cared to go. The game started at four. Paducah pep squad were out in the best of spirits. They stayed with their boys until the end, but they could not inspire them enough to make them win. The Floydada pep squad did fine and they kept our boys fighting all the time. We have to be satisfied with the score, but we would like to have had more. However, we are very proud of Paducah's fine sportsmanship after and before the game. They carried the pep squad down town on the fire wagon, fed them and treated them like they were somebody come, and we guess that they were.

The return trip was made on schedule—a little too much on schedule to suit Mr. Patty, who had gone for some hamburgers for the boys. We almost left Mr. Patty and the hamburgers, too. I don't know which the boys would have hated to have lost the more.

Through the courtesy of some Paducah man the hamburgers and Mr. Patty were brought up with the train several miles this side of Paducah. The boys and Mr. Patty were both happy. Some of the boys wanted to know if Mr. Patty was coming out for track. The entertainment on the return trip consisted of many songs. There were dances too, by such adept people as Otho Johnson, Golden Louise Steen, R. E. Fry and Mrs. Joe Day. The songs were classics such as “She'll be coming around the Mountain when she Comes”. Everyone was happy, hungry tired and sleepy when they got back to Floydada, about 9:30 p. m. Everyone felt that they had got their money's worth. We are mighty glad that the special was a success, and feel like the student who remarked on the way home to the effect that he wished that we played Paducah at Paducah again next year.

Black and Gold

(By Cleo Birch)
When everything turns black and gold,
Black and gold, tonight:
Yellow pumpkins, yellow moon,
Yellow candlelight.

Owls in front of the golden moon,
Black cats with golden eyes,
Firelight blinking in the dark
Witches scurrying across the skies.

Black and gold, black and gold,
Nothing in between
When the world turns black and gold,
Then it's Hallowe'en!

Hallowe'en

Old Hallowe'en is about here. It comes around once every year. We have fun on that dear night, Dodging goblins with all our might. We dress up like a comic clown. And go a trailing round the town. It really makes us laugh and shout To see such funny people out. Oh! What a joy when we have seen The comic sights of Hallowe'en!

R. C. A. Ball Team

The R. C. A. ball team, both the first and second strings, have been improving in every way. They have been training some bit. The boys have received their shoulder pads. The coming Thursday they will play Plainview. They are prepared to meet them. Everyone is expecting to see a good ball game, because we have a pep squad. Everyone come out and yell for the Little Breezes.

Leaguers Attend Rally Of Plainview District

“Study Missions” was the theme of the Plainview District Rally of the Epworth League held Saturday and Sunday at Silvertown and attended by representatives of the league from the First Methodist Church of this city.

The local delegates went to Silvertown late Saturday afternoon and returned Sunday afternoon. They were guests Saturday night in the homes of the Silvertown leaguers. Miss Maureen Hay and Miss Madge Dorsey rendered a duet at 11 o'clock Sunday morning as a part of the day's program. Miss Emma Lou McKinney, also of this city, and secretary of the district, made a talk during the 11 o'clock program on “Interesting Mission Study Books.” Hearon Wright, president of the local league, discussed “Pioneers of Good Will” under the general topic of mission study books.

George Terry of Olton, president, conducted the rally, which was concluded at 3:15 Sunday afternoon. The next meeting will be held in January at Hale Center.

The social event was in the form of a Hallowe'en party Saturday night in the basement of the church. Members of the local league who attended the rally were as follows: Misses Emma Lou, Peggy and Elizabeth McKinney, Wilmina Salisbury, Madge Dorsey, Maureen Hay; Messrs. Hearon Wright, Jodie and Alpha Boothe.

There were 10 leaguers represented and 75 out of town delegates registered.

PEP RALLY TONIGHT

Led by the Green Peppers, students of Floydada High School will hold a down-town pep rally, beginning at 7 o'clock tonight. Helene Hay, one of the leaders, announced this morning. The Whirlwinds meet the Canyon Eagles here tomorrow afternoon at the Floydada Ball Park. The pep squad girls will sell candy at the game and the funds realized will be used in payment on the bleachers that were erected on the field for the squad.

State Federated Clubs Plan $100,000 Home At Austin

(Editor's Note: Following is an article by Mrs. C. R. Buchanan of Snyder, chairman of publicity of the Seventh District of the Texas Federation of Women's Clubs, on the proposed $100,000 club house to be erected at Austin as permanent headquarters for the state organization.)

If it be true, as generally believed by the genus homo, that whenever a woman makes up her mind to do a thing she will do it despite all obstacles, then there is no doubt but that the one hundred thousand dollar club house which is proposed to be erected in Austin as permanent headquarters for the Texas Federation of Women's Clubs, will be realized. Mrs. R. F. Lindsay of Mount Pleasant, upon her accession to the state presidency a year ago, announced as one of her objectives, the building of this home. Mrs. Lindsay is an experienced business woman and when she sets a goal she drives unhesitatingly to it. In the face of the financial depression which has obtained, there is an admirable courage in her unshaken purpose.

Tightness of money, however, is no barrier to a well-matured sentiment. For thirty years, or since the organization of the Texas Federation, it has been the ambition of the Texas women to own a home which would be the pride of our state and a fitting monument to the ideals and principles of the organization. With the beginning of the year Mrs. Lindsay named as her committee chairman Mrs. Jas. Welder of Victoria. The presidents of the seven districts together with Mrs. Sam J. Smith of Austin were added as members, and together they thought and planned. At a meeting in the city of Houston September 15, plans and specifications submitted by Henry Coke Knight of Dallas, were adopted and simultaneously a working plan of financing the project was announced.

Plan Colonial Type
The building will be a commodious structure of red brick with white trimmings in the Colonial type of architecture. The floor plan is H shaped. Massive white columns support the pediment at the entrance which leads to a vestibule whose floor laid in mosaic outlines the Lone Star and the Federation insignia. The reception hall is in the center with spacious lounge and library rooms on either side; these connected by arcades with the art gallery on one side and the tea-room, back of which is the kitchen, on the other; each wing bearing perfect symmetry with the one opposite. In the center of the figure H is the office, which has independent connection with the street on two sides. A stairway leads to an ample basement containing vaults where the records and valuable possessions of the federation may be kept, with a space provided for each of the seven districts. The Federation News will be housed in this new home. There will be a reading and writing room dedicated to the veterans of the World War. In a recess of this room, provided with a sky-light will be found three bronze tablets upon which will be engraved the message to posterity of how it was done, under the plan of financing hereinafter described.

To Have Large Auditorium
Back of the office will be found a large auditorium facing the street opposite the front of the building. This auditorium will house stage facilities so as to make it practicable for lease to little theatre organizations. Or, it may be used as a concert, lecture room, ball room or large reception hall. The wings on this side of the building are cut into smaller rooms which may be utilized as beauty salon, flower and gift shop and other practical purposes appealing to woman's fancy. On the second floor of the main building a number of suites of rooms will be maintained for the comfort and convenience of the members of the federation who come at any time as guests to the city.

Under the plan of financing the proposition, the privilege is extended one thousand people to give one hundred dollars each. Their names would be engraved upon the large bronze tablet as founders. However, opportunity is at the same time given to clubs or individuals who will give in excess of one hundred dollars, to become patrons, and the names of such clubs or individuals will be engraved upon the patron's tablet. The In Memoriam tablet may bear the names of deceased relatives of friends, at the instance of those desiring it, upon the payment of one hundred dollars.

May Pay By Installments
The payment, in either case, may, if desired, be divided into four equal annual installments. This makes it easy to finance the one hundred dollar gift. The method of club giving is even easier, for thereby the members will be expected to pay only their pro-rata of the whole amount. An award of the Texas flag will be made to the district president whose district raises the largest amount of pledges. This is to be made at the Houston convention, November 10th to 15th.

Without exaggeration or flattery, it can be said of the women of the Seventh District, that they are the minute-women of the Texas Federation. As the minute-men of the Revolution stood ready at a minute's notice, to take up arms in defense of their country, so the minute-women of the Seventh District, in this era of peace, impelled by the same patriotism, will rally to the standards of their leaders to accomplish the constructive measures wrought out by such leaders. The poet Milton has said for our encouragement, that "Peace hath her victories no less renowned than war." Enlisted under the clean-cut banner of united womanhood, let us leave a foot-print of progress upon our beloved Texas soil, bought with the blood of heroes. Let us not be the slacker, but the volunteer who enlists for full service at this trumpet call.

Please communicate to our district president, Mrs. J. T. Whitmore, Snyder, whatever service you will render, and do so in time for her to take the news to the Houston Convention.

Sunday School Lesson

JESUS, STRENGTH GIVER

The International Sunday School Lesson for Nov. 2. How Christ Gives Strength. Mark 8:27-29; Luke 22:31-34; John 18:25-27; 21:15-17.

The general theme of our lesson, "How Christ Gives Strength," is studied here with the valuable help of a particular example. Our study is of Simon Peter and of the way in which through the help and power of Christ he came from weakness to strength.

No character in the Bible, outside of the Master himself, has so appealed to human life as Peter. John was a stronger and nobler type Paul far exceeded him in sustained impetuosity and consistency. But ended these, were not sufficient to carry through. Never Lost Confidence. There is a world of meaning in the words of Jesus to Peter, "I have prayed for thee that thy faith fail not." Today we have lost much of the reality of the doctrine of the intercessor. There does not come into our lives with the reality that it ought to have, the fact that Jesus is the mediator and intercessor, making supplication for us that our faith should not fall.

Like most of us, Peter did not learn much from experience. Even in the moments when he was in the greatest danger he felt the greatest confidence in himself. When Jesus spoke of him as being sifted as wheat, he replied with a declaration that nothing could overthrow his faith.

It required rare patience to deal with such a man, and the Master's own humanity in its gentleness and love is revealed nowhere more fully than in that loyalty and persistence with which he stood by Peter and lifted him when he fell. It is a human drama which had a glorious issue, for as the last tragedy and defeat were turned into triumph, the disciple who had denied his Lord was uplifted and reclaimed through love and confidence, and the evidence of the trust that Jesus imposed in him, and of his own worthiness of that trust, was found in the beautiful commission to Peter to feed the Master's lambs.

Weak, Though Powerful
It is a story that even with this climax has continued chapters, for though Peter had learned the vital lesson and had found a new strength the old weakness did not entirely disappear. His impulsiveness at times had in it aspects of prejudice. A man's will may sometimes be strengthened while his mind is still obscured by blindness and his heart unpurged of prejudice.

There is always a richer and larger work of grace to be effected in er biological specimens more than ten or fifteen times their natural size. With the camera and lighting devices perfected by Mr. Pratt he is able to get good photographs as much as three hundred times natural size.

The difficulties encountered in photography at high magnification, according to Mr. Pratt, have been flatness of field and lack of proper illumination. These difficulties have been overcome by developing a lighting device many hundreds of times stronger than sunlight and through the use of lenses which have great depth of focus.

CAMERA PICTURES INSECTS
300 TIMES NATURAL SIZE

Much of the tedious work on the part of artists in illustrating minute forms of plant and animal life which can be seen only through a microscope has been overcome by photographic apparatus recently developed by J. G. Pratt, scientific photographer in the Bureau of Entomology of the United States Department of Agriculture.

Heretofore it was impossible to get clear pictures of insects or oth-

YOUR family purse doesn't ask you to wear yourself out taking care of a dilapidated, hard-to-clean old stove . . . not to ruin your disposition trying to cook on slow, sputtery, worn-out burners. Even the thriftiest pocketbook will gladly say "yes" to this offer of a swift-cooking new Perfection range for only a few dollars down.

The beautiful white porcelain model illustrated has a compact design with convenient new burner arrangement. Five Giant Superflex burners, one a Big Giant, give all the cooking-speed you could ask for, yet they are easily controlled for simmering.

The oil reservoir holds fuel for ten to twelve hours of cooking. When refueling is necessary, the glass container can be tilted to remove for filling without disturbing the cooking.

Smooth, washable porcelain lines the built-in oven. An accurate oven heat indicator makes perfect baking easy.

Other new Perfection ranges, one of which is pictured here, give you a choice of many sizes, finishes and prices. Long chimney or short-drum burners, as you prefer. Choose the one you like best and start to enjoy its help this week.

Any dealer displaying this sign will offer you free trial and easy terms on any Perfection and accept your old stove as part payment.

Cold weather is motor-punishing weather . . . Now, more than ever, you need the extra protection of this DE-WAXED, EASY-STARTING OIL

In cold weather motors usually are hard to start, but Conoco Germ-Processed oil actually makes starting easier!

There are two good reasons for this.

First: Germ-Processed oil is thoroughly de-waxed and does not congeal at low temperatures. Second: Germ-Processed oil does not drain away during periods of motor idleness.

The initial "turning over" process is made easier by the protective lubricating film which is on duty before you touch the starter. The usual 40% to 60% of motor wear occurring during the starting period is greatly reduced. Conoco Germ-Processed Motor Oil gives you safe starting—and quick starting, even at zero temperatures.

Change now to this new oil. Use it all winter for motor safety and economy. You always will find Germ-Processed Motor Oil at stations bearing the Conoco Red Triangle.

CONOCO GERM PROCESSED PARAFFIN BASE MOTOR OIL

"When I was a child, if I did not feel well, or if I had a cold, my mother gave me Black-Draught," says Mrs. Orpha Hill, of Wofford, Ky. "When I was married, it became a family medicine in my own home, as it was in my mother's."

"I take it for headache and especially for constipation. When I get bilious, my skin gets yellow and I have a very bad taste in my mouth, and a drowsy feeling all during the day. My eyes burn and I get dizzy, or my head is 'swimming.' When I take Black-Draught, it seems to drive the impurities out of my system and I feel fine. I am seldom without this reliable remedy."

Dougherty News

(By Mrs. W. D. Newell)

The following is a clipping from a neighbor county paper, but is typical of farmers in this community as well: "A few days ago a farmer drove up to the Flomot gin with a bale of cotton. The ginners asked 'How many acres did you go over to get this bale?' The answer was, 'about 100.' 'What did you pay for the picking?' The answer was '25 cents per mile.'"

This week commissioner Payne has men and machinery at work repairing the roads south of town.

Fall! The best time of the year. Everybody is rushing and hurrying to get all they can do before winter comes charging around the corner.

This is one time when no one has me to complain, consequently, everybody feels good and are all "pepped up" with the suspense of what'll happen next, and of dreaming of the good times we'll have "sitting by the fireside at night," eating pop-corn and peanuts. After all, the changing seasons are always welcome so "Jack Frost, Come ahead and see who cares."

Jack Deakins must be a first class theatre man, why even down here at Dougherty we hear compliments that his show is as good as you'll find in the state.

Dougherty and the surrounding country is all set for the command Scribe to pass us the information on Charlie Battey's new breakfast food as you know, "Everybody loves a secret."

The Sand Hill P. T. C. Society met Friday night and a very interesting program was rendered. Another program is being planned for the next meeting November 21.

LIONS EXPRESS SYMPATHY IN RESOLUTION AT MEET

Resolutions of sympathy for J. A. Arwine and condolence to him upon the death of his father Sunday, were passed by the Lions Club in joint session with the Rotary Club Wednesday at noon. Following is the resolution that was adopted:

Oct. 29th, 1930.

Whereas God, in his Providence, has seen fit to call to his reward the father of Lion Arwine, therefore be it resolved by the Floydada Lion's Club in meeting assembled this 29th day of October 1930, that we commend to Lion Arwine the many excellent traits of his father, in that he lived an exemplary life, one of loyalty to his nation, his state, his town, and his family; that we console Lion Arwine by pointing out, that his father has been spared far beyond his allotted three score and ten, and that he has gone home to his reward—a crown that awaits the faithful. Be it further resolved that we extend to Lion Arwine our deepest sympathy and commend him to the Great Father of us all, who doeth all things well.

THE TURKEY MARKET

Figures compiled in a report from the United States Department of Agriculture by the Bureau of Agricultural Economics at Austin indicate that the Texas turkey crop of 1930 is about 8 per cent smaller than that of 1929.

It will be just a short time now until the Thanksgiving and Christmas markets will open. The report from the department is of particular interest at this time. The report reads in part as follows:

"The turkey crop in Texas is likely to fool most of us. Indications here early in the season were that the crop would be 15 to 20 per cent short. There has been a remarkable decrease in mortality this season compared with last, and we are inclined to believe that our crop will not be more than 3 to 10 per cent short of last year. Probably the low prices received by farmers in 1929 was the reason for less hatching of turkeys last spring, but better care which resulted in less mortality of the poults has partially overcome this shortage. The present birds seem to be in better than usual condition for this season of the year in most sections. This has been due largely to more and frequent worming.

"Due to unusual warm weather, the turkey crop will be several weeks late in maturing. From information we have, the crop in some parts of Texas (west and south), is as large as last year; north Texas short of last year's about 5 to 8 per cent.

"The turkey crop of 1930 for the country as a whole is about 3 per cent smaller than that of 1929 but larger than either the 1928 or 1927 crops according to the turkey report of the Department of Agriculture. The decrease in the states from which the commercial supply of turkeys largely comes, which are the states from the Dakotas to Texas and westward, was considerably greater than 3 per cent amounting for the whole area to about 10 per cent. The increases which tended to offset the decreases in the commercial area were mostly in the East Central States, being largely in the states where the drought of last spring and summer was most severe.

"In general the dry hot weather of the past season was exceptionally favorable for raising young turkeys and the proportion of turkeys raised to poults hatched was larger than usual. This had the effect of offsetting to considerable extent the decrease in hatchings due to the relatively unfavorable prices received last year."

THIS MEANS SAVINGS

Five constitutional amendments are to be voted on in November. All are progressive, and all deserve the support of the voters of Texas.

- They are:
1. Extend legislative term to 90 days.
 2. Divide session for introduction, hearings and passage of bills; raise salary and cut mileage of legislators.
 3. Permit University of Texas to invest its permanent fund in its own securities, thus advancing its building program.
 4. Permit West Texas counties to tax for local purposes university lands within their borders. This has the approval of university regents.
 5. Provide that the Supreme Court may sit at any time during the year.
- The judiciary amendment, providing that the Supreme Court may sit at any time throughout the year for the transaction of business, should receive unanimous support. It will add to the usefulness of the court.
- In justice to the counties where university lands are situated, they should be permitted to tax these, seeing that the State Tax Board, not the counties themselves, will fix the valuation and the State will provide for the payment of the taxes assessed, presumably from the general fund.
- The need of investing the permanent university funds profitably as well as safely necessitates the approval of this amendment also. It authorizes an enlargement of the field for permissive investments, and that is a financially sound policy. The chief objection to the amendment is that the field of permissive investments is too large, but the board of regents can be trusted to place their investments wisely, without incurring the risk of impairing the permanent funds of the university.
- Texas has learned by experience that a sixty day session of the Legislature, once sufficient when the state had little business to transact, is now entirely too short a period for efficient legislation. Five special sessions of the present Legislature testify to that. The amendment provides for a ninety-day legislative session, with an additional thirty days for the consideration by standing committees of bills entered during the first thirty days. This thirty-day period for the consideration of bills will permit of a definite schedule for public hearings, a greatly needed reform.

The other amendment provides for a reduction of mileage and an increase of pay to the legislators. In 1876 the pay of $5 per day was fairly generous, seeing that board and lodging in those simple days might be had for a dollar or two per day. The standard of living in 1930 is very much higher and even $10 per day is not generous, since very little is left as salary after the payment of hotel and living expenses.

WAR STILL THRIVES

Chaos and a state of war exist in some of the states of South America. Last week revolutionists staged a coup d'etat and overthrew President Washington Luis at Rio de Janeiro and the battle goes merrily on. Rio Grande do Sul, Minas Geraes and other states opened the revolt three weeks ago. "They hope to establish a civil government," the press dispatches said.

Revolt! What a long trail of bloodshed it has left behind as it has marched down through the ages taking the lives of millions of human beings. Sometimes the people engaged in the terrific struggles have known what they were fighting for but in most instances the majority of them were ignorant of the real issues.

The diplomats and the politicians cry for peace but wars go on just the same. Hundreds of documents have been drawn up and volumes have been written on how to prevent war and savage bloodshed—needless bloodshed—but one man has suggested in a few brief words a solution: "Put all the war profiteers and the men who want a war in a big arena and give them a big club apiece and let them fight it out among themselves."

And you can hear very promptly the comment that "such a plan is foolish and is not logical!" Perhaps it is foolish and perhaps it is illogical but it is a very noticeable fact that all of the "logical" and "practical" suggestions have not stopped the conflicts.

GOOD FEED COUNTRY

"Farmers claim that they can produce their crops at less cost than in any other section of the state and with just as much certainty. Feedstuffs do exceptionally well and with a climate especially adapted to livestock production, the Plains should become one of the greatest feeding sections in the United States."

This statement comes from an article in a recent issue of Farm & Ranch written by M. W. Holland, field editor.

The article ends thus: "This territory has every needed advantage. The soils are productive, the climate healthful and water is abundant at a convenient depth. It is peopled by an aggressive and intelligent citizenship. They have built flourishing cities with wide clean streets. They have the best of educational advantages, and it has all been accomplished within a period of twenty years with agriculture and livestock the basic resource. There have been no oil booms, no leasing sprees or any other outside influence. The Plains section has proved the value of agriculture. It is just entering into an era of greater prosperity by balancing its farm program with livestock finished in the feedlots sold to the consuming public on a quality basis."

ISSUE OF NOVEMBER 2, 1916

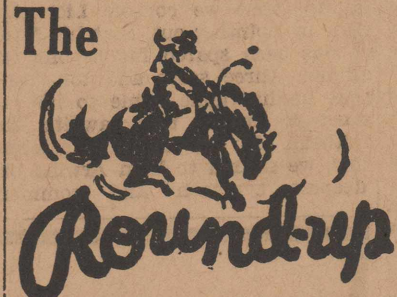

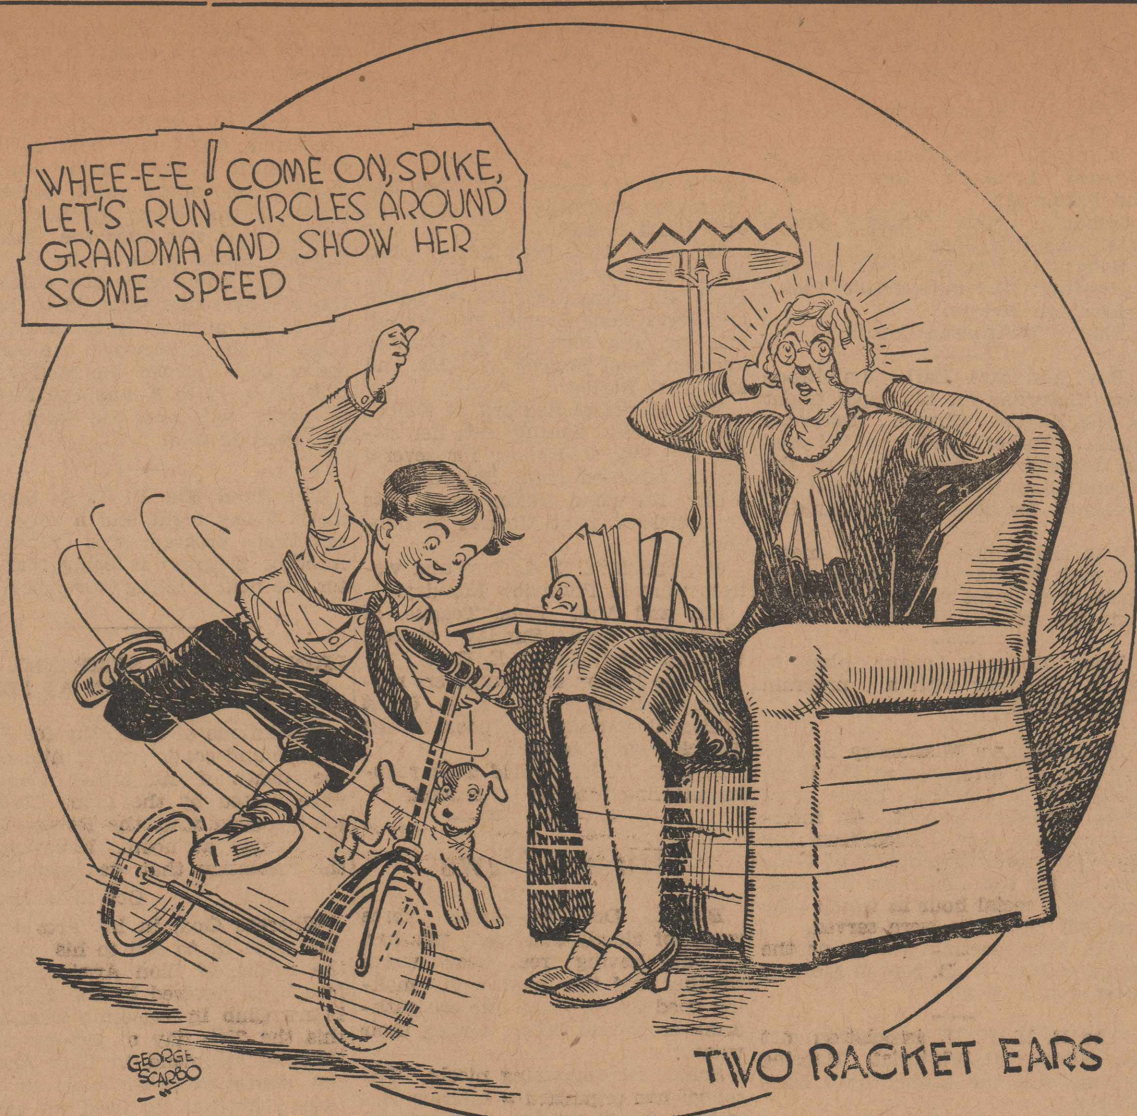

W. J. Leeper, of Denison, last week sold the West Plains Lumber Company of Floydada to J. M. Willson and associates of Bridgeport, Texas. On succeeding to the ownership of the yard, Mr. Willson changed the name of the yard to the Floydada Lumber Company. A. E. Johnson is retained as manager of the business. The new owners will probably make the Floydada yard one of a string on the South Plains. One other yard, the first to be established at that point, is now being put in at Southland, new town south of Slaton.

Rev. O. A. Mealer, wife and daughters, have taken up their residence at the Cumberland Presbyterian manse in southwest Floydada, arriving Monday from Roby, Texas. Rev. Mealer is the new pastor of the church.

By order of the Department the three rural mail routes running out of Floydada, southwest, northeast and southeast, were made daily routes beginning Wednesday morning. The first electric lights furnished residents of Floydada by the Texas Utilities Company under the franchise granted them practically six months ago by the city, were switched on Tuesday night, when the First State Bank, The First National Bank and the local office of the company were lighted by current from the high line.

Crop rotation, clean fall plowing, and a clean-up of cornstalks will control barley scab, says the U. S. Department of Agriculture.

THE GREAT AMERICAN HOME

The Roundup

A Sidewalk Review Mostly About People and Personalities In Floyd County.

By The Cowhand Scribe

Out of consideration for those who had lost loved ones last week-end and in respect for the deceased, practice by the Floydada Volunteer Fire Department was cancelled Sunday afternoon by Fire Chief G. R. Strickland. It was a thoughtful and considerate deed.

Lakes on the Floydada-Plainview highway in Hale County are full of water for the first time in many moons. Gosh, but it's a great sight to see these basins full of something besides air. When the lakes are filled, it is a sign of a good season in the ground and good crops ahead. History has proven it so.

G. T. Assiter says that he is convinced that folks read the ads in The Hesperian. "That little mention you carried last week about my wanting to trade three pairs of summer underwear for one pair of long ones for winter certainly did get results. I have had half a dozen offers already. I think I am going to trade with some tall fellow so that I can fold the ends of the legs over at the bottom and use them as Sox. This combination stuff is all the rage these days and times," he said.

Now G. T. has the right idea and he's wide awake to the possibilities of a good trade. It would be a fine idea to have a first Monday here like they used to have (and still do) down in Parker and Jack counties and everybody bring something to town that they wanted to swap off. It could be made into a gala event with plenty of color. Why the thing would rival one of these football games for a "riot of color" that the newspapers are always talking about. The women folks would have pink and red whiz-a-ma-jigs and the men very likely would have some light colored pants and vests to swap, and horses, cars, notes, mortgages, and plows. This trading affair could be made profitable to everybody. Of course it wouldn't be wise to carry the thing as far as they do out in New Mexico and exchange wives and husbands because Texans ain't reached that stage just yet. But oh boy! what an opportunity it would afford for the folks to trade off some of their blues and worry about hard times. Hurrah for first Monday trades day.

Col. Thomas Montgomery was telling Saturday why he could not permit hunting and fishing on his ranch on Blanco Canyon. "Last summer and in times before people would come in and shoot things up without any consideration of our property. We had several of our best steers shot so we just had to tell our visitors that we could not permit any more fishing."

"Col. Montgomery is a wonderful host and he likes for his friends to come and see him. He is a typical Southern gentleman, a good business man, and is held in high esteem by all those who know him—and his acquaintanceship is a wide one."

Here's a new pastime for you, one that can be made profitable and will require skill. It's soap carving! Take an ordinary bar of laundry soap and a sharp knife and you are ready to begin. All kinds of mantel pieces, trinkets, toys, and ornaments may be easily "whittled" out—provided of course that you use a little patience and add a little labor. Saw two little toy bulldogs last week that had been made out of soap in a few minutes time. They had been painted and glass beads had been stuck on for eyes—the critters were cute and made attractive decorations for a living room table. The person who made the pups saved the "shavings" and used them for the family washing. Economical and clever. Try your hand at it and see what you can manufacture. The Cowhand would appreciate your bringing in some of the results of your efforts. Maybe there is undiscovered talent for carving right here in Floyd County. Quien Sabe?

Now those last two words are Spanish—or at least they are supposed to be. The Cowhand "ma-jored" in Spanish for four years and would have passed the course in school if the teachers hadn't been so hard headed and just figured out my meanings. I'm right proud of my proficiency in the lingo of that gang below the Rio Grande and like to "show off" once in a while. Just the other day I met a Mexican down at the Woody Drug and Tip Kenrick was having a hard time understanding what he wanted so I up and popped off about ten minutes and when I got through slinging the Spanish bull, the Mex sez in perfectly good English, "Sorry, but me no spick Italian." Well, that plumb night floored me, but he's just like those teachers I had—he couldn't understand Spanish when he heard it. He must have been an Indian.

And that Mexican language is just about the craziest thing anybody ever heard of any way. One day my teacher got mad at me because I put the wrong kind of a letter on the end of some of the words I had written. "Now you see it's this way," sez the instructor, "the adjectives must agree with the nouns they modify in gender, number, etc." I sez, "Oh, I see." But I didn't for the very next thing I wrote I got it all wrong, she said.

"You have used a masculine adjective with a feminine noun and you get 'zero' on this lesson," the old sister yelled. Who ever heard of such a crazy thing as a masculine adjective? I looked at the blamed words again and he doggone if I could tell which was the papa adjective and which was the mama noun. When it gets down to the point of looking at a word and saying out loud just like you knew what you wuz talking about that it's male or female then that's where I unhitch. I had to admit I couldn't recognize a female noun if I real it coming down the road and I mean't that it likely wasn't quite proper to get the heifers and the bulls all mixed up together in the same sentence I just had to take out. Which I'm doin' again right now.

An economist declares that cotton buyers need to show more optimism. Their cry, in fact, might well be "merrily we boll along."

It is estimated that 26 tons of rubbish are collected daily at Coney Island. That is, litter-ally speaking.

A Chicagoan has willed a box of candy to the Coolidges. But what if Cal does not chews to accept?

Milwaukee brewers, anticipating the return of beer, have already installed manufacturing apparatus. So they'll be first, perhaps, to respond to taps.

Women, it is announced, make 75 per cent of the reservations on ocean-going liners. This is what steamship companies regard as berth control.

In Malaya, we learn, fish leave the water to climb trees. Well, they have the means to scale a tree.

It is a fine thing to be "Johnny-on-the-spot," but in Chicago it's mighty dangerous.

The street cleaner is perhaps the only fellow holding a job who can make waste motions and get away with it.

In Turkey the parties are divided as to the type headgear the nation should adopt. When the political season begins there they mean it when they say, "the lid is off."

Poet's Corner

HOMESICK

(By Mrs. Harper Scoggins)
The sky is blue and sunshine smiles on me,
The birds' sweet melody cheers my heart,
But there comes a hurt so deep,
When dear friends have to part.
New faces smile—they welcome me;
Their friendly hands clasp mine in theirs,
But shining thru their welcoming smiles,
Old faces come to me thru tears.

The new house welcomes me within,
Cozy—homey—all my own,
But the old house yonder calls me back.
It's "Home Sweet Home."
Homesick? Well—I guess that's it!
Missing the dear old scenes,
Lonesome and wishing I were back again
With the old friends of my dreams.

Just Thinkin'
by Charles S. Kinnison

Just as I Am

Lord knows that I have lots of flaws—
Yes, many imperfections.
I violate the Bible Laws,
In several directions.

But yet despite these flaws in me,
Despite each sinful fetter,
I pray that some will try to see
In me, the thing that's better.

But I'd not ask that ALL would seek
To find my armor spotless,
And see not ways in which I'm weak,
And to my faults be thoughtless—

I'll be content if just a few,
Unto my faults are blinded,
And see in me the side that's true,
If just a few are minded,

To stand by me for what I am,
For all I may be masking—
And see the good, and not the sham,
That's all I would be asking.

RACKETEERING LESS PROFITABLE

Plainview Herald-News: Much of the profit has been taken out of racketeering, for there is not now much of a demand for the things which the racketeers purvey. Economic condition has cut down the price and the demand for the products on which racketeering is based.

The purveyor of whiskey, drugs, etc., reasons as he tries to find for himself some moral excuse for the traffic. "If there were no buyers, there would be no sellers. People want to buy the stuff. They will pay for it. It is as legitimate for me to sell it as it is for them to buy it."

Unquestionably the immense profits in illicit whiskey and drugs has done more to stimulate racketeering than any single thing. If there were no big money to be made in this game, men would not take the risk it involves. As the money from the game diminishes so does the number engaged in it.

Money is the motivating thing with the racketeering. Money means power, luxury and ease. Take money out of the game and it dies. Racketeers, bred of the traffic in illicit goods, are not in the game for the sheer love of adventure. The racketeer does not voluntarily court danger. He braves it as a matter of business, and considers the chances he takes as incidental to his profession.

PROBLEMS OF EMPIRE

The Dallas Morning News: Texas in area and natural resources often has been called, and rightly, an empire. It is the coming empire State, and within a generation will be admittedly a leading Commonwealth in the Union.

But this coming leadership demands that those who control the destiny of the State should have vision and forethought sufficient to plan in a large way a program as a guide for action in later years. Topsy "just grew," but scientific growth is based on intelligent surveys of situations and wise judgments.

Texas has enormous natural wealth, but the wealth from the production of its enriches outsiders; little remains within the State. It has much capital in its financial centers, but comparatively little of it is invested in Texas industries. The purchasing power of its almost six million of population is huge in amount, but the goods purchased mostly come from outside the State.

Through ignorance the fertile lands of Texas are declining in fertility because of erosion and a one-crop system; its magnificent forests have been shamelessly wasted and practically no attempt made to reforest cut-down areas suited only to timber. Texas is an empire of natural wealth, but its economic leaders accumulate wealth for themselves with small forethought for the future generations of Texas.

The best wealth of Texas consists of the energy and brain capacity of its people. Among these is much dormant talent that should have opportunity for expression in action. But more than half the population are so poor that their standards of living are necessarily low. In consequence, their children are worked prematurely, and, obtaining merely the rudiments of education, they become stunted in body and mind—the greatest waste of a wasteful State.

West Texas needs a definite program set for the younger generation to accomplish in the next twenty-five years. The resources of Texas should enrich Texas and Texans.

Its farming population should their lands, not be tenants condition quite like serfdom. Empty forest lands should be reforested and exempted from taxation for the period of growth. Small industries should be established in every village and town of the State to supply work and to put on sale Texan-made goods. "Made in Texas" should be a guaranty of excellence in material and manufacture. Above all, the younger generation should be free to acquire a generous education, combined with a training for vocations on the farm and in the future industries of Texas.

Texas needs local Chambers of Commerce, civic improvement societies and city planning. It needs a new Constitution, a reorganized government, wise legislators who can think in terms of an empire State. It should place obligations on its professions to give to its people health, good laws, spiritual insight. It should aim to develop that broad intelligence that appreciates the value of the artistic in connection with vigorous applications of the many varieties of science to the problems of the State.

Talk Texas, think Texas, help make Texas famous for its comfortable homes and its wide-awake intelligent citizens.

A NEW FARM RATION

Farmers are making profitable use in Floyd County of their wheat. It has become a new farm ration, or virtually so. One man went out to feed his livestock the other morning and the same bill of fare was dished out to the chickens, the hogs, the pet rabbits, the guinea pigs, and the turkeys. Such a program if adopted nationally will certainly contribute toward the reduction of the big surplus that is supposed to have been responsible for the low prices that have prevailed this fall.

LUBBOCK AIRPORT READY

Lubbock has completed a new brick hangar and the 640 acre airport field has been announced ready for air traffic. The City of Lubbock spent $68,825.60 in securing and equipping the port, which is one of the largest in the southwest. Approximately $7,000 remain from a $75,000 fund to equip the airport.

Floydada needs similar, though not such expensive facilities for airplanes. The fulfillment of such a need is not too far in the future that it is to be considered as a dream.

Center News

Center, October 28.—Have had beautiful weather since Thursday of last week, though the wind kept to the East with the appearance of unsettled weather yet.

Mr. and Mrs. Verner Jackson entertained the young people with a party last Saturday night. All enjoyed themselves very much.

Miss Opal Hartsell spent Saturday night with Miss Alma Montgomery and Miss Jewell Jackson took Sunday dinner with Miss Hartsell.

Mr. and Mrs. R. C. Ross spent Sunday with her mother, Mrs. Guffee, who is sick.

Miss Mamie Carson returned to her home at Floydada Friday night since the school has dismissed for cotton pulling if the weather remains pretty.

Mesdames Lightfoot, Mankin, Carpenter and Spence called to see the little Miss Norma Gene Carpenter, infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Marion Carpenter, during the last week.

Eddie Fields and Clarence Leatherman made a trip to near Abilene, last week, returning home Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. D. M. Fields took Sunday dinner with Mr. and Mrs. Claude Carpenter and supper with Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Jordan.

J. M. Sutherland, of Petersburg, spent Sunday night with Mr. and Mrs. Jordan. They were old acquaintances in Oklahoma before both came to the Plains.

Mr. and Mrs. C. F. Veach entertained Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Jordan and family to dinner Sunday, honoring the marriage of their daughter, Miss Jewell to Mr. Roy O'Brien.

Next Sunday is our regular preaching day here at Center. Let us all remember it and be present.

Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Grimes and daughter Edith took Sunday dinner with Mr. and Mrs. Barrett, west of Floydada.

Our W. M. U. meeting was well attended last Wednesday. We shall meet at the church to study twice each month at 2:30 p. m. Once a month we are to meet in an all day meeting at the home of some of the members to sew, quilt or do any other thing we can to help someone else along.

Singing was well attended. We had Mr. Heald from Floydada, Mr. and Mrs. Lyles, of Campbell, Mr. and Mrs. Branson, Messrs. Lee and Lester Burgett, of Fairview, Mr. and Mrs. McGuffy and children, of Roseland, Mr. and Mrs. Lester and daughters, of Roseland, Mr. and Mrs. M. Taylor and others, of Cedar Hill.

Mrs. Lark Webb, of Happy, spent several days last week with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Dennis. Mr. Webb came down Saturday.

Tom King and family visited with Mr. and Mrs. Miller Sunday. Mr. and Mrs. Loyd went to singing at Cotton Center in Hale County last Sunday.

Fred Fields is home from New Mexico where he has been working for quite a while. Bascom Fields spent the week-end at South Plains visiting with George Kneirum. Mrs. Ruddick returned home Tuesday after a visit of two days with Mrs. Montgomery.

Scoutmaster Gives Requirements Of Tenderfoot Scout in Article

W. A. Gound Prepares First of Series of Articles On Boy Scout Requirements.

Following is the first of a series of articles prepared by W. A. Gound, scoutmaster of Floydada Troop Number 44, Boy Scouts of America, in which he sets out the requirements classification, and an outline of accomplishments which can be worked out through the Boy Scout organizations. This first article, which Mr. Gound has entitled "Requirements to Become a Tenderfoot Scout" sets out with the Scout Oath as follows:

Know the Scout Oath. On my honor, I will do my best: To do my duty to God and my country, and to obey the Scout Oath; to help other people at all times; to keep myself physically strong, mentally awake, and morally straight.

Know the scout laws. A scout is trustworthy. A scout's honor is to be trusted. If he were to violate his honor by telling a lie, or by cheating, or by not doing exactly a given task, when trusted on his honor, he may be directed to hand over his Scout Badge.

A Scout is Loyal. He is loyal to all to whom loyalty is due, his Scout Leader, his home and parents and country.

A Scout is helpful. He must be prepared at any time to save life, help injured persons and share the home duties. He must do at least one good turn to someone every day. A scout is friendly. He is a friend to all and a brother to every other scout.

A scout is courteous. He is polite to all, especially to women, children, old people and the helpless. He must not take pay for being helpful or courteous.

A scout is kind. He is a friend to animals. He will not kill nor hurt any living creature needlessly, but will strive to save and protect all harmless life.

A scout is obedient. He obeys his parents, Scoutmaster, Patrol Leader and all other duly constituted authorities.

A scout is cheerful. He smiles whenever he can. His obedience to orders is prompt and cheery. He never shrinks nor grumbles at hardships.

A scout is thrifty. He does not want only to destroy property. He works faithfully, wastes nothing and makes the best use of his opportunities. He saves his money so that he may pay his own way. Be generous to those in need, and helpful to worthy objects. He may work for pay but must not receive tips for courtesies or "good turns."

A scout is brave. He has the courage to face danger in spite of fear, and to stand up for the right against the coaxings of friends or the jeers or threats of enemies. De-feat does not down him.

A scout is clean. He keeps clean in body and thought. He stands for clean speech, clean sports, clean habits and travels with a clean crowd.

A scout is reverent. He is reverent towards God. He is faithful in his religious duties, and respects the convictions of others in matters of customs and religion.

And finally, the Scout Motto, which says "Be Prepared." Be always ready. A burning building, a life in danger, a child falls into water—a Scout is prepared to help save a life. He is prepared to give first aid or call a doctor. He is also "preparing" himself to be a useful citizen that America needs.

It is believed that more than 4,000,000 children will enter the high schools of the United States this year.—Woman's Home Companion.

Bits O' News from Here And There

Littlefield.—M. T. McKinnon, farmer living two miles northwest of Littlefield, has a tomato that weighed a pound. It is a yellow tomato and was plucked from a vine on which more than half a bushel of tomatoes were growing.

Washington.—Fifteen Texas counties had ginned more than 40,000 bales of cotton each prior to October 1, preliminary figures announced by the department of Commerce disclosed.

The figures did not include linters and counted round as half bales. The total for the state was 2,584,853 bales compared with 2,128,587 bales the same date last year.

Amarillo.—A continuous hard-surfaced highway from Canyon through Amarillo to within seven miles of Pampa on the state highway No. 33 is now open to traffic. Amarillo's tie-up with the Canyon highway, delayed approximately a year and a half by various technicalities, was recently finished.

Freidrichshafen, Germany.—The huge German airplane Do-X will not begin its flight to the United States early next month, as at first planned, but will take off for the new world about November 15.

Recently November 3 was set by German postal authorities as the last date for posting mail on the Do-X, but lately the limit was moved up to 11 p. m. November 8.

The airplane will take off for the United States, from Lisbon. It plans stops at the Azores and Bermuda.

Matador.—More than 1200 bushels of wheat have been distributed to 208 farmers of Motley County by the Red Cross, through County Chairman W. R. Cammack. Mr. Cammack has been assisted in the work by County Agent M. P. Leaming and the local bankers.

This wheat has been planted, and with the abundance of rainfall of late will make a much needed pasture for livestock during the coming winter.

Hale Center.—Between 2,500 and 3,000 persons Oct. 23 attended the county-wide celebration staged by Hale Center in honor of the completion of the city's paving program and also that of the county, north and south road on the South Plains.

No Epidemic At Groom Of Infantile Disease

In a letter received this week Mr. and Mrs. Harper Scoggins, who now reside in Groom, where he is superintendent of the public school, write that there has been no epidemic of infantile paralysis in their city and that their three boys are "well and happy." The communication reads as follows:

We have received so many inquiries concerning the infantile paralysis scare here and relative to the rumors that one of our children had the disease that I am prompted to write you this word of explanation. We did have two cases of the dread disease, about the first of October, break out in the Grade Ward School. Children of Mr. Jimmie Helm. The little boy died at once. The little girl lives but is in a crippled condition and confined to bed. The school was temporarily closed for fumigation but is running in full force at this time.

So far as we know there have been no other cases of the disease in this section and we are happy and thankful to report that our three boys are all well and happy. Paul ate too much pumpkin pie and was ill with "tummy" ache about the time of the paralysis scare, which likely accounted for the rumor which got around concerning his having the disease. He is off pumpkin pie now and wishes all his friends in Floydada to rest assured that he is still alive and kicking.

We appreciate the numerous letters of sympathetic inquiry from friends there and take this means of saying "thank you."

We still miss our friends there and call Floydada, "Home;" tho we like here fine and our school is going along nicely.

Our regards to the Hesperian force and to all our friends. Yours sincerely, Mrs. Harper Scoggins.

ELECTRIC LAWS UPSET BY STRONGEST MAGNET

The world's most powerful magnet has just upset classical ideas of the way electricity runs through wires. So the Russian engineer who built it, P. L. Kapitza, recently reported, in describing the researches he had made at Cambridge, England.

The magnet is produced by short-circuiting the entire current of 10,000 amperes from a powerful generator through a two-inch coil of wire. An elaborate system of relays and switches allows the current to flow only for one hundredth of a second. Any longer period would destroy the coil and connecting wires as thoroughly as a blast of dynamite and probably ruin the generator as well. Carefully measuring—with an oscillograph, which records by means of light rays—the current flow through various kinds of metal wire which are subjected to the tremendous magnetic field. Kapitza has upset established theories of electric current flow, says Popular Science Monthly.

It has been known for a long time that a wire made of bismuth exhibits a peculiar increase in electrical resistance when placed close to a powerful magnet. Wires of other kinds of metal also show slight changes in resistance. When placed in the field of the world's most powerful magnet the resistance of bismuth wire increased nearly 2,000 times, an increase far in excess of that which had been calculated according to the latest theories of electron flow. Wires of other materials also give unexpected results.

Awake Half the Night Weak and in Pain

"Night after night I could not sleep," writes Mrs. Mary J. Roberts, 117 West Franklin St., Raleigh, N. C. "I would lie awake half the night. I was dizzy and weak, suffered frequently with pains in my side and small part of my back.

"When I was a girl, my mother gave me Cardui, and it did me so much good, I thought I would try it again. I took five bottles, and I feel like a new person.

"I think it is fine. I would advise every woman who is weak to try Cardui, for it has certainly put me on my feet."

14 YEARS AGO

AT 14 MINUTES AFTER 7 O'CLOCK ON

OCTOBER 30, 1916

—The City Of Floydada Received Her First Electric Lights.

From that minute until this, the Texas Utilities Company have been striving to give this territory a constant electrical service upon which we may look with pleasure.

Following is an extract from the Floyd County Hesperian files, issue of November 2, 1916, which tells you again of this firm's first introduction to Floydada and Floyd County:

ELECTRIC LIGHTS ARE SWITCHED ON
Texas Utilities Company Busy Completing Installation For Current Here.

The first electric lights furnished residents of Floydada by the Texas Utilities Company under the franchise granted them practically six months ago by the city, were switched on Tuesday night when The First State Bank, The First National Bank and the local office of the company were lighted by current from the high line. The first lights were flashed on at 14 minutes after seven at The First State Bank. Incidentally these people were the first to wire for lights.

The remainder of this week line-men have been busy tying other patrons on to the current. Installation will continue for several weeks without abatement.

When the franchise was granted the Utilities Company in the latter part of April the expectation was that lights would be furnished here in August. Inability to obtain material caused much delay.

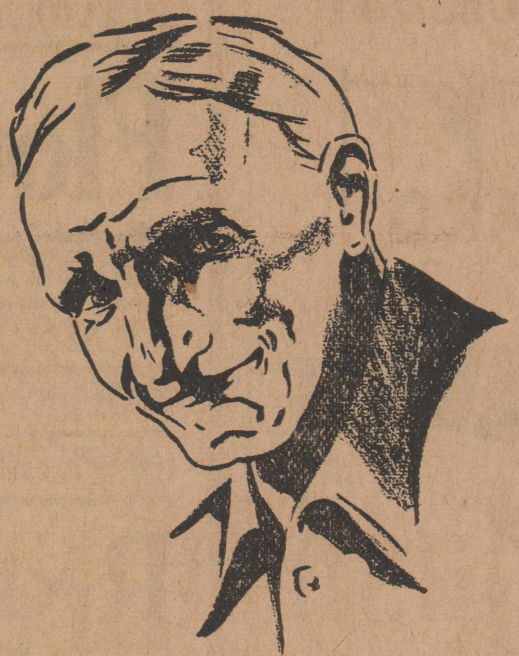

On Our Fourteenth Anniversary

May we again pledge to you that constant, reliable service that we shall always strive to give you to the very best of our ability.

We came to you as Pioneers—and Pioneers we are today. As this territory develops so shall the Texas Utilities Company develop. We are proud to have had a part in the development of this great territory during the past 14 years and we hope that our pleasant relations with the people of Floydada and Floyd County shall continue for many, many years to come.

"I Raise Them— You Eat Them"

• "Just think how immense this town would suddenly become if all the people who eat Brookfield Butter, Brookfield Eggs and Premium Milkfed Chickens were to crowd in every day for their supplies.

"But that's not how it works. Nobody has to go outside his town for Swift & Company goods. I'm one of the 200,000 producers who deliver supplies to the Swift & Company produce plants and receive cash for my products. There are more than 80 of these plants. 400 branch houses and 600 car routes carry the Swift products to every community in the country and prevent local gluts or shortages. That's the marvelous organization of nation-wide distribution. It's like the arteries that carry the life stream all through your body. It's a mighty fine thing to have contact with an organization which can thrive on an average margin of less than 2 cents on every dollar of sales.

"Of course I've more than ordinary interest in Swift & Company. I'm one of the 45,000 shareholders, besides being a producer, and in addition to having a ready cash market for all I can raise.

"I receive a return on my investment. Thousands of Swift & Company employes are shareholders. Many of the 58,000 employes who receive just wages live right in this town. They spend their money with our merchants, build their homes here, pay taxes like you and me. I can tell you, there's something more to being in the Swift family besides delivering butter and eggs."

'Billy The Kid' Is Portrayed In Film At Palace Sunday

Talking Picture Is Latest Addition To Films Of American History.

"Billy the Kid" which will open Sunday at the Palace Theatre for three days, has been added by King Vidor of Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer to the rapidly increasing list of pictures dedicated to various phases of American history.

"Billy the Kid" relates the stirring happenings at Lincoln, New Mexico, during the famous "cattle-men's war, of 1878, 1879 and 1880. The career of William Bonney during that time is the crux of the wildest point the wild west ever reached.

Other pictures in the history class are "Janice Meredith," "The Covered Wagon," "The Birth of a Nation," "Abraham Lincoln" and "The Big Parade."

"Janice Meredith," a Marion Davis production, covered the period of the Revolutionary War. "The Covered Wagon" took up the case of the pioneer, "Abraham Lincoln" and "The Birth of a Nation" immortalized the Civil War and its after effects. "The Big Parade" was an epic of American participation in the World War.

"Billy the Kid" occupies a period between "The Covered Wagon" and the present day. It concerns the period in the late '70s when the west had grown both rich and lawless.

Mrs. Bob Smith Heads Cemetery Association

Mrs. Colville and Mrs. Cox Also Elected at Open Meeting Saturday.

Mrs. Bob Smith was elected president of the Floydada Cemetery Association last Saturday afternoon, succeeding Mrs. Jennie Bishop, president for the past three years. Mrs. Smith accepted the position after election in a meeting held Saturday afternoon at the Chamber of Commerce office. The best attendance the association has ever had at an open meeting was present last Saturday and old officials, as well as the newly elected officers, are enthusiastic over the prospects for the association for the new year.

Mrs. James Colville was elected vice president and Mrs. Nora Cox, secretary and treasurer, succeeding Mrs. C. Surginer and Mrs. J. B. Jenkins, who have held the two positions for the past three years. Preliminary plans for the association's annual membership drive were made and temporary plans laid for the ensuing year. The association's new year begins November 1. The annual membership drive for the upkeep and care of the Floydada Cemetery is made each November.

Hallowe'en Mid-Night Matinee Friday At 12

Spooks, goblins and witches who might happen to be wandering about in Floydada tomorrow night after 12 o'clock will have a chance to forget their ill deeds and spend an enjoyable hour of laughter at the Palace Theatre's Hallowe'en Mid-Night Matinee. The American spooks will have the opportunity of laughing at the follies of the foolishly rich and titled Englishman in the comedy entitled "Big Money" which has been booked for a special run at the local theatre for the Mid-night talking program.

Eddie Quillan takes the part of the adventurous English gentleman in the novel entitled "Big Money" which is now running in the Colliers Magazine. The humorous story is wound around four characters, two American girls who are visiting in London and two Englishmen who are painfully broke and after the big money. But love takes a hand in the story and gives all four characters one thrill after another until all are wondering what is going to happen next.

"Big Money" begins its one showing stand in Floydada at straight up one minute after 12 o'clock on Friday night, at the Palace Theatre.

CHURCHES

CHURCH OF CHRIST

Elder J. Frank Copeland will preach Sunday morning at 11 o'clock at the Church of Christ on South Wall Street.

You are invited to attend this service.

FIRST BAPTIST CHURCH

Dick O'Brien, Pastor

Last Sunday was a full day for our church. Good weather and fine crowds made the day a very profitable one. Our Sunday school attendance approached the 450 mark, and we are confidently expecting an average attendance of 500 by Christmas. With the school graded and organized to take care of all ages we see no reason why there should not be at least 500 in regular attendance. Two new classes are in the process of formation now. Adequate room, is our main problem. We are hoping and praying for the day when we can finish our building, which will add at least 50 per cent to our auditorium space, and a third more room for Sunday school and B. Y. P. U.

About forty of our members attended the associational B. Y. P. U. meeting at Whiteflat last Sunday afternoon. Joe Breed is president of this organization. Director G. N. Carey has announced a study course for all the unions for next week. These studies will begin on Monday night and continue until Friday night. Courses will be offered for all ages.

We expect to have all regular services next Sunday. With Sunday school at 9:45, the morning preaching services at 11:00. The B. Y. P. U. will meet at 6:00 and the evening preaching service will be at 7:00. The pastor expects to be in the pulpit at both hours.

FIRST METHODIST CHURCH

G. T. Palmer, Pastor

We are rapidly coming to the close of the conference year. The session of the conference will be held at Sweetwater November 12th. We are very grateful for the progress and the achievements of the past twelve months. We appreciate the fine spirit of the people with whom we have labored for these two years. It is because of the fidelity and the earnestness of the people that the work has gone forward as it has. It has been a real privilege to have the opportunity of service with the pastors and members of the different churches of the city. The fellowship has been inspiring and uplifting.

It is our desire to congratulate the different departments of our own church for the constructive work of the past year. The Sunday School, two adult Missionary Societies, and three Epworth Leagues have made substantial progress and are better organized and doing better work than ever before. Also we are grateful to everyone who has had any part at all in putting over the program of the church in such a way. The spirit of co-operation has meant much in the extension of the kingdom.

Last Sunday was a good day in every way. The Sunday School attendance was very gratifying, and splendid congregations both morning and night.

We shall have our regular services the coming Sunday:
Sunday School 9:45 a. m.
Preaching by the pastor at 11 a. m. and 7:15 p. m.
Three Epworth Leagues meet at 6:30 p. m.

We shall be happy to have you attend the services of the Methodist church.

FIRST CHRISTIAN CHURCH

Rev. Claude Wingo, Pastor

Sunday morning services at 10:50 o'clock. The sermon subject will be "What the Bible Says About the Church."

The Junior Christian Endeavor meets at 6:30 Sunday evening in the church building; the Senior Endeavor also meets at 6:30 o'clock in the annex. All young people are urged to attend these worshipful programs.

Junior Department meets every Sunday morning at 9:45 o'clock in the classroom.

Sunday night preaching service at 7:30 o'clock and the subject will be "Preach the Word."

FLOYDADA METHODIST CIRCUIT

Fairview Church

Sunday, November 2, will be our last appointment at the Fairview Church for this conference year. There will be services both morning and night. We are having a kind Sunday school at the Fairview church and the pastor urges the church members and friends to get the benefit of the helpful discussions on the wonderful themes being presented in our literature. The League will have its program just preceding the night preaching service.

S. S. Stonaker of Plainview will speak at the 11 o'clock hour.

Lakeview Church

There will be preaching at Lakeview Saturday night unless the weather is unfavorable. We will also have our regular service Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock instead of 3:30 o'clock.

Ansil Lynn, Pastor.

CAMPBELL BAPTIST CHURCH

A cordial invitation is extended to all to be present for the services at the Campbell Baptist Church on Sunday, November 2.

Sunday School at 10 a. m.
Preaching at 11 a. m. and 8 p. m.
Rev. G. W. Tubbs, pastor.

LAKEVIEW BAPTIST CHURCH

Sunday school at 10 a. m.
B. Y. P. U. at 7 p. m.

Mrs. L. E. Kiker, B. Y. P. U. director.

O'BRIEN PREACHES FRIDAY TO PICKENS ASSOCIATION

The Rev. P. D. O'Brien, pastor of the First Baptist Church of this city, preached the morning sermon at the 11 o'clock hour at the monthly workers' Meeting of the Dickens County Baptist Association held at Spur Friday. He made an address at 2:30 o'clock Friday afternoon on "Christian Education."

Rev. O'Brien was accompanied by Mrs. O'Brien and children. They attended the football game Friday afternoon between Spur and Slaton, the Tigers losing to the heavy Spur crew, 39 to 0.

SPECIAL MUSIC GIVEN

Special stringed music was given at the showing of the I. O. O. F. feature picture on the homes and school maintained by the order at Ennis and Corsicana presented at the Palace Theatre Friday night of last week.

The personal of the orchestra included the following: Opal Self, Dale Self, Bill McNeill, Volle McNeill, Norman Payne, Oliver Allen, and Clarence Travis. All of the musicians reside in Floyd County.

Mrs. W. A. Redford, of Fort Worth, Texas, and Miss Nettie Bardin, of Arlington, Texas, were called to the bedside of their sister, Mrs. Tom Hopper, some two months ago. Mrs. Redford has returned to her home in Fort Worth. Miss Bardin will spend the winter with Mrs. Hopper.

Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Bishop and family and Mrs. T. A. Gaudle spent Sunday in Dimmitt visiting with Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Gaudle. Mrs. Gaudle remained for a visit with her son, who recently moved to Dimmitt to be employed with the the Boothe Elevator in that city.

K. A. Osburn, Marie Strange Pleased By San Angelo School

Local Representatives Return After Study of Proper Turkey Grading.

Declaring they had received information that would be of unusual value to them in their work and expressing satisfaction with the results of the school, K. A. Osburn, representing the Tilman Egg Corporation, and Miss Marie Strange, County home demonstration agent, returned home the latter part of last week from San Angelo where they attended the turkey grading school October 20-25. Both expressed themselves as having had a most enjoyable trip and were high in their praise of the hospitality and entertainment afforded them during their visit in San Angelo.

At the close of the school an examination was given and Mr. Osburn made a passing grade, entitling him to a government certificate for a licensed turkey grader. "It is a fine thing and I may apply for a license if I need one," Mr. Osburn said. "I found out that I did not know anything about turkeys when those experts got to showing us things. I just wouldn't take anything for that trip and the things I got out of the school," he stated.

Miss Strange met with 175 other county and home demonstration agents from the west half of Texas in annual district meetings held at San Angelo by the A. & M. College Extension Service. Miss Strange took an active part in all the programs.

CARD OF THANKS

We take this opportunity to thank the doctors, friends and good neighbors of Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Hopper for their many kind deeds and faithful service during the recent illness of Mrs. Hopper. We are grateful to report her much improved.

May God bless each of you.
