J. F. McCarty, Early Settler Here, Dies At Rio Hondo Home

Father of Mrs. John L. West and Edgar McCarty Dies On Tuesday, Nov. 4.

J. F. McCarty, a pioneer citizen of Floyd County for twenty-six years died at his home near Rio Hondo, in the Rio Grande Valley of Texas on November 4, following an illness of almost a month. Mr. McCarty was the father of Mrs. John L. West of this city, and Edgar McCarty, of near Floydada, and was widely known over this entire section of the plains.

Mr. McCarty came to Floyd County in 1900 and bought a place west of Floydada, which later became known as the Nora E. Jones place. Mr. McCarty later bought a place in the Blanco Canyon, known as Section 12. Four years ago, he moved to the Rio Grande Valley where he has made his home. During his long residence here, Mr. McCarty was engaged in the cattle business, and for a number of years was a cattle buyer for the Lone Star Company, of Kansas City.

For 52 years, Mr. McCarty was a steward in the Methodist Church, and served as a steward during his 26 years residence here. During his residence in this county he contributed several thousand dollars to the churches and was a consistent tither.

Mr. McCarty was 76 years of age at the time of his death. His death was caused by bloodpoison and other complications, including pneumonia, which set up following the extraction of several teeth. His death came at 3 p. m. on November 4. All of the children were present at his bedside.

According to his last requests, the funeral services were held under a grove of Elm trees at his Rio Grande home. Rev. Thomas Joyner, pastor of the community church at Rio Hondo, conducted the funeral services at 3:30 o'clock on Wednesday, November 5. The body was laid to rest beside the grave of his first wife in the Pythian Cemetery at San Benito, Texas. Surviving the deceased are Mrs. West and Mr. Edgar McCarty, of this county, and Will McCarty, of Fort Worth, and his wife. All were present for the funeral services.

Judge Duncan Stands Trip To Marlin Well

Judge Arthur B. Duncan, who has been steadily gaining strength the past several days, and who was set to Marlin by the attending physician Saturday, stood the trip remarkably well. S. E. Duncan said this week, after accompanying his father to the health resort.

The Judge's wife, who also accompanied him on the trip, remained at Marlin to be with her husband.

MATADOR HUNTERS BAG FOUR DEER IN WEEK IN BLACK RANGE RESERVE

Floyd County folks got their first glimpses of the killings of the 1930 deer season last Saturday, when a party from Matador passed through this city with four deer. The party was composed of D. E. Pitts, R. P. Moore and C. P. Waybourn, of Matador, and Joe Wason, of Mosquero, New Mexico.

During the eight day hunting trip in the Black Range Mountains of New Mexico, each member of the party bagged his limit, making a total of four deer for the party. According to Mr. Wason, 1400 deer will be killed out in the reserve this season.

J. V. FLIPPEN HOME

J. V. Flippen, whose disappearance in August caused much anxiety on the part of his family and friends is at home once more, and happy with his family four miles west of Floydada.

Since his departure packages acquired by him indicate he has visited several cities and towns in Texas and Oklahoma as well as St. Louis, Missouri, although he cannot recall points he touched after he stopped in Floydada in the afternoon of an August day and made purchases of Syrup of Pepsin and a few other articles at the Moore Drug Company. Since he left officers, friends and relatives have been on the look out for him and left within a few days after he left traced him to Lockney, Plainview, Petersburg and Lubbock. At the latter place his car was found parked at a curb.

He was located the latter part of last week at Dalhart by a former acquaintance in Hardeman County, who notified R. B. Gary, of this place, a close friend. Mr. Gary, accompanied by Chas. B. Smith, went to Dalhart Sunday and Mr. Flippen smilingly recognized them. He was employed when found.

Worry over financial affairs is believed to have caused a temporary lapse of memory on the part of Mr. Flippen.

All Amendments Carry Floyd County, Figures From Canvass Indicate

Vote Light, With Approximately 900 Votes Cast—Lider Leads Ticket.

Final returns of the general election compiled and tabulated in the canvass made by the Commissioners' Court of Floyd County Friday of last week, show that all of the five amendments submitted by the legislature to popular vote, carried in this county, the amendments changing the manner and amount of payment for the services of the members of the legislature having the tightest squeeze to get by the black pencils of the electorate. This amendment carried in this county by thirty-seven votes. The Supreme Court amendment and the University Lands Taxation amendment carried in this county with majority in excess of two to one.

The amendment fixing the terms of convening the Legislature of the state carried by a majority of 100 votes in this county, and the University Funds investment amendment carried the county by a majority of 134 votes.

On the ballot with the amendments were all the names of the candidates for county, district and state offices, and the total vote cast is indicated at approximately 900 votes. The Democratic ticket, of course, received heavy majority of these, the ratio being about ten to one, although several of the candidates ran behind the remainder of the ticket. Geo. A. Lider, candidate for county surveyor, led this ticket with 768 votes.

Ross Sterling, standard bearer of the party for governor of the state, received lowest vote of any candidate whose name appeared in the Democratic column. His vote was 581. In two boxes in the county his Republican opponent, William E. Talbot, received majority. These boxes were East Lockney and Cedar. The highest vote registered in the Republican column in the county was 78.

Certificates of election to their respective offices have been issued those candidates in the county and precincts, and results on the amendments and the state and district offices have been certified by Judge Wm. McGehee, chairman of the Commissioners' Court which made the count.

BALING 535 ACRES MAIZE WITH HEADS FOR WINTER

Brown Bros., W. Ed and R. Fred, are doing the unusual in saving their 535-acre feed crop off their farm southeast of Floydada, putting the finishing touches this week to a big job of baling. The entire crop, stalks and heads, is being baled, Ed Brown said this week, and will make several thousand bales of roughness. "The crop would have averaged something like a quarter of a ton of heads per acre," Mr. Brown said, "and we just put up the whole stalk and head in the bale, and are storing it for winter feed."

LYNN LEAVING FOR NEW FIELD OF LABOR TODAY

Rev. Ansil Lynn and family leave today, or at latest tomorrow, for their new field of labor at Friona, to which place as station pastor the preacher was assigned by officials of the Northwest Texas Conference Sunday night.

"We regret to leave the pleasant surroundings in Floydada and our friends we have made during our year among the churches here. The year has been a most enjoyable one," Rev. Lynn told a Hesperian reporter over the telephone late yesterday.

Collins of this city, went to her brother's home Friday of last week to assist during the illness of Mrs. Westlake. Mr. and Mrs. J. O. Wilkes, of this city, and Mr. and Mrs. W. L. CENTER SCHOOL OPENS

First classes in the new $6,750 brick veneer school house at Center were held this week. The building was erected by L. B. Maxey & Son, contractors.

The Christmas spirit is going to be evidenced in Floydada again this year in rather elaborate lighting effects in the down-town business section and about over the city, but particularly by the use of the canopy lights such as were used last year to make the city more bright and appealing.

Already the plans are being made by the business people and it seems assured, according to S. W. Ross, secretary of the Chamber of Commerce, that this is to be one of the best-lighted holiday shopping centers in this part of the state. Several business houses are making plans for more lights in and around their stores during the holiday season, in addition to the canopy lights it is stated.

An added touch to the pre-Christmas enjoyment of the season is to be given by the appearance of Santa Claus, who, Mr. Ross says, is going to visit Floydada several days before Christmas and spend something like a half-day and evening in the down-town shopping section. Further announcements are to be made as to this at an early date.

Cream Price Too Low; Production Falls Off

Cream prices are too low, farmers say, for any profit on many farms, and as a result a very considerable per centage of the cows are being taken off of production, dried up and put in the wheat fields to graze without milking. Dealers say they are feeling the effects of the slump in price in a very material reduction in the volume of cream reaching them.

Hot Dog! Gonna Sit By The Fire Thanksgiving Day

Thanksgiving Day next week, Thursday, November 27, and following a custom of long standing in The Hesperian office we'll have a holiday—all hands here will be sitting around relaxed or out visiting, or gone to a football game somewhere.

Printers and reporters can stand a lot of punishment year in and year out, if you'll give them Thanksgiving and Christmas for holidays.

So, we'll appreciate our advertisers and contributors keeping this next week's holiday in mind. We will issue The Hesperian Wednesday night, and ask that you co-operate with us by getting news stories and advertisements to the office early.

Women's Missionary Societies of Plainview District Furnish Big Box Packed Mon.

Miss Dora Armstrong, missionary of the M. E. Miss Armstrong at this time is at John Hopkins Hospital, where she is doing special work preparatory for her work in the Congo. The list of articles being sent her from the women of this district is an interesting one. It included in addition to fourteen used sheets, seven pairs used pillow cases, a number of toilet articles and a lot of clean rags, the following new materials: Twenty sheets, twenty-five pairs pillow cases, 1 bedspread, sixty hand towels, forty-eight thirty-five cup towels, three lunch cloths, three nurses' uniforms, two dresses, eleven night gowns, twenty yards material. The trunk in which the materials was forwarded was one which Rev. Ansil Lynn has used twice in voyages across the ocean to the Congo. It has made two trips over and back.

RURAL CAGERS MIX BOUTS AT ANDREWS GYM FRIDAY

A series of three basketball games furnished plenty of thrills and excitement for a fair crowd of the cage sport fans from Sand Hill, Baker, McCoy and Floydada, who met at the Andrews Ward Gymnasium in this city last Friday evening. Four mixed teams were composed for the evening's tussle.

In the first game of the evening, the Baker outsiders smothered the Sand Hill outsiders under a 17 to 8 score; but in the second game the Sand Hill quintet reversed the count against McCoy and beat them out by a 17 to 8 score. In the third game of the evening, a mixed Floydada team emerged victorious over the McCoy five to the count of 11 to 4.

On Friday afternoon the Sand Hill boys team of the school met the South Plains school five at South Plains. The final count on this game was 15 to 6, favoring the South Plains crew. The girls teams of the two schools met in the second game of the afternoon and the Sand Hill sextette smothered their opponents under a 15 to 6 count.

Announcements were made this week that the Sand Hill and Baker outsiders would meet in a basketball encounter at the Andrews Ward gym on Friday night of this week. The hour has been set for 7:30 o'clock. It was also announced that both the school boys and girls teams of each community would also meet, and possibly the Junior boys of each school.

Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Edwards are at the home of their daughter, Mrs. May, Little Marlee Holloman, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Holloman of Slaton, is also at his bedside this week.

Cracked Wheat In Use At Staniforth Farm For Fattening Swine

Use of cracked wheat, at present the cheapest commodity available for feed for both man and beast, is being made on the big Staniforth purebred hog farm four miles from South Plains, Billy Staniforth, co-partner and manager of the enterprise, said this week.

While the large number of brood-sows on the farm are being fed a ration that also includes tankage and oats along with the wheat, the whole ration of some 280 hogs that are now being fattened is composed of cracked wheat with enough tankage to make up a balanced ration, he said, and fed out in automatic feeders.

"The gain in weight has been very satisfactory," said Mr. Staniforth, "Our average per head per day being one and three-fourths pounds." The hogs are being weighed twice a month and the actual gain in pounds determined in this manner, which eliminates guess work.

Club Workers Attend Three County Meeting

Miss Marie Strange, Floyd County Home Demonstration Agent, and a delegation of four representatives from each Home Demonstration and 4H club in the county, are this week attending a series of meetings in Plainview, being sponsored by the Plainview Playground Association. The meetings are held each evening at the City Auditorium in Plainview, beginning on Monday evening of this week and extending through tonight.

Four representatives from each community in this county, consisting of one Home Demonstration Club member and her husband and one 4H Club girl and club boy, were selected by Miss Strange, and an attendance from this county each evening has been estimated at twenty. An equal number is also attending from Swisher County and an equal number from Hale County.

F. H. S. to Play Ralls Here Friday; Meet Slaton Tigers Thanksgiving

Final Hearing On Protests Scheduled Saturday At Lubbock

Final disposition of the Spur High School football eligibility controversy will be made Saturday afternoon at a meeting of the executive committee, it was announced this morning by Superintendent W. E. Patty, who attended a meeting of league officials Wednesday at which time the agreement was reached for the holding of the final hearing on the eligibility protests of Floydada, Spur and Lockney.

"We still believe that there is a possibility that the committee will reverse its decision on our team and place us back in the race. We feel that Bridges is eligible since he has made this his home since the spring of 1929, attended school that year and the required 30 days prior to engaging in a grid contest this year.

The data and information of the meeting last week at Lubbock were sent to Austin but Roy B. Henderson, head of the league football division, announced in a telephone conversation with A. B. Sanders, superintendent at Ralls, that the state committee would leave the matter of eligibility for disposal by the district committee.

Paducah Is Champion

Paducah High School by common consent, though by no official action, was recognized as champion of sub-district 2 of the Interscholastic League following a hectic meeting of the executive committee attended by football coaches, teachers, and interested fans held at Lubbock Saturday afternoon. Floydada, Spur, and Lockney figured in a three-cornered "protesting bout," all three teams were charged, with having used ineligible players, and all games were thrown out in which the ineligible men had played with the exception of Spur.

Spur by action of the state committee some two weeks previous had been placed on probation and hence lost nothing by the decision. Lockney high, victors over Floydada in the sub-division championship game, lost the title to Paducah. With the action of the executive committee of the league Littlefield, Spur, and Slaton were officially recognized and designated as football champions of sub-districts one, three, and four, respectively, in District Two of Class B Schools.

Four Teams Play

According to a schedule worked out at the all-day session, Slaton meets Spur Thursday while Littlefield clashes with Paducah. The winner of the two battles then play for the championship of District Two.

Those attending the meeting in Lubbock Saturday were Superintendent W. E. Patty, Troy Jones, Coach L. T. Barksdale, and O. K. Davis. Superintendent Patty endorsed protests against Spur and Lockney, maintaining that they had been using boys on their teams that were not duly qualified. Superintendent W. D. Biggers of Lockney filed rebuttal charges against Bridges of the Whirlwinds after Superintendent Patty had protested to the eligibility of "Wild Bill" Duncan, star of the Longhorn eleven. Both players were charged with playing without having been legally transferred to the teams.

The committee declared both players ineligible, which means that all games in which these players have appeared are to be forfeited—or in other words all league games played by Lockney or Floydada this year. That being the case, Paducah (Continued on back page)

HARMON MOVES FURNITURE STOCK TO NEW LOCATION

Removal of the F. C. Harmon furniture stock from their former location on South Main Street to their new location on the west side of the square was completed last week-end and the new store arrangement will be completed this week. For the past five years, the furniture store and undertaking parlor occupied the Snodgrass building immediately north of the Hesperian office.

Their new location in the Boerner building immediately north of the C. R. Houston Company, is declared to be one of the most compact and neatest stores in this section. The building was completely re-modeled and a twenty-foot plate glass display window especially constructed. Balconies have been constructed at each end of the building, with seven foot wings on both sides.

The undertaking parlor will be located in the rear balcony, it was stated.

ATTEND PLAINVIEW MEET

Miss Marie Strange, county home demonstration agent, is in Plainview this mid-week attending a conference on home demonstration work being held in Plainview. She plans to return home tonight.

Both Tilts To Be Played On Local Gridiron 3:30 O'Clock.

Bright spots appeared this week on a football horizon that was becoming rather bleak when it was announced Wednesday night that the Floydada Whirlwinds will meet the Ralls Jackrabbits here Friday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock. And the Slaton Tigers will clash with the Whirlwinds on the local gridiron Thursday, November 27, in the annual Turkey Day classic staged between the rival teams.

Meet Again Wednesday

Arrangements for the two games to be played by the Whirlwinds were completed by Superintendent W. E. Patty who attended a meeting of league officials of the district in a session held Wednesday at Lubbock where an attempt was to iron out difficulties in eligibilities and schedules.

The Turkey Day game will be played at the Floydada Ball Park beginning at 3:30 o'clock, regardless of the outcome of protests and past games this year.

Slaton plays Spur this Thursday afternoon on Tech Field at Lubbock and Littlefield is scheduled to meet Paducah soon, and the winners of the two battles are scheduled to battle for the championship of District Two, class B schools, of the Interscholastic League on the Saturday following Thanksgiving, November 29. This agreement was endorsed at the meeting of league officials Wednesday. Spur will play without the services of Brode Puckett and Jimmie Hahn, the two men over whom most of the protests have been made by Floydada.

Nearly 95,000 Pounds Turkeys Shipped From Floydada Thanksgiving

The total of the Floyd County crop of turkeys handled through Floydada dealers for the Thanksgiving market for the period closing the latter part of last week, climbed very materially with all figures in and a complete check-up made by dealers this week. The actual figures are 94,541 pounds of turkeys, and the total paid out to turkey raisers passed the $14,000 mark.

Of the total shipments nearly 75,000 pounds of the crop intended for the national appetite during the Thanksgiving holidays, was dressed, chilled and shipped, and more than $1,200 in labor and services was expended in handling the lots, including packing, cooling and other labor. A large proportion of this labor went to turkey pickers.

LIONS-ROTARIANS HEAR STATUS OF FOOTBALL FLOYDADA AND DISTRICT

The Rotary and Lions' Clubs of Floydada heard the status of the football muddle from the viewpoint of an interested member of the Floydada Public School faculty in their meeting at noon Wednesday, when Troy Jones gave a brief resume of the protests and counter-protests that have been made between Floydada, Lockney and Spur teams during the past few weeks.

A. A. Axline, member of the Fort Worth Rotary Club, and L. D. Washburn, of Lubbock, were visitors of the day, and Mr. Axline gave a five-minute talk on the T. C. U.-Texas football game which he witnessed last Saturday. The clubs are two of the finest he ever saw in action, he declared, declaring the Texas team one of the strongest in manpower he has ever witnessed play.

Roy L. Snodgrass, commander of McDermott Post, American Legion, was called upon by J. C. Wester, president of the Lions Club presiding, to recount some of the incidents of his service in the army. An amusing and interesting talk was made by the Legionnaires.

ICE ON THE PONDS AS TEMPERATURE DROPS

First notice that winter is on the way was served by the weather man yesterday and last night, when the tall feathers of a blizzard of considerable proportions brushed across Floyd County and made the temperature here drop slightly below the freezing point.

North, into Colorado and the central plains states, the drop was more pronounced with considerable snow in portions of the mountains of Colorado and the foothills.

The entire week has been one of unsatisfactory weather, the cold being preceded immediately in this section by flurries of rain Tuesday night and heavy winds and dust intermittently for three days.

THE STORY

CHAPTER I.—In the ancient Russian city of Kazan, under Soviet rule, Commissar Vilinsky's investigating squad invades the palatial home of the Krassin family, aristocrats, with the avowed purpose of determining whether the government shall requisition the house. Vilinsky insults Musa, youthful daughter of the Krassins, in the presence of her mother, who is powerless to act in her defense.

CHAPTER II

Friend Loris and Friend Vilinsky.

The people made way for Commissar Loris in token of his authority as he made his way into the pre-revolutionary palace of the governor general of Kazan, which with its arsenal had been more potent for ages than any of her saints. The soldiers of the People, such is the manner of which the customs of servitude survive, saluted respectfully. For he was the head of the government of the dictatorship of the proletariat in Kazan, and was now coming to attend and preside over its meeting.

He had an elegance about him that not even his old Cossack uniform could take away. His red, rather full lips were curled, and his nose turned up in something like a sniff as if at some bad smell. This is really what it was; and those who construed the expression to be one of contempt for his yokel-fellows did him less than justice; for to be scornful of one's fellow-workers in the time of Terror is not altogether prudent, and there were some who could find no other explanation.

The contrast between him and the half dozen men with whom he went into conference lay mainly in his smart, elegant appearance, that mien of the man of the world—that world that had passed away, perhaps for ever.

The others seemed to feel this, and to show by their blunt rough ways that they were not favorably impressed by these appearances of aristocracy; all but one young man with a stooped form and the thick glasses of the student, whose manners remained what they had been when his political theories, for the first time apparently realizable, took him into the Bolshevik camp. Among the bluntest, roughest and rudest of these new dogs of war, was a man in a peasant's smock. He was Tovarisch Vilinsky, who somewhat ahead of his order, we have seen inspecting the house of Krassin—and its occupants.

For an hour or more the group remained in session. Clerks took down memoranda. Papers were sent for. Dossiers were examined. Stenographers took notes. Frowning through his bushy brows, Commissar Vilinsky, after the routine matters before the meeting had been disposed of, suddenly made the point that the people's interests would be more efficiently served if Commissar Loris should remove his headquarters from his railway car to the palace. Commissar Loris, in a consultation with the pale student—a consultation that he suddenly made more earnest—seemed to fail to hear.

"Tovarisch Loris," said Vilinsky, "I think you may be interested."

"I was engaged," said Loris; "what is the matter to which you refer?"

"I was making the point, Tovarisch Loris," he replied, "that it would be better if you were to transfer your headquarters to the center of our government, this palace. The people's interests, it seems to me, would be better served."

To call each other "Tovarisch" was almost obligatory. "Tovarisch" means "friend" and is the verbal badge of the Russian revolution, as "citizen" was of the French.

"There is something in what you say," replied Loris. "I am considering it, Tovarisch Vilinsky."

"It would be more convenient, Tovarisch Loris," continued Vilinsky, "for other members of the government."

"But there are advantages also," said Loris, "in my remaining where the people whom we serve have learned to find me. It should be, should it not, a question purely of the thing which is best for the people?"

There was a sense of antagonism in the air. At Loris' statement the pale student nodded assent. The others seemed non-committal. Vilinsky passed, as if to avoid the issue, to the overcrowded state of the city, and the urgent need of more housing facilities.

"These bourgeoisie," he shouted, striking the table with his fist and growing red in the face, "even under the dictatorship of the proletariat, still crowd the proletariat into the street! The parasites! While they sleep on beds of down, we lie on the stones of the pavement!"

"I thought Tovarisch Vilinsky was better housed," said Loris sympathetically.

A smile went round. Every one there knew of the entire floor of the chief hotel of the city which Vilinsky had commandeered for himself and his immediate retainers.

"You know what I mean, Tovarisch Loris," he cried. "The people sleep on stones! This must not be!"

"You are quite right," replied Loris. "We," with a slight emphasis on the pronoun, "have a right to protest against the necessity of sleeping on stones. The bourgeoisie are increasing every day by hundreds. They come by boat, by rail, by vehicle, and on foot, because of the horrible living conditions in Moscow, Petrograd and other cities; and because for many of them, this is the old seat of their families. They claim to be crowded, too—"

"And you," said Vilinsky, ingratiatingly, "see in their crowding a reason for not disturbing them?"

"Allow me to finish my statement, Tovarisch Vilinsky," said Loris. "They claim to be crowded; but their standards of crowding are not those of the proletariat. They have much room to spare. If we do not find a remedy for the conditions of which Tovarisch Vilinsky speaks before winter, there will be much suffering and many deaths. It grows worse daily. And most of these returned bourgeoisie are secret plotters against our rule of liberty and equality. These secret treasonable societies which these papers—picking up a dossier from the desk—describe. Their lives are justly forfeit to the state for treason, and when they are imprisoned, or their forfeited lives are taken by the people, their rooms will be available for the proletariat! Is not this suggestion worth considering, Tovarisch Vilinsky?"

Every one but the pale student nodded. Loris had the genius for the practical. He had won the members of the government to his side, as he had done many times before, by giving voice to the idea which appealed to them. Vilinsky saw that he was losing ground in what was becoming a rivalry with Loris.

"Good!" he exclaimed. "But it will not work rapidly enough, Tovarisch Loris. We must make them sleep two and three in a bed as we—as the common people do, when they can get beds at all. A suite of rooms to a person—it is a crime, I tell you, a crime!"

"I agree," assented Loris, "that it is an abuse which must end. Tovarisch Petrov, what was that case of which we were speaking together?"

"I have it in my pocket," said the student, holding a packet of papers close to his near-sighted eyes. "It is a report on a family named Krassin."

"I know them!" said Vilinsky. "They have a house almost as big as this palace! What is the nature of this report, Tovarisch Petrov?"

"It deals with their house, and with the family. The house seems, from what can be said without a domiciliary visit, to be well occupied by members of the family, which is extensive. The old woman who is really the head of the family asserts that it is full. She is a very vigorous person, Mrs. Krassin."

"I know!" exclaimed Vilinsky. "A daughter, a young girl, and a son—"

"Ilya Krassin," said Vilinsky bitterly. "A young peacock of an aristocrat. A former officer in a Guards regiment. I know!"

"It is suspected," continued Petrov, "that Ilya Krassin is engaged in secret plotting with the enemies of the proletariat."

"Of course he is," exclaimed Vilinsky.

"Naturally," remarked Loris, "if he was an officer of a Guard regiment! I regret," looking at a magnificent watch, "that I must now take my departure. I think we have had a good meeting. This Krassin family, and all the important houses of which we have had reports, will bear further investigation. Let the necessary measures be taken at once!"

The commissar, who had made that amiable suggestion as to thinning out the occupants of the palaces by executions, was subject to certain physical revulsions of feeling which seemed to have no moral parallel in his mind. He was disgusted, as he swept through clouds of dust, his motor car flying with no regard to safety through the wind-swept pulverized filth of the city.

The statue of the poet Derzhavin was piled about the base with dreadful garbage. The huge statue of Czar Alexander III, liberator of the serfs, who now were in process of being set free over again by Liberators Lenin and Trotzky, was unapproachable.

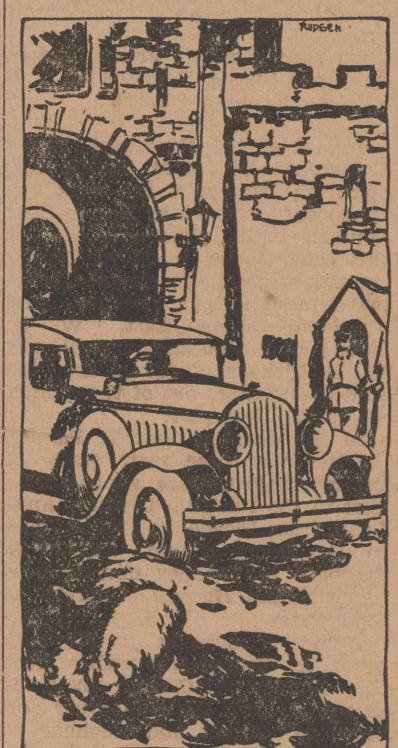

Yet, the krepost or citadel, from which he was now making toward that car of his in the railway yards, with its wall running from tower to tower of the five by which it was dominated, was an impressive sight, enclosing as it did a wide space from which the great cathedral and numerous churches lifted golden domes in testimony to Christ, and the red-brick Suyumbeka tower which attracted to its two hundred and fifty feet of height the eyes of every Mussulman, who venerated it as the birthplace of one of his saints. Full of the mystery, the stern stress of Russian history was this great jewel of a place in the center of Kazan, where these historic buildings were grouped about the old krepost and governor's palace, now occupied by a new tyranny; but Loris' car, as it moved out past the ragged sentry at the gates, plowed through a slough of filth that not even the summer sun and heat had been able to bake from disease in mud to disease in solid form. Bolshevik Kazan was remarkable in this: It was much more foul than czarist or republican Kazan had been. To anyone not actually employed in scavenging, its filth was inconceivable, in a great many ways.

And as the commissar passed the Teatralny square in which stood the fine structure in which Kazan's permanent grand opera had been housed, he noted again the extent to which it had been damaged by the gunfire of the Czechs, when they occupied the old town.

"A pity!" he thought, "though Tovarisch Vilinsky would not be much interested. He means to go higher in our new government. . . I wonder why he is so much interested in that Krassin family. With him, it must be one of three things: money, revenge, woman. And of course the welfare of the masses!"

He found a numerous group of people about his car as he alighted and crossed the platform, to none of whom did he pay the slightest attention. He found awaiting him in the car itself, its only occupant so far as the public room was concerned, an old woman of the Tartars, so numerous in Kazan. She was not merely old—she was ancient, but she stepped as lightly as a bird. She made a spot in the room, with her bright dress of yellow and red made up of many flounces, like a gorgeous rug; and as she moved the string of copper and silver coins which hung from her neck, wrists and hair made music which brought to one's mind visions of desert-girt cities and streets of bazaars away off beyond the Caspian. They tinkled louder, as she made the obeisance of the days of old as Loris entered.

"It is you, grandmother," said he. "I wanted to speak to you."

"It is I, son," she replied. "There is a family, once a great family, of whom I want knowledge."

"In Kazan province, my son?" she said.

"In Kazan city," said Loris. "Then it is simple," replied the Tartar woman. "What is it you wish to know?"

1931 Chevrolet Is Shown Saturday By Local Distributor

Price Reduction on New "Big Car" Is Feature of Early Showing Of New Model.

Chevrolet's new car for 1931, priced substantially below former levels, went on display Saturday throughout the nation.

Heralded as "The Great American Value," the new car boasts a two-inch increase in wheelbase, larger and roomier bodies by Fisher with mohair or broadcloth as optional trimming, and scores of refinements in appearance and performance despite the new prices which bring the level for the 1931 car to a far lower figure than any Chevrolet, four or six, has ever sold.

Dealers throughout the United States put the new models on exhibition nearly two months in advance of the customary date for the showing of the annual new car. This move in advancing the announcement date, it was felt by Chevrolet officials, would render a distinct contribution to the cause of general business revival by insuring extraordinary activity during two normally dull business months for the 200,000 people throughout United States who depend directly upon Chevrolet for their livelihood.

The nineteen domestic production plants of the Chevrolet organization are now in full swing on the new model, according to W. S. Knudsen, president, and shipments are going out to dealers to assure immediate delivery of all models.

Fundamentally the new model embodies the same basic features which, since the introduction of the Chevrolet Six, enabled it to achieve a popularity exceeding Chevrolet's former four cylinder model and four times as great as any other six cylinder car. However, scores of improvements and refinements have been made this year—every change designed to increase the smartness, performance, safety or durability of this latest General Motors model.

Among the improvements are a fully insulated front compartment, easier steering, more durable clutch smoother and quieter transmission, and liberal use of rustless chromium plate on exposed bright parts. Four Lovejoy hydraulic shock absorbers, and fully enclosed, weatherproof four-wheel brakes continue as standard equipment.

In the line of nine body types are three open models—the roadster, phaeton and sport roadster, and six closed models—the coach, sedan, special sedan, the three-window coupe, the five-window coupe, and the sport coupe.

All sport models come equipped with the new and popular chrome-plated radiator grille. All models have smart new wire wheels, with 4.75 by 19 tires, as standard equipment. Hubs are very large, of the concealed bolt type, with hub caps of the gleaming chromium plate set off by a black ring circling the Chevrolet emblem in the center. Wheel finishes harmonize with the wide variety of body combinations.

The two-inch increase in wheelbase has been utilized throughout the line to increase the roominess and comfort of the new bodies. Smart new Duco color combinations, the addition of decorative body features and a head-on appearance extensively changed from the 1930 car combine to make the 1931 model decidedly finer in appearance than any of its predecessors.

The radiator has a larger cooling capacity this year, and is improved in both efficiency and appearance. A new treatment of the shell makes it appear much higher and the sides appear to have more curvature. At the bottom of the shell is a black enameled beaded panel surrounding the starting crank hole, which enters through the radiator instead of the splash pan as formerly.

Prices on the new Chevrolet line for 1931, as announced Saturday by President W. S. Knudsen, range from $475 to $650, as against $495 to $685 for the 1930 car, all prices f. o. b. factory. The price reductions range from $20 to as much as $40. For comparison, the Standard Coupe formerly sold for $565, f. o. b., while the new price has been placed at $535, a reduction of $30 on this model. In addition to the price changes in the passenger car line, Mr. Knudsen also announced reductions in the Chevrolet commercial car line. The commercial chassis has been reduced $10 and the Sedan Delivery $20.

Every change and new feature has met and survived innumerable tests before being incorporated in the 1931 car. Consistent with the established policy of "working two years ahead," the Chevrolet engineering department was at work on this new car before the public showing of last year's model. Each one of the twenty major engineers has been at work on various units, oftentimes two or more engineers working independently on the same unit.

Entirely apart from Chevrolet's own engineers and designers there were further facilities for the development of the car in the General Motors Research Laboratories, the most extensive project of its kind in the industry, and in the large corps of expert craftsmen of the Fisher Body organization. The combined talent of these vast organizations has been brought to bear on the new 1931 Chevrolet that it might measure up to its slogan of "The Great American Value."

Mrs. E. E. Dickason of Ojuela, Durango, Mexico, spent from last Tuesday till Saturday visiting with her brother, Jas. K. Green and family. While in Texas Mrs. Dickason will also visit relatives in Austin and Brownsville.

of a light and power company, or, in fact, of any public utility, is tied up with the future of the area in which it operates. It must grow if the community is to grow, and the community must grow if the light and power company is to grow. Unlike ordinary enterprises, a public utility cannot stand still.

As a matter of fact, the public utility grows at a greater rate than the community, for a larger and larger proportion of the people use its service and become dependent upon it. Those who are using the service are making constantly increasing demands upon it.

This is why we are constantly striving to improve our service and reduce our rates. It may sound selfish, but it's true. It's just good business.

Plainview Lad Talks On 'Hi-Y And The Boy'

On the program of "Father and Son" week, the following talk on Hi-Y work was given at the joint meeting here Thursday of last week between Plainview and Floydada Hi-Y Clubs by James Hatch of Plainview:

"A Hi-Y Club is a group of older high school boys who, having united in a common and challenging objective, are seeking for themselves and their fellow students the highest standards of life and conduct. Their expressed purpose is—

"To create, maintain, and extend throughout the school and community high standards of Christian character. This is the starting point and the goal of all true Hi-Y work.

"The service of these boys constitutes a truly great adventure, not alone of what they are to be, but also because of their present contribution to the solution of the problems of boy life. Fiercely tempted, they are gaining personal victories themselves and helping their fellow students to win great moral conflicts. In the decision-making period of life they are committing themselves to far reaching conclusions for life investment and also providing helps by which their boy friends may be deciding these questions now. Conscious of the fact that they have at the most four or five years to live in high school, they are aggressively seeking opportunities for their own mental and physical development and are leading their schoolmates into similar transforming achievements.

"Outstanding points of emphasis based on the state purpose include the following points:

(1) Personal commitment of high school boys to Christian ideals of living; to loyal and active relations to the church of their choice, and to devotion of life to its work in this life to its work in this and other lands.

(2) Enlistment and training of high school boys for lives of unselfish service in behalf of their own schools and of the community in which they live together with special service for and with younger boys.

(3) Clean living, clean speech, clean athletics, and clean scholarship in which the majority of the boys in school unite, in and through the school groups and organizations to which they are related.

(4) Group discussion and purposeful planning as a means for mutual co-operation in the solution of common life problems and as an incentive to character development and united effort.

(5) Competent and helpful counsel concerning the various life work opportunities, and a wholesome challenge to thorough preparation for the Christian basis of enlistment and service in all vocations.

The Hi-Y movement had its beginning as early as 1870 in the regular work of the Young Men's Christian Association among high school boys. The first organized High School Young Men's Christian Association at Chatman, Kansas, was a forerunner of the first Hi-Y club which was developed at Bitsfield, Mass., in 1911. There are now more than 4,600 Hi-Y clubs in the U. S. and Canada enrolling more than 115,000 high school members in practically every state and province.

The term Hi-Y was coined to suggest the mutual relation of the boys to the high school and to the Y. M. C. A.

The Hi-Y pin is used to give meaning to membership. Its use has grown so much that each year thousands of the pins are worn by Hi-Y members all over the world.

The boy who drew the original design made the following statement in describing its significance: "I made it a triangle because during the first six months of my membership in the club it made a complete change in me. On my mental side I was encouraged to study harder and all my marks formerly very low are all in the eighties except one, and that's in the nineties. On the physical side I used to be sick a great deal but by taking the health hints and going into athletics I'm now in mighty good shape. On the spiritual side—well, you know I accepted Christ soon after I came into the club. That's the reason I've put the cross in the center. He's become the center of my life and He's the center of our club. The white—well, you don't know how rotten my life was before I came into the club. It isn't white yet, but that's what we're all trying to make our lives become. The whole thing stands for sacrificial service, for Christ and the other fellows."

"We as a club are not all intellectual giants, not physical Hercules, nor are we on an isolated plane spiritually—we are just boys, with all of boys temptations and trials, aspirations and hopes—boys who have caught a glimmer of a fuller, a more worthwhile life, and we're striving toward that end. If failure, gloom and despair sometimes confront us, we can still say with that immortal poet, Browning, "A man's reach should exceed his grasp or what's a heaven for?"

"And that, my friends, is the purpose of the Hi-Y."

FIRST CHRISTIAN CHURCH

Claude Wingo, Pastor

We had splendid attendance at all services last Sunday taking in consideration the weather. West Texas is not afraid of sand storms. We had 102 in Bible school.

We regret the going of Bro. G. T. Palmer and family from our midst. We have been here just 10 months but in that time we have learned to love Bro. Palmer as a friend and co-pastor. We have found him a genial friend and fellow-townsmen, a hard working minister, and a fellow that every one loves. We bespeak for him and his family every good wish for his work in his new field.

We extend to Bro. Young a hearty welcome to Floydada, Texas. We know that Bro. Young will find some of the best people in the world here. He will find sin and indifference here also. A servant of God need not fear that which can destroy the body but cannot hurt the soul so long as he is true, loyal, and obedient to our Lord and Christ. Subjects for sermons Sunday, November 23: Morning "Prayer." Evening: "Thanksgiving."

When we pause Thursday for Thanksgiving throughout our good land let us not make it a day of football games and big Turkey feasts but in it all let's find time to thank our God for His goodness to the sons of men.

We expect to have a display of good books and bibles Wednesday night, Dec. 3 at First Christian Church.

You are beginning to think about your Christmas gifts, surely some of those gifts will be books or a good bible.

We are bringing some of the best that the market affords for your inspection. You are invited to look them over make such selections as you may see fit.

If you give a book—make it a worthy present.

LOCKNEY CIRCUIT

I will preach at McCoy next Sunday morning and evening.

FIRST BAPTIST CHURCH

Dick O'Brien, Pastor

Due to the awful sandstorm last Sunday our Sunday school attendance was considerably off. We could wish for the day to come that folks would not allow weather to interfere with their religious activities. The more disagreeable the day the more we should enjoy our religion, the more we need the church services and the more the program needs us. Our preaching services were both well attended, with the house filled to the doors in the morning and a very good congregation Sunday night. Interest seems to be growing in our new study at the morning and evening preaching hours. In the morning we are following a line of study on the New Testament Church, and at night on the Life of Christ.

All regular services will be held next Sunday, the Lord permitting, and we urge all members of the different departments to be in their places and invite visitors to worship with us.

We join the many, many friends him go from our community. As of Brother Geo. Palmer, and his family, in their regrets in seeing a co-pastor I have never loved a man more, nor but few as much, as I do Brother Palmer. I consider him one of the whitest souls I have ever known. There has never been one misunderstanding between us, nor a moment of ill feeling, envy, jealousy, nor anything of like nature during two years we have worked together. I shall miss him as a brother in the flesh. My prayer is that the blessings of high heaven, in ever increasing number, shall be upon him, his family and his work on his new field. The Dalhart community in general, and the Methodist church in particular, are to be congratulated upon securing him as a citizen and pastor.

At the same time we join the Methodist church here in a welcome to the incoming pastor. We wish for him and the church continued prosperity. We offer him our hand of fellowship in the common service of our Master.

A SIZABLE SAVING

There has been plenty of criticism of Herbert Hoover's administration, a natural consequence of the unhappy times we have hit upon during his term of office.

In addition to the hard times cussing Mr. Hoover has caught—whether justified, we cannot say—he has also come in for much razzing from various quarters on his Naval Armament Conference, which, it is alleged, has cost the country a lot in prestige and whatnot. These critics point out that Mr. Hoover's Commission was badly out-manuevered by England and Japan in the final agreement. This may or may not be true. Only time will tell.

However, there is one thing there seems to be no controversy on, in connection with the conference. The saving on the naval budget will be in excess of two and a half billion dollars in the course of five years. This fact should not be forgotten in fairness to the present head of affairs.

NOW, WHY NOT?

We read of the value of the buy-at-home movement and usually put it in terms of getting your groceries or dry goods from the home merchant. The arguments have been threshed out so many times. The stock answer of those who buy elsewhere than from the people close at hand whose interests are mutually tied together is that they can "do better" by trading away.

Here's a suggestion that does not have anything to do with merchants, and it's a buy-at-home suggestion. We have reference to the purchase of chicks and eggs for next year's poultry flocks on Floyd County farms. There is no doubt that there are ample numbers of good foundation poultry stock on Floyd County pure-bred chicken farms to take care of all the needs of all Floyd County this year. You are going to buy chickens from somebody somewhere. Why not make the purchase in Floyd County, and give your home breeder a chance? He is helping you in many ways, especially in helping keep up the quality of poultry in the county. He needs and is entitled to your help. And the same old stock argument goes here, too! You can see what you are buying.

Buy your poultry foundation flocks for next season, whether chickens or turkeys, from Floyd County raisers and help keep your money at home, where you can get another chance at it, where it will circulate and help make better times for yourself and your neighbors.

CRUEL, HEARTLESS SWINDLE?

A cruel, heartless swindle is the way a Kansas City Star reporter described the matrimonial mutual insurance companies that have been operating over the country in the past eighteen months. Somebody is bound to take a losing on them, he declares, sooner or later, and his argument and exposition are so convincing as to be unanswerable, it seems.

If you have an opportunity to buy matrimonial insurance, don't do it. Whether swindle or no swindle, there's something wrong somewhere, some how. The money comes too easy. Rarely, rarely, in this world do we get something for nothing. Don't try it.

THANKSGIVING THOUGHT

You complain of hard times, but you are still running your automobile on the highways instead of putting it in the shed, so you can at least be thankful you have enough money to keep pushing your car down the road.

This thought: As Thanksgiving approaches next week bear in mind that there are homes where profound thanks are being given, but where there'll be no Thanksgiving turkey and no extra spread. In these homes they are thankful that home ties have not had to be severed, that they still have good health. In some of these homes there is actual need, and what a wonderful treat something extra for Thanksgiving Day would be, if it were received from the right source in his right spirit.

If you know of such a home and can afford it, why not practice a little of that thing called brotherly love? No need to make a talk in church, or lodge, society or club about it. Just go do it. And no need to advertise to your right hand what the left is doing.

FURNISH SOME JOBS

Floydada people who can furnish jobs to the jobless should do so right now. A little later on cold weather is to have us surrounded and the man who has been without work is going to have to have some money with which to buy coal or other fuel and the necessities of life for himself and family.

To the men of means to whom the necessity of keeping the unfortunate warm and fed during the cold of mid-winter is going to represent a bill for which there can be no remuneration, some money spent now at the right places for jobs could be made to represent an economic gain instead of a clean-cut loss.

In every city and town in America this problem is being recognized and in many of them it is being looked at in this most logical light, viz: that it is much better to let a man work for the things that he and his family must have than to let him be forced to accept a dolé at the loss of his self-respect.

Contemporary Thought

BUY NOW FOR CHRISTMAS

Nolan County Enterprise: The slogan "Do Your Christmas Shopping Early" has a genuine importance this year. Usually it is merely a reminder that if you delay too long in selecting the things you intend to give for Christmas you run the risk of finding the things you want are "out of stock." This year it means that putting money into circulation now will hasten the return of "good times."

Money passes from one person to another in exchange for commodities. Everybody, of course, must decide for himself what sort of commodities he is willing to take in exchange for his money. There are some things, the value of which is beyond question, which can be bought cheaper now than for several years. There are other commodities which only a few can af-

But there are some things which everybody needs, and recognizes the need of, and if those are bought now by all who can by any possibility afford to buy anything at all, the fact that money has been put into circulation again will hasten the day when more of us can afford to buy luxuries.

The Round-up

A Sidewalk Review Mostly About People And Personalities In Floyd County.

By The Cowhand Scribe

'Twas in the year of 1492 and the month was October. As Captain Columbus and his Pioneers landed a great shout went up from the shore. It was the day of the great classic of the century. Chief Scalper and his Braves were on hand in abundance.

Columbus had a good alibi ready because his squad was very evidently tired out from their long trip across the water and it was rumored that his star half-back who was an Eye-Talian had broken training rules and taken on a cargo of garlic and almost had everybody on the ship in hysterics.

Anyway, Captain Columbus had an alibi ready if he should need one after the tilt and sure enough he didn't, but that's getting ahead of the story. Let's see what happened.

Both teams were plumb mad when the battle started over a pig skin some darn fool had brought along from over in Spain. Captain Columbus grabbed it and behind perfect interference raced down the field, which was right on the beach near the edge of the woods. But Chief Scalper gave a war whoop and dodged out from behind a tree stump and downed old Colum in his tracks. You see Chief Scalper was in a safety position and it was his job to down Colum before he crossed the line and scored a get-away in the woods.

And that's what the Chief did. Downed him by heck. Well, the battle see-sawed back and forth with first the Braves and then the Pioneers leading. It was a bloody game and time out was called right frequently when the Braves got too rough with their tommyhawks.

Colum and his Pioneers had a cute little fake trick of shooting around both ends of the Braves but after the Scalper had made several passes at the Pioneers they settled down to straight tactics.

Between halves (you see several of the warriors had been carved in two pieces) a bottle of bay rum was opened and passed around, and then some idiot up and suggested that since Colum and his fighting aggregation had come such a long way to stage the contest it would be a good idea to let him smoke old Chief Scalper's peace pipe. Which was done and Colum was knocked out and was too feeble to go back into the fray. Rumors had it that that pipe was a put up job but you never can tell. It was a known fact, however, that the Pioneer team had been scouted several times by the Braves and it could have been possible that they knew that Colum had a weak lung and just gave him a whiff of that pipe to break down his resistance.

Another shot rang out and so did one of the Braves brain cells and the battle in the second half was on! There was heavy sideline support from both sides, with the Pioneers having the edge in fact both edges for they had boats from the ship and bales of cotton to support their sidelines.

With the score about 50 to 100 in favor of the Braves, Little Miles Standish who made a reputation at the Plymouth Rock High settlement, broke away for quite a dash and he would have gotten away but he stepped in something and fell just as he circled the big oak tree that stands on the north side of the field.

It was a bad break for the Pioneers but they could not complain because they had been doped to lose, and any way it was their own mascot, Queen Marie's Heifer, that was tied to the oak where the fatal slip occurred.

With heady team work the Pioneers cut down the opposing squad to 50 and that left the score 50-50 but the Braves were leading when the sun went down since they were used to running anyhow.

Little Miles Standish may be out the rest of the season and if he is the Pioneers will never get their quarter back. The standing of the teams in the league will not be known until somebody can persuade old Sitting Bull to rise.

And that's that. An exclusive story on the first grid game. And writ up by the Cowhand Scribe, too!

You can tell how many bridge clubs a man's wife is a member by counting the bottoms on his his coat—that are missing.

You've read a lot about weddings but next week the Cowhand Scribe is going to write up one just as every newspaperman has always longed to do and never had the nerve. It's not lack of nerve in this case—just lack of sense. So watch for next week's big thriller. And whatta wedding! Adv.

C. Surginer has the most logical of all good suggestions of "what should be done" these days. He was discussing the matter of amendments to the Constitution the other day and he outlined an amendment that will really do some good—mainly because it is a money saver.

Mr. Surginer believes that the best amendment that could be passed would provide for the reduction of the Texas legislature by exactly one half. He favors the reduction by half of both the Senate and the House of Representatives, the members being elected on the two-to-one ratio. His plan would cut down taxes, the big item to be considered, and would make the body of lawmakers just large enough to work efficiently.

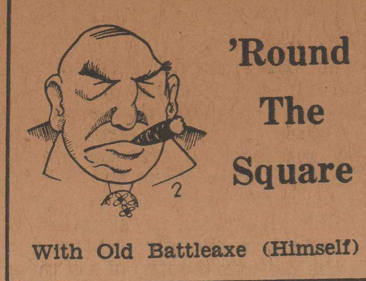

Too much time is taken up in the House over petty legislation that could be eliminated if the membership were reduced so a closer understanding could be obtained between the respective representatives of various districts and interests.

Give us more people who think like Mr. Surginer and the Legislature of Texas will develop something worthwhile in contrast to the joke that it is called.

J. W. Chapman is a live-wire teacher. He brought in a majority of the pupils from his school out at Baker last Thursday and showed them through the Hesperian plant. The students got to see a newspaper in the process of manufacture and an interesting sight it is, indeed, to those who have never witnessed it. The visit was mutually beneficial to the pupils and to The Hesperian—everybody enjoyed it. It was certainly educational insofar as the youngsters were concerned. How fine it would be to have all the classes in all of the schools of Floyd County visit the Hesperian office on publication day. Think it over, make advance arrangements and let's all get better acquainted. How about it, teachers.

With Old Battleaxe (Himself)

"Women, women and more women." Old Battleaxe is going to go back, a way back, to his favorite topic this week and talk about women. You know, a man gets the most kick out of talking about the things that he knows the least about. That's why I enjoy talking about women. I don't understand 'em, and I don't believe any man ever did. It just wasn't meant for women to be understood. God bless their lil' hearts, anyway.

Once upon a time, the story begins, a newspaper columnist attempted to write a tribute to women. He began by declaring: "Women! Without her, man would go crazy." Now this columnist meant well. His intentions were good, but "larning" was terrible. When writing his tribute to women, he wrote got himself in trouble, as columnists have a habit of doing, by leaving out all punctuation marks. Here is what he wrote: "Women, without her man, would go crazy."

I once heard of an island in the Pacific that was inhabited only by crazy women, who had no tongues. That's why they were crazy.

This old world is full of women. There are big women and little women; stout women and weak women; tall women and short women; loud women and quiet women; brunettes and blondes; light complexions and dark complexions; some with short dresses and some with long dresses; crooked women and straight women; honest women and dishonest women; fickle women and true women; freckled women and not-so-freckled women; BUT, they all have one common trait—they can shed a few tears that will make a measly man melt in his very shoes. A woman's tears are declared to be the most effective water power in the world. Ask me, I know.

Take Halitosis for instance. That woman is plumb peculiar. Sometimes I think she is just plain dumb and other times I wonder if she is half as dumb as she acts like she is. She is honestly so dumb that she thinks that the old family mule is related to the Farm Bureau.

But honestly, folks, when it comes to a show-down, women are largely responsible for man's success. Just look at what they have done and what they are doing every day right here in Floyd County. In the rural communities, the most valuable organization, with the exception of the church and the school, is the Home Demonstration club. If you would find out the most influential person in each community, it may be easily done by visiting the Home Demonstration Club. In town we have Study Clubs, Parent-Teachers' organizations, Little Theatre clubs, Cemetery Associations, Ladies Aid Societies, Women's Missionary Societies, Sunday school classes and church organizations, composed almost exclusively of women. And these organizations are the ones that really "get things done." Yes sir, these women are really O. K. They are not only the "Spine rib" but they are also the "Back-bone" of their community.

The saddest story round the square this week. A man's wife had been away for a month. He wrote her every week telling her how he was spending the evenings at home. When the wife came back the light bill came in—for fifty cents.

While we are talking about women, we shouldn't forget that men often have their trials and tribulations just like the women folks. Sometimes I feel like the old German who soliloquized (that's a good word), as follows about his dog: "You was only a dog, but I wish I was you. Ven you go your bed in, you shust turn round three times and lie down; ven I go de bed in, I haf to lock up the blade, and vind up de clock, and put out de cat, and undress myself, and my wife vakes up and scolds, and den de baby vakes and cries and I haf to walk him de house around, and den maybe I get myself to bed in time to get up again.

"Ven you get up you shust stretch yourself, yawn a little, and you was up. I haf to light de fire, put on de kiddle, scrap some vit my wife, and get myself breakfast. You be lays round all day and hab plenty of fun, I haf to vork all day and have plenty of drubble. Ven you die, you was dead; ven I die, I haf to go somewhere again."

That guy on California street says there is really nothing wrong with the rising generation of women, once they rise in the mornings.

A woman's society for the outlawing of war is declared to have adopted the slogan "Millions for face powder but not a penny for gun powder."

Dead women tell no tales—but the live ones make up for it.

It takes very little to satisfy a self-satisfied woman.

And now, Old Battleaxe is going to bring this foolishness to a close by paying a real tribute to the supreme woman of all women—Mother! To my Mother and To Your Mother! Can we ever repay the debt we owe her? She has passed through the Valley of the Shadow of Death to bring us into this old world. From the very day that we first saw light until the last moment that she saw light, she has watched over us with a Mother's care, even though we are sometimes hundreds and even thousands of miles away. A mother's children are always in the right. A mother never sways nor ceases to believe in her children. A mother's true devotion exists for the very dirtiest of criminals, as well as the highest honored man in the country. She may not be all that is desirable in a woman; she may be fine in riches or ragged in poverty; she may be selfish and uncouth in the views of the world—but to us she should ever remain God's supreme gift to man. To her the world owes an allegiance and a debt that it can never repay. She is ours to Love; ours to uphold; ours to honor. Here's to the mother of Texas, the mother of America, the mother of the universe—to your mother and mine!

JUST THINKIN'

by Charles S. Kinnison

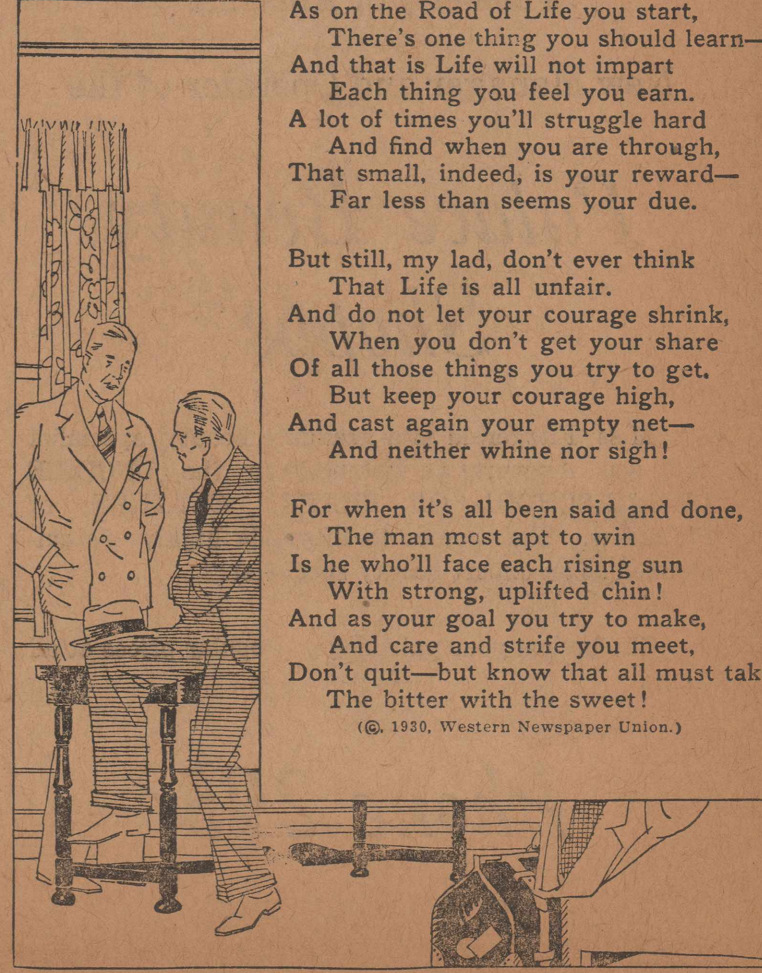

To My Boy

As on the Road of Life you start,
There's one thing you should learn—
And that is Life will not impart
Each thing you feel you earn.
A lot of times you'll struggle hard
And find when you are through,
That small, indeed, is your reward—
Far less than seems your due.

But still, my lad, don't ever think
That Life is all unfair.
And do not let your courage shrink,
When you don't get your share
Of all those things you try to get.
But keep your courage high,
And cast again your empty net—
And neither whine nor sigh!

For when it's all been said and done,
The man most apt to win
Is he who'll face each rising sun
With strong, uplifted chin!
And as your goal you try to make,
And care and strife you meet,
Don't quit—but know that all must take
The bitter with the sweet!

Little Breezes Get Sweet Revenge In 19-0 Win Over Plainview Eleven

'Slashing Eudy' Shares Honors With Golightly

Andrews Ward Team Plays Stellar Game On Local Gridiron Friday; Invaders Heavy.

Shifty "Big Ben" Eudy with his teammates on the re-vamped Little Breezes eleven of Andrews Ward school slashed through the heavy Plainview Junior High aggregation to a thrilling 19-0 victory on the local gridiron Friday afternoon. The win was all the more impressive due to the fact that the same team had given the Little Breezes a 34-0 trouncing at Plainview earlier in the season.

Big Ben and his scrapping warriors were after revenge and they got it. They literally played circles around the invading squad which outweighed the local eleven at least fifteen pounds to the man on an

Some High Points On The Game.

Dr. Lon Smith was out as usual to "root" for "Dr. Ben" and he got results for "Slashing Ben" was the star of the day. Ben played and Dr. Lon shouted.

And Geo. Sherrill one of the keenest football fans in Floydada arrived late for the game but he made up for lost time by almost hollerin' his head off.

Coach Troy Jones showed his ability as real mentor by reversing the tables on the Plainview eleven and bringing home a victory after having suffered a decisive defeat at their hands early in the season.

average. Only twice during the entire encounter did the grey-jerseyed Junior High lads pierce the 20-yard zone of the determined Floydada team.

Makes 65-Yard Run

After turning in a stellar performance for three quarters that again stamped him as one of the greatest embryo backs of this section, Slashing Big Ben reached high in the air late in the fourth quarter to intercept a beautifully executed Plainview pass, and in his shifting, swaying style raced 65 yards behind perfect interference through the entire grey team to a touch down that climaxed fittingly the day for the Breezes and turned a perfectly nice audience of fans into a mad, yelling mob.

And Friday Big Ben had a teammate that was outstanding in every phase of the game and shared stellar honors of the day, and that was Golightly, playing in the left half-back position. It was Golightly and Captain Eudy who passed, dashed and ripped off needed yardage. These two lads did a lion's share of the ball carrying and while his plays were not spectacular as were Eudy's, Golightly was responsible in a large measure for the victory.

Time and time again the Eudy-Golightly combination worked with clock-like precision in executing short passes that brought those precious first downs. Golightly raced around the ends, dashed through the line and tackled like a demon but he was not alone on that tackling business. The entire Andrews Ward line fought as though the life of each individual depended on winning that football game.

Mooney Scores Touchdown

Glenn, playing left end, Mooney at left tackle, and Hanks, right tackle did some fine work in the line. Mooney got a thrill that comes once in a life time to a lineman, who fights his all-important battle usually unsung, when he caught a punt that had been blocked by Golightly and romped five yards across the goal line hugging the ball like a bear would embrace a gallon of honey. Mooney gathered his fame after the final quarter was about half spent. Hollingsworth called a dandy game at quarter for Andrews Ward.

Slashing Ben registered the first score of the game in the second quarter after a series of runs by Golightly, Connelley, and Hollingsworth had placed the ball on the 7-yard line. An end run in a try for extra point was unsuccessful. The half ended with the record standing 6-0 for the Breezes. The teams fought on even terms again through the third quarter neither showing enough punch to score. In the fourth quarter Slashing Ben took a Plainview punt on his own 35-yard line, dashed up the north side of the grid and then with a lightning-like twist reversed the field and displaying fine head work charged through the dazed Plainview eleven for 35 yards before he was downed.

With a series of line plays and an occasional pass the Breezes worked the ball to the 9-yard line and then lost the ball on downs. It was at that point that Golightly broke through the line when Plainview attempted to punt, hit the ball and it went straight up for about 20 yards only to fall in Mooney's waiting arms who went into a huddle over the pigskin and then scored before anybody awoke sufficiently to tackle him.

After Slashing Ben had made his sensational run to plaster a decisive defeat on the invaders, Golightly raced around right end to add the extra point of the 19-0 score. Eudy ripped off 15 yards to place the ball deep in the Plainview territory just as the game ended.

End runs and passes were the ground gainers for the Breezes. A fake pass that resulted in an end-around play netted some nice gains. E. Martin, playing a wing position, stepped off 12 yards on the play at one time during the encounter.

A summary of the game shows the decided superiority of the scrapping Breezes over the heavy Plainview crew. Floydada registered nine first downs to five by the visitors; Andrews Ward attempted six passes, completed four, and had one intercepted, for a gain of 20 yards; P. J. H. attempted eight passes, completed three for 40 yards, and had two intercepted; the Breezes drew 25 yards in five penalties of five yards each, and P. J. H. only drew two for five yards each.

Score by quarters:

Floydada	0	6	0	13-19

Officials: Barksdale, Baylor, referee; Curry and Colville, headlinesman; Kendrick, field judge; Stovall and Baird, timekeepers. Time of quarters: 10 minutes. Toss at opening of game won by Captain Ben Eudy, Floydada, who defended west goal and received. Coaches: Troy Jones, Floydada; Robt. H. Gardner, Plainview.

Five members of the Floydada Hi-Y Club were guests of the Plainview organization at a fathers' and sons' banquet given Friday night of last week at the Hotel Hilton and sponsored by the Plainview Hi-Y Club. Those attending the affair from Floydada were W. E. Dooley, Ralph Hale, Sam Rutledge, Fred Fondy and Bill Grigsby.

A special program was given and the feature address of the evening was given by Dean J. M. Gordon of the College of Liberal Arts of Texas Tech. Some 250 men and boys were present, several boys from the Lubbock Club also being guests at the banquet.

The menu consisted of chicken soup, fried rabbit, fried chicken, potato patties, cream gravy, green beans, lettuce salad, toast, hot coffee, cake and ice cream.

Members of the Plainview club held a joint meeting with the club here Thursday night and supper was served by the girls in the home economics class of F. H. S. Seven boys were initiated into the local club; they were Waymon Pirley, Layton Dorrell, Claude Langford, Verner Norman, Arthur Stewart, Denzil Probasco, and Doyce Easterling.

The six carloads of Plainview boys were accompanied by Geo. W. McWhirter, sponsor, and J. T. Fielder.

The boys were cordially welcomed by the Floydada group and at 8 o'clock the president of the Floydada group, Ralph Hale, called the meeting to order. The devotional was read by Horace Miller of Plainview and this was followed by a prayer led by Barney Rushing of Plainview. A welcome address was given the visiting club by the president and Odus Stephens, sponsor of the Floydada Club. A clever address and poem was given by Floyd Bell of Floydada.

George McWhirter made a talk expressing appreciation for the warm reception given the visiting boys by the Floydada Club and in conclusion he introduced the boys from Plainview.

James Hatch, president of the Plainview Club, made an outstanding talk on "The Boys and the Hi-Y," which was greeted by applause. Glenn Flake, president of the club last year, who is now attending Wayland College, talked on "What the Hi-Y Means to Me Now." His talk also received a hearty applause.

C. D. Wofford, one of last year's members, addressed the meeting on "What I Have Received from the Hi-Y Conference in the Past." In his talk he reviewed the conferences at Childress and Amarillo and the training camps at Ceta Canyons.

Impromptu speeches were made by several of the boys, in which they told what they hoped to gain from the conference which will be held in Lubbock December 5, 6, 7 and 8. They also urged the members of the local club to attend. Some of the boys stated that they wanted to go to the conference because they had never attended a conference, others stated that they had, by attending conferences, been encouraged to live better and take the clean and pure things of life and that they would never miss another conference if at all possible to attend.

Jim Boswell made the outstanding talk along this line.

J. T. Fielder made a talk on the Lubbock conference and Reverend Claude Wingo, pastor of the First Christian Church of this city, gave a splendid talk on "Getting on the Team," centering his talk on the football team and on the team life. A. D. Cummings, principal of the Floydada high school, gave interesting talk on "Cooperative taking each letter of a word; letting that same letter represent something that a boy must do 'get on the team.'"

This closed the program and visitors put on the impressive Hi-Y ceremony which has won for the Plainview club much fame and popularity. The ceremony was given just before the initiation of nine boys. Don Ray and Lynn Vance of Plainview were initiated into Hi-Y club.

Mr. and Mrs. H. M. McDonald left last Friday morning for Ft. Worth and Dallas where they will spend some two weeks on business.

Miss Nona Wells and Miss Dora Sams of Lockney were Floydada visitors last Thursday.

PRESENTING THE NEW CHEVROLET SIX

Today the Chevrolet Motor Company presents the Bigger and Better Chevrolet Six, a new model of the six-cylinder car which has enjoyed such wide popularity.

In both the chassis and body of this new six-cylinder Chevrolet you will find expressed, as never before, Chevrolet's well-known policy of progress through constant improvement.

For—without departing from the basic features which have won the enthusiastic approval of over 2,000,000 buyers—Chevrolet has produced a six-cylinder car which represents an entirely new standard of quality, value and refinement in the low-price field.

Your first impression of the new Chevrolet will be one of striking fleetness, grace and beauty. The car is longer, lower and modernly smart. The radiator has been deepened and its appearance enhanced by a curving tie-bar and chrome-plated parabolic headlamps. The long hood lines sweep back unbroken to blend gracefully into the new Fisher bodies. And never was Fisher's fine craftsmanship more evident than in the bodies of the new Chevrolet Six!

Not only are the smart, graceful, new bodies roomier and more comfortable, but as you study them you will discover many gratifying new features and pleasing refinements—many examples of that painstaking attention to detail which is the basis of true quality.

Mechanically, too, the new Chevrolet Six is a better automobile. The wheelbase is longer. The frame is stronger. The steering is easier. The clutch is more durable. There is a smoother, quieter, easier shifting transmission. In fact, wherever finer materials and more advanced design could add to Chevrolet quality or increase Chevrolet's traditional economy of ownership—improvement has been made. See the new Chevrolet Six—and you will agree that here is the Great American Value!

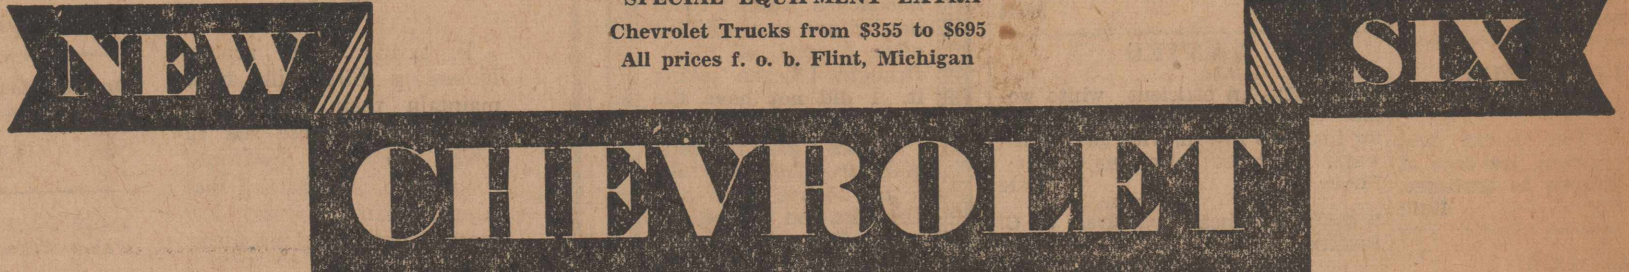

» » AT NEW LOW PRICES « «

Chevrolet has long been one of the lowest priced cars in the world. Yet due to the savings of volume production and increased manufacturing efficiency, the Bigger and Better Chevrolet is offered at new low prices. Come in today. See and drive the new Chevrolet Six. Learn the new economy of owning a modern, fine quality, six-cylinder automobile.

constipation

"I HAD a stubborn case of constipation after a very severe spell of grip," says Mr. John B. Hutchison, of Neosho, Mo. "When I would get constipated, I'd feel so sleepy, tired and worn-out.

"When one feels this way, work is much harder to do, especially farm work. I would have dizzy headaches when I could hardly see to work, but after I read of Black-Draught, I began taking it. I did not have the headache any more.

"When I have the sluggish, tired feeling, I take a few doses of Black-Draught, and it seems to carry off the poison and I feel just fine. I use Black-Draught at regular intervals. It is easy to take and I know it helps me."

This medicine is composed of pure botanical roots and herbs.

STRANGE CASE OF LUBBOCK MAN SPEAKS FOR CRAZY WATER

Thought To Be Hopeless Yet He Lived To Tell His Story

Three weeks ago today, I came to the Crazy Water Hotel on a stretcher from the city of Lubbock, Texas, with what the doctors called Typhoid Spine, and they told me that there was no medicine that would cure me. I started drinking Crazy Water and taking the baths, and on the 12th day after arriving, I took to the wheel chair and on the 17th day I started walking on crutches and can now walk without them, so I feel if Crazy Water will do that for me I cannot say enough for it.

serted that the common sense of American youth will prevent football from having a harmful effect on studies.

From Amarillo Daily News:
Russian Student Will Study Here
 Austin, Nov. 15.—Soloman Levit, student in the University of Moscow, will enter the University of Texas, December 1, as a research fellow in zoology. He will enter the Texas school under auspices of the Rockefeller Foundation.

From Fort Worth Star-Telegram:
Another National Shrine
 Monticello, the home of Jefferson, now belongs to the Nation. The final payment for the historic site was made recently.

When the acquisition of this great shrine was undertaken in 1922, Mount Vernon and Arlington were the only historic homes in Virginia that could be counted as public property. Now the list includes Mount Vernon, Arlington, Monticello, Stratford, the Moore farm where Cornwallis' articles of capitulation were agreed upon; Kenmore, the Nelson mansion at Yorktown, and the residence of George Wythe, with other homes almost as interesting at Williamsburg. All these are regularly accessible to the public, either through purchase, through gift, or through the creation of a social trust.

Scattered throughout Virginia are a number of houses architecturally interesting or important for their historic associations, but the Richmond News Leader is authority for the statement that only one shrine of first rank remains in private hands. That is Monticello, and there are prospects that it shortly will be given to the Nation by the family which owns it.

From the Fort Worth Star-Telegram:
 A discouraged golfer says that the movement for larger and brighter colors of golf balls is all wrong; what is needed is larger and more prominent holes.

JOKES
 I chew Wrigley's, too, said the sparrow as he swallowed another inch of worm.

Mr. Cummings: (In civics class) Winona, what do you think of lobbying?
 Winona: It's all right if you live at the hotel.

Carl: Great new invention, this, the police department is installing. They're going to make every policeman wear rubber boots from now on, while he's on duty.
 Bill: What in the world for?
 Carl: To keep them from waking each other up.

The joke maker's association had a feast. They exploited their humorous abilities, and all made merry, save one glum guest. At last, they insisted that this melancholy person should contribute to the entertainment. He consented, in response to much urging, to offer a conundrum:
 What is the difference between me and turkey?
 When none could guess the answer, the glum individual explained: I am alive. They stuff turkeys with chestnuts after they are dead.

CLUB REPORTS

Pep Squad
 All the members of the pep squad were present at the Lockney vs. Floydada game. They boosted the team and encouraged them all through the game. During the half, the pep squad gave a fine formation.

Monday, the night before the big game, there was a large pep rally in town. The pep squad had a big bonfire and burned the sign "Lockney." When the fire had burned out, the girls rode on the fire truck. They gave yells and sang songs.

Their soured wishes to thank the citizens of Floydada for their fine cooperation. There were about thirty cars following the fire truck and girls after the bonfire. We thank each and every one for their fine cooperation at our rallies.

11 Years Constipation Glycerine Mix Ends It

"For 11 years I tried to get rid of constipation," says Chas. E. Blair. "Then at last the simple mixture, Adlerika, made me regular."
 The simple mixture of glycerine, buckthorn bark, saline, etc. (Adlerika) acts on BOTH upper and lower bowel, relieving constipation in 2 hours! Brings out poisons you never thought were in your system. Let Adlerika give your stomach and bowels a REAL cleaning and see how good you feel! Floydada Drug Company. (M-2)

PLENTY OF COD LIVER OIL in MERIT EGG MASH

Here is a ration that contains all the necessary ingredients for steady, high egg production—and also plenty of cod-liver oil to aid the health and vitality of the hen, which in turn means more winter eggs.

MERIT EGG MASH is mixed to a formula, not to a price. It gives your flock, in most useable form, the 14% protein, 10% fat and 11% minerals every egg must contain—or there is no egg, and profits fade! Test the egg-making economy of MERIT EGG MASH with your own hens. You'll be astonished at the production increase!

To keep the three egg-making organs of the hen working full time, robust health is essential. The cod liver oil in MERIT EGG MASH is the answer.

"I'm A Producer And A Shareholder In The Swift Family"

• "You can't blame me if I take more than an ordinary interest in the affairs of Swift & Company. I'm interested in two ways. First—as a producer. Second—as one of 45,000 shareholders.
 "I'm glad to belong to this big family. And if you'd ask me to sum up why, I think I'd say—
 1—Swift & Company is one of the most efficient organizations in America. Only an exceptionally well run concern could profitably thrive on an average margin of less than 2 cents on every dollar of sales.
 2—As a producer I receive the going market price for the best butterfat, eggs and poultry I can deliver. Swift's nation-wide distribution, because of their 600 car routes and 400 branch houses, assures me of an ever ready market. I am not subject to local glutts or shortages.
 3—Swift & Company employs 58,000 people who receive just wages. These employes live in the communities where they work. Many of them are our own neighbors. They spend their money with our merchants, build their homes here, pay taxes like you and me. They contribute to the well being of this town.
 4—As one of 45,000 shareholders, I receive a return on my investment.
 "You can see that there are many benefits in having contact with Swift & Company. I'll keep on talking my butterfat, eggs and poultry to the nearest produce plant. The more I raise, the more I make. No wonder I'm glad to be in the Swift family."

We're publishing this week some themes that were written in the Low Seventh Grade English class. Some subjects were suggested and then each pupil selected the one which he liked best.

The Object of Football

By Vernon Dorsey
When a boy starts out for football he should be able to mix and mingle with different kinds of boys and know how to treat them all. In playing football it not only gives fun but it keeps boys in good shape for being useful. Another object of playing football is to be a good sport. Sometimes a boy on an opposing team will do some little thing which one doesn't like but he should just go on and be a good sport. A good way to be a good player is to use mental training, that is, to concentrate. When a boy catches the ball on the field he should have his mind thinking about what he's going to do with it, and when to do it. The next thing is to have obedience. A boy should obey all rules and regulations to be a football player. If he does not obey these rules his side may be set back some. The last thing and most important thing is to have self control. A boy should never get angry at the coach or any of the boys just because he doesn't have things to happen just as he wished for them to happen. Many boys get put out of games for not having self control.

Good Things To Read

By Mildred Houston
Reading, when done in the correct way, is very interesting and beneficial. Of course, too much reading is harmful. However, very few people find time to read too much, or even enough. For nature tales, go to Gene Stratton Porter. She was a lover of the wild and much may be learned from her books. Kathleen Norris writes in magazines and is considered an authority on several subjects. Her book "Mother" has been used as the basis of many poems. It is very interesting to know how it came to be written. Harold Bell Wright, the Californian, writes very pathetic and sweet stories. His stories are so human every one who reads them wants to read more and to meet him. Zane Gray can cram more pep in one story than any other writer of this age. They have the thrills which are missing in so many books. To begin at the bottom, the Junior Home Magazine is fine for little folks. The Child Life comes next in line and has many interesting stories for children up to eleven or twelve. The American Boy and the American Girls magazines are very exciting and have several subscribers over 60 years old. The Every girls and several other Camp

Fire magazines not only have fiction but good stories as well. The Hollands, Pictorial Review, Ladies Home Journal, and Womans Home Companion are enjoyed by every woman. The Saturday Evening Post, Farm and Ranch, Literary Digest, Times, American, and several others are enjoyed over the nightly cigar and not.

Care Of Text Books

By Nell Howard
The school books and all other books should be taken care of. The school books do not belong to us and for that reason we should take better care of them than they did. The books are issued to us to use not to tear up. We should take care of the books just the same as we would anything else. The books should be well taken care of, so that some child will enjoy using them just the same as you did when you had them. So many children think it is funny to tear the sheets out and write all over them. But they shouldn't do that. Let's be more careful with our books.

Why You And I Need an Education

By John W. Kimble
When you have an education people will give you a job more readily. You are also classed as a skilled workman. You can work in business firms and offices. You are trained for life's professions and you will not have to work as a common laborer and take lower wages. You can earn more as it has been proved. Once a boy named Frank quit school when he was fourteen. Now he is making one thousand dollars a year; he is twenty-two. A chum of his went on to school and left when he was eighteen. He earns two thousand dollars now. With an education when you speak you can be proud that you speak correctly. People judge speech and manners. One will have more friends because people like to converse with those who speak correctly. A man once said when he had grown up and had become an heir, "I would give a million dollars if I had stayed in school." One can read and have many other pleasures when he is educated. Above all reasons, however, that I have given is this; one can render more service to his country and to the world in general if he has an educated heart and mind.

Highway Safety

By Mary Jo Scott
Highway safety is more interesting to most people than any other subject. Some people think the accidents only happen to the other fellow; yet in 1929 more than thirteen hundred were killed and one million injured. One thing that causes more than half the accidents is carelessness. One great question is: Is your car in good condition; will your brakes hold. Is the driver of each car experienced? People should be careful when walking and in cars too. Small children should be kept out of the street. Think of your own life as well as others.

The Value of Good Books

By Virginia Stovall
Few people really appreciate the value of good books and little do we realize what a predicament the world would be in without books. Books are dependable and are staunch friends. They are the kind of friends that stay with one. There are different kinds and types of books. Some are used to amuse and entertain while others are educational and enlightening. Good books inspire us to lead a more noble and righteous life. Some of the dearest and best friends we will ever have are found in our books. None has received the full value of life without making some book friends. Even before one can read we have friends of fairy stories that mothers read to their small children. In lives of Lincoln, Wilson, and numerous other great men, books have been one of the chief influences of their lives. Books are always an important influence in our lives and that is why it is necessary to read the right kind of books.

Dougherty News

(By Mrs. W. D. Newell)

In behalf of the Floydada Cemetery Association, the secretary, Mrs. Nora Cox of Floydada wishes to thank the ones in this community who made donations to this association.

This has been a week of sandstorms. The climax (so far) was reached Sunday when the sand started blowing about 8 o'clock and lasted till after dark that night.

The sandstorms have their advantage as they are fine for toughening us up for the winter that is coming.

Locals and Personals

The "J. U. G." club girls of the Dougherty School entertained with a party Saturday night at the home of Miss Irene Kreis. A bon fire was made where venetian were roasted after which the crowd played various games until a late hour.

Sunday School Lesson

FOLLOWING CHRIST

The International Uniform Sunday School Lesson for Nov. 23. What Following Christ Means. Mark 10:17-27.

The story of the rich young man who came to Jesus seeking to know the true way of life is one of undiminished interest, that appeals alike both to rich and poor.

Why did the young man come to Jesus? Was he conscious of something lacking, in spite of all his sincerity in obeying the moral code? Or did he come with a certain spirit of pride anticipating that Jesus would commend him for his virtues rather than find in him an example of the man who with all his goodness lacked the one most fundamental and essential thing?

Whatever the young man's motives, he was manifestly surprised and startled at the response of Jesus. If he had come with pride in himself, he went away crestfallen and sad. If he had come with a consciousness that there was really something lacking and with an honest purpose to know more concerning the way of life, he was appalled at the immensity of the sacrifice that Jesus demanded.

Riches Hindered Him. His immediate reaction was that of slumping back into his environment of wealth. His great possessions possessed him even more than he possessed them. With the alluring invitation to join the Master's company and go about with him, he was confronted with this barrier of his wealth that turned him back from the supreme opportunity.

It would be interesting to speculate, if speculation were ever of much value, upon the character and destiny of the young man after this crucial episode in his life. If one were to judge by general experience, one could be almost certain that in this failure to make the crucial decision he lost much of the high morality that he had had before.

It is very seldom that a man comes up to the point of making a great decision, and when that decision has been made wrongly continues his life just upon the moral level where it has been before. Failure in a crisis creates a reaction of weakness and despondency. When a man has failed to make goodness the chief thing in his life, the standards of goodness inevitably are lowered in relation to all his outlook and action.

Conscience Is Powerful. The other alternative is that while the young man went away deeply sorrowful, unable to make that crucial decision in the moment of opportunity, the very depth of his sorrow indicated the persistency of the appeal of conscience.

He went away dissatisfied with husbands

... who are thoughtful enough to telephone better halves when out of town never land in divorce courts himself, conscious that he was not measuring up to his opportunity, and conscious, also, of his weakness. On this view the allurements of all that he had lost followed him through the years, and he came ultimately to the place where he achieved the decision and the alliance with the Christ that he had failed to make at the first great opportunity.

Other Things Intervene. Probably the one thing that it is necessary to point out is that the application of this lesson does not lie at all only in the realm of great wealth. It is not only great possessions that may become a barrier in the way of one's highest duty and opportunity. Smaller possessions, even prejudices and preferences, where we may have not possessions at all, may equally intervene between ourselves and the way of the highest Christian destiny.

Mrs. Clay Willis of Amarillo, has been visiting this week here with her mother, Mrs. Jessie Brown.

Head and Back Quit Hurting

"A few years ago, I found that I was very weak and nothing I ate seemed to give me any strength," writes Mrs. R. B. Douglas, 704 South Congress St., Jackson, Miss.

"I suffered intense pain in my head and back. At times I would have to hold to something to steady myself, so as to do my little work. I was worried about my condition.

"My mother told me that I should take Cardui. After taking two bottles, I felt stronger, but I kept on taking it until my head and back quit hurting. I took about six bottles in all, and have never quit praising Cardui."

General Convention of Baptists in Amarillo

Spirit of Unity and Fellowship Evident in All Sessions of Body.

(By Dick O'Brien)
For the first time in its 49 years of existence the General Convention of Texas Baptists was held above the Cap-Rock. Last week more than 1900 messengers, and hundreds of visitors, from all parts of Texas, and the South convened in Amarillo. In all more than 4000 registered in the hotels and private homes of Amarillo. This approaches the record attendance of the convention even when it meets nearer the center of the state. Three hundred more messengers registered at Amarillo than were present at Beaumont a year ago more than 20 attended from Floydada.

The program of the convention proper was preceded by a meeting of pastors and laymen from over the state in an inspirational session, and by a meeting of the state W. M. U. (Women's Missionary Union).

The convention opened on Wednesday morning with welcome address by Yates of Amarillo First Church, and response by R. E. Day of Big Spring. Dr. L. R. Scarborough, of Southwestern Seminary, was re-elected president by acclamation. The annual sermon was preached by Dr. Marshall Craig, pastor of Gaston Avenue Church Dallas. The organization, in fact the whole convention program, was practically without a dissenting voice or vote. The confusion and squabbling which has characterized the sessions for the past few years was not repeated in Amarillo. The spirit of unanimity and fellowship was everywhere manifest. It could be seen in the attitude of the messengers toward each other in the hotel lobbies, the convention book room, and other places where visitors spend their time between sessions. It was seen in the discussions and reports from the platform. It was manifest in the committee rooms, and in the voting of the messengers. This convention will doubtless go down in the history of Texas Baptists as the greatest from every viewpoint held in Texas for the past two decades. Texas Baptists are headed forward and upward. Not a single cent of debt was contracted by a denominational institution in the state last year, and more than $160,000 was paid on old debts. Our slogan is, "pay out and stay out."

It was the consensus of opinion from all quarters that Amarillo was the finest host city visited by Texas Baptists since the El Paso convention in 1921. Every church, civic organization, the Chamber of Commerce, the newspapers, the city officials, individual citizens, everybody in Amarillo did their best to make the messengers happy and comfortable, and they succeeded to a remarkable degree. The convention meets next year on November 11-12-13 at Waco, and Dr. Millard Jenkins of Abilene is to preach the sermon.

LORENZO MAN EXPRESSES DRESSED TURKEYS TO CHI
One of the heaviest individual shipments of turkeys made from this section to the central markets during the Thanksgiving holiday shipping season was that of D. O. Fox, a Lorenzo farmer, who expressed some 3,000 pounds of dressed turkeys from Floydada Monday afternoon of this week.

Mr. Fox received delivered price of 36 cents per pound for his dressed fowls, all of number one grade. Several other farmers have also taken their chances on direct shipments during the Thanksgiving rush.

VISITS HERE FROM OLD MEXICO WITH RELATIVES

Mrs. Dickason is the wife of a practicing physician in Old Mexico, their residence being some fifty miles northwest of Torreon, capitol of the State of Durango.

BREAKS COLLAR BONE
The three-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. B. C. Odam of Fairview, sustained a broken collar bone Tuesday morning of this week when she fell off of a bed. The child was ill and the accident occurred when the mother left it for a minute to go after the mail when the postman arrived.

And Now We're Paying
In 1915 the proposal to add 1,000 officers and 25,000 men to the regular army was voted down in Congress because it might cost $27,000,000 a year. Two years later that amount was voted daily to the army bill—General Pershing in The Country Home.

Local Session Held
In a meeting here Friday prior to the Lubbock session business men of Spur met with local citizens in an effort to reach an agreement on the situation and withdraw protests "in order to insure harmony and good will between the two towns." Nothing definite could be decided and the matter was taken in its entirety before the executive committee in Lubbock.

Those present at the meeting here Friday held in the Chamber of Commerce office were: Clifford B. Jones, manager of S. M. Swinson & Sons; Geo. S. Link, president of the Bryant-Link Co.; W. B. Lee, president of the Spur National Bank, and Mr. Godfrey all of Spur; Frank C. Wester, T. S. Stevenson, Frank Harmon, Superintendent W. E. Patty, S. W. Ross, Jas. K. Green, J. G. Martin, B. P. Woody, E. C. Nelson, Luther Fry and H. E. Cannaday of this city.

The committee meeting at Lubbock was one of the most hectic of several sessions, if not of all time, the executive committee and other representatives of schools throughout the section parleyed through seven hours of business, protests, and debates. The discussions, almost resulting in violence at times, had to do with protests filed by three schools, none of which schools were declared champions.

Spur Wins Protest Fight
Featuring the program was a long drawn out presentation of testimony and evidence by supporters of the Floydada and Spur High schools. Floydada had instigated charges against Spur and set about to prove that five of Spur's outstanding players were ineligible. With Superintendent Patty of the Floydada schools pushing the charges and Sams Hall, superintendent of Spur schools seeking to show sufficient evidence to the contrary, more than half the time was taken up with the protest. In executive and private session, the committee, composed of representatives from Ralls, Lockney, and Lamesa for the special protest, decided in favor of Spur, ruling that four of the players were eligible, as proven by the facts submitted by Hall, and that one player was ineligible, but since he had not participated in any game, Spur lost nothing by the decision.

Three Other Protests Filed
Following this "trial", for which A. B. Sanders, Ralls, chairman of the executive committee, served as judge and the three committeemen as a jury, a representative from Spring Lake entered a protest against a player on the Littlefield team, charging the player with entering a game Friday, which won the championship of the subdivision, twice in the same half, going in the second time under an assumed name. The committee acted in favor of the Littlefield team, charging that the official of the game should have found the mistake and exacted the necessary penalty while the game was being played. The committee suggested that Littlefield's coach and the official be "severely criticized and reprimanded" for the act.

Baker Students Visit Hesperian To See Printing

To see "what makes the wheels go round" and to study the process of manufacturing a weekly newspaper, pupils of the Baker school accompanied by their principal, J. W. Chapman, and teacher, Roy Owen, made an inspection trip through The Hesperian plant Thursday afternoon of last week.

The students were shown the process of making a newspaper from the writing of the copy to the subsequent type setting, printing, folding and mailing. They saw the linotype machines, the press and the folder in action as well as other detailed work connected with publication.

All displayed a pronounced interest in every word of explanation that was given, studied the machines, and had a good time in general, as well as a profitable visit.

Those in the party on the inspection tour to learn interesting facts about newspaper publishing were the following:

Garth Powell, Cecil Hart, Florence Williams, Grace Shelton, Effie Mae Shelton, Ray Chapman, Theima Colston, G. L. Fawver, Jr., Annie Jewell Fawver, J. C. Powell, Jewell Williams, Myrl Colston, Annie Graves, J. A. Colston, Irene Colston, Arnold Williams, Marie Finley, Lillian Graves, Opal Colston, Bernice Colston, Harold Chapman, Dick Graves, Arthur Williams, Moody Williams, Raymond Colston, Allen Brady, Eugene Brady, Lawrence Brady, A. J. Roberts, Avon Powell and Kenneth Chapman.

The students were accompanied by Mrs. N. Williams, Mrs. Mattie Minter, Roy Owen, and J. W. Chapman.

The educational tour included the cotton compress, the county jail, and the Q. A. & P. train.

GLIDERS SOAR BY SLIDING DOWN AN UPFLOWING WIND

Tobogganing on air is the way a meteorologist of the United States Department of Agriculture describes the art and sport of soaring in a glider. "Soaring," says W. J. Humphreys, of the Weather Bureau, "is tobogganing down an upflowing wind just as surf riding is tobogganing down the front and rising side of a traveling wave. Supporting breezes are above the crest and on the windward side of every hill and mountain, beneath the forward portion of the cumulus cloud, and even over the waves of the ocean, as the matches albatross unwittingly reveals. But, except in the case of the cumulus cloud, these supporting currents are rather shallow and dependent entirely on the direction and intensity of the surface winds."

Doctor Humphreys points out that a knowledge of the air and its ways is helpful and useful to any aerial pilot, but in soaring it is absolutely essential. Successful operators of gliders who are able to stay aloft for hours must know where to hunt for ascending currents of air and to glide from one lifting current to another without losing too much altitude in the change.

Proper feeding, watering, and rest with avoidance of overexertion, excitement, and exposure are measures recommended by the U. S. Bureau of Animal Industry for minimizing the danger of animals contracting hemorrhagic septicemia during shipment. This disease also known as shipping fever, is one of the few livestock diseases that is distributed over the United States from coast to coast and from the extreme northern borders to the Gulf of Mexico.

Edge-grained boards hold paint far better than flat-grained boards, says the Forest Service of the U. S. Department of Agriculture. This is because the bands of summer wood in the edge-grained boards are cut in such a manner that they are as narrow as possible. Among flat-grained boards, those surfaced and painted on the bark side (the side nearer the bark of the log) are more satisfactory to paint than those turned pith side out because there is less danger of the grain "shelling out."
