

Cold Wave Sets Records Across Much Of Nation

A-J News Services
Record cold spread over nearly all of the nation east of the Rockies today, stalling thousands of cars and causing critical power shortages in some regions.

Citrus growers fretted for their oranges in northern Florida, where the thermometer dipped below freezing. More than 8,000 New Yorkers complained about cold apartments as arctic air sent temperatures diving. Car batteries died and fuel lines froze.

"We are absolutely swamped with road service calls," said Steve Harwell of the Virginia Automobile Association in Richmond, where the temperature this morning was a record 6 degrees.

A spokesman for AAA in western Connecticut said they got 3,500 "can't start" calls Saturday and Sunday and 500 between 6 a.m. and 8 a.m. today.

In contrast, temperatures remained unseasonably mild in the Southwest, although clouds moved into West Texas and brought at least a temporary end to a series of sunny, springlike days.

Forecasters said the Lubbock area would enjoy readings in the mid 50s today and Tuesday, with a low tonight near 40. Partly cloudy skies are forecast for the region Tuesday.

The National Weather Service said the cold weather was not quite as severe as Sunday morning, when readings were as much as 40 degrees below zero, but was more extensive.

Readings of below zero were recorded from the upper Mississippi Valley, through the Great Lakes region and the Ohio Valley into the Northeast.

Record low temperatures for the date were set in numerous cities, including subzero marks in Beckley, W.Va., -10; Caribou, Maine, -20; Detroit, -8; Hartford, Conn., -10; Portland, Maine, -13; and Worcester, Pa., -12.

In North Carolina, where temperatures dipped below 10 degrees in most inland areas, Duke Power Co. warned of possible rotating blackouts unless customers voluntarily cut back power consumption.

"This is an emergency," said Alex Coffin, a spokesman for Duke Power. "We're not crying wolf."

Temperatures fell as far as 42 degrees below zero Sunday — in Old Forge, N.Y., in the Adirondack Mountains — and this morning it was 4 below zero in Boston, 1 below in Pittsburgh and just 11 above in Raleigh, N.C.

At least one death, that of an unidentified man found on a Philadelphia street, was attributed to the deep freeze.

In Cleveland, about 270 patients were evacuated from a hospital when a boiler blew up, knocking out the heat while the temperature outside dove below zero.

"We just totally destroyed the record," said National Weather Service meteorologist Dean Gulezian of the conditions in Houlton, Maine, where the mercury slid to 41 below Sunday.

The icy storm system swept into the Northeast Saturday from Canada, spreading snow squalls from the Great Lakes and Upper Ohio Valley into west-

Congress Back In Session

WASHINGTON (AP) — A new Congress with more Republicans and more conservatives opened shop today with plans to give Ronald Reagan a head start on installing his government once he assumes the presidency.

Senate committees scheduled a week of hearings on the president-elect's Cabinet nominations in hopes the Senate can vote on confirmation on Inauguration Day, Jan. 20.

Until then, Congress has no legislating to do.

The Senate, controlled by Republicans for the first time since 1955, was gavelled into session by Vice President Walter F. Mondale and immediately began swearing in the 34 new and holdover members who were elected last Nov. 4.

The 34 walked down the aisle in small groups, each person escorted by the other senator from his or her state. Each swore to "faithfully discharge" the duties of the office.

The House was not so quick, facing a long quorum call before getting down to its business. That agenda included the formal election of a speaker — with Democrat Thomas P. O'Neill of Massachusetts favored to win a new term. The speaker then was scheduled to take the oath of office himself before giving it to his colleagues.

Once those formalities were out of the way, the House was expected to face its first squabble of the year. Republicans said they would conduct an early test of Democratic resolve by trying to introduce a rules change that would tie government spending to a percentage of the Gross National Product, the total value of goods and services in the economy.

There was no assurance, however, that they would be able to conduct that test because they had to defeat rules adopted by House Democrats before they could offer their amendment and Democrats still retain control of the House.

Republican leaders said government spending in fiscal year 1980 was expected to be about 23 percent of the GNP and said it could be as high as 24 percent in 1981. Their proposal would state that the House could consider no spending in fiscal 1982 that was more than 22.5 percent of the GNP. The percentage would drop to 22 percent in fiscal 1983 and to 21 percent in fiscal 1984.

Both the House and Senate will meet in joint session Tuesday to count the votes cast by presidential electors and then adjourn until Jan. 19.

The confirmation hearings may give Reagan his first taste of battling with Capitol Hill.

Considerable controversy surrounds the selections of retired Gen. Alexander M. Haig Jr. for secretary of state and of Colorado lawyer James G. Watt for interior secretary.

Reagan Bolstering Ties With Mexico

A-J News Services
EL PASO — President-elect Ronald Reagan's visit to Mexico today, a rare pre-inaugural journey across the U.S. border, is intended to be long on symbolism of friendship and short on specifics of discord between the two countries.

The meeting marked a return to the "good neighbor" policy declared by Franklin D. Roosevelt in the 1930s, which has fallen victim to economic and diplomatic hassles in recent years.

Reagan arrived here just before noon and was greeted with fanfare and mariachi music.

The main purpose, said Reagan aide Edwin Meese III, is to portray the importance the new administration attaches to U.S.-Mexican ties after four years of less-than-smooth relations.

Meese said there was no specific topic for Reagan's meeting with Mexican President Jose Lopez Portillo at the Museum of Art and History in Ciudad Juarez, on the U.S.-Mexican border near El Paso.

After the meetings, Reagan is flying to Washington for his first meeting with his Cabinet nominees. He returns to Los Angeles on Thursday.

Reagan, whose eight years as governor of California placed him in a unique position to keep tabs on the U.S. relationship with Mexico, said Friday he was going to Ciudad Juarez "to express our desire for a complete friendship."

Pre-inaugural foreign travel by a president-elect is highly unusual, and Meese said Reagan's trip indicates his view that Mexico is "a true partner."

"He's not going down there with a list of demands or a list of proposals, but rather, to talk over on a mutual basis with the president of Mexico, Lopez Portillo, how we can best carry on our relationships in an effective way as partners," Meese said.

Nevertheless, there is no shortage of issues on which Reagan and Lopez Portillo could focus:

—Mexico, although concerned about outside interference in El Salvador, to its south, has been sympathetic to the Marxist-led opposition there. Reagan's transition team has spoken harshly about the left-wing guerrillas and about the Carter administration's policies in El Salvador. Seven Americans have been killed in El Salvador in the last month, including two agricultural advisers shot in a San Salvador hotel restaurant Saturday night.

—Mexico is supplying the United States with about 700,000 barrels of oil a day — 80 percent of the export of the nationalized Mexican oil industry. Although the product is sold at world market prices, there is sensitivity in Mexico that the United States is taking advantage of its southern neighbor.

—With the great disparity in Mexican and U.S. personal incomes — it is the greatest between any two neighboring nations, according to Robert Krueger, the chief State Department official concerned directly with U.S.-Mexican relations — the flow of immigrants entering the United States illegally from Mexico has not been stopped. Estimates south of the border place the number of Mexicans living illegally in the United States at 480,000 to 1.2 million. U.S. estimates are much higher.

—One week ago today, Mexico abrogated all agreements allowing U.S. commercial fishermen to operate in Mexican waters.

Homebuyers Await Bond Funds

By SYLVIA TEAGUE
Avalanche-Journal Staff
Proceeds from last week's sale of nearly $43 million in tax exempt mortgage bonds are expected to become available to prospective homebuyers as early as Wednesday.

M.B. Smith, president of the Housing Finance Corporation which marketed the bonds, said the funds will become available as single-family home loans when a public notice is published Wednesday or Thursday.

However, specific details of how the loan transactions will be handled will not be announced until Tuesday or Wednesday — apparently for fear of a premature rush on participating lending institutions by borrowers eager for "bargain" loan rates.

The loans, made at below-market interest rates, are made on a first-come, first-served basis. In other cities, loan-seekers have camped outside financial institutions to increase their chances of getting some of the bond money.

Smith said he would meet with representatives of the 12 participating lending institutions this morning to discuss some changes in the loan guidelines and that the corporation board will meet this afternoon to complete lending details.

However, Smith said both meetings will be private.

"We don't want the information out before we're ready," he said. "We don't want people jumping the gun."

"It's strictly on a first-come, first-served basis, so we need to let people know the money is available at the same time," Smith said.

"If they knew what was going on, they might try to get ahead of themselves."

The non-profit corporation, created by the City Council a year ago, sold bonds worth $42,845,000 Wednesday afternoon to underwriters of the bond issue.

City officials had said the sale had to be consummated Wednesday because federal regulations which became effective Thursday in effect prevent future sales.

Loans made with the bond funds will be distributed among 12 participating lenders who will make mortgage loans at between 11 and 11 1/2 percent interest. The maximum loan amount will be $80,000, with a maximum income limit of $40,000.

Conventional loans currently are going at about 15 percent.

Though the City Council created the Housing Finance Corporation, the mortgage bonds create no liability for the city because they are paid off by those receiving the loans.

Persian Gulf War Taking Heavy Toll

NICOSIA, Cyprus (AP) — Iran and Iraq claim to have wiped out about half of each others' arsenals, killed or wounded thousands of troops and crippled their foes' oil industries in the first 100 days of the Persian Gulf war.

As the war entered its 16th week, both sides reported more fighting in the Iranian oil province of Khuzistan, and Iranian President Abolhassan Bani-Sadr came under increased pressure from Iran's Moslem hard-liners to launch a new counter-offensive against Iraq, a sign of growing domestic criticism of his handling of the war.

But Prime Minister Mohammad Ali Rajai, in an apparent effort to ease tense relations with his chief political rival, told a rally in Tehran today to heed the words of Bani-Sadr and forge a united front in the war with Iraq.

"Listen to the words of your brother, the president," Rajai said in his speech, portions of which were carried on a Tehran Radio broadcast.

Rajai, allied with the hard-line Islamic clergy who have been in conflict with followers of the more moderate Bani-Sadr, did not refer to the president by name, but repeatedly called for Iranians to put aside domestic differences and heed the words of Bani-Sadr, the government and revolutionary leader Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini.

Bani-Sadr declared today that Iran had launched a counter-offensive against Iraq's invading forces and claimed the first stage of the attack was an "outstanding victory," Tehran Radio reported.

In a telegram to revolutionary leader Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini, Bani-Sadr said: "At 10 a.m. today, with myself and the imam of Ahwaz present at the front, the triumphant forces of the Islamic Republic began their counter-offensive and accomplished the first stage with an outstanding victory," the Tehran broadcast reported.

The Tehran claim did not pinpoint the area of the reported attack, but since Ahwaz was mentioned it apparently referred to an area in the center of the front in Iran's oil-rich Khuzistan province.

Iraqi military communiques did not mention any major offensive, but did report that Iraqi troops backed by tanks and helicopter gunships blunted a "surprise" enemy assault at the Gilan Gharb region, killing 47 Iranian paratroopers in 24 hours of combat. Gilan Gharb is about 300 miles north of Ahwaz.

Tehran Radio reported that an Iranian ground and air offensive had killed about 300 Iraqis and captured more than 700. The reported quoted the radio's Ahwaz correspondent, but did not give details.

The reported Iranian offensive came as both sides claimed to have destroyed about half of each others' arsenals, killed or wounded thousands of troops and crippled their foes' oil industries in the first 100 days of the Persian Gulf war.

Meanwhile, the Iranian government says it is studying President Carter's final offer for the release of the U.S. hostages, has transferred the three Americans held at the Foreign Ministry to a new location and has taken full control of the other 49 captives from the Islamic militants who seized them 14 months ago.

Rajai's spokesman, Ahmad Azizi, told The Associated Press Sunday that the "U.S. response is being studied" and Iran's reply would be "announced later."

Azizi said U.S. Charge d'Affaires Bruce Laingen, political officer Victor Tomseth and security man Michael Howland had been moved from the Foreign Ministry in Tehran to "a more appropriate location."

Masten Case Still Under Gag Order

By MARC FLAKE
Avalanche-Journal Staff

LITTLEFIELD — Despite an out-of-court settlement of the will of multimillionaire rancher F.O. Masten, District Judge Pat Boone today kept a gag order clamped on the terms of the arrangement.

During a hearing this morning in 154th District Court, George Gilkerson of Lubbock, the attorney heading legal representation for the Masten relatives contesting the will, told Boone that a settlement had been reached out-of-court with attorneys representing Abilene Christian University, the principal beneficiary of Masten's handwritten testament.

Jerome Kirby of Littlefield, speaking for ACU, told Boone he had no objections to the settlement but that additional time would be needed before filing the judgment in order to work out some "tax problems."

Gilkerson told the judge the agreement had been approved by both sides on Jan. 2. Attorney General Mark White approved the agreement through an assistant on Jan. 3, he said.

Boone asked both parties whether they had any objection if he continued the gag order issued on Oct. 16, 1980.

Gilkerson said he didn't know how much prior restraint could be used by the court, but that attorneys for both sides had agreed not to disclose the details of the settlement until after it had been filed in public records.

Kirby said he didn't know whether the gag order could be continued since a settlement had been reached.

Boone had initiated the order to prevent potential jurors from being prejudiced in the case, which might have caused a change of venue and an unnecessary delay in the trial.

However, the 163-member jury panel has been disbanded by the court and will

WANTS JOB ABOLISHED
Official Slices Own Salary

BURRILLVILLE, R.I. (UPI) — People who think it's difficult getting money from the government may find solace in the tale of John Nolan Jr. He found it isn't easy to refuse government money.

It took Nolan more than one month of persistence to fulfill the campaign promise that won him the office of town welfare director in November. He wanted to give back 90 percent of his pay.

Nolan argued the job of welfare director in this rural town of 13,000 should be part-time, and promised to accept only $1,000 of the $10,000 annual salary from the local treasury.

But things weren't so easy for the gray-haired retired steamfitter after he was sworn in Nov. 11.

Shortly after he took office, Nolan was handed his first biweekly paycheck of $415. He refused it, as he did the two December checks made out in his name.

Town Treasurer Carlton F. Brown, a Republican, claimed Democrat Nolan was duty bound to accept the checks because his salary was mandated by the traditional form of local government in New England — the town meeting.

Nolan, 65, argued that if he accepted and cashed the checks he would have to pay income taxes on the money, and the earnings would jeopardize his Social Security benefits.

He backed up his claim that it was a part-time job with hard statistics. Nolan said his first month on the job included two visits per week to the office of two hours each and a total of two telephone calls for assistance.

"I knew that the welfare director's job wasn't what it was cracked up to be," Nolan said. "I knew all along the local director was duplicating the work the two state social workers were doing."

Welfare payments became a state function a decade ago, so many Rhode Island communities trimmed their welfare offices. But Nolan's predecessor, Republican Phyllis Brissette, kept it a full-time post and remained active.

Last Friday, after studying an opinion from the town solicitor, the Town Council unanimously approved Nolan's request that it withhold $9,000 of his annual salary.

His fight isn't over, however. It may still cost him his job.

"Other than signing the payroll each week for the General Public Assistance clients to get their checks, I don't have anything else to do," Nolan said.

"I personally think the job should be eliminated."

Suspect Charged In Yorkshire Ripper Murders

LEEDS, England (AP) — As a crowd howled and screamed, a 35-year-old truck driver was charged in court today with the murder of one of the 13 women allegedly slain over the past five years by the so-called Yorkshire Ripper.

Peter William Sutcliffe was charged with the murder last Nov. 17 of 20-year-old college student Jacqueline Hill. He was ordered held without bail until Jan. 14.

Police previously described Miss Hill as the 13th and latest victim in a reign of terror in northern England's Yorkshire and Lancashire counties.

A crowd of more than 1,000 people besieged the magistrates' court in the town hall of Dewsbury, a mill town near Leeds where the Ripper killed five women.

The crowd screamed abuse as Sutcliffe, a married man from nearby Bradford, was brought to the court under heavy police escort.

Police earlier indicated Sutcliffe was the Ripper but that their questioning of him "had not developed as quickly as we had anticipated."

Liaison officer Supt. Frank Morrill told reporters earlier that Sutcliffe's "facial features will form part of the prosecution's case." Police have said a bite mark on the body of one of the Ripper's victims indicated the murderer had a gap in his front teeth.

Sutcliffe's employers at the Bradford trucking firm, Clark Holdings Ltd., said police had questioned Sutcliffe "two or three times" in 1977.

Company chairman Tom Clark described him as a "funny chap, very sensitive and if I had to say something sharp to him would break into tears."

Managing director William Clark said, "When police came to the firm, Peter showed no emotion and was quite cool."

Sunday, West Yorkshire's Chief Constable Donald Gregory said he and his men were "absolutely delighted, totally delighted with the developments at this stage." The police also said they were "scaling down" the Ripper investigation, the biggest manhunt in British history.

A police spokesman said Sutcliffe's wife, Sonia, was being questioned, and the police were guarding their four-bedroom home in Bradford, a West Yorkshire city where three of the Ripper's victims died.

Neighbors said Sutcliffe was a quiet, handsome man who they believed worked as a long-distance truck driver. They said his brunette wife taught art part-time, and they had no children.

"He was a very, very quiet man who went about his business," said one neighbor, David Bowman. "I just said, 'Hello, Peter,' now and again when I saw him. He was very quiet, you could say mysterious."

"He often worked late into the night in his garage on his car and sometimes a friend came to help him."

"He kept himself to himself but was not distant. He and his wife didn't appear lovey-dovey but there was no impression of any strain between them."

They kept their home "beautifully," one neighbor said.

Police Sgt. Robert Ring and Constable Robert Hydes told a news conference Sunday they arrested the man late Friday night in the red light district of Sheffield, a Yorkshire town close to the six cities in which the Ripper killed. Although he never killed in Sheffield, many of his victims were prostitutes.

The two police officers said that during a routine check they found suspicious license plates on a parked Rover automobile. They said after a computer check of the car's registration, they arrested the driver on suspicion of theft of the plates.

"It was just a spot check on a car parked in a certain area where prostitutes take clients," said Ring.

Gregory said the man did not resist arrest. He said a woman with him at the time "is helping with inquiries, but has not been arrested." He did not identify the woman.

Newspaper reports said the police found a hammer, one of the weapons used by the Ripper, in the man's car.

The hunt for the Yorkshire Ripper has cost nearly $10 million since his first killing, of prostitute Wilma McCann in Leeds on Oct. 30, 1975.

Local Handwriting Expert Involved In Murder Case

By MARY ALICE ROBBINS
Avalanche-Journal Staff

The apparent climax of British police officials' five-year search for the Yorkshire Ripper is of particular interest to one Lubbock resident, who has closely followed the case for more than a year.

Local handwriting analyst Jack O'Donnell is one of about 10 handwriting experts from around the world who have been working with the West Yorkshire Police Department in an attempt to identify the modern-day Ripper believed responsible for the slaying deaths of 13 women.

O'Donnell said he had talked with detectives in Leeds, England, today and "they are positively sure they've nailed the man."

However, O'Donnell added, police officials declined to release additional information about the murder suspect until after his appearance in court today.

O'Donnell first became interested in the Ripper case in 1979, when he saw a story about the sensational killings on a network report. A sample of the killer's handwriting flashed briefly on the television screen, immediately capturing O'Donnell's interest.

The Lubbock man has studied the science of graphoanalysis since the 1960s. His chief interest in the science has dealt with personality assessment.

After seeing the Ripper's handwriting on television, O'Donnell contacted Scotland Yard about assisting with the case and was referred to the local police, who have been in charge of the investigation.

O'Donnell told police officials that his brief glimpse of the killer's handwriting indicated to him that the man was suicidal. Several weeks after O'Donnell called, police received a tape from the Ripper, threatening to kill himself if authorities got too close.

After receiving that tape, which backed up O'Donnell's suicide theory, British police began corresponding with the local handwriting expert and sent him copies of the Ripper's letters for analysis.

"I'm real curious to see if my personality analysis fits," O'Donnell told The Avalanche-Journal today.

He noted that some of his early analysis appears to fit the description of Peter A. Sutcliffe, the man police reportedly are holding in Leeds.

For example, O'Donnell had estimated the ripper's age at 32. The suspect in custody is reportedly in his 30s, O'Donnell said.

Police also indicated that the suspect is about 5-foot-10—the same height that the handwriting expert had guessed.

According to O'Donnell, his assessment of the killer's handwriting indicates the man is extremely artistic and also has an interest in music.

The man's handwriting also indicated to O'Donnell that the killer is probably on drugs or alcohol and possibly is suffering from cancer or some other terminal illness.

Until police officials release additional information on the suspected killer, O'Donnell said he will not know how much of his assessment was correct.

Salvadoran Government Links Rightists To Americans' Deaths

SAN SALVADOR, El Salvador (AP) — El Salvador's government says the killers of two American lawyers and the head of its land-redistribution program may have been extreme rightists, but police say they have no leads to the gunmen.

Jose Napoleon Duarte, president of the U.S.-backed civilian-military junta, promised "an exhaustive investigation" into the killings of Mark David Pearlman, 36, of Seattle, Wash., Michael Peter Hammer, 44, of Potomac, Md., and the Salvadoran president of the Agrarian Transformation Institute, Jose Rodolfo Viera, 40.

Their deaths raised to seven the number of Americans killed in the past month of political warfare between the extreme right and extreme left that took more than 9,000 lives in El Salvador last year.

The three men were drinking coffee at the Sheraton Hotel Saturday night when two men walked up to their table, pulled out pistols and shot them.

The gunmen escaped, and there have been no admissions of responsibility for the shootings.

In Washington, the State Department expressed grief at the deaths of the three, "whose lives were dedicated to the building of a more just and equitable society in El Salvador."

Duarte's government said it "laments and energetically condemns ... the vile murders."

"Those who benefit most by these killings are leftist groups," the government said in a communique. But it added that the killings may have stemmed from "the irrational ideas of extreme rightists," an apparent reference to right-wing opposition to the government's land-reform program on which the three victims had been working.

Rodolfo Viera escaped an assassination attempt eight months ago that was also blamed on rightists.

Informed sources said Pearlman had been working in San Salvador for the past seven months as an adviser to the Agrarian Institute and Hammer arrived Saturday for a brief visit. A U.S. Embassy spokesman said both worked for the American Institute for Free Labor Development, an international branch of the AFL-CIO that has been operating in El Salvador on and off since 1966.

Sources said Pearlman helped draft and administer the land reform laws announced by the junta early last year. A source quoted Pearlman as saying the land reform effort was intended "to take the wind out of the left's sails."

Leftists fighting a guerrilla war to replace the junta with a Marxist regime claim the government's land reform plan doesn't go far enough. But an estimated 80 percent of the 9,000 political killings last year were blamed on right-wingers opposed to any reforms reducing the economic and political power of the small conservative oligarchy that controlled El Salvador for years.

Four American women missionaries, three Roman Catholic nuns and a lay social worker, were shot to death outside San Salvador on Dec. 2. Their killers have not been caught, but it is generally assumed they were rightists who have made reform-minded Roman Catholic officials one of their main targets.

Thomas Bracken, described by officials here as an American mercenary, was shot to death by unidentified gunmen on Dec. 17.

Official Announces First Afghan Elections

NEW DELHI, India (UPI) — An Afghan government official said in an interview published today her nation will hold its first parliamentary elections, but a former Kabul official said the winners would be only "puppets and yes-men."

Afghan Education Minister Anahita Ratebzad told the pro-Soviet newspaper The Patriot the government in the Afghan capital of Kabul would set up a committee to prepare for a "National Fatherland Front."

"After that, we will have elections in all provinces to the Loya Jirga," the Afghan parliament, Miss Ratebzad said.

But a former Afghan official in New Delhi said "whoever is brought into the Loya Jirga by the so-called elections will just be (President Babrak) Karmal's puppets and yes-men."

The Karmal government was installed by Moscow following the Soviet invasion of Afghanistan a year ago and the former official said "There is no possibility of their overruling any Russian decisions made for the Afghan government."

Miss Ratebzad arrived unannounced Dec. 29 in New Delhi for an international women's conference.

"We have broken the backbone of reactionary forces inside the country," she said.

Miss Ratebzad repeated the official Kabul position that if the United Nations could guarantee there would be no aggression against Afghanistan, "we would ask the limited contingents of Soviet troops to leave the country."

Western military experts estimate there are about 85,000 Soviet troops in Afghanistan.

Polish Army Vows To Defend Socialism

WARSAW, Poland (UPI) — The Communist Party newspaper Trybuna Ludu said today army officers and soldiers have pledged in a series of meetings to defend socialism and Poland's sovereignty.

The newspaper also said the military included some of the Communist Party's most tested members.

"The army is ready to defend the highest values such as state independence, inviolability of frontiers and a socialist political structure," the paper said.

"It has been declared that the army will guard these values."

Trybuna Ludu said the pledges were made at a series of meetings of officers and ordinary soldiers.

The paper said participants in the discussions expressed satisfaction with the solutions to Poland's unrest by political means — a reference to the decision by authorities to refrain from using military force to put down the summer strikes.

The old party leadership under Wladyslaw Gomulka had used police and the army to put down food riots along the Baltic coast in 1970, when at least 45 people were killed.

The killings have since been officially denounced and monuments were erected last month in Gdansk, Gdynia and other cities in memory of the riot deaths.

The newspaper said soldiers and officers expressed their concern over some areas of tension still existing in the country, but did not specify them.

Trybuna Ludu, the voice of the Communist Party, said the army was a power base for the party since many officers were tested members "experienced in class struggles."

"Many comrades (in the army) joined the party during World War II or in the years right after it when party membership carried a risk to one's life," the newspaper said.

It said the army had been fully informed of "the right protest of the working class against the deformations of socialism."

But it said the discussions on the crisis in August and September did not affect the army training schedule.

It said that during the summer unrest the Polish navy carried out one of the most responsible tasks by observing the "high mobility of NATO naval forces."

The newspaper said the battle readiness of the Polish army and its cooperation with the armies of the socialist countries were "the main factors guaranteeing the construction of socialism without any danger from outside."

Intrusion By Vietnamese Leads To Thai Protest

BANGKOK, Thailand (UPI) — Thailand protested to the United Nations today a half-mile Vietnamese thrust into Thai territory and a new flareup on the border left at least four Thai villagers seriously wounded.

Less than an hour after Vietnam and Thailand traded diplomatic protests in Bangkok about the weekend fighting, Vietnamese and Khmer Rouge forces exchanged new fire on the border. At least four Thai villagers, including a 3-year-old boy, were seriously wounded when a Vietnamese heavy artillery round smashed into the Thai village of Koke Sa-baeng, 145 miles east of Bangkok.

UPI reporter Seni Monkon on the border said Vietnamese artillery inside Cambodia fired more than two dozen rounds in response to a mortar attack by Khmer Rouge resistance forces close to the Thai-Cambodian border.

Casualties among the combatants were unknown.

In the diplomatic skirmishing, the Thai foreign ministry sent to the United Nations its version of the fighting on Saturday in which two Thai troopers were killed.

It called in the Vietnamese charge d'affaires in Bangkok and handed over what officials said was a sharp protest note. Its contents were not made public.

Charge d'affaires Do Ngoc Duong, however, gave the Thais Vietnam's own protest which charged Thailand with "staging a provocation on the Kampuchean-Thai border on Jan. 3, 1981 aimed at slandering Vietnam and driving a wedge between ASEAN (the Association of Southeast Asian Nations, a regional grouping including Thailand) and Vietnam."

The Vietnamese note claimed Thai military forces were supporting various guerrilla forces resisting the Vietnamese occupation of Cambodia.

ONE MAN'S OPINION

Try For Greatness

AT THE NATIONAL, state and local level, 1981 has dawned as one of those rare times in history when profound improvements may be made with cool deliberation.

Some times are marked by extreme chaos and conflict, out of which a nation, a state or an institution must emerge stronger or meet disaster. Other times are so tranquil that vision languishes and the ship of state drifts aimlessly, gradually growing weaker from neglect. But this is a time when the drifting may be deliberately rechanneled toward greatness and strength simply by resolving to do so. At the local level, take Texas Tech for example.

NEW PRESIDENT Lauro Cavazos has been on the ground long enough to have the reins firmly in hand.

In medicine, law, home economics, athletics—throughout the university—personnel and policy changes offer a unique opportunity to reach for greatness.

It has been said before that Texas Tech was a youngster growing toward highest quality, but in all truth performance has not always matched the promise.

In filling vacancies and giving direction, Cavazos can if he's strong enough goad the university into a quantum leap forward.

There is no reason, other than a lack of vision and commitment, why Texas Tech can't be among the nation's powerhouses in football and basketball.

There is no reason why its colleges of engineering, arts and sciences, agriculture, business, law

JOSEPH SOBRAN:

Liberal Beehive Busy Buzzing

WASHINGTON—Senate Democrats are licking their chops in anticipation of a confirmation fight over Alexander Haig. What a welcome opportunity to relive those thrilling days of Watergate!

And what a welcome relief from having to talk about what the victors of the Watergate war have done to the country in the last six years.

Ah, Watergate! It was a famous victory, all right—but what was it all about? That was never clearly explained.

And if the Democrats think the country shares their eagerness for a rerun of that dreariest of crises, they are—not to put too fine a point on it—nuts.

A burglary, a high-level coverup. Seedy stuff, to be sure. But a political party that can't find better fuel to burn after half a decade is clearly approaching a terminal decline.

WHO WERE THE victims of Watergate? I mean, if so much fuss is made about it, somebody must have been dearly hurt by it, right? Well, who? Richard Nixon had a phrase—"wallowing in Watergate."

At the time it seemed a little self-serving. Today it fits very well indeed.

No, Watergate was no big deal. Nixon was guilty, all right—of the sort of things his enemies had winked at when their friends did them.

Only with Nixon did we get "investigative" journalism—which might as well be called prosecutorial journalism, with the understanding that the prosecutor was by no means strictly impartial.

BUT THE DEMOCRATS and the liberal press had a good reason for puffing it up: their time had nearly run out. The country was sick of liberalism. Nixon, though not consistently conservative, knew this and meant to dismantle much of the Great Society's dubious handiwork.

He also meant to get a halfway-decent deal for the United States in Vietnam. The great Liberal Hive knew its natural enemy. They buzzed in, stingers poised.

Liberalism didn't just run out of fresh ideas in 1980. It had done so a decade ago. It had begun to sour into socialism—an old and discredited idea.

In 1972 Nixon had just won a smashing victory. He could not possibly have been beaten at the polls. The Hive had to improvise—and did so brilliantly, hitting Nixon with constitutional rather than merely electoral artillery.

Alexander Haig may not be all that conservative, but on the darkest night of the year nobody would take him for a liberal. He is a fighting patriot. The Hive had hoped his kind was effectively and medicine can't achieve far greater stature, with individual departments in those and other fields achieving international recognition.

It will not be a recognizable disaster if this opportunity is muffed, but it will be a tragedy nonetheless. Drifting along on an average-to-high quality plane is no virtue when something better could have been achieved.

The Cavazos era can become just another chapter in the history of Texas Tech or, depending on the personnel and policy decisions that are being and will be made, it can go down as the turning point toward a higher destiny.

ON THE NATIONAL level, new President Reagan takes office at a time when the people perceive that 50 years of liberalism has failed to produce the promised wonders.

He has a rare opportunity to weed out the excesses, keep the good, and redirect America along a course that will keep it prosperous and secure.

Great national leaders usually are forged out of wartime or domestic turmoil that threatens a government's very existence.

This time, the crisis is more subtle—and, in some respects, therefore more dangerous—but fiscal and moral bankruptcy can be averted only if the new national leadership is up to the task that the electorate somehow knows must be done.

VOTERS HAVE SAID in essence that the tax load has become oppressive, the spending excessive, the deficits alarming.

They have said they want their freedoms restored by curbing the power of the central government, and protected by building up a military strength second to no foreign power's.

Americans want the bureaucracy streamlined, thinned down and reined in. They want the mail delivered on time, the props taken out from under bankrupt cities and corporations, the Ayatollah Khomeinis put in their place and the federal lawyers butted out of their schools and businesses.

They want a government which guarantees them greater freedom rather than the one which has begun to be the greatest threat to their freedom.

The Reagan administration, with the right vision and the right people, can change the direction of government to fit the national mood or, failing, can let slip away what may be its last hope for survival.

AT THE STATE level, Texas is blessed with a budget surplus and a booming economy that contrasts sharply with the national norm. This reflects what good, conservative management can accomplish even within a sea of national malaise.

Ironically, though, the greatest challenge faced by state government is to manage that revenue blessing rather than squander it on pay and programs so extravagant that future financial crises will be a certainty.

Clearly, it is the kind of problem to have, but it is at precisely such times that a state may allow itself to drift into self-satisfied delusions of grandeur.

Leadership, its presence or absence, can make 1981 a good year or one of surrender to mediocrity, or worse.

NOW THAT conservatives are in power and conservative ideas form the likely agenda for the incoming Reagan administration, the same conservatives that the liberals loved to show off at their get-togethers have suddenly grown horns and become bogeymen.

For example, there has been almost hysterical outrage at any suggestion that we ought to overhaul so-called affirmative action policy.

Conservatives, and a number of well-known liberals and blacks, have been arguing for some time now that it is patently unfair for the federal government to require or encourage discrimination against one class of citizens in order to "help" other classes of citizens.

THE CRITICS of quotas say it is especially wrong when the people being discriminated against are not guilty of any wrongdoing against those who are the beneficiaries of quotas—but are simply from a group the government has chosen for special punishment.

Dr. Walter E. Williams, the noted black economist, takes this a step further and argues that affirmative action quotas are really racist in nature.

They tell black people and others who benefit from hiring and promotion quotas that "Yes, we recognize that you're equal, but you're not equal enough to compete in the free market for jobs."

It's important to note that neither Dr. Williams nor conservatives in general are saying that laws which prohibit discrimination should be done away with—only that quotas based on race, sex or nationality have no place in a truly free society.

There are some very real differences of opinion on what the government should and shouldn't do to atone for past discrimination.

WE WOULD like to argue that fighting discrimination with discrimination is a faulty policy.

Rather, what we need are new economic policies to encourage expansion of the private job market—providing ample job opportunities for all—and new educational policies that will provide those whose mothers and fathers and grandfathers and grandmothers may have been discriminated against, with the educational foundation for making it in our society.

Obviously, affirmative action is a controversial and emotional issue.

But those who would rather treat the problems of poor education and limited job opportunities rather than the symptoms of not enough whatever-color faces in a particular organization are not "hardcore racists," as one commentator suggested. They are concerned citizens looking for meaningful and lasting solutions to long-standing problems.

THE PRISONER OF SHARK ISLAND

James J. Kilpatrick:

Senate Shouldn't Balk At Haig

WASHINGTON—In commenting the other day about Reagan's Cabinet nominees, I said that Wisconsin's Sen. William Proxmire would be in the forefront of those opposing the confirmation of Alexander Haig as secretary of state. The senator has written me to say it isn't so; he hasn't yet made up his mind.

"By and large," Proxmire adds, "I take a serious view of our 'advise and consent' responsibility."

"I opposed at least six of Carter's major nominees, and did all I could to stop several of the Kennedy and Johnson nominees and, of course, didn't hesitate to vote against some of the Nixon and Ford nominees."

"My test has generally been: Is the nominee qualified? A surprising proportion of nominees for these vital offices have literally no qualifications whatsoever—and yet get overwhelmingly approved."

THE GENTLEMAN FROM Wisconsin is one of the great gadflies of all time, a good senator, a tough debater, and a hard man with a dollar.

Anyone who rates 99 percent with the National Taxpayers Union has a lot going for him. But I think he is quite wrong in the position he takes on confirming Cabinet nominees.

The Constitution vests power in a President "by and with the advice and consent of the Senate" to make treaties and to appoint ambassadors, judges of the Supreme Court, and other officers of the United States.

So far as treaties and lifetime judges are concerned, yes, the Senate's power to "to consent" must be taken seriously. But it seems to me that a President's nominees for his own Cabinet are something else entirely. Here the Senate's duty, as I see it, is to assist a President in forming a government of the President's own choosing.

SOME CONSIDERATION after all, ought to be given to the voters' demonstrated wishes in a presidential election. This past November the voters made their wishes clear.

Reagan carried 44 states in one of the most convincing electoral landslides of this century. He has the responsibility, he deserves the authority that goes with it.

Sen. Proxmire asks, "Is the nominee qualified?" and plainly he intends to demand qualifications of the highest level.

In this regard I am reminded of a story my father used to tell about his undergraduate days at Tulane around the turn of the century.

He was a member of Delta Tau Delta fraternity. One night the brothers engaged in such critical self-examination that they concluded none of them was truly qualified to meet the exalted standards of Delta Tau Delta. Whereupon the chapter disbanded.

The Brighter Side

A patron says he went to a movie the other day. It wasn't pornographic—but the price was.

Research reveals that 5 percent of all women are misinformed. The remainder have phones.

Overheard: "He grew up in a neighborhood so tough that the corner candy store had a bouncer."

THE SENATOR TELLS me that he expects to vote against four to eight of the Reagan nominees "based on what I know about them so far."

He may vote for Gen. Haig, in spite of serious misgivings, "because he at least has a modicum of diplomatic experience, and some idea of the relationship between military power and foreign policy."

Very well. It occurs to me that a President should be the best judge of the "modicum of experience" he wants in his own key people. Some criticism has been voiced of Reagan's nomination of James Edwards as secretary of energy.

The half-witticism is heard that Dr. Edwards, a dental surgeon, "may know a lot about drilling teeth, but he knows nothing about drilling oil wells."

But Dr. Edwards was a remarkably successful governor of South Carolina, and perhaps that is the kind of executive and administrative experience that Reagan wants.

THE UNWRITTEN RULE, almost without exception, is for the Senate to confirm. Only once in this century, if I am not mistaken, has the Senate voted down a Cabinet nominee.

Back in 1959, the Senate narrowly rejected Eisenhower's nomination of Lewis L. Strauss to become secretary of commerce. Strauss was one of the finest public servants ever to serve his country. It was a black day when that inexcusable roll call was taken.

It would be equally inexcusable for senators now to refuse to confirm Gen. Haig, out of some vindictive lust to revive the Watergate years. As President-elect, Reagan wants him. That should suffice.

quarantined, if not quite extinct.

What they have forgotten is that their own victories had not been popular. Nixon's fall, after a year and a half of national agony (alloyed with ennui), came as a relief to the country, but not a joy.

The country will not be grateful to the Hive for dragging us through it again.

Sylvia Porter:

Harried Drivers Fond Of Auto Club Package

NEW YORK—When friends of ours ventured to drive to our home in exurbia for dinner recently, they announced on arrival that the roads were sheer ice, cars were sliding dangerously and, said, the husband:

"We came because we had a date. But I'm glad I had my AAA card with me, just in case. This is when my membership counts."

Yes, for the tens of millions of us in the so-called Frost Belt of our country, winter means icy roads, driving hazards, battery failures, emergency service—and fairly frequent (if not frantic) calls to our auto club for assistance.

The Triple-A—American Automobile Association—is by far the largest and best-known of the auto clubs. Its membership list covers a huge 21 million and generations of us have been members.

ACTUALLY, IT'S NOT a single club, but a federation of independent clubs, with varying fees. In the New York area, for instance, where temperatures may range from sizzling to subfreezing, initial dues are $40 for the first year, $35 for renewal.

Eisewhere, initial dues run around $35 and subsequent yearly memberships average $28-$29. This covers one car. A second auto may be extra, depending on the area. (In the New York region, for instance, it's $20.)

The AAA provides emergency road service through dispatchers, generally, in the U.S. and Canada.

But the AAA is only one of the auto clubs competing for our patronage these days. Here are others, with guides for your shopping:

* ALLSTATE MOTOR CLUB. Membership, roughly 1 million across the U.S.; subsidiary of Allstate Insurance; annual dues, $29.25, covering a member and spouse and their cars, only; provides such travel aids as map routings and trip guides.

In some areas, you, as a member of Allstate, may go to a station of your choice, pay and be club-reimbursed for out-of-pocket payments up to $50. A club dispatcher serves certain areas for emergency road service, eliminating out-of-pocket expenses.

Contact any local Allstate office for information.

* Amoco Motor Club. Group lists coverage of 1.5 million households; annual dues $24.95 for member and spouse in any of family cars; coverage for other members of immediate family, $15 a year extra.

In many urban areas, dispatcher emergency road service available; for others, toll-free phone number assists in facilitating emergency service.

IN SOME AREAS where there is neither dispatch service nor station participation (and in metropolitan areas where there is emergency dispatcher service) you can arrange service up to $25 and be reimbursed.

Travel aids such as maps available. Travel guides do not list accommodations available in motels and hotels at other clubs may.

Contact the club at 3700 Wake Forest Road, Raleigh, N.C. 27686. The club has no field representatives.

* American Express. Cardholders can subscribe to a "Driver Security Plan." Annual dues of $16 cover all members and their cars in the household for emergency road service. For an added $10 a year, an accidental death and dismemberment insurance policy is provided.

Members arrange for emergency road service and are compensated up to $25. Hotel recommendations are not included but trip routings and other travel information is available.

Contact P.O. Box 10020, Atlanta, Ga. 30348.

* Ford Motor Club. Subsidiary of automaker, this club's members pay dues of $29.75 a year, which cover member and spouse and member's cars. Emergency road service is handled by the member with a $30 ceiling on reimbursement.

Map guides provided for trip routings. Mobil travel directory included in the publications available.

Contact P.O. Box 4219, South Bend, Ind. 46634.

* Gulf Auto Club. Membership, 300,000, primarily Gulf credit card holders; annual dues $33; member and spouse entitled to arrange for emergency road service through a toll-free phone service with top reimbursement of $30. Travel aids include map routings.

Contact P.O. Box 946, Houston, Texas 77001.

* MONTGOMERY WARD Auto Club. Membership of 1.2 million households; annual dues $33; cover member and spouse for their personally driven cars with reimbursement up to $50 for emergency road service. State guides and map routings provided as part of travel aid.

Contact at 1400 Greenleaf Ave., Chicago, Ill. 60626.

Where you live, your usual weather, the specific services that meet your needs—all will play a part in your choice. The main point is that there is competition and you do have a choice.

Two Paper Plates Needed For Puppet

By SHARI LEWIS
I call this puppet by its initials, P.P.P. That stands for Paper-Plate Puppet. Actually, I should call it '2 P.P.P.' (because it's made with TWO paper plates), but that sounds too much like a name for a robot!

If you've got some paper plates left from holiday party tables, here's how you can make a P.P.P. of your very own.

You'll need one whole paper plate and less than one-half of a second one. Cut the second plate so you're left NOT with a half circle, but, rather, with a crescent-shaped piece, like the curve of the moon.

Turn over the whole plate, so it is bottoms up. Staple the piece of a plate (the crescent) to the whole plate. Match up the curved edges of the plate with those of the crescent, and staple only along the edges.

You should now have created an open 'pocket' between the crescent and the whole plate. Stick your fingers (but not your thumb) into that pocket.

Now, bend the whole plate in half, so that your fingers (stuck into this 'pocket') are on top while your thumb rests underneath. Move your thumb up and down and you'll see the moving mouth of your Paper-Plate Puppet.

The rest is up to you. Paste or tape on eyes, ears, lashes, a tongue — whatever you feel your P.P.P. needs to become real for you.

If your plate has a rippled edge (as mine does), your P.P.P. will have the look of teeth. Maybe it'll even make some biting remarks!

Buffalo, New York City Lawmen Plan To Confer

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) — Working on the theory that one man killed eight black men in the Buffalo area and Rochester, city detectives were heading for Manhattan today to compare notes with New York City police about four similar slayings there last month.

Four men, three blacks and one dark-skinned Hispanic, were stabbed to death and two wounded in Manhattan during a 10-hour period on Dec. 22, apparently by the same man, authorities said.

Erie County District Attorney Edward Cosgrove has said he believes the upstate attacks may be linked to those in Manhattan.

Cosgrove had predicted on Friday that authorities would capture a suspect in the case by Saturday. He refused comment Sunday on the prediction.

Meanwhile, Buffalo police revealed that they had recovered a hunting knife near the scene of the latest attack on a black man in western New York.

The knife, about six inches long with a wooden handle, was found Saturday a block from the home of Larry Little of Buffalo. Police said Little fought off a white assailant near his home Friday morning.

The suspect has been described by witnesses as a white male.

Police Stumble Onto Slayings

DELMAR, Iowa (AP) — When police went to notify Bonnie Gilbert that her husband had apparently committed suicide, they found the 34-year-old woman and her five children shot to death in the family home.

Ballistics tests will be conducted on a gun found at the site of the apparent suicide to determine whether there was any connection between the shootings, authorities said.

Clinton County Sheriff Michael Galusha said Mrs. Gilbert and her children were found in their upstairs bedrooms Saturday night after authorities made several unsuccessful attempts to contact them.

The bizarre chain of events began Saturday in Yale, S.D., when police there said Gene Gilbert, 28, committed suicide. Police went to the Gilberts' rented home in this eastern Iowa town of 600 residents and found the bodies of Mrs. Gilbert; Dawn Roling, 13; Michelle Roling, 11; Jason Roling, 8; Gene Gilbert Jr., 2; Rachelle Gilbert, 1.

The three older children were Mrs. Gilbert's by a previous marriage.

The body of Gilbert, an unemployed construction worker, was found in the home of his father, Guy Gilbert, according to Beadle County Sheriff Mel Scheibe. Yale is about 450 miles from Delmar.

Near the body, Scheibe said, was a note containing "personal material." It was not clear whether the note mentioned the Iowa incident.

Neighbors in Delmar said they didn't know much about the Gilberts.

Delmar authorities roped off the white, wood-frame, two-story house where the bodies were found. They refused to elaborate on what they found at the house, but Clinton County Medical Examiner Salvador Borja said all six victims were found lying on beds on the second floor of the house. Each was shot at least once in the head, the medical examiner said.

Borja said there were "quite a lot" of spent shells found near the death scene and that it had not been determined when the slayings took place.

The family had lived in the town of about 600 residents 40 miles south of Dubuque for about a year. Neighbors described the family as almost reclusive.

"They weren't close to anybody," said Randy McKeon, who lived next door and said he hardly knew the Gilberts. "They weren't the backyard barbecue type and neither were we."

Swiss Scientists Uncover New Cloning Technique

TORONTO (AP) — Like something out of a science fiction movie, researchers in a Swiss laboratory have developed techniques that could lead to the cloning of a simple mammal, such as a mouse, and ultimately a human being.

The method makes it possible to produce clones — exact genetic copies — of a mouse embryo, something that had previously been achieved only with plants and lower animals.

But scientists said that because of several important limitations, the discovery falls far short of immediately allowing human beings to be cloned or lost limbs to be regenerated. The discovery's importance is expected to be limited to scientific research.

"Worries about cloning humans are very far away for purely practical reasons," said Dr. Davor Solter of the Wistar Institute in Philadelphia, a scientist who works in the field. "Even if we did know how to clone a human, I don't know why we would want to do it."

The main commercial application of cloning would require being able to make clones from adult cells, so that one could, for example, make multiple copies of a cow that happened to be an excellent milk producer, said Solter.

But the discovery may have great scientific importance, said Dr. Michael I.

Sherman of the Roche Institute of Molecular Biology in Nutley, N.J. He said it would open up new tools for studying the functioning of genes in growth, aging and cancer.

The technique was developed by Dr. Karl Illmensee of the University of Geneva and Dr. Peter C. Hoppe of Jackson Laboratory in Bar Harbor, Maine, who was working with Illmensee. It will be reported later this month in the scientific journal Cell.

The method can be used only to make clones of embryos which are in the earliest stages of development.

The two scientists removed the nuclei of cells growing in 4-day-old mouse embryos. They were inserted into newly fertilized eggs of mice of a different strain. The original nuclei of the eggs were removed.

The eggs — with their transplanted cell nuclei — were then implanted in female mice of a third strain and allowed to come to term.

Of hundreds of such transplants performed, only three survived to become living adult mice. Tests using enzyme and genetic markers showed that each of the three mice was genetically identical to the embryo from which its nucleus had been plucked, but not to the egg into which the nucleus was implanted or to the female mice who carried the animals.

A British scientist, Dr. John Gurdon, proved more than a decade ago that a similar feat could be performed using cells from frog embryos. The work of Illmensee and Hoppe simply extends this discovery to mammals.

One scientist who worked on the project but who asked not to be identified, said that the experiments should properly be referred to as "cell nucleus transplantation" rather than cloning because the three mice were not genetically identical with each other but only with the embryos from which they sprang.

But other scientists said Illmensee and Hoppe had managed to produce multiple copies from a single embryo in later, but still unpublished, work. The two scientists could not be reached for comment Sunday.

Influenza is generally spread by direct contact, by droplet infection traveling through the air and possibly by inanimate objects contaminated with freshly soiled virus material. Sneezing, coughing and talking are common ways of transmitting a virus from one person to another. It quickly spreads from one part of the country to another and to other countries as well by means of modern transportation. The early stages of influenza sometimes, unfortunately, before the patient realizes that he has it, are the most infectious. Older people, and those susceptible to virus infections should consult their physician about their need for flu shots.

Australia Expecting Test-Tube Twins

LONDON (AP) — The world's first test-tube twins may be born in April in Australia as a result of a new development in the procedure for fertilization outside the mother's womb, according to a report in the British magazine New Scientist.

The magazine's correspondent in Canberra, the Australian capital, reported that two sets of twins are among nine embryos fertilized outside the womb, returned to the women from whom they came and now progressing normally at two Melbourne hospitals.

The report said the women were treated by Carl Wood, a professor of obstetrics and gynecology at Melbourne's Monash University who has developed a procedure for fertilizing human eggs produced by induced ovulation.

All four previous test-tube babies were born after eggs were taken from the mothers during their natural cycle of ovulation, the magazine said. It reported that Wood gave the mothers fertility drugs to induce ovulation, the process by which a mature ovum is produced and discharged from the woman's ovary.

As a result, doctors in future can schedule the time of ovulation and fertilization in advance, the magazine said, adding that such predictability will make it easier for clinics with limited resources to offer routine test-tube fertilizations.

The magazine said Wood treated 160 women last year. Five of the women who became pregnant produced two embryos. Some of these have since aborted, the New Scientist said, but two sets of non-identical twins remain. The first are to be born in April, it added.

The world's first test tube baby was Louise Brown, born to a woman in Bristol, England on July 25, 1978. The birth followed 10 years of research by Cambridge University physiologist Robert Edwards and gynecologist Patrick Steptoe, who have since announced plans to open a private clinic for childless couples.

The procedure, also known as in vitro (in glass) fertilization, is used in cases where an egg cannot be fertilized normally because of a blockage of a woman's Fallopian tubes.

Lead Exposure Linked To IQ

TORONTO (AP) — Children exposed to lead at doses not high enough to cause obvious medical problems have been shown to have reduced IQ scores and behavior problems, it was reported here today.

The study, which involved 2,146 children in the towns of Chelsea and Everett near Boston, also showed changes in brain waves in children with high lead levels in their teeth. Disorderly classroom behavior was found to be related to the levels of lead, as were reductions in IQ test scores, verbal skills and attention spans.

Dr. Herbert L. Needleman of the Children's Hospital Medical Center of Harvard Medical School said at the annual meeting of the American Association for the Advancement of Science that it appears there is no safe exposure level for lead, which comes from such sources as gasoline additives and paint.

WARNING TO TEXAS TAXPAYERS!

The Texas Legislature convenes next week with demands for a record increase in spending (more than $80 billion). The threat of a major increase in your taxes looms on the horizon.

TEXAS 13, a statewide, nonpartisan organization of taxpayers concerned with the skyrocketing growth of government bureaucracy and spending, have dedicated themselves to collectively resisting further the unneeded and wasteful spending of our tax dollars.

- DO YOU FEEL YOUR TAXES ARE TOO HIGH?
- ARE YOU OPPOSED TO A MAJOR INCREASE IN THE TAXES YOU ALREADY PAY?
- DO YOU FEEL YOUR GOVERNMENT IS TOO LARGE, WASTEFUL AND EXPENSIVE?

AN INVITATION

On Wednesday JANUARY 7, 1981, TEXAS 13 leaders and HOWARD JARVIS of Proposition 13 fame will be at the Lubbock Civic Center, Room 104 at 11:00 a.m.

You are cordially invited to be present. Your attendance will show your support for lower taxes and less interference in your life. Don't miss this opportunity. See you there!

Club Notables

By FRANCES LOWE
Family News Editor

Hello again! Holidays are over (at last!) and everyone is ready to get back to the club circuit again!

The Lubbock Women's Club, which has been closed for the holidays, will kick the New Year off in fine style, with games day Monday, and special programs Wednesday and Friday.

Lucille Melcher of Cagle's will present the program Wednesday, with interior design ideas for "the young, middle aged, and the over the hill gang." She will show the approach to sensible decorating by taking into consideration you, your family, your life-style, your entertaining and your budget.

Friday noon, Ray and Lou Diekemper will present "A Trip to India and Nepal," sure to be a delight.

(By the by, if you have lost track of your schedule of reservations for the Women's Club, by all means give the office a call and they will be glad to bring you up to date! You wouldn't want to miss one special event this spring...

BEST BETS

Recovery, Inc., an association of nervous and former mental patients (we had a story about the organization recently in Family News) will have a demonstration meeting for interested persons, potential members, family and friends Saturday at 7:30 p.m. at the University Ministries, 2412 13th St. All interested persons are welcome.

Association for Retarded Citizens meets at 7:30 p.m. Monday at the Milam Children's Training Center, 1105 38th. Rhoda Cummings, co-president of the South Plains Association for Children with Learning Disabilities, will be on hand to discuss a workshop being planned for late winter or early spring, possibly in conjunction with South Plains Center for the Mentally and Physically Handicapped and Building Understanding for Downs Syndrome.

The workshops would encompass all areas of rights for the handicapped. Anyone interested in this subject is welcome to attend Monday's meeting.

Lunch Bunch begins its 1981 season with a program Tuesday on "Hang Gliding" given by Larry K. Vialle, in the Mahon Library Community Room.

Llano Estacado Audubon Society will meet Tuesday night at 7:30 at the Garden & Arts Center for a discussion on the Lubbock Lake Site by Dr. Eileen Johnson, director.

Dr. Johnson came to Lubbock in 1972 from the University of Kansas; her degrees are in anthropology and zoology. The Lakes Project is funded mostly by the National Science Foundation, but Lubbock has been most supportive of the project also. During the summer months, students from all over the world come here to help in the work.

Guests, including children, are always welcome at meetings of the local Audubon Society.

Alcohol Harmful to Unborn Baby

LAS CRUCES (Special) — Recent research shows that women who drink while pregnant run a risk of having mentally retarded babies, says Leo Yates, extension family life specialist for New Mexico State University.

The research, conducted in Washington, shows that alcoholic mothers also have a greater chance of having miscarriages or still-births than non-alcoholics.

But the mother need not be alcoholic to have problems, Yates says. Even mothers who drink moderately on a social level run similar risks.

Alcohol that the mother drinks mixes with her blood and then that of the fetus. If a mother is drunk when her baby is born, the baby's breath will smell like alcohol.

However, the problem is especially critical during the first three months of pregnancy — the stage when the baby's brain is developing. Even a small amount of alcohol can be harmful in some circumstances.

The researchers don't know for sure how much alcohol is too much. They think that while one drink may be safe, more than two is probably too much. It all seems to depend on factors like metabolism, timing, body weight and the fetus' resistance.

"One thing is sure," Yates says. "Pregnant women are, in effect, mothers from the time of conception. If a mother would not give a new-born infant alcohol, she probably wouldn't want to give the fetus alcohol either."

DEAR ABBY

Bad Eating Habits Insult Girlfriend

DEAR ABBY: I've been going with a fellow for over a year. He's 30 and I'm 26. He wants to marry me, but, Abby, he has one fault that really turns me off. His table manners are terrible! He holds his fork in his fist like a small child who is just learning how to eat by himself.

He stabs at his food with his fork and eats so fast he makes me nervous. When I try to correct him in a nice way, he gets angry and says, "If it bothers you, don't look at me!"

I realize that a man could have worse faults such as drinking, dope or chasing women, so maybe I'm out of line to complain about something as petty as this, but sitting at the same table with him sometimes irritates me to the point of not being able to eat.

He's honest, hard-working and generous. Do you think I'm being too picky?

DEAR IRRITATED: His refusal to accept constructive criticism shows him to be stubborn and inconsiderate. Don't marry this man unless you want to be reminded three times every day that you made a poor choice.

DEAR ABBY: How can I get out of telling my age when I am asked point-blank? I'm not the type to reply, "It's none of your business."

PRIVATE PERSON
DEAR PRIVATE: Try this: "It's mind over matter, so if you don't mind, it doesn't matter." (Cribbed from Rabbi Samuel A. Friedman, Silver Springs, Md.)

DEAR ABBY: On a recent cruise in the Caribbean, I saw a man at the beach who was average in appearance and physique, except that he was wearing a gold earring through his left nipple!

It caused quite a stir, as you can well imagine. Abby, could he have been a member of some cult or organization? If not, what is the reason for such bizarre adornment?

ANNE IN INDIANA

DEAR ANNE: It is considered "macho" among a select segment of the male population. It has nothing to do with a cult or organization. All one needs is a gold ring, a left nipple and a penchant for bizarre adornment.

DEAR ABBY: I hope it's not too late to respond to "Where were you on Dec. 7, 1941, when you first heard about the attack on Pearl Harbor?" I was one of 1500 civilian construction workers on Midway Island. The news had a stunning effect on all of us because of our vulnerability. We were pinned down by shelling until late February, then taken back to Honolulu. During those weeks, our food supply was cut off and we lived on lemon pie mix and powdered milk. To this day, I can't stand the sight of lemon pie!

My hair turned snow-white in a few weeks. I was 29.

At Wit's End...

By ERMA BOMBECK

We are a country of differences. Our politics are bipartisan, our faith is sectarian, our foods and customs are multi-ethnic, and our morals are up for grabs.

Never are these differences more evident than when we come across a child who is having a temper tantrum. Everyone witnessing it is an authority, on who is responsible for the temper tantrum and what to do about it.

Just to clarify, I'm not talking about your harmless little stomping-the-foot-dancing-up-and-down-whining-and-whimpering of a child who doesn't want to go in the deep end of the swimming pool.

I'm talking your one-show-only-matinee-performance of a child lying on the floor like a pile of laundry screaming and crying with a voice that shatters plastic. The child whose limbs have turned to string. Whose face is swollen with tears beyond recognition. Whose very life is draining out of his body because he is tired and wants to be carried at the same moment you are carrying 50 pounds of groceries and a seven-month fetus inside you.

The sad fact is mothers do not stick with their own in a temper situation. I found this out quite painfully one summer when my toddler entwined himself around my leg in a supermarket and chanted one word, "Gum," for 35 minutes. The weight of dragging him on my leg became quite annoying and I said to him firmly, "No!"

The next thing I know he had pulled over the entire gum machine. I whacked him on the bottom and began picking up 3,000 pieces of rolling gum balls.

Amid a hysterical kid yelling, "Please, Mommy, I'm sorry," (that was a touch) this is the kind of support I got from the mob.

"What kind of mother can stand to hear her child cry like that? He needs loving, that's what he needs. I'd say he needs attention. Probably doesn't get any at home. I saw her earlier. She held his little arm so tight, I thought she'd pull it out of the socket. She couldn't afford a lousy piece of bubble gum? She's the one who should be spanked for not keeping an eye on him."

Getting up from my knees, I reached over to pick up my son. It was then that he gave his performance his big finish: HE FLINCHED!

The crowd loved it. One woman said, "I don't know why God gives children to people like that!"

I knew. And I wasn't going to do it anymore.

Students Enter Food Contest

WASHINGTON (Special) — Elementary school students will take an active part in food safety education through a U.S. Department of Agriculture national poster contest, a USDA administrator said recently.

Donald L. Houston, administrator of USDA's Food Safety and Quality Service, said the contest is part of USDA's 75th anniversary celebration of the Federal Meat Inspection Act.

The contest closes March 15. One winner in each of two categories will receive a $100 U.S. Savings Bond and a trip to Washington, D.C., to attend an awards ceremony. Additional prizes will also be awarded, Houston said.

"The contest was designed to teach children how to prevent food poisoning," Houston said. "More than 2 million cases of food poisoning occur every year. Many of them result from poor food handling practices in the home and school."

"We hope the contest will teach children — and their parents — that it is up to them to learn how to recognize and eliminate conditions that can cause food poisoning," Houston said.

By mid-January, contest kits will be sent to every elementary school in the country, except where prohibited by law. They include activities that teach proper food handling practices. Students can use this information to create posters illustrating any facet of food safety.

"Many of the victims of food poisoning are children," Houston said. "If we can make them aware of the hazards, then they can learn to keep food safe to eat."

Under the Federal Meat Inspection Act and the Poultry Products Inspection Act, FSOS conducts in-plant inspection programs to assure that meat, poultry and egg products are safe, wholesome and properly labeled.

Poultry seasoning need not be confined to use with chicken or turkey — it is delicious with pork and steak.

VERSATILE SPORT SHIRT — It takes Pierre Cardin to create a sport shirt that's as easy to dress up as it is to dress down. Both are fabricated in the soft cotton flannel he loves to wear. And, he can select from a bright red and turquoise plaid or a plum, pink and electric blue check. Add a tie and he is all set for the party.

Q.1—Both vulnerable, as South you hold:
 ♠A1073 ♠AQ982 ♣KJ72

The bidding has proceeded:
 North East South West
 1♥ Pass 2♣ Pass
 3♣ Pass 3♦ Pass
 3NT Pass ?

What action do you take?
A.—When we are void of partner's suit, we tend to take a pessimistic view of our hand. Still, we can't help feeling that our hand has enough values to produce a slam opposite a partner who could open and then jump. We would make one more try by bidding four clubs. That can't be a cue-bid, because we have not yet agreed upon a suit and partner surely has the ace of clubs himself. If he persists with four no trump or four hearts, we would resign.

Q.2—Neither vulnerable, as South you hold:
 ♠1092 ♠A872 ♠AK93 ♠95

The bidding has proceeded:
 North East South West
 1♣ Pass 2♣ Pass
 2♦ Pass ?

What do you bid now?
A.—Now that partner has rebid his spades, your support is more than adequate. There is no point in wasting time—raise to four spades. Take a demerit if you even considered a clever bid like three hearts. You don't have the values for a slam, so why confuse partner.

Q.3—Both vulnerable, as South you hold:
 ♠QJ4 ♠AJ ♠AKQ83 ♠965

Your right-hand opponent opens the bidding with one spade. What action do you take?
A.—If you have a bid that describes your hand accurately, use it. The correct call is one no trump. That shows a hand that is equivalent to a one no trump opening bid—balanced, 16-18 points. An overall of two diamonds would not come close to describing the strength of your hand.

Q.4—Both vulnerable, as South you hold:
 ♠QJ4 ♠AJ ♠AKQ65 ♠965

The bidding has proceeded:
 West North East South
 1♣ Pass Pass ?

What do you bid now?
A.—In the balancing seat, an overall of one no trump shows somewhat less than it does in the immediate seat—about 12-15 points. With 17 HCPs, you are too strong for that action, so you must first double and then bid no trump over any response partner might make.

Q.5—As South, vulnerable, you hold:
 ♠5 ♠AJ762 ♠AKQ3 ♠652

Your right-hand opponent opens the bidding with one club. What do you bid now?
A.—Reverse your black suit holdings, and you might have some justification for a takeout double. But as it is, we do not think you are strong enough to first double and then bid hearts over your partner's probable spade response. However, you must get into the auction, and we would suggest an overall of one heart. If partner doesn't act over that, you haven't missed a game.

Q.6—Neither vulnerable, as South you hold:
 ♠83 ♠95 ♠KQ8742 ♠964

The bidding has proceeded:
 North East South West
 1♣ 2♣ Pass Pass
 3♣ Pass ?

What do you bid now?
A.—What started out as an unpromising hand has suddenly developed enormous potential. Partner's bidding has shown a hand just short of a demand bid, and if he has a diamond fit, as he should, you will make a lot of tricks. Tell partner about this by jumping to four diamonds. Since you could not bid two diamonds at your first turn, partner won't be expecting any more from you.

Rubber bridge clubs throughout the country use the four-deal format. Do they know something you don't? House May Provide Clues In Atlanta Slayings

ATLANTA (UPI) — Police hope an abandoned house where searchers found children's shoes and clothing as well as axes, shovels and two Bibles nailed open to a wall, will provide clues to the slayings and disappearances of 15 black children.

A source close to the investigation indicated Sunday that an arrest would be made soon in connection with at least one of the cases of missing or dead children.

Volunteers who have turned out for 10 Saturdays to look for clues in the children deaths were sent during the weekend to the house in a black residential area in southwest Atlanta, called Adamsville, after search organizers received a tip.

One volunteer searcher who entered the house, converted from an old abandoned church, said the white frame building "smelled like decaying flesh." City Councilman Arthur Langford, organizer of the weekly searches, described the situation inside as "really strange."

Besides the children's shoes and clothing, searchers found two Bibles, both King James translations, pinned to the wall with four nails driven into the upper-center of each open page.

The larger Bible was opened to the passages from Isaiah 1:14 to 3:25, the smaller to Jeremiah 15:4 to 18:4. Both sections made frequent references to children and death.

John Bascom, another search leader, said volunteers also found a letter in the house.

"It was a letter written from a lady, I guess, to the man who was living there telling him he was sick and a pervert," Bascom said, refusing to discuss the names in the letter.

David Westbrook, owner of the house, said he had rented it but did not know where the tenants had gone. He said they left behind their possessions.

All of the items found by searchers were turned over to police, who planned another look at the building today with a tracker and his dogs.

Don Laken said his two German shepherds had found the house two weeks ago but he did not go on the property because it was posted. Laken came to Atlanta two months ago to help search for clues in the deaths of 11 black children and the disappearances of four others.

A source close to the investigation said an Atlanta television station "wasn't far off" when it reported recently that an arrest in at least one of the children's cases would be made "soon after the first of the year."

The source, who asked not to be identified, said an arrest may be only a few days away.

The source also said investigators suspect that a cult was involved in some of the cases, citing Saturday's discovery of the abandoned house and a find on an earlier weekend search.

Several weeks ago, volunteers found olive oil and a slow-burning candle "sitting on some religious material" in an area under some railroad tracks in southwest Atlanta — indicating a cult ritual may have been performed, the source said.

Langford said he had also heard reports that a cult was involved.

"I can't rule anything out," he said. "I don't think any of us can rule out anything until there are some arrests."

Although Langford said there was no solid evidence that any of the four missing black children had been at the house, a search leader said neighbors reported seeing a black man and a black child using the house about two months ago.

Katherine Whetson, who lead the search at the house Saturday, said it had an odor similar to what she recalled from the area where the body of 7-year-old Latonya Watson was found last October.

Proposal Planned On I-27 City Route

By SYLVIA TEAGUE
Avalanche-Journal Staff

State highway department officials are expected to announce their recommended route Wednesday for Interstate 27 through Lubbock, a project which could cost as much as $122 million.

Department spokesman James King said three routes under consideration and the department's recommended route would be made public Wednesday, along with an announcement of dates for public hearings on the route. However,

King declined further comment.

Assistant City Manager Jim Blagg said the City Council is to be informed of the highway department's route recommendation next week in a letter. The council then will have 30 days to comment on the recommended route prior to the public hearings, he said.

However, the council is not expected to discuss the freeway route recommendation until its Jan. 22 meeting, Blagg said.

C.W. Nall, assistant district engineer for the highway department, said recently the three routes under consideration are:

- Avenue A from north to south.
- Avenue A as the east frontage road between Erskine Avenue and Fourth Street, between Avenues C and D, curving to join Avenue H at about 29th Street. Avenue H then would become the east frontage road for the freeway until it ends at South Loop 289.
- A route identical to the one above, except the freeway would fall east of Avenue H instead of west.

In meetings with some city officials in November, highway department staff members left the impression that the department prefers the second route. But highway department officials denied a recommendation had been finalized.

During a public meeting in May 1978, Nall estimated the Avenue A route would cost $122 million to construct, while other routes would range in cost from $118.7 million to $120.7 million.

Thirteen suggested routes which emerged from public hearings and departmental suggestions in early 1977, were narrowed to three or four routes when the 1978 meeting was held.

Each of the suggested routes was scrutinized by a 14-member interdisciplinary team for the effects on school zones, social effects, division of neighborhoods, number of residents displaced and any change in neighborhood character which might result from the selection of a particular route.

The route recommendation must be forwarded to state headquarters of the highway department in Austin. Highway officials there will in turn recommend a route to the Federal Highway Administration.

Once federal approval is obtained, a public hearing must be held on the recommended route and a final recommendation will be made through the same state and federal channels.

It's been five years since the interstate extension through Lubbock was ap-

CHINESE COSTUMES

NEW YORK (AP) — The opulence and color of imperial China during the Ch'ing dynasty (1644-1911) may be seen through August at the Metropolitan Museum's Costume Institute. Most of the objects in "The Manchu Dragon: Costumes of China, the Ch'ing Dynasty" are from the collections in the Metropolitan, with some loans from other collections.

Martinez, who was dead up on arrival at Brady Clinic.

The infant's mother, Norma Jean Martinez, 16, and Terry Alderate, 25, and Rudolph Alderate, 6, were taken to the burn unit at Brooke Army Medical Center late Sunday for treatment of burns.

Authorities said someone apparently soaked some wood in a fireplace with the contents of a can that was supposed to contain kerosene. The can actually contained gasoline, they said.

The gasoline fumes exploded and the fire destroyed the home, according to a spokesman for the Southwest San Antonio Volunteer Fire Department.

Business & Industrial Review

Fabit's Services Reflecting Capability, Customer Interest

Beginning of a new year brings into focus the benefits of the concluded year, the expressed appreciation of these, and a welcome to opportunities for service in the new 1981.

So, Fabit Corp., affording refuse container service including compactor and roll-off containers and service, says: "Thanks Lubbock!"

Increase With a Reason
The locally owned and operated Fabit organization, long in Lubbock, is proud to report that its trash hauling volume increased 70 per cent in 1980 alone!

Numerous factors could be listed for this increase, but perhaps Fabit's policy, as listed in a concise one-paragraph statement, is the key reason:

"Fabit believes in the Golden Rule as applied to business practices, as is shown by its policy with regard to customer contracts. Fabit is willing to enter into contracts for trash hauling, but doesn't require a contract, and Fabit will not sign a contract that shifts part of the liability for property damage or personal injury from the hauler to the customer, or that is otherwise not fair to both parties. Our customers are our friends, and we want to earn their continued business through good service and friendly and fair business practices; this is Fabit's policy."

Fabit Corporation's Refuse Container Service is the one-source answer to (1) side-loading container service, (2) roll-off container service, and (3) container repairs, trading or sales.

Add to this the many other advantages of this Lubbock firm (since 1968) such as local ownership, radio dispatched units, dependable service at fair prices, sincere customer appreciation, no contract required, and readily available references.

Fabit is owned and operated by a small group of local businessmen who make their home in Lubbock, spending their money in Lubbock. Clyde A. Blakeley is Fabit president and directs his personal attention and supervision to the company's departments including the Refuse Service Division.

Multiple Advantages
Not only are all the trucks radio equipped to give better and more prompt service, but back-up equipment is kept in readiness to guarantee Fabit's ability to serve containers on a dependable and regular schedule.

Side Loading
Several years ago, Fabit from its 1408 N. Quirt Ave. headquarters initiated a side-loading refuse container service to commercial accounts in Lubbock, and both commercial and residential service to customers outside the city limits.

This service still is a key enterprise of the Refuse Service Division.

Diesel-powered Mack trucks and efficient side-loading mechanisms handle containers quietly, safely and quickly. The side-loading containers work well in narrow alleys and in parking lots. Also, the gentle container handling results in less damage to containers and nearby objects. In contrast to heavy and cumbersome lids on front-loading containers, side-loading containers have lids that are easily and safely used by women and children. Small 1-1/2 cubic yard containers are available for small users at minimum cost, and three or four cubic yard units are available for greater demands.

Frequency of service can be scheduled as needed; dependability is Fabit's strong point.

Roll-Off Containers
With expansion of the Refuse Service Division, Fabit now also serves the area with the large roll-off container service including both compactor and container and open-top container service.

"Let us at Fabit's Refuse Container Division, phone 762-2650, at 1408 N. Quirt, detail the services that match your needs. Remember, Fabit can work for you, too; may we have the opportunity?"

Gary's Frozen Foods Affords Menu Change, Ease In Meal Preparation

"It was a great year and a great Christmas!"

Gary's Frozen Foods, at 109th Street and University Avenue, appreciates every consideration the firm and its personnel has enjoyed in 1980, with Gary Tidwell saying "thanks, more than words can express; we hope to serve each of you in the best manner we know in the new year. Your trade, support and friendships are among the greatest blessings one could enjoy."

With the hustle and often overcrowded activities of the holidays now past, this might be the best time ever to enjoy each of the tasty Gary's meat products. Certainly the cook deserves every consideration after the Christmas and related holiday meal preparation, so not only would Gary's products be a change of pace from the sometimes overly-rich foods but these can serve to give "her" a rest from kitchen chores. Right?

A Gary's Frozen Foods product can make meals for any day easy and "just right," customers of long standing have found.

Enlarged Product List
Select from the chili that now is among the Gary's family of products, Gary's Super Dogs, Bar-B-Que Brisket, Barbeque Delight and Corn Dogs.

For meals or for snacks, Gary's products meet the need... deliciously.

Custom cooking is available for one's own game or other meat.

New Convenience
New packaging recently was announced, with the new barbeque brisket trays, as example, ready to place in microwave or conventional oven.

Gary still stocks the popular Dynamic electric nutcracker, great for one's own use or for special-situation gifting. Response to this unit in seasons past has been so enthusiastic that Gary has made it a year-around feature.

A good New Year's resolution, for sure, would be to turn to Gary's Frozen Foods (where every meat product is an experience in goodness) for easily-prepared but super-delicious meals for any occasion.

"Happy New Year!"

Mitchell's Direct Furniture Holds January Clearance Sale

"Folks already recognize that fine furniture items need not be expensive... if secured at Mitchell's Factory Direct Furniture... and with the just-announced January Clearance Sale there, exceptional saving opportunities are afforded."

"With this money-saving situation right here at beginning of the year, you'll want to make a bee line to this big store at 804 N. University Ave., phone 762-3031, open 10 a.m. until 6 p.m., Mondays through Saturdays."

Prices To Compare
Take advantages of buys such as these:
Recliners start at just $189.95; select from Stratolounger and Action Lane.
Also important is the selection... with 40 colors and frames from which to choose.

Other January Clearance values include such banner buys as one living room suite (value over $1,000) including sofa and loveseat, just $599!

And a Broyhill bedroom suite (four pieces) also at just $599!

Get the idea?

"Everything is on sale for the January Clearance Event at Mitchell's Factory Direct Furniture, enabling savings even beyond the usually low prices there. It is a company policy to keep everyday prices as low as possible, with additional savings presented whenever possible (such as in the January Clearance)."

Tim Mitchell, lifelong Lubbock resident, is owner, affording the type service by ownership and staff to merit one's confidence and continuing trade.

Low Overhead Cited
"We stock extensively, presenting quality furniture at rock bottom prices. A low overhead is one of the keys in our low prices."

"As a factory direct furniture, we term ourselves as the 'middle man', cutting out the retailer."

Advertised prices are cash and carry, with in-store financing available.

"Merchandise is first quality, not seconds, and we promise at Mitchell's Factory Direct Furniture that we can save to 50 per cent on name-brand furnishings."

A large inventory is the rule at the store that is surprisingly large, with more floor space than readily imagined from a street-side view.

"And if we do not have the item you want, we have access to a multi-million-dollar inventory from which we can supply you within a week!"

"We are a 'live-and-let-live' firm, easily found and easily reached at 804 N. University Ave. in Lubbock."

Visa and Master Charge purchases are welcomed.

Zuriel Apparel Designs Stages First Annual Clearance Event

The biggest sale of the year at Zuriel Apparel Designs, 2409 34th St., begins today!

"Can you imagine first-quality, name-brand junior and missy apparel consistently discounted 20 per cent to 50 per cent off normally expected prices, but now during sale time marked even lower!"

This Annual Clearance Sale at Zuriel's involves storewide reductions of 40 per cent to 80 per cent off reference retail, it is pointed out by owners W.Z. "Bill" McNew and wife, Mary McNew.

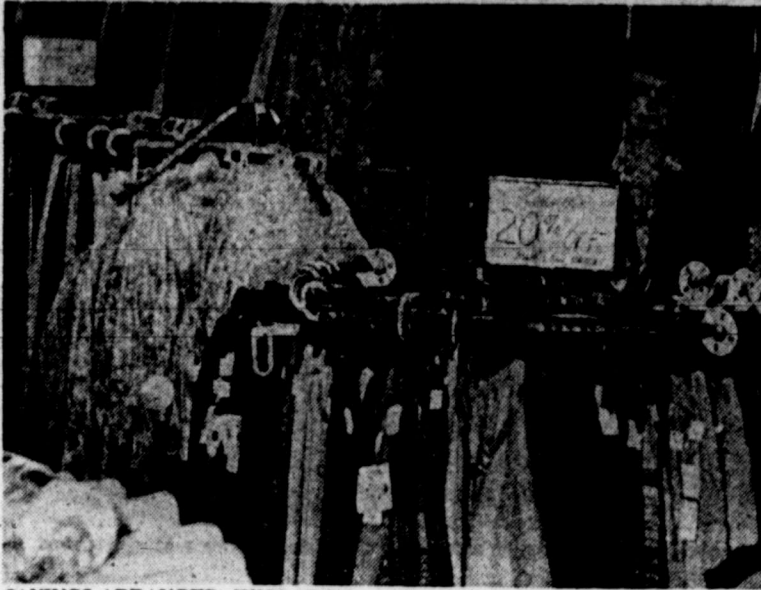

Specifics Given
Examples of the sale opportunities: Jeans (a designer label), compare at $30, now marked just $6!
Blouses (compare at $16 to $68), now $5.38 to $17!

And a large selection of ladies slacks, not $13 to $20 but now just $5!
"These and more values are what you can find at Zuriel's during this sale."

Costume jewelry, belts and bags have been added to the stock, and also are marked at reduced sale prices.

More about the Zuriel store, the truly one-of-its-kind facility located just east of 34th & University:

'Folks You Know'
The store is locally owned by Bill and Mary McNew, long in the retail business. Bill is a former Levine manager, also making very successful tenure with other well-known firms. He and Mrs. McNew were Plainview residents for several years, and she is an area native. Mrs. McNew is the former Mary Ben-night of Hart.

SAVINGS ARRANGED, EXPLAINED — Mary McNew of the Zuriel apparel store that opened late last year at 2409 34th St., announces drastic price reductions during the just-commencing January Sale. She also explains the firm's resourcefulness in its 'everyday low pricing policy on quality name-brand merchandise.'

Stocked in the Lubbock store are blouses, shirts, coordinates, separates, skirts, slacks, designer jeans, knit and velour tops, sweaters, dresses and suits.
All are "names you know, really well-known labels."

The low prices to the customer are enabled in large part by volume buying, rapid turnover of stock within the store, and the McNew's resourcefulness coming from years in the business.

Junior and ladies sizes are stocked: juniors 0 to 15, and ladies 4 to 18.

BankAmericard, Master Charge and layaway purchases are welcomed. Store hours are 10 until 6, Mondays through Saturdays.

Sale Values Throughout Large Stock Set By Stork Shop In Indiana Gardens

"New Year's Greetings" from The Stork Shop are underscored by special pricing at this time, with items marked 30 per cent to 50 per cent off!

Robert Spence Winter Session Begins Jan. 12

The winter session of classes at the Robert Spence School commences Jan. 12, just a week from today!

Deadline for registration is this Friday, and early attention is necessary to assure inclusion in the preferred classes.
The wise word is to get full details at once, from the Robert Spence School, in the Terrace Center, 4902 34th St., Suite 15, phone 797-8134.

A variety of classes will be available during this session; personal development, professional modeling, professional businesswoman's course, and the Little Princess, Young Miss and Classic Woman short courses will be offered. Enrollment is limited since no more than eight students are assigned to a class so that instructors can devote individual attention to each student.

The new professional businesswoman's course will be offered for the personnel of large or small businesses, banks or professional organizations. The six-lesson course concentrates on posture, poise, makeup, hairstyles, wardrobe and business etiquette for the woman in business. Class times are flexible to meet the schedules of the various groups.

The Little Princess and Young Miss are six-lesson courses designed, for ages five to nine and 10-14, and cover posture, social etiquette, grooming and personality.

The Classic Woman course is a six-lesson course designed for the woman who is interested in updating her wardrobe, perfecting her makeup and developing poise so she will be confident in all situations she may encounter. This course is successful for clubs and area groups.

Makeup Assistance
The Robert Spence School now has licensed aestheticians who can assist individuals on makeup applications. Facials and mini-facials are available by appointment. A bridal consulting service also is available to prospective brides and their mothers to help with the responsibilities of the many small details that consume so much of their time in preparing the wedding and events occurring on the wedding day.

Other exciting classes to be offered include jazz dance, self defense and women's exercise classes.

The personal development course, a 26-lesson course, is designed to help the student look and sound her best. By concentrating on the fundamental elements of movement, skin care and makeup, hair styling, figure correction, speaking, wardrobe coordination and personality development, the personal development course helps students achieve poise and self-confidence.

Beyond these self-improvement courses, Robert Spence offers an 18-lesson course of instruction in professional modeling.

The Robert Spence School is owned and directed by Brenda Becknell and is fully certified by the Texas Education Agency.

Miss Becknell has taught self improvement and modeling for eight years. She is a member of several Lubbock civic organizations and is serving on the Maid of Cotton committee. She is a preliminary judge for the Miss Lubbock Pageant and conducts seminars for the finalists. She is a co-sponsor for the Texas Tech Fashion Board. Miss Becknell has given lectures and programs for many organizations and businesses in the South Plains and Dallas areas.

Carpet Values
"The very best for you throughout the new year" is the sincere wish from Tuftwick Carpet's staff at Brownfield Highway and Slide Road in Lubbock.
Transition from the old year to the new has been made most interesting — for the pocketbook and for the home decor, energy conservation, comfort, etc. — by Tuftwick's announcement of "holding the price line" to fullest extent possible in every transaction, and at this particular time conducting "January Clearance".
"Inflated prices have affected the carpet industry as it has others," the management points out, "and we don't know what is in the future."
"But regardless, Tuftwick in Lubbock is selling all in-stock carpet at the old price — without increase."

Spring Crest January Sale
The big Annual January Sale at Spring Crest Draperies, 5302 Ave. Q in Briercroft Shopping Center, begins today!

This means that the limited-time sale affords such opportunities as:
All fabrics at 20 per cent off!
All woven woods and mini blinds at a big 25 per cent price reduction; and Crestrand (the sheer alternative) at 25 per cent off, too!

"Quite possibly you have been wanting to move up to Spring Crest, and this month's sale provides a most, most inviting opportunity, wouldn't you think? Spring Crest wants you to have the finest sweaters, pants, jeans and dresses!"

"So, more than ever, for anything in maternity wear, one can turn to Lubbock's only exclusive maternity wear shop, The Stork Shop, in Indiana Gardens, for selection and value.

In announcing the January sale, owner-manager Ida Langford goes further to emphasize:
"We are most mindful of the many benefits and blessings that have been ours in the year just ended, and we want to thank each of you who have contributed in any manner to the fellowships, trade and confidence that we have enjoyed. May the best that the new year can hold be yours."

More about the type shop that is The Stork Shop:
Owner Ida Langford bought extensively at market the past year and result is that a wide selection, in quality lines, enables delightful choices throughout the shop, even at sale time!

Brands to trust, in-depth stock, sensible prices at all times... these are very important to the owners... and the customers... at The Stork Shop.
Store hours are 10 a.m. until 6 p.m., six days a week.
Visa and Master Charge use is welcomed.

Under the ownership and personal management, since early 1978, of longtime Lubbock resident Mrs. Doyle (Ida) Langford, The Stork Shop actually dates its tenure of service from much earlier.

Since its founding it has been in the same Indiana Gardens location.
"Always fully stocked, neat and inviting, The Stork Shop says 'welcome' — in its decor, merchandise, service and genuine appreciation of your patronage and friendship."
"Don't forget the added opportunity of the sale prices at this time."
"But most important: we're glad to count you among our friends, and we wish you the very best the months ahead can promise."

For air compressors in the Panhandle and South Plains, it is Lubbock Electric Co., 1108 34th St., master distributors for Quincy.

New Learning Adventures Mark Gunther Piano Studio Program

"Gunther Piano Studios, 4819 58th St., phone 793-1672, are different, fantastically so!"

Consequently, studio enrollment has mushroomed and continues to grow. And now it is time to commence the exciting winter semester for piano students, age 4 through adults. Registration should be made at once. (Best time to call for registration is between 7:30 a.m. and 10 a.m.) All classes are one hour in length, held on a one-per-week basis, and the modest fee still is $7 for the hour class.

Gunther Studios are located across the street from Williams Elementary School, just three blocks east of South Plains Mall, easy to find and easy to reach.

Bonnie Apple Gunther, a Texas Tech graduate of '64, an area native from Monahans, Ill., where she was assistant professor of music at the University of Illinois. As a special consultant to the national education offices of Baldwin and Wurlitzer Companies, Mrs. Gunther has conducted workshops and seminars in class piano at universities and public schools throughout the nation. She often is featured as a special clinician on national and state convention programs.

Innovative Method
The group instruction in which she is specializing here is most innovative.

Electrical pianos dominate the big studio, and during piano practice, Mrs. Gunther and the children wear headphones. Switch on the piano enable the students to tune in only on their own and the teacher's piano or to listen to the entire class. The instructor can tune in or talk to any of the students when desired, and the pianos can be turned to full sound or muted. Sounding boards are replaced by an electronic device.

Fun Exercises Included
Fun exercises, such as a giant keyboard to serve as "home base" in a catching game, are part of the comprehensive programs arranged at the Gunther Studio.

Operating on theory that children learn best when they learn with others, in a lab atmosphere and with finest lab facilities, the students grouped by age level acquire such important skills as solo performance, sight reading, transposition, harmonization and improvisation. In addition to learning to play the piano students learn here about music in general through theory study, rhythm activities and critical listening.

For Even Young Children
It is a real delight to be included in studies at the Gunther Piano Studios! Classes are available for beginners, intermediate and advanced. Special exciting pre-school classes for 4-year-old and 5-year-old children are conducted, with several openings available in this age bracket. These students do not have to have a piano in the home.

Morning and afternoon classes are available, and each involve four to six students.

Bonnie Gunther is a member of the Lubbock Music Teachers Association, Texas Group Piano Teachers, and Music Teachers National Association. She has co-authored a series of studies used in public school labs and is now in process of authoring another.

Bonnie enjoys teaching. "It is fun," she emphasizes, "to introduce and assist the student to new achievements and joys," and a visit to the studio will correctly convey that the student... from age 4 to even those above 70... share in the pleasure. It is a different kind of studio, a fun laboratory, an innovative gateway to new horizons.

Beck's Warp 'n Weave Begins Annual January Sale, Tells Class Schedule

Beck's Warp 'n Weave, at 3021 34th St., has two announcements of special significance at this time:

- (1) The Annual January Sale starts today at Warp 'n Weave!
- (2) Instruction opportunities are more extensive than ever, with classes and workshops for the new season beginning within a few days.

(Other announcements that should be given special mention include the really expanded stock within the popular and unique shop that already has made a name for its completeness.)

In the January Sale (beginning today, remember) selected items are marked up to 50 per cent off!

There are particular values in yarns and books during the sale.

For the exciting workshops and classes crowding the calendar at Beck's Warp 'n Weave, one should inquire and register at earliest possible date to be sure of a place in one or more of these opportunities. Check now, at Warp 'n Weave, 3021 34th St., phone 799-0151, for details on class content, supplies, costs, etc.

Classes, Workshops
Among the classes and workshops in the new schedule are:

Beginning Multi-Harness Loom, afternoon and evening schedules, beginning Jan. 21, Feb. 3 and April 16, with instructors including Tom Beck and Charlotte Funk Beginning Frame Loom, morning and evening schedules, beginning Jan. 20, Feb. 5, April 16, and April 28, Nancy Beck instructing.

Basketry, Tuesday, Feb. 17, morning and afternoon, Nancy Beck teaching in a pine needle basketry workshop.

Coiled Basketry Workshop, Feb. 24, morning and afternoon, Nancy Beck.

Coiled Basketry Class, evening, May 14 and May 21, Nancy Beck.

Tatting, afternoon and evening schedules, Feb. 5, Feb. 10, Feb. 12, April 2, April 7, April 9, Betty Bradford.

Wheat Weaving, morning and afternoon, March 3, Nancy Beck.

Navajo Style Weaving, morning, afternoon and evening schedules, April dates, Shelby Adams instructing.

Yei Ojo Workshop, April 11, 12, morning and afternoon.

Cardweaving, Feb. 14, 21, May 9, 16, afternoons, Virginia Riggs.

Knitting, afternoons and evenings, early February beginning, Virginia Riggs and Betty Bradford.

Crocheting, March 5, 10, 12, afternoons.

A Spinning Workshop by Joan Holborn, "Other Fibers," is scheduled March 7, 8. One will learn to spin cotton, mohair, flax, yak, camel, etc.

A Twill Tricks Workshop by Charlotte Funk is slated April 25, 26. Other than working with twills, design and color will be discussed.

Not only are the classes impressive, but for all supplies, including yarns, threads, needlepunch, new books, weaving, spinning, basketry, bating supplies and still more, Warp 'n Weave is worthy of immediate and continued patronage.

"Don't forget our sale, come on in!"

Pennyrich Bra & Lingerie Shop Begins First-Of-Year Sale, Tells Added Lines

Not only is delightful in-season wear available in abundance at the new-look Pennyrich Bra & Lingerie Shop, 4134 34th St., but there is further exciting news:

"Our First-of-Year Sale begins today, and there are items marked 20 per cent off, others 30 per cent off, and even others at half price during this event!"

There are lots and lots of marked-down prices in the large assortment of winter wear, and even some summer items.

This is a great opportunity to secure exceptional value in robes, other loungewear, warm-ups, etc.

Cosmetic Sets
And there are the personalized scented perfume sets, regular $15 to $18, priced during the sale at $10!

Look at other advantages of this distinctive shop:

Not only is the well-known Pennyrich Bra line still featured, but another quality label has been included: Sculptress Bras are stocked, too, in a complete line.

Some may not realize the two popular cosmetic names also at Pennyrich Bra &

Lingerie Shop. The prestigious Viviane Woodard cosmetics long have been popular at the shop, and the Nutri-Metrics natural, organic, derma-genic cosmetics also are stocked. Choose from bath oils, perfumes, etc. Free makeup classes can be arranged by appointment.

The present shop ownership (since September of 1979) seemingly went "all out" this past year in expanding stock, remodeling and upgrading.

Customer service has been foremost consideration, it is evident.

June Schwarz is owner, with daughter Dolores Cox as manager, and with long-time staff member Charlie B. Heald as trained fitter.

"Name" lines are the rule.

Sizes are from petites to large. There is a good selection of girdles in sizes petite to 3X.

Food Massage Pads
Also fantastically popular is the Ah-Q-Pressure foot massage pad that is stocked.

It enables the most invigorating of foot massages, right at home, and is especially appreciated by people who must sit at a desk most of the day, those who drive long distances in a car or truck, those who have any kind of occupation requiring long hours of standing or excessive walking, those working in a shop, service station or hospital, and those who go up and down stairs or climb ladders many times a day.

The Ah-Q-Pressure massage is a great way to start and end the day!

Extensive Bra Selection
The finest in bras are stocked, including the new smooth seamless. The Pennyrich selection includes over 150 sizes!

"If you wear up to a size 52 in a store bra, we can fit you and assure you complete comfort and beauty."

"We specialize, too, in fitting the Pennyrich prosthesis bra that has 100 per cent silicone shell fitted with silicone gel, the nearest thing to the natural breast."

The beautiful, service-oriented Pennyrich Bra & Lingerie Shop, 4134 34th St., phone 799-4826, is open Mondays through Saturdays 10 until 5 each day.

"We extend Happy New Year wishes in the best way we know — with the meaningful sale starting today!"

"BEFORE AND AFTER" CENTER'S EXPERT STRIPPING

"New Year's Greetings from the Finish-Off Stripping Center, 1922 Ave. E in Lubbock."
 "Many of you discovered in 1980 the services that we provide for refinishers striving to obtain professional, long-lasting results. These same services are afforded in the new year, and we invite old and new customers alike to come in, visit and learn of the professional job we do, aid that can be a real solution in your particular stripping need."

As every do-it-yourselfer soon learns, successful refinishing begins with a properly prepared surface. The unique process available exclusively at Finish-Off Stripping Center quickly, safely and thoroughly removes layers of paint, stain and varnish from wood and other materials.
 By letting Finish-Off Stripping Center professionally strip down articles for refinishing, the refinisher starts with the cleanest surface possible. In addition, Finish-Off offers a line of fine products and supplies to complete the refinishing task.

Avoid the damage that occurs with scraping and with harsh commercial stripping products. The Finish-Off process will not loosen glued joints or damage marble, formica or thin wood veneers. Wood units with stained glass inserts can be stripped without having to remove the glass panel since the process will not damage glass. Entire pieces or large sections can be processed without bothersome dismantling. Pieces with ornately carved designs, curved spindles or other small details can present a tedious stripping chore. However, at Finish-Off, those areas are cleared with the most delicate details safely preserved.

Grease, grime and rust are dissolved away, making the process useful for reclaiming rusted tools and equipment, as well as for restoring decorative metal items. A rust preventative coating is applied at Finish-Off to protect freshly stripped metal. Along articles processed at Finish-Off have been antique car parts and car body pieces to be repainted.

"There is no need to endure the time-consuming and messy job of stripping a furniture piece or of scrubbing rust from a metal object. Let Finish-Off give you the professional's edge with a properly prepared surface for refinishing."

"Start" at Finish-Off Stripping Center for a beautiful "finish." Call 747-3938 or bring your items to be stripped to the Finish-Off Stripping Center, 1922 Ave. E in Lubbock."

Village Craft Corner, In South Plains Mall, Sets Class, Workshop Schedule

Village Craft Corner in South Plains Mall comes through in 1981, ushering in the year with a most impressive class schedule and with instructors of proven ability and popularity.
 Possessing an enviable record of superior workshops, art and craft classes, the just-announced instruction schedule appears to hold "more than ever" for participants.

Classes begin in mid-January and on into February and March in some instances. Immediate inquiry and enrollment therefore is necessary to be included in the class of one's choice.

Included among instructors are Barbara Bilberry, Terri Burdette, Billie Lane, Mac Carow, Marsha Wilkes, Jean Green, J.D. Keel, Georgia Bartlett, Bill Huffaker and Danny Gamble.

Workshops

Danny Gamble will conduct watercolor workshops Jan. 26 through Jan. 30. J. D. Keel's oil workshop will be Jan. 12 through Jan. 16.

Saturday workshops are planned by Georgia Bartlett and Bill Huffaker. Jean Green and J. D. Keel are scheduled to begin weekly oil painting classes in March.

Classes Listed

Following is a list of weekly classes, with interested participants urged to contact Village Craft Corner in the South Plains Mall, phone (806) 797-2114, for full details regarding times, costs, materials, etc. Beginning class dates are listed in each instance:

Monday: Feb. 2: Oil Painting, Terri Burdette, 11:30 a.m. until 2:30 p.m.; Jan. 19, Beginning Tole Painting, Billie Lane, 1-4 p.m.; Jan. 19, Intermediate Tole, Billie Lane, 6-9 p.m.; and Feb. 2, Oil Painting, Barbara Bilberry, 6-9 p.m.

Tuesdays: Jan. 20, Mini Canvas Painting, Barbara Bilberry, 1-3 p.m., and 6-8 p.m.

Wednesdays: Portraits, oil or pastel, Mac Carow, 6-9 p.m.; Feb. 4, Beginning Oil Painting, Terri Burdette, 6-9 p.m.

Thursdays: Feb. 5, Watercolors, Marsha Wilkes, 10-1 and 6-9; Feb. 5, Intermediate Oil Painting, Mac Carow, 6-9.

Fridays: Jan. 23, Portraits, oil or pastel, Mac Carow, 10 a.m. until 1 p.m.

These are all hand-picked instructors, and they hardly need introduction, do they? Historically, classes from each have been in great demand.

Aside from instruction, Village Craft excels in supplies, frames, "how to" books, art supplies, craft needs and all.

"It can be a fun and achievement time ahead for you in early 1981 and throughout the year with Village Craft Corner helping in its unique and long-appreciated way."

"Happy New Year!"

Performance School Of Music Relates Concept, Opportunities

It has been a most successful year for the apply-named Performance School of Music, 4023 34th St., phone 797-1807!

Director L.T. Stampfli is very gratified at the response accorded the school, and he expresses his deep appreciation to all the adult and youth participants, at the same time announcing a comprehensive instruction (group and private) program for the new year.

The adult piano classes met with exceptional success in the innovative performance-oriented school, and a new schedule of these, too, will begin this month.

Early registration for all instruction is urged, as many group classes are of necessity limited in capacity.

There also is private piano, private guitar and private voice instruction available, with immediate inquiry and registration also wisely advised in these categories.

The locally-owned Performance School of Music is directed by L.T. Stampfli, B.A., M.M., who certainly is no stranger on the Lubbock music scene. He has given private instruction for 10 years here and has taught collegiate, group and studio lessons.

"Unlike many instructors, Stampfli has extensive experience in the performance and technique of improvisational methods that are highly useful to a well-rounded musician."

He is experienced in performance, choir and band direction, songwriting and arranging, and has been a conference speaker in liturgical music.

Classes at the Performance School of Music are conducted Mondays through Fridays.

The comprehensive program even includes adult beginner classes in early evening as a consideration to working participants.

Private piano lessons at all levels are available.

Private voice lessons, the Performance way, insures that the student's voice is not damaged in development. These lessons include sight reading for voice, diction, breath control, phrasing, posture and a variety of other skills essential for solo, ensemble or choral singing.

Private guitar lessons are given in classical, pop and jazz guitar, for the beginner or advanced performer.

Group piano lessons feature work in the Baldwin EP 100 Electronic Piano Laboratory at Performance School of Music, with advantages cited to include a high level of motivation, ease in performance, low drop-out rate, high achievement level, broad musician experience, and economy.

"Let L.T. Stampfli, phone 797-1807, at 4023 34th St., give full details on any phase of the Performance School of Music program. You'll want to register now to avoid missing out on a lot of pleasure

Class Opportunities, Workshops, Top Instructor Staff Told At Mrs. B's

"Don't be left out!" The suggestion is to take advantage of the most impressive schedule of oil canvas and tone painting classes and workshops one could desire . . . at Mrs. B's Arts, Crafts & Gifts, 5105 29th Drive, phone 797-5850.

Enrollment is underway for these sought-after classes that begin the week of January 19, just a few days away.

Advance registration is necessary to assure a place in one of these classes, so get your name in now!

Instructors will include Frankie "Pee Wee" Lanier, Jan DuBose, Sara Storrs and Karen Sherman, with Charles Lyles conducting a special workshop in February.

Both day and evening classes are offered at Mrs. B's as a customer consideration.

None of the instructors are strangers to the clientele of Mrs. B's, nor are they strangers to the area, with all having enviable teaching and project achievement records. All are very talented, and one is invited to take the course of his or her choice with any of these artists.

Oils will be taught by Pee Wee Lanier and Jan DuBose.

Tone classes are by Sara Storrs and Karen Sherman.

The Charles Lyles workshops always are in extreme demand, and Mrs. B's is glad to report that this highly regarded artist and instructor from Hereford again is scheduled for workshops here.

Other classes, instructors and workshops will be scheduled from time to time, so watch for announcements or check regularly with Mrs. B's where something new always is in stock and in store for happy craft and art pursuits.

Full information regarding specialties of each artist instructor and of the nature of each class, together with costs and schedules, is available at Mrs. B's.

It is an outstanding Winter '81 season at Mrs. B's Arts, Crafts & Gifts, including its finest instruction and new merchandise that is in abundance and even outstanding at this shop recognized for the new and different.

All materials necessary for any of the classes are stocked.

A good frame selection is maintained, together with many intriguing wood shapes for tone paintings.

Weekly there are new arrivals throughout the shop, and frequent visits are invited and advised to stay abreast of all that's new.

Everything at Mrs. B's, owned and actively operated by Margie Berryhill, says "welcome" and "a happy new year for all!"

Hallie's Thrift Shoppe Enables Sure Solution In Season's Apparel Budget

"Just as in the concluded year (and for 14 years past) Hallie's Thrift Shoppe can very well be one of your very best friends throughout the year . . . in 1981!"

At this season, the folks at Hallie's Thrift Shoppe, not only extend heartiest of New Year Greetings and thanks for all the cherished associations of the season past, but they want to help in your very own budget situation throughout 1981.

"You are not alone if Christmas demands caused a really great strain on the pocketbook. Were wardrobe expenditures verified for other needs of the season? If so, there is sensible assistance just as near as Hallie's Thrift Shoppe. It is a great place to trade and save in face of inflation."

By virtue of entering its 14th year, Hallie's lays claim to being "the only really established store in town for resale of better quality merchandise, the leading store of its type season after season."

Hallie's Thrift Shoppe, 3510 Ave. Q, can appreciably aid the fashion need and the economy need "for you, too" in every season of the year.

It's a reality: One can beat inflation, beat the rising apparel costs, by depending upon Hallie's Thrift Shoppe for the right apparel at lowest prices.

Hallie's Thrift Shoppe is open Tuesdays through Saturdays, closed each Monday.

At Hallie's Thrift Shoppe there is lots of new merchandise plus consignment items that are strictly "first class" that can be a smart solution to the wardrobe budget.

With the increased costs at every hand, it is exciting to find a firm that can greatly reduce some of this cash outlay.

One can dress smartly for every season, and at a cost "that can be lived with," thanks to Hallie's Thrift Shoppe's full selection and unique business concept.

Hallie's, primarily a resale shop for better merchandise, has been at its present 3510 Ave. Q location (with off-street parking) since 1972, and owner-operator Hallie Payne marks her 14th year in the business.

Top Quality Only
The exceptional stock, attractively displayed with plenty of room for selection and fitting, involves top quality new and nearly new formal wear, school and street wear, etc.

There are clothes for the entire family (sold on consignment) and the prices are most appealing.

Call Regarding Consignments
"If you have items suitable for consignment, call Hallie's at 744-6772 for appointment and arrangements."

"Please be prepared, when calling for appointment, to disclose at that time the number of acceptable garments you want to consign. (By 'acceptable' we mean apparel in perfect condition, in fashion and most usually in season.)"

School Enrolls Girls Despite U.S. Judge

BUCKEYE, La. (AP) — State police escorted three white girls into all-white Buckeye High School this morning, and the girls were enrolled for classes under state court order in defiance of a federal judge's desegregation directive.

"We have no alternative but to enroll the girls at this time," said Principal Charles Waites. "We don't have any choice with your state police here but to enroll them. I'm caught back in the middle and I'm squeezed a little tighter this time."

The enrollments came on orders of state District Judge Richard Lee. He took the extraordinary step of assuming custody of the girls, who want to go to school at rural Buckeye rather than obey U.S. District Judge Nauman Scott's order that they ride buses to a predominantly black school in Alexandria, 15 miles away.

Scott threatened the girls' parents and school officials with $500 daily fines if they interfered with his pupil assignment plan aimed at desegregating the schools.

Scott's office said he was not in town today, so there was no immediate word on how he would react to the girls' enrollment.

The girls arrived at the school, which includes grades 7-12, just before 7:30 a.m. in a pickup truck and were met by state police, including Col. Bo Garrison, state head of the patrol, and a lawyer for the state Department of Public Safety.

The girls were escorted into the school by Capt. Bob Garfo, commander of the troop based in Alexandria, and two uniformed state police officers — one of them black.

They went to Waites' office and Garfo handed Waites a copy of the state court order. Waites then sent the girls to the counselor's office to be re-enrolled. At Scott's order, the three girls were dropped from the school rolls when the offices opened at 7 a.m., officials said.

They said the three, who signed up for routine eighth grade courses such as history, science, math, and English, will be accompanied to classes all day by the armed troopers.

Garfo said, "We will be here until we are enjoined or until the matter is settled in the court."

Lee ordered state troopers to post themselves at the school and arrest anyone who tried to stop the children from attending.

Lee has been trying to checkmate Scott for months, saying the case is under state jurisdiction because it's a custody case involving family law. Scott maintains federal law governs because the dispute stems from a desegregation order.

Under a desegregation plan issued by Scott at the beginning of the school year, Michelle LaBorde and Lynda McNeal, both 13, and Ramona Carbo, 12, were among students to be transferred from Buckeye to Jones Street Junior High in Alexandria, the biggest town in Rapides Parish.

The girls' parents went to state court and gave up legal custody of their children to friends living in the Buckeye attendance zone. The girls enrolled at Buckeye, but Scott ordered school officials not to admit them to classes.

A flurry of orders and counter-orders followed. Lee twice sent sheriff's deputies to escort the girls to class at Buckeye.

Just before the Christmas holiday started, Scott threatened to fine anyone who tried to prevent the girls from enrolling at the Jones Street school, saying it was time "to put up or shut up."

"He is absolutely void of jurisdiction in the matter," Lee said of Scott. "He's not going to stop any proceedings in my court on a matter involving state law just because he's a federal judge. I respect his court and I expect him to respect my court."

"He's strong-willed, which is a euphemism for hard-headed," state District Judge Guy Humphries Jr. said of Lee.

LISTENING TO THE CHIEF — Florida highway patrolmen listen to Gov. Bob Graham Sunday afternoon in Miami, as he briefs them on their assignment to help local law enforcement officers quell a growing crime wave in the city and surrounding area. The troopers will take over traffic duties in Dade County, freeing police and sheriff's deputies. (AP Laserphoto)

Begin's Regime Facing Collapse

TEL AVIV, Israel (AP) — Prime Minister Menachem Begin's coalition government averted collapse by naming a committee to study controversial pay hikes for teachers, but one opposition newspaper said several Cabinet ministers believe Begin will have to resign soon.

The compromise effort mounted by the Cabinet Sunday put off the crisis for a few days, but the opposition Labor Party newspaper Davar said today that several of Begin's ministers feel he won't last in office until the national elections scheduled for November.

A second newspaper, the independent Haaretz, said Begin in a speech during the Cabinet meeting displayed "a tone of exhaustion from the constant effort of bridging the differences in the government." The conservative prime minister has suffered at least two heart attacks while in office.

The Cabinet is split over teachers' demands for pay increases recommended in the report of a blue-ribbon commission set up after a crippling 52-day strike two years ago.

Finance Minister Yigael Hurvitz, battling a 131-percent inflation rate, the world's highest last year, has submitted his "conditional resignation" to take effect if the raises are granted. He says the pay hikes would undermine his anti-inflation measures.

Education Minister Ze'ev Hammer says he will quit if the teachers do not get more money.

The Cabinet stopped the clock on the crisis by naming Begin, Hurvitz, and Hammer to a committee to discuss the pay issue and report back later this week. If no agreement is reached by then, Begin's Likud coalition and its one-vote majority in Parliament would again be threatened. But Begin could stay in office as a caretaker for as long as 11 months, delaying the general election until their scheduled time in November.

The teachers, unhappy with the compromise, held a one-hour warning strike today.

The Labor Party has prepared a bill that would have the Knesset, Israel's 120-member parliament, dissolve itself within 100 days. But informed sources said it was reluctant to use this tactic until it was assured of a winning majority. The newspaper Yediot Ahronoth said the parliamentary lineup on the bill is 55-55 at present with 10 members undecided.

Press reports said Begin still seemed eager to stay in office, but more pessimistic about his chances.

Meanwhile, the semi-official Egyptian newspaper Al-Ahram reported preparations for a meeting between Egyptian President Anwar Sadat and President-elect Ronald Reagan will begin "within days." It said the meeting would be held "as soon as possible" and would deal with "all Mideast issues," including the stalled Egyptian-Israeli negotiations on an autonomy plan for the 1.2 million Palestinians on the Israeli occupied West Bank of the Jordan River and in the Gaza Strip.

Al-Ahram said a summit meeting of Reagan, Sadat and Begin would follow if the Israeli leader survives his current political troubles at home.

On the West Bank, the Palestinian nationalist mayor of Nablus, crippled in a car-bombing last summer, returned home from treatment in Britain to a hero's welcome Sunday. He urged a cheering crowd of thousands to continue their struggle against Israeli rule.

Bassam Shakaa used two canes and two artificial legs to move around slowly.

In Beirut, a visiting American college professor said Yasser Arafat, the head of the Palestine Liberation Organization, told him he is drawing up guidelines for a Palestinian state and would "accept U.N. forces and superpower guarantees" to act as a buffer between it and Israel.

Philip Rivera of the Lincoln Land Community College in Springfield, Ill., heading a group of 26 American educators visiting Beirut, said Arafat, in an apparent reference to the U.S. government's refusal to recognize the PLO, told the group his organization could use "well-educated Palestinians who hold important positions in places like Iran against the United States."

Cold Wave Smashes Records

ern New York Sunday's frigid blasts were the icing on the cake.

While health officials from Minnesota to Maine warned of the dangers of frostbite, motorists seemed to take the brunt of the weekend's cold wave. Many local chapters of the AAA reported being inundated with calls from motorists whose cars wouldn't start.

In New York City, where the low was 5 degrees Sunday, the Central Complaint Bureau received 8,074 calls between 8 a.m. and 11 p.m. about heating problems in apartments.

A spokesman said it could take up to a week to respond to the complaints because of budget cuts that have left the agency with fewer inspectors.

A year ago we were able to tell people we would have an inspector there in 48 to 72 hours," said acting hot-line supervisor Alfonso Lee. "Now we just tell them we'll be there as soon as we can."

Citrus growers in northern and central Florida were concerned about overnight frost, but said the forecast didn't indicate the cold would last long enough to cause serious damage.

In Cleveland, the single-digit temperatures and 15-to-25-mph winds made the National Football League playoff game between the Oakland Raiders and Cleveland Browns resemble a hockey contest, with players bundled up and gingerly running along the frozen turf.

In West Stewartstown, N.H., rising ice on the Connecticut River worried emergency officials.

Civil Defense director Gary Richardson said the river ice had climbed to within 10 feet of a bridge connecting the town of 500 people to Canaan, Vt. He said the water level is usually about 20 feet beneath the bridge.

In Maryland, the U.S. Coast Guard restricted travel along parts of Chesapeake Bay as up to two inches of ice covered the waterway and its tributaries north of Worton Point.

And back-to-back power failures Sunday left more than 15,000 homes along North Carolina's upper Outer Banks and Roanoke Island areas without electricity for up to 14 hours, forcing many residents and travelers to seek emergency shelter against frigid wintry weather.

Spokesmen for Virginia Electric & Power Co. said the utility's main supply line for the area—in service for about one month — snapped about 10 a.m., knocking out power to virtually all of Currituck and Dare counties, from Cape Hatteras northward to the Virginia line. The power was restored for up to two hours late Sunday night but service was lost again to the Kill Devil Hills, Manteo and Nags Head areas when a second supply line snapped in 15-degree weather.

Police Chief Refutes Bribery Allegations

COLUMBIA S.C. (AP) — City Police Chief Arthur G. Hess says he is innocent of charges that he took two bribes worth $4,000 from a state informant.

Hess, 45, was charged recently in Columbia with taking $3,000 earlier in the day from the informant for the state Law Enforcement Division in exchange for a promise to go easy on gambling enforcement. He was also charged with taking a $1,000 bribe from the informant in October.

TWO INJURED IN MISHAP

A man and woman were undergoing treatment for undetermined injuries at 1:30 p.m. today at Lubbock General Hospital following one-car rollover on Canyon Lakes Drive about a half mile east of Quirt Avenue. The two victims, whose names were not immediately available, were thrown several feet from the compact car in the 12:30 p.m. mishap.

State Troopers To Fight Crime Wave In Miami

MIAMI (UPI) — A special force of 100 Florida Highway Patrol troopers are being drilled in the Miami area today to help beleaguered local lawmen in their war on a massive crime wave in south Florida.

"Like the cavalry riding over the hill when you're surrounded, it's great to see you all," Dade County Police Chief Bobby Jones told the arriving troopers Sunday.

The troopers were to receive orientation today and Tuesday. They are scheduled to hit the streets Wednesday to take over traffic duties so Dade County's police officers can concentrate on battling the soaring rate of more serious crimes.

A Miami Police Department spokesman also said a police van would begin today patrolling downtown streets four times daily to round up vagrants and loiterers in an effort to curb muggings and car thefts.

Vice squad officers hope stepped-up surveillance of downtown bars will help stem drug, gambling and prostitution activities.

Murders in Dade County increased by 90 percent in the last two years. The number of other serious crimes, many stemming from drug wars, racial tension and the influx of Cuban and Haitian refugees, also increased dramatically.

"With the additional help, our patrolmen will be able to respond more quickly and effectively to more serious crimes," Miami Police Chief Kenneth Harms said.

The city and county police chiefs, Gov. Bob Graham and other state officials were on hand at Miami High School to greet the troopers — most of them volunteers.

"Sixty-five percent of them volunteered to come here," said Lt. Gene Grady of the Highway Patrol. "The others were assigned, but they're troopers. When they're told to do a job, they do it."

"The plan is, we will respond to all traffic accidents until all our units are tied up," Grady said. "Then the regular police would have to respond."

Many of the new arrivals said they looked forward to their duty in Dade County.

ate place of residence," the official Iranian news agency Pars reported. Contacted by telephone from Beirut, he told the AP this was done for reasons of "convenience."

"It was decided from the beginning that when the hostages were delivered to the government, the three at the ministry would also be taken by the government," Azizi said.

"The other 49 hostages are now in the hands of the government," he reported, indicating for the first time that the militants who seized the U.S. Embassy on Nov. 4, 1979, had surrendered control of the captives as they promised to do last November when Iran's Parliament set conditions for the Americans' release.

Erik Lang, the Swiss ambassador in Tehran, said in a telephone interview from Beirut that he had been told by the Iranians that the three had been moved from the Foreign Ministry and placed with the other hostages and that the Iranian government has taken control of the captives.

But Lang, whose government represents U.S. interests in Iran, said he had been refused permission to visit any of the 52 hostages since the Christmas holidays, when he saw the three at the Foreign Ministry. "I don't know where they are," Lang said.

Laingen, Tomseth and Howland were at the Foreign Ministry when the militants took over the embassy and had been kept there ever since. Azizi refused to say where any of the Americans were being held now or whether all of them were together.

After the abortive attempt to rescue the hostages last April, the militants said they had transferred their 49 prisoners to other cities. But there was speculation in Washington that they never left the embassy.

The head of Iran's hostage negotiating team, Behzad Navabi, said on Dec. 21 the hostages had been transferred recently to "very beautiful hotels provided with complete services." The other 49 hostages were reported reunited for Christmas services, but it was not known if they remained together afterwards.

U.S. officials in Washington said they had no confirmation of Azizi's report that the government had taken control of the hostages. But White House spokesman Jody Powell said the reported transfer of the three Americans from the Foreign Ministry "does cause us some concern."

He said they "had been under somewhat more favorable conditions both in terms of communication with them and in terms of the amenities which they enjoyed...."

There was speculation Iran was gathering the hostages in preparation either to release them or to try them as spies, something Iranian officials have threatened to do if the United States failed to meet its demands.

Asked about the renewed threats of trials, Powell said: "We have made it very clear... that if our people were placed on trial that the government of the United States could not sit idly by and that very serious consequences

Holiday Traffic Mishaps Fatal To 38 In Texas

By The Associated Press

Thirty-eight people were killed on Texas streets and highways during the long New Year's holiday — one more than Department of Public Safety estimates.

The grisly 102-hour count ended at midnight Sunday.

DPS spokesman Richard Grimmert said the toll reached 34 by late Sunday, and four others died during the night.

Sylvia Zamora Ugolina, 26, was killed at 11:59 p.m. as a passenger on a motorcycle that ran off the road on IH 10 in El Paso. Her address was unknown.

A four-car crash Sunday night in Austin County killed Paul James McElroy, 23, of LaGrange and Andrew Jackson Raymond, 26, of Cameron. Grimmert said two cars collided head-on, then glanced off two other vehicles about 9:45 p.m. two miles south of Sealey.

And Phillip Anthony Holt, 19, of Lockhart, was killed as a passenger when a car ran off U.S. 87 and overturned Sunday evening about 17 miles north of Sterling City in Sterling County.

Grimmert said DPS used a beefed-up patrol Sunday night, pulling troopers from other duties to aid patrol units during the windup of the holiday period.

Boone refused to state his reasons for continuing the order.

"Nobody needs to understand," he told The Avalanche-Journal after the hearing. "It's just there."

"I don't want to get hostile, but I will if you continue to ask me about this case," he said leaving the bench. "Why don't we talk about the weather?"

When the gag order was initiated, Boone allowed all court records to remain open, including 22 depositions of witnesses.

However, after a story utilizing the depositions was published in The Avalanche-Journal, an attorney representing the relatives filed a request to seal all depositions, which was granted by Boone.

The Masten estate has been valued at between $12 million to $50 million and consists of more than 100,000 acres in six Texas counties, more than $1 million in bank deposits and the oil and gas rights to the property.

On Oct. 28, 1979, Masten scribbled a one-paragraph note leaving all of his estate to Abilene Christian University. Two codicils, dated the same day, indicated he also wanted a woman friend in Amarillo, as well as his nieces, nephews and some hired men, to have some of his estate.

Seventy-two days later, Masten died and a day after that, the will was filed in Lamb County.

Although no one at the hearing would comment on the details of the settlement, Gilkerson indicated ACU managed to obtain a substantial part of the estate.

"They agreed to it didn't they?" he asked.

Dr. John Stevens, president of ACU, refused to comment on the case when contacted in Abilene this morning.

Few Teens Sign Up For Draft

By MARY ALICE ROBBINS
Avalanche-Journal Staff
The final mass draft registration of American males got off to a slow start in Lubbock today, with less than 20 registrants signed up at the main post office by mid-morning.

And some of those who did show up expressed little enthusiasm for the Selective Service's registration requirement.

"It's kind of scary," noted 19-year-old Estacado High School senior Larry White, one of the first to register on the opening day of the current sign-up period.

White said he only registered because he is required by law to do so. The thought of having to go to war is terrifying, he added.

Perry Harmon, an 18-year-old electrical engineering major at Texas Tech University, voiced even stronger opposition to the draft registration.

"I don't think it's worthwhile," Harmon commented. "We shouldn't have to fight other people's battles."

However, Harmon said he would not be as reluctant to go to war if the nation was forced into an armed conflict with Iran.

Tim Schuehler, a chemical engineering major at Tech, was less opposed to the registration requirement than other 18-year-olds interviewed.

"I guess it's a good thing," Schuehler observed. "With the situation today as far as the world is concerned, if they need us, then they can call on us."

Schuehler also said he believes the draft would bring better qualified men into the nation's armed forces.

The Lubbock 18-year-olds are among nearly 2 million American men born in 1962 who are expected to register for the still non-existent military draft during the next week and a half.

Last summer, almost 4 million males born in 1960 and 1961 signed up during the first mass registration period since the draft was halted five years ago in the wake of protests over the Vietnam War.

Selective Service officials reported about a 95 percent turnout during the earlier registration period that kicked off July 21, 1980.

President Carter pushed for the renewal of a draft registration, saying it would increase the nation's military preparedness.

Although the second mass registration is underway, however, the fate of the mandatory sign-up remains in doubt. One of those who has voiced opposition to registration during peacetime periods is President-elect Ronald Reagan.

There also is a case before the U.S. Supreme Court in which registration is being challenged as discriminatory on the basis of sex because only men are registered.

A U.S. District Court judge in Philadelphia ruled earlier that the mandatory registration is unconstitutional because women were not included. But the Supreme Court is not expected to issue its ruling in the case until sometime this spring.

The beginning of the current registration period apparently drew less local interest than the first day for registering last summer.

A small crowd of young men gathered at the front door of the main post office prior to the opening of the building July 21. Reports indicated that nearly 30 men had signed up at the post office within the first 15 minutes after the local registration effort started.

"I think it's going to be slow today, but I expect it to really pick up later," said Don Jones, the post office official in charge of the Selective Service registration here.

The earlier mass registration covered 18- and 19-year-olds, Jones said. The current sign-up is aimed only at those men born in 1962, he added.

Jones noted that the registration effort will continue through Jan. 14, and sign-up facilities will be open at all local post offices.

If a young man fails to register during the official period, he can still sign up at a later date, Jones said.

The postal official noted that several young men who should have signed up in July were registered at the main post office last week. "We're not going to turn anybody down," he added.

This will be the last mass registration effort, Jones explained. After the current sign-up period ends, he said, men will be required to register when they reach their 18th birthdays.

Failure to register is a felony, punishable by a $10,000 fine and five years in jail.

REGISTER FOR DRAFT — Fewer than 20 local 18-year-olds had signed up for the mandatory draft registration by mid-morning today at the main post office. Among the early registrants were Texas Tech University basketball player Bubba Jennings, left, and Charles Luckey. The mass registration will continue through Jan. 14, and young men can register at any local post office, officials noted. (Staff Photo by Paul Moseley)

Authorities Denying Allegations Of Slow Response To Fatal Fire

By United Press International

Authorities in Brunswick, N.J., are denying claims their city's emergency phone system was slow to summon help to the deadliest fire during the New Year's holiday weekend, which killed seven people.

The seven victims were among the 89 fire fatalities reported during the long, four-day weekend.

New York reported the most fire fatalities with 14, followed by New Jersey with 11 and Ohio and Pennsylvania with seven each. Illinois reported six deaths, California five, and Maine four. A lit cigarette dropped in a couch ignited a blaze that killed a woman and her 18-month-old child in Cleveland, Ohio.

Authorities said Dianne Sellers, 24, and her son, Shawn, died of burns and smoke inhalation Sunday in their home. Police said the house was set ablaze by a cigarette dropped into the couch.

In the New Jersey fire, Howard Foster Jr., 16, said he dialed the special 911 emergency number three times on New Year's Day while he watched his neighbors die in their burning house.

Twice, he said, he got no answer and another time he got a busy signal. Police Sunday defended the fire department, which they said responded to the call two minutes after it was received. Fire officials said whoever reported the fire was "hysterical."

When firefighters arrived at the home, all seven occupants were dead. They found the bodies of a 22-year-old mother and her three children huddled on the first floor of the house, just two feet from a window. The others — two adults and a child — were found elsewhere in the house.

Mayor Seeking Pardon For Convicted Banker

KIRKSVILLE, Mo. (AP) — Mayor

Glenn Estes went to Washington today, seeking a pardon from President Carter for the former president of the Bank of Kirksville who was convicted in connection with a check kiting scheme worth $18 million.

Estes' trip on behalf of Harvey B. Young, who was to enter federal prison in Lexington, Ky., today, was paid for by donations from about 1,500 citizens who tossed bills and coins into barrels at a town meeting last week.

"Nobody believes it's true," Estes said. "I've known the man. I've known the family. Harvey's dad lent me money in the Depression."

"Harvey's a pillar of the community," the mayor said. "He's a member of everything in Kirksville."

The 61-year-old Young was sentenced to two years in prison and fined $10,000 in 1979. Prosecutors alleged he managed three separate check kites from September 1973 through July 1974.

"You hear about things like this happening in Russia or East Germany," Young said. "But I never thought it would happen in Missouri. It's been nightmare after nightmare."

A check kite involves the exchange of checks between accounts at two or more banks.

Ruling Withheld In Death

Justice of the Peace Wayne LeCroy today was withholding a ruling in the early morning shooting death of a 29-year-old Lubbock man.

Larry Allison of 1909 46th St. was found with a single gunshot wound in the chest at his home shortly after midnight. He died about 12:30 a.m. during surgery at Lubbock General Hospital. A weapon was found at the scene, police said.

Services were pending at Rix Funeral Home.

Allison was an Olton native and married Terri Ogle Nov. 23, 1973, in Denison. He lived in the Lubbock area most of his life and had been a Lubbock resident the past seven years.

He was manager of the automotive department at the Target store since it opened Feb. 28, 1980. He was a member of the Veterans of Foreign Wars.

Survivors include his wife; his parents, Paul Allison of Cartwright, Okla., and Mrs. June Allison of Lubbock; his maternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Neely Thomas of Lubbock; his paternal grandfather, Lawrence Allison of Cartwright, Okla.; a daughter, Michelle of the home; two brothers, Kirby and Scott, both of Lubbock; and a sister, Regina of Cartwright, Okla.

Suspect Held In Child Rape

UNIVERSAL CITY (UPI) — A transient charged with stealing a van occupied by two baby girls has been jailed in lieu of $120,000 bond in connection with the kidnapping of the children and the rape of one of them.

Michael Terrance Whitaker, 35, who gave no permanent address, was charged late Sunday before Night Magistrate Tony Jimenez with aggravated rape and aggravated kidnapping and placed in Bexar County Jail.

Universal City Policeman John N. Bonham was on patrol early Sunday when he discovered the parked van and heard the babies crying. The girls, sisters ages 2 and 10 months, were inside the van.

Detective Sgt. John W. Drake said Monday the 2-year-old had been raped but was in fair condition at a hospital. The younger child was not harmed.

Drake, who described Whitaker as a transient, said he is suspected of stealing the van in downtown San Antonio late Saturday.

"The children were inside the van, he knew they were in the van when he stole it," Drake said.

School Enrolls Girls Despite U.S. Judge

BUCKEYE, La. (AP) — State police escorted three white girls into all-white Buckeye High School this morning, and the girls were enrolled for classes under state court order in defiance of a federal judge's desegregation directive.

Charles Waites. "We don't have any choice with your state police here but to enroll them...I'm caught back in the middle and I'm squeezed a little tighter this time."

The enrollments came on orders of state District Judge Richard Lee. He took the extraordinary step of assuming custody of the girls, who want to go to school at rural Buckeye rather than obey U.S. District Judge Nauman Scott's order that they ride buses to a predominantly black school in Alexandria, 15 miles away.

Begin's Regime Facing Collapse

TEL AVIV, Israel (AP) — Prime Minister Menachem Begin's coalition government averted collapse by naming a committee to study controversial pay hikes for teachers, but one opposition newspaper said several Cabinet ministers believe Begin will have to resign soon.

The conservative prime minister has suffered at least two heart attacks while in office. The Cabinet is split over teachers' demands for pay increases recommended in the report of a blue-ribbon commission set up after a crippling 52-day strike two years ago.

Scott threatened the girls' parents and school officials with $500 daily fines if they interfered with his pupil assignment plan aimed at desegregating the schools. Scott's office said he was not in town today, so there was no immediate word on how he would react to the girls' enrollment.

The girls arrived at the school, which includes grades 7-12, just before 7:30 a.m. in a pickup truck and were met by state police, including Col. Bo Garrison, state head of the patrol, and a lawyer for the state Department of Public Safety. The girls were escorted into the school by Capt. Bob Garifo, commander of the troop based in Alexandria, and two uniformed state police officers — one of them black.

Under a desegregation plan issued by Scott at the beginning of the school year, Michelle LaBorde and Lynda McNeal, both 13, and Ramona Carbo, 12, were among students to be transferred from Buckeye to Jones Street Junior High in Alexandria, the biggest town in Rapides Parish.

A spokesman said it could take up to a week to respond to the complaints because of budget cuts that have left the agency with fewer inspectors.

It said the meeting would be held "as soon as possible" and would deal with "all Mideast issues," including the stalled Egyptian-Israeli negotiations on an autonomy plan for the 1.2 million Palestinians on the Israeli occupied West Bank of the Jordan River and in the Gaza Strip.

The girls' parents went to state court and gave up legal custody of their children to friends living in the Buckeye attendance zone. The girls enrolled at Buckeye, but Scott ordered school officials not to admit them to classes.

In Cleveland, the single-digit temperatures and 15- to 25-mph winds made the National Football League playoff game between the Oakland Raiders and Cleveland Browns resemble a hockey contest, with players bundled up and gingerly running along the frozen turf.

Al Ahrama said a summit meeting of Reagan, Sadat and Begin would follow if the Israeli leader survives his current political troubles at home. On the West Bank, the Palestinian nationalist mayor of Nablus, crippled in a car-bombing last summer, returned home from treatment in Britain to a hero's welcome Sunday. He urged a cheering crowd of thousands to continue their struggle against Israeli rule.

Just before the Christmas holiday started, Scott threatened to fine anyone who tried to prevent the girls from enrolling at the Jones Street school, saying it was time "to put up or shut up."

In West Stewartstown, N.H., rising ice on the Connecticut River worried emergency officials. Civil Defense director Gary Richardson said the river ice had climbed to within 10 feet of a bridge connecting the town of 500 people to Canaan, Vt. He said the water level is usually about 20 feet beneath the bridge.

He is absolutely void of jurisdiction in the matter," Lee said of Scott. "He's not going to stop any proceedings in my court on a matter involving state law just because he's a federal judge. I respect his court and I expect him to respect my court."

Murders in Dade County increased by 90 percent in the last two years. The number of other serious crimes, many stemming from drug wars, racial tension and the influx of Cuban and Haitian refugees, also increased dramatically.

Spokesmen for Virginia Electric & Power Co. said the utility's main supply line for the area — in service for about one month — snapped about 10 a.m., knocking out power to virtually all of Currituck and Dare counties, from Cape Hatteras northward to the Virginia line. The power was restored for up to two hours late Sunday night but service was lost again to the Kill Devil Hills, Manteo and Nags Head areas when a second supply line snapped in 15-degree weather.

Philip Rivera of the Lincoln Land Community College in Springfield, Ill., heading a group of 26 American educators visiting Beirut, said Arafat, in an apparent reference to the U.S. government's refusal to recognize the PLO, told the group his organization could use well-educated Palestinians who hold important positions in places like Iran against the United States.

With the additional help, our patrol officers will be able to respond more quickly and effectively to more serious crimes," Miami Police Chief Kenneth Harms said.

And back-to-back power failures Sunday left more than 15,000 homes along North Carolina's upper Outer Banks and Roanoke Island areas without electricity for up to 14 hours, forcing many residents and travelers to seek emergency shelter against frigid wintry weather.

But Lang, whose government represents U.S. interests in Iran, said he had been refused permission to visit any of the 52 hostages since the Christmas holidays, when he saw the three at the Foreign Ministry. "I don't know where they are," Lang said.

Police Chief Refutes Bribery Allegations

COLUMBIA, S.C. (AP) — City Police Chief Arthur G. Hess says he is innocent of charges that he took two bribes worth $4,000 from a state informant.

However, after a story utilizing the depositions was published in The Avalanche-Journal, an attorney representing the relatives filed a request to seal all depositions, which was granted by Boone.

When the gag order was initiated, Boone allowed all court records to remain open, including 22 depositions of witnesses.

Hess, 45, was charged recently in Columbia with taking $3,000 earlier in the day from the informant for the state Law Enforcement Division in exchange for a promise to go easy on gambling enforcement. He was also charged with taking a $1,000 bribe from the informant in October.

Few Teens Sign Up For Draft

By MARY ALICE ROBBINS
Avalanche-Journal Staff

The final mass draft registration of American males got off to a slow start in Lubbock today, with less than 20 registrants signed up at the main post office by mid-morning.

And some of those who did show up expressed little enthusiasm for the Selective Service registration requirement. "It's kind of scary," noted 18-year-old Estacado High School senior Larry White, one of the first to register on the opening day of the current sign-up period.

White said he only registered because he is required by law to do so. The thought of having to go to war is terrifying, he added.

Perry Harmon, an 18-year-old electrical engineering major at Texas Tech University, voiced even stronger opposition to the draft registration.

"I don't think it's worthwhile," Harmon commented. "We shouldn't have to fight other people's battles." However, Harmon said he would not be as reluctant to go to war if the nation was forced into an armed conflict with Iran.

Tim Schuehler, a chemical engineering major at Tech, was less opposed to the registration requirement than other 18-year-olds interviewed.

"I guess it's a good thing," Schuehler observed. "With the situation today as far as the world is concerned, if they need us, then they can call on us."

Schuehler also said he believes the draft would bring better qualified men into the nation's armed forces.

The Lubbock 18-year-olds are among nearly 2 million American men born in 1962 who are expected to register for the still non-existent military draft during the next week and a half.

Last summer, almost 4 million males born in 1960 and 1961 signed up during the first mass registration period since the draft was halted five years ago in the wake of protests over the Vietnam War.

Selective Service officials reported about a 95 percent turnout during the earlier registration period that kicked off July 21, 1980.

President Carter pushed for the renewal of a draft registration, saying it would increase the nation's military preparedness.

Although the second mass registration is underway, however, the fate of the mandatory sign-up remains in doubt. One of those who has voiced opposition to registration during peacetime periods is President-elect Ronald Reagan.

There also is a case before the U.S. Supreme Court in which registration is being challenged as discriminatory on the basis of sex because only men are registered.

A U.S. District Court judge in Philadelphia ruled earlier that the mandatory registration is unconstitutional because women were not included. But the Supreme Court is not expected to issue its ruling in the case until sometime this spring.

The beginning of the current registration period apparently drew less local interest than the first day for registering last summer.

A small crowd of young men gathered at the front door of the main post office prior to the opening of the building July 21. Reports indicated that nearly 30 men had signed up at the post office within the first 15 minutes after the local registration effort started.

"I think it's going to be slow today, but I expect it to really pick up later," said Don Jones, the post office official in charge of the Selective Service registration here.

The earlier mass registration covered 18- and 19-year-olds, Jones said. The current sign-up is aimed only at those men born in 1962, he added.

Jones noted that the registration effort will continue through Jan. 14, and sign-up facilities will be open at all local post offices.

If a young man fails to register during the official period, he can still sign up at a later date, Jones said.

The postal official noted that several young men who should have signed up in July were registered at the main post office last week. "We're not going to turn anybody down," he added.

This will be the last mass registration effort, Jones explained. After the current sign-up period ends, he said, men will be required to register when they reach their 18th birthdays.

Failure to register is a felony, punishable by a $10,000 fine and five years in jail.

REGISTER FOR DRAFT — Fewer than 20 local 18-year-olds had signed up for the mandatory draft registration by mid-morning today at the main post office. Among the early registrants were Texas Tech University basketball player Bubba Jennings, left, and Charles Luckey. The mass registration will continue through Jan. 14, and young men can register at any local post office, officials noted. (Staff Photo by Paul Moseley)

Authorities Denying Allegations Of Slow Response To Fatal Fire

By United Press International

Authorities in Brunswick, N.J., are denying claims their city's emergency phone system was slow to summon help to the deadliest fire during the New Year's holiday weekend, which killed seven people.

The seven victims were among the 89 fire fatalities reported during the long, four-day weekend.

New York reported the most fire fatalities with 14, followed by New Jersey with 11 and Ohio and Pennsylvania with seven each. Illinois reported six deaths, California five, and Maine four. A lit cigarette dropped in a couch ignited a blaze that killed a woman and her 18-month-old child in Cleveland, Ohio.

Authorities said Dianne Sellers, 24, and her son, Shawn, died of burns and smoke inhalation Sunday in their home. Police said the house was set ablaze by a cigarette dropped into the couch.

In the New Jersey fire, Howard Foster Jr., 16, said he dialed the special 911 emergency number three times on New Year's Day while he watched his neighbors die in their burning house.

Twice, he said, he got no answer and another time he got a busy signal. Police Sunday defended the fire department, which they said responded to the call two minutes after it was received. Fire officials said whoever reported the fire was "hysterical."

When firefighters arrived at the home, all seven occupants were dead. They found the bodies of a 22-year-old mother and her three children huddled on the first floor of the house, just two feet from a window. The others — two adults and a child — were found elsewhere in the house.

Mayor Seeking Pardon For Convicted Banker

KIRKSVILLE, Mo. (AP) — Mayor

Glenn Estes went to Washington today, seeking a pardon from President Carter for the former president of the Bank of Kirksville who was convicted in connection with a check kiting scheme worth $18 million.

Estes' trip on behalf of Harvey B. Young, who was to enter federal prison in Lexington, Ky., today, was paid for by donations from about 1,500 citizens who topped bills and coins into barrels at a town meeting last week.

"Nobody believes it's true," Estes said. "I've known the man. I've known the family. Harvey's dad lent me money in the Depression."

"Harvey's a pillar of the community," the mayor said. "He's a member of everything in Kirksville."

The 61-year-old Young was sentenced to two years in prison and fined $10,000 in 1979. Prosecutors alleged he managed three separate check kites from September 1973 through July 1974.

"You hear about things like this happening in Russia or East Germany," Young said. "But I never thought it would happen in Missouri. It's been nightmare after nightmare."

A check kite involves the exchange of checks between accounts at two or more banks.

Ruling Withheld In Death

Justice of the Peace Wayne LeCroy today was withholding a ruling in the early morning shooting death of a 29-year-old Lubbock man.

Larry Allison of 1909 46th St. was found with a single gunshot wound in the chest at his home shortly after midnight. He died about 12:30 a.m. during surgery at Lubbock General Hospital. A weapon was found at the scene, police said.

Services were pending at Rix Funeral Home.

Allison was an Olton native and married Terri Ogle Nov. 23, 1973, in Denison. He lived in the Lubbock area most of his life and had been a Lubbock resident the past seven years. He was manager of the automotive department at the Target store since it opened Feb. 28, 1980. He was a member of the Veterans of Foreign Wars.

Survivors include his wife; his parents, Paul Allison of Cartwright, Okla., and Mrs. June Allison of Lubbock; his maternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Neely Thomas of Lubbock; his paternal grandfather, Lawrence Allison of Cartwright, Okla.; a daughter, Michelle of the home; two brothers, Kirby and Scott, both of Lubbock; and a sister, Regina of Cartwright, Okla.

Suspect Held In Child Rape

UNIVERSAL CITY (UPI) — A transient charged with stealing a van occupied by two baby girls has been jailed in lieu of $120,000 bond in connection with the kidnaping of the children and the rape of one of them.

Michael Terrance Whitaker, 35, who gave no permanent address, was charged late Sunday before Night Magistrate Tony Jimenez with aggravated rape and aggravated kidnaping and placed in Bexar County Jail.

Universal City Policeman John N. Bonham was on patrol early Sunday when he discovered the parked van and heard the babies crying. The girls, sisters ages 2 and 10 months, were inside the van.

Detective Sgt. John W. Drake said Monday the 2-year-old had been raped but was in fair condition at a hospital. The younger child was not harmed.

Drake, who described Whitaker as a transient, said he is suspected of stealing the van in downtown San Antonio late Saturday.

"The children were inside the van; he knew they were in the van when he stole it," Drake said.

Weatherman Spends Time Chasing Tornadoes

FORT WORTH (AP) — Alan Moller doesn't spend his vacation skiing, swimming or sunning on a sandy beach. Instead, for two weeks each spring, he grabs his cameras and chases tornadoes.

The 30-year-old National Weather Service meteorologist claims that stalking the elusive, swirling storms is "relaxing, entertaining," and he doesn't understand "why more people don't do it."

"When I was about 4 or 5 years old, growing up in Fort Worth, I wanted desperately to see a tornado," Moller said. "When I wasn't out playing baseball, I was out looking for tornadoes."

But the diminutive, bearded Moller, a self-described "tornado freak," says there is more to chasing the killer storms than risking life and limb for a little excitement.

"We go out and try to capture (on film) the exact time the storm forms, its touch-down and dissipation. By going out and chasing them, I've found that storms which produce tornadoes have definite visual patterns," he said. "I've learned far more out in the field than I ever learned in the classroom."

Heavy rain and hail toward the southwest edge of a thunderstorm signal the possibility of a developing twister, Moller said.

"Usually, there is a flat, dark rain-free cloud base at the northwest end and that is the area where tornadoes develop in the wall cloud."

The wall cloud, a ragged appendage that hangs beneath the belly of the storm and follows heavy rain, is where air is sucked into the core of the storm, Moller said. It is the intense upward movement of air that can eventually produce a tornado.

"Not many storms have that feature," he added. "A wall cloud is only seen with severe, damaging storms. If it's rotating, it will produce a tornado."

Moller, who has been on the trail of twisters since 1971, said he uses the information gleaned from his many outings to teach "Skywarn" participants — mostly amateur radio operators — how to spot tell-tale rotating clouds in severe thunderstorms.

Trained ham radio operators, dubbed "spotters," are called on by the National Weather Service to go out in the field when bad weather develops and watch the sky for the signs of developing tornadoes that meteorologists cannot detect on radar.

Moller, who is in charge of the Skywarn program for northern Texas, said his field studies have helped him make the early warning program in his area "the best in the country."

He makes his annual tornado chase in April or May. "When the tornado season starts," with a group of "tornado nuts" he met while doing graduate work at Oklahoma University in 1971.

"It started as a hobby, then we got funding from the (weather service) Severe Storm Lab in Norman (Okla.)," Moller said. He recalled how the group had started the Tornado Intercept Project, a field study for graduate students that is working in conjunction with the storm lab and the university.

The group prepares by studying climate data and pinpointing an area where thunderstorms are probable.

"Then we drive out there and wait. After nine years of chasing tornadoes I can usually predict which thunderstorms will produce," he said.

The majority of his trips have been to western Texas, more specifically to the Palo Duro Canyon near Amarillo.

"Of the 55 tornadoes I've seen, half of them have been out in the countryside near Amarillo or Lubbock," he said. "The canyons out there seem to be ideal for them."

When a twister is born, the group members zig-zag across the countryside recording its life and death on film, he said.

"I've found that going out late in the season (the last few weeks in May) is better because we are able to keep up with the tornado's movement," Moller said. "For some reason, they travel slower that time of year."

Moller claims his hobby isn't dangerous for "a trained observer" but admits the group has run into some hair-raising situations.

Texas Solons Eye Education

By LEE JONES

AUSTIN (AP) — Better teachers with better salaries, a no-nonsense public school curriculum and higher state university tuition could come out of the 67th Legislature.

Poor showings by young Texans on statewide tests on the "basics" virtually guaranteed the new Legislature would spend a lot of time on education issues.

"Everybody's not satisfied with the product coming out of the school system," said Jim Kaster, legislative point man for Gov. Bill Clements.

Kaster said public school bills — particularly curriculum reform and competency testing for new teachers — will have high priority with Clements — "right up among the top, if not the top."

Clements and his Advisory Committee on Education, the Texas State Teachers Association, the State Board of Education and Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby's Special Committee on Higher Education Financing all have recommended changes.

These look like the top educational issues of the 140-day lawmaking session that begins Jan. 13.

• Competency testing for teachers. The State Board of Education wants $1 million to start a program that would include a general literacy test before a young person is accepted for teacher training. Graduates would be certified only after passing tests in their subject areas and in teaching methods. Lifetime certification would come only after three years of teaching, a graduate degree and the recommendation of a teacher's employer and college.

• A teacher pay raise. The TSTA wants 33 percent over the next two years, counting automatic "step-ups" that teachers get for each year of experience.

Clements favors 22 percent. The Legislative Budget Board has recommended 23 percent.

• Curriculum "reform" — meaning repeal of all laws requiring specific courses or subject matter, such as free enterprise, consumer education, kindness to animals and the dangers of drugs. The Board of Education would prescribe a basic statewide curriculum.

• Tuition increases at state universities. Hobby's committee said tuition — now $4 per semester hour, or $60 per semester for a normal course load, for residents — should be at least doubled.

• Establishment of a guaranteed State Higher Education Assistance Fund to pay for construction, remodeling and other capital improvements at state colleges outside the Texas A&M and University of Texas systems. Hobby's committee wants to establish the fund with money from a tuition increase.

Each of those issues is expected to have a strong chance of reaching final votes in the House and Senate.

One issue that probably will generate some heat but has no real chance of floor action is collective bargaining for teachers.

"Collective bargaining is a dead issue as far as any chance of being passed goes," said Sen. Pete Snelson, D-Midland, whom Hobby is expected to appoint chairman of the Senate Education Committee.

Snelson and his probable House counterpart, Rep. Hamp Atkinson, D-New Boston, predicted legislative approval of teacher competency testing.

Atkinson said he expects the Legislature to exempt present teachers and require only new ones to be tested.

"Teachers themselves, to get compensation to a more adequate level, are going to have to clean up the field and make it more professional," he said.

Jim Butler, executive secretary of the TSTA, said competency screening of teachers should take place in college, not after graduation.

He also said a teacher's employer should have no say in the awarding of a lifetime teaching certificate, leaving that decision to the state.

Few seem to disagree with proposals to purge the law books of required school subjects and leave the job of curriculum-writing to the experts.

"I think we need to do that. We now mandate so many subjects that it is impossible to have a day long enough to cover everything. You'd have to go 23 hours a day to get in everything that somebody considers essential," Snelson said in an interview.

One of the biggest fights will be over state college tuition, which has not changed significantly since 1957 and is among the nation's lowest.

The Texas College Coordinating Board sees a tuition increase as a way to raise professors' salaries, while the Hobby Committee wants to dedicate it to college construction.

"It's a great evil," Sen. Lloyd Doggett, D-Austin, said of a tuition increase. "It is a form of user tax increase, and we ought not to raise this tax without considering the overall tax structure. Those who complain tuition is too low are not complaining our other taxes are too low."

Residency Promoted For Young Lawyers

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — The Nebraska Chief Justice says that attorneys should specialize, including the completion of residencies just as doctors do, so clients can seek someone specifically trained to deal with their problems.

Chief Justice Norman Krivosha, chairman of the National Conference of Chief Justices task force on bar admissions, made his suggestion Sunday in remarks before the annual meeting of the Association of American Law Schools.

He said law school graduates who choose not to fulfill the residencies for specialization would become uncertified general practitioners who could identify a legal problem, provide emergency services if necessary and refer the client to a specialist.

He said "at first blush, the idea may appear to be so revolutionary as to be both impractical and ridiculous."

But in dealing with questions about lawyer competence in the United States, he said "we have exhausted so many other alternatives without success, that perhaps such a revolutionary idea is all that remains."

The Chief Justice said it was unfortunate that attorneys have concentrated their attention on trial practice because "the competency of the non-litigating practitioner is of equal or greater importance to the public."

"There are no shortcuts to competency," Krivosha said, adding that a system which allows a young lawyer to gain experience under proper supervision is needed.

"I suggest that it cannot be done in three years in law school, including a one-year part-time clinical program," he said.

A specialist residency program for recently graduated lawyers would require two or three years of additional, supervised training directed by a law school, he said.

Tech Concludes Search With Moore

By NORVAL POLLARD
Executive Sports Editor

Texas Tech's three-week search for a head football coach to replace Rex Dockery came to an end Sunday night with the hiring of North Texas State mentor Jerry Moore, a man known for his offensive innovation and recruiting ability.

Tech athletic director John Conley, who spearheaded the selection process that began Dec. 16 when Dockery resigned to accept the head coaching job at Memphis State, introduced the 41-year-old Moore to Tech officials, friends of the university and members of the Lubbock media gathered for the news conference Sunday afternoon.

Details of Moore's new contract were not disclosed but it is reportedly the most generous financial package ever offered a Tech football coach.

Conley said Moore "has all the ingredients" sought by Tech officials.

"He has built a reputation as an excellent coach and recruiter, and he has an extensive football background in the state of Texas," Conley said of Moore. "He has head coaching experience and has been a top assistant in several very successful programs."

"When we put everything down and added it up, there was no question that Jerry Moore be asked to come to Texas Tech," Conley continued. "Unquestion-ably, our goal is to win the Southwest Conference championship and to represent this conference in the Cotton Bowl. Jerry has all the characteristics needed to accomplish just that."

Conley closed by saying: "Jerry Moore is the best coach in the United States and the No. 1 Red Raider from here on in. Let's just all get with it and show them (Moore, wife Margaret and family) how we all feel about having them on board."

Moore, who compiled an 11-11 record during two seasons at North Texas State, was informed of the decision by Conley at 2 p.m. Sunday.

"This is a dream come true for me," acknowledged Moore. "This is the best of both worlds for me being able to come to Texas Tech, and I'm really looking forward to it."

"I've been tremendously impressed with the people and the response," Moore added. "This is the way every thing is carried on here... very, very class. That's what I want to be a part of, and, hopefully, build on it and continue to improve."

Tech president Lauro Cavazos, who was very active in the selection process, expressed his pleasure with the hiring of Moore and congratulated Conley for his efforts the past three weeks.

"Jerry Moore is an outstanding football coach, as his previous experience indicates, and he is a quality young man as well," Cavazos said. "We are very pleased to have him at Texas Tech."

"There were several steps in the selection process, but the great majority of the work was done by John Conley, and, on behalf of the entire university, I want to thank him for a job well done," continued Cavazos. "The process was relatively simple, and yet very effective because we were able to hire a man who I know is destined for great things as the head football coach at Texas Tech University."

"I'm convinced he's going to take us there."

Moore, Wake Forest head coach John Mackovic, Rice mentor Ray Alborn, West Texas State boss Bill Yung, Tech defensive coordinator Jim Bates and former All-Pro quarterback Bobby Layne were interviewed by Cavazos, Conley, athletic council chairman Bob Sweazy and seven members of the Tech Board of Regents Friday in Dallas.

Avalanche-Journal sources tagged Mackovic as the favorite for the job, but Moore's Texas background and success as a coach and recruiter won out.

"He (Moore) is Texas born and bred," Conley said. "He has coached in the Texas high school and college ranks. He gained valuable experience under Tom Osborne at Nebraska, and the fact that he did a good job in a short time at North Texas State had a big bearing."

"Of the people who were available," Conley added, "he definitely fits our situation better than anyone."

A native of Bonham, Moore starred in four sports in high school. He was a first-team all-state end in football and was a member of the North squad in the 1957 Texas High School Coaches' Association All-Star game.

Moore went on to star as a receiver at Baylor from 1957 through 1960. He ranked eighth in the nation in receiving in 1958 and seventh in 1960. He was captain of the 1960 Baylor squad that played in the Gator Bowl.

Moore's coaching experience dates back to 1961 when he joined the Corsicana High School staff as an assistant. He served in that capacity for four seasons.

From 1965 through 1972, Moore was an assistant at SMU. He was linebacker and defensive end coach his first two years with the Mustangs, which includes the 1966 campaign when SMU captured the SWC championship. He was receiver coach from 1967 through 1972.

Moore joined Osborne's Nebraska staff in 1973 as offensive coordinator and receiver coach. During his six seasons with Osborne, the Cornhuskers were 56-16-2 and won five of seven bowl games.

North Texas State called on Moore following the 1978 season. In 1979, the Mean Green went 5-6. Moore's 1980 squad was 6-5, losing four games to opponents involved in post-season bowl games.

Moore inherits 15 starters from last year's 5-6 Tech squad. He will benefit from the return of virtually the entire Raider offensive unit.

Moore made it clear Sunday that the Red Raiders will scrap Dockery's veer offense and operate out of the I-formation in 1981.

"Primarily, we'll be an I-formation football team... and a pretty wide open type I-formation," Moore acknowledged.

Moore, who recruited outstanding Texas players like Rick Berns, Kelvin Clark and Junior Miller (Clark and Miller were All-Americans and first-round NFL draft picks) while at Nebraska, said he would begin recruiting immediately.

"Of course, the immediate thing is re-

The Miracle Workers

THE SITUATION LOOKED grim for the Dallas Cowboys late Sunday afternoon at Atlanta. The Cowboys trailed the Falcons 27-17 with less than five minutes remaining on the clock in their NFC divisional playoff tussle, and the 'Pokes had not particularly impressed friend or foe during the long afternoon. Atlanta had moved almost at will through the Dallas defense and the Cowboy offense had self-destructed at crucial times.

It looked as if this surprising Dallas team, which was not supposed to get this far in a rebuilding season, had finally reached the end of the road. Wait 'til next year.

The Cowboys were not ready to settle for that, though. They had been in tougher situations than this during the last decade and had pulled off a few miracles along the way. Sure, the chief miracle-worker was on the sidelines this time, talking into a microphone, but some of his old pals still were around. Randy White, Harvey Martin, Ed Jones, Drew Pearson, Billy Joe DuPree and Charlie Waters — they had never quit before and were not about to start now.

ESPECIALLY DREW PEARSON. Ever since the slender wide receiver joined the Cowboys as a free agent in the summer of 1973, he has been something else. Drew looks frail, at 6 x 180, but no one in the league challenges the heart of opposing defenses like he does. Or shakes off more tough hits by those sharks in the secondary.

There is no need to recount Drew's achievements during the last eight seasons. He and Roger Staubach quickly became one of the most feared passing combos in the National Football League, and Drew made All-Pro in his second season. He was rated as one of the premier receivers ever before he caught that "Hail Mary" pass against Minnesota in 1975 that sent the wild-card Cowboys on their way to Super Bowl X.

Old No. 88, also known as "Mr. Clutch." The Dallas organization already has a place reserved for him in the Circle of Honor at Texas Stadium. That will come several years before he is eligible for the Big One at Canton, Ohio.

BUT FOR THREE quarters Sunday, Drew was just another face on the field as the ambitious young Falcons gave the Cowboys what for. The Atlanta crowd, still riding high after Georgia's victory over Notre Dame in the Sugar Bowl, waved Confederate flags and gave the Rebel yell.

Didn't anyone ever tell them that Texans fought under Gen. Robert E. Lee, too?

Bad as the situation was for Dallas at halftime, with the Cowboys trailing 17-10, it soon got worse. The 'Pokes started the third quarter with a show of strength and seemed to be moving for the tying touchdown when Preston Pearson, of all people, ruined the drive by fumbling deep in Falcon territory. The Atlantics, accepting all gifts, took the ball and soon had boosted their margin to 24-10.

That looked like the ol' ball game and the 60,000 Georgians in the stands whooped it up.

THE COWBOYS HUNG in there though, out of pride and the knowledge that they had dodged the bullet against better teams than Atlanta. Those great comebacks against San Francisco in 1972, Minnesota in 1975 and Washington in 1974 and 1979 were in the back of their minds, no matter how grim the situation appeared.

Sure enough, momentum gradually shifted to Dallas' side of the line of scrimmage. The 'Poke defensive front four, battling like wild men, began to pressure Falcon quarterback Steve Bartkowski and refused to give him time to throw deep. And the offense, shifting almost totally to the aerial game, began to move.

Still, it was a bit of a sticky wicket, as the English say, when Atlanta kicked a field goal to hike its lead to 27-17 with only six minutes left on the clock. That is a big hill to climb, on foreign turf against a formidable defense.

Then Drew Pearson, aided by the new guy at quarterback, Danny White, got his act together. White tossed the ball into a crowd of players in the end zone and Pearson came up with it, and now Atlanta held only a 27-24 edge with 3:40 remaining.

Doomsday II did its thing and the Cowboys had the ball again in the final two minutes. Paydirt was 70 yards away, but White has picked up a few pointers from Staubach all these years. He hit Preston Pearson with a couple of throws, then dumped one off to Tony Dorsett for a good gain.

Everyone thought Dallas was maneuvering for field goal position to tie the game, but Drew cut across the middle between two defenders and White hit him on the goal line. Bingo!

The Falcons had one last chance, but Doomsday wasn't about to let this one get away. Atlanta was in a state of shock.

So were a lot of other folks, I might add.

Cowboy Fury Deprives Falcons

ATLANTA (AP) — Danny White's heroics advanced Dallas into next Sunday's National Football Conference title game, but an embarrassing loss three weeks ago may be an even bigger reason the Cowboys are still alive in their quest for a third Super Bowl victory.

White, the quarterback heir to former Cowboy great Roger Staubach, fired two touchdown passes to Drew Pearson in the final 3:40 Sunday, the last a 23-yarder with 42 seconds remaining, to lift the Cowboys to a 30-27 quarterfinal playoff victory over the Atlanta Falcons.

Dallas now meets the Eagles in Philadelphia next Sunday for the right to play the AFC winner in the Super Bowl, Jan. 25.

"Everybody was embarrassed by our loss to the Los Angeles Rams," said White, referring to the Cowboys' 38-14 drubbing on the nationally televised Monday night contest three weeks ago.

"We just sat down and said, 'Hey, we're the Dallas Cowboys.' We've got to play better than that. This team established itself on spirit and pride," said White, a six-year veteran who has guided Dallas to a 14-4 record in his first year as a starter after Staubach retired.

The Cowboys came back to beat the Eagles in the final regular-season game, then knocked off the Rams 34-13 last week before Sunday's come-from-behind thriller.

The Falcons, behind the throwing of Steve Bartkowski, who hit on 18 of 33 passes for 320 yards, led 27-17 on Tim Mazzetti's second field goal, a 34-yarder with only 6:37 left.

Earlier, Bartkowski hit on touchdown tosses of 5 yards and 60 yards, Lynn Cain scored on a one-yard plunge and Mazzetti booted a 38-yard three-pointer.

The Cowboys had scored on a 38-yard field goal by Rafael Septien, a 1-yard run by Robert Newhouse and TD strikes of 5 yards and 14 yards, the last to Pearson with 3:40 remaining.

"After that embarrassment to the Rams, we decided to play 60 minutes every game. Even if the score was 60-0, we would keep plugging away," said White.

"We got that first one to Drew, and then the defense rose to the occasion and suddenly we were only three points down and had the ball," said White, who was uncanny in the second half, hitting 15 of 20 passes for 239 yards after going only 19 and 89 yards in the opening half.

"This was the biggest game I've ever played in," said White. "Sure, there was a lot of pressure but I need to get in those situations."

Drew Pearson, the eight-year veteran who has been the Cowboys' big-play receiver for many years, said the winning touchdown was "nothing special."

"Danny is a fine quarterback and if you're open, he'll get the ball to you," he said. "It was a great feeling but I didn't feel the satisfaction of it all until the final whistle."

Dallas coach Tom Landry, known for his stoic face, even was seen smiling after the victory.

"What can you say? It was just a tremendous thing (the comeback)," he said. "When we got down by two touchdowns (24-10) in the third quarter, I thought our chances of coming back were slim. But the ball bounces funny sometimes."

It was the second time White had beaten the Falcons in the playoffs with second-half passing, leading the Cowboys to a 27-20 triumph two years ago after Staubach was sidelined at halftime with Dallas trailing 20-13.

"He was just super, amazing," said Landry. "You know, actually, he's a first-year quarterback although he's spent some time in the league."

"He was simply amazing on a couple of plays, the final touchdown to Pearson and the 5-yarder to Billy Joe Dupree."

For the Falcons, who finished with a 12-5 record after winning the West NFC title, the loss left most of the players in a state of shock.

"It was a bitter pill to swallow," said Falcons' coach Leeman Bennett. "I still feel we're good enough to go to the Super Bowl. Any team that wins 12 games is good enough. But it's a very empty feeling losing in the playoffs."

Bartkowski attributed the loss to the failure of the Falcons to control the ball after Pearson's first scoring catch.

"We knew we had to control the ball and keep their offense off the field. When we got the ball back after Pearson's first touchdown, I thought if we could make three first downs, we would win the game. But we couldn't make one," said Bartkowski.

Jenkins, who had four catches for 155 yards, felt Dallas' playoff experience was not a factor.

"Not the way we played today. The factor was that Dallas buckled under and came back. They played four quarters of football just like we did — but they played a better second half," he said.

LHS Westerners Pay Visit To Amarillo Caprock

In today's only high school basketball game involving a Lubbock school, Lubbock High's boys head north for a rematch with Amarillo Caprock at 8 p.m.

The Westerners, now 8-10 after losing three of their last four games, fell in a 52-50 thriller to Caprock the last time the two teams met. That was over a month ago.

Caprock, now 6-6 on the year, has not played since Dec. 13 though, when it lost two of three games in the Snyder Tournament. Lubbock High won three of four games in that invitational.

Moore Pledges To Give More To Tech

By CHUCK McDONALD
Assistant Sports Editor

For a man who'd been informed at two in the afternoon that he would be Texas Tech's new head football coach, Jerry Moore seemed to have all the right answers when he was formally presented at a 6:30 p.m. Sunday press conference.

More specifically, the former North Texas State head coach and Nebraska assistant said three things that will immediately warm the hearts of Red Raider football followers.

Moore said a.) the Raiders would run and THROW out of an I-formation; b.) that he planned to build his recruiting base in West Texas; and, c.) that he'd like to live in Lubbock "for the rest of my life."

For a town that has grown weary of these new-coach-in-town press conferences — Moore is Tech's fourth head football coach since 1974 — the Raider pledge of allegiance comes as a breath of fresh air.

In addition, the commitment to the I-formation means good-bye to the Rex Dockery-Steve Sloan run-oriented veer offense that had drawn criticism the last two years as Tech struggled through 3-6-2 and 5-6 campaigns.

And of the 70 upperclassmen listed in the 1980 Tech football media guide, only 19 had roots in the West Texas area. Moore thinks there should be a change.

Moore also stated that, beginning immediately, the Raiders should be able to emerge from the recruiting wars in solid shape.

"If we get after it right now, this (the coaching change) shouldn't hinder us at all," said Moore. "I've already been in most of these kids' homes (recruiting for North Texas). I know who most of the players are, and I don't have to learn where Guthrie is, or where Post is."

"I think that's an advantage," he added. "I know this area, I know how to get to Monahan or Fort Stockton."

Moore spoke highly of the caliber of high school talent in the immediate area. "I've always had very good results with West Texas players," said Moore. "I'd say there's only been one or two that didn't work out — I've almost batted 100 percent in West Texas. "These are tough, hard-nosed football players. They've been good players for me who performed best in big ball games."

"Just look at Junior Miller, who's now at Atlanta, Kelvin Clark at Denver or Rick Berns (at Tampa Bay)."

Those three, among many others, are players Moore recruited from this area during his 1973-78 stint as an offensive assistant at Nebraska.

"We won't just drop straight back, though," he added. "We'll sprint out a lot, roll out and throw on the corner. I don't want the quarterback to run 25 times a game, but we'll be running some option."

Moore said he hadn't met the Tech senior-to-be quarterback Ron Reeves, but he knew of him.

"I'm not committing to any players yet, but he (Reeves) should be a good one. He'll be a senior and he should be a take-charge guy."

Referring to the Tech job as "a dream come true," Moore said he hoped for a long stay.

Asked if he planned to follow the recent trend of using the Tech position as a coaching stepping stone, Moore replied, "I'm not interested in that."

"I'm 41 years old," Moore continued. "I would like to build the kind of program that can withstand a lot of things. I would like to raise my family in Lubbock and I would like to live here from now on... as long as the people would like for me to."

"I'm very sincere when I say this. I'm not looking to come in here and be 8-2 or 9-1 or whatever and jump out of here."

So while Tech's last three coaches, Dockery, Sloan and Jim Carlen have come from out-of-state, this time athletic director John Conley opted to go with a Texas. "He is Texas born and bred," said Conley. "He has coached in the Texas high school and college ranks. He gained valuable experience under Tom Osborne at Nebraska, and the fact that he did a good job in a short time at North Texas State had a big bearing."

"Of the people who were available, he definitely fits our situation better than anyone," Conley said.

cruciating, that's of utmost importance to us," declared Moore. "I want to visit with some people tonight (Sunday), in fact, as far as recruiting, and I would hope by this time tomorrow we will be recruiting."

Moore said he plans to bring many of his North Texas State assistants with him to Tech. He said he will make the transition as quick as possible.

"I will bring a pretty good proportion of my staff here," Moore acknowledged. "I hate to say I'll do it in the next 12 hours or 24 hours or something like that. We'll do it just as soon as we can. One of the things that John (Conley) told me was he wanted me to get together the very best staff I possibly can."

When reminded that Tech has seen three head grid coaches come and go in the last six years and asked if he plans to stay in Lubbock long, Moore said, "I hope so. I'm not interested (in leaving). I tried to make that clear to the regents and John when I first talked to them."

"I'm 41 years old. I would like to build the kind of program, the kind of consistent program, that can withstand a lot of things. I would like to raise my family in Lubbock and I would like to live here from now on... as long as the people would like for me to. I know that's a two-way deal in this business."

"I'm very sincere when I say this. I'm not looking to come in here and be 8-2 or 9-1 or whatever and jump out of here. I like Texas. I enjoyed recruiting West Texas when I was at Nebraska. I enjoyed the people."

"I've always felt this way about Texas Tech. I think you've had the misfortune, and when I say 'misfortune' I'm just talking about the fact that you've had three coaches in the last six years. You don't really get a lot of continuity as far as recruiting. All of them were good coaches, but when you do leave you don't have much time to build and establish any kind of a tradition."

Raider Women Lose Twice

The Texas Tech women's basketball squad dropped a pair of games in weekend action, falling 71-60 to Louisiana State Friday night and 76-60 to McNeese State on Saturday.

The Red Raiders, now 5-8 for the season, were outplayed in both games, Tech coach Donna Wick said.

Gwen McCray and Carolyn Thompson each scored 18 points in the losing cause against the taller LSU team while Miss Thompson managed 12, Christie Newman 12 and Miss McCray 11 against McNeese.

Tourneys Extend 5A Basketball Teams

By RUSS PARSONS

Avalanche-Journal Sports Staff

While the rest of you were enjoying your long winter's naps, eating a lot of turkey and generally lazing through the Christmas vacations, the city's Class 5A basketball coaches have been hard at it.

The cage season never ends and never, it seems, takes time off.

But after all the folderol of the Reese and Caprock tournaments and the individual games that accompanied them, not a whole lot has changed.

In the boys' ranks, ain't nobody ripping them up. Monterey still has the best record of the pack, 13-5, but had a disappointing Caprock tourney, losing to Estacado in the second round.

It seems that Joe Michalka is working his slowdown into top form though, MHS has scored more than 60 points only once this season and in the first round at Caprock, beat Odessa High 36-26 in a game that, could it be bottled, would outsell Somninx.

The next best record (and, in fact, the only other mark over .500) belongs to the Coronado Mustangs. The Ponies had an erratic vacation, finishing next-to-last in the Reese Tournament and then finishing next-to-first in the Caprock.

But really, only the results are erratic, the different finishes tells more about who CHS played in what round than how well they played.

In the Reese tourney, Coronado lost to El Paso Andress 54-52 in a first-round thriller, then was paired with powerful Canyon in the second round. They still lost that one by only seven, 75-68.

In the Caprock affair, the Mustangs got the one shot that wouldn't fall at Reese, beating San Angelo Central 43-42 in the first round. They then faced a Wichita Falls team that isn't the squad Canyon is and beat them 46-34.

Trailing Monterey and Coronado in the standings are Lubbock High and Plainview, both sporting 8-10 records. But you've got to believe the Bulldogs had the toughest of the holiday schedules. Lubbock High played only in the Caprock tourney, finishing sixth after losses to the afore-mentioned Wichita Falls club (71-49) and a revived Dunbar bunch (85-57) and a win over San Angelo Central (53-48).

Arkansas Appears Ready To Make Run At Aggies

By The Associated Press

They full-court press, singe the net off the bucket, and fast break. They're quick and they can jump. They wear red uniforms with a Razorback on the britches.

You can close your eyes and almost see the graduated Sidney Moncrief, Ron Brewer, and Marvin Delph, going twice as fast.

It's not Arkansas coach Eddie Sutton's Final Four team of a couple years past but it's clear his 1980 running Razorbacks are something special.

And a threat to take the Southwest Conference basketball title away from the suddenly-human defending champions, the Texas A&M Aggies.

"I wish I hadn't seen it," said Baylor coach Jim Haller after the Razorbacks pressed Southern Methodist into the floor 92-50 Saturday night — the worst whipping ever inflicted on the Mustangs.

Haller continued, "Everybody in this league has dreaded the day that Sutton had enough players to press and fast break. Well, he's got the players now. He's got 10 players who can go."

Arkansas still showed its famed passing game in the Saturday night slaughter but killed with the fast break at any opportunity.

"We have more depth than we've ever had," said Sutton. "It fatigues the other team."

The Aggies stumbled out of the starting gate Saturday night, falling 56-51 to feisty Texas Christian.

"We had a three-point lead and the ball and we told them to hold the ball, but they went ahead and attacked," said Metcalf. "I guess TCU's discipline was better than ours and that was the difference."

The Aggies started the week ranked No. 11 but lost two games in a Montana tournament after six days off at Christmas, then fell to the Horned Frogs.

"This is the biggest win I've had since I've been at TCU," said Horned Frog coach Jim Killingsworth.

Forward Rynn Wright missed six free throws in the second half. When Killingsworth was slapped with back-to-back technicals, Wright missed two of them and guard Reggie Roberts made only one of two.

In other games Saturday, Texas

Tech's downed the Texas Longhorns 89-79. Houston beat Rice 62-57, and Baylor tripped Alaska-Anchorage 64-58.

Center Larry Micheaux led Houston with 14 points as the Cougars found tough going against Rice's zone.

"Games like this will make a fellow old," said Houston coach Guy Lewis.

High scoring Rob Williams was held to just 11 points, well off his 25 points per game scoring average.

The Aggies go on the road again Tuesday night, opening Baylor's SWC season in Waco. SMU is at Texas, Rice is at TCU, and Texas Tech is at Houston in other matchups.

Arkansas doesn't play another SWC game until Saturday night when it hosts TCU.

Raiders Escape Browns As Aerial Gamble Fails

CLEVELAND (AP) — They weren't supposed to even be in the playoffs. Yet here they are, just one step from the Super Bowl.

It's enough to make a grown man cry. "If I start talking too much about this," coach Tom Flores said, surveying the jubilation in the Oakland Raiders' locker room, "I might get tears in my eyes."

The tears in the Cleveland Browns' eyes are drying today — the tears of frustration, of dismay, of seeing a chance at a championship inching closer and closer, then having it cruelly snatched away at the last instant.

It was Flores' clever decision to kick into the wind to start the second half which began the Browns' downfall, because it forced them to fight that wind in the final quarter.

But ultimately it was Cleveland's own doing which led to its undoing on Sunday, to the Raiders' 14-12 victory which placed them in the American Conference title game next Sunday in sunny San Diego, far from the bitter cold which whips in off Lake Erie and brings tears to the eyes of anyone foolhardy enough to face that sub-zero wind.

Coach Sam Rutigliano of the Browns chose not to face it in the final minute. He opted for a gamble, a shot at a touchdown rather than a kick into the teeth of that wind, an attempt at a game-winning field goal.

And that gamble almost certainly killed the Browns. The team which had spent the season on the precipice, looking down the yawning throat of defeat one Sunday after another, yet escaping each time by the skin of its teeth, finally got swallowed up.

"Sam took a chance. He could have thrown snake eyes," said Lester Hayes, the Oakland cornerback who stole quarterbacks blind all season, who swiped two of Brian Sipe's passes on Sunday.

But the interception which destroyed the dream of yet another Sipe-inspired heart-stopping triumph belonged to strong safety Mike Davis.

It came on second down on Oakland's 13-yard line, with 41 seconds to play. Ozzie Newsome, the receiver in the end zone, never had a chance.

"Ozzie was my man all the way," said Davis. "Sipe was sliding out of the pocket and didn't seem to want to risk the run. I saw Ozzie look up, so I looked up and I saw Sipe let go of the ball."

And Davis, diving, wound up with it, cradling it while free safety Burgess Owens and then the rest of the exultant Raiders enveloped him and began celebrating their victory.

Rutigliano, of course, defended his decision to ignore — for one play, anyway — place-kicker Don Cockroft and shoot for the big six points. "If we threw on second down," he said, "we could run on third and still go for the field goal."

And for Cleveland, field goals had been hard to come by. Cockroft had made two, from 30 and then 29 yards, both in the third period with the wind at his back. He had also missed two, from 47 and 30 yards away, both in the second period with the wind in his face. Another attempt had gone awry on a botched snap from center. And the only conversion Cockroft attempted, after Ron Bolton's 42-yard second-quarter touchdown run with an interception, had ended with Oakland's Ted Hendricks batting the ball down.

All in all, not the best of days. Which is why Cockroft couldn't second-guess his coach.

"It was very logical," he said of Rutigliano's decision, "because we were having trouble with the entire kicking unit."

But up in the press box, surveying the scene, Al Davis, the owner of the Raiders, couldn't resist a second guess. As he stuffed a celebratory piece of chewing gum in his mouth, he announced: "I don't know what the heck they threw that ball for." And as if to punctuate his observation, he balled up the gum wrapper and flung it away.

And so, today, the Raiders turn their thoughts to San Diego, where yet another challenge awaits them, namely the most devastating passing attack in the National Football League. "I'm looking forward to seeing my old friend John Jefferson again," Hayes said of the Chargers' superb wide receiver. "It's a challenge to face someone on a par with me."

And it will no doubt be a pleasure playing on soft, warm grass which gives way under the feet and cushions the falls. "This was the worst surface I've ever played on," said Hendricks, the Raiders' linebacker. "It was like playing on a roller-skating rink without roller skates."

Mark van Eeghen, the fullback who bashed his way over the goal line twice, admitted: "I'm surprised I scored the TDs I did. I was on ice, pushing off the ball."

Now he, too, can get back to thinking seriously about San Diego. He thought about it a lot on Saturday, watching the Chargers defeat Buffalo 20-14 in the other AFC playoff game. "I was glad when that game was over so I could start thinking about Cleveland again," he acknowledged.

And in Cleveland, they'll be thinking about what might have been.

"You care and dream about something long enough that it becomes a part of you," said Lyle Alzado, the Browns' defensive end. "Then you see it go away. It hurts."

Estacado Shows Improvement

By RAY GLASS
 Avalanche-Journal Sports Staff

District play is only two weeks away for 1-4A boys' basketball teams and Estacado took a giant step toward preparing for its opening district game with a successful defense of its Caprock Holiday Tournament title last week.

The Matadors, bobbing along with a 7-7 season record, entered the tournament as one of the favorites in the 10-team, large-school division but had their work cut out in defending the title.

Estacado was in a bracket that included Canyon, Monterey, Midland Lee and Odessa.

But no matter. The Mats disposed of Midland Lee first, 61-50, and then Monterey 59-53 before putting together an impressive fourth quarter to blast Coronado 55-41 for the crown.

"The wins definitely will help us with district only a couple of weeks away," Estacado coach J.J. Wood said following the final devastating quarter.

The Mustangs led 33-32 after three periods of the final game before the Matadors, led by Jerry Gray and James Barnett, put together a 23-8 eight-minute effort for the win.

Gray had 15 rebounds, six steals and six blocked shots — three in the final period — while Barnett scored 10 of his game-high 22 points in the decisive period.

Barnett, named the most valuable player of the large-school division, scored 19 and 22 points in his other two games.

Matador guard Kenneth Cade was named to the all-tournament team with Walling, a 6-foot-3 senior guard who was named to the all-tourney squad for the second consecutive year, led the Eagles to two wins in three games. They dropped their opener 37-25 to Monterey before rebounding to win the consolation championship, dumping Midland Lee 63-59 and Dunbar 43-41.

The two victories kept the Eagles among the top four teams in the district.

Levelland had a tough time in the Clovis Tournament last week, losing to the host club and Alamogordo. The Lobos are 9-5, only percentage points out of third place.

Ali Signs To Box British Foe

NEW YORK (AP) — Muhammad Ali, a battered loser in his bid to become heavyweight champion a fourth time in his last fight, is signed to fight European champion John L. Gardner of Britain for an unannounced price at an unannounced site the last week of March.

The promoter is Muhammad Ali Professional Sports, Inc., which uses Ali's name under a licensing agreement.

Harold Smith, president of MAPS, told The Associated Press by telephone from Los Angeles Sunday that Gardner has signed for a $300,000 purse. He declined to disclose Ali's purse, but it was believed to be about one-eighth of the $8 million paycheck he picked up when he was stopped after 10 rounds by Larry Holmes, the World Boxing Council champion, last Oct. 2 at Las Vegas.

Smith said he put together the fight only because Ali, who will be 39 Jan. 17, wanted it in the wake of his mismatch loss to Holmes.

Ali surrendered his Nevada boxing license Dec. 19 in a letter to the Nevada State Athletic Commission which accepted it under an agreement that Ali not apply again. But that agreement affects Ali's status only in Nevada.

"If I stop, it's because I want to stop. Nobody can make me stop," said Ali at a Nevada hearing into the matter. Smith is confident some place will let Ali fight

Smith also he has signed Jim Watt of Scotland and Alexis Arguello, the former featherweight and junior lightweight champion from Nicaragua, for a bout in which Watt would defend the WBC lightweight title and that he planned it to be on the card of the Ali-Gardner 10-round.

Also expected to be on the show is former champion Leon Spinks, who, according to Smith, has signed a three-fight fight promotional contract with MAPS for a $50,000 bonus. Spinks' opponent could be Marty Monroe if Monroe does not sign for a title match with Holmes, Smith added.

Stock Mart Chalks Up Big Gain

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market ran up a sharp gain in heavy trading today, aided by hopes for lower interest rates.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrial climbed 15.79 to 988.57 by noon.

Gainers outnumbered losers by more than a 3-1 margin in the overall tally of New York Stock Exchange-listed issues.

On Friday many large banks lowered their prime lending rates from 21 1/2 to 20 1/2 percent. Today, Morgan Guaranty Trust of New York cut its basic rate on blue-chip loans to 20 percent.

Hopes that the recent downturn in interest rates might continue were reinforced this morning with the Federal Reserve's report of a decline of more than $2 billion in the basic measure of the money supply.

The figures were seen as a sign that the Federal Reserve's credit-tightening in the closing months of 1980 had begun to achieve its desired effect of reducing inflationary pressures.

Among stocks sensitive to interest-rate prospects, American Telephone & Telegraph rose 1/4 to 49 1/2; Great Western Financial 1/4 to 18 1/2; and Pacific Power & Light 1/4 to 16.

Polaroid led the active list, up 1/4 to 25 1/2. A 513,600-share block traded at NYSE.

The NYSE's composite index gained .82 to 79.08. At the American Stock Exchange, the market value index was up 2.57 at 358.17.

Volume on the Big Board reached 29.04 million shares by noon, up from 12.22 million at the same point Friday.

BRUNKEN TOYOTA
794-2222
South Loop 289, East of Slide Road

The pickup that picks up the most mpg.

Introducing the 1981 Volkswagen Diesel Pickup.

Thinking of picking out a pickup? If so, you'd do well to consider our 1981 Diesel. It's mileage is fairly impressive, we think, especially since it happens to be the very best there is for a pickup.

In fact, it gets an EPA estimated 37 mpg, 47 mpg highway estimate. (Use "estimated mpg" for comparison. Mpg varies with speed, trip length, weather. Actual highway mpg will probably be less.

Workers Repair Pipeline Damaged By Explosions

HALLSVILLE (AP) — Workers Sunday began repairing a natural gas pipeline damaged by two explosions that ripped through the pipeline and sent flames shooting 65 to 85 feet in the air.

There were no injuries from the blasts, which occurred about 7 p.m. Saturday, but service to about 600 customers along a six-mile stretch of the pipeline was disrupted, authorities said.

Harrison County Judge Richard Anderson said the fire was under control and almost extinguished 90 minutes after the explosions.

Safe Taken From Supermarket

A 200-pound safe containing a small amount of cash, stamps and money orders was lifted from Furr's supermarket at 12th Street and Slide Road during a break-in between 12:30 a.m. and 4 a.m. today, police said.

The burglars apparently gained entry through a south glass door which had been shattered. Store manager James Piersall told police the loss would amount to about $2,820 in damage and stolen property.

In connection with the burglary, authorities were looking for a man reported prowling near an apartment complex behind the store early this morning. The suspect was described as a white man, about 6 feet, weighing 180 pounds, with brown hair and a mustache. He was clad in a blue jacket, blue jeans and was seen entering a van, possibly a Chevrolet.

In other activity, a 23-year-old Lubbock man refused medical treatment about 10:20 p.m. Sunday after he reportedly was assaulted at 34th Street and Avenue Q.

Ricardo Hinojosa of 3221 Duke St. told police three men in a blue Trans-Am pulled beside him on Avenue Q and attempted to force him off the road. He said he followed the vehicle to the intersection after one of the occupants made an obscene gesture.

Reports state that while stopped at a red light Hinojosa got out of his car and approached the suspect's car. One of the men jumped from the passenger's side and allegedly knocked the victim to the ground.

An officer on patrol spotted Hinojosa lying in the roadway, which several persons around him, and the suspects' car leaving south on Avenue Q. The officer said he chased the vehicle but lost it in the 1900-block of 38th Street.

The suspects were described as two Mexican-Americans and a white man, all between 25 and 35 years old.

A drunken motorist suspect, apparently attempting to evade arrest, left his car in reverse and it rolled back into a police patrol car, according to reports.

Officer Jim Taylor said he stopped the weaving vehicle about 1:50 a.m. today in the 300-block of 34th Street. He said that as he walked towards the car he saw the driver attempting to crawl over several passengers in the front seat and get out the passenger door.

As Taylor was attempting to detain the suspect his car backed into the patrol unit, reports state.

Shots were fired about 8:45 a.m. today during a chase between two Lubbock County sheriff's deputies and an attempted murder suspect, but no one was injured in the pursuit.

Deputies David Gutierrez and Don Rackler reportedly fired several warning shots after the suspect attempted to flee when the officers went to his Colgate Street residence. The man was chased down near Waco Street and Baylor Avenue.

Alicia Aguilar Vasquez, 21, of Lubbock said she was assaulted about 9:30 p.m. Sunday after she apparently surprised a man attempting to burglarize her car in front of a club in the 300-block of North University Avenue.

Miss Vasquez said she walked towards her car, saw the man and yelled. The subject then allegedly struck the woman with a stick and fled. Miss Vasquez, who was treated at Methodist Hospital, described the man to be in his 20s, about 5 feet, 8 inches tall, weighing 120 pounds, with brown hair.

A Lubbock apartment, shared by John Robert Donaldson, James R. Wakeford and Charles Ray Key, was burglarized between 10 p.m. Sunday and 2:10 a.m. today, resulting in the estimated loss of $1,818 in stereo equipment, a television set, clocks, radios and beer.

A 31-year-old Norman, Okla., woman told police a man driving a funeral hearse raped her early Sunday morning after offering her a ride from a Lubbock truck stop.

The woman said the man gave her a ride from Rip Griffin's Truck Service Center, 4609 Ave. A. The man, believed to be about 34 years old, then drove the woman to a liquor store south of Lubbock and refused to let her out of the large white hearse, police said.

The man stopped at an abandoned West Lubbock house and raped the woman, reports show.

The rapist then began driving again, and the woman jumped out of the vehicle while it was stopped at a traffic signal, police said.

The suspect is white, of medium height and stocky. The man, who told the woman he had been in a fight, also apparently had suffered several recent cuts on his face, reports show.

A 23-year-old man was jailed early Sunday morning after he allegedly attacked a motel clerk who was trying to prevent him from relieving himself in the motel lobby.

Bryan Garton, a clerk at the Sands Motel, 310 Ave. Q, told police he and the suspect, who was staying at the motel, were discussing rent payments when the tenant began urinating on the carpet in the motel lobby.

Garton was attempting to push the man out the door when the man began beating him. During the assault, Garton's neck brace was torn off, reports show.

Garton also suffered several cuts on his head and a bruised eye. Reports do not show whether the wounds required medical attention.

The suspect was released from the Lubbock County Jail pending filing of charges.

In other activity, 18-year-old Paul Gonzales of 3302 Ave. G told police seven men attacked him Saturday night as he was riding his bicycle at 34th Street and Quirt Avenue.

Gonzales said the men — five Mexican-Americans, one black and one white — beat him until he passed out about 9:30 p.m. Saturday.

Reports show Gonzales suffered a large cut above his right eye and bruises all over his body. He apparently did not require medical attention.

In a similar incident, Timothy Yett, 18, of Idalou reported that he was attacked and robbed by "several" men outside a west Lubbock nightclub early Sunday morning.

Yett told police he was in his pickup truck following a woman he thought he knew. The woman stopped about 2 a.m. at the Stardust Club, 5203 34th St., and Yett told police he parked across the street.

After the woman walked to the front door of the club, Yett told police, several men emerged, approached his pickup and began beating him for no apparent reason. Yett told officers one of the men made a comment about "running a girl off the road."

During the scuffle, reports show, one of the assailants removed Yett's wallet and stole his driver's license and $80 cash.

Crime Line Inc. this week spotlights the blaze, determined by fire department officials to be the result of arson, that destroyed a local nightclub Tuesday.

Losses at the New West club at 4138 19th St. were estimated at $600,000.

Firemen and police responding to the blaze at 3:20 a.m. found the structure already engulfed in flames. The blaze was brought under control in about 2½ hours. Police later determined the building had been burglarized and desk and game tables broken into.

Crime Line offers a $500 reward for information leading to the arrest of the suspect. Anyone having such information is urged to call Crime Line at 741-1000. Informants may remain anonymous.

Crime Line is supported entirely by private donations. Tax-deductible contributions may be mailed to Crime Line Inc. at P.O. Box 2000, Lubbock, 79457.

A $500 reward is offered for information concerning two armed robberies Dec. 27 at 7-Eleven stores.

The first was at 2:40 a.m. at 2318 19th St. and the second was 10 minutes later at 4401 19th St. The suspects entered the stores, purchased a pack of Marlboro cigarettes, then pulled a knife and forced the clerks to lie or kneel on the floor.

They then pulled all the money from the cash registers and fled.

In both cases, the suspects were described as Mexican males. The first is 16 to 19, 5 foot 9 and 140 pounds and wore a brown shirt and blue pants. The second is 21 to 25, 5 foot 10, 180 pounds and wore glasses, a mustache, a blue hat, brown coat, blue pants and black shoes.

Information concerning the New Year's Eve shooting of a 65-year-old man will bring a $300 reward from Crime Line.

The man and his 63-year-old wife told police they stopped at a traffic sign at 60th Street and Avenue W on their way to church when someone in a brown or tan pickup fired a shot at them as the other vehicle went around them.

They said another shot was fired after the pickup went through the stop sign, then backed up for a second try. This time, the windshield was shattered by a shotgun blast. The man was hit in the left arm by two pellets and flying glass cut his face.

The persons in the pickup, who were wearing blue ski masks, then sped away.

A $300 reward is offered for information concerning the Wednesday burglary of a home in which property totaling $3,500 was taken.

Burglars gained entry by removing the screws from a storm door on the north side of the house, then breaking the glass on the wooden door and unlocking the knob inside.

Taken were three long 10-carat gold rope chains, a lady's 14-carat gold Bulova watch with four diamonds, a similar lady's watch with two diamonds and a man's 14-carat gold Bulova accoutrement watch.

Also taken were a 14-carat lady's wedding band, another wedding band engraved with "FML to FMB 1916," a white gold lady's ring with a pearl and two diamonds and several other pieces of jewelry.

The burglary occurred between 8:40 a.m. and 5:15 p.m. Wednesday.

Information concerning fugitive Tony Smith will bring a $300 reward from Crime Line.

Smith, a 19-year-old white male 6 foot 1 tall, has been charged with two counts of felony theft, once in Justice of the Peace Black's court and the other in Justice Charles Smith's court.

A $300 reward is offered for information concerning a 21-year-old fugitive Jimmy Lee Stewart.

Charged with car burglary and having a warrant for probation revocation, he is described as a 6 foot white male, 135 pounds with blonde hair and blue eyes.

Crime Line was incorporated April 9, 1979. Throughout 1979, Crime Line received 324 calls resulting in 66 informants with information used to clear 102 felony cases. Police arrested 119 felons through the program, $211,350 in stolen property was recovered and $12,900 paid to informants.

During 1980, Crime Line received 682 calls. Information from 133 informants was used to clear 165 felony cases, and 189 persons were arrested.

Stolen property valued at $227,799 was recovered and $30,500 was paid to informants.

During October, November and December, $3,980, $1,690 and $1,400 worth of illicit drugs were recovered by Crime Line.

Solon Misses Start Of Abscam Trial

NEW YORK (UPI) — Rep. Raymond Lederer, D-Pa., was absent today from a federal courtroom as his trial got under way on charges stemming from the FBI's Abscam investigation. He was in Washington, being sworn in to the new Congress.

Lederer is the only congressman re-elected after being charged in the Abscam political corruption investigation.

Lederer, 42, of Philadelphia, is charged with bribery and conspiracy. He is the sixth congressman to be tried in the FBI's two-year investigation.

Lederer waived his right to be present for jury selection. A spokesman for the congressman said he did plan to be in court for the afternoon session.

During a morning court session, Judge George Pratt granted a motion by defense lawyers to sever three other defendants — Camden, N.J. Mayor Angelo Errichetti, Philadelphia lawyer Howard Criden and Philadelphia City Councilman Louis Johanson — from his trial.

About 250 prospective jurors were brought into the court and began filling out registration forms.

A federal grand jury indicted him May 28 on charges of accepting a $50,000 bribe from an undercover FBI agent in return for a promise to help a phony Arab sheik remain in the United States.

The meeting was videotaped and will be replayed during the trial.

Lederer is also accused of splitting the payoff, made during a September 1979 meeting at a hotel near Kennedy Airport, with three others: Camden, N.J. Mayor Angelo Errichetti, Philadelphia lawyer Howard Criden and Philadelphia City Councilman Louis Johanson.

The cases of the three, who were convicted last year with Rep. Michael Myers, D-Pa., have been severed from the Lederer trial.

Marine's Mind Snapped, Psychiatrist Tells Court

CAMP LEJEUNE, N.C. (UPI) — A defense psychiatrist testified today Pfc. Robert R. Garwood's mind snapped when his Viet Cong captors forced him to watch the execution of South Vietnamese prisoners.

"In my assessment, the result of that was to destroy his free will and independent judgment and, from that point on, he was unable to execute any free will and he did everything they asked him to do," Dr. Robert Rollins said.

Rollins was the first witness to testify as Garwood's court-martial on charges of desertion and collaboration with the enemy in Vietnam resumed following a Christmas break. Garwood, who spent nearly 14 years in Vietnam before returning to the United States in 1979, is the only Vietnam-era serviceman to be tried on such charges.

Garwood's lawyers maintain he was driven insane by the communists and is not responsible for his actions.

Rollins, who interviewed Garwood using hypnotic techniques, said Garwood told him he was captured in a gunbattle with the Viet Cong in 1965 and was subjected to weeks of torture. Rollins said it was his professional opinion that witnessing the execution of other prisoners actually triggered Garwood's insanity.

Rollins said Garwood saw two South Vietnamese soldiers being forced to play Russian roulette.

Former Kelly Aide Takes Stand

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Abscam bribery trial of former Rep. Richard Kelly, R-Fla., resumed in federal court today with testimony from a former Kelly aide once suspected of cocaine trafficking.

Questioned in court, with the jury absent, J.P. Maher refused to confirm most details of an affidavit he signed in 1977 concerning his activities in Bolivia.

Sections of the affidavit read in court by Kelly's attorney, Anthony Battaglia, showed that Maher acknowledged in 1977 that he was involved in a cocaine transaction in La Paz. According to the affidavit, Maher was questioned in La Paz by an agent of the U.S. Drug Enforcement Administration.

Maher acknowledged in court, "I was detained on suspicion of some drug charges."

He said he agreed to cooperate with

Blaze At Lubbock Nightspot Spotlights By Crime Line

Crime Line Inc. this week spotlights the blaze, determined by fire department officials to be the result of arson, that destroyed a local nightclub Tuesday.

Losses at the New West club at 4138 19th St. were estimated at $600,000.

Firemen and police responding to the blaze at 3:20 a.m. found the structure already engulfed in flames. The blaze was brought under control in about 2½ hours. Police later determined the building had been burglarized and desk and game tables broken into.

Crime Line offers a $500 reward for information leading to the arrest of the suspect. Anyone having such information is urged to call Crime Line at 741-1000. Informants may remain anonymous.

Crime Line is supported entirely by private donations. Tax-deductible contributions may be mailed to Crime Line Inc. at P.O. Box 2000, Lubbock, 79457.

A $500 reward is offered for information concerning two armed robberies Dec. 27 at 7-Eleven stores.

The first was at 2:40 a.m. at 2318 19th St. and the second was 10 minutes later at 4401 19th St. The suspects entered the stores, purchased a pack of Marlboro cigarettes, then pulled a knife and forced the clerks to lie or kneel on the floor.

Workers Repair Pipeline Damaged By Explosions

HALLSVILLE (AP) — Workers Sunday began repairing a natural gas pipeline damaged by two explosions that ripped through the pipeline and sent flames shooting 65 to 85 feet in the air.

There were no injuries from the blasts, which occurred about 7 p.m. Saturday, but service to about 600 customers along a six-mile stretch of the pipeline was disrupted, authorities said.

Harrison County Judge Richard Anderson said the fire was under control and almost extinguished 90 minutes after the explosions.

THERE OUGHTA BE A LAW®

By Whipple and Borth

SIX WEEKS AGO I WAS CUT DOWN AND ABDUCTED FROM MY HOMETOWN TO A DISTANT CITY ...

... ONE NIGHT THEY PUT GIFT OFFERINGS AT MY FEET ... AND STOLE THEM BACK THE NEXT MORNING ...

... THEN LEANED AGAINST A CLOTHESLINE ON AN EMPTY LOT WHERE PEOPLE MADE DISPARAGING REMARKS ABOUT MY SHAPE ...

... THEY DIDN'T WATER ME FOR A WHOLE WEEK AND THEN ANOINTED ME WITH CHAMPAGNE ...

... BUT FINALLY I WAS SET UP INSIDE A HOUSE WHERE EVERYONE SANG SONGS AND DRESSED ME WITH THEIR HIDDEN TREASURES ...

... THEN JUST BECAUSE I DROPPED A FEW NEEDLES ON THE RUG THIS MORNING ...

DR. LAMB Change In Prostate

By LAWRENCE LAMB, M.D.
DEAR DR. LAMB — I'm only 49 and that seems a little young to have trouble with one's prostate. When I was in my 20s I passed urine with little problem, but in recent years I have had trouble getting my stream started. And the stream doesn't seem to be as large or with the same force it had then. My doctor says this is because I have an enlarged prostate. He says I don't need an operation now but it could get to that stage. Does he mean it may lead to cancer? Will the slow stream cause any damage? I'm not anxious to have an operation but I don't want to wait around until it is too late either. Any information you can give me will be appreciated.

DEAR READER — The changes you have noted are not at all unusual. Over half of all American men over 50 have this problem. It is not the same thing as cancer at all and it will not become cancer. That, of course, does not mean that you can't have prostate enlargement and also develop cancer as both are all too common.

As long as you do not have to exert too much effort to empty the bladder, it will not harm you. When the obstruction is so great that you can't empty the bladder completely, then you are more likely to develop an infection of the bladder. Also your symptoms will get worse then because you never have an empty bladder. That often causes a man to go to the bathroom frequently, including getting up often at night. Also the bladder may become stretched and not function as well.

Additional tests can be done when your symptoms warrant it. These are explained in The Health Letter number 15-6, Prostate Gland Problems, which I am sending you. Others who want this issue can send 75 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it to me, in care of The Lubbock Avalanche-Journal, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019. This issue also discusses the types of surgery for you.

DEAR DR. LAMB — Because acute appendicitis seems to be so common among older children in general, can you please give us some ideas of the things we should absolutely NOT do when confronted with this condition? I'm sure many other people with children would like to know this also.

DEAR READER — Acute appendicitis is most common in the second and third decade of life but it does occur at all ages. In older children the symptoms are rather typical in most cases. Loss of appetite and a full feeling that causes a person to think a good bowel movement would relieve the sensation is common. That is why people sometimes take laxatives. The one big caution is, do not give anyone a laxative or enema if you have any reason to suspect appendicitis. This applies to patients of all ages.

Radio Reviews Aid Students With Exams

FOREST GROVE, Ore. (AP) — Final exams are just around the corner. But, students can relax in their dormitory rooms, listen to their professor review material for the exam, then call him up with a question about an area that is not quite clear.

This has become a standard procedure for four classes at Pacific University this year. KPUR, the campus student radio station, is the link. It is heard only on campus and is being used by professors for some of their pre-examination reviews in larger classes.

At a designated time — usually late afternoon or early evening — the professor will go to the campus radio studio in Washburne University Center and give his review over the air. Any of his students may listen wherever they are on campus. They only need access to a radio.

When the professor has completed his formal review, he will be available for questions over the air. The station's phone-in number is used, and students can phone in their questions. The professor answers over the air. All interested students can hear both the questions and the answers.

This unusual procedure works, university officials say. Radio staff members have walked down the corridors of the residence halls and heard the reviews coming from the turned-on radios in many of the rooms. The professors have received many phoned-in questions for over-the-air answering.

There seems to be an indication that some students will ask questions over the air and in an anonymous way which they would not ask in the classroom, those involved in the project note. They may be a little shy about making it obvious to the professor and fellow classmates that they do not understand a certain section of the material for example. Or, their question does not come to mind until later when they are in their rooms studying.

Anyone on campus may listen to the reviews by a flick of the dial. Someone not even in the class may tune in and rest his before-finals mind with a different topic from his own class "cramming," if he wishes.

This radio project was the idea of radio staff adviser Dr. Fred Scheiler, Pacific speech and communications professor.

MORE COCONUTS
DJAKARTA, Indonesia (AP) — The World Bank has loaned the government of Indonesia $46 million to increase coconut production. Over 190,000 acres of coconut plantations are involved. Some areas will be planted for the first time, others will be extensively rehabilitated.

Former Critic Wants To Sell Television Set

By JAY SHARBUTT
NEW YORK (AP) — For sale: 19-inch color TV. Set's great, shows aren't. I posted that on the bulletin board and certain parties, none of sound mind, now kid me about it. They guffaw and note that I once toiled as a TV critic and now want to sell the old set.

But this is an idea whose time has come. The idea may have originated in the summer of 1978, when I still chronicled TV and its inmates. I had an interview then with a Charlie's Angel — I forget her name, but so did she. She'd recently cut a record album. "Say," I inquired, "how many o-taves can you sing?" "I don't know," she revealed. "When I sing, it's purely organic." A lot of interviews were starting to sound like that. So were a lot of shows. Some were even terrible. There wasn't much reason to watch TV even if you could find the shows, a hard task in itself. Counter-programming at the networks had gone stone-bozo, air dates constantly shifted, confusion reigned. Indeed, it's said NBC had a news show called "Prime Time Sunday, or Monday, or Tuesday, or Wednesday, or Thursday, or Friday, or Saturday."

With all that, with epics like "Supertrain," "Dukes of Hazzard" and "That's Incredible" booming, it seemed wise to split, take-up a new dodge, and henceforth watch TV as a civilian.

So I did. Not all was bad. There was Bill Moyers' stuff and the thoughtful, gracefully written CBS "Morning" news to enjoy. And David Hartman, whom newsies laughed at because he'd been an actor, proved a pretty good interviewer on "Good Morning, America."

But at night, most shows seemed beamed up from the Land of Dumb. And even the few good ones were interrupted by frenzied network drum-beating for coming shows, not to mention ever-thickening clusters of commercials. Pretty soon it all became a blur.

It was an eyeball version of the drone of all-news radio wherein you hear: "Trading mixed, 15 killed, light and variable clouds, hostage crisis continues, Erik Estrada gets divorce, World War Three breaks out, cold grips Northeast, coming up next..."

Nothing registered. I saw but didn't see, heard but didn't hear. The set stayed dark more often. Try more public TV, suggested a culture buff I know. OK, I said.

Lo, there's Carl Sagan doing his Rod Sterling bit, Dick Cavett still interviewing himself, a bunch of Victorian servants still huddling in the kitchen, muttering in British. Sorry, no sale.

Yeah, I peeked at pro football on Sundays. But not for long, not with the constant commercials hurled at you, not with the constant updates — done to disco music — on other battles.

Tomorrow's Horoscope

By Bernice Bede Osol

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Goals can be achieved tomorrow, but it may require some ingenious revisions to do so. When stymied, come up with some clever alternatives.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Adhere to your high standards tomorrow. Do that which you know to be right, even if the acknowledgment you hope for is denied you. It will come later.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Serve more in an advisory capacity tomorrow than as a financier if a friend comes to you with his or her troubles. Help bail this person out with words, not bucks.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Support from associates is likely to be only lukewarm tomorrow. You'll fare better doing what needs to be done without seeking their assistance.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Don't be too upset tomorrow if someone you're trying very hard to please misses your message. The fault lies with this individual, not with you.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) In situations that you manage for others tomorrow, treat what you're handling with great respect. Do nothing that could end up costing them money or inconvenience.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) People you associate with tomorrow will find you a pleasant and desirable companion. However, members of your family may not award you the same accolades.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Everyone makes mistakes, and you're apt to make your fair share tomorrow. Passing the blame on, however, won't look good on your record.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Your normally prudent abilities to manage your resources could desert you again tomorrow. When extravagant temptations tug at your purse strings, ignore them.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) You'll treat others generously tomorrow, but you're likely to do so in a way that may make them feel obligated. If you're going to be a giver, cut the string.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Your intuition could play tricks on you tomorrow and negative feelings could be misread as hunches. Don't dwell on dark thoughts.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Tomorrow is not a good day to mix business with pleasure. Doing business with pals could cost more than doing it with strangers.

Your Birthday

January 6, 1981
Several very important new friendships are likely to be established this coming year with people who may not be from the same walk of life as you are. As you get to know one another, you'll find you share many things in common.

Romance, travel, luck, resources, possible pitfalls and career for the coming months are all discussed in your Astro-Graph, which begins with your birthday. Mail $1 for each to Astro-Graph, Box 489, Radio City Station, N.Y. 10019. Be sure to specify birth date.

CIRCUS PARADE
BARABOO, Wis. (AP) — Chicago will hold its first authentic circus parade in more than 40 years, says Circus World Museum, which plans to lease at least 40 circus wagons to the city. Chicago Mayor Jane M. Byrne said the city will sponsor a May 24 parade along a 4 1/2-mile route, with the museum's wagons to arrive by flatcars on a simulated circus train May 19 for a pre-parade display at Chicago's lakefront Navy Pier.
